Blackfish Crushers.

"I have watched the blackfish feeding on shrimp and young rock crabs among the stones of the cribwork of the old pier that formerly stood at Holland's Landing, Jansica bay," says Henry Brand in Rod and Gun. "They approach their prey very slowly and without showing any motion of their fins and body, and after succeeding in catching a shrimp they would not dart away the same as other fish do after securing food, but would remain still for awhile and begin to chew and then slowly swim away, looking for more."

"The blackfish is provided with a pair of crushers situated in the back part of its mouth and consisting of two flat groups of ball shaped teeth between which they crush small crustaceans and mussels before swallowing them. The crushing apparatus of a four pound blackfish is about as large as a dime. The blackfish seemingly uses its teeth for loosening mussels from their fastenings and to draw small crustaceans from their hiding places. After the food is secured it is passed to the crushers. When it takes an angler's bait and passes it to the crusher, a peculiar succession of bites is felt by the fisherman, and many a fine one is missed by the angler being too hasty to strike after the first indication of a bite."

Man and Beast.

Nothing can be so terrible to an animal as a human being. They are tamed when the brute seems to recognize instinctively that man belongs to a higher order of creation and is stricken with a feeling akin to awe in his presence.

In a small African village, some years ago, there was a scare about some leopards which were said to have killed a number of goats. Accordingly two white men, accompanied by several natives, set off to hunt them. Presently they found a place in the long grass where it was evident that one of the brutes had recently lain, for the ground was still warm.

The natives formed a ring round it, and the hunters got their guns ready. After a little while the leopard emerged from the long grass and was fired at and wounded, but not fatally. With a great bound he sprang on one of the white men and brought him to the ground. Holding his victim, he turned and growled savagely at the others.

The natives gave a wild yell of fear, and then like a shot the leopard sprang away. He had not been frightened by the guns, but the yell terrified him. Youth's Companion.

A Drop of Water.

A gallon of distilled water weighs 8.333 pounds, and there being four quarts to the gallon and two pints to the quart, and 16 fluid ounces to the pint, and two tablespoonfuls to the fluid ounce, and four teaspoonfuls to the tablespoon, and 45 drops to the teaspoon, a drop of water weighs 0.00018057 pound, slightly more.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

DOES DAIRYING PAY?

Manager Englemann of the Rockwood

Creamery Gives the Farmers Some

Practical Hints as to the Treatment of Their Cows.

A dairyman has three avenues which he may follow in order to convert the product of his herd into cash, viz:

1. Condensery.
2. Making butter or cheese at home.
3. Creamery or cheese factory.

Generally speaking the condensery pays the highest price for milk, and for a farmer who does not look ahead, patronizing a condensery seems to him the best way. In selling "whole milk" the farmer is selling a good deal of the fertility of his farm, and while a farmer during one year receives more for his milk by patronizing a condensery than from a creamery, the latter will pay him more in a series of years; this may sound absurd to the "shallow" thinker but not to the careful, in the future looking dairyman. Without going into details, we will enumerate some important factors which are in favor of the creamery:

1. A patron sells to the creamery simply butter fat, worth at an average 25 cents.

2. He can replace this butter fat by buying flaxseed or linseed at a cost of 10 to 15 cents.

3. He keeps at home the bone and muscle building elements, so necessary for raising young stock, and these elements are the dearest in the market.

4. He has an opportunity of building up a fine herd, thus realizing more for his stock.

5. Additional value of the manure. Now we don't wish to be misunderstood here; and must say that the condensery has done lots of good for the dairymen and will add that in certain cases a condensery is better than a creamery, especially if the farmers don't care to raise calves, as for instance in the Elgin district; there every year hundreds and hundreds of cows are imported from Wisconsin and Minnesota, raised by creamery patrons.

Making butter or cheese at home has many drawbacks. Consider the labor involved in making butter or cheese, the cash outlay for supplies, unavoidable loss in selling the finished product, time consumed in selling etc., and the little advantages that are gained by making butter at home, you will soon find out that the latter are more than balanced; also we admit that making butter at home would be the ideal way, considering this in the light of the doctrine of modern economies, viz: "You must sell the finished product in order to get full value. I refer my reader, for instance to the man who sells flour, and to the man who sells wheat, to the man who sells bacon, ham, and to the man who sells the whole animal, to the man who sells ore and to the man who sells steel and so on.

Taking our middle and northern states as a guide, creameries have increased remarkably, especially in South Dakota, known in former years as a wheat producing state only. The dairy products of the state of Wisconsin were valued in the year 1900 at $32,900,000, of which sum the creamery patrons received $27,000,000; the balance represents the sale of milk and cream. While this factor is quite an item for eastern states, we do not intend in this article to consider the same. Selling milk or cream from the farm is similar to patronizing a condensery, besides local circumstances have such a great influence that it is impossible to treat this subject fully and fairly.

We do not wish to speak on the conditions of the creameries of this state, or of North Yakima in particular, but feel obliged to mention only one point, viz: That the farmers of this valley receive every month in the neighborhood of $15,000 at the present from the five creameries. The money comes practically all from the Sound and is a factor well worth considering carefully, not alone from the standpoint of the farmer, but also from the standpoint of all business men of North Yakima.

If a farmer says dairying don't pay, he certainly don't know how to run a dairy. The Wisconsin farmer has paid his mortgage by his creamery—and hog check. Show me one prosperous farm in the New England states and it is certainly a dairy farm. Why are many of those farmers there poor? Simply because they sold hay, hemp, flax, etc., and never replaced any manure, which they sold in those products.

The greatest misunderstanding prevails about secretion of milk, breeds and test. On the first subject the writer has seen lately an excellent article by Dr. Richards, V. S., which article should be read by every farmer. On the different breeds the writer will publish an article later on, as a subject like this one needs more than a few words.

The creamery man has the most trouble with his patrons about the test. Every farmer wants a high test, not thinking that the total amount of butterfat within a year is the only scale to go by. Let me illustrate this; as an example: Suppose one cow tests 5 per cent and gives 3000 lbs. of milk in a year, or a total of 150 lbs. butterfat, at 25c, means a gross receipt of $37.50. Another cow gives 6000 lbs. a year, testing only 3.8 per cent, giving a total of 228 lbs. of fat, which at the same price means a gross receipt of $57. Now, please, don't look after a high testing cow, but after a "deep and long" milking cow.

The true relation between test, feeds and the nervous system of a cow are not fully understood. As it is beyond the scope of this article to treat scientific matters, we confine ourselves to only a few words. All the experiments conducted in this line have proven that different feeds have little or nothing to do with the test of each individual cow. Any observant farmer will find out that the test is entirely dependent on the nervous system of a cow and is influenced by such factors as change of climate, drinking water, milking and handling cows, and surroundings. Sudden changes of food, of course, influence the test, because it has an effect on the general condition of a cow. For instance, a cow fed on hay and suddenly put on a heavy grain ration will often shrink in milk and lower her test until she gets used to the change of food. We may truly say that foods rich in fat do not increase the percentage of fat in milk.

The higher bred a cow, the more will her test vary, should anything happen. For this reason we do not recommend Jerseys to the average farmer. A Holstein or Durham will answer his purpose better.

The variation of the test of hand separator cream is easily explained and should be understood by every farmer. We will mention the main factors: Temperature of milk, (the warmer the milk, the thinner the cream.) Speed of bowl, (the faster the bowl revolves, the thicker the cream.) Feed, (the more you feed a separator, the thinner the cream,) general condition and richness of milk.

In order to make a success out of dairying, a man must use his muscles as well as his brain, he must know how to manage, to think, to plan for the future, he must study the secretion of milk, feeds, feeding and breeding, he must be a good judge of cows and manage his farm in such a way as to get good results for his labor and time.

Try to build up a herd that will yield 300 lbs. of fat per year per cow and dairying will pay for you.

 Manager Rockwood Creamery Co.

Kate Claxton Popular as Ever.

Kate Claxton in her famous creation of "Louise," the blind girl, in "The Two Orphans," will be the attraction here on March 5. A prominent writer recently said of Miss Claxton and "The Two Orphans":

"When one remembers Kate Claxton's old time triumphs as 'Louise,' in 'The Two Orphans,' it is not to be wondered that her interpretation of the character that made her famous was a matter of intense interest last night. It was also a subject of congratulation, that her portrayal of the beautiful and devoted blind girl, is more powerful in interpretation and sweeter in the story it depicts than ever before. Her voice is just as clear, her eye as expressive, her manner as charming, and her general stage presence even more pleasing than when she originally appeared in the part. The performance last night was in many respects more than a revival, it was new to many. The scenery was beautiful and appropriate, and the company excellent. Never has this simple story of sisterly devotion, and the sincere picture of woman's devotion and love for man, been better given."

Miss Claxton appears at Larson's theatre Thursday evening, March 5.

A large and cultured audience was well pleased Monday night with the presentation of one of Shakespeare's best comedies, "Much Ado About Nothing," by Charles B. Hanford and his splendid company. Mr. Hanford as "Benedick" and Marie Dronah as "Beatrice," particularly in the love scenes, delighted everybody, although it is likely that if the ancient playwright himself had been present to have witnessed the way in which some of the best passages were over drawn, he would have probably thrown up his hands in horror.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Told the Truth for Once.

It is said that an editor recently announced that for just one issue he would tell the truth, the whole truth, naked and unvarnished.

Here is one item from that issue:

"Married—Miss Sylvia Smith to Mr. James Carnahan, last Saturday, at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is a very ordinary girl about town who doesn't know any more than a rabbit about cooking, and never helped her poor mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty, by a long shot, and has a gait like a fat duck. The groom is known as an up-to-date loafer and has been living off his mother all his life, and don't amount to anything now. They will have a tough time of it, and we withhold congratulations, for we don't believe any good can come from such a marriage.—Ex.

Frank T. Liggett, former captain of Co. E, has been tendered the responsible position of inspector of rifle practice in the state militia, by Adjutant General Drain, and will probably accept. This deserved appointment and fine complement to Captain Liggett is due not only to the splendid record which he made as a marksman at the encampment last summer, but the high degree of efficiency which the officer exhibited in the work of drilling the company at target practice.

The Yakima Valley Bank is making preparations to start a savings department which will be operated, of course, separately from the general business of the institution, as is done by other state banks in the larger cities. Interest will be paid or compounded semi-annually on time deposits.

One of the baseball boys, a recent arrival, was held up by two unknown men on South Front street about 3 o'clock Friday morning. The robbers evidently meant business, according to the young man's story, for they jammed the muzzle of a pistol into the victim's mouth. The ruffians relieved him of a dollar, all he had, and then told him to travel. There is no clue to their identity.

John Michels went up to Nelson Siding Saturday to take a look at the development work going on in the Blue Jacket mine, in which he is heavily interested. He found that the work was progressing satisfactorily and brought back with him some very good looking specimens of ore that the workmen lately uncovered.
