OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which organization has been holding its national convention this week in Seattle, adopted the following resolution in relation to the Philippine question: "We deeply deplore the attitude taken by our nation with respect to the Philippine Islands, and since governments can derive their just powers only from the consent of the governed, we protest both against the policy which would compel a foreign people to submit to the rule of the United States and against the war through which the administration is striving to enforce its policy." There is no mistaking such language as the above. It has the true American ring to it. It is also a fact worth noting that the esteemed Seattle P.-I., a paper advocating strong imperialistic opinions, relegated its report of the convention to an obscure page thereafter. The anti-imperialistic views of the W. C. T. U. ladies must have given our great contemporary a pain. Will the organ now insist that that great Christian organization is made up of "copperheads" and "blatherskites?" If those great organs of "expansion," the P.-I. and the Oregonian, are to be consistent, however, they must denounce the good women who uttered the above sentiment, for such an expression of rank disloyalty they cannot afford to pass without a severe rebuke.

THE democratic party and its reform allies in this state must be thoroughly organized in order to have an equal chance of winning next year. The republicans, with a gold standard and "expansion" platform, will unquestionably make a determined effort to transfer Washington to the McKinley column of states and will undoubtedly succeed in doing so by virtue of a well planned organization and the lavish use of money unless they are opposed by a united opposition. The reform forces of the state are apparently in a most disorganized condition and the work that ought to be done during the coming winter should be along the lines of bringing them together into a united and compact organization under one banner. The conscience of the voters must be aroused to the evils and dangers of continued republican rule, which promises to demoralize and degrade the middle and lower classes of society in this country through its new policies of imperialism, militarism and the passage of vicious legislation dictated by and in the interest of the plutocracy. Let the work of organization begin at once in Yakima county as it has been begun in other counties of the state, and the way to begin is to first call a meeting of the three central committees, which organizations are charged with the responsibility of looking after the welfare of the different parties and the principles such parties represent.

HON. Wm. J. Bryan's campaign tour through the states of Kentucky and Ohio was a series of ovations from start to finish, thousands of enthusiastic men, women and children greeting him along the line of travel and applauding his brief speeches to the echo. The great influence and personality of Bryan seems to have had the effect of closing up the breaches in the ranks of the democracy in both states and to have infused into the leaders a determination to win on the 7th day of November. In Kentucky the bolters, who have been playing on the magic of his name in their efforts to defeat the regular party ticket, were severely rebuked for their attitude, although it was done in such a manner that it has had the general effect of restoring them to their old allegiance. If the two states mentioned are carried by the democrats the credit of the victory will, of right, be largely due to the efforts of the peerless leader, whose reputation for political astuteness is second only to the rank he occupies as a brilliant and high minded statesman.

COL. Fred Miller, formerly of this city, but now a bright and shining light in the legal fraternity of Spokane, has been interviewed by the Seattle Times, in which he makes the statement that the reform forces of this state cannot win if they oppose expansion. This is cold comfort and we are a little surprised at such information, especially when coming from such a distinguished reformer as our old friend, the Colonel. However, in view of the fact that the Colonel was proven a false prophet on a former occasion, when he solemnly warned his party in this state of the evil effects of a policy that led to the retirement of the late Mr. Cleveland, we are inclined to take his scolding good naturedly, for come what may the Colonel's democracy will remain unsullied and spotless, which great attribute he honestly acquired by virtue of being a native son of the grand old state of Missouri.

COL. ROBERTSON seems to have attached himself recently to the literary bureau of Col. J. Hamilton Lewis. Either that must be the case or else the Yakima colonel must have been delegated by some of the big guns of his party to attempt to prematurely kill off the Seattle colonel by damning him with faint praise. By either horn of the dilemma, the eloquent gentleman of Seattle, has our undivided sympathy. Col. Lewis, however, is in Europe, engaged in the laudable and lucrative occupation of twisting the British lion's tail. He cannot possibly hear of the delicate compliments which his old Chehalis friend is showering upon him and "More's the pity."

GOVERNOR Rogers has kindly favored us with a copy of his latest work, entitled "Life," fresh from the press of the publishers, the Whitaker & Ray Co., of San Francisco. "Life" is a masterful, philosophical treatise, and its perusal will repay the time of the careful reader. The book is full of beautiful sentiments and the motto is a very appropriate one, as follows: "Life is a struggle, a test of fitness. No struggle, no school; no school, no fitness; no fitness, no future—either in this world or in any that may follow."

THE war news from South Africa, it will be noticed, records nothing save British victories. This is not to be wondered at when we consider that all lines of communication are in British hands and all news that goes out must necessarily run the gauntlet of the blue pencil of the censor. It is barely possible that the English commander has adopted General Otis' methods of warfare and of keeping the "situation well in hand"—so far as the outside world is concerned.

THE democratic party of Washington stands sadly in need of an able and fearless daily newspaper that will teach the principles of pure and unadulterated democracy and be at the same time a first class news medium. No good results, from a political standpoint, can be realized from the influence of alleged democratic papers which are either controlled by republican owners or are influenced in their editorial policy by the sentiment of the counting room.

THE number of tramps that are daily in evidence of course does not conflict with the republican claim that prosperity is abroad in the land and that every man has an opportunity to receive his fill thereof. Neither can the present low price of hops be used by the "calamity howlers" as an argument against the existence of the beneficent conditions given us by that great benefactor of the human race—William McKinley.

YAKIMA cattlemen have wisely concluded to organize with the view of protecting their industry. With the cattle interests and the sheep interests both well organized it ought to be possible to reach an understanding beneficial to both.

WASTED MANURE.

The Greatest Leak on the Farm — Value of Covered Yards.

"We cannot, in actual practice, apply the manure to crops as we make it, though we would desire to do so. As it is done in actual practice, the manure is thrown out of the stables and generally scattered over the yard to remain until needed or a convenient time comes to haul it out on the land. The sky is the roof, and the rains and snows descend and leach away the very best and most valuable ingredients. Roofed or covered manure yards were not approved of by our older authorities. Even so great an agricultural authority as Professor Storer speaks in a rather deprecatory way of covered manure sheds. Of late there has been a general revision of opinion along this line, since intelligent practice by actual farmers has proved the contrary of the general preconceived opinion.

"Quite a number of experiment stations have investigated the matter and reported some rather startling results. At Cornell the loss varied with the rainfall and other conditions, but ranged up to 62 per cent. The Geneva station reported a loss of 46 per cent, the Kansas station 50 per cent, and the Ohio station about the same. At the Massachusetts station the leachings, though 93 per cent water, were worth $2.94 per ton. Thus I might continue to cite many more instances pointing to the fact that about 50 per cent, or one-half of our yard manure, is annually wasted. The worst part of the matter is that the best half—the half that is readily soluble in water and could be used by the plants immediately—is wasted. The manure made on my little farm was worth over $500, so if carelessly handled and thrown out into the open yard to leach and ferment until the end of the season the loss would foot up at $200 or $250, or, in other words, I would have to purchase plant food ingredients to that amount to replace what passed off in gas or went down stream or into the rocks as leachings. If an item of that size is not worth looking after in these times of close competition, when there are thousands of farms barely holding their own, then I would like to ask how large a leak has to be to demand attention. This can be remedied quite inexpensively by constructing a roof over the yard, or part of the yard, to keep the manure under. The reason such shelters were not recommended in the past is because the manure was not properly handled and would fire fang or burn up from overrapid fermentation."

A writer in Country Gentleman, who has the foregoing to say about what he characterizes as "the greatest leak" on the farm, mentions also the requisites for bringing out manure in the most perfect condition for plant food and soil improvement:

The manure must be compacted as it is put on the yard. If the cattle are allowed on it, they will do this to perfection.

All the liquid manure should be incorporated with the solid and the bedding to produce an even and proper fermentation.

Some land plaster should be used in the stable and on the yard to absorb the odors. Dissolved South Carolina rock can be substituted, as it is in fact land plaster with 12 to 14 per cent of available phosphoric acid. Plaster generally costs $6 to $7 per ton, while the dissolved rock can be bought close to seaboard for $10 to $11 per ton, and by using it in this way it balances up the manure better, as it otherwise has an excess of nitrogen, and the phosphoric acid costs only 1 2-3 cents per pound, counting the plaster at $7 per ton. This plaster or rock will capture and hold all the ammonia that might otherwise escape during the process of fermentation.

Manure made and cared for in this way is valuable enough to be applied with care, and four tons per acre properly distributed is sufficient for any ordinary farm crop, and each crop should have about that much, which would make 12 tons in the course of the three year rotation. By using the manure spreader this can be so evenly distributed that each plant will get its share of food, and none will get an overdose. Topdressing is preferable whenever it does not interfere with the tillage of an intercultural crop. By having the manure sheltered we can apply it just when the crop is most in need of it or when most convenient to ourselves. Let us not forget the manure crop while we care particularly for all other crops and tools. Care and shelter here pay as well as with any of the others.

Feeding Whey.

Whey is a valuable feed for hogs. There are about 7 pounds of solids in 100 pounds, and that quantity of whey fed properly in combination with other feeds should produce two pounds of increase in live weight. Whey is a poor diet when fed alone, although hogs will live on it and gain in weight. Whey may be turned to lard, but it does not give good results when fed alone. To young, growing pigs it may be fed with profit on clover pasture. The use of a field in that way puts it in a capital condition for the growth of a crop of Indian corn for fodder purposes the following year. Whey should be fed in a sweet and clean condition. A clean and comparatively sweet whey is wholesome, whereas a very sour whey is dangerous. Often its use is injurious to the swine. The whey tank at a cheese factory should be above ground, and for the sake of the value of the whey for the production of pork the tank should be cleaned thoroughly at least once a week.

Indian corn, ground or unground, should not be fed alone with whey. It is unprofitable in that combination, and results in the production of very fat bacon. A good mixture would be (a) one-third shorts, or bran, (b) one-third ground oats, peas, barley, wheat, mixed or single, and (c) one-third ground Indian corn. The best results from Indian corn are obtained when it is fed in combination with skimmilk or buttermilk, which supplies the flesh forming materials in which the corn is deficient.—Report of Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying of Canada

The Man That Knows.

"There are some men," said Mr. Staybolt, "that always know about things. They have a power of judgment that amounts to genius. They discern the truth unerringly. They know what is right and what is wrong in a question, and they know it at the outset without waiting for the event. They range themselves not with confidence, but with knowledge, and however the clouds may lower they are not disturbed. Indeed they rather like the storm, for they know when the end will be."

"They are more powerful than other men because they are unhampered by doubts. They don't doubt, they know, and men follow them, as they always will. Everybody admires a man that knows and is sure about it."—New York Sun.

Killed His Sentiment.

A newspaper correspondent at the battle of Atbara tells a good story about a couple of Scotchmen. He was walking softly about the camp so as not to disturb the sleepers on the night before the fight when he overheard a sentimental Seaforth highlander say to a comrade:

"Ah, Tam, how many thousands there are at home across the sea thinking o' us the night."

"Right, Sandy," replied his chum, "and how many millions there are that don't care a d—n. Go to sleep, you fool."

And silence fell upon that corner of the square.

FEEDING SHEEP.

A Simple Trough Which Overcomes Many Difficulties.

In a recent address before the Ohio Farmers' institute S. H. Todd said: "The ranging of the sheep troughs will have very much to do often with the success of keeping the sheep on the farm. I will venture to say today that there will be several thousand dollars lost to the state of Ohio from feeding sheep out of that old V shaped trough—that I presume Jacob fed his sheep out of—in preference to changing to a better trough. What are the conditions of that trough? It is built exactly in the form of a sheep's mouth. They can eat the grain in one-fourth the time that they could eat it out of a trough that would be practical for feeding sheep in. The result is they cannot digest and properly assimilate the food which is thus carried into their stomachs. Besides, usually these troughs are left down nearly on the surface of the yard or the surface of the ground. The lambs when they are fed commence at one end and follow the feeder as he puts the food into the trough, winding back and forth from this side to that side, and by the time the feeder gets to the other end of the trough he looks around, and what does he see? He sees one-half of the lambs standing there looking him squarely in the face. Why? Simply because the refuse that is dropped from their feet in passing over the trough has been deposited in the feed, and as a result the sensitive and timid sheep will not touch it, while the stronger lambs will finish it up. Thus, with that kind of feeding, he is killing his sheep at both ends. He is starving them to death at this end and overfeeding them at that end, both of which evils we should avoid. If you are going to use the V shaped trough, put a board over the trough so that they cannot jump into it.

I would recommend, however, the use of a trough which I am going to describe. This trough is made from three boards 8 inches wide and an inch thick. I put the boards together so as to form two troughs with the three boards by running the side boards as far below the center board as we do above the center board, placing an end in the trough which is 8 inches wide and 2 feet long and providing it with legs at the end of these end pieces, so as to keep the trough from turning over. The length of the legs should be 20 inches, and they should be placed on the top of the trough will be 14 inches from the ground. In this way I have two troughs. Now, you may ask me the advantage of that? It costs but a trifle more than it does to make the V shaped trough. It has a larger base, and the sheep rarely if ever jump over it. Then it takes them, as I said, four times as long to consume the food out of a trough constructed in this way as it would out of a V shaped trough.

Then again the farmer goes out to feed his sheep, and he sees a little filth here and a little filth there in the trough. Rather than go and get a broom and sweep it out he will risk putting the food upon that filth unless there is an easier way to obviate the difficulty. But if he knows he can turn the trough over, then he will do so, thus providing the sheep with a clean trough in which to deposit their food. Again, if it should rain and partially fill the trough with water, which, with the dirt that would naturally get into it, it might render the food distasteful, so that the tender lamb just commencing to feed would refuse it, he can turn the trough over and have a dry trough ready for use without further trouble or delay. As I said, he will do that when he would not remedy the trouble if he had to go and get a broom and sweep it out. You will find that very much benefit will arise even from this.

In the House of Commons.

Members are not allowed to refer to each other by name in debate. The only member who is properly addressed by name is the chairman who presides over the deliberations of the house in committee. On a member rising to speak in committee he begins with "Mr. Lowther," and not with "Mr. Chairman," as at public meetings. When the speaker is in the chair, the formula is "Mr. Speaker, sir."

In debate a member is distinguished by the office he holds, as "the right honorable gentleman the chancellor of the exchequer," or by the constituency he represents, as "the honorable gentleman the member for York." Some make use of the terms "My honorable friend" or "My right honorable friend."

In case of family relations the same form is usually observed. Occasionally "My honorable relative" or "My right honorable relative" is heard, but "My right honorable father" or "My right honorable brother," though no doubt allowable, has not been hitherto used. —Nineteenth Century.

In a Bad Way Anyhow.

George Ober once overheard some acquaintances in the hotel lobby at Hastings-on-the-Hudson discussing the demise of one Bill Jones, a well known character in that lively country village. Ober immediately joined the group, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

"Did I understand you to say Bill Jones was dead?"
 "Yes. Died last Thursday."
 "Is that possible?"
 "Yes, that's right."
 "So Bill Jones is dead. Well, well!"
 "Yes, he's dead."
 "Do you know, I can scarcely believe it, poor chap! Poor Bill! I knew him well. So he's really dead, is he?"
 "Well, if he ain't dead, he's in a darned bad predicament. I saw him buried." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A London paper tells this touching story of Professor Herkomer: "His aged father, who lived with him in his splendid home at Bushney, used to model clay in his early life. He has recently taken to it again, but his fear is that soon his hands will lose their skill and his work will show the marks of imperfection. It is his one sorrow. At night he goes to his early rest, and when he has gone his talented son goes to his studio, takes up his father's feeble attempts and makes the work as beautiful as art can make it. When the old man comes down in the morning, he takes the work and looks at it and rubs his hands and says, 'Ha, I can do as well as I ever did.'"

Notice is hereby given that the above and foregoing assessment roll is now on file in my office subject to the inspection of all persons interested and that on the 6th day of November, 1899, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock p. m. any person feeling aggrieved by reason of such assessment may appear before the city council of the city of North Yakima, Washington, and be heard with a view to the amendment of the same.

Dated this 19th day of October, 1899.
 H. B. DOUST,
 [SEAL.] City Clerk.

RESOLUTION.

Be it resolved by the city council of the city of North Yakima, that said city intend and hereby declares its intention to improve Natches avenue in said city by the construction of a sidewalk along the west side of said avenue between the northeast corner of block No. 91 and the southeast corner of block No. 93, being along and in front of blocks No. 91, 92 and 93.

All of said blocks and lands being in accordance with the plat of said city now on file and of record in the office of the county auditor of Yakima county, Washington.

Said sidewalk to be eight feet wide and to be laid with planks two inches thick and eight inches wide and eight feet long, surfaced on one side, to be laid dressed side up, and resting on three stringers for inches by six inches, said sidewalk to be laid on the grade marked out and established in front of the lots and lands, hereinafter described, as the same appears from the grade stakes placed by, and the notes filed with the city clerk, by the city engineer. All material used to be number one common fir lumber.

That the estimated cost of said improvement is $384.00; that the cost of the same is to be assessed against the property abutting on said avenue, and included within the following assessment district, to-wit: lots No. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17 in block No. 91, the east half of block No. 92 and lots No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 in block No. 93.

That protests against said proposed improvement may be filed in the office of the city clerk of said city of North Yakima at any time before the 6th day of November, 1899.

That the city clerk give due and legal notice of said proposed improvement.
 Passed the council October 18, 1899.
 Approved October 18, 1899.

O. A. FECHTER,
 Mayor.
 Attest:—
 H. B. DOUST,

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, city treasurer of the city of North Yakima, Washington, will pay on demand all warrants drawn on the general fund of said city, commencing with No. 4140, up to and including warrant No. 4169, dated October 14, 1897, at his office in said city, and that interest will cease on said warrants on the 30th day of November, 1899.

Dated October 14, 1899.
 LOUIS O. JANECK,
 City Treasurer of the City of North Yakima, Washington.

Auditor Kelso on Saturday granted permits to wed to Caden Wise and Miss Sarah Harpole of the Sunnyside, also to Albert G. Athey and Miss Lillie Fowler of the Moxee.

The contest case of Geo. M. Reed vs. John B. Crews for a piece of land near Tampico, was heard in the United States land office on Thursday. The decision of the register and receiver was in favor of Crews, the contestee.

Postmaster Sperry will have two letter boxes put in position soon, one in front of the Yakima Hardware Co. and the other at the Wallace-Coburn corner. Letters will be collected daily (except Sunday) from these boxes at the hour of 5 p. m. Gradually North Yakima assumes metropolitan airs.

The Spokane Review of recent date noted the fact that R. B. Milroy formerly of this city and brother of W. J. Milroy together with C. S. Hannum of Portland had formed a law partnership at Cape Nome. A number of people here are of the opinion that C. S. Henton was meant instead of Hannum.

Jung Yung and Tom Yung, two celestials, who have been running a "washee" house at Prosser, through Whitson & Parker, their attorneys filed this week a suit for damages against D. S. Sprinkle, Peter Pengruber and Wm. Frost for having unceremoniously ousted them from a shack in that town, where the plaintiffs were residing. They ask damages in the sum of $1000.

Contractor McKivor has a large force of men at work in grading Yakima avenue on the west side. The work being done is of a good and substantial character and vastly improves the appearance of the street. The value of street improvement to abutting property is well illustrated in this case, where real estate along the avenue has almost doubled in value since the old depot was moved and the grading begun.

A. E. Larson has a force of men engaged in making an excavation in the rear of the site of his proposed opera house which space will be used in part as property and dressing rooms. The dirt material taken out is being dumped on A street near the syndicate building. Lumber is being daily hauled to begin work on the new building with the expectation of getting the frame work completed before the approach of cold weather.

A number of the hop growers of this county held a preliminary meeting in this city on Monday night and resolved to issue a call for a general mass meeting of growers to be held at the city hall on Saturday afternoon (today) at the hour of 2 p. m. The consensus of opinion at the gathering was that some united action on the part of the growers was necessary in order to procure what they deem a fair price for their crop. It is said that it is the intention of the larger growers in cases of necessity, to advance to the smaller growers sufficient means on their crop to enable any such to hold on for awhile. The result of the meeting today will be watched with much interest. A large number of growers are expected to be in attendance.

The Lombard & Horsley Furniture Co., were awarded the contract for furnishing the school furniture needed in the new rooms. The new goods will come from a Minneapolis factory.

Editor Boyle of the Herald, is engaged in building for himself and family a new domicile on Fourth street. Ed Barkwell is also constructing a new residence in the same neighborhood.

As we go to press a meeting is being held at the club room by the general reception committee to consider the matter of making an offer to pay the transportation expenses of the members of Company E from San Francisco. The Seattle P.-I. of Thursday stated that 32 members of the company had signified their willingness to accept the Ankeny offer of free transportation by boat. The inference therefore is that a majority refuse to travel that way. The committee will decide at its meeting today whether or not they will offer to defray any or all of the necessary expenses of a trip by rail, which had not been previously figured on.

Marshal Grant states that the job lot of hoboes that were drummed out of town by him last week, pursued their way up the track, reaching Ellensburg on Friday. Considering themselves sorely in need of refreshments on their arrival at that village, they organized a raid on the brewery and securing six keys of the foaming beverage proceeded to have a "hiyu" time. Unfortunately for them, they were interrupted in their bacchanalian revel by the town marshal, backed by a posse of citizens and told to get. The "weary Willies" demurred and were disposed to argue the case, whereupon they were taken in hand by the citizens and forcibly helped out of town.

Marshal Grant on Friday evening received a telegram from the conductor of the west bound freight while at Toppenish to the effect that a large gang of hobos had virtually taken possession of his train and to be on hand to gather them in on their arrival in this city. The tramps, however, anticipated the conductor, leaving the train at Simcoe station and walking into town. The following day they were located by the vigilant marshal and his assistants at that favorite resort of the "weary Willies," the banks of the Shanno ditch. The gang of 11 was taken into custody Saturday evening and on Monday were given sentences ranging from 10 to 30 days by Judge Taggard. The marshal has reorganized his chain gang and put them to work on the streets.

Melville E. Chandler and Alice M. Evans were married Wednesday evening at the brides home on the school section, Rev. A. H. Lyons officiating. About 20 invited guests were present. After the ceremony a splendid repast was served. The happy groom after his return to the shelter of the parental roof with his fair bride, was the recipient of unwelcome attentions at the hands of the boys of the neighborhood, someone of whom becoming over zealous in his efforts to attract attention broke in a window. This overt act aroused the righteous indignation of the household and the besieging party was ordered to sound a retreat, which was promptly done. THE DEMOCRAT tenders its thanks for the receipt of a liberal slice of choice cake and fragrant havanas, and joins the numerous friends of the happy couple in wishing for them a pleasant voyage on the matrimonial sea.

Odds and Ends.

At the present time there are between 500 and 1,000 men in New York who are worth $1,000,000 or more. In 1815, when New York had a population of 110,000, there were only nineteen men who were assessed at $100,000 or more, and the highest assessment was only $200,000.

Half of humanity today is engaged in useless toil. At least under an ideal and just system and order of industry and economies there would be no need of it; and when people who now drudge and toil 10 hours and more out of 24, they would only need to work five under a system of economies and industrial brotherhood, and would have ample time for leisure, recreation and self-education.—Sunday Night.

Mary had a little lamb, that time has passed away. No lamb could follow up the pace our Mary sets today; for now she rides the air shod wheel, in skirts too short by half; no lambkin shares her airy flight, but you can see her calf. But who is there that can complain or cry in woe, "Alas!" So long as Mary's calf's allright the lamb can go to grass. So all the men delighted gaze, their joy is not a sham, for while the other critter is out they have no use for lamb.

Servia appears to take the palm for longevity. This country is said to have the greatest number of centenarians. There are 575 of them in a population of less than 1,300,000. Ireland has 578; Spain, 401; England, Scotland and Wales, 182; Germany 78; Norway, 23; Sweden, 20, and Denmark, 2.

In the course of excavations at Bruges in connection with the west basin of the port, a boat dating before the Christian era has been discovered, says a Brussels correspondent of the London Daily Mail. The boat, which is of oak, is about 30 feet long and seven feet broad, and its mast, which is broken in four pieces, was apparently about 24 feet high. It was unearthed at a depth of 20 feet and must have been stranded when the sea covered part of Bruges, a period anterior to the Christian era.

A Hard Freeze.

The freeze of last Friday night was one of the heaviest ever noted in this valley at that time of the year and it left its mark much after the manner of genuine winter weather. At 6 o'clock in the morning the mercury registered 18 degrees above zero and it was bitterly cold. It almost stripped the trees of foliage—the leaves tumbled at a lively rate as the day advanced. Considerable damage was done to fruit and vegetables. Reports show that many apples were frozen on the trees and the loss in potatoes will be considerable. Those near the surface were badly nipped, and those that had been dug and were left improperly protected were ruined. Celery also suffered, and so did squashes, etc., and some damage was done to onions. Taken altogether it was an unseasonable and unwelcome freeze.—Ellensburg Capital.

It's dangerous—Stop that cough and avoid lung trouble. Nothing so good as Mull's Lightning Cough Cure. It's safe for children. 25c. and 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by W. J. Roat, North Yakima and James Henderson, Sunny-side.

Want Their Totem Pole.

The Cape Fox Indians, from whom the much talked of totem pole was taken, are an angry set of people. They discovered on their return to their village that the white man had been there and robbed them of the pole. A lonely klootchman who had been left in the village was an eye witness to the act. When her people returned she told them that "a big white boat; lots of white men" came to the village and took the pole.

A meeting was immediately called in which several of the neighboring tribes participated. The white man had taken their genealogical pole and they wanted revenge.

This week a gentleman from Ketchikan arrived in Seattle as a representative of the Cape Fox tribe to look for the pole and the first thing that caught his eye was the much prized treasure. He stated to a friend in this city that the Indians were very angry and would demand the return of the pole. If the pole is not returned an application for a writ of replevin will be made by the governor of Alaska and the matter taken into the courts.

The tribe has been offered as high as $5,000 for the pole but declined to sell. The figures on the pole tell the story of several tribes of Indians. It is expected that more will be heard from the Alaska people within the next three weeks.—Seattle Review

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Louis O. # WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1899.

Mr. McKinley found, when he returned from his stumping trip of 5,000 miles, more indignation among government employes than has existed since the Garfield campaign, when Jay Hubbell and Dorsey, of star route notoriety, held up the federal employes and forced campaign contributions under threat of dismissal. The reason is the circular letter sent out by Boss Hanna's Ohio committee, asking federal officials to chip in to keep McLean from carrying Ohio. The Civil Service commissioners, who draw their salaries at the pleasure of the man whose renomination for president depends largely upon Ohio going republican, had not a word to say about the circular letters received by employes of every department in Washington, but they made a bluff at doing something by going to the postoffice department and requesting that the order of the department, issued about a year ago, prohibiting political assessment of postal employes, be conspicuously posted in all Ohio postoffices, as they had been greatly shocked to learn that the employes of the Toledo postoffice had been asked to contribute to the republican campaign fund. An order was at once issued complying with the request, and all hands winked at each other and thought "how devilish sly we are." Nobody expects Mr. McKinley to do anything to stop the squeezing of government employes. He has just come from Ohio and he knows how desperate the case is, and how much he has at stake. He knows that there is an organized movement among prominent republicans, to prevent his renomination, and that if his party fails to carry Ohio it will stand an excellent show of succeeding.

How desperate the republican situation in Ohio is, may be judged by the talk of republicans. For instance, Perry Heath, who owes his present official position to Hanna, and who has just returned from Ohio, has been discounting republican defeat in the state by saying that the republicans are so busy handling their prosperity that many of them may not have time to vote. He also says that Mr. McLean has the democrats of the state better organized than they have ever been before. Democratic advices from the state are without exception favorable to the success of McLean.

Gen. J. R. O'Beirne, who was refused recognition by the state department as diplomatic agent of the Transvaal republic, because of his being an American, was waiting for Mr. McKinley when he returned to Washington, for the purpose of trying to persuade him to set aside the decision of the state department. Having considerable political pull he succeeded in getting a private interview with Mr. McKinley, but it is not likely that he succeeded in anything else. Mr. McKinley has troubles enough of his own without reaching away over in South Africa for new ones.

The first of next week Admiral Dewey, who has been in Washington all this week, will go to Atlanta, to present Lieut. Brumby the sword bought for him by the appreciative Georgians, and on the 31st inst. he will be the guest of the city of Philadelphia. That will be likely to wind up the big Dewey receptions for the time being, as the Philippine commission, of which he is a member, is expected to meet in Washington early next month to prepare its report, and he will have to attend the meetings.

In addition to presenting Rear Admiral Schley with a handsome jeweled sword, the Royal Arcanum, of which Admiral Schley is a member, has presented Mrs. Schley with a beautiful silver loving cup, inscribed, "Presented to Mrs. W. S. Schley by the Royal Arcanum, 1899." The presentation took place at the hotel in which Admiral Dewey is making his home.

That the negroes will soon cease to vote the republican ticket seems practically certain. One of them—Rev. Alex. Walters, D. D., of New Jersey, who is now in Washington, expressed some forcible views on the subject. For instance, he said: "My advice to the negroes is to make friends with the ruling classes of the south by voting the democratic ticket, especially when they are invited to do so. We are doing it in the north. We are surely at the parting of the ways. There is great restlessness on the part of the Afro-American republicans. A large majority of them in New York state will vote the democratic ticket at the next election."

Before Mr. McKinley went on that stumping trip he went out of his way to say that he intended to leave the future of the Philippines to the judgment of congress; now he says that he intends to tell congress in his annual message that the Philippines must be ours for keeps. As it is only about six weeks to the opening of congress, he will probably not have time to change his opinion again, although he has been known to do the trick in less than six hours.

CATTELMEN TO ORGANIZE.

The cattlemen of the Yakima valley have at least realized the necessity of perfecting an organization to protect their interests. The recent ruling of the secretary of the interior department to the effect that sheep would hereafter be excluded from grazing within the limits of the Rainier forestry reserve, has aroused the cattlemen to the necessity of organizing and taking concerted action "for the purpose of seeing to it that the prohibition does not extend to our business" as one large cattle owner expressed it.

A call for a general meeting of the cattlemen of the county to meet in convention at the court house in this city, Saturday (today) at the hour of 2 p. m. was issued last Saturday. The call was signed by Geo. S. Taylor, D. E. Lesh and U. F. Diteman and was sent presumably to every cattle owner in the country, or at least to every one that ranges stock in the hills. THE DEMOCRAT this week interviewed a number of cattlemen concerning the matter and the objects to be accomplished through the proposed organization.

Each man seen asserted that the preservation of the range and the keeping of the reservation open to cattle was the main object to be attained and all laid particular emphasis on their statements that cattle worked no permanent injury to vegetation of any kind. One grower stated that he, for one had grown weary of the oft repeated statements of the sheepmen about their industry being the life of this valley, when it was a well known fact he said, that the cattle owned in this county consumed annually more than five times as much winter feed here as did the sheep. Indiscriminate grazing on the reserve and the practice of setting fires, he further said would wipe out almost the last vestige of the bunch grass in the mountains within the space of three or at least five years, and to a great extent ruin the great value of the reserve as a watershed besides, thus killing the goose that lays the golden egg in a double sense. Other cattlemen interviewed expressed themselves in a guarded manner, stating that it would probably be the object of the new organization to co-operate with such sheepmen as were willing to concede the necessity of proper restrictions.

While it is believed that a large number of stockmen will attend today's meeting, the fact that the hop growers will meet today also, for the purpose of perfecting an organization, may determine the cattlemen to adjourn their meeting until a later date, as many who are interested in both organizations realize the necessity of prompt action in the hop matter.

"Swiped" a Suit of Clothes.

As J. Schwartz and wife, who conduct the new clothing store in the Rosenfeldt building were waiting on customers on Saturday evening, two rakish looking individuals entered and in a boisterous manner stated their purpose of purchasing some trivial article. As Mrs. Schwartz was endeavoring to please the two "gentlemen" of the road, and was engaged in removing goods from the shelf, one of the men very deftly picked up a suit of clothes that had been left lying on the counter, and placed the same under the folds of his huge ulster. Paying for their purchase the two men then walked out, no one in the store having seen the transaction except little J. D. Keck, who with his mother was in the store at the time. Mrs. Keck soon after informed the proprietor of the boy's observations and Marshal Grant was thereupon hastily summoned, who after getting a description of the two men started after them and rounded them up within a half hour, but not before the "Weary Willies" had cached away the suit of clothes. Returning with the two men to the store they were promptly identified by Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz as the perpetrators of the theft. They were arraigned before his honor Justice Taggard on Monday and on their guilt being clearly demonstrated were each given fines of $99 in default of which they were committed to the county bastille.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female disease quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. ## STATE PRESS OPINION.

An Indiana editor declares that the Boers are "practically without a navy." Perhaps he will be kind enough to explain what in the thunder they would do with one.—Tacoma News.

It would be a bitter pill for really patriotic republicans to swallow if the secret treaty said to exist between McKinley's government and England should lead this country to participation in the South African outrage.—Seattle Herald.

Character, not necessarily education, tells in the race of life. Dewey who was honored last week by millions of his countrymen graduated near the foot of his class at the naval academy, while Carter who was sent to prison last week, graduated at the head of his class at West Point.—Aberdeen Herald.

It is really too bad that the hop market is slow this fall and prices away down. If this commodity brought good prices what a chance it would be for the administration organs to howl about McKinley prosperity spreading its white wings over the hop fields.—Ellensburg Localizer.

The great question in Massachusetts this year is whether the constitution of the United States and the declaration of independence is to be endorsed or discarded as useless lumber in the onward march of imperialism and colonial empire.—Vancouver Register.

William J. Bryan in his speech at Dallas, Texas, said: "The Boers, in their struggle to maintain their republic, have the sympathy of all the American people except those who have abandoned the doctrine that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."—Vancouver Register.

A thing that would be laughable if it were not for the menace to the perpetuity of free government contained in it, is the ease with which the republican press made the transition from the bi-metallism with international consent plank of 1896 to the single gold standard plank of 1899.—State Journal.

After the seven months' experience amid the sea of "frozen faces" at Olympia—a congealed flood inspired by the famous capital veto—Governor Rogers must have been suffused with thrills by the cheers of our returning regiment when they recognized him near the Golden Gate.—Whatcom Blade.

An exchange says that the merchants who want newspaper men to roast peddlers, cheap john stores and the like would make newspaper men feel more like doing it if these merchants would quit using free letter heads of soap firms, gargling oil envelopes, baking powder statements, sidewalk advertisements and rubber stamps and patronize their home papers.—Chehalis Advocate.

The Germans of Iowa recently held a state meeting at Des Moines to celebrate the landing of the first German colonists in this country in 1683. The meeting was largely attended from all parts of the state. The speakers denounced imperialism and conquest and said every German who loved personal and political liberty must be arrayed against such a policy. Alliance with England was also denounced, sympathy with the Boers expressed and a protest was made against the Philippine expansion policy of the government.—Walla Walla Argus.

Americans are Americans wherever they may be. An entire corps of Americans is on the ground prepared to fight for the independence of the Transvaal republic against the trained horde of English usurpers. It is not difficult to understand to which side American sympathy will go, when a corps—consisting of two or more divisions, each of two or more brigades, indicating not less than 16 regiments, or 9,600 men, according to general army terms—of American volunteers already stands with the forces of the African republic. At the same time it is understood that the government at Washington has agreed to represent British interests in the Transvaal during the war.—Whatcom Blade.

For Liberty Always.

The Spokane Spokesman-Review declares that President Kruger will be disappointed if he expects the moral support of the American people in his war with Great Britain. The Review, we are happy to say, is about the only paper in this country that expresses sympathy with England in this unequal contest.

It is as inevitable as it is right and in such a war the sympathy of all true Americans should be with the Boers and against the British. Our history, our traditions, the breath of our own Declaration of Independence, the very instincts of our natures as free men, prompt us now as always they have done in the past to side with the oppressed against the oppressor, with the weak against the strong, with those who battle for freedom and the right of every people to govern themselves against those who deny and assail that right. The Boers have a cause as just and righteous as that for which the heroes of 76 fought, and every true friend of the rights of man will hope for the same glorious triumph as that won against like odds by the thirteen colonies.—Walla Walla Argus.

Children

THERE are many children in school who ought to wear glasses. Eyes which are naturally weak always become worse under the strain of constant study. Headaches, squinting the eyelids, holding the book close to the face, are all symptoms of eye strain and overwork. Children are frequently "marked down" in their studies through inability to make out characters upon the blackboard. The eyes of every pupil in the schools should be examined by a competent optician at least once a year. You cannot afford to be indifferent in this matter. By giving attention to slight defects now, their school work will not only be lightened, but the necessity of wearing glasses constantly in after years may be avoided. I will be glad to examine your children's eyes at any time. I will tell you in what condition I find them, and will advise you as to the necessity of wearing glasses.

Social Mistakes.

Perhaps the greatest of all social mistakes is to be continually talking about oneself. There is no word in all the vocabulary of conversation so tedious to others as that personal pronoun "I." Though one of the smallest words in use, there is none that takes up more room in the everyday world. "I" is a bore. It is better not to mention his name oftener than can be avoided. Another social folly is "gush." There is an insincere ring about it. True, there are people who gush from sheer good nature in wishing to give pleasure, yet they should remember that even amiable exaggeration is like a coarse sugar plum, agreeable at first, but leaving a doubtful taste in the mouth afterward.

On the other hand, there is a certain class of people in society who are equally foolish in going to the other extreme. They feign indifference about everybody and everything, seldom expressing either interest or admiration. They think it "bad form" to show any pleasure in life, and a sign of superiority to be incapable of enthusiasm. A social folly is to imagine that people are always looking at or thinking of you. Such ideas are often the offsprings of conceit. As a matter of fact, the people very often look at you without seeing or thinking of you. They have other things to think of. If we could only convince ourselves that we are not always the pivot of our friends' and acquaintances' thoughts, there would be fewer hurt feelings and imaginary grievances. — Spokane Spokesman-Review.

POPULAR FOLIAGE PLANTS.

The Dracaenas as Decorative Plants—A Desirable All Round Variety.

Among the popular decorative plants the dracaenas perhaps lead. Varieties of dracaenas at this time are almost legion and embrace great range of coloration and contour of foliage. D. (or Cordyline) indivisa is one of the most hardy kinds, very graceful, and is well adapted for vases, window boxes, etc. D. gracilis is another useful green foliaged one.

Among higher colored types D. terminalis and seedlings from it have for years been the most generally grown and for vases and outdoor subtropical bedding it seems to be the most satisfactory of all.

Kinds adapted for stoop, veranda and house purposes are D. baptistii, D. bausei, D. congesta discolor, D. Lindenii, and last but not least the subject of the illustration here reproduced from American Gardening. Its perfect contour, freedom of growth and pleasing color make D. fragrans one of the most desirable of the all round kinds. It is especially valuable for drafty hallways, staircases, windows and for room adornment, according to the authority quoted.

KISSED HER ON A BET.

She Was a Salvation Lassie; He, Her Husband--Traveling Men Didn't Know That.

A clever trick was worked by Walter Redmond and his wife at Union station by which several traveling men were lured out of their money. At the end of a long seat in the waiting room was a pretty and modest looking young woman attired in a Salvation Army uniform. She was very intent upon a paper which she was reading and paid little attention to the crowd of traveling men standing near her.

Aside from the crowd was a well dressed young man, who was walking back and forth by the newsstand puffing away at a fragrant cigar. Finally a member of the crowd of traveling men remarked upon the beauty of the little Salvation Army worker. All eyes were fixed on the little woman, and she received many compliments. The prosperous looking young man who had been walking near the group of drummers drew near to the crowd. He, too, was struck with the appearance of the woman.

"I'll give any one of you fellows $15 if you kiss that girl," said he.

Those in the crowd took the dare. One spoke up, however, and said to the stranger who had offered the money, "I'll bet you $20 that you can't kiss her."

The stranger hesitated for several seconds and then said:

"I'll just take that bet."

The money was put up, and the stranger, who had given his name as Walter Redmond, walked over toward the little woman in uniform, and, after bowing profoundly, took a seat by her side.

At first the woman seemed to be very indignant, and the traveling man thought he had the $20 won. A minute later, however, Redmond's arm stole around the woman's waist. The spectators then began to open their eyes wide. One of them said: "That fellow has a whole lot of influence over that girl. It may be that he is a hypnotist." Redmond talked for probably two minutes and then kissed the woman.

Redmond walked over to the stakeholder and received his money. He then started from the depot. The little woman quickly arose from her seat, and, taking his arm, walked to Ninth and Broadway, where the couple took an East Broadway car. Redmond is tall and handsome. His wife is a blond and is exceptionally pretty.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A HINT TO ARTISTS.

One Way of Putting Rejected Exhibits to Good Use.

They were riding on the Fourteenth street cars and their conversation was edifying. The man with the long hair was evidently a sculptor, and his companion, a large, jolly looking fellow, was trying to persuade him to present a work of art to some society woman who had a mania for collecting bric-a-brac and articles of vertu.

"I told her that you would, I thought, in time present her with some memento, a statuette illustrating your peculiar style. Was I wrong in saying so?"

The sculptor answered indignantly: "I know her value of art, and I tell you she cannot distinguish between manufactured trinkets and works of art. In fact, she thinks all artists are manufacturers and can turn out statuettes as easily as the rich stove ornament man who gave her a nickel plated male. Then, too, a brass fixture artist gave her something from the brass foundry, and she thought it great. Never, in my judgment, could she appreciate a true work of art."

"Then you refuse to give her a sample of your work? Remember, she has great influence."

"I do not refuse. I'll give her that model in plaster of paris which was refused by the committee last month. She will think it great, whether or not the committee did."

"Good! She will think it magnificent and get you an order."—New York Commercial.

Additional Local News

Judge Preble has sold his fine 10-acre ranch on Nob Hill to Mr. Sherman Ludlow, a new arrival from Oregon. The consideration was $2500. Mr. Ludlow is a brother-in-law of Attorney Vestal Snyder.

Passenger train No. 1, which arrives here at 5:30 a. m., was wrecked Monday night at Badger station below Kiona. Four cars left the track including an emigrant car and the smoker, although strange enough the engine did not. The train was delayed by the operation about five hours. Roadmaster Scow went down from this city hurriedly with men and appliances to put the cars back on the track. Underneath one of the cars the mangled body of a man was discovered who was presumably a tramp who had been safely ensconced on the trucks when the accident occurred and being knocked off by the sudden jar, had his life squeezed out by the trucks after the wheels struck the soft ground. Many passengers are said to have shed tears over the gruesome sight presented by his remains. The coroner went down on the following day and brought the mangled corpse to this city where it was given burial on Wednesday. There was nothing found in the pockets of the unfortunate to indicate his name. The fact that the switch was left open at Badger and the lights extinguished is the evidence in the minds of many passengers that a crime was contemplated by some one, the object perhaps being to rob the train. The railroad officials as usual are all very reticent about the matter, but detectives are said to be investigating the matter with the view of locating the perpetrators.

Jacques Still Here

A. J. Jacques, the man wanted in Fayette county, Iowa for the crime of bigamy, is still a star boarder at the Hotel Tucker and bids fair to remain there until the supreme court passes on the case, which will probably not be before March next. H. J. Snively, attorney for the accused on Tuesday applied for a writ of habeas corpus, which was promptly denied by Judge Davidson the same day. The attorney then gave notice of an appeal to the supreme court, the effect of which is to indefinitely postpone consideration of the matter for several months. Sheriff Hocking accordingly was obliged to return to Iowa on Tuesday night without his man.

The "hawkeye" sheriff was naturally much chagrined on account of having to leave his man here, as in such cases—failure to secure his man, he is forced by the statutes of his state to pay his own expenses. He stated, however, that he felt confident of securing his man the next time he came after him. Gov. Rogers signed the requisition papers last Saturday. Jacques is charged with having a wife at Davenport, Iowa and another at Portland. No others have turned up as yet.

Cape Nome Overrated

H. J. Jenks and W. H. Brownlow of Prosser returned on Thursday night after a long absence in the Klondike and Alaska, having come directly from Cape Nome. It was Mr. Jenks' misfortune to have been a passenger on the Sailing Schooner Hera, which arrived at Seattle on Monday after being tossed about at sea for the space of 30 days, having been driven far off her course by adverse winds. Their stock of provisions running short, the passengers and crew were reduced to the necessity of living on bread alone and very little of that. The privations endured had the effect of setting two passengers crazy, while the balance looked like skeletons on their arrival at Seattle.

Mr. Brownlow took passage on a steam vessel at St. Michaels and got down without any trouble.

Mr. Jenks, while he had a fair measure of success during his stay in the north, is pretty well disgusted with that country and will probably not return. He says that the beach diggings at Nome have been greatly overestimated and that none of the Yakima men that he met there had met with more than ordinary success.

Great in Sunnyside.

General Manager Granger of the Yakima Investment Co., stated on Wednesday in conversation with a reporter of this paper, that at no time since the great enterprise with which he is connected was begun, had the future of the Sunnyside country looked so bright as now. This state of affairs he explained was largely due to the splendid results that had been attained this year by the farmers of that section. To bear out his statement, Mr. Granger mentioned the fact that Dave Correll, a well known rancher who resides below Zillah, had just finished marketing the product of his 40-acre apple orchard which consists of trees only 5 years old. The sales from this orchard amounted to 1140 boxes at $1 per box. The varieties were Ben Davis and Mo Pippin.

Off the fruit ranch of W. J. Jordan situated near Zillah, eight acres of apple orchard consisting entirely of trees planted but five years, yielded nearly $2500. (The figures given are gross returns.) Mr. Jordan who is a non-resident had offered to sell this place last winter for $2500.

Fred Rowland who also resides near Zillah, lately got returns on a carload of green prunes shipped to Cincinnati where they were auctioned off bringing $1.25 per box, making a total (gross) of $1100 for the car. On learning of such results as the above the prospective settler seeking a home in the Sunnyside, soon makes up his mind that that is the country for him. Mr. Granger within the past seven or eight days has sold land under the canal to the following parties all of whom will become actual residents: Wm. J. Duffy of Minnesota, 40 acres near Outlook. Mr. Duffy is the father of 15 children, all of whom are boys. Geo. M. Berry of Skamania county 40 acres also near Outlook. Captain C. F. Whippey of New York City, 40 acres near Zillah. Captain Whippey is a retired seaman. John Chalmers also from the east, 20 acres near Zillah. A. G. Boller of Allison, Iowa, 80 acres near Sunnyside town.

From the quantity of letters of inquiry being daily received as the result of advertising done in the past Mr. Granger feels confident that the next few months will bring a large influx of homeseekers into the valley.
