Educational centre--market garden mart--manufactories--refrigerator fresh meat packing establishment--smelting works, etc. etc.

The Most Promising Place in the New Northwest.

Yakima

The New Railroad Town

At the confluence of the Yakima ~~9000~~ and Natches rivers, Washington Territory, the Northern Pacific Railway Company has placed on the market three thousand acres, subdivided into business lots, 25 x 140 and residence lots 50 x 140 ft with streets 100 to 120 feet in width, a low figure. The Town is on a site on a table land of gravel and cobble stones making a natural streets. A great irrigating canal from Natches river is being constructed to water shade trees, shrubbery, lawns and gardens. A company has contracted to supply water works to furnish the business houses, residences and fire brigade.

A system of street lighting is being matured. Liberal reserves for sidewalks, boulevards, public school buildings, courthouse, fairgrounds, proffered (copy) colleges, parks, the state Capital, Railway machine shops and various manufactories have been made.

Situation

The city is equidistant from the head and mouth of Yakima river, flowing through a magnificent valley two hundred miles long which at this point is forty miles wide and draining into it are various trubutaries watering the counties of Kittitas, Yakima and Klickitat. Outlying stock ranges are free. Timber is abundant along the streams and on the Cascade mountains. The volcanic ash soils are from three to one hundred feet deep, inexhaustible and produce all special crops that flourish in the middle and Southern States, with fabulous yield. No section in the entire New Northwest can compete with this as a market garden and orchard district. The cities of the Meditterrean of the Pacific, Puget Sound--will be within five hours ride via the Northern Pacific main trunk line by next Christmas, and the tables of Montana and Idaho will be supplied from here. Yakima is only 900 feet above the sea, that is only a little more than one-fifth as high as the level Salt Lake and far less than the hight (copy) of any other point between here and St Paul

The Climate

Is conceded by all to be superior to any other in America, only one death from natural causes having taken place among a population of two thousand in the immediate neighborhood during the past year. Clear, chrystal lakes, plunging trout streams, mineral springs, gigantic water falls and haunts of the large game attract tourists from far and near.

Inducements

The railway company, together with the syndicate of capitalists leagued with the company, have determined to build here at this central spot in Washington the State Capital City, attract colleges, manufactories, make it the headquarters for the wonderful mines of coal, gold, silver, iron, copper and galena, as well as the immense forests of timber on the Cascade Mountains. Yakima is the division town of the Cascade line which is 253 miles in length and the general offices and shops of the company are here.

Now is the time to buy before speculators possess themselves of lots and factory sites.

Until the completion of the road to Puget Sound Yakima will be the terminus of the operating department of the Northern Pacific Railway and work on the construction materials for the extension will employ in the yards at this place a large force of men. Many thousand hands are at work in forcing the construction up the river and the mountains. The population of rich valleys of Kittitas, Klickitata and Yakima counties will make this their only market and the stock ranges and new agricultural settlements of the Big Bend of the Columbia are more accessible from this point than from any other. The U.S. Land office at this place being the point of entry for that section, render it necessary for home-seekers to disembark from the cars here in order to obtain accurate information to Government lands.

The Division Land office of the railway company is located at Yakima and their lands are sold from 40 cents to $7 per acre with warranty deeds, the average being $2.60, the same as government price including surveys. Long time and easy payments are given to settlers on railroad land. Immense irrigating canals are projected to water many hundreds of thousands of acres. Yakima will speedily attain to the population of Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska and then make rapid strides ahead. An irrigating and market garden country beats the world for dense population and no failure of crops

A view of the Valley

Tom Merry says that when he gets back to New York if any one asks him where Yakima is he will answer: "It is the place where the man lives who invented 'OO beef steak.'" The same writer describing his first view of the valley below town last December says: "As the train moved out from behind the tall bluffs there came in sight a landscape of almost unapproachable beauty valley lay before us in a tawny dead gold and brown while the crests of the rugged Cascade tipped with the early snow and with a magnificent crown of tall timber rose above it. To the southwest Adams shifted his burly shoulders into the azure with the yellow sunlight gliding every hollow and ravine, till the vast pile seemed like one monster nudged, while over to the westward Rainier rose to the clouds, pure and white without a ray of sunshine on it. "A chorus of "Oh" went up from the entire party as the train debouched into the valley and entered upon a tangent of twenty-one miles as straight as the flight of a bee."

Special crops

Besides the ordinary farm and ranch products such as horses, cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, poultry, wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, etc. this valley is especially adapted to the manufacture of butter, cheese and honey and the growth of hops, milo maize, alfalfa, sorghum, broom corn, castor beans, pepper mustard, peanuts, flax, tobacco, peppermint, sugar, maple, silk worms, all kinds of large and small fruit including delicate varieties such as peaches, pears, plums, cherries, grapes, prunes etc.--vegetables of every name and nature including celery, egg plant, sweet potatoes, melons, sugar beets, horse radish and many others that will remunerate the tiller of the soil several fold more than would what are regarded as staple crops in the Territories.

Railroads-Settlement

The maps of withdrawal lands in Oregon and Washington Territory by the Northern Pacific by construction of the Cascade route, have been filed at the United States land office at Walla Walla, W.T. and La. Grande, Ogn.

The lands in Oregon earned by the construction of this line will be placed on the market early in the Spring. There are a large number of settlers in the area withdrawn with the majority of whom having settled prior to June 1882 will have the preference right to purchase from the Northern Pacific the land settled upon at $2.60 per acre.

Joe Clift

"But Yakima Is Better" is the slogan to be used by the Yakima Booster club in the advertising of the prosperous valley of the Yakima.

The slogan was decided upon by the publicity committee at their meeting Wednesday evening. Joe Clift of the Yakima Trust company is the winner of the $10 offered by the committee for the best slogan.

There were about 200 slogans submitted. The three voted on were: "But Yakima is Better;" Yakima Grows Everything and "Yakima's Great, We Irrigate." Yakima Herald, March 27, 1907.

Rimrock

Five years at Rimrock may not seem the best of training for the Life Insurance profession. But after over three years driving the Rimrock stage gave me ample opportunity to see the need for insurance and interviews and evening study have convinced me of its worth.

After careful consideration of the various companies I have allied myself with the Massachusetts Mutual of Springfield, Mass., because I believe its contract to be one of the best and simplest written.

I am going to specialize in Life Insurance Trust estates and Income Contracts; the special field where no other plan can quite equal----- Charles A. Mayor, 432 Miller Building, phone 162--The Yakima Republic, May 5, 1925.
