(Made by the Pomo Indians of Lake County, California, the best basket makers in the world.)

In basketry the Pomos found an outlet for the highest conceptions of art that their race was capable of. Protected by their isolation from other tribes, they worked out their ideas undisturbed. With every incentive for excellence they had reached a height in basketry, when the American first disturbed them, which has never been equaled—not only by no other Indian tribe, but by no other people in the world in any age.

I buy direct from the makers.

I have the following styles: Dance, Burden, Storage, Food, Cooking, Mill, Acorn, Papoose, Sifting, Plates, Fish, Seed Beaters, Squaw Caps and Full Feathered Sun and Moon.

Injun Silver or Kayah is made from clam shells that come from the ocean. It is still common currency among not only the Pomo tribes, but their Indian neighbors. Many thousand pieces are coined yearly and the Indian money-maker is a familiar sight in every Rancheria.

Nos. 10 and 11 are made from the hinges of an extra large clam shell which is much thicker than its body, and furnish about four long cylinders. This makes them much more valuable than the flat pieces, ranking next to Poh or "Injun Gold."

These are put up in 3-foot strings: can be put up in 1½-foot strings at half-price.

"INJUN GOLD" OR POH BEADS

This is made from a handsome mottled stone found under the alluvians bordering Clear Lake. It comes in lumps about four to eight inches in length. When found it is white, but the Injun puts it through a process of burning which changes the color. Made by no other persons.
