OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

EVERY well informed American of unbiased judgment knows that the country press reflects the sentiment of the people much more accurately and truly than the metropolitan papers, and the reason is obvious. The country papers, as a rule, are near to the people, dependent upon them entirely for support, and as a result they reflect their opinions. The city papers, on the other hand, are apt to allow their editorial policies to be controlled by their business offices, which often leads them into the advocacy of measures which they know to be wrong. By way of emphasizing this point, the Cincinnati Enquirer of recent date quotes from a speech delivered by Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune, in an address delivered by that well known journalist at a recent meeting of eastern newspaper men. Mr. Reid spoke as follows: "There is no such thing in America as an independent press, unless it is out in the country towns. You are all slaves. You know it, and I know it. There is not one of you who dares to express an honest opinion upon some questions. If you expressed it you would know beforehand that it would never appear in print. I am paid $150 (a week) for keeping honest opinions out of the paper with which I am connected. Others of you are paid similar salaries for doing the the same thing. If I should allow honest opinions to be printed in one issue of my paper, like Othello, before 24 hours, my occupation would be gone. The man who would be so foolish as to write honest opinions would soon be out on the streets hunting another job. The business of a New York journalist is to distort the truth, lie outright, to pervert, to villify, to fawn at the feet of Mammon and to sell his country and his race for his daily bread, or what is the same thing, his salary. You know this, and I know it; and what foolery it is to be toasting the independent press. We are the tools and vassals of rich men behind the scenes. We are jumping jacks. They pull the strings and we dance. Our time, our talents, our lives, our possibilities are all the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes." What a fearful sermon is embodied in this tearful confession of a brilliant journalist; and to think that Horace Greeley's successor should reach such a pitiable depth of degradation. Seemingly Reid has grown weary of being a mere jumping jack and in a moment of candor threw discretion to the winds and hissed out to his associates his contempt for the mockery of the occasion. His confession proves the oft repeated assertion of reformers, that a large proportion of the metropolitan press has been corrupted by the wealth of Mammon, and their great power is used to betray their fellow men. "The trail of the dollar is over it all."

"SALESMEN are out of work. Trusts have a serious effect on commercial travelers. The big combinations get along with a very much smaller force than when the companies were working in active competition." The above was taken from the headlines of a news item that recently appeared in the columns of the P.-I. relative to the testimony given by P. F. Dowe, president of the Commercial Travelers League, who appeared before the industrial commission that has been holding sessions in Washington and looking into the matter of trusts. Mr. Dowe's testimony summarized is as follows: The great tobacco combination threw out of employment about 3,000 salesmen, the Continental Company discharging 350 in one day. The baking powder trust has discharged all but a few traveling salesmen and those remaining have had their salaries materially reduced. The bicycle trust will dispense with over 600 salesmen and will also cut out a number of agencies. The chair trust will likewise dispense with the services of 500 salesmen, while the Union bag and paper trust has already discharged several hundred travelers. The United States Rubber Co. as soon as formed, lopped off 300. The American Tin Plate Co. discharged 90 per cent of the solicitors in that line, while the American Steel and Rod Co. let out 300 in one day. The sugar and coffee trusts have thrown out over 1,000 salesmen, besides reducing the salaries of those remaining to $1,000 per year. The Standard Oil Co. now employs less than one-half the number they formerly did. In nearly every case, Mr. Dowe stated, the trusts had raised the price of the commodities they controlled from 5 to 100 per cent; the exceptions being the sugar and coffee trusts, which had not yet obtained full possession of their respective fields. The above list takes into account only salesmen who have lost their positions. They are but as a drop in the bucket compared to the great army of inferior employees, from clerks and book keepers down to ill-paid factory hands, who have lost or will lose their employment by means of these gigantic combinations. It is such hard and disagreeable facts as these that are opening the eyes of the American people to the enormity of the trust evil, which promises, if allowed to continue unchecked, to engulf them in the worst form of industrial slavery that civilized man has ever known.

IT is too bad that our government should regard it as advisable or expedient to exercise such a strict censorship over all news coming from Manila. The idea of having a censor at all seems rather un-American, especially in view of the fact that less than 18 months ago the whole Yankee nation was hurling jibes and maledictions at the Spanish for inflicting doctored news upon the world from Havana. So long as the censorship is maintained the people do not know how much to believe of the reports received from the Philippines. Three or four weeks ago the dispatches led us all to believe that the trouble was practically over and that Aguinaldo was suing for peace. Within the last few days, however, it seems that his army appeared in greater force and in better condition than ever, almost at the very gates of Manila. In addition, we have the almost daily assurance from Washington that the president will shortly call for about 15,000 more volunteers. If such a call is made it will be notice to the world that the insurrection is not yet near the end and for that reason, probably, the president hesitates about issuing it. At any rate, it is a matter of regret that the end is not near, for the American people are growing weary of such an unprofitable and long drawn out struggle, especially since they stand to lose with any kind of a termination. Questions of greater import than as to how those "yellow bellied" Malays are to be governed will soon come before the people for settlement and the ghost of the Philippine problem is not wanted to distract the public mind from a correct solution of them.

SENATOR Foster and his new forestry superintendent, Sheller, changed their minds about the removal of Mr. Fred Mathewson, of this city, who for the past year has had charge of the Rainier reserve. They discovered that the young man had too much "pull" with the powers that be in Washington to be so easily fired; so they did the next best thing and transferred him to the Olympic reserve, where he will be allowed to draw his salary and while away his time in the sleepy village of Shelton. Mr. Mathewson, owing to the fact that he owed his appointment to "influence" outside of the state, has naturally been regarded by the "push" as a "carpet-bagger." His place, it seems, was wanted for one of the legislative followers of the new senator. The incident plainly reveals to the public gaze the fact that the "Wilson machine" in this state is gradually being displaced by a Foster machine, which promises to become more offensively partisan than was its predecessor.

THE Colonel thinks that the two present congressmen are indifferent regarding the criticism of this paper on their method of appointing cadets. Well, well! No doubt about that; but THE DEMOCRAT voiced public opinion. Are the congressmen indifferent to that? Sarcasm will not answer for a defense, Colonel.

A Wonderful Exhibition.

The circus has come and gone and to say that the people of Yakima were delighted with it is putting it mildly. It was unquestionably the best exhibition of its kind that has ever visited this section.

The show came in, in five sections Sunday night, the first arriving about 10 o'clock. It having been announced that it would arrive at 8:30, hundreds of people gathered at the depot and prom- enaded up and down the new concrete walk for hours to see "the world's great- est show" come in and unload. People from a distance begun to arrive in large numbers on Sunday afternoon and eve- ning and in fact kept arriving all through the night. By next morning at 10 o'clock Yakima's streets were a seething mass of humanity with every body seeking a point of vantage from which to view the street parade, which was an exception- ally good one, including 20 elephants and a number of camels and dromedarys. Three brass bands and a steam calliope furnished the music.

After the parade a large crowd gather- ed around the tents and liberally patron- ized a side-show, where a big red faced man with a trumpet like voice invited all to enter to view the lady with the long hair, the three legged boy, the snake- charmer and etc.

The menagerie was thrown open at one o'clock and thousands swarmed in to inspect the animals and the general opinion seemed to be that the collection was a good one. The trained elephants, as usual seem to have a peculiar fascina- tion for the small boys who fed them liberally on peanuts. Promptly at 2 p. m. the performance in the great circus tent began and for two and a half hours the people were constantly entertained. Three rings and a platform were utilized during all this time, which made so much to see that the eye became wearied in trying to follow it all.

The leading features of the perform- ance was the splendid acrobatic work of the DaComa family, some feats of legerdemain by East India jugglers, the trained horse exhibition of Professor O'Brien, the splendid work on the trap- eze and last but not least the wonderful tricks performed by the trained ele- phants.

But few people would believe until they saw it done that these big ungainly looking animals were capable of such tricks as waltzing on their hind legs, blowing horns, beating a bass drum and drinking milk out of a nurse bottle, but these tricks and many more were per- formed to the great delight of the audi- ence.

It is estimated that between seven and eight thousand people saw the perform- ance in this city and practically all are unanimous in asserting that it was the best exhibition that they ever witnessed. The show left here in three sections in the evening for Walla Walla.

Cultivation of Sugar Beets.

It is too late to give information about preparing land for sugar beets and plant- ing the seed, but early enough to make suggestions about cultivation, writes F. E. Deeringhoff, to the secretary of the state fair commission. Parties having a good stand of beets should give them the greatest care during this month. The sooner the plants can be thinned the better. In rows about sixteen inches apart, thin from eight to ten inches in the row, and in rows twenty inches apart thin from six to eight inches in the row. The field should be kept free of weeds. Water can be used more freely in the fore part of the season than later.

After each irrigation, as soon as the soil is in condition, use the hoe, do not leave the soil to bake for one single day. The land should be protected by two to three inches of loose soil. After the beets are well advanced, say about an inch in diameter, let them suffer for water, in some respects. The roots of the beets will hunt for moisture, and will grow down, where otherwise when the plants get too much water, the roots will branch out in all directions and be unfit for exhibition. If the subsoil is in proper condition to allow the plant to send its roots down, sugar beets will grow from three to five feet in the ground. On the other hand when the subsoil is too solid, beets will raise above the ground. The parts of the beets grown above ground are unfit for sugar making because they contain too much impurities.

Yakima county has the soil to make sugar beet raising a success, as far as quantity and quality are concerned. The quantity can be made double as much as in humid climates, without ef- fecting the saccharine matter. A sugar beet weighing six pounds, can be very rich in sugar and test 14 to 18 per cent, where in other localities, beets of such weight will hardly analyze 8 to 9 per cent. On our Yakima soil the weight of beets can have a wide limit, from 1 to 6 pounds I may call here a standard beet.

Cheap Plant Stand.

Any boy can make this plant stand with a few laths and a few wire nails, and it need cost only a few cents, says Farm, Field and Fireside. If the women folks make it themselves, they had better make it the length of a lath, so that a saw need not be used.

This stand is not so frail as it looks, as the laths are quite strong when placed on edge. Make the shelves first and then make the frame and wherever the laths cross drive a wire nail through and clinch it. Paint the stand green.

Ways of Actors.

In the country one has few opportunities of meeting these children of nature. Occasionally one sees an individual or a company at the railway stations, and then it is curious to note how instinctively they treat the platform as a stage and take up the important positions on it. I wonder if acting now is as lucrative a profession as it was under Elizabeth. Shakespeare, we are told, got nothing to speak of for his plays, but made his fortune as an actor, and Allyn, another actor, after providing for his family, founded Dulwich school. Another curious point about actors is that they should not be content with their own names, like painters and writers, but take names, the ladies especially, that belong to other people. Is there no property in names? N. told me of a model of his who wished to go upon the music hall stage and whom he asked, "What should you call yourself?" "Oh, Alice Burne-Jones, certainly." Cornhill Magazine

Late Fall Work.

When everything is protected for winter, I prepare the hotbeds and cold frames for the next spring's use. It is much easier to remove the old soil and manure in the fall than when it is frozen in the spring. Besides it makes a good mulch for the small fruits to protect them during the winter. The soil for the hotbeds in the spring should be placed in the cellar or where it will not freeze, and I have found none better than well rotted sods mixed with a fourth part of old manure. Before the ground freezes I plow the portion of the garden that is to be sown or planted early in the spring, and if the furrows can be only set on edge and the ground left uneven and rough the better will the frost pulverize it, says a Country Gentleman correspondent.

Profitable Pullets.

The following interesting facts are given in a bulletin issued by the Agricultural college at Logan, Utah, as a comparison between old hens and pullets for egg production. The profit from the young hens or pullets is about five times greater than that of the old hens. Not only did the old hens lay considerably fewer eggs, but the eggs were worth less per dozen. Those of the old hens averaged less than a cent apiece, while those from the pullets, with the exception of pen 2, averaged more than a cent apiece. This is accounted for by the fact that the pullets laid a large proportion of their eggs in early winter, when the price was good. The old hens were 3 to 4 years old. In the experiment there were no 2-year-olds.

The effect of exercise on food consumption is also illustrated. The three pens having no exercise averaged 120 eggs, while those from the exercised pens averaged 146 eggs. The average food cost per dozen of eggs was for the nonexercised pens 6.5 cents and 5.3 cents for the exercised pens, over 22 per cent in favor of exercise. The fact, when studied in connection with the other fact that there was no appreciable difference in the relative weights of the fowls during the year, would seem to indicate that exercise such as was given is an aid to digestion, or, in other words, the exercised hen made a better use of the food. It took 22 per cent more food to make a dozen of eggs without the exercise than with it—in other words, 22 per cent of the food wasted by the unexercised hen. It was not used in the growth of flesh, for the weights show that the exercised hen was as heavy as the nonexercised. It seems to be a mere question of digestion. The exercise aids digestion and assimilation and prevents waste of food. It is also worthy of note that fowls without exercise laid heavier eggs than those with it.

Chickens For Hotels.

Watching a hotel steward selecting chickens for his large family at a Boston counter the other day, we asked why he was so particular about size, and his reply covered the whole question for growers to consider: "We charge so much for half a broiled chicken and must make a profit off the bird. For that reason it cannot weigh over 2¼ pounds, else it costs more than it comes to. Half a chicken is ample for a meat order, and more than this weight would be wasted. The fact is, we figure this question of quantity pretty fine, seeking to give enough to satisfy, but being careful about any excess. 'Tis business with us where we handle so many daily, and the change in style of serving has fixed the weights so that all live growers know when they ship into what class their birds are going."—Maine Farmer.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 16, 1899.

Having sanctioned a policy for the sending of soldiers to the Philippines that is a clear case of what used to be called "whipping the devil around the stump," Mr. McKinley has gone off on a ten day pleasure trip, with the very important object of seeing his niece graduate from a Massachusetts female college. Meanwhile private advices from Manila say that instead of ending the war Gen. Otis is likely to find himself and his army confined to Manila and its outskirts, before the rainy season is over, unless he is heavily reinforced. Mr. McKinley fears the political effect of issuing the call for volunteers, although he has several times decided to do so, and adopted the plan of sending a sufficient number of regulars to Otis to give him a total of 35,000 men. This is to be done in a way to bamboozle the public. Portions of regiments are to be sent and portions retained in barracks. And to the latter all the men enlisted at the recruiting offices are to be sent to be broke in, and nobody outside of the war department will be able to know whether the regular army is over enlisted or not. As early as last week every U. S. recruiting office was ordered to hustle and to keep it up until further notice.

The boldest witness who has testified since the Industrial Commission began the investigation of trusts was Henry O. Havemeyer, the president of the sugar trust, who was heard this week. After reading a carefully prepared essay, in which he claimed that trusts, and especially the sugar trust, were public benefactors, he said: "We are not in the business for philanthropic purposes. It is policy, sometimes, to divide our profits with the public, and we conduct our business on business lines. We have tried to sell so low as to shut out all competition, but up to the present time we are in it up to our neck. Trusts are a natural growth. They are regulated by the laws of trade, and neither you, nor the Federal government, nor any other power, can alter these laws, and the sooner you find it out and cease these useless investigations, the better for the country." Now that is a fine picture, isn't it? The head of one of the most notorious of the trusts which are driving individual enterprise to the wall and slowly but surely getting possession of the whole country, standing up and boldly telling the representatives of the U. S. government that they are engaged in a useless investigation of trusts, and that neither the federal government, nor any other power, is strong enough to stop the growth of trusts. Mr. Havemeyer was mistaken. There is a power strong enough to stop the growth of the trusts, and sooner or later it will do it. That power is wielded by the people, who pay the enormous profits of the trusts.

Representative Sherman's friends try hard to conceal their soreness over the Henderson bunco that he ran up against, but they do not succeed very well. For instance read the following remarks made by Ex-Representative Southwick, of New York, and it is easy to see that he does not believe Sherman was given a square deal: "Mr. Sherman accepts his defeat for the speakership with the utmost philosophy, and isn't in the least sore over Henderson's record-breaking victory. He never knew in advance of others that Mr. Reed contemplated retiring from the House, and his declination of the Customs Appraisership was not made prior to his knowledge of Mr. Reed's intentions." That sounds very much like pleading the baby act, as it was generally believed that Mr. Sherman did know in advance, and that he was Mr. Reed's choice for the speakership. In fact, it was Mr. Sherman's declination of an office that he had sought which gave the public the first intimation of Mr. Reed's intention to retire. Again, Mr. Southwick indicated his belief in bunco practices by the Henderson men when he said: "When the Illinois people put up Hopkins instead of Cannon, who would have had a large following outside his own state, they picked a fore-doomed non-winner. Had Joe Cannon been their candidate the result would never have been settled in advance of the meeting of congress." When the committee chairmanships are announced the Sherman men will understand still better how they were knocked out.

Ex-Gov. Bookwalter, of Ohio, who has lately returned from a three year's trip through Russia and its dependencies, has some new ideas of the Czar's country. He said: "I enjoyed the trip to Russia thoroughly, and arrived at the conclusion that Russia is a wofully misjudged country. No where have I seen a more pronounced tendency on the part of a government to promote the interests of its poor people. I think the prevailing delusion in America concerning the alleged tyranny of the Russian government arises from the fact that it will not tolerate crime. Justice there is swift and severe, but are we in a position to say that it is too swift and severe?" Mr. Bookwalter says that Russia is bound to be the dominant power in Asia and that if this administration carries out a hankering it has, unless he reads the signs wrong, to get into the Asiatic mix-up, the people of the U. S. will deeply regret it.

FARMERS.....

When you buy a Mower, Binder or Rake, you want only the best, because the best is always the cheapest.

THE Buckeye Mowers AND Reapers

Stand unrivaled for simplicity of construction and lightness of draft and they are honestly made, which gives them durability. Read the following Pointers concerning the advantages of the

Buckeye Mower:

POINTER 1*—H. K. Tillitt, manager of the Arkansas Valley Feed and Cattle Company, Lamar, Colo., says: "I am using six of your Buckeye Mowers. I use the Buckeye because it is the only mower that will cut the first and second bottom grass of the Arkansas valley, the toughest grass that grows. I have tried all the makes of mowers, but have fallen back on the Buckeye for good, because it is the only machine that fills the bill."

POINTER 2*—J. W. Schmitz, superintendent of the Miller & Lux Cattle Ranches, of Firebaugh, California, says: "Our twelve Buckeye Mowers are in almost constant use eight months in the year, cutting the several crops of alfalfa. We have tried all the leading makes of mowers but pronounce the Buckeye superior to all others in ease of draft, strength and cutting qualities. It also costs less for repairs than any mower we ever had on our ranches."

POINTER 3*—The proprietor of the largest hay ranches in the world is the Kern County Land Company, Bakersfield, California. For 1896 this company bought two Buckeye Mowers and an equal number of several other makes, including Deering and McCormick. The company took this method of settling the question of comparative merit for itself and in its own way. For 1897 the company bought twenty more Buckeyes and no other machines. For 1898 the company bought sixty-three additional Buckeyes, making eighty five in all, and the superintendent issues this general order for the guidance of all the company's ranches: "Hereafter we will use the Buckeye and not a mower of any other kind on our ranches."

The Buckeye Binder's Record

For 1898 was never surpassed—never. There was only one trouble—the factory was unable to supply the demand. Our '99 machine will be the most perfect of its kind ever placed on the market. Its new features are a Steel Deck and an Improved Knotter.

A Coming Issue.

In the past the policy of our government has been distinctively American. It has related to this hemisphere. Following the advice of the founders of the republic, complications in foreign affairs were studiously avoided.

After working well for more than a century, this policy has been abandoned by the present administration. The plan of action now involves concert of action with European powers. We are engaged in enterprises of subjugation which bring us into conflict with European interests and make possible frequent complications and embroilments. From being a distinctively American power we are branching out as a world power.

Under our old theory and practice we set up the Monroe doctrine, a declaration that Europe must keep hands off the Americas, that no further aggression must be made by foreign monarchs against this hemisphere. Tacitly this doctrine was accepted abroad. So long as we abstained from interference in foreign regions, the Europeans have not interfered with our chosen sphere of influence.

Now that we have taken a new departure there is growing in Europe a sentiment that we have voluntarily abdicated the guardianship of the Americas. The feeling spreads that we can no longer logically claim to be the sole arbiters of American destiny.

This European sentiment finds voice in an article in the Saturday Review, an able London weekly devoted to the discussion of large affairs. It argues that the continuance of the Monroe doctrine as a vital force is inconsistent with American participation in old world affairs. It points out participation in the peace congress and our proceedings in the Philippines as constituting a practical abandonment of the Monroe inhibition. It asserts that our claim to be the sole protector of the weak American republics is no longer tenable. Since we have mixed in old world matters, this continent is no longer immune from old world interference. The attractions of Central and South America are great. Africa is nearly all partitioned and China's division is almost accomplished. This hemisphere offers the only new field for aggression. So the Review urges that the time is nearly ripe for British accessions of territory in South America.

This contention was pointed out a year ago. The interference in Cuba was not an act that constituted an invalidation of the Monroe doctrine. Neither was the acquisition of Porto Rico. Both these islands are within our natural and proper sphere. The seizure of the Philippines and other far distant islands, with the half-concealed purpose of acquiring Chinese territory and the participation in European councils, constitute a different status. They give validity to the claim that we have abandoned our old position. When this point was first raised a number of the journals that took up with the imperialistic program promptly recognized its antagonism to the Monroe doctrine. The Oregonian was one of them. It derided that doctrine as unjust and worthless, and plainly expressed its belief that foreign intervention in South America is desirable.

If this country be strong enough, it can sustain the Monroe doctrine by force of arms against any or all who oppose it, without regard to the logic of the situation. The time is coming when it must make choice of the attempt to do so or of placid acquiescence in the partition of South America.—Tacoma News.

Liquid Air.

Liquid air is the thing that is interesting those who delve in science these days. Society has opened its sacred portals to Professor Tripler, and he has been freezing alcohol and making snow for the edification of the elect. Tripler himself is just recovering from an attack of pneumonia brought on by contact with the frigid air, and to be comfortable at an exhibition one should have a fur coat and Arctic shoes. If the cost of liquid air can be got down it will revolutionize power. Tripler claims that he has solved the problem and is now trying to convince moneyed men that he can deliver the goods. If the use of liquid air becomes common it will not be necessary to go to the sea or mountains to get cool in summer, for a few feet of it will make a cold storage chamber out of a room or an office.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a god-send to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Louis O. Janek, druggist.

Charles Barth, of Tampico, a well known citizen of this county was taken before Court Commissioner Preble on Thursday evening, charged with insanity. After being examined by two local physicians, he was adjudged insane by the commissioner and committed to the asylum. The unfortunate man was taken to Medical Lake that night by Sheriff Tucker accompanied by A. S. Paul as guard. Mr. Barth's mind is said to have become deranged over the question of religion. A great deal of sympathy has been expressed for his wife and family.

North Yakima on Monday last firmly established its reputation as a first class circus town. The proprietors of the great aggregation expressed themselves as well satisfied with the days receipts and everybody who witnessed the exhibition expressed themselves as well satisfied with the show. The number of paid admissions is said to have been 7890, while the number of "complimentary" out, was about 600. Besides it is estimated that there was at least 1000 small children admitted free. The management and discipline of the great show was all that could be desired as no "grafters" or "sure thing men" are permitted to follow it. The people who visited it will always remember the occasion with pleasure.

WASTED MANURE.

The Greatest Leak on the Farm — Value of Covered Yards.

"We cannot, in actual practice, apply the manure to crops as we make it, though we would desire to do so. As it is done in actual practice, the manure is thrown out of the stables and generally scattered over the yard to remain until needed or a convenient time comes to haul it out on the land. The sky is the roof, and the rains and snows descend and leach away the very best and most valuable ingredients. Roofed or covered manure yards were not approved of by our older authorities. Even so great an agricultural authority as Professor Storer speaks in a rather deprecatory way of covered manure sheds. Of late there has been a general revision of opinion along this line, since intelligent practice by actual farmers has proved the contrary of the general preconceived opinion.

"Quite a number of experiment stations have investigated the matter and reported some rather startling results. At Cornell the loss varied with the rainfall and other conditions, but ranged up to 62 per cent. The Geneva station reported a loss of 46 per cent, the Kansas station 50 per cent, and the Ohio station about the same. At the Massachusetts station the leachings, though 93 per cent water, were worth $2.94 per ton. Thus I might continue to cite many more instances pointing to the fact that about 50 per cent, or one-half of our yard manure, is annually wasted. The worst part of the matter is that the best half—the half that is readily soluble in water and could be used by the plants immediately—is wasted. The manure made on my little farm was worth over $500, so if carelessly handled and thrown out into the open yard to leach and ferment until the end of the season the loss would foot up at $200 or $250, or, in other words, I would have to purchase plant food ingredients to that amount to replace what passed off in gas or went down stream or into the rocks as leachings. If an item of that size is not worth looking after in these times of close competition, when there are thousands of farms barely holding their own, then I would like to ask how large a leak has to be to demand attention. This can be remedied quite inexpensively by constructing a roof over the yard, or part of the yard, to keep the manure under. The reason such shelters were not recommended in the past is because the manure was not properly handled and would fire fang or burn up from overrapid fermentation."

A writer in Country Gentleman, who has the foregoing to say about what he characterizes as "the greatest leak" on the farm, mentions also the requisites for bringing out manure in the most perfect condition for plant food and soil improvement:

The manure must be compacted as it is put on the yard. If the cattle are allowed on it, they will do this to perfection.

All the liquid manure should be incorporated with the solid and the bedding to produce an even and proper fermentation.

Some land plaster should be used in the stable and on the yard to absorb the odors. Dissolved South Carolina rock can be substituted, as it is in fact land plaster with 12 to 14 per cent of available phosphoric acid. Plaster generally costs $6 to $7 per ton, while the dissolved rock can be bought close to seaboard for $10 to $11 per ton, and by using it in this way it balances up the manure better, as it otherwise has an excess of nitrogen, and the phosphoric acid costs only 1 2-3 cents per pound, counting the plaster at $7 per ton. This plaster or rock will capture and hold all the ammonia that might otherwise escape during the process of fermentation.

Manure made and cared for in this way is valuable enough to be applied with care, and four tons per acre properly distributed is sufficient for any ordinary farm crop, and each crop should have about that much, which would make 12 tons in the course of the three year rotation. By using the manure spreader this can be so evenly distributed that each plant will get its share of food, and none will get an overdose. Topdressing is preferable whenever it does not interfere with the tillage of an intercultural crop. By having the manure sheltered we can apply it just when the crop is most in need of it or when most convenient to ourselves. Let us not forget the manure crop while we care particularly for all other crops and tools. Care and shelter here pay as well as with any of the others.

City Council Meeting.

The city dads held an adjourned meeting of the council on Wednesday evening and a great deal of important business was transacted. Mayor Fechter presided and Councilmen Keck, Hough, Schindeler and Sinclair answered to roll call. The clerk read the minutes of the preceding meeting, which were duly approved.

Attorney Whitson addressed the council asking for a building permit for his client, J. M. Murchie, which after some discussion was granted.

A resolution was read and passed declaring the city's intention to build a sidewalk on the west side of Sixth St. A second resolution was passed for the construction of a sidewalk on the east side of Front street between B and C.

A third resolution was passed declaring the intention of the city to improve Natchez avenue from C to Spruce street.

An ordinance was passed establishing a local improvement district for the construction of a side walk on C street.

An ordinance was submitted to tax bicycles one dollar per annum for the purpose of creating a permanent fund to build bicycle paths and repair streets. The introduction of the ordinance provoked considerable discussion and the same was laid over until the next meeting.

Councilman Sinclair asked that another hydrant be placed on the west side to insure better protection against fire. Referred to committee on fire and fire limits. Council adjourned.

The Plant Product of the Philippine Islands.

The Department of Agriculture has recently issued a report on the plant products of the Philippine Islands, which is particularly interesting at the present time. The report deals with the agricultural resources of the islands as they now exist, and shows that although an agricultural country, the islands do not produce enough food for the consumption of the inhabitants. In order to supply the deficiency, it is the custom to draw upon rice-producing countries, such as Cochin China. About one-ninth of the area of the Philippine Islands, or 8,000,000 acres, is devoted to agriculture. When the natural fertility of the soil is considered and the large amount of the rich land not yet cultivated, it can be assumed that with better agricultural methods the products of the islands could be increased ten-fold. Rice forms one of the most important food products of the islands; more than a hundred varieties are grown; the annual production is about 36,000,000 bushels. This is, of course, far below the actual requirements of the population, even when supplemented by other vegetables and fruits. Maize, next to rice, is one of the most important of the grain products of the Philippines, and the sweet potato follows maize in turn. Fruits grow in great abundance, bananas heading the list; Large quantities of sugar cane are grown, but owing to crude methods of manufacturing, the sugar is inferior in quality, and is sold for a low price. Cotton is not as valuable a product for the islands as it was once, owing to the successful competition of British fabrics. Formerly indigo was also one of the important products of the islands. Coffee plantations thrive well, but the coffee is not of the best quality and the plantations are not well managed. In most of the islands of the archipelago tobacco is grown, and over one hundred million cigars are annually exported from Manila, and the shipment of leaf tobacco averages about 20,400,000 pounds. The islands also furnish spices and the medicinal plants are abundant, but most of them are little known.—Scientific American.

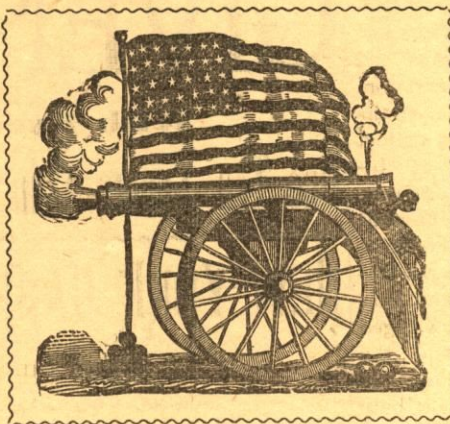

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Louis O. The entire German press are pronounced against imperialism, numbering over 800 newspapers in the United States. The Germans know what militarism means and thousands of them left the old country and came to America on purpose to escape it.—Vancouver Register.

If Congressman Henderson of Iowa decides to be as bitter and frothy a partisan as speaker of the house as he is in spectacular campaigning, the anti-faction republicans will regret the absent serenity of Czar Reed. Sammy Perkins, once private secretary to Mark Hanna, but now of the Tacoma News, evidently stepped on the P.I.'s corn when he asserted that the managers of that g. o. p. paper was refused admittance to the treasury of the National Committee, for the P.I. has let out a howl and says Sammy tells "fibs."—Seattle Review.

While some of the preachers were making speeches in the auditorium at Chicago denouncing the Declaration of Independence as the work of the devil a large congregation met in another hall and engaged in the worship of Buddha and other heathen divinities. While they were advocating the shooting of christianity into the Filipinos, the heathen was taking possession of their own town.—Ellensburg Dawn.

Hon. F. X. Schoonmacker, the man who was sent west last fall by Mark Hanna to explore the state of Washington, and dig deep into its political bowels, is going to establish a newspaper over on the sound to do up the P.I. The funny part of it is he is going to launch the new venture in Everett, a small city in Snohomish county. Why not go to Mukilteo, where he could have the field all to himself?—Ellensburg Localizer.

The Roseburg Review says that it is really funny to hear republican papers calling Senator Hoar a copperhead because he opposes expansion. And this same venerable Senator Hoar learned his political creed at the feet of Charles Sumner and Daniel Webster and stood by the cradle of republicanism when the party was born, during the troublous times of the anti-slavery crusade. Perhaps the so-called latter day republicans of the Mark Hanna brand will gravely inform us next that old Abe Lincoln was the greatest copperhead of them all.—Centralia News.

The Arkansas anti-trust law has been tested in the courts of the state, in the case of outside insurance companies doing business in that state and the result is the supreme court of the state of Arkansas holds that the anti-trust law passed by the late Arkansas legislature is not applicable to pools or corporations formed outside the state and doing business within the state. This permits any Arkansas interests to go outside the state for a corporate birth and residence but to do business within the state as though no such law existed. Yet the Daily Olympian contends that state laws must be depended upon to abolish trusts.—Aberdeen Herald.

The New York Sun in an editorial in last Sunday's edition says that Mr. Bryan is right for once and quotes him as saying that "the republican party is impotent to destroy trusts."

It goes on to say that "the republican party and the democratic party and every other party is impotent against trusts," and then goes on to talk about the denunciation of trusts by politicians and platforms as mere political declamation.

Of course every one knows that all the denunciation of and vituperation against trusts that the republican party will indulge in will be mere political declamation for the purpose of deceiving innocent voters. It is well known that the trusts will control the next republican convention and dictate its platform, and that the republican candidates will be pledged to betray the voters and defend the trusts, and that the trusts will support the republican candidates and contribute an enormous corruption fund to buy the election. Under these circumstances any person not a natural born idiot will readily understand that the anti-trust tirades of republican spellbinders will be insincere and only declamation for the purpose of holding in line a class of voters for whose intelligence and independence they have little respect.

But the trusts themselves well know that if the articles they control are to be put upon the free list that foreign competition will assert itself and their despotism in domestic trade will fall to the ground. The money kings and bond holders well know that with silver restored to its rightful place in our coinage that the general level of prices will advance and that individual enterprise will have a chance to prosper again and that the trusts will be unable to crush out individuals and firms under such circumstances. The editor of the Sun well knows that Mr. Bryan was right and he further knows that the democratic party can destroy the trusts and that the success of the democratic party next year will mean the doom of not only the industrial combinations but the parent trust of trusts, the money power in America.—Aberdeen Herald.

Back From Manila.

Mr. H. O. Fletcher, a nephew of Dr. Fletcher of this city, arrived on Wednesday night for a visit with relatives here. Mr. Fletcher comes almost direct from Manila P. I. where he has seen some hard service in the regular army, having been a sergeant in the celebrated fourth cavalry.

He sailed from Manila on May 15th, his five years of service having expired four days previously. Mr. Fletcher has a pretty thorough grasp of the situation in the islands and states that in his judgment another year will be required to subjugate the Filipinos. It would not take long he said, if the soldiers could get at them, but the natives were like the proverbial "Irishman's flea." Mr. Fletcher further stated his belief in the ability of the Filipinos to successfully govern themselves if permitted to do so. At the outbreak of hostilities the government of Aguinaldo was pretty generally recognized and that it was regarded as a progressive government, in as much as railroads, telegraph lines and many other modern improvements were in operation, while as for government, the natives have a congress and a president with cabinet officers.

A soldier's life under present conditions there, was almost the hardest lot imaginable. Mr. Fletcher made the acquaintance of a number of the Yakima boys and speaks in the highest terms of their courage in battle.

A New Business Block.

J. M. Murchie, who arrived here last week from The Dalles, Oregon, on Tuesday purchased from W. W. Fish through his agent H. B. Scudder, lots 5 and 6, block 51, which are the vacant lots adjoining Sawbridge's hardware store. The consideration was $4300. The new owner on the same day let the contract for the construction of a brick building on the premises, to Garrett Bros. and A. F. Switzer.

The new structure will, it is understood be 80 feet in length 50 feet in width and one story high. One store room will be used by Mr. Murchie and his associate, Mr. Corson as a bakery and confectionery, while the other will be for rent.

These gentlemen, who have been looking for some time for a new location, say that North Yakima is by far the best business point that they have visited in the Northwest and that they are entirely satisfied to invest their money here. The city council on Wednesday night granted Mr. Murchie a building permit.

By buying from Moore & Wenner, the Stationers, we saved $125, and we advise all our friends to do likewise, as they have only one price.
