OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE combined inaugural address and biennial message of Governor Rogers is a most able and statesmanlike paper which deserves a careful perusal at the hands of every citizen of the state. The address is clear cut in style and language and exhaustive in scope, calculated to convey to the reader a clear and most comprehensive insight into the affairs of the state. After returning thanks to the people for their expression of confidence that made his second inauguration possible, the governor proceeded to illustrate in how much better condition the state government is now than was the case four years ago, particularly in regard to its finances. At that time the total indebtedness of the state had reached the appalling figures of $2,176,347.64. This in spite of the fact that our state constitution in the most explicit terms forbids a state indebtedness to exceed the sum of $400,000. The governor then proceeds to show from the auditor's report that during the past four years a splendid showing has been made in the reduction of the principal of this enormous debt, which now amounts to but $1,392,659.66. In addition to making this large reduction in the principal over $400,000 has been paid out in interest on warrants drawing eight per cent. interest, a legacy of debt from the McGraw administration. The governor in commenting on the extravagance and lack of ability displayed by the previous administration tersely remarks that the business man possessed of assets equal in value to those of the state, who should conduct his affairs in such a manner, would certainly be benefited by the appointment of a guardian. Regarding the conduct of state institutions the executive makes some wise suggestions which it is to be hoped the legislature will incorporate into law. In the first place he recommends that the state board of audit and control be reduced from a membership of six to three to be appointed by the governor and allowed a salary of $2000 each per annum. Pertaining to insane hospitals, the overcrowded condition of the two present institutions is pointed out and the recommendation made that instead of adding expensive annexes a third asylum should be authorized, to be located in the Yakima valley, having a farm in connection, where the physically able and least harmless class of patients could be sent and usefully employed in such agricultural labor as they are fitted to perform—a condition which by the way would add much to their well being and enjoyment. On the necessity of railway legislation, the governor is again most explicit and regrets the failure of previous legislatures to deal with this vital question. In discussing the matter he exhibits no undue hostility to the interests of the railroads of the state, but insists that it is the duty of the present legislature to provide for the establishment of a railway commission to be appointed by the executive and removable at his pleasure. This commission, he states, should have full power to fix rates and should be paid a salary commensurate with the duties expected of it. Regarding the troublesome capitol question he renews his recommendation for the purchase of the Thurston county court house which he states can be bought for $150,000, which with the addition of a wing to cost $100,000 as a legislative hall, would excellently answer the purpose and settle the vexed question. The governor considerably refrains from lending any encouragement to the ambitious designs of other communities to remove the capitol from Olympia and for this he deserves the thanks of the people of that city. He does not fail, however, to again effectually punch holes in the ridiculous assumption that a two million dollar capitol can be built on pure wind. Taken as a whole, the message is a very able and satisfactory one. It has not altogether pleased some of the rabid and partisan opponents of the governor, but it will be endorsed almost in every particular by the great mass of tax-paying citizens in the state of Washington.

THE death of England's venerable queen marks the end of the longest and most illustrious reign in English history. Not alone her own people but those of every civilized nation mourn for her, not merely that she was a queen but because she was an enlightened, humane and sensible sovereign and ever aimed to act from a standpoint of right and justice. In her domestic relations the queen was to her people the highest example of a wise and affectionate mother. Next to the British themselves Americans perhaps revered her most in return for her kindly feeling toward them. It is said to be due to her and her lamented husband that war between the two countries was averted during our civil strife, when belligerent English statesmen were looking for a pretext that would justify an assault upon the beleaguered republic. A frown from their gracious sovereign, however, dissipated the danger and averted what might have been a life and death struggle. All honor to Victoria, Britain's most illustrious monarch. She is dead, but her good works will live after her and generations yet unborn will call her blessed.

POOR old man Cosgrove has reason enough to weep at the duplicity and treachery that has been practiced upon him by his party associates. Last summer at Tacoma the Wilsonites sidetracked his boom for governor by placing him on the electoral ticket, promising him the job if elected, of carrying the returns back to Washington and earning the $800 of mileage. But on going to Olympia the other day the old man discovered that he had been sold out again, as his three colleagues had conspired to send one of their number, Sweeney of Spokane, back as the messenger and had agreed to divide the mileage amount amongst them—which they did.

THE proposition to form a new state out of some five counties which form the eastern border of Washington, together with what is known as the "panhandle" of Idaho, ought to receive scant consideration. There is no apparent necessity for such a step outside of the ambition of petty politicians to get and hold office. It is the sure destiny of Washington if not thus dismembered, to become one of the most influential states west of the Mississippi. If the people of the "panhandle" are dissatisfied with their present status let them take the necessary steps to have their territory annexed to Washington and thus have a part in the future of this great commonwealth.

"YOUR Uncle" Nelson Rich knows enough at any rate about parliamentary procedure to have himself appointed chairman of the house committee on counties and county boundaries. He will thus be enabled to render a favorable report on his own bill to divide this county. The greatest misfortune that will attend the passage of this measure is the fact that we will lose from among us such a "smooth Ephraim" as your Uncle Nelson. Has he not demonstrated the fact that he can give his republican friends hereabouts cards and spades and then beat them?

MR. BRYAN'S new paper, "The Commoner," the first issue of which appears this week, will, it is asserted, start off with a circulation of over half a million subscribers. The great Nebraskan will doubtless wield a tremendous influence through his journal and will aid materially in moulding public opinion on current issues. To say that a man of Bryan's power is politically dead is to trifle seriously with the truth. Our republican friends will find out that he is very much alive during the next four years.

THE republican party of Pennsylvania has sent back to the senate that self-confessed briber and looter of public funds, Matthew S. Quay. After such an exhibition of total depravity in their own party the hypocritical, self righteous critics of the republican press ought to have the decency to quit throwing mud at Senator Clark of Montana.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Mrs. A. J. Willis and little daughter are visiting relatives in Fairhaven.

J. T. Foster was confined to his home a portion of this week with lagrippe.

Mrs. J. H. Frazier is enjoying a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, of The Dalles.

Dean Stair returned Saturday to Umatilla, Ore., after a week's visit with his mother here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooker expect to leave in a few days for a six weeks visit in California and thence to Mr. Brookers's former home in Colorado.

The W. C. T. U. will meet in the Sunday school room of the Christian church Tuesday afternoon January 29th, at 2:30 instead of the Guiland house. Everybody invited.

The local lodge I. O. O. F. on Tuesday night conferred the apprentice degree on the following new members; F. T. Liggett, H. J. Rand, C. W. Liece, J. G. Hillger and W. Graves.

N. S. Beckner, of Mabton, was a county seat visitor on Thursday. Regarding county division, Mr. Beckner stated that the sentiment in his neighborhood was against such a move at this time.

Miss Hellar, a teacher in the city schools, was obliged to relinquish her school on Tuesday on account of illness. Her place was filled in turn by some of the advanced scholars of the high school.

Owen Purdin has purchased his brother Lloyd's place in the Selah and moved in this week. Lloyd has moved his family to town, occupying the new residence that he built recently in the north end.

Paddy Ryan was up before Justice Taggard on Wednesday charged with stealing another man's clothes out of a Front street saloon. Paddy got a fine of $25, in default of which he went to the county jail.

Messrs. Vessey and McRae who went to the Sound country last week to look for a suitable tract of land to transfer their sheep to, came back pretty well disgusted with the outlook for their business west of the mountains.

Miles Cannon has been over to Ritzville recently where he established a new lumber yard for the St. Paul & Tacoma people. This makes five yards which the overworked Mr. Cannon has charge of in Central Washington.

Pat Jordan has rented the Hotel Yakima barber shop and will run it hereafter in addition to his old shop. Mr. Jackson, the colored barber, who has long occupied the hotel shop, is fixing up new quarters in the Murchie building.

The sheriff's office received word on Thursday that Agor's black team stolen Tuesday night had been found at W. H. Card's place at the north end of Snipe's Mountain where they had been abandoned the night before by the thieves. No further trace of the robberies was to be had.

Dave Barker, formerly of this place and Yakima City, but who has for several years resided in Rossland, B. C., is here this week. It is understood that his mother, Mrs. May, who has been running a hotel in Rossland, has some notion of returning here to make her home.

Sunnyside people in town this week generally report that the sentiment in their neighborhood is pretty unanimous against the proposal to divide the county. That is also the view taken by Editor Robertson who visited that thriving burg last week to get the drift of public opinion on the division issue.

Jack Campbell, who came down on Tuesday from the Gold Hill country, says that the winter up there so far have been very moderate with only about six feet of snow at the highest altitude. The weather in fact has been so favorable that the miners who staid in have been enabled to do a good deal of work on their claims.

The feeling is becoming well nigh unanimous among the business men and citizens generally of this city that the town ought to be cleansed at once of the vicious class that infests it. Hold-ups, robberies and petty pilfering are getting altogether too common, they say and must stop. There are a good many toughs in town besides another large element without any visible means of support that the people think ought to promptly receive a tip from the new marshal to make themselves scarce hereabouts.

David H. Guiland, formerly of this city, but for the past five years a resident of Orofino, Idaho, arrived here Friday evening of last week bringing home his wife and two children for a two months' visit with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson. Mr. Guiland returned to Boise City on Tuesday to resume his position as Sergeant-at-arms of the Idaho house of representatives. "Dave" as he is familiarly known here, has been following his profession of civil engineer since leaving Yakima and has prospered in his new home, which will be welcome news to his many friends here.

Attorney H. J. Snively returned on Sunday from the Sound where he had been for about ten days. He attended the inauguration ceremonies at Olympia and the opening sessions of the legislature. Regarding the proposal to divide this county. Mr. Snively says there is no assurance as yet that the bill will pass, although he is of the opinion that both the King and Pierce county delegations will favor it. Mr. Snively stated very positively that he himself is not in sympathy with Mr. Rich's scheme and that he had not been retained in a professional capacity to help put the bill through.

Commercial Club Election.

The Yakima Commercial Club will hold its annual election next Tuesday evening between the hours of 6:30 and 9 o'clock. Two committees of three members each were appointed by the governing board two weeks ago to make nominations for the different offices. The following are the tickets reported:

Ticket No. 1.—President, George Donald; 1st vice, W. L. Steinweg; 2nd vice, G. A. Graham. For members of the governing board, W. A. Bell, W. T. Clark, Ed Whitson, J. D. Medill, E. B. Moore, Alex Miller, A. E. Larson, L. O. Janeck, H. H. Lombard; treasurer, Frank Bartholet.

Ticket No. 2.—President, Arthur Coffin; 1st vice, I. H. Dills; 2nd vice, J. E. Banks. For governing board, W. B. Dudley, A. Schndeler, I. P. Englehart, J. T. Foster, D. M. Shanks, J. B. Burns, O. A. Fechter, F. H. Rudkin, Phil Ditter. Treasurer, A. B. Cline.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. S. S. Hawkins is reported to be seriously ill.

H. L. Stowell, of Ellensburg, was in town on Wednesday.

D. M. Shanks, the creameryman, is a Tacoma visitor this week.

E. W. Dooley spent the present week on a visit to the Sound cities.

M. A. Mason, of Thorpe, was a business visitor here on Wednesday.

A. J. Shaw has been a sufferer from the prevailing malady lagripp, this week.

Perry Cleman and wife, of Ellensburg, were guests of the Bartholet over Sunday.

"Chet" Carpenter who has been absent from this city for the past seven years, has returned home.

The ladies of Prosser are getting up a minstrel performance which they expect to give about February 1st.

Warren Walters has brought suit against his wife, Ida N. Walters, for divorce on the ground of desertion.

Deputy Marshal Dilley took two self-confessed "boot-leggers" over to Tacoma on Monday to appear before Judge Hanford for sentence.

George Weddle of the Cowychee, who was in town on Tuesday, reported that his mother Mrs. F. M. Weddle was very low, suffering from a complication of gripp and pneumonia.

The members of the Presbyterian church have extended a call to Rev. Hayden who has occupied the pulpit for the past few weeks. The call it is understood will be accepted.

Sam Jackson, a brother of Frank Jackson, returned last Saturday from Weiser, Idaho. He has been engaged in prospecting and mining for several years. He will probably remain here until spring.

I. H. Dills, G. S. Rankin and other parties have purchased the store of W. H. Cline of Sunnyside. They expect to take possession on February 1st, and to promptly make large additions to the stock carried.

S. J. Harrison, of Sunnyside, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church in this city at both morning and evening services in the absence of Rev. Wood who was in Spokane. The congregation generally were much pleased with Mr. Harrison's sermon.

The Commercial club entertainment on Wednesday night was given under the auspices of the young ladies and is said to have been a most delightful affair. The first part of the evening was devoted to amateur theatricals and the latter part to dancing.

The following new suits have been filed with Clerk Allen of the superior court. F. Groshen vs. Chas. Heinbach, injunction to restrain defendant from disposing of personal property. Mark & Jorgenson vs. Alice Gibson, abstract of judgment from Chehalis county.

D. E. Lesh, who returned from the east Thursday, is understood to have sold the remainder of the Moxee company's hop crop at 15 cents to Milwaukee brewers. Mr. Lesh visited New York and Washington City and speaks of having met several ex-residents of Yakima in his travels.

Mayor O. A. Fechter was appointed on Thursday as the temporary successor of Postmaster L. E. Sperry, who died in Spokane Wednesday night. This action was taken by the department at the request of Mr. Sperry's official bondsmen. Mr. Fechter will act until Mr. Sperry's successor has been selected.

A. L. Flint went to Spokane on Tuesday to attend the Northwest convention of undertakers which met for organization this week in the falls city. Mr. Flint was given the distinction of being made chairman of the committee appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws for the new association.

Prof. Barge and County Attorney Guthrie returned from Olympia Wednesday morning. Both gentlemen seem to think that the county division scheme is pretty well scotched, although neither would venture to state that Representative Rich would do otherwise than vote for the bill. Senator Baker they say will oppose it.

The local Caledonian Society will not celebrate this year the anniversary of "Bobby" Burns. This is partly due to the failure to get the arrangements started in time and partly to the fatal illness and death of Queen Victoria. Some of the members say, however, that they will make up next year for any dereliction this season.

Sixth street, according to the plans prepared by the city engineer, when the contemplated improvements on it are made will be one of the finest residence thoroughfares in town. The street will be graded in such a manner as to leave a driveway 32 feet wide in the center. The balance of the street on both sides will be parked on a modern and most unique plan. The enterprising property owners along that street are anxious to have the work done and are willing to pay for it. The plan was approved and the work authorized at the last meeting of the council.

Yakima delegates to the great western live stock convention held recently at Salt Lake City returned home on Monday night. S. J. Cameron says that the meeting was a great success and productive of much good to the stock interests of the west. Over 1500 delegates were present which with the large influx of other visitors filled the city of the "latter day saints" to overflowing, so much so in fact that it was difficult to secure accommodations. The Wyoming legislature attended throughout one day in a body. The next session of the convention will be held in Chicago in the month of December.

Miss Mamie Hinman, a graduate nurse of the St. Peter, Minn., hospital is now making her home in this city and will answer calls for professional services. Residence First street next door to G. A. Graham's. 19-2t.

BOLD AND DARING ROBBERY

Shardlow's Saloon Held Up by Professional Bandits and Nearly $900 Taken.

The record for robbery in North Yakima was completely outdone on Tuesday night or rather early Wednesday morning. Shortly after the hour of 1 o'clock when the occupants of the club room in the rear of F. B. Shardlow's saloon were getting ready to close up the games and depart the side door suddenly swung open and three rakish looking young men stepped in.

The night barkeeper, Henry Hemphre, who sat by the stove in a dozing attitude, was immediately warned by one of the new comers to throw up his hands. The bartender thinking it was a joke did not at once respond, then he received the second summons in an emphatic tone accompanied by an oath which caused him promptly to put his hands up.

While this was going on Charley Mabry and George Pyburn, who were in charge of the club room, were quickly covered by the revolvers of the other two robbers. The three men were then ordered by the bandits to back up and stand in a row in the rear of the club room, two of the robbers covering them with their guns while the third highwayman produced a sack and began to busy himself with scooping up the money on the tables.

While thus engaged the "tall man" of the three who stood with his soft felt hat pulled down over his eyes guarding the prisoners, began to jolly the captive men by remarking that "this is the only way a man can get even with you fellows" and "I've been up against the games before and always got the worst of it."

The young fellow whose duty it was to gather in the "shekels" gave his captors the impression of being rather new at his business, as he seemed to be somewhat "rattled" and in his search for treasure overlooked between $200 and $300, which was stored away in drawers. In fact the tall man felt it necessary to caution his confederate, telling him to hurry up and not to waste time in scooping up small change. The looter went behind the bar and rifled the cash box overlooking a $5 gold piece. He then proceeded to the safe, the door of which stood open, and took out what money there was in it, excepting a sack of nickels which he evidently did not want.

Only three or four minutes were consumed in the whole transaction. The man with the sack after finishing his labors walked out by the side door quickly followed by the other two, who covered his retreat and then backed out themselves, the tall man apologizing as he went and thanking his victims for the courtesies extended.

After momentarily recovering from the surprise, the inmates of the house rushed out to see if they could detect the fleeing robbers or note which way they went, but the night was so dark and foggy that no trace of them could be seen. It is the general impression that the bandits made their escape by way of the alley in the rear of the building. Night officer Mulligan says that he was in the vicinity of Coffin Bros. warehouse when the affair happened, but had no reason to think that anything was wrong. His first knowledge of the robbery was gained on crossing the track to Shardlow's corner where a crowd was by this time gathered discussing the affair.

Searching parties were then organized to hunt for the robbers. Several men were sent to make a systematic hunt through the railroad yards, while others went in different directions, two men securing a rig started down the road for Yakima City, believing that the robbers might have went that way.

No clue to the bandits was obtained, however, although the two men who traveled to "old town" through the fog and mud reported having discovered the fresh tracks of a team through the half frozen mud and of having heard the rattle of a buggy crossing the railroad track ahead of them below Yakima City.

What might prove a sequel to the holdup was discovered early next morning when it was found that Pete Agor's beautiful black team, harness and buggy had been stolen during the night. Agor, who resides on North Third street in the vicinity of the hospital, had closed up his barn the evening before believing that everything was all right, but was horrified the next morning on discovering that his property was gone. Investigation revealed the fact that the thieves had gained an entrance through the door opening on the street. In order that they might not be interrupted by making a noise, the robbers had taken the pains to scatter straw and manure plentifully over the barn floor and the plank approach from the street, which had the effect of so deadening the sound that the movements of the horses and the running out of the buggy failed to awaken anybody.

Mr. Agor lost no time in notifying the sheriff's office and a systematic search was begun, after notice was telegraphed to all surrounding points.

Many people thought at first that there was plainly a connection between the Shardlow hold-up and the horse stealing affair, but that theory is now almost abandoned, as it is not considered likely that such smooth men as the Shardlow robbers proved themselves to be, would have used such desperate means to get out of the country, especially at such a time when the bad roads mean very slow traveling.

It is quite generally believed now that the Shardlow robbers were not in such a hurry to get out of town.

The fact that the brigands never took the trouble to mask their faces and the coolness and nerve displayed by them makes the Shardlow robbery without question the boldest and most successful piece of work accomplished in the history of this city.

Old People Made Young.

J. C. Sherman, the veteran editor of the Vermontville (Mich.) Echo, has discovered the remarkable secret of keeping old people young. For years he has avoided Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, Heart Trouble, Constipation and Rheumatism by using Electric Bitters, and he writes: "It can't be praised too highly. It gently stimulates the kidneys, tones the stomach, aids digestion, and gives a splendid appetite. It has worked wonders for my wife and me. It's a marvelous remedy for old people's complaints." ### The Way of It.

This is the way of it, wide world over,
One is beloved, and one is the lover,
One gives and the other receives.
One lavishes all in wild emotion,
One offers a smile for a life's devotion,
One hopes and the other believes.
One lies awake in the night to weep,
And the other drifts off in a sweet,
sound sleep.

One soul is aflame with a Godlike passion,
One plays with love in an idler's fashion,
One speaks and the other hears.
One sobs, "I love you," and wet eyes
show it,
And one laughs lightly and says, "I know it,"
With smiles for the other's tears.
One lives for the other and nothing beside,
And the other remembers the world is wide.

This is the way of it, sad earth over,
The heart that breaks is the heart of the lover.
And the other learns to forget.
"For what is the use of endless sorrow?
Though the sun goes down, it will rise
tomorrow;
And life is not over yet."
Oh! I know this truth, if I know no other,
That passionate love is Pain's own mother. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Storage Reservoirs.

The agitation in favor of building storage reservoirs for irrigation purposes is already bearing fruit. A bill has been introduced in the house of representatives by Mr. Shafroth, providing for accurate survey of at least four reservoir sites in each of the 13 arid states. This work is to be under the direction of the geological survey. The director is required to report to the secretary of the interior, estimating the cost of each reservoir and necessary irrigation ditches, quantity of land that can be irrigated, etc. After this report is received the secretary in his discretion may withdraw from entry government land within the reservoir sites and a strip 50 feet wide surrounding each site. If the secretary decides it practicable to construct a reservoir, he shall contract for this work, limiting the expenditure in each state to $1,000,000. The following states are included: California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota. When the irrigation project is completed the government land shall be subject to entry upon proper notice from the secretary of the interior, but in addition the man who makes the entry must pay $2.50 per acre, and he can only secure 80 acres. This act is not to interfere with the irrigation laws already in force in the different states. The proposed law is supported by friends of irrigation who think it will be a splendid thing for the west. "Certainly," thinks a writer in Orange Judd Farmer, "with many millions devoted to internal improvements in other parts of the country, it is no more than fair that the government should assist in developing the wonderful resources of the semi-arid states, where only water is needed to make them wonderfully fruitful."—Pacific Homestead.

Exit "Bill" Chandler.

The defeat of William E. Chandler for renomination as senator from New Hampshire will take from the senate one of its most pungent personalities and close a picturesque political career covering nearly forty years.

As "Bill Chandler" of New Hampshire, he first acquired large national fame in the seventies as a Blaine stalwart and shaker of "the bloody shirt." Following the disputed presidential election of 1876 it was he who first "claimed" Florida and Louisiana for Hayes. And as to Florida, he went down there and made his claim good by putting through the deal by which the state returning board counted Mr. Tilden out of its four electoral votes. Later he turned his always acrid tongue loose in bitter denunciation of President Hayes because of the latter's refusal longer to uphold republican carpet-bag governments in the south by federal bayonets.

A strong Blaine and anti-Grant man in the famous Chicago convention of 1880, yet when by Mr. Garfield's death Arthur became president, Mr. Chandler went into the Arthur cabinet as secretary of the navy, in which office he showed considerable ability and foresight in directing the first beginnings of the new navy. His is essentially an executive mind, and his chief successes have been as a political manager. He is neither a statesman nor an orator, though in running debate he has a certain skill in smart and tart rejoinder that makes him quite generally feared and disliked by his opponents.

It was once happily said of Mr. Chandler that his tongue had made him so many enemies and lost him so many friends that he was bound eventually to come to grief. And "eventually" has arrived.—N. Y. World.

Election of U. S. Senators.

Several new United States senators were elected last week. New Hampshire elected Henry T. Burnham, thus retiring the belicose Chandler. Colorado has elected Thomas M. Patterson to succeed Edward O. Wolcott. In Idaho Senator Shoup will give way to Fred Dubois, his former colleague. Massachusetts elected Geo. F. Hoar another term. Matt Quay has won his fight for re-election in Pennsylvania, and Senator James McMillan has been re-elected in Michigan. The contest in Nebraska promises to be long drawn out, with a possibility of a deadlock. And the same is true in Oregon.—Mt. Vernon Argus.

Tacoma has started the capitol removal question rolling by an offer of the city council to donate Wright park for a location, forcibly reminding one of the proposition of Satan on the mount to "donate" the world if the Savior would fall down and worship him. The park was a gift to the city for a specific use, and to divert that purpose would result in a forfeiture to the donor's estate. It serves Tacoma's purpose for a bluff, however, in a desperate game to recoup her waning fortunes.—Olympia Standard.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18, 1901.

Senator Allen, just before the filibuster against the army re-organization bill was abandoned, made a red hot speech against the McKinley policy in the Philippines, which made a large army necessary—in his own words: "I am opposed to this bill, because its avowed purpose is to provide soldiers to be sent to the Philippines." He paid his compliments to Senator Hawley, who had denounced the petition signed by 2000 Filipinos, presented to the senate by Senator Teller, as treasonable, by saying: "The flippancy with which the terms traitor and treason are being used these days is getting to be a stench to the nostrils of some of us." Incidentally he gave the West Pointers in the army a few side swipes and expressed the opinion that the officers who had never been to West Point were among the best in the army. Referring to the investigation now being made in West Point by a committee of the house, Mr. Allen said: "Look at this investigation going on now. This thing called hazing. Why, the prize fighter is a gentleman, the bull-baiter is a gentleman, when compared with the cadets at West Point. This hazing takes place within the knowledge of the officers of that institution."

It is understood that the republican steering committee has given Senator Hanna one week within which to pass the ship subsidy bill. If not passed in that time it is to be permanently sidetracked.

Representative Kitchen of N. C., has no fear that a cadet appointed by him to West Point would suffer anything by hazing or fighting. He said on the subject: "I've been hoping to hear that my cadet had been 'called out.' I reckon he's able to take care of himself, and I reckon also they will give him a wide berth. He's a graduate of one of our North Carolina colleges, played center rush on the football team, and was captain of the baseball team. Oh, he's a peach! He stands over six feet high, weighs 180 pounds, and comes of good fighting stock."

The nomination of the son of Justice Harlan, of the supreme court, to be attorney general of Porto Rico has not been confirmed yet by the senate. At a secret session this week special efforts were made to get Senator Pettigrew to withdraw his objection to action, but he refused, declaring that he had no doubt of young Mr. Harlan's personal fitness for the position and no personal objection to him; that his opposition was based on higher grounds—the unfitness of the nomination of a son of a justice of the supreme court at this time to such a position. Mr. Pettigrew then said a few words concerning the recent nomination of a son of Justice McKenna to be major in the army, jumping him over the heads of 118 lieutenants and captains; also of the removal of a son of ex-President Harrison, because his father had dared to raise his voice in opposition to the McKinley policy. Mr. Pettigrew said: "I make no charge against the supreme court, but I do say that the appointment of the sons of two of the members of that court to important positions under the administration at this juncture of affairs in the supreme court is, to say the least, indecent."

Senator Daniel, who objected when Senator Morgan asked the unanimous consent of the senate to vote on the Nicaragua canal bill February 11, says he objected because he thought the question had not been sufficiently considered in its latest phases, and from the present crowded condition of senate legislation he was afraid that enough time would not be allowed for debate upon the canal bill if an hour was fixed for a vote. Later Senator Morgan offered a resolution declaring that neither the Clayton-Bulwer treaty nor the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, as amended by the senate, stand in the way of legislation providing for the construction of the Nicaragua canal.

Tom Reed this week came out from under cover and appeared before the senate committee on finance, which is considering the bill reducing war taxes that was passed by the house, as attorney for the "poor down-trodden" sellers of corporation stock, who are crying for the taking off of the tax of two cents upon each $100 of the face value of stocks sold. Mr. Reed's principal argument was that the tax was in many cases more than the selling value of stock. It struck many as a poor argument, inasmuch as stocks which are sold at less than two cents for each $100 of their face value would seem to belong properly to what are known as "wild cats," and should not be sold at all.

The threat of the ship subsidy press bureau to have the river and harbor bill held up in the senate until democratic senators who are interested in appropriations carried by that bill allowed the ship subsidy bill to be voted upon did not make a dent in the opposition of democratic senators to the ship subsidy bill. Democratic senators from states along the Mississippi river, who were the ones aimed at by the threat, say they can stand the failure of the river and harbor bill as well as republican senators can, and that no action toward that measure by the republicans will change their opposition to the ship subsidy bill.

Secretary Root has again declined to furnish information asked for by a congressional resolution. This time it is the action of Gen. Chaffee in regard to looting by foreign troops in China, information about which a resolution by representative De Armond of Missouri asked, that was refused on the ground that it was inexpedient to make it public at this time. Mr. De Armond stated on the floor of the house that he was satisfied with the reason given for not making public the information.

The Farmer Works Hard

For a living. He has to. He must "make hay while the sun shines," no matter how he feels. He may feel hardly able to crawl around but he can't neglect the stock. He must work in all weathers, swelter under the July sun, shiver in the January snow, or be soaked to the skin in heavy rain storms. But it's work, work, work, regardless of wind and weather for the farmer: work seven days in a week and three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. The result of this incessant strain is often "stomach trouble." The farmer eats hastily and heartily, often when the stomach is in no condition to receive food, without a period of rest. He rushes back into the field and sweats and slaves while the stomach strives in vain to digest the food which has been put into it. Then indigestion appears. The stomach feels unduly full and distended after a meal. Fermentation occurs and there are sour or bitter risings with constant belching. As the entire digestive and nutritive systems become involved symptoms multiply and suffering increases.

For such a condition there is no medicine so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It re-establishes the health by a complete cure of the diseased organs. It cleanses the stomach and strengthens all the organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, invigorates the liver and nourishes the nerves.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" nor does it contain opium, cocaine or other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliette, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side, and thought it would kill me. I am glad to write and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels in a healthy condition. They work with "Golden Medical Discovery" and should be used with that medicine when a laxative is required.

STATE PRESS OPINION

The Washington legislature will meet next Monday. Then Br'er Doane will once more smile like an oyster.—Walla Walla Union.

If the Boers keep on winning victories, Oom Paul may find that some of the crowned heads of Europe have returned home and are now able to see him.—Cheney Free Press.

The Seattle "spirit" has touched our old friend, Andy Carnegie, for a $200,000 library building. "If you don't see what you want, ask for it," is Seattle's motto.—Mt. Vernon Argus.

At the opening of the new century we would advise Mr. Cleveland to stick to his angleworms and salmon eggs. His remarks on "reorganization" have an unpleasant, rasping sound to the public ear.—Vancouver Register.

Seattle claims that she has issued more building permits the last year than San Francisco, Portland, Spokane and Tacoma combined, and in the amount of money invested in buildings, far exceeded San Francisco her nearest rival, and the combined totals of Portland, Spokane and Tacoma.—Olympia Standard.

Several members of Oregon's Pan-American exposition commission are now in Buffalo selecting space for the Oregon exhibit. When is Washington to take any action relative to an exhibit? The legislature should take the matter up promptly at the opening of the session.—Tacoma News.

The kind of democracy which Grover Cleveland, Dave Hill, Dan Lamont, W. C. Whitney and Bill Sheehan—the excommunicated tammanyite—will organize during the first year of the twentieth century will have an odor about it like ancient cheese,—and that very odor will keep nine-tenths of modern democrats out of the organization.—Seattle Times.

In the opinion of Grover Cleveland the democratic party needs rehabilitation and a return to first principles. Grover may be right, but it doesn't seem so. It was a return to first principles that left Grover out of the fold. He has few claims on the party now, and small right to be recognized as a democrat.—Everett News.

They are debating the question at Wellesley, a college for young women, where a course of domestic science is to be established, whether a knowledge of how to cook should count toward the degree of B. A. The knowledge of how to cook may not make a girl a bachelor of arts, but the lack of it has helped to keep many of them bachelor girls.—Tacoma News.

The city of Portland, under republican boss rule and the single gold standard, will show a deficit of $88,000 this year. Wouldn't that jar you? In brief, the expenses of the city government will be about $1700 per week more than the income. Here the Oregonian might find suitable thought for a column or two on the "woes of populism."—Vancouver Register.

If Edward Markham had quit writing "poetry" after striking his main lead in "The Man With the Hoe," it would have been far better for his reputation. Success, observation teaches, is quite as often the result of luck as of merit, and when a man attains a reasonable award of credit for any achievement, it is well to consider whether it might not be, under the circumstances, the proper time to quit.—Olympia Standard.

Perhaps no weekly paper ever was started with the number of subscribers that W. J. Bryan's new paper, the "Commoner," will commence with. A good many are surprised that Mr. Bryan should originate a weekly paper of his own, when he was offered $25,000 a year to edit New York papers. And yet, when one studies the personality of the man, there is nothing surprising about it. A weekly paper is decidedly the best medium for conveying the most carefully prepared thoughts of the writer, and with a paper of his own, Mr. Bryan will not "have any strings on him."—Aberdeen Herald.

Sire and Son Wed Sisters.

John Vorhees and his son John, Jr., married the two daughters of John Bird, of Mammoth Junction, N. J., on Thursday.

Friends have thus far succeeded in figuring out the following relationships which the marriages brought about, and the complete returns are not yet in: Mrs. Vorhees, Jr., being the sister of her husband's father's wife is her own husband's aunt. She is also a sister-in-law of her father-in-law as well as her father-in-law's daughter-in-law and therefore her own sister's daughter-in-law. Mrs. Vorhees, Sr., is her sister's mother-in-law.

Father and son are now brothers-in-law. The son is also brother-in-law of his stepmother.—Ex.

Topics of the Day.

South Carolina is making progress in the line of educating its rising generation. On the public school enrollment in the state, there are 126,304 white pupils and 155,602 colored.

The city of Detroit, Mich., tried standard time for just one week. Then the common council voted to abandon it and return to local time, regardless of railroad time tables.

The chance of two finger prints being alike is not one in 64,000,000. No one is prepared to dispute the assertion, and none want to go into a calculation which will prove its correctness.

Attempts will soon be made by California vegetable growers to put fresh asparagus in London and in other places in Great Britain. It is expected that the California product will compete with French asparagus, which is sent to England in large quantities.

A Joke by DeWet.

The British are proverbial for their inability to see the point to a good American joke, but the same cannot probably be said of the phlegmatic Boers. In a newspaper story now going the rounds, General Dewet is accused of making game of General Rundle, the British commander who has been most active in chasing him. DeWet managed to capture three British scouts at a time when he could not afford to be feeding or carrying around any extra luggage in the shape of prisoners of war. The Boer commander agreed to restore these men their liberty provided they would pledge their word of honor to give into General Rundle's own hands an important dispatch which General DeWet wished to send him.

The prisoners agreed to do this service and were given a large sealed official looking envelope with which they hastened back into the British camp. It was opened in their presence while they stood at attention, and the contents read aloud by the recipient, as follows:

"To General Rundle:

"Dear Sir: Please chain up these three devils, as I can catch them every day."

Yours, De Wet."

The officer who wrote the story home to Glasgow says that the commander nearly had a fit of apoplexy, and considers that it was a very "dry" bit of humor on the part of DeWet.

The claim has been made that the Boers are deficient in humor, but a man who can perpetrate a practical joke like this will certainly bear watching a little longer. He may "make good" yet.—Tacoma News.

The Governor's Message.

Governor John R. Rogers has delivered his second inaugural message to the legislature. It shows the careful study of a mind well calculated to present the important questions so necessary to the welfare of the people of this commonwealth. The message is overflowing with good sound sense and proves conclusively that the people made no mistake in again choosing such a man as now graces the gubernatorial chair. The state's affairs are carefully shown by the governor and the statement showing the saving of the public funds for three and one-half years under the governor's administration is worthy of the consideration and praise of every taxpayer in the state.

The message shows that the present outstanding indebtedness has been reduced from $2,176,347.64 in 1897, to $1,392,359.66 on January 1, 1901, a reduction of $783,987.98. The various institutions also show a marked decrease in the cost of maintenance and an enormous saving over Governor McGraw's administration. The Western Washington hospital for the insane has made a daily saving of 11 cents per capita, or $84,136.80 in three and one-half years, 1277.5 days. The Eastern Washington hospital for the insane, daily saving, per capita, 9 cents, or $73,312.97 for the same period. The state penitentiary, daily saving per capita, 9 cents, or $40,612.75. The state reform school, daily saving per capita, 10 cents, or $18,442.65. Washington soldiers' home, daily saving per capita, 9 cents, or $15,867.04. Total saving, $232,364.18 for 1277.5 days under Governor Rogers' administration. There are several recommendations in the governor's message well worthy of the consideration of the lawmakers now assembled at Olympia.

The message is an excellent state document.—Seattle Review.

DEATH OF L. E. SPERRY.

Yakima's Postmaster Dies in Spokane on Wednesday.

The sad news was received here on Wednesday night of the death at Spokane of Postmaster L. E. Sperry of this city.

The news came as a shock to the many friends in this city of the unfortunate young man, although his death was anticipated, as it was known here during the past few days that his case had become hopeless.

Mr. Sperry had endured intense suffering during the past few weeks, caused by an acute attack of stomach and kidney trouble, which in addition to his throat trouble filled his last days with intense pain. Death finally came to his relief shortly after 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening.

The remains arrived here on Friday morning in charge of W. M. Thompson, who was called to Spokane on Tuesday. Mr. Thompson was accompanied by Mrs. Sperry and her mother, Mrs. Thompson, who had been with her for several weeks in Spokane.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, the services being held at the Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. H. M. Bartlett.

A large number of people were present and followed the remains to their last resting place in Tahoma cemetery.

Loren E. Sperry was born at Knoxville, Iowa, in 1868, and was therefore at the time of his death a little past 32 years of age. He received an academic education and learned the printing trade in his early youth.

After being employed on various newspapers, he finally drifted west, locating in North Yakima in 1890, securing employment at the case on the Yakima Republic, then owned and edited by Captain Holton.

The young man's ability and energy soon won for him promotion and he soon became the local editor.

When his employer received the appointment of consul at Swansea, Wales, in 1893 he left his newspaper interest jointly in the hands of Mr. Sperry and W. H. James, the former becoming editor and the latter business manager. The paper was finally sold a year or two later by Captain Holton to outsiders, but was subsequently purchased by Sperry and James and rapidly placed again on a substantial basis.

In December, 1897, Mr. Sperry by virtue of his close affiliations with Senator Wilson, received a commission as postmaster of this city, which position he held at the time of his death.

His health suddenly began to fail about a year ago, beginning with what proved to be a serious ailment of the throat which afterward developed into a severe case of tuberculosis.

Special medical advice was finally sought and the painful information conveyed to him that the dread disease had already obtained such a hold that his case was hopeless.

The unfortunate man's spirit was hard to crush, however, and he went to work courageously to ward off death.

He spent most of the summer in the pure air of the mountains and on returning home about September 1st, received a six months leave of absence from his official duties and with his wife and young child went to Spokane, where he placed himself under the treatment of a specialist.

Unfortunately, as the result shows, his case was neglected too long and medical skill was powerless to save him.

His old friend here, Mayor Fechter, who went to Spokane to visit him on Sunday last, says that as soon as he saw him he realized that he had but a short time to live, as the patient was in an extremely weak and debilitated condition.

In his chosen field as a newspaper worker was where Mr. Sperry was at his best, a fact which he fully realized after his retirement from the profession. He was a vigorous and talented writer well versed in the arts of his calling, and while he sometimes made enemies through his partisan fervor he also made many friends, a number of whom felt much interest in his career. It was quite generally believed in fact that the future had much in store for him in the journalistic field, to which he had fondly planned to return at the conclusion of his official term as postmaster. It seems an unkind fate that cut short such a promising career.

Mr. Sperry was married in June, 1895, to Miss Minnie Thompson of this city.

He leaves besides his wife a five months old son who have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The funeral was under the auspices of the local lodge of Masons, of which deceased had been a member.

C. W. Liece, successor to B. N. Coe & Co., has the agency for the Seattle Evening Times, the Tacoma Daily Ledger and the San Francisco Call. Papers delivered to any part of the city.

The Washington Irrigation company, according to Local Manager Granger, is very much opposed to the proposal to divide this county. The company takes such a determined stand in fact that it is given out that if the plan succeeds there will be no extension of the ditch for several years to come. Next to the N. P. railroad, the company is the largest taxpayer in the county and it does not view with cheerfulness the prospect of increased taxation at the present time.

AT LARSON'S THEATRE.

"At the White Horse Tavern" Will Appear January 28.

The very lightest sort of comedy, with character drawing that creates surprise and delight, is a terse description of "At the White Horse Tavern" which local theater-goers will have an opportunity to see at Larson's theater next Monday night, January 28th.

As a spectator of the doings of the guests in the pleasant Alpine inn, with the sign of the White Horse above its threshold, you will have an evening of chuckles and heartily voiced mirth over the choleric manufacturer from Berlin, the moon-struck honeymoon couple, the bald-headed lover and his lisping sweetheart, the heart affairs of the fair hostess Josepha, and her blonde head waiter, the good-souled, gentle doctor of Philology, the Tyrolean beggar who eats fried chicken, owns three cows and a balance in the savings bank, and the hapless tourists who are caught in an Alpine thunder storm. There are said to be points of nobility, true homespun sturdiness and ideal living in a figure like Professor Hinlelman's, who loves slow trains and eschews all luxuries, even beer, so that he and his lisping daughter may take an outline every four years. But he, his daughter, the fiery lamp manufacturer, the buxom hostess, the love-sick lawyer, and the jealous head waiter are all subservient to the tide of fun which overflows its banks in rude farcical uproar, never, but rather glides along pleasantly in the natural fashion one would just expect after noticing the foibles and idiosyncrasies of the characters. King & Norcross will present the play here as it was produced at Wallack's, New York. Twenty speaking parts are called for, and it is said they have all been assigned with careful discrimination. The cast includes Minerva Dorr, Frank M. Norcross, Fred Mower, John Benton, Henry West, Walter Chester, William Cloudman, Bernice Norcross, Louise Randolph, Guy Coombs, etc., etc.

J. L. Smith, formerly connected with the Sunnyside canal, is here as the guest of Geo. Donald.

Elmore Rice, the violinist, assisted by Mrs. L. W. Baker, pianist, gave a recital to a small but select audience at Mason's hall Thursday night. The selections rendered were all classical and seemed to please the musicians present.

Judge Rudkin on Thursday granted two divorces. Addie Gamage was granted a decree of separation from E. H. Gamage on the ground of non-support. Helena A. Hesse was also given a divorce from Wm. A. Hesse on the ground of desertion and non-support. The plaintiff was also given the right to resume her maiden name of Helena A. Waltheu. The lady is a sister of E. J. Waltheu and resides with her brother at Zillah.

The Next Postmaster.

Now that there is a vacancy in the North Yakima post office occasioned by the lamented death of the late postmaster, L. E. Sperry, speculation is rife as to who will succeed to the office.

There is a good deal of talk already as to who will secure this most desirable plum with its $2000 a year salary attachment. If reports be true, there is no dearth of candidates already in the field and more to hear from.

Those whose names are mentioned in connection with the office are Lieut. W. L. Lemon, F. C. Hall, A. S. Paul, G. S. Hough and some say that Colonel Robertson himself is thinking seriously of going after the place and weighing his probable chances of securing it. In discussing the matter several prominent business men volunteered the information that under the circumstances they would gladly sign the petition of Mrs. Sperry should that lady intimate that she would be willing to undertake to fill out the term of her late husband.

It is generally assumed that Congressman Jones will name Mr. Sperry's successor and the whole matter it seems is up to him.

Mayor Fechter, who was appointed by the department on Thursday at the request of Mr. Sperry's bondsmen to serve until a successor has qualified, of course has no desire to permanently hold the office.

DANGER FROM OVEREATING.

Insanity Often Caused by Too Liberal Indulgence in Food.

It is well known to the few medical men that many cases of insanity are directly due to overeating and the consequent absorption into the circulation of toxic matters from the intestinal tract, and melancholia, whether in mild or severe form, is generally due to this cause. Violent paroxysms of temper, whether in children or adults, are often properly referable to a bad state of the blood from this auto toxemia, as are indeed the exceedingly exuberant spirits of old or young at times. Just as we observe in alcoholic poisoning, some individuals are made temporarily jolly and good natured; others are made ugly and unreasonable.

In view of this condition of affairs isn't it rather a wise plan for us all to consider rather the needs of the organism for food than the mere question of palate tickling, to aim to eat good instead of bad food and enough of it—that is, not too much—to have the conditions about right when we take our meals; in brief to try and treat our bodies decently even though we act from a purely sensual point of view? In no other way can we secure the highest possible degree of pleasure on the average, while by acting thus sensibly we may enjoy practical immunity from disease.

The more exercise we take under proper conditions, the more we are exposed to cold, and the clearer we keep from excess in clothing the more we may eat; hence, in order to enjoy the fullest measure of table pleasures, we must live actively, wear as little clothing as is consistent with comfort and do considerable "roughing"—sometimes called hardening. With all this we should take our meals at times when the body or brain is not overtired, and when we "have leisure to digest," and, of all things, we should never eat unless we are hungry. To eat without an appetite is self abuse of the most stupid sort, since it affords no pleasure and is productive of disease.—Physical Culture.

HE WENT AFTER WHISKY AND FOUND A BIG BEAR.

The Old Possum Hunter Tells How It Came to Pass That He Developed a Most Wonderful Interest in Noah and the Animals in the Ark.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

"Jest befo' the revenue fellers captured the last moonshine still around yere," said the old possum hunter of Tennessee, "we had fo'teen kegs of whisky in the shaft of an old iron mine on the side of the mounting. That shaft was 20 feet deep and grown about by bushes. Arter the whisky had staid thar over two years it was planned fur me to take it out and sell it and divide up the money. The old woman knew of the plant, but I wasn't goin to say nuthin 'bout my gettin the kegs out. She was reckonin all along that some one else would do that. One arternoon I driv the mule and cart as nigh the place as I could, and along 'bout two hours arter nightfall I says to the old woman:

"'If yo' don't consider to object, I reckon I'll go over and see Dan Skinner this evenin. Dan is feelin peekish and lonesome, and likely we'll hev a game of checkers to brighten him up.'"

"'But I do object,' she says. 'I was reckonin to sing some hymns tonight while yo' played the fiddle. I also want to talk to yo' 'bout Noer and his ark."

"THE B'AR WAS THAR."

"'I've got a sore thumb and can't fiddle, and, as fur Noer, he will keep till some other time. Nuthin rushin 'bout Noer.'"

"'With that she turns on me and looks me squar in the face, and arter a minit she says:

"'Zeb White, don't yo' go to foolin with Noer and his ark or sunthin powerful bad will come out of it. Dan Skinner may feel peekish, or he may be dyin, but what we wants to know is how all them critters found their way into the ark. How did it happen that the hens didn't eat up the tater bugs while they was walkin together?'"

"'Dunno.'"

"'Why didn't the foxes eat all the hens?'"

"'Dunno.'"

"'Why didn't the b'ars eat the pigs?'"

"'Dunno.'"

"'Of co'se yo' don't, and that's why I want yo' to squat right down yere with me and try and figger it out. I shan't never be satisfied to die till I find out how the elephants and hosses and cattle managed to git into that ark without treadin on the sarpints and bugs.'"

"I seen that her jaw was sot fur a row," continued Zeb, "but I had sold that whisky and must git it out that night, and so I told her I'd go along over to Skinner's and put in the next two nights with her on Noer. She looked at me ag'in, but didn't say nuthin till I was on the doahstep. Then she p'inted her finger at me and said:

"'Go right along, Zeb White, but if the Lawd don't dun git yo' into a heap of trubble over it then I don't know chestnuts from punkins!'"

"I hurried off without sayin anything back and half an hour later was bringin up the kegs. It was dod rotted bizness. I had to slide down a rope, hitch on to a keg and then climb up and pull the keg arter me. Ought to had a nigger to help me, but thar wasn't one around to trust. I'd got up fo' kegs all right and was comin up to pull the fifth one up when sunthin happened. Jest as I was nearin the top of the hole I heard a growl and a 'whoof' and a big b'ar made a stroke at my head with his paw. I was that durn skeered that I jest let go and drapped to the bottom of the shaft and got a jar that made my bones ache fur a week.

"What they calls the situashun was this: I was down in a hole and a b'ar was waitin fur me to come up and do bizness with him. Yo' kin see that the pesky varmint had all the advantage. He could smash my skull with one blow of his paw as my head come within reach. I yelled and hollered at him, thinkin to skeer him away, but he looked over the edge of the hole at me and growled and sniffed and seemed minded to fall on top of me. It wasn't five minits befo' I wished I was home talkin 'bout Noer, but wishin was no good. I kept quiet fur two or three hours and then started to climb up. The b'ar was thar. He was thar at midnight and sunrise, and I'm tellin yo' that he was thar at noon and at fo' o'clock in the arternoon. The shaft was as dry as a bone, and I was thirsty 'nuff to drink swamp water. The way things was fixed that b'ar could keep me down thar till I perished, and when he appeared as if he was like to do it I felt that I hadn't used my old woman right and wanted to ask her to fergive me. 'Bout fo' o'clock, while I was keepin mighty quiet, I hears a rifle shot above, and directly arterward a human face looks down on me. It was the old woman's. She drawed the rope up beyand my reach and then called down:

"'Is anybody down thar visitin Dan Skinner who feels peekish and wants to play checkers?'"

"'If yo'll lemme up, I'll ax yo'r pardon,' says I.

"'Mebbe that voice belongs to Zeb White?'"

"'She do.'"

"'And mebbe his sore thumb has got well so that he kin fiddle?'"

"'She has.'"

"'Then we'll hev some fiddlin and singin.'"

"And with that she lowers the fiddle by a string, and as soon as I got tuned up she began singin and kept it up fur an hour. Then she calls down:

"'Zeb, what about Noer and his ark?'"

"'I'm willin to talk,' says I.

"'How long will yo' talk?'"

"'All the rest of the fall and winter. 'Peared to me when yo' spoke of it last evenin that I didn't keer much 'bout Noer and his ark, but I'm findin out that I take a heap of interest in 'em. I'm willin to sit up all night and try to figger out 'bout the hens and tater bugs.'"

"'Then mebbe yo'd better come up,' says she, and she draps the rope fur me to climb by. I never felt so glad in my life as when I got out and seen a dead b'ar thar. I wanted to gin the old woman a kiss, but she waves me off and says:

"'Don't yo' be in sich a hurry, Mr. White. Arter yo' hev ate and drank and slept, and arter we've put in 'bout fo' weeks figgerin on Noer, we'll see 'bout the kissin bizness. Chuck them kegs back into the hole, load up the b'ar, and we'll go home.'"

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

Big Grist of Public Business Disposed of—Special City Election Called for February 25.

A regular meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening, Mayor Fechter and all of the seven councilmen being present.

Clerk Doust read the minutes of the preceding meeting, which after some minor corrections were duly approved.

A petition was read from numerous citizens asking for the location of three additional arc lights, one to be placed at Second and A, one at Third and Spruce and the other at corner of West Yakima and Ahtanum avenues.

On motion of Reed the finance committee was instructed to employ a bookkeeper to expert the books of the city treasurer for the past year.

A communication was read from C. M. Hauser, chief of the fire department, containing an inventory of property and making recommendations for the purchase of additional supplies. The chief's recommendations included the purchase of a chemical engine and hose wagon at an estimated cost of $1900; the establishment of a fire alarm system at a cost of from $700 to $1500. The chief also recommends that the council appropriate the sum of $100 per quarter for maintenance and that he be authorized to recruit the department up to a minimum strength of 25 men. The recommendations were referred to the committee on fire and fire limits.

Mr. Englehart then appeared before the council as the representative of the Commercial club. He stated that it was the almost unanimous desire of the members of that organization as well as the business men and citizens generally that the council should improve the city's fire department. Owing to the city's rapid growth such improvements he said, had now become an absolute necessity.

Hall then called up the matter of the petition of certain north end residents to have their property disincorporated from the city limits. He (Hall) would favor the proposition providing the parties affected were willing to pay the expenses of a special election. Hall's position in the matter was supported by Donald and Reed, while Shaw announced himself as in favor of ordering the special election to vote on the proposition. On a roll call being taken the council by a vote of four to three ordered the special election called.

Chappell called attention to needed repairs on the bell tower in the rear of city hall. Referred to committee on fire and fire limits with power to act.

A resolution of intention was then read by the clerk for the construction of a sidewalk on West Yakima avenue from the R. R. right-of-way to Kittitas avenue. The resolution was adopted. Hall then made a motion which carried, to notify the railroad company to construct a sidewalk across the right-of-way on Yakima avenue.

On motion of Donald the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance creating the office of street commissioner, which official should be vested with police powers.

The city attorney was requested for an opinion as to the authority of the council to compel the Yakima Water, Light & Power Co. to extend their water system.

On motion the city attorney was also instructed to draw up an ordinance licensing drays.

A resolution was adopted calling on the ex-city marshal for a report in full on the collection of poll taxes for the year 1900.

The published petition of Sixth street property owners for the establishment of a sub-sewer district along two blocks of that thoroughfare, was adopted and the clerk authorized to advertise for bids. The clerk was also authorized to advertise for bids for the grading of Sixth street according to the plans and specifications proposed by the city engineer.

A petition was read from Bryson and Fournier, bill posters, asking for an amendment to the ordinance governing bill posting.

A motion was then passed instructing the street and ditch committee to investigate and report on the cost of a rock crusher.

The bonds of City Justice Taggard, City Sexton Carvosso and City Marshal Boyle, in the sum of $1000 each, were then submitted. The first two were promptly accepted, while that of Boyle with W. J. Reed and C. E. Sherwood as sureties, was finally accepted but not without a protest, as Shaw objected to Reed being on the bond because of the fact that he is a member of the council.

The applications of Geo. Davis and W. W. Curry for the office of city scavenger were then read. The ballot taken gave Curry all the seven votes and the mayor declared him elected.

The council then on motion adjourned. The annual report of the city clerk which was read, appears in another column.

The Tuesley-Schaffner Wedding.

Walter Tuesley, a member of the Yakima Herald staff, and Miss Marie Schaffner were duly bound together by the bond of matrimony at 8 p. m. on Saturday evening last.

The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. P. B. Jackson, took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Greene in the presence of relatives and a few invited guests. An elegant wedding supper was served by the hostess, after which a most pleasant evening was spent.

The happy couple were the recipients of a number of presents, both useful and valuable. They have gone to house keeping in the groom's cosy cottage on Seventh street.

The DEMOCRAT tenders its best wishes to the newly wedded pair.
