SUPERIOR COURT NEWS

List of Cases Disposed of the Past Week Other than the Boyd Case.

The cases disposed of by the jury term of the superior court since The Democrat went to press last week are as follows:

In the case of Carrie A. Krutz vs. Washington Irrigation company, Judge Rudkin decided in favor of the defendants on last Saturday. This was a suit against the company for failure to furnish water for the land of plaintiff under the Sunnyside canal. The plaintiff had refused to pay back water rent and the company had therefore turned off the water. The case will be appealed.

The defendant in the case of H. B. Scudder vs. Joseph Schreiner. Mr. Scudder asked for a commission on the sale of some land, sold by defendant to Jonathan Baldwin for $10,000. The evidence did not bear out the plaintiff's contention, hence the verdict for defendant.

The jury gave W. W. Pettijohn a verdict in the case brought against him by D. Davreau for damages for non-fulfillment of contract.

The jury also gave the defendant a verdict in the case of R. O. Smith vs. L. D. Lapé. This was suit for commission on sale of land.

In the second trial of case of the State vs. Charles Russell and I. W. Parks, which occurred last Saturday, the defendants were both found guilty of having robbed H. H. Neal, the blacksmith. In a former trial the jury failed to agree.

P. Oliver was given a verdict in the case brought against him by Shearer & Williams, they alleging Mr. Oliver allowed his sheep to graze on their land, by reason of which plaintiff's were damaged in the sum of $150.

The jury, in the damage case of C. W. Grant vs. Tennant & Miles, after deliberating ten hours, brought in a verdict for $1.00 in favor of the plaintiff. This case was stubbornly fought all the way through, the plaintiff being represented by Wm. M. Thompson and C. E. Forsyth appearing for the defendants. Mr. Grant sought to recover damages from the defendants on account of the latter opening the Orpheum theatre sooner than Grant claimed they agreed. Messrs. Tennant & Miles in their answer stated there was no specified time agreed upon between the parties as to when they should start in the theatre business after the sale of the Edison theatre to Grant. The defendant's will appeal.

Arrested for Bootlegging.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Short made an important arrest Tuesday, just across the border on the reservation, near Toppenish, when he captured Ed. Marshall. Marshall is an old "whiskey" man and when arrested had two bottles of alcohol on his person and several bottles of whiskey in his buggy. He was armed with a revolver and when Mr. Short attempted to make the arrest, he resisted, and was pulled from his buggy by the deputy marshal.

The accused was brought to the city and his preliminary was held before the U. S. commissioner late Tuesday evening, at which hearing he pleaded not guilty and was placed under $500 bonds to appear before the February term of the federal court to be held in Tacoma.

This arrest is particularly important as Marshall is known to have been present at the time and place of the alleged murder of the Indian girl Emma Parker, for which crime Wilson Teo was held before the superior court.

The preliminary before the commissioner was held late Tuesday night to enable Indian Agent Jay Lynch to be present with a view to future investigation of the murder case.

Miss Ruth Kinsey.

Miss Ruth Kinsey, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kinsey, died at the hospital December 12, 1904, of appendicitis.

Miss Kinsey had been sick for a few days prior to her death, but her parents did not consider her condition serious until Saturday, when a physician was called, who decided she was suffering from appendicitis. On Sunday she was removed to the hospital and as she continued to grow worse it was found an operation would be necessary. This was performed Sunday night, but the patient never recovered from the shock and died about 5 o'clock Monday morning.

Besides her father and mother, Miss Ruth leaves an only sister to mourn her death. She was generally beloved by all who knew her, and her many friends, both old and young, were greatly shocked to hear of her sudden death. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the family residence on North Sixth street.

THE BOYD MURDER CASE

Great Interest Taken in the Three Days Trial— Jury Still Out as The Democrat Goes to Press.

One of the most interesting criminal cases that has been tried in the superior court of this county for many years is the one of the State against Millard Boyd on the charge of murder in the first degree, which was begun before Judge Rudkin on Monday afternoon of this week.

Considerable time was employed in the selection of a jury, it being necessary to issue a special venire after the regular panel had been exhausted. The jury as finally selected was composed of the following: Alvin Bair, L. C. Cody, Stephen Schreiner, T. G. Redfield, Joseph Richards, Nelson Smith, A. B. Pearson, G. A. Graham and John Ditter. Altogether about seventy witnesses were subpoenaed on the two sides. The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Fred Parker, assisted by Vestal Snyder, while the defense was in the hands of H. J. Snively.

On Tuesday at about 2 o'clock the trial proper began, by the prosecution placing the prosecuting witness, Blanche McCallum, on the stand. Miss McCallum was truly a star witness for the state. Her testimony was given in a very concise manner and the utmost endeavor of counsel for the defense failed in the least degree to shake her from her direct examination. She testified to substantially the same facts as in the preliminary trial before Justice Nichols. She accused the defendant, Millard Boyd, of being the father of the illegitimate child born to her on May 25, 1903. She stated that on Saturday, May 23, 1903, she came to town and met Boyd by appointment near the Pacific hotel. That Boyd gave her 50 cents with which to get a room at the "Kangaroo" lodging house, run by a Chinaman, Yong Tom. That Boyd remained with her that night and was with her most of the time thereafter until Monday, the 25th, when she says the child was born. She further testified that during the night of May 25, Boyd came into the room, smothered the child in the bed clothes and placed the body in a valise which he placed in a corner of the room, leaving it there until Wednesday night. On that night she says Boyd placed the body in a gunny sack and went out, telling her it was his intention to put it in the Schanno ditch near the railway crossing. She stated that on July 4, 1903, she read an account in The Democrat of the finding of the body in the ditch. Mr. Snively in his cross-examination attempted to confuse the witness in this and other dates and matters to which she had sworn, but he failed in getting her to change her direct testimony in any particular.

Mrs. Elizabeth McCallum and Peter McCallum, mother and father of the prosecuting witness, and several other witnesses, were placed on the stand by the state at the Tuesday night session. The testimony of each and all of these followed the same lines as that given by them at the preliminary examination, which was fully reported at the time in The Democrat. This testimony fully corroborated Blanche McCallum in the essential points of her evidence. Yong Tom the Chinese proprietor of the lodging house testified to Boyd and Miss McCallum having occupied a room together at his place at the time alleged in the complaint that the child was born. His testimony was straight forward and the defense failed to tangle him up in cross-examination.

W. D. Mulkey testified that Blanche McCallum had stayed over night at his house as his daughter's guest on one occasion and that Boyd had called to see her and had given her a package. That at the time Boyd was intoxicated.

Dr. P. Frank testified that in June, 1903, he was called by Coroner Taggard to go with him to the crossing over the Schanno ditch, where they found the body of an infant wrapped up in a gunny sack. That he pulled the same out, placed it in his buggy and took it to the undertaking rooms of E. L. Sessions. That at the request of the coroner he held an autopsy and that from his examination of the body he was of the opinion the child was alive at the time of its birth. From the condition, witness believed the body had been in the water about two weeks.

Among other witnesses who testified for the prosecution were Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCallum, parents of Blanche McCallum, the prosecuting witness. They both gave evidence to the effect that their daughter was pregnant previous to the date of the birth of the child and the alleged murder thereof, which was May 25, 1903, the day that President Roosevelt visited North Yakima.

Other witnesses including John O'Neal, Loren Hays and Elmer Smith, neighbors of the McCallum family testified as to the girl's appearance previous to May 25, 1903.

A number of local physicians gave expert testimony, including Dr. Frank, Dr. Hill, Dr. Rush McNair and Dr. Owen Adair.

At 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the state rested. Attorney Snively for the defense asked the court to send out the jury as he wished to make an argument that he did not wish them to hear. He then made a motion that the court instruct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty on account of insufficient evidence. He said that corpus delicti must be shown on the part of the prosecution to establish the crime against the defendant. He said there was no evidence to show that the child came to a violent death, that the state failed to prove that the child found in the ditch was connected with the crime alleged to have been committed by the defendant; that the prosecuting witness was inconsistent in her statements and had not been corroborated. He then read from a decision of the supreme court in a case similar to this one in which the court says that the child must have been born alive and had an existence itself before the crime could be fastened upon the defendant. The court denied the motion. He said it was a question for the jury to decide. A motion was then made to strike out the bottle of medicine as evidence. This was also denied. A motion to strike out the evidence relating to the finding of the child was also denied. The court said these were matters for the jury to determine.

The jury was then recalled to the room and Mr. Snively opened the case for the defense. He said he would show that the defendant is not guilty of the crime charged; that there is no evidence to show that the child found in the ditch is the one alleged to have been killed by the defendant; that the one found in the ditch was not in the water all the time it is said to have been; that he would show that the child was not born alive; and would finally show that what the prosecuting witness had testified to was false. Court then adjourned to meet at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Laura Anderson of the Natches was the first witness for the defense. She said that she visited North Yakima on "Roosevelt day" and saw Blanche McCallum on the street in front of the James studio.

Grace Anderson, a daughter of the preceding witness, swore that she was with her mother on "Roosevelt day" and saw Blanche McCallum on the street during the president's procession.

A number of other witnesses testified to seeing Miss McCallum shortly before or after the 25th day of May, 1903. A number who were called to the witness stand appeared to know little or nothing about the case.

William Clark of the Natches testified that he rode home with Millard Boyd the night of Monday, May 25, the day Roosevelt was here.

Mrs. Hannah Smith testified to the effect that she was a mid-wife and had examined Miss McCallum in February, 1903, and found nothing wrong, excepting that she was badly swollen as a result of dropsy. This swelling left her, Mrs. Smith says, in April. Mr. Smith testified to corroborate his wife.

A number of witnesses were re-called to the stand on Thursday. Asa Schwartz who wished to correct a statement previously made on the stand. Mr. Schwartz on first testifying made an error in the dates under which he had conducted the eighth grade examinations in May, 1903, which Blanche McCallum had declared that she had attended on different dates. Mr. Schwartz after refreshing his memory decided that he was wrong in the first instance and that the girl was right, which proved to be the case.

The chief effort of Attorney Snively for the defense throughout the entire case was to break down the evidence of Miss McCallum. The young woman proved a difficult subject to deal with, however. The lawyers all agree that she made a star witness. Her memory proved to be wonderful. When she made a statement she clung to it and while the girl was subjected to a terrific fire in the cross-examination she still stuck to her story.

The defendant took the witness stand in his own behalf. He talked in a low tone and on being asked as to whether he was in the "Kangaroo" lodging house at any time on or about May 25, 1903, answered no. He gave substantially the same answer to all questions as to his whereabouts, although admitting that he was in North Yakima that day.

The defense concluded introductory testimony at about 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon and the argument to the jury then begun. Attorney Snyder opened for the state. He concluded about 4:30 p. m. at which hour the court took a recess until 7:30 p. m.

Attorney Snively for the defense occupied nearly two hours in his argument to the jury making a strong and skillful plea for his young client. He was followed by Prosecuting Attorney Parker, who closed for the state in an argument that consumed an hour and a half in which he reviewed the testimony of the prosecution in detail. He closed at about 10 o'clock, after which the court instructed the jury. The case was finally given to the jury at 10:30. Up to noon on Friday the jury was still out on the case, a fact that indicates disagreement, with the result of probably reaching no verdict.

D. 1904, for the purpose of determining whether or not said School District shall build and furnish an eight-room school house of brick and stone on the Natchez Avenue lots in said city owned by said School District.

And also to determine whether or not said School District shall purchase any school house site or sites.
And also to determine whether or not said school district shall incur expense for any or all of the above purposes, and if so to what amount; and to determine the manner in which the said District shall pay for the same.

R. K. NICHOLS,
District Clerk.

ONE RING SMASHED.
The Scooby-Madge gang of political carpet-baggers, who have so long ruled Olympia and Thurston county through manipulation, look like 30 cents now. The gang was thoroughly repudiated by the voters of the county on Nov. 8 and the people of the capital city Dec. 6. It was simply a case of the people raising in their might and destroying their tormentors. The state in general profits by the disruption of the Scooby-Madge machine which has played a part in state politics for years that has been a constant source of disgust to honest citizens.

Some day we will probably hear that a rich American has bought the battlefield of Waterloo and will transport the great relic bodily to the United States where it will form a valuable addition to Mr. So-and-so's estate. Europeans have been in great luck to have a fresh crop of American "suckers" to visit them each year and buy up their pictures and manufactured relics.

Frost Wants a Job.

J. E. Frost, lawyer and politician of Ellensburg, and one time state auditor, wants a place on the next state board of control, to be named by the incoming governor. Mr. Frost, was here this week endeavoring to secure the signatures of leading members of the g. o. p., especially such as are presumed to have a "pull" with the new governor. Mr. Frost concluded to put up a fight for the place on learning that Mr. Mead had expressed the intention of appointing one of the three members from east of the mountains. Mr. Frost, who is chairman of the republican central committee of Kittitas, feels that his county is entitled to consideration, and that if it had not been for his own valuable services in the late campaign Mr. Mead would have lost Kittitas.

From all reports Mr. Frost is a little late this year in getting into action. Authoritative reports are at hand that John L. Wilson has been going about Eastern Washington for the past six weeks peddling that one place on the board of control, offering to trade it for the biggest bunch of available votes in sight that can be swung for him for senator. That Wilson will control the appointment is a pretty generally well established fact. If Mr. Frost can influence the four legislative votes of Kittitas county in Wilson's favor he may be able to land the prize.

Stranger in a Strange Land.

Frederick Born, a German aged about 60 years, died in his cabin at Kennewick last Friday from a sudden attack of paralysis.

Deceased had resided in Kennewick for about two months and lived alone. He was apparently of a taciturn mind and made few friends. After his death his effects were thoroughly searched in order if possible to learn the names of his relatives, if he had any, but without success. The dead man leaves some money and property behind him, so it is not impossible that a heir will turn up.

Beware of Counterfeits.

"DeWitt's is the only genuine Witch Hazel Salve," writes J. L. Tucker, of Centre, Ala. "I have used it in my family for Piles, Cuts and Burns for years and can recommend it to be the best Salve on the market. Every family should keep it as it is an invaluable household remedy and should always be kept on hand for immediate use." Mrs. Samuel Gage, of North Bush, N. Y., says: "I had a fever sore on my ankle for twelve years that the doctors could not cure. All salves and blood remedies proved worthless. I could not walk for over two years. Finally I was persuaded to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which has completely cured me. It is a wonderful relief." DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures without leaving a scar. Sold by C. C. Case.

MRS. CHADWICK, FINANCIER.

The magic power conveyed in the name of Andrew Carnegie seems to have brought a number of people to grief and to have caused a lot of victims the loss of over a million dollars.

Mrs. Cassie Chadwick of Cleveland, Ohio, has introduced a new financial system. We call it a new system, for the reason that it is new in the sense that the borrower pinches the lender.

Mrs. Chadwick has demonstrated to the world that women can outdo men even in the latter's own particular field of finance. At any rate she not only outdone the men that she had dealings with but she done them up entirely.

Three prominent bankers were each fleeced for a sum large enough to have paid a king's ransom. Why were they taken in, these smart men? Principally on account of their own greed. They thought that they were dealing with the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie. They were willing to accommodate the lady with a loan to tide her over until another one of her distinguished daddy's notes became due. In accommodating Mrs. Chadwick the banker, in each instance made hard terms. In the case of the Oberlin bankers it is a question if those officials were not actually bribed by Mrs. Chadwick in order to secure, as she did, $500,000 of the bank's funds.

Mrs. Chadwick is fully as great a fakir as the famous French woman, Madame Humbert. Mrs. Chadwick appears to have spent in riotous living and in all manner of foolish ways the enormous sums of money which she obtained so dishonestly.

If Mrs. Chadwick, sitting sorrowful and uncared for in her cell in the toms had it all to do over again she probably wouldn't care to do it all. She can certainly derive no pleasure from her present position unless the prospect of a term in the penitentiary commends itself to her. The woman herself probably doesn't feel as blue as do some of the unfortunate financiers whom she so gloriously skinned. Answering to their directors and stockholders is hell enough for them.

BOUGHT TO BE IMPEACHED.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune quotes "a well known railroad senator on the interstate commerce committee" of the senate as saying:

"I have taken the ground, and other senators take the same ground, that a railroad company is a private corporation, and that the government has no more right to dictate the rates at which it shall do business than it would have to prescribe prices for a grocery store."

It is regarded that the correspondent failed to give the name of the senator who takes a position so at variance with the law, common sense and the interests of the country. It passes comprehension that there could be in the United States senate a man so ignorant or so devoted to the railroad bosses as to make the assertion attributed to this senator.

A railroad company is a common carrier, and more or less a monopoly. If allowed to operate without curb of law it would have power to tax the people without restraint and wholly without their consent. The American people would not tolerate that power in government itself, and they are not going to tolerate it in the railroads.

A senator so ignorant of law and history, or so deaf to the people's interests as to assert that the railroads should be given a free hand to do as they please with the people and their industries ought to be impeached.—Spokesman-Review.

UNDER NO OBLIGATIONS.

This meeting has sent the cold chills percolating around the spinal column of the senatorial aspirants. It is said that Sweeney is well satisfied with the outlook, but there are men in this city that say that the twenty votes here referred to will go to the winner, and in making this move Senator Ankeny is playing the game of politics, as it is understood by those who have reduced these things to a science. That Senator Ankeny is "foot loose" and free to act is well known by this time. There are those here who feign to believe that Ankeny is indebted to Pierce county. To all such persons it is well to say now: This is not true. Six years ago Foster was elected over Ankeny by a combination with Wilson. Four years later Senator Ankeny was again a candidate, when Senator Foster refused to tie himself or this county to Ankeny until the Walla Walla man made the best showing. It is true that Senator Ankeny got the Pierce county delegation. It is generally believed that Senator Ankeny assisted some in electing the delegation. Senator Foster could not tie up to Ankeny at that time, for it was believed that the Wilson-Foster agreement would hold Foster to Wilson. If it had not been for Stevenson, Hamilton and Crocker, the Pierce county delegation would not have voted for Ankeny as solidly as they did. At that time, Dr. Roberts voted for Wilson for a while, and Warburton voted continuously for the King county candidate, and it is said that Judge Crandall broke faith with Rydstrom, who thought he had the big lawyer tied fast to Wilson. Rydstrom has never forgiven Crandall for breaking from the Wilson crowd. It is noticeable that after a careful analysis of the situation is taken that Ankeny did something himself to get the Pierce county delegation. —Tacoma Forum (Rep.).

OIL FOR DUSTY ROADS.

One of the disagreeable features of life in towns and villages in this part of the country is the dusty roads at certain seasons of the year. The heavy cost precludes the plan of paving, while the thirsty earth and the dry or hot atmosphere makes sprinkling with water out of the question. But now there is a cheap and available remedy for the trouble which has been proved effective by careful experimentation.

The use of the crude petroleum now found in abundance in Kansas and Indian Territory will make the most dusty of the roads passable and comfortable to travel. An American consul in Scotland reports an experiment which was recently tried near Edinburgh. Crude oil was used over a dusty stretch of road comprising metaling at two stages of wear. The road surface was swept clean and the oil poured on by means of cans, and brushed over so as to saturate the surface uniformly. The results were highly satisfactory. In about twelve hours after the application the road surface was dry enough in each case to take traffic, and not a single complaint of damage done to the tires or paint of any vehicle thereby has been made.

One application sufficed for the season. The experiment has demonstrated the efficiency of the materials used for the purposes of dust prevention. The cost approximately was $100 per mile, which may be accepted as a fair average of the cost of this method of road dressing.—Walla Walla Statesman.

WILL THEY VOTE FOR SWEENEY.

It seems strange that the members of the legislature from southeastern Washington would meet in Portland with George Stevenson, Attorney Cotton and other representatives of the Harriman interests to consider the passage of the Tolman railway commission bill and other legislation "for the purpose of advancing the interests of this section of the state." The most convenient place for such a meeting would have been Walla Walla. But in order to meet the manager of Charles Sweeney's senatorial campaign and the representatives of the Harriman railroad system the conference was held in Portland. Representative Stevenson of Skamania county, a brother of George Stevenson, "purchasing agent" for the Harriman lines and for Sweeney, was among the delegates to this conference of legislators from southeastern Washington. Just how Skamania county is interested in legislation for this section of the state is not clear.

The supporters of Senator Ankeny who desire to see him given a second term look with misgivings upon the evident purpose of the Walla Walla legislative delegation to support Sweeney for Foster's seat in the senate. The merest tyro in politics knows that the west side having two-thirds of the membership of the legislature will not stand for the giving of both United States senators to the east side for any great length of time. If Sweeney is selected to succeed Foster, a west side man will be elected to succeed Ankeny in 1909. Some queer things.—Walla Walla Statesman.

NOW WILL YOU BE GOOD?

The Courier of Kennewick announces that a mastodon's tooth was recently found on the summit of Jump-off-Joe. I ask that it be returned to this office, charges prepaid, as it was a tooth I lost while pumping hot air into Hanson and Greene's summer resort and high line road to that very summit.—Pasco Express.

"An open confession is good for the soul," they say. The tooth is still in our office and Editor Green may have it on application. It is a well known fact among anatomists that a tooth is the last thing to decay about a person. As this tooth is in an advanced stage of decomposition we may infer, without any great effort of the imagination, the condition of the other portions of the anatomy to which it originally belonged. While we have long ago surmised from the rantings of the Express that its editor was a hollow echo of past ages, yet we did not believe him to be as ante-deluvian as his voluntary confession proves him to be.—Kennewick Courier.

THE MESSAGE.

President Roosevelt's fourth annual message has the fault of most of his state papers. It is much too long and much too prolix. The president has discussed pretty nearly everything in the heavens above, the earth beneath and the waters under the earth—except the tariff.

The message ought to be read, nevertheless; for it shows Mr. Roosevelt at his best and at his worst and at most of the intermediate stages.

Mr. Roosevelt begins with a panegyric to prosperity and the government policies that have been an important factor in its development. "The people have emphatically expressed their approval of the principles underlying these policies," he says, "and the desire that these principles be kept substantially unchanged, although, of course, applied in a progressive spirit to meet changing conditions."

At this point the reader expects that he is going to get the president's views on the subject of tariff revision. He learns nothing of the sort. Mr. Roosevelt does not mention the word, "tariff," in his message. It contains no reference to the subject. He is evidently still considering the matter and his ear is attuned to the protests of the stand pat congressmen on the one side, and the other drinking in the popular demand for readjusted schedules.—New York World.

HEAVEN OR HADES—WHICH?

Mr. and Mrs. George O'Flyng, a newly married couple from Salem, Oregon, came over to the Sound lately to enter the ideal paradise for newly married lovers and at the same time to look for a permanent home. Through an inadvertence, excusable under the circumstances, they passed by Olympia and tarried in Tacoma. It was not long, however, till Mr. O'Flyng was taken sick, and a doctor detected the symptoms of smallpox. To the post-house he was ordered, and the faithful wife insisted upon accompanying him as nurse; hence it happened that their honeymoon was passed under unusual, not to say unpleasant, conditions. Soon as the groom was on the pathway towards recovery, the bride, very considerably, it is said, contracted the disease and passed through all its stages, including the eruptive or "breaking out" climax, which, it is thought, would prove an ample test of true love. They recovered, however, and are now under process of fumigation. When released, there will be big money for some fortunate faber-pusher to get, if he can, a true statement of psychological conditions that may exist between parties filled with the divine affluents and the germs of a loathsome disease, at the same time.—Olympia Standard.

VERY MUCH DIVORCED.

Mrs. Grace-Snell-Walker-Layman, of Los Angeles, Cal., has had a record-breaking experience in the divorce courts, having had the gordian knot untied on five different occasions. Being still under 40 and of fair proportions, she has contracted another matrimonial alliance. Here is her record up to date: 1884—Married to Frank Nixon Coffin. 1894—Divorced from Frank Nixon Coffin. 1898—Married to Frank Nixon Coffin. 1899—Divorced from Frank Nixon Coffin. 1899—Married to James C. Walker. 1900—Divorced from James C. Walker. 1901—Married to Frank Nixon Coffin. 1901—Divorced from Frank Nixon Coffin. 1903—Married to Perkins A. Layman. 1904—Divorced from Perkins A. Layman.

Having had his attention called to this case, Judge Brentano, of Chicago, expressed his sentiments in this vigorous language, as reported by the Chicago Journal:

"This woman's career has been a rank travesty on marriage and the sacredness of its obligations. This dragging of the sacred things of life through the mire can not but arouse the liveliest indignation in right-minded men."—Nebraska State Journal.

MONEY SPENT IN EUROPE.

German art critics are scared and are clamoring for a law that would protect the art treasures of Europe from the hands of "rich Yankees, who carry them off to America."

A great many people on this side of the Atlantic would like to see such a law in force in Europe. If such were the case it would mean protection to a lot of the newly rich, the most of whom don't know a real art treasure when they see it, and incidentally to American dollars, which latter is the most important consideration.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Comment on the President's Message—All Want to Be Admirals—No Chance for One-Cent Postage Now.

(From our regular correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—There have hardly ever been on the first day of the session as many members of the senate and house present in their seats as assembled under the white dome on Monday, in spite of the slippery streets and driving sleet. The air was filled with cordial salutations, taking the general form of regrets and congratulation. The minority party protested that though it was certainly swamped it was not absolutely wrecked. It would be too much to expect that a party which had just received an overwhelming indorsement would bear itself with modest humility on such an occasion and so there was a rapid exchange of irony and retort, banter and persiflage. In neither house did the members seem to care whether the chaplain delivered an audible invocation or a pantomime. The democrats bore their defeat with becoming dignity and satisfied themselves and prodded the boastful majority with the great truth that tomorrow takes care of tomorrow and it is a very long road that has no turn.

The president has certainly succeeded in making another sensation. He has achieved the most extraordinary message that ever emanated from the White house—a performance entirely unique. It treats of matters which no president ever before recommended to the attention of congress and in the writing of half of it he seems to have been mesmerized by Parson Wagner and Jacob Riis. Perhaps all of his theories are humane and some of them are practicable, but he suggests action concerning many matters which can be taken in hand only by state legislatures. Think of a president's message on life insurance and the price of beef steak, cold labor, alley slums, race suicide, school truancy, wife beating and the whipping post! He earnestly calls upon congress to guard against extravagance and recommends an increase of appropriations. He is for peace, arbitration and a great navy. He declares that it is contemptible "for a nation to use high sounding language to proclaim its purpose" unless it is able to back up the language. But why should any nation use "high sounding language?" He says, having Columbia in mind: "It is not true that the United States feels any land hunger or entertains any projects toward other nations of the western hemisphere save such as are for their welfare." But he carefully avoids telling us who is to be the judge of this. It recalls the lion in La Fontaine's fable who admitted having eaten sheep for their good, and declared that in thus noticing them he had "done them to much honor." The message is a congeries and concatenation of unrelated ideas. Was it not Goethe who constructed the last volume of Wilhelm Meister out of the sweepings of his study table? Of the tariff the president says not a word but its absence is more conspicuous than its presence could have been, like the omission of the bust of Cato from the triumphal pageant of Rome. Woman suffrage, Battle Creek food, and dress reform also get the go by, to the reader's surprise, especially when it is remembered that the German emperor busies himself in the intervals of a busy life by designing the costumes of the ladies of his court.

Of the questions concerning public policy which are treated it is admitted even by democrats that the president has dealt frankly and without reserve. They do not by any means agree with all his recommendations but their criticisms are not vigorous. An important paragraph of the message relating to the control of interstate commerce was followed yesterday by the introduction in both senate and house of bills complying with the recommendation. It provides for authority to fix freight rates but arranges for an appeal to the courts in case of a difference. The recommendations for punishment for bribery and corruption in federal elections call out favorable comment. The assertion that the Filipinos are as yet "totally unfit" for self government meets, of course, with democratic opposition, but the promise that "within two years we shall be trying the experiment of an elective house in the Philippine legislature" is regarded as something of an offset.

There seems to be considerable sense and justice in the crusade which the admirals of our navy are making to resent and prevent the promiscuous use of their title. The practice which has provoked the remonstrance is absurd. For ship builders, commissaries, land surveyors, quartermasters, doctors and chaplains to masquerade as admirals and even to put the title, "Rear Admiral" on their visiting cards, is so flagrantly preposterous as to cause amazement that the president has not prevented it by a peremptory order. Men who have won their rank by fighting and making sacrifices in the face of the enemy have a right to be impatient at the impudence of these supernumeraries.

Appropriation bills are hustling to the front. The legislative, executive and judicial, carrying $30,000,000, has been reported to the house. The post office, with a total of $183,000,000, was considered by the sub-committee yesterday. The Indian appropriation bill will be taken up by committee today. The committee on territories is in session, and the rivers and harbors committee has been busy distributing large quantities of "pork" for more than a week.

The public will be glad to know that our postal service would be entirely self sustaining now if it were not for the expense of the free rural delivery. The farmers are not likely to give up this great convenience and the result is that one cent postage which we have for many years been approaching, must be postponed for three or four years longer. Its advent would be hastened by the adoption of a parcels-post system, by which packages weighing over four pounds could be sent by mail like other countries, instead of giving express companies the monopoly of handling them. People would be glad to pay half the price which express companies now charge and the government would make money by the operation.

The movement to reduce congressional representation, from all states that refuse the ballot to other than criminals has been given sudden headway by bills introduced by Senator Platt of New York and Representative Crumpacker. It contemplates the reduction of southern representation by 19 members. If persistently pushed, it will cause great irritation, and it might be wise for the president to postpone his visit to the south.

THE FIRST ENVELOPES

They Were Used in a Private Penny Post in Paris.

The first mention of envelopes occurs in 1653, when M. de Valay set up, under royal patronage, a private penny post in Paris, and boxes were placed at street corners for the reception of letters wrapped in post paid envelopes. The earliest uses of the word in English were by Bishop Burnet in 1714 and Dean Swift in 1726. That the "little bags called envelopes," as Rowland Hill described them, were nothing but a revival and were in use as a covering for postal purposes long before 1840, when his postal reform was established, is evident from the following: Under date July 21, 1627, Secretary Conway gives an account of his "opening a letter in the presence of the king, which contained a blank sheet." Lamb mentions them in 1825, and in "Harry Lorrequer," published by Charles Lever in 1837, we find, "The waiter entered with a small note in an envelope." The early covers were probably rude enough, as machine made envelopes were unknown before 1840, and the "lick of the gum" did not make its appearance till the succeeding year.

The Armenians.

The Armenians are one of the most ancient races in the world. Their country is mentioned by Xenophon and Ezekiel and in the cuneiform inscriptions of Babylon and Assyria. All the nations that surrounded them have passed away, but they remain, though their country has been harried with fire and sword for centuries. The speaker ascribed the permanence of the Armenian race to the virtue of their women and the exceptional purity and stability of their family life. Even in their heathen days polygamy was unknown to them. They have been a Christian nation for more than 1,500 years and have undergone perpetual persecution for their faith from the surrounding oriental peoples.

Route of the Bobolink.

The amount of traveling done by some of our birds is astonishing. Dr. Cooke says that the common night hawk spends the summer in Alaska and the winter in Patagonia. The bobolink, which is the redbird of the middle states and the ricebird of the south, winters on the waving pampas of southern Brazil. It covers 700 miles from Cuba to the South American coast in a single flight, following a track not popular with other birds, which might be called the bobolink route.—Saturday Evening Post.

A. F. Carpenter, of North Yakima, was in Zillah Tuesday on a business trip.

J. H. Moody spent several days in North Yakima the first part of the week.

The Zillah hotel expects to meet with a loss, the loss being a young lady. Oh! we wonder why.

Dr. Bartley has a neat cottage under course of construction and will be ready for occupancy in the near future.

Mrs. Emma Allen, Mrs. Lesley Sawyer and Mrs. F. T. Drumhiller were callers at Central office Tuesday afternoon.

C. A. Webber, with the Christian Co-operative Telephone Association, put in a phone at J. H. Moody's residence last Saturday.

One of our young business men has ordered a fine suit of black clothes. We expect to hear the wedding bells in the near future.

Mr. Wright, of North Yakima, has started a dancing school in Woodmen Hall. Class lessons will be given every Monday evening.

C. S. Riley, of Webster, S. Dak., came here to visit friends. He is well pleased with the country and will leave for his home in a few weeks.

A heavy rain fell last night, melting all the snow. We all appreciate the sunshine today as old Sol has not put in his appearance for several days.

L. B. Lawrence has just received a large stock of Xmas toys for the little ones. Santa Claus, if you are looking for toys, go to our leading merchant, Lawrence.

It is rumored that wedding bells will soon ring for more than one happy pair in this vicinity. Perhaps the wedding bells will mingle with the merry Christmas bells.

J. N. Moore, of North Yakima, has a vocal class here Monday and Tuesday evenings of each week. His pupils are very much pleased over the fact that they have the opportunity to get instructions from one so capable in teaching music.

Jim Twitchell, of Sacramento, Cal., died recently, the final papers of the estate being made out by Dell Fox, notary public. The heirs are G. W. Mason, Mrs. Edger Mason, Mrs. G. W. Murton, of Zillah, and Mrs. Chas. Williams, of Goldendale.

Miss Emma Gale entertained at dinner at her home Sunday a party of young people composed of Misses Nellie Haws, Moolley Ireland, Marie Pederson and Harry Snipes. After dinner the company enjoyed a musical treat, both vocal and instrumental.

F. J. Sprague has sold his barber shop to L. Wilson, of Seattle; Mrs. being a man of long experience in the barber business and all who have patronized him say that he does fine work. Zillah boasts of two barber shops. H. H. Horton, proprietor of one, is very much pleased with the business he is doing for the short time he has been here, Jas. Graham, of North Yakima, having the first chair.

Sunnyside Items.

James Henderson came back the other evening with 23 ducks and a goose, the result of a few hours' hunt—and we reckon the ducks thought so too.

George Bell, living west of Sunnyside, found a den of coyotes and killed ten of them and brought their scalps to Sunnyside Monday. He was anxious to learn the reward for such scalps.

Charles S. Wenner left for the Hot Springs Monday, where he hopes to dispose of quite a severe case of rheumatism. We hope to see him on duty again at the Big Store in the near future.

Emory Thompson was in Seattle last week with a carload of apples. He found the market glutted and was only able to dispose of his Baldwins for immediate delivery, placing the balance of his shipment in cold storage.

Our townsman, Joseph Lannin, is a candidate for a position on the Washington pomological and horticultural commission of the Lewis and Clark fair which will be held in Portland next year. The duties of this commission are to collect, prepare and have charge of the state's exhibit in the above lines. Mr. Lannin would be a valuable member of this commission.

Bradley and Wallace, representing Spokane capitalists, are at work on a scheme to water a considerable territory near Mabton by pumping water from the Yakima river, utilizing the power at Rocky Ford. They expect to charge $30 per acre for the water.—Sun.

The $500.00 house and lot will be given away at Coffin Bros' store January 2, 1905. 14-3t

The Government Can Do It.

It has been the dream of temperance workers who believe in prohibition of the use and manufacture of liquor to have enacted a federal law forbidding the liquor traffic in all forms throughout the country. Sentiment throughout the nation is by no means ripe for such a radical reform and the people as a whole would not sustain such a law, could its enactment be secured by congress, says the Boise Clipper.

But nevertheless there are straws now floating in the breeze which indicate that the federal government contemplates taking advanced steps in the control of the liquor traffic. A few years ago the various temperance bodies of the country secured a law abolishing the army canteen, or drinking station. Since its abolition protests and demands for re-establishment of canteens have come from nearly every prominent officer in the army. Yet congress and the president have not acceded to the request, and the government is still out of the liquor business at army posts.

The chief complaint of officers has been that the men who used to secure drink at the canteens now go outside the forts and secure stronger and worse drinks in greater quantities at private saloons and that, these saloons often being merely low dives with gambling and bawdy attachments, the visits not only result in increased drunkenness but in general debauchery and impoverishment of the men. This has been a strong argument with thinking people, and many persons who believe in legal prohibition have been constrained to believe that the canteens ought to be restored, at least temporarily. But now the government is considering a measure which will, to a certain degree, correct the evil.

Agitation has been begun, in a way, which is likely to result in action this winter for the enactment of a law forbidding the establishment or maintenance of saloons or joints within two miles of military posts. A law similar to the proposed one is in force at present concerning soldiers' homes, and it works well. This encourages the belief that the proposed law would work well in the case of army posts.

The point of the matter, however, is that the federal government is beginning to consider that it is responsible, in some degree, for curbing the liquor business and in places where it becomes a nuisance interfering directly with the workings of the government, for prohibiting it entirely. When the government of the United States determines to adopt prohibitory measures against this demoralizing traffic, state governments will be given an object lesson calculated to demonstrate the unsoundness of the claim that no law for such a purpose can be enforced.

If the report be true that the Czar has ordered his Baltic fleet, enroute to Port Arthur, to return home he has given evidence of better judgment than most people gave him credit for. "Nick" seems to have come to the conclusion that he wants to keep a few of his ships.

Curiosities of Cut Glass.

The process of glass cutting requires great skill and care. A design is first lightly copied on the glass, and the cutters take it in hand. A fine stream of sand and water falls continuously on a rapidly revolving steel wheel. To this the glass is applied, and the cutting is really accomplished by the friction which the sand sets up. Then another workman with another steel wheel and plain water brings the cutting up to a sharper edge. A third workman with a soft wooden tool takes off the cloudiness caused by the friction of the steel, a fourth polishes the glass, a fifth with a preparation of oxide of tin gives to it that iridescent luster which makes us value cut glass so highly.

A Compliment.

Mrs. Hersey was unhappy over the stern severity of her new photograph. "Norah," she said to her pretty waitress, "do you think this photograph looks like me?"

Norah's warm Irish heart came to the rescue. "Shure, Mrs. Hersey, dear," she replied quickly, "if you looked like that would I ever have two afternoons a week?"—Christian Register.

Feeding on Souls.

A certain minister applied to his church for an increase of salary. "Salary?" cried one of the members. "Salary! Why, I thought you worked for souls."

"And so I do," meekly replied the impecunious minister, "but I cannot eat souls, and if I could, it would take a good many souls the size of yours to make a decent meal."

Not His Experience.

Mrs. Henpeck—Let me see, is it "big amist" or "polygamist?"

Mr. Henpeck—What are you talking about?

Mrs. Henpeck—Why, a man who has one wife too many is a "bigamist." Isn't he?

Mr. Henpeck—Not necessarily.—Philadelphia Press.

An Unreasonable Fellow.

"Oh, it's no fun being engaged to him," she said bitterly.

"Why not?" asked her dearest friend.

"Why, when you stir up a little quarrel just to drive away the ennui he takes it seriously and keeps you worried for fear you've really lost him."—Chicago Post.

TO OPEN RESERVATION

U. S. Senate Passed the Bill Tuesday to Open the Yakima Reserve—

Bill Now Goes to the President.

Washington, Dec. 13.—(Special).—Secretary Foster this morning secured the passage of the bill opening the Yakima Indian reservation through the senate. As the bill has already passed the house it is now up to President Roosevelt to sign to become a law, which will no doubt be willingly complied with by the president.

This bill opens to entry the unallotted lands of the Yakima Indian reservation, involving seven or eight hundred thousand acres, largely agricultural and grazing lands.

The bill provides lands shall be classified and appraised and sold for not less than value. The manner of disposal is to be prescribed by the president.

Look out for lively times in this back-wood in the near future.

New Cases Filed.

The following new cases were filed in the superior court during the past week: A. J. Allison vs. Annie Allison, action for divorce on the grounds of desertion. Arthur C.
