OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE most bitter and scathing denunciation that has yet been passed on the present national administration comes from a republican source—the Portland Oregonian. The editor of that great and mighty g. o. p. journal last week, in a column editorial, opened up a phial of pent up wrath and hurled it with terrible force at the head of the man in the White House. Here are a few excerpts from Editor Scott's philippic: "There is no more necessity for the renomination of McKinley than for the renomination of Bryan. There is some sense left in the democratic party; but how about the republican party? The mistakes of McKinley have alienated many men who voted for him, both republicans and democrats. Between McKinley and Bryan again many would choose Bryan. . . . "The McKinley administration has made most disgraceful appointments to office at the behest of unscrupulous politicians. It has betrayed the civil service to the spoilsmen, paralyzed the organization of the army, violated its pledges as to currency reform, humiliated the most efficient servants and discredited American intelligence and valor in the eyes of the civilized world. In a time for courage it has quailed. In a time for decision it has hesitated. In a time for action it has delayed. In a time for honest dealing it has paltered and equivocated. Its policy has been to drift; its plan has been to placate everybody, however unworthy, and cater to everything, however mischievous. Its course has been to sacrifice any and every vital interest of the nation on the altar of partisan and personal politics. What is to become of American valor and diplomacy if they are to be shuffled and beaten about for six years more? What is to become of the army if it is to be taken from military men and turned over to ward politicians? What is to become of the new dependencies if they are to be delivered over to the spoilsmen as Alaska has been delivered over? What is to become of the gold standard in the next panic if we have a president who can refuse nothing to Wolcott, Stewart and Jones of Nevada? What is to become of the treasury, itself, now that Reed has gone from the safety-valve in congress, if we are to have in the White House the personification of complaisance? What is to become of our young men, if the doors of public service are to be closed to the capable and ambitious and opened only to the henchmen of the bosses?" Colonel Scott winds up his long arraignment of the administration by suggesting the names of several other republicans whom he would prefer to support in preference to McKinley. The probabilities are that had a democratic editor used the above language in expressing his opinion of the president, he would have been denounced as a copperhead and a traitor by thousands of the credulous supporters of the present occupant of the White House. Coming from that rock-ribbed advocate of republicanism, Colonel Scott, however, they will probably have to grin and bear it.

REPUBLICAN and so-called gold democratic newspapers are having a good deal to say these days about the probability of Gorman beating Bryan for the democratic nomination in 1900, many of these organs professing to believe that Gorman has a good chance to win. They affect to believe that the Maryland politician, on a platform hostile to expansion and trusts, and, at least, silent on the money question, could carry enough eastern states which, added to the "solid south" would insure his election. All this talk about Gorman being nominated is the veriest rot. His candidacy finds encouragement only among a certain class in a few eastern states and that class represents the worst element of his party, especially Tammany Hall. Gorman's cause has also been espoused by many of that element known in the last campaign as the "McKinley Aid Society," the majority of whom, under the leadership of Henry Watterson and Perry Belmont, would gladly renew their allegiance to democracy, if it were possible to turn down Colonel Bryan. This is a vain hope, however, especially with such a leader as ex-Senator Gorman. Even if the conditions were entirely favorable for an eastern man, it is extremely doubtful if the choice would fall upon Gorman, whose long public career has shown him to be nothing more than a very smooth politician. He possesses none of the attributes of a great leader. He is merely a machine politician and a skillful manipulator. Such a man, with such a record as he has made, could never succeed in inspiring sufficient confidence to secure a presidential nomination. If he were nominated he could never be elected. With Bryan the case is different. Though some democrats may differ with him on questions of party policy, none would think of questioning his honesty, while all admire the fearlessness and great candor of the man. A cold, self-seeking spoils hunter, like Gorman, be he ever so smart a politician, would have no chance to win the prize from the gallant Nebraskan, even if the latter's devoted friends did not control the party machinery in nearly every state in the Union.

THE meeting of populists in this city last Saturday seems to have been called principally for the purpose of making a pronouncement in favor of "expansion." This view of the case is strengthened from the fact that non-expansionists in the party, who have been prominent in its councils for years, received no invitation to attend and knew nothing of the secret conclave until after the caucus was over. The resolution as passed, insofar as it relates to the valor of our soldiers and sailors in the Spanish and Philippine wars, can be cheerfully assented to by every good American. The meeting, whatever may have been the individual views of those present, did well to stop at that, as imperialistic resolutions, intended to commit the party, would in all likelihood have provoked a counter movement, the inevitable effect of which would have been to destroy the existing harmony. Enough harm has been done as it is, as the daily press has exploited the matter in favor of the expansion craze, which leads us to believe that that was the object of the Herald's brilliant but erratic editor in calling the meeting. The incident well illustrates the truth of the old adage that "a lie will travel faster and farther than the truth."

THE recent pronouncement of Governor Rogers on the question of trusts is disappointing. It may be true, as he assumes, that the St. Louis conference will lead to no tangible result in the regulation of the trust evil, but the people are ready to try any experiment that holds out any promise of relief. The proposed conference, participated in by so many eminent men, cannot fail to have a good effect on the popular understanding of the subject. Governor Rogers, in throwing cold water on the scheme, has used some of the familiar arguments of the trust advocates. We regret that he has taken such a stand. His views now do not seem to be in accord with his former professions as a propagandist.

COLONEL Robertson is irrepressible on the question of trusts. He takes offense at being termed a defender of the hideous monsters, yet he persists in finding excuses for their existence. His faulty reasoning on the subject grows out of his stubborn insistence in viewing the matter from an academic rather than a practical standpoint. Too much learning sometimes sets men crazy.

EVERY little two by four republican editor on the coast will be scolding and yelping at the Oregonian now for expressing an honest opinion concerning the fatal weaknesses of the national administration.

THE DEMOCRAT'S statement that not a baker's dozen of Yakima democrats and populists believed in imperialism, still stands unrefuted, republican papers to the contrary notwithstanding.

YAKIMA proposes to have an old fashioned celebration on the Fourth. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel and aid in making it a success.

IF you don't read THE DEMOCRAT you don't get all the news.

A Blast at McKinleyism.

The Oregonian indicts McKinley and declares him not up to the requirements of the office of president. It asserts that the administration has made most disgraceful appointments to office at the behest of unscrupulous politicians, has betrayed the civil service to the spoils-men, has paralyzed the organization of the army, has violated its pledges as to currency reform, has humiliated its most efficient servants and discredited American intelligence and valor in the eyes of the world. It has been hesitating, timorous, dilatory. It has paltered and equivocated. Its policy has been to drift, its course has been to sacrifice vital national interests on the altar of partisan and personal politics. So the Oregonian names some men, either of whom it would like to see nominated for president in lieu of McKinley. They are Theodore Roosevelt, Seth Low, Charles Francis Adams, John D. Long, Henry Cabot Lodge, John C. Spooner and Benjamin Harrison.

The Post-Intelligencer essays to rebuke the pronouncement, but apparently with not much heart in the task. It says the Portland paper puts in the most brutal form all the faults of the administration, magnifies its errors and ignores its virtues. It adds: "The Post-Intelligencer is no apologist for President McKinley. It does not profess to be superlatively satisfied with his administration. He has made mistakes which no fair-minded journal citizen will scruple to acknowledge. But this is an imperfect world, and usually we have to do the best we can with the most available material." It thinks, on the whole, the administration has done its duty in the great essentials. Finally the P.-I. asks what is the Oregonian going to do about it, since there is no doubt that McKinley will be renominated? The question is pertinent. The Oregonian is doubtless sincere in its unfavorable view of the president, but it will have to take him as its candidate next year. It may ease its mind by vigorous protestation now, but it will fall into line when the campaign comes on. That is what the Oregonian will do about it.—Tacoma News.

Again, in 1892 and 1894, the earth and Mars came near each other in their flight through space, though somewhat further than during the year 1877. And within the last few months we have been once more in a good position to observe each other. But we are favorably placed because only under these conditions can we see the north pole of Mars, and so much more is known about his south pole than there is, of course, a strong attraction in the mysterious north regions. Only at this great distance is the north pole graciously tilted toward us, so he has been constantly watched this spring; and so he will be again in a little over two years. Eight years, however, will pass before the Martian south pole can again be studied to good advantage; in September, of 1900, too, all observatories will be on the eager lookout for news from this fascinating planet.—Exchange.

A Defender of Trusts.

Mr. McMillan, Michigan's millionaire senator, who is seeking re-election for another term of six years, has boldly come out in defense of the trusts. He says they are judicious combinations of capital. He asserts that they cheapen the price of products, increase wages, employ more men than the separate companies did. He declares: "The era of prosperity which we are now enjoying is due directly to these combinations."

Senator McMillan is the most influential republican in his state, possibly because he is the richest. He is a strong supporter and close friend of the president. He is believed to be secure of re-election. The Michigan republicans will doubtless go through the form of putting an anti-trust plank in their platform. How will that look when Mr. McMillan is sent back to the senate?

Mr. McMillan's boldness is commendable. Most politicians would be hypocritical under the circumstances.

The action to be taken in Michigan will throw light on the general republican attitude.—Tacoma News.

A Martyr to Science.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—An article appeared in the Republic last week by that eminent specialist on corporation and trust bacilli, Professor Robertson, which will doubtless engage the attention of scientific minds throughout the country.

In reply to Dr. Bartlett's thesis on the same subject, the Professor says: "It is a mark of prejudice or loose thinking to intimate that corporations enjoy special privileges under the law, when in fact in the eyes of the law such corporations are persons protected in no way that individuals are not protected and enjoy no advantage over individuals, except that of longer life."

This is a startling discovery in the domain of parasitic life. While for some time it has been suspected by even the lay mind that many of the ills from which our body politic suffers might be traced to some such microbe, it was never suspected until announced by this eminent savant that it had such nearly human attributes. Indeed, it was a popular misconception that individuals metamorphosed into corporations or trusts would lose their individual and personal responsibility, criminal or moral. It was supposed they had no bodies to punish here, and were without souls to suffer hereafter.

The learned Professor has spent many years of his life studying corporation and trust bacteriology. In order to study these germs to the best advantage he had to visit their haunts. For this purpose he left the democratic party and joined the republican party, as offering the most favorable conditions for his observations. He found the party literally teeming with the trust bacilli, which were easily visible to the naked eye. He isolated and cultivated a number of these germs and watched their habits of life and traced their development from the larvæ to the fully developed specimen.

A martyr to science, he even went so far as to inoculate himself with the germs. Immediately he exhibited all the symptoms of a Guinea pig that had been inoculated with Monseur Pasteur's hydrophobia serum. He could not bear the sight of corporation blood. It threw him into violent convulsions. Even the thought of injury to his pet corporations would bring on a violent attack. A short time ago the mere suggestion that the Northern Pacific railroad should pay its taxes in this county induced a recurrence of his rabies in a most critical form.

Greater love could no man have for science than he who gives up his convictions, his health and his life for it. When he dies let him have a shaft erected to his memory and upon it let there be inscribed: "Here Lies Billie Robertson, Faithful to his Trust unto the End." ANTI-TRUST.

Overproduction of Poultry.

Overproduction of poultry and eggs is a possibility, but that such has at any time occurred is doubtful. The fear that the market may be overstocked has deterred some from venturing largely in poultry, but such fears have never been realized. It is not unusual to find the market full at times not only of poultry and eggs, but of all kinds of produce, though there is a great difference in quality. It has been said of butter that there was no intermediate kind, as butter was either good or bad. If not of the best quality, it was of no value, and if but little inferior to the best there was no place for it whatever. Such may be said of eggs also, and it may be extended to poultry.

Quality regulates the prices. A difference of only a cent a pound on poultry or a dozen eggs seems insignificant, but when a large business is conducted the difference is great. As long as there are several prices for the products the market is overstocked with the lowest priced articles only. The best will be in demand and will sell for all that it is worth, but the term "best" means a great deal, for it includes everything pertaining to superiority. There is a large field open for those who aim to supply the market with the best, and every season they will find that they have room for improvement in order to excel. There is also much to learn in order to know how to provide the market with the best, and the market will accept it readily at all times and without regard to the quantity of inferior grades that may have been offered for sale.—Poultry Keeper.

Training to Balk.

Many colts are actually taught to balk, kick, scare and many other bad habits that render them almost worthless. This usually results either from carelessness or trying to crowd too much instruction into a little time. Man with all his intelligence requires from two to five years to become skilled in any trade. Some never learn. How can we expect the horse, that is guided only by instinct, to know everything after being hitched half a dozen times? This would be presuming him to have more sense than his driver, and many of them have more horse sense than the driver has of man sense.—National Stockman.

B. F. Ward, of the Ahtanum, had intended to have left to day for Honolulu to bring back his daughter Miss Rose, who has been ill, but on receiving a letter yesterday that the young lady was much better and was about to sail for home, he has consequently given up all idea of making the trip.

Miss Rita Connelly, a sister of Prof. W. L. Connelly arrived from Glasgow, Scotland, on Thursday morning for a visit with her brother here. She reports having had a most delightful trip on the big Cunard liner "Lucania," the sea being most of the time very calm. Her transportation had been secured through Doust & Dam, the steamship agents of this city and the young lady reports having received every attention from officials and is grateful to the local firm for having used every effort to provide for her comfort.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON June 23, 1899.

"Too good to be true," is the general comment upon the rumor that preceded Secretary Alger's return to Washington, saying that having made a deal with Pingree to support him for the senate Alger would soon resign in order to devote his whole time to trying to get into the senate. There are too many pickings in sight for Alger to voluntarily resign before he gets his share of them. Those Porto Rico concessions are yet to be given out, and the scheme of enlisting volunteers for the Philippines without a regular call for quotas from the states, which was devised so as to leave the appointment of the officers in the hands of the war department instead of governors of the states, where it would go if the usual course was followed, is an additional reason why Alger is not likely to resign in the near future.

It is denied at the war department that General Miles is to be sent to the Philippines so as to have him out of the way when congress meets, as was rumored a few days ago.

The agricultural department made public a report that it has just received from Lieut. A. P. Hayne, California heavy artillery, on agriculture in the Philippines, which shows those islands to be anything but desirable possessions, although the country is now adding more than a million dollars a day to the original big price paid for them. The report quotes Senor Manuel del Busto, formerly chief of the agricultural experiment station, at Manila, to show the social stagnation—the increase in population from 1842 to 1888 was less than 4 per cent; also their characteristics—"the middle and lower classes are almost of the worst possible type, irresponsible and degenerate, morally and physically, insensible of any contracts or obligations, written or oral, ready to cheat and expecting to be cheated, and amenable to no sort of persuasion except brute force, from which they are always ready to escape by moving their habitat." After reciting the difficulties connected with clearing ground and getting a crop planted, the report says: "When this is accomplished and a luxuriant crop is raised it is at the mercy of the first typhoon, which in the northern part of the archipelago, is severe. These winds and rain storms level crops, uproot trees, demolish houses and flood with water every thing that has been left by the wind, turning plantations into lakes and swamps, and rendering the primitive roads impassable for long periods." Here is another extract: "Diseases, so far hardly known to European doctors result from the turning up of this virgin soil. According to competent medical authority, many of these strange disorders cause death in a few hours, while by others, even if the patient recovers, he is condemned to a wretched and lingering existence. One of the commonest of these diseases is temporary or permanent paralysis, with almost endless complications."

Mr. William Ryan, of New York City, now visiting Washington, said in reply to questions: "The factional strife that is going on in New York City isn't of much consequence to the democratic party at large, for no principle is involved in it, and the whole struggle is for personal aggrandizement. The taint of commercialism, in fact, is over everything in New York, and dominates its politics absolutely. The mass of democratic voters in New York are for W. J. Bryan for president and for a re-adoption of the Chicago platform. If Mr. Bryan is chosen next year he will carry New York state."

It is regarded as significant that the administration should have considered it necessary for the postmaster general to make public an official denial of the charge that letters of the volunteers in the Philippines are being censored.

The Sampson clique is still on top in the navy department and is still determined to down Admiral Schley, and as they own Secretary Long, they are able to use all the machinery of the department for their own purpose. They compelled Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson to make a monkey of himself by subscribing to an official statement making himself a liar, in order to bolster up the absurd claim that Admiral Schley ordered the Brooklyn to run away from one of Admiral Cervera's ships, although to do so he had to come dangerously near to colliding with the Texas, and it is even contemplating the ordering of a court of inquiry by Secretary Long, to be made up of officers who can be depended upon by the clique to report against Schley. All of this disgraceful mess is a part of the scheme to lessen the number of Schley's friends in congress, they having been numerous enough in the senate at the last session to defeat the scheming of the Sampson clique. The members of this clique do not seem to realize that they have been long ago sized up by the press and by public opinion, both of which are almost unanimously ranged on the side of Admiral Schley.

War department officials express the opinion that General Leonard Wood will resign to accept the presidency of the Washington street railway and electric light trust, which has been offered him, because it will pay him much better than going back to his old position in the regular army, which he would have to do sooner or later.

DIFFERENCE

Between the War For Humanity and McKinley's War of Conquest.

The war with Spain lasted only 114 days. The war with the Philippines has now lasted 130 days.

Our army sent to Cuba under General Shafter consisted of about 17,000 officers and men, little more than half of whom reached the fighting line. General Miles took to Puerto Rico 3,415.

Since Dewey accomplished his mission in destroying the Spanish fleet 23 army expeditions have crossed the Pacific and four have gone by the way of the Suez Canal to conquer the islands for which we paid Spain $20,000,000. These expeditions have carried 1,279 officers and 37,287 men, but nearly 500 additional officers have gone out to Manila and nearly 2,000 men who did not accompany the regular expeditions. Of the total force, up to to-day scarcely 1,000 have returned.

General Otis has therefore had nearly twice as many soldiers as were required to conquer Spain in Cuba and Puerto Rico. His army is twice as large as the force with which General Scott whipped Mexico.

Our losses in Mr. McKinley's war in the Philippines are not bulletined for the public by the war department, but they far exceed our loss in the war declared by congress against Spain. There has been fighting nearly every day since hostilities were begun at Manila, and our war department is now striving desperately to send 5,000 more reinforcements to General Otis. Commander Ford, Admiral Dewey's fleet surgeon, who has just returned home, says:

"When I left we held not quite so much ground as was ours during the first part of August last year, and our lines were restricted to the suburbs of Manila."

The splendid valor, dash and endurance of our soldiers is the only redeeming feature of this unauthorized, unnecessary, un-American and apparently endless war of subjugation.—New York World.

The Yakima Way.

One of our popular young business men attended the circus at Yakima last Monday, and his friends believe he took a few glasses of pink lemonade, as he has been entertaining them with a story since his return:

A Yakima man, so the story goes, concluded to have a night off recently and did that wicked town thoroughly until long, long after midnight, and he had become very effectually alfalfaized when he started home. Just as he got in the house the clock struck 3. The nurse approached him, led him to the bed, turned down the white covers, and showed him three tiny forms—triplets—sleeping peacefully. He pulled out his watch and looked at it. It indicated 3. As he snapped it and put it back in his pocket he said "Well, madam, I am not a bit superstitious, but I thank God I didn't come home at 12."—Ellensburg Capital.

"Why don't you run a newspaper like that?" a merchant said to a reporter the other day, throwing out a Chicago daily. "For the same reason that you do not run a store like that," the reporter replied, turning to a full-page advertisement of a Chicago house, showing a twelve story building. The merchant gazed attentively at the picture for a moment and said: "I never looked at it in that way before." No?—Ex.

THE HOTEL DELEWARE BALL.

It Was a Grand Social and Financial Success.

The ball for the benefit of the fire department, given by Wells & Woodhouse at their new Hotel Delaware Wednesday evening, was the best attended and most successful social affair ever seen in Republic. There were three hundred people in attendance and all enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The whole lower floor was given up to dancing and although the room is a large one it was uncomfortably crowded. The supper was served in a number of apartments up-stairs and temporary dressing rooms had been erected on the sidewalk. The entire building was brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated. The decorations were in charge of Messrs. Wells, Iiter and Stanley and reflected much credit on their good taste. To Fred M. Wells, more than anybody else, is credit due for the success of the ball. He worked unceasingly in the face of many difficulties consequent upon the big fire. He had the satisfaction of turning over more than $200 to the fire department as the result of the ball.

Special mention is due the following ladies and gentlemen for their assistance in serving the supper to the many guests: Mrs. M. L. Warren, Mrs. H. L. Percy, Mrs. W. C. Morris, Mrs. Northup, Miss Stack, Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Osier, Mrs. Beal and Messrs. M. L. Warren, H. L. Percy and S. G. Dewsnap. Julian Iiter, the artist, distinguished himself by his decorative designs. He also had charge of the tickets and the reception of the guests. The lemonade well, which alone cleared $25, was in charge of Miss Nellie Ediams and Miss Bertha Wilson. A special word of commendation is due the Spears orchestra for the very fine music furnished. It was the best ever heard in Republic.—Republic Miner.

W. J. Bryan's New Book.

The Hon. W. J. Bryan's new book "Republic or Empire" is now out and ought to be in the hands of every anti-imperialist in the United States. The book is published by the Independence Company of Chicago and is a handsome work of nearly 700 pages and a gem typographically.

It is written in part and edited by Hon. W. J. Bryan with supplementary chapters from Senators Hoar, Vest, Allen, White, Gorman, Bacon, Mason, Daniel, Chilton, McLaurin, Tilman, Money, Turner, Teller, Butler, Clay also from such eminent men as Edmunds, Schurz, Jordan, Johnson and others.

The work is beautifully illustrated and is sold only by subscription. THE DEMOCRAT office has been authorized to receive subscriptions. The price of the work is from $1.75 to $3.00 according to binding. Call and examine the prospectus.

Speaking about hard luck, a German newspaper recently gave the experience of a boy who, thirsting for adventure, ran away from home determined to see something of the world. His fortune consisted of 100 marks, and his objective point was Berlin where an aunt resided whom he had never seen. Arriving in the city he strolled about asking for the place of abode of his Aunt Kathner. A woman accosted him, and learning his story declared that she was his aunt he was seeking, and, taking him to her rooms, gave him his supper and put him to bed. Upon awakening in the morning he discovered to his horror that his money, clothes and newly found relative had disappeared. Overwhelmed by his misfortunes he rushed to the window and sought to tell his tale of distress to the passers-by. A woman carrying an infant stopped to listen, and expressing the liveliest sympathy told the youngster to care for her baby while she looked for the genuine relative. Hours passed by; the infant squalled for nourishment, and finally a constable arrived on the scene. A suit of clothes was secured and the youth and "his infant" were hurried off to the police station, where the inspector wired the distracted father; "Your son is here with his infant. You can take them in charge upon paying the expenses incurred"—P.I.

Gratuitous Advice.

The republican press and leaders and the gold democrats manifest great anxiety and fear lest the democrats re-adopt in their next national convention the silver plank of 1896 and be again defeated. Every democrat knows that if the republicans really believed that the adoption of the silver plank cost the democracy the election the republicans and their allies would help them repeat the blunder by every means within their reach. The two million republicans who voted for Bryan because they were in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver know that the pretended sympathy for the success of the democratic party is a shallow, false pretense.

There is not a shadow of doubt that an overwhelming majority of the voters, if left free to act, are in favor of the democrats on all the issues which will be presented. The danger is that the minority, by their usual efforts, their treachery, their lying, their enormous supply of money, their affiliation with trusts and combines, may defeat the majority.

We would urge the true democrats to be vigilant and active from now until the polls close in November, 1900. Attend your primary meetings, see that no one is appointed a delegate to any convention who is seeking an appointment unless his former record warrants your support. Confer with your neighbors, patronize newspapers, distribute silver literature. If the true democrats will take up the work and lose no time in ascertaining who are sound on the money issue they will win. Be sure that the aspirant for your suffrage cannot be coaxed, bribed or intimidated.

If the real friends of bimetallism will half perform their patriotic duty they will be victorious in spite of all the money which can be used to buy votes. There are at least two million of honest republicans who are not seeking office and whose desire is to purify the political atmosphere who will co-operate with the true democrats in the struggle to save the republic.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Louis O. #### State Press Opinion.

The republican party declaring against trusts is like Satan quoting scripture or rebuking sin.—Aberdeen Herald.

McKinley should go slow in the matter of taking Dewey with him on his Western stumping tour. He should remember how Miles Standish fared as the result of sending John Alden to do his courting for him.—Aberdeen Herald.

American control of China, American factories operated in the Orient by Chinese slaves: An easy way to annul the American Chinese and contract labor exclusion acts—all in the wake of expansion. American working-men, merchants and professional men are not expansionists.—Whatcom Blade.

The republican man's burden in the next national campaign will be "embalmed beef, expansion, criminal assimilation, gold standard, trusts, boodle, Algerism, Carterism, Eaganism and incompetency." Indeed, it will be a hard burden even for Hanna to carry with his millions of dough contributed by those who thrive on the ills of honest toil.—Tacoma Sun.

An exchange remarks that "after all the biggest trust in the business is the country newspaper. It trusts nearly everybody and they trust it and believe in it until they are asked to pay a small assessment on their stock in it, and then some of them become a stubborn, close corporation, determined to stand a law suit before they will dig up the dough."—Centralia News.

When a man who has served the public long and faithfully shuffles off this mortal coil, political differences are usually cast aside in speaking of his career on this revolving ball. But it remained for Col. Scott, of the Oregonian, to give the late Richard P. Bland a political obituary sandwiched with unkind criticisms of the dead statesman's alleged shortcomings. It was a breach of journalistic etiquette hardly expected of the able editorial functionary of the Oregonian.—Ellensburg Localizer.

At the present time one per cent of the people of this country own and control as much wealth as the other ninety-nine per cent of the people. How do the one per cent do this in this free country? The answer is easy—by purchasing legislation: municipal, state and national. Who is to blame for this horrible condition of affairs? The answer is also easy—no one but the people, who have the remedy in their power to right all these wrongs—the ballot. When will they use it as they should?—Seattle Review.

We are glad to welcome the Oregonian on the reform side of the struggle. It was a little late in coming over, but not too late. We are sorry, though, that its first effort for the popular cause is in the way of giving advice. With a true regard for the proprieties it ought to wait a week or two, and get itself into some sort of shape. It tells us that to win we must drop Bryan. Great Scott! We want to win, but we do not want to demolish our most popular hero. Bryan has struck the hardest and oftenest of anybody: and has arisen from each encounter with renewed strength every time he has delivered a blow. No, no, Harvey, we would almost rather be defeated than win without Bryan. Besides, when you get used to him, you will like him.—Vancouver Register.

It is said the United States has purchased of one English factory ten million Dumdum bullets for use against the Filipinos. When it is recalled that this bullet, named for the factory where it was invented in India, is perforated or slotted near the point in such a manner that upon striking it spreads out and tears and lacerates the object struck much worse than any other device known, and is, of course, so much more deadly in its effect; and that the United States representatives at the peace congress have voted against permitting its use in civilized warfare, it becomes apparent that someone in authority in this country is simply inhuman. Yet no one must criticize any detail of the administrative policy.—Olympia Journal.

According to sworn statements of its officers, the Standard Oil company has $17,000,000 of personal property in New York. It pays taxes on a valuation of $600,000. When men protest against this, Rev. Dr. Hillis and others hypocritically cry out that there is a prevalent hostility to wealth. Ordinary people's property is usually assessed at about its full value. They pay taxes which are much higher than they would be if the big corporations and very rich men paid their honest shares. Yet Rev. Dr. Hillis and others will deplore with straight faces the hostility and contempt which so many men manifest toward the churches. The doctrines of the churches are all right, but they are not lived up to. Many preachers fawn upon the dishonest wealthy and deride and misrepresent every effort to reform glaring abuses in our public life. Not satisfied to keep quiet, even, they range themselves alongside the briber, the robber and the tax perjurer. Is it a wonder that many men, exhorted by these false guides, answer: "Physician, heal thyself."—Tacoma News.

Since the United States took the Philippine Islands several hundred saloons have been started in Manila, and the papers which come from there have few advertisements besides breweries and saloons. When the islands have been taken for rum the missionaries will be ready to begin work. And yet there are some people who want the islands so we can do missionary work among the natives. The world is open for missions regardless of nationality, and it is a fact that some of the most effective work is done away from home influences.—Albany Or. Democrat.

Crop Conditions.

The continued cold weather prevailing up to the middle of June has been unfavorable for fruit crops in the Pacific Northwest. In different sections where pears and cherries were well loaded in the early part of May, the fruit has continued to drop. So far as can be ascertained the pear and cherry crops will average about two-thirds all along Puget Sound in close proximity to the water. In other sections these varieties will yield less. French and Silver prunes and several varieties of plums will go about three-fourths crop in most sections. The apple crop will be considerably short, though in certain localities on the Sound and along the Columbia river where the yield was not large last year, full crop is anticipated. The Puyallup valley raspberries and black-berries will make up in size for much of the shortage caused by destroyed canes.

It is perhaps the first year in ten when strawberries have retailed on the Puget Sound market as high as 10 cents a box in the middle of June. The local crop will not yield over one-half and it is very late. The conditions in the Willamette valley are nearly the same as on Puget Sound.—Horticulturist.

German and Civil Services Reform.

It would be hard to point to a man in any party whose record is worse on the subject of civil service reform than is that of Arthur P. Gorman. He engaged in politics originally with the intention of using the offices under government to build up a personal power for himself. They were to secure the prizes of political victories, and that less to promote the strength of his party than to be used as aids to his own ambition. No boss was ever more selfish and tyrannical. He found Maryland a strong democratic state, under able and reputable democratic leadership. He made it his aim to bring the democratic party there under his sole control, and to accomplish this he ostracized every democratic leader who would not be subservient to himself. The result was that self-respecting democrats were driven out of public life, and their places were taken by another class, who submitted to be his henchmen. He openly avowed the most objectionable purposes in dealing with the civil service.

When President Cleveland came into power and undertook to purify this service, he found no more inveterate opponent in his laudable attempt than Gorman. Gorman at last brought the triumphant democratic party that existed in Maryland before he commenced his career of corruption to grief, and found himself buried in its ruins—a most righteous retribution.—Boston Herald.

Wood May Go Into Business.

It would be a national misfortune were General Wood to be taken from Santiago either to enter private business, or for any other cause. His work there has been little short of miraculous, and its success is due mainly to his high personal character and unusual executive ability. He has kept all politics out of the work absolutely, and will continue to do so as long as he is in charge. If he were to retire, there would be a tremendous scramble for his place by men who were least fitted to occupy it, and with a presidential campaign approaching, the chances would be in favor of the bestowal of it upon some favorite of the boss. The president's power of resistance was never great, and it has been nearly or quite destroyed by his "backward step" on civil service reform. If Quay, or Platt, or Hanna should insist upon having his "man" sent to Santiago, does anybody suppose the president would be able to refuse?

FEEDING SHEEP.

A Simple Trough Which Overcomes Many Difficulties.

In a recent address before the Ohio Farmers' institute S. H. Todd said: The arranging of the sheep troughs will have very much to do often with the success of keeping the sheep on the farm. I will venture to say today that there will be several thousand dollars lost to the state of Ohio from feeding sheep out of that old V shaped trough—that I presume Jacob fed his sheep out of—in preference to changing to a better trough. What are the conditions of that trough? It is built exactly in the form of a sheep's mouth. They can eat the grain in one-fourth the time that they could eat it out of a trough that would be practical for feeding sheep in. The result is they cannot digest and properly assimilate the food which is thus carried into their stomachs. Besides, usually these troughs are left down nearly on the surface of the yard or the surface of the ground. The lambs when they are fed commence at one end and follow the feeder as he puts the food into the trough, winding back and forth from this side to that side, and by the time the feeder gets to the other end of the trough he looks around, and what does he see? He sees one-half of the lambs standing there looking him squarely in the face. Why? Simply because the refuse that is dropped from their feet in passing over the trough has been deposited in the feed, and as a result the sensitive and timid sheep will not touch it, while the stronger lambs will finish it up. Thus, with that kind of feeding, he is killing his sheep at both ends. He is starving them to death at this end and overfeeding them at that end, both of which evils we should avoid. If you are going to use the V shaped trough, put a board over the trough so that they cannot jump into it.

I would recommend, however, the use of a trough which I am going to describe. This trough is made from three boards 8 inches wide and an inch thick. I put the boards together so as to form two troughs with the three boards by running the side boards as far below the center board as we do above the center board, placing an end in the trough which is 8 inches wide and 2 feet long and providing it with legs at the end of these end pieces, so as to keep the trough from turning over. The length of the legs should be 20 inches, and they should be placed on the trough, so that when ready to use the top of the trough will be 14 inches from the ground. In this way I have two troughs. Now, you may ask me the advantage of that? It costs but a trifle more than it does to make the V shaped trough. It has a larger base, and the sheep rarely if ever jump over it. Then it takes them, as I said, four times as long to consume the food out of a trough constructed in this way as it would out of a V shaped trough.

Then again the farmer goes out to feed his sheep, and he sees a little filth here and a little filth there in the trough. Rather than go and get a broom and sweep it out he will risk putting the food upon that filth unless there is an easier way to obviate the difficulty. But if he knows he can turn the trough over, then he will do so, thus providing the sheep with a clean trough in which to deposit their food. Again, if it should rain and partially fill the trough with water, which, with the dirt that would naturally get into it, might render the food distasteful, so that the tender lamb just commencing to feed would refuse it, he can turn the trough over and have a dry trough ready for use without further trouble or delay. As I said, he will do that when he would not remedy the trouble if he had to go and get a broom and sweep it out. You will find that very much benefit will arise even from this.

The distribution of the $3,000,000 fund to soldiers of the late Cuban army still progresses slowly. Many of the recipients are unable to take care of themselves after they have become possessed of their money, and deprived of their arms, and fall victims to brigands, who haunt the highways and byways of the island. This may account for the reluctance manifested by the soldiers to exchange their arms for the government stipend provided. The question seems to be whether it is better to be a live beggar or a dead capitalist—Oregonian.

Stockmens Banquet.

The banquet of Yakima stockmen at the Hotel Yakima on Friday night was well attended and a most hilarious time was had.

The affair was given in honor of Messrs. Sheller and McCoy, government forestry agents. Col. Howlett acted as toastmaster and in his usual happy manner did full justice to the occasion. Besides the two guests, the speakers of the evening were I. P. Englehart, Vestal Snyder, J. G. Boyle, E. F. Benson, John Cleman, Harry Moran, C. I. Helm, R. K. Nichols and J. V. Creighton. The program was enlivened at intervals by excellent violin and harp music.

Judge Davidson held a short session of the superior court on Wednesday. His honor granted a divorce in the application of Sarah E. McGlothlen against Thomas B. McGlothlen. A divorce in the case of D. R. McDonald against his wife was refused until further testimony could be produced. The order granting the several parties to the Wenas water suit the right to use water from the creek for irrigation purposes was extended for one week. A good deal of business of minor importance was transacted. Adjournment was taken until the first Monday in October.

The Populist Meeting.

A meeting of local populists to the number of 13, assembled at the city hall on Saturday afternoon and organized by the election of J. C. McCrimmon as chairman and G. M. Allen secretary. After some discussion a motion prevailed for the appointment of a committee of five on resolutions. The chair appointed as such committee J. G. Boyle, G. M. Allen, W. A. Hall, Geo. Stephenson and W. H. Marble. The committee reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the People's Party of Yakima county, in caucus assembled, reaffirm their adherence to the Omaha platform of 1892.

Resolved, That the trust evil is a menace to the perpetuity of our present form of government, and this issue by the recent unparalleled and gigantic combinations of capital in the United States is destructive of competitions and ruinous to labor and producers, and it therefore becomes the paramount duty of the good citizens to oppose the growth of trusts by every political and legal means known to our constitution and laws, and to that end we pledge our united efforts as a party.

Resolved, That we extend to our soldiers and sailors on land and sea our hearty commendation of their heroic valor in the Spanish and Filipino wars, and as patriotic citizens we rejoice in their devotion to the flag and the extension of its powers and influence among the nations of the world.

Considerable discussion was indulged in as to the advisability of passing any resolutions at all and some opposition is said to have been aroused to the original plank of expansion which is said to have expressed the extreme imperialistic views of Editor Boyle of the Herald and Wm. Lee sr., until of late a member of the state fair commission. The matter was compromised by the passage of the above resolution bearing on the Philippine problem, which it was argued was patriotic in tone and calculated to give offense to nobody. After the adjournment of the meeting the local representative of the Oregonian and P.-I. telegraphed the glad tidings to his papers that a mass meeting of populists had passed resolutions in favor of expansion. One of the papers immediately wired back to send the resolutions as passed, but when the local reporter read the resolution, he was loath to send it. The meeting is said to have been instigated by Col. Boyle, who is believed to be very desirous of placing the populist party in this county on record in favor of Philippine expansion. His plans thus far, however, seem to have met with but little success.
