Dear Mr. Relander:

Mrs. Hornibrook has turned your letter of September 30 over to me.

The story of "Dot" which Mrs. Chloe Wallings presented at the annual meeting of the Society at Bickleton on Saturday, October 15th, will be printed in The Goldendale Sentinel on October 19, 1960.

I will get a copy of the paper and mail it to you.

Thank you so much for your inquiry.

Sincerely yours,

Ellen Welsh

STRANGERS ON THE LAND

This is in reply to your letter of February 5, 1963 to Mr. Pete May, Editor and Owner of the Goldendale Sentinel, indicating the availability of your new book.

The Klickitat County Historical Society will be opening its new headquarters this summer in the recently acquired Presby Mansion. We hope to sell a number of small items that are closely allied to the historical program. We feel books such as "Strangers on the Land" would be most appropriate.

Mr. May has indicated that the Goldendale Sentinel would like some of the books for sale in the book store. Our needs combined would probably be 25 to start with. Could you quote prices on this and also prices on your other available publications of this type. We would want others in quantities of 4 or 5 at a time. Would you send us two each of what you have available for our consideration?

Can you tell us who now owns the rights to the booklet "Tragedy of the Wakh-Shum, Prelude to the Yakima Indian War 1855-56", by Lucullus Virgil McWhorter of Yakima, published in 1937. Is this booklet still available?

Also do you know the whereabouts of any maps that show chronological formation of Klickitat County? Your reply will be most appreciated.
