TO ENTERTAIN PRESIDENT

Mass Meeting at Club Tuesday Night
Selects Executive and Special Committees.

A mass meeting was held in the assembly room of the Commercial club Tuesday evening to take the necessary steps in relation to organizing for the reception to be accorded President Roosevelt and party on the occasion of the president's visit to this city, scheduled for the 26th of this month. There was a fine attendance at the meeting, including a number of ladies and much enthusiasm was shown. In the meeting were represented, besides the Commercial club, a number of local organizations and societies including the city council, G. A. R., W. R. C., Red Cross, Company E of the National Guard, Horticultural Union and others.

The meeting was called to order by President Cornett of the Commercial club. Ex-Mayor Fechter was selected to preside and Frank Farquhar chosen to act as secretary. A number of short talks were then made by Walter J. Reed, A. B. Weed, Miles Cannon, Rev. H. M. Bartlett, Dr. Dulin and others. Arguments were made pro and con as to what committees should be appointed to arrange the reception, how many persons were to compose such committees, etc.

It was finally decided that the matter should be left in the hands of an executive committee to consist of 10 members to be appointed by the chair on the recommendation of the meeting. It was also the sense of the meeting that the different organizations represented should have at least one representative on the executive committee. The passage of Mr. Cannon's motion led to the appointment of the following named persons as members of the executive committee: Walter J. Reed of the Grand Army, Mrs. S. Kushman of the Woman's Relief Corps, Captain C. J. Dulin of Company E, W. L. Wright of the Horticultural Union, E. J. Wyman of the City Council, Mrs. Edward Whitson of the Red Cross, Miles Cannon, George Donald, W. W. Robertson and J. D. Medill, were appointed from the membership of the Commercial Club.

After the adjournment of the mass meeting, the executive committee met, all members being present except Mrs. Whitson. The committee was organized by the election of Miles Cannon as chairman, W. W. Robertson as secretary and George Donald as treasurer. After an informal discussion it was decided to appoint the following sub-committees which were announced by the chair: Finance—J. D. Cornett, W. J. Reed and J. C. Liggett. Music—E. J. Wyman. Speaker's stand—W. J. Reed. Police regulations—Dr. C. T. Dulin. Decorations—J. D. Medill.

It was decided by the committee to extend a general invitation to all the people of the county to be present at the reception of the president and party in this city on May 26. It was ordered that 1000 posters be printed immediately and sent to all the different towns and post-offices in Central Washington.

The committee adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening at the Commercial club rooms, at which time the sub-committees were instructed to have their different reports ready for submission to the executive committee.

St. Louis Fair Commission Meet
The commission of the Louisiana Purchase exposition for this state held its second meeting in this city on Thursday. The following members were present: A. L. Black, president, Fairhaven; W. W. Robertson, secretary, North Yakima; Edward C. Cheasty, Seattle; Thomas Harrington, Buckley; George Lindsey, Ridgefield; G. W. R. Pessier, Clarkston; R. P. Thomas, Anacortes; W. W. Tolman, Spokane; E. M. Hay of Wilbur was absent.

The business transacted was mostly of a routine character. After the commission adjourned at 4 p. m., Editor Robertson had carriages ready and drove the members of the commission out to Nob Hill, after which a dinner was served at the Hotel Yakima, by Mr. Robertson in honor of his fellow members.

First Run of Logs.
The first run of logs down the Yakima river is anxiously awaited at the Cascade mill. A quantity of logs was started down from a point near Easton about two weeks ago, when the river began to rise, but a jam formed about half way between this town and Ellensburg. As soon as another rise comes, however, the officials of the company are sanguine that the jam can be broken and that the logs will then come down all right.

Everything at the mill is now in readiness to begin sawing as soon as the logs arrive. The boilers and machinery have been tested and appear to run smoothly.

A SAD AFFAIR.

Miss Annie Spencer Shoots Herself
Accidentally—Death Ends Her Agony
Wednesday Morning.

One of the saddest happenings ever known in this community is recorded this week in the accidental shooting of Miss Annie Spencer, which resulted fatally at an early hour Wednesday morning, when death came to her relief and ended her suffering.

Annie was the eldest daughter of W. B. Spencer, local agent of the Western Union Telegraph company. She was 18 years of age and was very popular with all who knew her. She was quite well known, especially among the patrons of the telegraph office where she assisted her father.

It is very difficult to get the particulars of the accident owing to the fact that the unfortunate young woman was alone when it happened.

Annie, her brother Jay, aged 21, and Miss Ollie Kane, formed a little party that went up the Cowichie last Sunday to fish. After eating their lunch the camera was brought into play. The girls stationed themselves upon a rock on the edge of the stream while the young man took a snapshot of them. To make the scene more effective, Jay, in an evil moment, conceived the idea of hanging his cartridge belt on his sister. In the belt hung a .38. calibre pistol full of loaded shells. After taking the picture the young man went up the creek some distance to fish, while the Kane girl went in the opposite direction to gather flowers. Neither had been gone long when they heard a pistol report and a sharp cry. Running back they found Annie Spencer lying on the ground, writhing in agony. The ball had entered the left side of the neck, between the jugular vein and wind-pipe, and it was with difficulty that the girl could speak. She was taken to a nearby farm house and a messenger was dispatched to this city for a physician.

An examination of the wound soon convinced the attending physician that the girl had but little chance to live. Dr. Hellicker stated that the bullet, while it had narrowly missed the jugular vein, had grazed the spinal cord. Even though had the girl lived, he said, she would have been helplessly paralyzed. Miss Spencer was brought to the hospital Sunday night and everything possible done for her.

The fatal shot seemed to have been caused by reason of the pistol falling from the belt and striking a rock causing a discharge. The poor victim herself could not seem to realize exactly how the accident happened, and experienced considerable difficulty in talking, although perfectly conscious. The physicians located the bullet in the back of the neck, but did not think it advisable to try to remove it, owing to the weak and enfeebled condition of the patient.

Drainage Expert Here.
Prof. C. G. Elliott, a drainage expert of the agricultural department, arrived here early this week to study the drainage system of this valley. He came here at the request of Congressman Jones to look into the matter of getting rid of the underflow of water in this city and will take advantage of his trip to study the natural system of the valley. He went to Sunnyside Wednesday with Prof. Waller to examine a section of land there that needs draining. After returning he will take up the best method of draining this city and will remain in this vicinity all summer.

The Fraternal Brotherhood.
R. A. Maze, organizer of the F. B., who has just been to Seattle in the interest of the order there, reports rapid increase in the lodges on the Sound. The local organization in this city has initiated 24 beneficiary members in the last two weeks, which gives this order 115 members in good standing and the end is not yet.

Next Wednesday night, aside from the regular initiation, Deputy Supreme Presidents Sam J. Chappel and J. M. Martin will be present. Refreshments will be served. All members are invited to come and participate.

The New Scouring Mill.
Wm. White of Las Vegas who was here about two months ago to look up the proposition of securing a wool scouring mill, sends word that he will be unable to get his machinery here in time to scour this season's clip of wool, but that he will be here again during the summer to install the new plant.

Since leaving here Mr. White by correspondence secured an option on the old McAllister woolen mill at Yakima City and expects to close the deal on that.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

We read and hear a good deal at this particular time about the necessity for the reorganization of the democratic party. An unsophisticated reader of republican and assistant republican papers might be misled into assuming that the demand for a change in party management is general among democrats and springs from the rank and file of the party. No greater mistake could be made. The demand for a change in party leadership comes from the repudiated leaders of a past era. These men, from Cleveland down, are now more anxious than ever to regain control of the democratic party. The special reason for this is plainly visible. Under the Roosevelt administration the gold standard and corporation republicans do not feel as much at home in the republican temple as they did during the McKinley rule. They don't approve of Roosevelt and regard him with suspicion just as the trust democrats do. It begins to look now as though the renomination of the rough-rider-president would be inevitable one year hence. This accounts for the feverish anxiety of the old gold and trust faction to overthrow the present leaders of the party and again secure control. In the event of their success, that democracy would again become the mere handmaiden of the money changers and the trust magnates, is a self-evident fact.

The following quotation bearing on this subject is taken from the letter written by Hon. Chauncey F. Black, former lieutenant-governor of Pennsylvania, to the Crescent Democratic Club of Philadelphia on the occasion of the celebration of Jefferson's birthday. It is needless to state that the republican and assistant republican papers have not been spreading the contents of this letter broadcast.

"We read a good deal in republican newspapers about a variety of schemes for the 're-organization' of the democratic party. We never see in connection with these remarkable projects the names of any reliable and regular democrats. The engineers are all well-known republicans, who helped, directly or indirectly, to beat down the democracy and put the trusts in power in 1896, and to keep them in 1900. They are insignificant in numbers. They describe themselves as 'leaders,' but point to no followers. Now it strikes me that where a hundred democrats disagree in sentiment, and 99 are found on one side and one only on the other side, the 99 ought to have their way. But if besides it appears that the one obstinate fellow is not a democrat at all, but an interfering republican, who has come back simply to boss matters, on the ground that at some remote period he pretended to be a democrat, but deserted at the pinch, the claim of the 99 democrats to run their own party, as this self-sufficient agent of the enemy, detailed to regulate democratic affairs for the time being, would seem to be pretty clear.

The democratic party on the national field is at present very well and satisfactorily organized. The masses who voted its ticket in 1896 and 1900, are more than content with it, and have no desire to have it reorganized or reorganized in the interests of the trusts. And the plans with that object in view are pure wind. They have no substance. There will be no reorganization. The Democratic national convention will be democratic; it will nominate a democrat on a democratic platform. He will poll the democratic vote, with its natural increase, possibly more, according to circumstances then existing, and he may be elected. But with any other platform or candidate, it is hard to conceive how, with the most efficient organization imaginable, and any amount of money contributed by special interests concerned, one-third of the honest democrats of the country could be brought to the polls. Such an experiment would make a wreck only less complete and contemptible than that of the shameless republican side show—the Indianapolis sham gold 'Democratic' affair of 1896. And that is precisely the result the 'reorganizers' propose to themselves and are expected by the republican managers to accomplish."

By the resignation of Councilman A. L. Atkins, caused by his contemplated removal from the city, North Yakima loses one of the most valuable men who has ever served upon the council. Mr. Atkins, we believe, has always looked after the city's interests with the same fidelity that he has exercised in his private affairs. Generally speaking, the office of councilman is a thankless one, but the people of this city have ample reason to thank Mr. Atkins for the splendid service that he has rendered them.

THE PRESIDENT of the United States will be the guest of this city for the brief space of 30 minutes on Monday, May 25.

It is needless to say that the people of this city feel highly honored in being given an opportunity to welcome and do honor to the chief executive of the nation. Our people have a deserved reputation for hospitality to maintain and there is no likelihood that it will be allowed to suffer when President Teddy comes to town.

It is very unfortunate, however, that the president's stop here will be of such short duration. The short space of 30 minutes to spend in the irrigation center of the Pacific Northwest, while the sleepy old town of Walla Walla is given six hours in which to impress its attractions and its necessities upon the presidential mind. Walla Walla, however, is the home of an U. S. senator and the length of the president's stay there is, perhaps, pretty good evidence in itself of the superiority of the senatorial "pull" at the White House over that possessed by a plain, every day sort of a congressman.

A THOUGHTFUL editor writes as follows: "When we see the boys in the streets and in public places we wonder if they know the business men are watching them. In every bank, store and office there will soon be a place for every boy to fill. Those who have the management of the affairs of the business will select a boy in whom they have confidence. When they select a boy they will not select him for his ability to swear, use slang or tap beer kegs. They have a few of these habits themselves, and they are looking for boys who are as nearly gentlemen in every sense of the word as they can find, and they know the reputation of every boy in the city. They are not looking for rowdies, and when a boy applies for one of the places and is refused, he's not told the reason why they do not want him, but the boy may depend upon it that he has been rated according to his behavior. Boys cannot afford to adopt the habits and get the reputation of loafers and rowdies if they want to be called upon to fill responsible positions.

A BOY'S ESSAY.
A PUPIL in a village school who had been requested to write an essay on the human body handed in the following: "The human body consists of the head, thorax, abdomen and legs. The head contains the brains in case there are any. The thorax contains the heart and lungs also the liver and lights. The abdomen contains the bowels, of which there are five—a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes w and y. The legs extend from the abdomen to the floor and have hinges at the top and middle to enable a fellow to sit when standing or stand when sitting.—Ex.

Change in School Laws.

The school laws of the state have been amended and a brief summary is given below:

Districts that have become depopulated and the minimum number of months have not been taught, the county superintendent can attach the district to an adjoining one. Union High schools may be maintained by adjoining districts with the approval of the superintendent, but cannot draw public funds for that purpose until the high school shall have been maintained at least eight months. Six pupils at least must be in the high school. Upon petition five heads of families two or more districts may consolidate and be credited with two thousand days in attendance. When the districts lie in different counties, the county superintendents must take joint action.

County superintendents must hold their annual convention before the first of October at the call of the state superintendents and all county superintendents must attend.

School districts can have the benefit of the attendance at private schools up to the 9th grade.

The state board is required to prepare a course of study and to provide rules for the government of schools. They shall also prepare a list of accredited schools to state institutions.

No clerks will be elected after this year but one of the board shall be chosen as clerk and if he fails to discharge the duties of clerk the board can remove him and elect another.

The minimum limit of school age is six years.

Boards may provide free text books and supplies.

Memorial day is made a legal holiday.

Five months school at least must be maintained in each year in all districts.

Penalties are added where teachers aid pupils in the eighth grade examinations, or making false reports on the same. This bill has an emergency clause and is in effect.

Washington Letter.
(From our regular correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, May 5, 1903.

The navy is still having its troubles and the establishment of a general staff to look into the defects which are every day more apparent in the conduct of the affairs of the navy department is being urged as a cloak like charity, to cover the multitude of sins under the incompetent regime of Secretary Moody. Foreign naval officers are calling attention to the great proportion of accidents which befall the American vessels, and almost all resulting from ignorance either of equipment or the fundamental principles of navigation. Not long ago, there was an epidemic, it seemed, of running our best vessels on the rocks, and at present there is a plethora of accidents through defective ordnance or careless handling of the same. The clique of the department, and particularly that which is absolutely controlled by the determination that no enlisted man shall be able to work up to an officership, as can be done in the army, are being openly accused of the responsibility of much of the rottenness that exists.

On top of all this trouble from forces which the administration has nurtured, there comes additional evidence against Republican management in the report of General Miles on the abuses which he found to exist in the Philippines. He made a tour of personal inspection and has his evidence at first hand, and not from long range testimony manipulated through Congressional investigation. It is significant that the war department has kept this report from the public for so long a time, and it may never see the light of publicity if it had not been repeatedly requested by those who knew that such a report had been made, and who wanted what further light on the question of the management of the Philippines as such an important document would undoubtedly give. The request of the Boston Reform Club to the war department and the wish of General Miles that a copy of the report be sent to the organization, showed the department that it would not be politic to withhold the information. Efforts are now being made to belittle the evidence it contains on the ground that it is a mere iteration of facts already known, but in addition to the charges of wanton cruelty there is the grave accusation that commissary officers trafficked in the rice and provisions which formed part of the rations, and also furnished for the famished natives of the concentration camps. In spite of all the efforts of your correspondent to get an expression of opinion as to what course of action would follow the charges preferred by the commanding general, he could get no satisfactory answer from officials, high or low. In the course of his efforts, however, he learned the significant fact that in this as in other serious difficulties in which the administration has been involved, the course of the department is outlined in the following words by Secretary Root that "no further action is contemplated."

The decision of the Supreme Court on the question of negro suffrage settled once and for all the mooted problem of reduction of Congressional representatives in the states which have taken the stand that they may determine for themselves who are fit or unfit to constitute voters. Representative Livingston of Georgia and Swanson of Virginia, when seen by your correspondent were much elated over the action of the supreme court in upholding the principle that the people of the south were to determine the political status of the negro as far as they were concerned. Both of these gentlemen see in this test the death of the Crumpacker agitation, as any reduction of representation by the republicans would there never be an appeal, and a virtual acquiescence which the republicans would be loth to give. Nor is there any danger that the next session of congress will be seriously inclined to take up the discussion, for it is generally understood that the republican party has too many dissensions within its ranks to handicap the party any further by getting the North and East embroiled in the race question which those sections of the country seem bound to settle although they have problems to confront them in their locality.

The design for the Thomas Jefferson Memorial has just been published by the committee of the memorial association. This monument to the founder of the democracy will be erected in Washington and will take the form of a replica of the Athenian Parthenon, acknowledged to be the most beautiful and perfectly proportioned building in the world. This type of pure Grecian architecture will harmonize with the general style of the public buildings of the national capital. There will be some modification from the original; for example the procession of Athenian youth in the original will be replaced with a historical frieze depicting the events in the history of this country which hinged directly on the creative genius of Jefferson.

Commissioners Meet Monday.

The board of county commissioners will convene Monday instead of the 18th as previously announced, the date of meeting having been advanced owing to the contemplated absence from the city of Chairman Lince.

Commissioner Frank Kandle informed the Democrat Tuesday that the board at its Monday meeting would formally consider Chairman Lince's proposition to build a new court house and the creation of a sinking fund for that purpose. The board, he said, was desirous of hearing from the taxpayers and citizens generally on the subject and hoped to see as many present as possible in order that the board might test public opinion on this vexed question.

Struck an Indian Graveyard.

Workmen, while digging a well on the farm of Cosgrove & Hanson, about two miles below Kennewick last week unearthed a human skeleton. Investigation in the immediate vicinity revealed other skeletons in fairly good condition. In addition several relics were dug up, consisting of broken hatchets, spear heads, elk's teeth, sleigh bells and beads of various kinds. A few oval shaped brass badges bearing the date of 1846, presumably distributed by Catholic missionaries, were also found.

The oldest Indians in the vicinity of Kennewick were questioned regarding the discovery. Old Imdeal Bailey and Callula Jim, ancient Siwash who claim the distinction of 104 and 108 winters respectively stated to Mr. Cosgrove after patient interrogation that about 50 snows ago several white men and friendly Indians had been massacred by hostiles and the bodies buried at that place. The find created quite a sensation at Kennewick.

A Match Game Here Tomorrow With Ellensburg.

The Hoppickers were done up in the game with the Ellensburg nine last Sunday to the tune of 8 to 3. Owing to the recent desertions it was not expected that the home boys would be able to make as good a showing as formerly and they did not.

Quite a large delegation went up to the Windy City to witness the game, the crowd leaving here on the 10:30 train. Klinkhammer and Wilkins formed the battery for the Hoppickers and Denzer and Crawford for Ellensburg. This was the first game won this season by the Ellensburg boys.

A return game will be played tomorrow on the home grounds which is likely to be interesting. Manager Chandler this week signed Jack Hewitt, late of Grand Rapids, Mich., to play second base. Hewitt is now here and will play his first game tomorrow. A couple of good special men will also be on hand to make things interesting for the "Burgers."

Klinkhammer and Wilkins went over to Walla Walla Wednesday to play in two match games with the Pendleton nine Thursday and Friday. They are expected home today.

Another Cure for Consumption.

Another new cure for consumption has been discovered. It is inhalation of a vapor produced by heating a mixture of eucalyptus oil, sulphur and charcoal, and it is claimed that practical tests have given better results than from serum, open-air treatment, or any other device so highly recommended. Robt. Schneider, a druggist in Berlin, conceived the idea while traveling in Austria where the eucalyptus tree grows luxuriantly in some places. He noted that in these localities tuberculosis is unknown, and when he returned to Berlin he communicated his idea to Prof. Sommerfeld, a physician of much repute, who experimented in several hospitals with marked success—fully 60 per cent. of his patients being completely cured. The inhalation of the vapor, it is said, kills the bacilli.—Olympia Standard.

PRESENTS FOR HIS WIFE.

The Worm's Story of How He Finally Came to Turn.

"Hello, old man! What have you in all those bundles?" asked a gay, airy young bachelor of a careworn, solemn looking young man as they met in a suburban railway train.

"Presents for my wife," was the sententious reply. "It's her birthday."

"Well, what are you bringing your wife's?" asked the bachelor.

"Trousers," was the answer.

"What?"

"Yes, I repeat—trousers. Just you listen. On my birthday my wife got me three or four beautiful lace handkerchiefs, such as women carry at afternoon teas and such places, and a black velvet hat with high feathers, one of the three story kind that obstruct your view of the stage in the theater. They looked mighty well on her, and she asked me if I wasn't having a nice birthday."

"Well, I didn't mind that very much, but when Christmas came I got another deal of the same sort. I gave my wife a pretty gold ring. She gave me a turquoise ring too small to go over any of my knuckles, and she wears it now next to the one I gave her. But that wasn't the worst of it. She got my sister to give me some after dinner coffee cups and my sister to make me a lot of lace doilies. That was all I got for Christmas."

"Tomorrow is my wife's birthday. In this package I am bringing her a pair of trousers which I had made to my measure and which I shall wear. In this parcel is a pair of the very best patent shoes, size 8½, a good deal too big for my wife; in this package is a box of cigars, and in my pockets I have a new meerschaum pipe and a packet of tobacco. Now, I don't see how she can fail to have a happy birthday. Do you? I hope she'll enjoy it, for I want to get even for all the pretty things she has given me."—London Tit-Bits.

A Heavyweight.

"And then," she said in telling of the romantic episode, "she sprang to his arms."

"She did?"

"Of course. Do you doubt it?"

"Oh, no," he replied, "but after seeing her I can't help thinking that it must have jarred him quite a bit."—Chicago Post.

The King's Finger Bowl.

When a member of the royal family comes to dinner, it is a point of etiquette to provide none but the illustrious guest with a finger bowl at the end of the banquet. The other diners must get on somehow without that convenience.

The reason is a curious one. In early Georgian days one never knew who was loyal. Every other man might be a Jacobite in his secret heart. Now, it was a piece of Jacobite ritual whenever the toast of "The King" was drunk secretly to pass the goblet over any water that happened to be by the drinker. This was supposed to convert the toast into that of "The King Over the Water," the exiled Stuart at Rome or St. Germain.

On this becoming known the court insisted that there should be no water within reach of any guest, and the prohibition still holds.—London News.

Throne That Was Never Called For.

On the eve of the Franco-German war when the Emperor Louis Napoleon entered upon the conflict which ended so disastrously to himself and his countrymen, a couple of strangers appeared at a German town. They brought with them a large packing case, which on their arrival was carried to a hotel. Here the unknown visitors remained some time and eventually disappeared without paying their bill, which amounted to a considerable sum.

The landlord, whose curiosity had often been aroused with reference to the possible contents of the case, at last determined to open it and on doing so found a handsomely designed and richly upholstered state chair. This was adorned with the French imperial arms, eagle and Louis Napoleon's monogram, and beneath it was a musical box which played when the cushion was sat upon. It is supposed that the throne—for such it is believed to have been—in the event of success attending the French army was to have been used by the emperor at Berlin after the capture of the German metropolis. Fate, however, spoiled the imperial plans, hence the sudden and precipitate flight of the custodians of the chair. The widow of the hotel keeper a few years later sent it to England, where it eventually found a purchaser.—Stray Stories.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Agricultural Education.

The importance of agricultural education leads us to risk becoming tire-some in our advocacy of it. We favor increased facilities for agricultural schools wherever they are inadequate. They are inadequate in Pennsylvania. The total value of the buildings and equipment for agricultural education in this state is $27,000; in Ohio, $150,000; in New York, $157,000; in Iowa, $175,000; in Illinois, $104,500; in Massachusetts, $228,000; in Minnesota, $347,000, and in Wisconsin, $355,000. Statistics are unnecessary, however, to any one who has seen the schools. No short courses in Pennsylvania, because no place to run them! No dairy instructor in a state that stands among the first in extent of its dairy industry!

During the past sixteen years agricultural education has received a little over one-eighth of the state's appropriations for education at State colleges. Are there ten industries or interests in Pennsylvania of equal importance with agriculture? No, not one. Moreover, the other industries are well provided for in the various universities and technical schools, whereas agriculture has no other school than the one at State college. Pennsylvania has not even a state fair, as the other states above named have. Need we say more to show why the bill now before the legislature should become a law?—Stockman and Farmer.

Curing Scours in Calves.

We have had a great deal of trouble with scours or calf cholera, which usually occurs the second or third day. We have tried a great many different ineffective remedies, but reading an article in the Breeder's Gazette recommending rennet tablets we tried them and found them very good, especially for young lambs, writes Theodore Degenhardt. I have saved them when they were almost dead. The best thing I have found for calves is blood meal. We have never lost a calf from scours since using it. We usually give from two tablespoonfuls to half a tencupful at a dose in boiled milk three times a day, according to the peculiarities of the case, but stop when it begins to check.

Scale Insects and Fungus.

So much has been written concerning scale insects and fungus on trees that a few lines only are now contemplated to bespeak attention to the subject from those who should be interested. From one end of the country to the other trees are becoming full of scale and other insects, and this evil, together with that of fungi, requires constant attention. It is not alone from nurseries that the evils are spread. Private orchards are infested in almost or quite every state, and from these trees birds carry the insects on their feet from one tree to another. Almost all nurseries are fairly clean of insects, some of them entirely so. The inspection laws of most states compel yearly examinations of the trees, and, besides this, the nurserymen's interests call for clean stock. Every one having fruit trees or bushes should be prepared to meet the foe. The best thing to do at the present time is to write to the advertisers of sprayers for their pamphlets concerning the subject. Very many that I have seen give formulas for making the various compounds, the time when spraying should be performed, the proper apparatus for the purpose and general information on the subject of great value.—Practical Farmer.

The Farmer's Accounts.

In almost every community there are one or two persons who have some knowledge of bookkeeping, inventories and accounts, if indeed they may not be retired experts in this class of work. It would pay many a farmer to hire such a person to make out for him an itemized statement of his assets and liabilities, so that he can start in fresh with an exact knowledge as to just where he stands. Then, even if no regular books are kept, a similar inventory at the end of the year will show the farmer whether he has gained or lost. No business except farming is good enough to stand the carelessness in the matter of financial accounts such as characterizes so many farmers.—American Agriculturist.

The Best Cow.

The best cow for each one of us is the cow we like best to handle and to breed. There is such a thing as incompatibility of temper between the man and his cow, and this fact often marks the time between success and failure. The man who loves his cows and cares for them as a man will who has this affection for his stock will most assuredly receive better returns for his labor than the one who simply tolerates his dairy. The man who takes pride in the Guernsey or the Jersey or the Durham should turn his attention to that particular breed.—Dairy and Creamery.

Having Large Apple Trees.

In answer to an inquiry Rural New Yorker says: Large trees can be moved by cutting back the tops quite severely and taking up as much of the roots as is possible. A large ball of earth should be left fastened to the roots by digging under, prying it up and adding under a stone boat. This can then be drawn to the new location and slid into place. If the ground is allowed to freeze before digging out the ball, it can be moved with greater safety from crumbling.

With the Bees.

In working around bees do not open hives early or late in the day, or on rainy days. Select fine weather, for at such times the old bees, which are the field forces, are out in search of nectar, and fewer bees are in the hive. Some think the best time to take honey off the hive is at night, when the bees are asleep, but do not try it.

THE RESERVATION CANAL.

Superintendent Lynch Instructed to Invite Proposals to Build Ditch.

Congressman Jones has just received the following from his secretary in regard to the construction of the ditch on the Yakima Indian reservation:

"Your favor of the 23rd instant received this morning and I have just returned from the Indian office where I went immediately to look up the status of the irrigation ditch on the Yakima Indian reservation. I find that Superintendent Lynch was written to by the department on the 25th instant and authorized to invite informal proposals for the construction of the canal under the plan proposed by Mr. Lynch and Engineer Redman, as modified by Inspector Code. The contractors, as you probably know, are required to employ Indians in the construction of the ditch wherever practicable. All the work under this authority is to be done under the general supervision and direction of Inspector Code. Mr. Lynch had not been informed of this authority before for the reason that it was necessary for the department to prepare a number of copies of the specifications and blue prints of the plans and considerable delay was experienced in preparing these plans owing to the pressure of other work in the drafting division. Copies of these specifications will be sent to you with this communication as soon as they can be prepared.

The Panama Canal.

Under the terms of the treaty with the Colombian government the United States will pay ten million dollars in gold for use of a strip of territory six miles wide, through which the Panama canal will pass. In addition to that our government will pay to the French Panama Canal Co., the sum of forty millions of dollars, for all its rights and property interest in the work already done. It will then proceed to execute the great undertaking, probably in one large contract to the Morgan syndicate, who offer to finish the work for the amount appropriated by congress for that purpose, $135,000,000. The president will appoint a commission of seven who will have charge of the great enterprise.

The grant made by the Colombian government is for one hundred years, renewable at the option of our government for similar periods in perpetuity, at the same rate and on the same terms. The United States agrees likewise to pay $250,000 in gold per annum, beginning nine years after exchange of ratifications. When it is considered that the property is exempt from taxes and customs of all sorts, it is not considered that this rental is by any means unfair. The sovereignty over the strip of territory remains in Colombia, and the ports of Colon and Panama are to be free, and no duties of any kind are to be levied unless carried beyond the bounds of the canal zone.

It seems peculiarly fortunate that the course of events finally resulted in the choice of the Panama route. While President Roosevelt favored the Nicaragua route, it was well understood that the exorbitant price demanded by the Panama company entered largely into the controlling influence of his choice. When it was considered that the valuation of appraisement in the commission's report, this objection was removed, and we get a shorter route, with fewer locks and less curvature, with the saving of a day's time, nearly, in traversing, and $1,350,000 less per annum in maintaining and operating. These are considerations which show very conclusively that the project so far has been attended with the rarest of good fortune.

The enterprise may now be regarded as a success. With the ratification of the treaty the only element of uncertainty was removed, and we may expect in the course of time the completion of a work that will rival the gigantic projects of primeval ages, with this difference, that the canal will be of value to the whole civilized world, while the works of antiquity were only designed for the aggrandizement of the people who built them, or their autocratic rulers.—Olympia Standard.

The drawing of the chances on the Mexican drawn work of Mrs. Gilman's will be held this afternoon at 3 p. m. at Dittler Bros. store.

W. E. Willis of Redlands, Cal., an old friend and school mate of Congressman Jones, is visiting that gentleman this week. Mr. Willis is a newspaper man by profession.

Hospital Improvements.

Stewart & Pierce have been accorded the contract to erect the addition to St. Elizabeth's hospital. The new wing will be 34x50 feet in dimensions and two stories high. The whole institution will be heated by steam. The proposed improvements to the hospital will amount in the aggregate to $5000.

Cures When Doctors Fail.

Mrs. Frank Chasson, Patterson, La., writes June 8th, 1901: "I had malaria fever in very bad form, was under treatment by doctors, but as soon as I stopped taking their medicine the fever would return. I used a sample bottle of Herbine, found it helped me. Then bought two bottles which completely cured me. I feel grateful to you for furnishing such a splendid medicine, and can honestly recommend it to those suffering from malaria, as it will surely cure them. Herbine 50c a bottle at Fred L. Janek's.

AN ANACHRONISM

"You remember that trip I made out through Michigan over a year ago, doubtless," said Jackson Peters. "I never told you of the odd genius I met at Pontiac who was going to do away with carpets on floors by sticking little pieces of carpeting on the feet with masticage."

Jones looked at the younger man with severity. "Jackson, I was just on the point of telling a story about a little idea of my own when I lived in Iowa several years ago. Enrich us with the tale of your bright young friend some other time."

"Yes," returned Peters, "it does very well for you to say that, but my story was going to be a true one."

"Give us your story, Jones—give us your story," said Smith encouragingly. "I was going to," replied Jones. "It was a number of years ago. I was living out in Iowa near Des Moines. My place was on the Des Moines river bottom, and the bluffs were literally alive with wildcats. The wildcats from all over the country seemed to be in the neighborhood that year holding a wildcat world's fair; a fact, gentlemen, I had a fancy stock farm, and between the resident and the visiting wildcats they played the very dance with my blooded chickens. I don't need to tell you, gentlemen, that I am mortally afraid of a gun."

"Seems to me that's a pretty serious admission for a man who only last night was telling how, down in Arkansas, he used to spring up bears with a four inch hickory plank and shoot them on the wing, like clay pigeons," said Jackson Peters.

"An idle tale, Jackson, an idle tale. A man must relax a little sometimes. As I was—"

"But you offered to bet $50 that—" "I couldn't shoot those wildcats, you see, so what could I do? Night after night they walked off with my choicest fowls. One day a bright idea occurred to me. It was nothing more nor less than every time I heard any disturbance among the chickens to put my head out of the window and call out 'Scat!' in a loud voice."

The narrator paused and looked at Jackson Peters defiantly. But Peters only blew a cloud of smoke ceilingward and arched his eyebrows slightly.

"That was a clever notion," observed Robinson, "very clever notion. Worth to rank with your plan for extracting the latent energy from tramps."

"No, Robinson, no," answered Jones, smiling, and evidently much gratified. "No, you are too kind. My trump idea showed genius; such things come to a man but once in his lifetime. This was simply an indication of a special talent for dealing with wildcats. Still, if you would believe it, my plan proved utterly valueless as far as frightening the cats away was concerned. I 'scattered' myself hoarse every night for a week; still those wildcats went right on carrying away my poultry. But I felt that the principle was a sound one, and I looked about for the weak point in the application of it. I soon found it."

"I was employing the same volume of scat for wildcats which is used in the case of tame cats, and wildcats are three times bigger than tame cats. My first thought was of a speaking trumpet, but I soon decided against it. I determined to make a clean sweep of the whole matter. I sent to Chicago and got an improved Edison phonograph with intensifying attachments. I set the intensifier at the ratio of three to one. I then shouted a battery of scats into the receiver in my natural tame cat driving voice. I wound up the clockwork and set the phonograph near the henhouse. A small wire connected the clockwork with the henhouse, so that a cat on entering the door would set the phonograph off, causing it to speak once. I went to bed, gentlemen, and slept soundly till morning."

"After breakfast my foreman told me that at about midnight, when the first wildcat started to enter my chicken coop to feloniously abstract my poultry, that phonograph sort of cleared his throat and remarked 'Scat!' in a voice which rattled the windows. Gentlemen, my foreman was a man in whom I had the utmost confidence, and he told me that after that phonograph spoke he observed a long, gray streak of wildcat reaching from my henhouse door to the underbrush, about 200 yards distant. The same phenomenon was noticed by my foreman in the case of subsequent cats. I lost no more chickens through the depredations of this obnoxious form of vermin."

Jones paused and lit his cigar, which had gone out. He blew an aggressive cloud at the lamp, elevated his chin and looked at Jackson Peters.

Peters rested his cheek in his hand and seemed thoughtful. After some seconds he drew a long breath and said, "Jones, may I trouble you to tell us when this interesting and valuable incident took place?"

"Certainly, Jackson; certainly. In the summer of 1871."

Peters smiled. Then he said: "The phonograph, Jones, is given a later date by the more advanced historians and archaeologists. You are, Jones, guilty of an anachronism."

"No doubt, Jackson, no doubt," answered Jones. "Most men who tell the truth are. I shall not lie to avoid an anachronism—no, not if I am guilty of an anachronism with every word I utter—if my whole life becomes one vast anachronism. Truth, Jackson, truth first, truth always!"

"Century at the club! What do you mean?"

The Woodmen Celebration.

The Woodmen of the World held a big celebration Wednesday afternoon and evening, which was the biggest thing of the kind ever seen in North Yakima. 193 new members were either initiated that day or signed application blanks for membership.

In the evening a grand torchlight procession was held, headed by Nagler's band. Initiation at the hall consumed several hours, a class at a time. After the initiatory ceremonies about 250 Woodmen attended the banquet given at the Hotel Bartholot, where a sumptuous feast was spread.

Mayor Shaw won the first prize for having turned in the largest number of applications—30. He received a silver set valued at $25. Dick Hauser was the lucky man who drew the lot in Nob Hill addition.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Pet Crow.

I have never had any real truly pet, for my brother Dick, who is six (I am eight), swings kettles around by their handles, as he calls their tails, and I am afraid of dogs. But last summer when I was in the country we went on a picnic, and on the lowest branch of a pine tree, where I could almost touch it, I saw while I was hunting for Indian pipes something black, which papa said was a crow.

He put up his hands and lifted it down. He thought it must have belonged to somebody, for its wings were clipped, and it could not fly. We took it home, and father built a big cage for it, and I named it Obadiah, and I fed it and played with it all summer. I kept the cage in a clump of spruces behind the house, and every morning Obadiah would wake me crying, "Caw, caw." After a little Obadiah was let out of the cage, and then he would follow me all over the house just like a kitten. When I sat down, he would sit at my feet and look up into my face, oh, so solemn. I asked Obadiah everything I wanted to know, for it seemed as if he could tell me if only he had a mind. He perched on the back of my chair at table and said, "Caw, caw," until he had cheese.

In the autumn his wings had grown out, and when we came to the city I let him go.—New York Press.

Town Boy's One Accomplishment.

Last night a boy came here from town to stay a week or so. Because his name is all run down and needs a rest, you know. His name is Cecil, and he's eight. And he can't swim. His mother calls him 'Pet.' I'd hate to have a name like that.

He wears a collar and a tie. And can't hang by his toes. I guess that I would nearly die if I had on his clothes. He can't ride a horseback, and today, when we slid on the straw, he asked if mothers help to lay the eggs I pick for him.

When our old grandfather bessed, he run as though he thought he'd bite, and he ain't even shot a gun. Or had a horse made kite. He never milked a cow, and he can't even dive or swim. I'd hate to think that he was me; I'm glad that I ain't him.

He thinks it's lots of fun to pump and see the water squirt, but won't climb in the barn and jump for fear of gettin' hurt. His clothes are off and fine; his hair's all over curls; he hasn't a hair as big as mine; he ought to play with girls.

A little while ago, when we were football in the shed, he suddenly got mad at me. Because I bumped his head. There's lots of things that he can't do; he thinks that every little bit, and he's afraid of spiders, too. But he can't fight all right. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Blowing the Feather.

A game for young folks is played with a feather. The party is arranged in several groups of seven or eight each, seated in a ring and as close together as possible. For each group is a feather. This is tossed in the air in the center of the ring. It is the business of the little players to keep the feather in the air by blowing every time it comes near. The effort is so ridiculous that the children laugh. When they laugh, they cannot blow, and the feather is apt to settle in the lap of the merriest child. In this case she has to retire from the ring. It is of course her interest to make the other children laugh. As the rings decrease they are consolidated, and so the game continues until only one person is left, who of course is the winner. There are few games so unpretentious and few that can give as much fun to a lively lot of children.

A DESERT CARAVAN.

Its Start Across the Dreary Sand Wastes of Sahara.

There were the last words, instructions, cautions, adieu, and then Abdullah held up his hand. All gave the cry of the camel driver, and the uncouth beasts, twisting and snorting under their loads, struggled to their feet.

Another cry, and they began their voyage. They traversed the square, passed the mosque, turned down a narrow street and in five minutes crossed the line that bounded the oasis and entered upon the desert.

Immediately the dim tender took his place at the left and slightly in advance. The fourth on the right of the dim was the black racer. He carried two water skins and Abdullah's saddle. Then came in ranks fifteen camels. All riding in the center. On the right flank rode the two women, with enormous red and white cotton muslins stretched behind them; then at an interval of six rods came fifteen camels unattended. They simply followed the sound in front. The dim leader and the black racer had lizards about their necks. The other camels had no harness save the aureoles that held their loads.

In a panic, a sandstorm, a fastslide from Hodouk, a mirage and a race for water, if Abdullah and Ali could grasp these hazards the caravan was saved, since the other camels followed the dim leader and the black racer as sheep follow the bellwether.

Abdullah waited at the left, ahead of the dim. At intervals he rode the black racer.

The pace of a caravan is two miles an hour, but Abdullah's, the two cripples included, could make two miles and a quarter. The black racer could make sixty miles a day for five days without drinking, but at the end of such a journey his hump would be no larger than a pinhead, and his temper—

For centuries it has been the custom of Sahara caravans to travel not more than five miles the first day.—"The Desert," by Arthur Cosslett Smith, in Scribner's.

JAPANESE PROVERBS.

Some Really Fine Sayings Worth of Universal Acceptance.

The Japanese do not expect to gather grapes from thorns or haws of thistles, but they phrase our thoughts somewhat differently. They say, "The spawn of frogs will become nothing but frogs."

We have a saying, "Despise not the day of small things." Their "Famous swords are made of iron scrapings" is much more picturesque.

The idea of our "All by the lead on the willing horse" they express by "Those who know the ropes do most of the hauling." While our commonplace "Out of evil good may come" finds with them a fine poetical expression in "The lotus springs from the mud," and in point of poignancy our "Adding insult to injury" is vastly inferior to their "Rubbing salt on a sore."

The Japanese have some really fine sayings worthy of universal acceptance, such as "Time own heart makes the world" or "The poet at home sees the entire universe" or "The throne of the god is on the brow of a righteous man."

Their nice observation of manners is evidenced by sayings such as "Excess of politeness becomes impoliteness," their national suspiciousness in the like of "Don't trust a pigeon to carry grain," and the handy man's abhorrence of a bungler finds expression in numerous quips such as "Learning to swim in a field" or "Scratching the foot with the shoe on."

Words Ending in "ator."

There never has been any general rule of pronunciation as to nouns ending in "ator." In Scotland the mode differed from the English rule in more usually throwing the accent back. Was it not Erskine who in his earlier days, having spoken of a curator, making the word a dactyl, was interrupted by the judge before whom he was pleading with, "Cura-tor," if you please, Mr. Erskine; a Latin word with a long penult?

"Thank you, my lord," was his ready retort, "for your correction. I bow to the authority of so distinguished a 'senator' and 'ora-tor' as your lordship."—London Spectator.

A Mighty Man.

Topham, the prince of English strong men, had knots of muscles where the armpits are in the ordinary man. He could take a bar of iron 1½ inches in diameter and 3 feet long, place the middle of it over the back of his neck and then force the ends forward until they met before his face. On one occasion he called upon a village blacksmith and made of him an everlasting enemy by picking up a number of horseshoes and snapping them in two as easily as if they had been pine sticks.

A Smitten Conscience.

Dr. Fourthly—I believe my sermon on sincerity this morning sunk deep into some hearts and did good.

Parishioner—Yes; as Foley and his wife went home he explained to people on the street car that his wife's hair and teeth were false.

Good Scheme.

"To what do you attribute the curative properties of your springs?" asked a visitor at a health resort.

"Well," answered the proprietor thoughtfully, "I guess the advertising I've done has had something to do with it."

His Badly Chosen Phrase.

History Repeats Itself.

In the land of Goshen, lying between the Nile and the Red Sea and famous in biblical history as the region to which the Israelites were assigned by Pharaoh, the Egyptian government is now engaged in reclaiming an immense area which has long suffered from lack of sufficient moisture and which was, it was supposed, rendered utterly worthless by a canal dug by the engineers constructing the Suez canal for the purpose of supplying fresh water to the large force of workmen, says the Homeowner. The canal was not carefully constructed and the seepage was of unusual proportions. Reaching the alkaline deposits which underlie the entire area, the water brought them to the surface in such quantities as to make the soil absolutely worthless.

The government is now constructing two canals at different altitudes. One will supply fresh water for irrigation, and the other will carry away the alkali drawn of the drains, which will be placed about four feet below the surface and about 150 apart. During the first year it will be necessary to keep the surface saturated and no crop can be grown, but immense quantities of alkali will be washed out and into the Red Sea. The second year a forage crop can be raised, and after that the usual crops of Egypt—corn, wheat and cotton—can be grown in great abundance.

In the course of this work the surveyors discovered the well preserved remains of an irrigation canal, constructed by one of the Pharaohs, a description of which is given by Herodotus. The officers in charge are now working on the problem of restoring portions of the original aqueduct for the present use.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Vetoed Ordinances Fail to Pass Over Mayor's Head. Councilman Aikens Resigns. R. N. Harrison Elected to Fill Vacancy.

The city council met in regular session Monday night with Mayor Shaw presiding and all the seven councilmen present. A number of residents of Wenatchee were present and asked for a city irrigating ditch on that street. Referred to street committee with power to act.

The petition of Tennant & Miles for a renewal of saloon license in Hotel Bartholomew was read and there being no remonstrance was granted.

The petition of property owners for the formation of an improvement district to lay a sewer in the alley between South Third and South Fourth streets was read. P. Y. Hickman addressed the council asking that the petition be granted. On motion this was done.

The report for April of Police Judge Taggard showed the total of $975 collected in fines. Of this sum slot machines contributed $90, gamblers $500, prostitutes $375 and $75 was credited as miscellaneous.

Marshal Mull's report showed the same figures as to fines and that 21 arrests had been made. That officer also reported that he had on hand a bicycle, watch and other jewelry as bail security forfeited by prisoners. This, on motion the council authorized him to sell.

A resolution was read and ordered published declaring the city's intention to lay a sewer on Seventh street from B to Spruce.

Reports of street committee was read and accepted providing for acceptance of cement walk laid on N. Second street by W. F. Powell and a board walk on S. Second street by J. W. Kaufman and order issued to draw warrants for same.

Clerk Doust then read the message of Mayor Shaw vetoing the two ordinances to increase the license fee for theaters and bill posting. A roll call was then ordered on the passage of the theater ordinance over the veto. Fisher, Aikens and Keck voted aye, while Wyman, Liggett, Seltzer and Morin voted no.

Councilman Switzer, who had voted for the ordinance at the previous meeting, changed his vote to no, thus defeating its final passage. The bill posting ordinance met the same fate by the same vote.

The plat of Thomas Lund's addition to the city was laid before the council and accepted. The plat of S. J. Lowe's addition was again laid over.

The following bids were read for building four blocks of sidewalk on the west side of South Second street: G. H. Monahan $46 per foot, A. B. Rock, 51c, J. W. Kaufman 41c. On motion the contract was let to Mr. Kaufman.

Three bids were then read for the grading of S. Sixth street as follows: Ammiller & Lull $1.10 per foot, Dingle & Dimmick $1.05, M. McKivror 84c, Pettijohn and Daniel's 78c. On motion the contract was ordered let to the last named firm.

The usual grist of bills for the month of April was then read and all such as had been recommended by the finance committee were ordered paid.

Owing to the large amount of street and cemetery work to be done the council after consultation on motion of Fisher and recommendation of Aikens voted to employ City Engineer Wands for the next 60 days at a salary of $125 per month.

At this point Councilman Aikens tendered his resignation on account of his intention to remove from the city. In reviewing the public service of Mr. Aikens Mayor Shaw paid a handsome compliment to the councilman from the first ward as did also several of the councilmen. Mr. Aikens replied in a feeling manner and expressed his regret at leaving. He said that he hoped that his successor would be elected at once as there was a good deal of important work to be done by the street committee.

On motion of Keck R. N. Harrison was elected as a councilman from the first ward to succeed Mr. Aikens. No further business appearing the council then adjourned.
