There will be races during the afternoon at the fair grounds, a number of good horses being matched. At 3:30 o'clock a ball game will be called at Lund's park. The next attraction will be a balloon ascension. In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks. The day's festivities will wind up with a ball at the armory.

Hon. W. L. Jones has consented to deliver the oration of the day. A good time is promised by those in charge of the celebration and everybody is cordially invited to come to North Yakima to spend the glorious Fourth.

Rich Strike in Swauk District.
On Tuesday, A. H. Murray, a mining expert, sent into the Swauk mining district by Idaho capitalists, while prospecting on the ridge of the mountains a short distance from Liberty postoffice, found a ledge of white quartz protruding from the surface that from indications is the parent vein of the district. The ore is white tinged with iron rust color and free gold as large as the head of a pin stand out all over the specimen brought to Cle Elum Thursday. Mr. Murray says he can trace the vein for over a mile, and is confident that there is a body of several feet in width and depth. The specimens shown here will assay away up in the thousands. It is the richest looking rock ever discovered in this district. There is considerable excitement over the discovery, and many miners believe that the mother lode from which the placer grounds became impregnated has been found.

Horsley a Candidate.
The announcement was made this week that Frank Horsley would enter the race for the republican nomination for state senator. Mr. Horsley is apparently not taking much interest in the fight himself and is preparing to spend his summer vacation in a leisurely voyage to Alaska. His friends, however, are already quite active and will no doubt look after his interests in his absence.

Some of the local politicians are of the opinion that Mr. Horsley's candidacy is likely to conflict with the boom of James H. Fraser, since both gentlemen, they assume, would naturally appeal to the same element of the party for support. Such a state of affairs, they argue, would naturally have the effect of helping the candidacy of Dr. Hare. The situation, they say, remains practically the same as it has been, that is, Dr. Hare against the field.

On the other hand the friends of Mr. Horsley appear to regard that gentleman as a very promising compromise candidate. They admit that Hare and Fraser will be perhaps, the leading candidates but they affect to believe that neither of them can be nominated and after that fact has been demonstrated in the convention the nomination will drop like a ripe plum into the hands of the furniture merchant.

S. J. Harrison of Sunnyside and Walter J. Reed of this city are also factors in the senatorial contest that will have to be reckoned with. Both of these gentlemen promise to show up at convention time with a very respectable following.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Manley Bowers, a young man residing in the Ahtanum, while out hunting coyotes in the sage brush Saturday accidentally shot himself through the left leg. The story is that the trigger of the rifle that he carried got caught as he was passing through the sage brush and discharged the gun. The ball entered his right limb above the knee and passed clear through. He was brought to the hospital here.

MILWAUKEE ROAD COMING

Probable Extension of That System to Puget Sound From Chamberlain, South Dakota—The Milwaukee Reported to Have Purchased Tacoma & Eastern.

The Seattle Times of recent date published an article to the effect that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad is to be extended to Puget Sound from the present terminus of one of its northwestern lines, Chamberlain, South Dakota.

The Times says that President Earling of the Milwaukee has already purchased through other parties large holdings of tide lands both at Seattle and Tacoma which are to be used for terminal facilities for the new transcontinental line. These purchases have been made very quietly and were consummated before the news that the Milwaukee road is to be extended to the Sound had leaked out. Since that time the tide lands of Seattle and Tacoma have taken a great spurt in price.

The Times is also authority for the statement that the Milwaukee road has purchased the Tacoma & Eastern which is headed toward Yakima from the "City of Destiny." In fact that road is already extended eastward to within about 15 miles of Naches Pass and as is well known here the fixed purpose of the original owners of that road has been to extend it to North Yakima to a connection with the Northern Pacific. If this report is true that the Milwaukee has acquired the Tacoma & Eastern it undoubtedly means that the Milwaukee means to parallel the Northern Pacific through the Yakima valley, thence up the Naches through the pass of that name in the Cascades to Tacoma. It is also asserted that the Milwaukee has secured an option on the Interurban of Seattle. These new moves on the railway chessboard were all made or ordered made by President Earling of the Milwaukee road while on a visit to the coast in March and April. While on the coast President Earling visited various points on the Sound and thoroughly familiarized himself with the entire railway situation in the Pacific Northwest.

He made up his mind what his company wanted and has since proceeded to get it. The Milwaukee system is controlled by the Rockefeller-Harriman interests and the determination to extend it to Puget Sound is undoubtedly a result of the fierce war that has waged for months between Harriman and Jim Hill over the control of the Northern Pacific. In this struggle Hill has apparently worsted Harriman. The latter backed by the Standard Oil wealth has evidently determined that if he cannot control the Northern Pacific that he will have a line of his own to Puget Sound.

Should the new line be built it would unquestionably, in view of all the facts at hand, pass through the Yakima valley. Consequently the people of this section should feel a keen interest in the matter.

Back from the Convention.
George Donald arrived home Monday afternoon from his eastern trip which consumed five weeks. He first visited New York, where he remained two weeks, thence went to Montreal, Kingston and other points in Canada. Later he attended the republican national convention at Chicago, being one of the ten delegates from this state.

Mr. Donald reports a very interesting time at the convention notwithstanding the fact that the proceedings were what the politicians call "cut and dried" by reason of the orders received from the august chief of the White House. However, no restrictions were placed on the delegates and as the Garden City is a wide open town they all had a chance to enjoy themselves although the prices on highballs and cocktails were practically doubled during convention week.

Mr. Donald returns home imbued with the idea that Teddy will have as much of a walkover in November as he had at Chicago in spite of the prevailing hard times in the east.

Off For the Target Grounds.

Captain Dulin of Company E and his team of sharpshooters left here Tuesday morning for the state rifle range at Hillhurst, 20 miles south of Tacoma. The members of the rifle team that went over are Capt. Dulin, Captain Liggett, Lieut. Curry, Color Sergeant Geo. Van Buskirk, Sergeants Walter Rowe, R. R. Richardson, Ora Huxtable, S. C. Hand, Corporals Wayne Dulin, Marvin Thornton, D. C. Dulin, H. R. Humphrey, Ben Lisle, Wm. Hope, Alex. Ritehey; Cooks H. F. Thompson and Orrin Miller; Privates Hewitt, Farrel, Sinsal and Masters. The latter four boys will do pit duty on the target grounds.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

A Lamp Explodes in the Hands of Mrs. Maxwell of Yakima City With the Result That the Woman Lost Her Life.

Mrs. William Maxwell of Yakima City met a horrible death Sunday night, or rather early Monday morning, by being burned to death.

About 9 o'clock as the unfortunate woman was preparing for bed a lamp that she carried in her hand suddenly exploded throwing the burning oil over her clothing. Instantly the woman's clothes were a mass of flames. Being badly frightened she did the very thing which she ought not to have done which was to run out in the open air. She ran screaming to the house of a neighbor, Mrs. Adkins, nearly a block away. There young Adkins threw a bucketful of water on the shrieking woman extinguishing the fire but not before her clothes had been almost entirely burned off the woman.

Neighbors hurried to the rescue and carried the frightfully burned woman into the Adkins house. Physicians were sent for and on their arrival did all that was possible to alleviate the woman's sufferings, but she died in great agony at 3 a. m. Monday morning. It is understood that the remains were shipped to her relatives who are said to be well to do people of Seattle.

The house during the excitement burned to the ground. The woman's child, which slept in an adjoining room to where the fire started, was saved, but the furniture and other contents were lost. The house was a rather old one that belonged to George Gervais and was not insured.

The Maxwell family were in very poor circumstances, the woman's husband being a day laborer.

Maxwell and his family had lived at Yakima City but a few weeks and were not very well known by the people there. Three brothers of Mrs. Maxwell, Joseph, Henry and Thomas Brooks, on being notified by wire of the terrible accident, came over from Seattle Monday and arranged to have the remains of their sister shipped to Seattle for burial by Shaw & Flint.

Harris Murder Trial Postponed.

The case against Mrs. Jeannette Harris at Spokane was postponed this week to the first Monday in September. The case had been set for June 28 and a number of witnesses went over from here to testify. The Spokane court, however, was unable to reach the case at this term and it therefore went over.

Owing to the poor mental and physical condition of Mrs. Harris the attorneys are making an effort to have her removed to the Medical Lake asylum pending trial. The accommodations at the Spokane jail are not suitable for one in her condition and it is thought best to have the unfortunate woman confined at the asylum where she can have proper attention.

The witnesses in the case who went from here Monday returned Thursday with the exception of Dr. Wells, who went to Seattle. Those returning were Dr. Burns, Sheriff Grant, A. J. Shaw, D. Hinds, J. T. Bragg, James Brammer, Mrs. A. Bowman, Alex. Harris and his sister, Pearl Harris.

Orpheum Theatre Opening.

A large crowd of people turned out Monday night to attend the opening of the new Orpheum theatre. It is estimated that not less than 1000 people secured tickets to witness the two performances of the opening evening. In addition a large number of people were turned away as the capacity of the house was taxed to the utmost.

A very interesting program was rendered by the specialty artists.

DEATH BY DROWNING

Charlie Shaw Meets Death in the Yakima Wednesday—Drowned Boy a Former Employee of the Democrat.

Charlie Shaw, aged 18 years, met death by drowning in the Yakima river Wednesday afternoon about 2 o'clock. He and several other boys had gone into the river to bathe at a point just below the slaughter house. Young Shaw, the other boys say, was unable to swim, but being possessed of a venturesome disposition, he walked out into the swift water and probably before he realized it was taken off his feet by the current and carried down stream. He called for help and the other boys attempted to aid him, but were unable to reach the drowning boy before he sank the last time on account of the swift current.

Two of the boys brought the news up town and as quickly as possible several men, including Fred Shaw, Charlie's brother, ran to the river. Harry Brown after diving in the pond several times finally located the body and brought it to the surface. Thinking that life might yet be restored the men worked with the body for some time. A physician was hastily summoned and applied restoratives, but it was of no use. The body had been in the water too long. The remains were brought to the undertaking parlors of Shaw & Flint, where Fred Shaw is employed.

The deceased was a good boy at heart although somewhat inclined to be reckless. He had worked intermittently at the printing trade and was employed for several months last fall and winter as a compositor on the Democrat.

Fred Shaw in coming out of the water after making a search for the body, dropped on the river bank in a fainting condition, the result doubtless of over-exertion. As he suddenly fell his head struck a fallen tree with the result that he was rendered unconscious for a time.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Mary Shaw, mother of the deceased, died, and their sister, Mrs. Elmer Pierce, is now confined at the hospital, having undergone a very dangerous surgical operation on the day that her brother was drowned. It is said that she is not yet aware of Charlie's death. The funeral of the drowned boy was held yesterday afternoon from the undertaking parlors of Shaw & Flint.

A False Report.

David Longmire, the well known pioneer of the Wenas, feels very much incensed, naturally enough. Thursday night of last week a report reached town that Mr. Longmire had been killed by a neighbor, Holl Taylor, in a quarrel over water. As the result of the report there was considerable excitement manifested in this city.

It soon developed that there was not a particle of truth in the story. Mr. Longmire, who was in the city Monday, says that so far from quarreling with his neighbor, Mr. Taylor, his relations with that gentleman have always been very pleasant. Both he and Mr. Taylor have been very much annoyed at the false report and they say that if they can locate the man who started the foolish story they will prosecute him.

Aged Woman Dragged to Death.

Mrs. Emil Gendron, aged 70 years and a resident of the Moxee, was the victim of a runaway near her home, Wednesday evening which cost the unfortunate woman her life.

The accident happened while Mrs. Gendron was driving to the Moxee cemetery. She was going there to decorate the grave of her son and was accompanied by Mrs. Beddoe, a neighbor, and the latter's two children. While going down a hill some part of the harness broke, causing the buggy to run onto the horse. The animal became frightened and started to run, throwing the aged woman between the body of the vehicle and a front wheel. In this position with her head on the ground she was dragged for several hundred feet, finally getting disentangled from the wheel. She was picked up in an unconscious condition, and died within an hour. Mrs. Beddoe and the children were thrown out of the buggy, but escaped with slight bruises. The deceased was the mother of Mrs. Bergevin and Mrs. Longevan of the Moxee. She was also the mother of Ulric Gendron, a clerk in the Schott Co.'s store who died last October.

Boy Dragged to Death.

Word reached this city Monday from Mabton that the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Christy of that place was thrown from a horse that day and killed. A foot caught in the stirrup as he was thrown out of the saddle and the frightened horse ran a long distance dragging the boy before being caught. When picked up, however, the boy was still alive but shortly after died.

THE ONLY WAGON...

That has always stood the rough service of Uncle Sam's work is THE STUDEBAKER. The only wagon that has been the freighters' best friend in his long, hard hauls over the rough and rocky roads is THE STUDEBAKER. The wagon that is made of the best seasoned timber and by the best workmen, who are paid by the day, not by the piece, and consequently do not slight their work—is the wagon that has been tested harder than any other wagon now made and has always given satisfaction. We are selling THE STUDEBAKER wagons, hacks, surreys and runabouts and if in need of anything in this line we can surely please you in both style and price.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

In and About the Hub of Central Washington.

Mrs. Nettie Bigger of Spokane is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. F. T. Liggett is visiting with friends at Zillah this week.

A majority of the farmers will finish stacking their first crop of alfalfa this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cline were guests of C. A. Rhodes and family at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. George H. Funk of Olympia, who arrived Sunday on a visit to her brother, W. W. Robertson, left for her home Friday.

Frank Horsley and A. B. Weed have concluded to join the Alaska excursion party that will leave Seattle on the Roanoke July 6.

James T. McElroy of Seattle, attorney for the N. P. Ry. company, was in the city Thursday and Friday, having a case in the superior court.

Postmaster Will Lemon has been laid up this week from the effects of coming in contact with poison-ivy. He was reported to be improving Friday.

The thermometer every day this week has registered from 90 to 96 in the shade. Hot enough for anybody. "How would you like to be the ice man?"

Mrs. George Gandy gave a very pleasant card party Wednesday afternoon at her home on north Eighth street. Grand was the game played. Elegant refreshments were served.

Miss Florence Scow and Miss Avery Flint arrived home Thursday from Oberlin, Ohio, where they have been attending the conservatory of music of Oberlin college since last September.

County Supt. Dickey's summer normal school for teachers opened in the Lincoln school building last Monday with about 25 students in attendance. Mr. Dickey anticipates a large attendance after the fourth.

J. D. Cornett expects to leave here Saturday night to be absent at least 30 days. He will first go to St. Louis thence to Cincinnati to attend the grand lodge of Elks. Later he will go to eastern Canada to visit relatives.

Married, on Wednesday evening at residence of bride's parents on Nob Hill, Clarence O. Brown and Miss Eva Whitel. Rev. F. L. Hayden officiated.

J. C. Painter of Walla Walla was a Yakima visitor this week, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. C. J. Lynch.

The hot weather of the present week while uncomfortable for the individual has been warmly welcomed by the hop growers. It is believed that old Sol's piercing rays will effectually dispose of the hop-lice, thus preventing the necessity for spraying on the yards in the lowlands.

W. F. Powell has recently finished his contracts of laying a 12 foot cement walk in front of the Allen, Weed, Libby, Janek, Kershaw, Taft and Ward buildings on Yakima avenue. The pavement is a credit to the good workmanship of Mr. Powell and is certainly a great improvement to the city.

Fred Alter and Jack Lyette have bought the following lots of wool during the past week: Alex. Fashion, 15,000 pounds, 10 1/2 cents; Tom Smith of Edensburg, 30,000 pounds, 10 1/2 cents; Mr. Olney, 18,000 pounds, price private. They have shipped the wool on consignment to the eastern markets.

Next Wednesday evening will occur the installation of the newly elected officers of the local lodge Knights of Pythias, as follows: Dick Hauser, C. C.; Arthur Pierce, V. C.; Harry Murchie, prelate; W. I. Lince, M. A.; W. F. Powell, I. G.; B. W. Pickett, O. G.; F. A. Curry, M. A.

The Democrat is in receipt of a very interesting letter from one of its subscribers, Rev. L. M. Seroggs, a Presbyterian pastor who formerly resided in this city but who is now located at Pony, Mont. Our good friend announces that he was married at Greenfield, Mo., March 28, 1904, the bride being a girl friend of his boyhood days. Their many friends will join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Seroggs happiness and prosperity.

Attorney Logan H. Roberts is acting in the capacity of police judge for a few days while Judge Lynch is taking a short vacation.

Farming in Oregon.
Jesse W. Thornton, of Fruitvale, returned Wednesday from a two weeks' visit to Roseburg, Ore. Mr. Thornton says that farming in that district is not likely to prove a very paying venture this year. There has been a scarcity of rain and this has played havoc with the hay and other crops, retarding growth to a large extent. Italian prunes which Mr. Thornton says are the principal fruit product of the district, are dropping from the trees through some cause not explained, and the yield will not be nearly as large as usual. Mr. Thornton says there is no place like Yakima and he is glad to be back. This office acknowledges the receipt of a box of delicious comb honey from Mr. Thornton's apiary.

New Suits Filed.

The following new suits have been filed with the clerk of the superior court:

Ontario Land Co. vs. City of North Yakima, action to quiet title.

J. B. George vs. Wm. McAuliffe and Mary McAuliffe, debt.

E. G. Harter vs. F. Groshen, accounting.

W. L. Leonard vs. T. C. Gorrell and wife.

Cascade Lumber Co. vs. J. B. Dearing, foreclosure of lien.

Cascade Lumber Co. vs. L. O. Janek, and Logan Daring, foreclosure of lien.

Clinton D. Harmon vs. Cordelia Harmon, divorce.

SUPERIOR COURT GRIND

Another Rapist Convicted—Number of Criminal and Civil Cases Disposed of This Week.

The criminal docket was practically exhausted in the superior court this week. The following cases were disposed of since the Democrat's report of last week:

State vs. Robert Baker, charged with burglary. T. D. Geizentanner of Kiona, prosecuting witness in the case, charged the defendant with breaking open the shack on his ranch and stealing a gun and other articles. The jury after being out but a short time brought in a verdict of not guilty. The prisoner was defended by W. M. Thompson.

E. J. Lamont was placed on trial Saturday morning charged with grand larceny. He was accused of stealing clothing from the store of Mailloux & Co. last April. The verdict rendered by the jury was that the prisoner is guilty.

S. J. Graham, the Cowiche man charged with rape on 14 year old Ella Morton, the daughter of a neighbor, was placed on trial Saturday. Miss Morton went on the stand and told of having spent the night of May 6 with Graham at the Olympia lodging house. The evidence against the prisoner was regarded strong enough by the jury to justify a verdict of guilty as charged. Graham was very ably defended by Attorney John H. Lynch.

In the case of the state vs. J. J. Nally, charged with larceny by embezzlement committed at Prosser last April, where he was accused by his employer, a merchant, of stealing $35.00 from the till, the jury was out all Monday night on the case, but failed to reach a verdict and was discharged by the court Tuesday morning. It is reported that the jury stood 10 to 2 in favor of conviction. The prisoner is a mere boy, 19 or 20 years of age.

Fred Smith and F. W. Mueller were tried Monday for circulating spurious bank bills. Both prisoners were convicted, the jury recommending Smith to the mercy of the court.

The balance of Tuesday was spent in the trial of the case against R. Beebe and James Thompson, charged by F. Groshen with having appropriated 291 sacks of potatoes, the property of Groshen, near Toppenish. The defendants farmed land rented from Groshen. The jury quickly decided the case in favor of the defendants.

J. P. Funnemark, arrested on the charge of purchasing hogs and issuing in payment therefore a check when he had no funds in the bank, was placed on trial Wednesday. The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal, but the prisoner was promptly re-arrested on a new charge.

A damage case brought by a former employee of the Cascade Mill company, against that corporation, for personal injuries alleged to have been received while in their employ, was tried Thursday. The jury during Thursday night arrived at a verdict in favor of the Mill company.

The damage case of J. R. Armsworthy vs. the Northern Pacific Express company was tried Thursday and Friday. This is a suit brought by Mr. Armsworthy to collect damages from the defendant company because of the death of his 18 year old son who was killed in this city in June, 1903, while driving a delivery wagon for the express company. The case was in the hands of the jury as the Democrat was going to press.

Unless Hoffman Anderson, accused of rape on the person of Alma Anderson, his 17 year old niece, changes his mind again, he will probably be taken into court today and given an opportunity to plead. The assumption seems to be that he will enter a plea of guilty. Anderson's brother arrived here from Duluth, Minn., the first of the week for the express purpose of aiding the prisoner in his difficulty. It is said that after the brother had investigated the case he turned about and went home leaving here Thursday morning.

A "Full" Pail.

The New York World announces that 2500 clerks in Wall street have lost their positions on account of hard times. According to the World a large number of clerks and stenographers have been informed that they must either accept a 25 per cent cut in salaries or take vacations without pay.

What has become of the republican promise of 1900: "Four years more of the full dinner pail." Is it possible that after all the boast and bombast of Wall street leaders and republican orators, the things known as "republican prosperity" is a delusion?

On this point the secretary of the treasury presents interesting testimony. On June 1, 1903, there was a surplus in the treasury of $38,946,619. On June 1, 1904, there was a treasury deficit of $52,272,841. Mr. Shaw explains that the payment of $50,000,000 for the Panama canal and the $4,000,000 loan to the St. Louis fair are responsible for the deficit, and that but for these items there would now be a surplus of $2,400,000.

But even with Mr. Shaw's figures, it will be admitted that there is something of a difference between the surplus of $38,946,619 on June 1, 1903, and Mr. Shaw's imaginary surplus of $2,400,000 on June 1, 1904.

Newspaper readers will doubtless remember that in his last annual report Mr. Shaw predicted a surplus of $12,000,000 for the current year. There is, also, something of a difference between Mr. Shaw's estimated surplus of $12,000,000 and the actual deficit of more than $52,000,000.

There are some reasons for believing that republican leaders will find it convenient in this year of 1904 to put the "four years more of the full dinner pail" slogan in cold storage.—Commoner.

Yakima City.

Warm weather now, but it is the right kind for curing hay.

James Weaver and W. Cowles expect to spend the Fourth in Goldendale.

Dr. Stover's haying crew finished the first cutting yesterday. The crop is fully up to the usual weight.

This community has been treated to several runaways this week, the last being a spin around the meadow by Dr. Stover's big grays. The damage was slight, however.

Mr. Thomas, who lives on the Osterlander place, expects to move this week to Seattle. We are sorry to lose Mr. Thomas as he is a desirable citizen and a good neighbor.

A few nights since Mrs. Carmichael's store was broke into by one of our city boys and a small amount of cash taken from the till. The boy was soon run down by the marshal and made to confess. Out of consideration for the lad's parents he was not prosecuted.

Our people were very much shocked by the horrible death of Mrs. Maxwell who was so terribly burned Sunday night by the upsetting of a lamp that she died early the following morning. The bereaved husband and motherless child of the unfortunate woman have the sympathy of the entire community.

The warm weather is now here and still there is no sign of a general and needed cleanup in our city. The board of health ordered this work done several months ago, but there has been nothing done as yet. If an epidemic of fever should strike this city we wonder if it would still be called a "visitation of providence."

Wapato.

Mr. Ludwig and son, Harold, were North Yakima visitors Monday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John Carroll, June 22, twins, a girl and a boy.

Miss Dorsett of the School Section is visiting her cousin, Miss Stella Dorsett this week.

Jake Kaler has just finished painting his hotel which improves its appearance very much.

Prof. Melvaine is at North Yakima pursuing his duties as instructor in the summer normal.

The farmers here are now all through with their first cutting of hay. The yield was not quite so good as usual on account of so much cool weather.

See how we grow! Wapato is to have another store. Mr. Piland will start up a barber shop and we are to have a new harness shop. Just keep your eye on Wapato.

John Ludwig will soon finish siding the last of his alfalfa. He will soon have one of the finest hay ranches on the reservation, having 240 acres in alfalfa all in one body.

The lumber is on the ground for the new section house, also the material for the new steel bridge. A portion of the bridge being out makes it hard on the Parker fruit men as Wapato is their nearest shipping point.

The farmers are now all hustling for water for the next crop of alfalfa. Some fear that the canal will not carry enough water on account of so much new land being under cultivation. The people here think that the officials should be careful about leasing more land than they can supply water for.

Mabton.

Dr. Frank, the county health officer, inspected the sanitary condition of Mabton last Saturday.

Chas. W. Duffy shipped four cars of potatoes to Minneapolis today.

W. M. Martin who lies very ill at the hospital in North Yakima, is reported to be slowly improving.

H. A. Shandy left for Kiona last Sunday, where he has accepted a position as clerk in the store of Kelso Bros.

The North Yakima Milling company bought 288 sacks of wheat Wednesday of Tom Hooker, and 470 sacks from Henry Schaffer of Bickleton. The grain brought 73 cents per bushel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Stair left yesterday for North Yakima, where Mrs. Stair will spend several weeks during the hot weather. Mr. Stair will go to Fort Simcoe to purchase some horses at that place.

SOCIETY COLUMN

A Number of Interesting Social Events During Past Week—Local Society People Active in Spite of Hot Weather.

The social event of the season was the card party given by Mrs. N. S. Johnson at the Hotel Yakima Friday night. The decorations were very elaborate, red roses in the reception hall and drawing room, pink roses in the parlor, nasturtiums, in the dew, and the veranda was crowded with potted palms and ferns, over which hung an air light. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. B. W. Pickett, Mrs. M. B. Miles and the young ladies who served were Miss Bessie Seudder, Miss Nan Seudder, Miss Lucy Seudder, Miss Virginia Coburn, Miss Clara Graham, Misses Katherine and Alma Lesh, Miss Rowena Case, Miss Marion Miller, Miss Gladys Diteman, Miss Marla Diteman, Miss Marjorie Krutz, Miss Edna Walker, Miss Ida Sharkey, Miss Bessie Hall, Miss Vivian Englehart, Miss Marian Whitson, Miss Jessie Snively.

Whist was played until 12 o'clock. The score cards were heart shaped with pictures of colonial men and fencing girls. Between games the young ladies served punch.

The prizes were very costly. The ladies prizes were won as follows: First, an ornamental rose jar, Mrs. Adams; second, ornamental vase, Mrs. A. C. Cowling; consolation, silver fern dish, Mrs. A. E. Larson.

The gentlemen's prizes were: First silver collar button box, H. D. Baylor; second, silver mounted razor strap, F. C. Hall; consolation, ornamental tobacco jar, M. H. Grover.

At 12:30 the guests adjourned to the dining room where an elaborate cold luncheon was set. The room was decorated in green and white syringa and potted plants. The menu was as follows: Cold sliced turkey, cold sliced chicken, eastern ham, crab salad, potato salad, olives, burr pickles, pin money pickles, Parker House rolls, moonshine ice cream, cake, coffee. About 350 were present.

Mrs. Ida Sharkey is entertaining W. L. Steinweg's sister, Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Anna Adams sang "I am a Pilgrim, I am a Stranger," at the Congregational church Sunday morning. Mrs. Dehl accompanied her.

The Misses Cameron entertained a number of their friends Thursday afternoon at their home in the Moxee. Tennis was played and delicious refreshments served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Gandy, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Miss Nan Seudder, Miss Bessie Seudder, Miss Clancy, the Misses Cameron, Irvin Bounds, Del Hisecock and Mr. Cameron.

Mrs. E. P. French of Elma has been visiting her brother, C. C. Case. She returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Telford, who has made North Yakima her home for the last three years, returned to her home in the east Thursday.

The ladies of the St. Michael guild were entertained by Mrs. H. J. Snively of Nob Hill on Friday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. O. A. Fechter entertained at luncheon Saturday noon in honor of Mrs. Fred Carter who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ella Stair.

The marriage of Miss Jessie E. Fretz, the German teacher in the high school this winter, and Mr. Arthur Ingram, took place on Wednesday, June 29, at Colfax.

Miss Morjorie Moran left Monday morning for Walla Walla to be bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Eva Switzler.

Mrs. Ella Stair and Mrs. Jennie Bartholet, in honor of Mrs. Fred Carter of Hawaii and Mrs. McKay of Manila, entertained a number of their friends at "Grand" Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Bartholet's home on south Sixth street. The parlor was profusely decorated in roses and honeysuckle, the dining room in nasturtiums, and the porch in potted plants. The prizes were won by Mrs. Cornett, first; Mrs. Weigel, second; Mrs. Sloan, consolation. Those attending were Mesdames Pennington, Vance, Fechter, Sloan, Gilbert, Cline, Jarnegon, Cornett, Snyder, Maxwell, Miles, Tennant, F. Lemon, James, Rankin, Lombard, Snively, Martin, McKay, Thomas, Carter, Dills, Weigel, Chandler, Misses Cameron and Seudder.

Mrs. J. S. McClure entertained a number of her friends at a picnic given at her home on north Cherry street. The guests spent the day on the shady lawn and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. Those present were Mrs. Weed, Mrs. Horsley, Mrs. Darling, Mrs. Lesó, Mrs. Personus, Mrs. Whitson, Mrs. Kinney, Miss Seudder, Miss Clancy, Misses Clara and Marion Whitson, Miss Alma Lesh, Mrs. McClure.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Krutz chaperoned a number of young people Tuesday evening at a dancing party at Phillips' hall. The young people met at Mr. Krutz's residence on Naches avenue and after dancing at Phillips' hall returned to the hostess' home where pineapple sherbet, cake and lemonade were served. Those present were Misses Caddie Lesh, Vivian Englehart, Marla Diteman, Gladys Diteman, Edna Walker, Ida Sharkey, Marjorie Krutz, Messrs. Johnson, Huxtable, Jones, Caeras, Holmes, Hayes.

Mrs. Virginia Bartholet and Mrs. Ella Stair gave a card party Tuesday afternoon at the latter's residence in honor of Mrs. Clark of Seattle, Mrs. Dean Stair of Mabton, Mrs. McKay of Manila and Mrs. Fred Carter of Kaumela, Hawaii. The card tables were scattered about the beautiful rooms and the cool veranda. The decorations were Hawaiian Tea roses and sweet peas. The prizes won were, Mrs. Sharkey, first, pin made of Hawaiian coin; second, Miss Mary Cameron, picture of Hawaiian Belle; consolation, Mrs. W. L. Jones, lace handkerchief. Lemonade was served during the game by Miss Myrtle Clark. Music was furnished by Miss Helen Scott. Ice cream, cake and coffee was served. The invited guests were: Mesdames Carter, McKay, D. D. Stair, Clark, Whitson, Graham, Horsley, Gandy, Jones, Donald, Weed, Cameron, Johnson, Moore, Arnold, W. Lemon, Lesh, Personus, Parker, Erwin, Case, Sharkey, Wilkinson, Rigg, Krutz, Funk, Blanker, Williams, Cook, Longuet, Moran.

Card parties are quite the fashion and tennis continues to be popular. All the guilds and aid societies have social meetings, and society is quite gay in spite of the hot weather.

What Good Roads Will Do.

It is necessary to deal in large figures when discussing good roads, for the department of agriculture has recently figured out that it costs the farmers of this country $950,000,000 a year to move their products to the railroad stations.

It follows, therefore, that if this cost can be reduced, there will be a corresponding saving to the farmer who has products to move. The reduction can be effected by road improvement, so the farmer, in asking for better highways, is asking for something that will put money into his pocket.

If good roads were universal—if the dusty, rutty, rough, poorly graded roads were replaced by level, well graded, improved roads—it is estimated that the cost of transporting products on the country highways would be cut down two-thirds. This would be equivalent to a yearly cash distribution of more than $600,000,000 among the farmers who would use the better roads, an amount sufficiently large to warrant attention being paid to this important subject.

The money value of good roads to that class which uses them most and is most dependent upon them is here clearly shown. Farmers generally look at the cost of building good roads and at their share of the cost without a full appreciation of the benefits that would follow good roads construction. They are apt to forget that good roads will connect them with their markets in all seasons of the year without interruption; that it will increase the capacity of all their wagons and the drawing power of all their horses; that it will decrease the cost of getting their products to market, and in the end return to them far more than the amount expended on the roads.—Spokesman-Review.

INDIGESTION.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, indigestion is a most widespread and destructive malady among the American people. ### THE LABOR AGITATOR.

Some of the Qualities He Must Possess to Be Successful.

Strikes contribute but slightly to the equipment of the successful labor agitator. The agitator must be thoroughly acquainted with the history of the labor movement and be capable of presenting its aims and aspirations in an attractive and convincing manner. He must possess the ability to think rapidly and to express his views and opinions clearly and forcibly. But, without, he must inspire those whom he would lead with absolute faith in his honesty. The agitator isn't always an advocate of strikes. He has sometimes to exert his influence to prevent a strike which his judgment tells him would be unwise. It may sound like mixing terms to say so, but it is a truth that the most difficult tasks performed by the labor agitators are their "agitations" in the interest of peace, their efforts to prevent strikes. The man who is always in favor of a strike as soon as one is suggested or who is constantly on the search for a casus belli soon finds his influence as a leader gone.—"The Story of a Labor Agitator," by Joseph R. Buchanan.

Explained.

Paxter—Funny, isn't it? Where we say a man puts his foot in his mouth, the French say he puts his foot in his nose.

A Hint Desirable.

"You're all run down," said the doctor. "What you need are quiet and rest. You ought not to be worried at all." "Will you put that in the form of a prescription, doctor, and give it to my wife?" asked the man.—Exchange.

Success is nothing more than the result of doing whatever you can do not only well, but just a little better than anybody else.—Maxwell's Talkman.

HOW TURKS MAKE COFFEE.

It Isn't Easy, but the Product is Delightful in Its Flavor.

To make the perfect cup of Turkish coffee is, like many other things, very easy when the maker knows how to do it, but unless the art has been learned in Turkey it is difficult.

No one can make a perfect cup of coffee unless he has been to Turkey. There is as much difference between the ordinary cup of coffee and the exquisite and alluring beverage with all its subtle aroma as made by the artist as there is between horseflesh and the best English beef. The Turks' method is simple. They have many little pots of various sizes. If they want to make two cups only they use the smaller one, and if three cups a larger one. When the water has boiled they fill the little pot almost to the top with water, then put in three lumps of sugar and put the pot on the fire to boil. When it is hot they put in two teaspoonfuls of coffee ground very fine and then stir it round until it is thoroughly mixed with the water.

The next step is to place the pot on the fire again and watch it very carefully until the coffee bubbles up to a froth, and before this froth escapes over the side you take the pot from the fire and tap the bottom gently on the stove till the froth goes down. Once again the coffee is allowed to bubble over the fire, and the process of tapping the pot on the stove is repeated three times.

When the froth rises to the surface for the fourth time the pot should be taken from the fire and the coffee should be poured first into one cup and then into another, so that each cup contains a portion of the froth on the top.

The Englishman cannot make coffee at all. He tries hard, but never succeeds either in making a perfect cup of Turkish or French coffee. The Frenchman, on the other hand, also tries hard to make a perfect cup of Turkish coffee, but he meets with little more success than the Englishman.

One thing must never be forgotten—the coffee must be freshly roasted and ground. It must not be roasted too black. A dark brown is the ideal color. Then the flavor is divine.—Boston Globe.

FOR THOSE WHO THINK.

Don't dally with your purpose. Character is the poor man's capital. Men call their own carelessness and inactivity fate.

The lucky man is the one who grasps his opportunity. The largest room in the world is the room for self improvement.

We get out of life just what we put into it. The world has for us just what we have for it.

Don't brood over the past or dream of the future, but use the instant and get your lesson from the hour.

Stock taking every day is a great aid to advancement. Stop and add yourself up at the close of each day and see if you have anything to carry over. If you have nothing but ciphers to carry over something is wrong somewhere.—Success.

Perished in Pursuit of Prey.

Among the curiosities of the Northampton (England) museum there is none more interesting than a glass case containing a smoked cat. In her lifetime puss was a respected resident in a hotel in the town and certainly paid for her keep by proficiency in mousing. One day, however, she disappeared—was searched for, lamented, forgotten—till years after a workman repairing a chimney in the hotel threw a sudden light on the mystery of her fate. She was discovered standing in an angle of the brickwork just as she now appears in the glass case, and clinched in each front paw was a smoked, dried mouse. Flying for their lives up the broad chimney, the mouse had led the way not only to death, but to unexpected immortality.

Dickens' School Pets.

When Charles Dickens was a boy at Wellington House academy it was the secret pride of the students there that they owned more white mice, red polls and linnets than any other set of boys within their ken. These were kept in hat boxes, drawers and even in the school desks. A small but very accomplished mouse which lived in the corner of a Latin dictionary in Dickens' desk and could draw Roman chariots, fire paper muskets and scale pasteboard ladders fell at last into an overfull ink pot and lost both its white coat and its life. Dickens nevertheless won a prize for his Latin.

Topsy's Full Name.

"Mamma, what is Topsy's other name?" "Topsy in the play? I don't know, dear. I guess she hasn't any other. It's just Topsy, that's all." "Oh, she has another name. I heard papa speak of it yesterday, but I can't think of it now. Oh, yes, I remember. It's Topsy Turvy!"—Kansas City Journal.

Valued Competitor.

Emeline—Sara is my greatest consolation in life. Elizabeth—Why? Emeline—Everybody says she talks more than I do.—Detroit Free Press.

Customary Notice.

"Are the races coming to town?" "I don't know," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "My husband hasn't yet said anything about our having to economize."—Washington Star.

A Biased Opinion.

She—I think it's so silly of lovers to quarrel. He—Yes, the making up is so expensive.—Bostonive Life

The Yakima Democrat

Combined with the Yakima Washingtonian January 1, 1904.

Published every Saturday at the Democrat Printing House, No. 7 First street, North Yakima, Wash.

Entered at the North Yakima postoffice as second class mail matter.

The Yakima Democrat is the only Democratic Journal in Central Washington.

North Yakima, Wash., July 2 1904.

The Fourth of July is a day that still holds its place in the affections of the American people and it always will as long as the people of this great country retain a proper estimate of the value of liberty.

One hundred and twenty-eight years ago a few intrepid souls met in the city of Philadelphia and talked over their grievances against the tyrannical reign of the King of England. After due consideration they concluded to defy King George, although they knew that defiance meant bitter unrelenting war with the greatest race of people headed by the most powerful potentate in the known world. They knew that the poor, struggling Colonists would have to fight against terrible odds but that fact did not swerve them from their purpose. They had been ruled over by a tyrant who scorned and rejected their pleas for justice, who claimed the right to tax them as he pleased and who ridiculed their righteous demands for at least a measure of self government.

These unhappy conditions inspired in the mind of Thomas Jefferson the Declaration of Independence, one of the greatest documents ever penned by the hand of mortal man. It is a marvelous production and will never lose its power as long as men read the English language. When it was first read to the little band of determined men in Liberty hall an end was quickly made to all talk of yielding conditionally to the king, for it fired the heart of every man in that assemblage and quickened the blood in his veins. It had the same effect upon the populace, except such as were actuated by the Tory influence.

When the Declaration was read to King George that haughty old monarch laughed scornfully until this sentence was reached: "And in defense of these principles we pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." "Ah," said he, "that means business; that means war."

And war it did mean, cruel, devastating, deadly war that lasted for eight long years, during which thousands of brave men died like the heroes they were. At times it seemed even to the stoutest hearts that the revolution must fail. In the darkest hours when the spirits of his half-starved, illy clad soldiers were at the lowest ebb, the great Washington would have recourse to the Declaration of Independence. The reading of that immortal document never failed to inspire his soldiers with fresh zeal and courage enabling them to endure their terrible hardships and to fight on until the victory was finally won.

Out of all this travail a new nation was born, destined to become the brightest star in the world's political firmament. And the cornerstone of the new nation was and is the Declaration of Independence.

Since the democratic state convention is now but a month off speculation as to whom the candidates will be may now be in order.

That Judge George Turner will be unanimously named for governor seems at this time most probable. He is an unwilling candidate, but the demand that he stand for the place has been so general and so insistent that the pressure has been sufficient to induce his reluctant consent. The demand for his nomination has come by no means from democrats alone, but from republicans from nearly every section of the state. If Judge Turner should be nominated he will undoubtedly be elected and his personality in the campaign will be worth several thousand votes to the balance of the state ticket. For lieutenant governor the names most prominently mentioned are those of Hon. Henry Drum and of State Labor Commissioner Wm. Blackman. Both are good men, although the two Mr. Drum doubtless has the best claim to consideration at the hands of the democratic party. He is a thoroughbred democrat and a man of integrity and splendid ability, with legislative experience. Should such be his lot he would make an ideal governor. Mr. Blackman is also a desirable candidate of good vote getting proclivities. In case Mr. Drum is chosen Mr. Blackman will probably be brought forward for state land commissioner.

For secretary of state the name most prominently mentioned is that of Ernest Lister of Tacoma, who was first suggested as a candidate for lieutenant governor. Mr. Lister under the Rogers administration was a member of the state board of control the latter part of his term being chairman of that body. He is a man of splendid ability, is very popular and with his wide acquaintance over the state would make a strong and desirable candidate for secretary of state.

By what seems to be common consent King county will be permitted to name the candidate for attorney general. The only name thus far suggested is that of Judge Alfred Battle, a lifelong democrat and a lawyer of high standing at the Seattle bar. No better man could be found for the place than Judge Battle and in comparison to such a candidate Atkinson, the republican nominee, who is a lawyer only by imagination, would look like 30 cents.

For state treasurer there are two avowed candidates in the field. These are R. Lee Purdin of Ellensburg, treasurer of Kittitas county and George Mudget, treasurer of Spokane county. Both men are admirably qualified by reason of experience for the duties of treasurer and should either be elected it is safe to say that an end will be made of Banker Lord's graft on the state treasury. For neighborly reasons the delegates from central Washington will be likely to favor the nomination of Mr. Purdin, although no objection can be raised to Mr. Mudget.

No conspicuous candidates have come to the front as yet for the offices of state auditor or land commissioner, but there will be plenty of good material to select from.

It is anybody's race as yet for the congressional nominations. The names of Frank Graves of Spokane, Geo. F. Cotterill of Seattle, Frank B. Cole of Tacoma, B. H. Silver of Bellingham and H. J. Snively of this county are all favorably mentioned in connection with the congressional nominations. From present appearances these nominations will not be merely "empty honors" this year as there is a good fighting chance to elect the congressional candidates this year.

The democratic party of this state, let it be understood, in order to even have a chance to win must bring out the very strongest men in its ranks. It should not only do this, but it must give its candidates a good, strong platform to stand upon. It must promise the people the reforms they are demanding and if intrusted with power it must see to it that such reforms are carried out to the letter.

The republican national platform adopted at Chicago last week is a masterpiece of glittering generalities clothed in the best English that Senator Lodge, its author, is capable of—and Lodge is a master of language. It is, however, not a great production and does not compare favorably with platforms adopted by previous conventions of that party when it had intellectual giants as leaders.

It is composed largely of bragadocio and "taffy" for Mr. Roosevelt. It reviews in detail the great things that have been done for the people by the republican party, but it holds out no promise of what it will do in the future. On the subject of the tariff and a remedy for the trust evil, the greatest and most absorbing of domestic issues, this finely written document is as silent as the grave, except in the general inference that the reader may draw that the present negative policy of "stand pat" is to be continued in the future. There is not one line, word or syllable in it calculated to give a ray of hope to the millions of people in this country who are compelled to pay tribute to the rapacious trusts and who are helpless to protect themselves.

It claims for the republican party the credit of having established the single gold standard, a credit that is rightly due with all the ignominy attached. It speaks boastfully of the conquest of the Philippines, but is silent as to why the constitution should not follow the flag to those remote islands; neither does it hold out a hope either specific or implied of eventual freedom for the people of that country.

At the same time it points with pride to the record made in Cuba, but fails to state that that country owes its freedom today only because of the splendid fight made to preserve its liberty by the democratic minority in congress under the leadership of Teller and others.

In its references to President Roosevelt, the acknowledged master of the party, the platform is almost erasing in obsequiousness. It lauds the principal acts of his administration, no matter how unlawful, to the skies and points to the great political acrobat as the saviour of his country. The delegates must have laughed in their sleeves when this fulsome praise of Teddy was read to the convention.

The humor of this otherwise dry document lies in the fact that it was written by Lodge and submitted and resubmitted by him to the president for his approval. To all intents and purposes therefore the document was written by Roosevelt himself.

Could the spirit of self laudation go further?

The republican state committee admits corruption and rottenness when it resorts to the publication of a circular explaining the action of the Tacoma convention, telling why this, that and the other thing was done. It is surely a fatal mistake and the party will suffer as result. It's another spike in the coffin of the republican ticket. The fight is purely within the party.—Ellensburg Dawn, Ind.

The Oregonian's convention correspondent in his report to that paper stated that Senator Fairbanks was selected as the candidate for vice president by the financial interests, by Wall street in fact. Harriman, the railroad magnate, it appears, had much to do with the naming of Fairbanks on the ground "that the business interests want a 'safe' man in that office in case anything should happen to Roosevelt." Harriman, says this very frank correspondent, assured Chairman Ayer of the Oregon delegation that "everything is fixed," at least 48 hours before the nomination was actually made and that Harriman seemed to take some of the credit to himself in doing the fixing. The correspondent further says that Senator Fairbanks undoubtedly received assurances from the "business interests" that he would receive their support for first place in 1908 before he could be induced to accept the nomination to the vice presidency.

And thus the truth comes out in spite of all the efforts made to hide it. Fairbanks, at least, is the choice of Wall street, referred to as the "business interests." And the assumption that he did not consent to give up his seat in the senate for an empty honor such as the vice presidency without first obtaining the promise from the financial powers that he would be its choice for president in 1908 is certainly a most reasonable one. The shrewd Hoosier statesman saw his opportunity and took advantage of it.

There is no likelihood that the delegation from this state to the democratic national convention will vote for Parker, notwithstanding the reports that appear so frequently in republican papers. Delegate R. W. Starr of Waterville in a communication to the Douglas County Press last week made the positive statement that seven of the ten delegates would stand firmly by the agreement made at Olympia which in effect was that the vote of Washington should never go to any candidate at St. Louis supported by the "reorganizers." The seven, while not for Hearst "last and all the time," are for him first and will co-operate with the Hearst forces, which is the logical thing for them to do under the circumstances. Mr. Starr's statement was corroborated by Senator Splawn of this county before leaving for St. Louis.

The delegation is not instructed except that it must abide by the time-honored unit rule. Since seven is a majority out of ten Starr and Splawn evidently know what they are talking about.

The Chicago convention really marked the beginning of a new epoch in the leadership of the republican party. To a very great extent the old Hanna guard has passed off the stage and the followers of the strenuous chief have taken their places. The death of Hanna left us following without a leader and although many of the old guard are hanging on tenaciously they are being gradually crowded out to make room for the strikers of the "rough rider" president. Roosevelt has no object in maintaining the old McKinley-Hanna machine since he determined to build up one of his own.

Paul Morton, recently appointed secretary of the navy by President Roosevelt, must have been given a "hunch." It is not over two months ago that the Associated Press published the news to the world that Morton had renounced his allegiance to the democratic party and had become a republican. Teddy must have brought personal influence to bear on his old college chum at the same time holding out the cabinet appointment as a reward.

The Seattle P.-I. says that if the democrats should elect the governor on a railroad commission platform it would be of no avail as the republican legislature would not pass such a bill.

Probably not if the republican legislators should prove to be as narrow and bigoted partisans as is the P.-I. But we can hardly believe that that will prove to be the case.

One of the most remarkable things of this most remarkable campaign is the "growth of Mead" as depicted by the journals of his party. From the evidence at hand there is still plenty of opportunity for the gentleman from Bellingham to grow.—Olympia Capital.

State Chairman Palmer of the republican party has abandoned his Coon hunt and its now up to Mead to resign as he said he would if Coon did not. Alas! uneasy lies the head that seeks a crown.—Bellingham Blade.

The Japs have inflicted another crushing defeat on the Russian navy and put a couple more of the enemies ships out of business. It remains to be seen how long the bear will be able to stand this hammering process.

The Localizer issued a neat and newsy little daily edition while the confederated woman's clubs were in session at Ellensburg last week. Keep it going neighbor, keep it going!

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

To Meet at Bellingham August 2—
Official Call by the State Committee.

A Democratic convention for the state of Washington is hereby called to meet at Bellingham, Wash., on the 2nd day of August, 1904, at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating five candidates for presidential electors to be held on the 8th day of November, 1904, and to cast the vote of the state of Washington in the electoral college for president and vice president of the United States, the placing in nomination of candidates for the following national and state offices, to-wit: Three congressmen, two judges of the supreme court, one governor, one lieutenant governor, one secretary of state, one state treasurer, one auditor, one attorney general, one superintendent of public instruction, one commissioner of public lands and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the said state convention.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each fifty votes or a major fraction thereof of the average combined vote cast for the Honorable George F. Cotterill, Frank B. Cole and O. R. Holcomb, Democratic candidates for congress at the general election held in November, 1902, the apportionment of each county being as follows:

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

The Public Printing Office Being Used to Print and Circulate Republican Campaign Literature—Secretary Shaw Leaves His Office to Talk Politics—Gossip of the Capital.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., June 23.

The summer solstice finds more political activity at the nation's capital than exists in average years. Even the Chicago convention has not wholly succeeded in transferring partisan discussion. The pronounced opposition of great groups of business republicans in New York and Philadelphia to another presidential term for Roosevelt is reflected in our board of trade. Men who supported Roosevelt for vice president and have watched the evolution of some of his brazen audacities say to one another "What of the future? What is Roosevelt likely to do if he gets a free tether four years long?" They feel sure that he has courage and personal honesty, but they think him capable of monumental indiscretions.

That disrepute into which the vice presidency seems to have fallen is a current surprise. Always till now it has been regarded as a very lofty and honorable office, worthy of any man's ambition. Of those who have been elected vice president of the United States, one-third have been promoted to the presidency, either by death or popular choice. John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, and Martin Van Buren were thus transferred by the people's vote. Roosevelt's contemptuous kick four years ago and Cannon's current sneers have treated the office as if it were a degradation; but the vice president is the president's deputy and the director of the senate's business at all times, and has a salary of $8000 a year, a considerably larger than either Roosevelt or Cannon ever had in their lives prior to the former's election in 1900.

General Palmer, public printer, has this week perpetrated a gross outrage against the people of the United States, by printing under date of Monday, June 20, an edition of the congressional record containing sixty pages of republican campaign literature. This publication two months after the adjournment of congress is a wanton violation of law. Towards the end of the session concurrent protests were made against giving leave to print in the record speeches not delivered on the floor, and both parties agreed to put a summary end to it and to grant no more permission to "extend remarks in the rec."

It now seems that the bargain was made by the republicans in a Pickwickian sense only but was held to be binding on the democrats. Is it thought that no treachery can be so dastardly as not to be justified if thereby Mr. Roosevelt is elected? Are Messrs. Payne, Dalzell, Grosvenor, and Hemenway parties to this iniquity, or does Mr. Palmer hope to read in it his title clear for another four years? Explanations are in order. Such a publication is a gross fraud upon the people because it entitles this sixty pages of republican literature to be sent free under frank to all parts of the United States.

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has left his office to take care of itself while he does missionary work in the west. He may not make many republican votes, however, if the speech is a fair sample which he made to an immense crowd in the Chicago Auditorium on Tuesday evening. He indulged in the usual apotheosis of a high tariff and represented that one of its glories was that it enabled American manufacturers to sell their products in Europe at a price lower than they could afford to sell them for to our own people! He did not hesitate to specifically state that "Four million dollars worth of merchandise, the product of American factories, is annually sold abroad cheaper than in the home market." It is not reported that Secretary Shaw blushed when he made this announcement, or that he even stammered. On the contrary, he waived his arms proudly and blurted it out as if he thought it something to be proud of and something which the American consumers would be glad to hear. He said if a remedy was demanded it should be found not in a reduction of the tariff, but in a repeal of the patent laws!

Root's speech in calling the Chicago convention to order was a curiosity in its way. He pathetically asked the country to keep the republican party continuously in power and one of his pleas was that if this was done, independence would be granted to the Filipinos! He did not say when; he shield perceptibly when a correspondent afterwards asked him when; but he said "Sometime. Ultimately. By and bye." There is something astounding about this, considered in the light of Mr. McKinley's description of the Filipinos as "some eighty wild tribes," and Roosevelt's comparing them to Sioux and Apaches. For some years now we have held the Filipinos down with a mailed hand; we have given them no hope of national liberty; we have conferred upon them spelling books and the water cure; in other words, we have treated them as helots and subject races are always treated by their subjugators. Now here comes Root with the ghost of a promise stalking like an apparition across the republican stage. And Secretary Taft, less than a week ago, announced in a speech to the Filipinos themselves that when a re-election would absolve the president from the pledges of his predecessor, the independence of the Philippine Islands would be forthcoming. And now Root! Is Saul also among the prophets?

The invitation to Paul Morton to become secretary of the navy is the sensation of the week. He has been a democrat all his life till within the last three or four months, being a son of that Sterling Morton who was Cleveland's secretary of agriculture. For the president of the United States to turn suddenly around at a dinner table and offer Paul a cabinet portfolio without consulting anybody, with as much insouciance as if he were merely passing the salt, is certainly a dramatic or comic performance.

The plea of delegate Reyburn in the Chicago convention for a restoration of self-government to this city has been refused, and we shall still struggle under our triumvirate. It may be wiser to bear the oppressions which we suffer than fly to other kinds of tyranny which we know not of but concerning which we can fling a pretty accurate guess.

Didn't Buy the Tickets.

What the present age needs among other things is a large number of chambermaids like the one in the Hotel Byron at Bellingham. Not long ago a very smart man in black from Portland was registered at the Byron, among other attractions in the city, his eyes dwelt upon the buxom chambermaid aforesaid, who has a genial, kind face with red cheeks and dimples. This infatuation was so strong that the man from Portland thought he would make an effort to get better acquainted, so he asked the lady if she had any objections to going to the theatre and having a good time.

Now the lady is a conscientious and hard working person, who at first, when she began working in the hotel, began to complain to the manager about the improper advances made by the traveling strangers. Mr. Dickinson advised her to let them have a pitcher, glass, or anything handy, and he would back her up in the matter if kicks reached the front office. This gave her courage. When the Portland man was making offers to her she was prepared.

"Well," she said, "I'll go if you'll get tickets enough for us."

"How many do you need?" he asked.

"Oh," she replied, "One for my husband, three for the children, one for my mother-in-law and one for me, and I'm quite certain we'll have a rattling good time."

"Oh!" was all he said as he disappeared around the corner.—The Coast.

We Don't Do It.

Democratic papers will do well to ignore the horrible stories which are being circulated in reference to the moral character of Chas. E. Coon, the lobby candidate for lieutenant governor. Let his party associates do the mud throwing. The democrats can afford to make their campaign on the issue of the right of the people to control the corporations. The fact that Mr. Coon and his associates stand for the right of the corporations to dominate the state is enough to defeat them, regardless of their private records.—Colfax Commoner.

An Old Medal.

J. B. Caldwell of Waitsburg, Wash., is in possession of a medal which no doubt, in its day served some purpose in man's relations with the Indians. It was taken from an Indian grave on Mamaluse Island, in the Columbia river, in 1888. It is two inches in diameter, of silver and on one side shows a cow, two sheep, a man, a house and a tree, under which are the letters "U. S. A." On the obverse is the inscription, "Sec. MDCCXCVI." Mr. Caldwell is carefully preserving this as a precious relic.—The Coast.

Baseball Players and Foot Racers!

Louis J. Kruger, ex-champion long distance foot racer of Germany and Holland, writes, Oct. 27th, 1901: "During my training of eight weeks' foot races at Salt Lake City, in April last, I used Ballard's Snow Liniment to my greatest satisfaction. Therefore, I highly recommend Snow Liniment to all who are troubled with sprains, bruises or rheumatism." 25c, 50c, $1.00 bottle. Sold by F. L. Janek's drug store.

The following special rate will be effective on the lines of the Northern Pacific railway from June 15 to August 25, 1904: North Yakima to West Beach and return, $10; North Yakima to Long Beach, Clatsop Beach points and return, $10. ### Death on the Culm Bank.

No matter what form death assumes, it is never welcome. The grim messenger makes his appearance in many forms in the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania, but only one form is painless and pleasant, and to only one the victims go unconsciously. It is the death of the burning culm bank.

Many times during the year is such a death recorded when one of these great culm banks is burning. The fire is not seen in the daytime, and at night it shines only with a faint glow through the layers of ashes which separate the live coals from the outer air.

To these burning banks tramps and other unfortunates forced to spend a night in the open air go when the nights grow chilly. The warm breath of the culm lures them on with a promise of a warm bed for the night, and they lie down to sleep in the comfortable atmosphere of the bank and never open their eyes again.

The noxious gases emanating from the bank waft over them so softly that they are soon asleep, and in many cases they never awaken, being suffocated during their slumbers.—Detroit Free Press.

The Open Door.

"I don't know now exactly how it happened," Reggie was telling his best friend over a game of billiards. "I never meant to propose, you know—that is, not just yet. I wanted to knock about a little more. But after we got home from the theater and sat in the parlor discussing the plot of the play I ventured out on thin ice and broke through before I knew where I was. It came as a deuce of a shock, just as I should imagine breaking through real ice would be."

"But Jessie was all ready for me. She was expecting it. First thing I knew she had me by the collar and landed me on safe ground again—but I was engaged. No doubt about that. Anyhow, I am glad I've got her. Might have lost her through some slip if I'd waited. But I don't want to read any more stuff about bashful fellows stammering out proposals. It's all too easy."—New York Times.

His Satanic Majesty.

During the American Revolutionary war the colonists had great trouble with women who were determined royalists. "The sex," wrote the rebellious governor of New Jersey, "are mistresses of infinite craft and subtlety, and I never read of a great politician who did not employ petticoats to accomplish his designs. Certain it is that the greatest politician on record (I mean the devil) applied himself to a female agent to involve mankind in sin and ruin."

Dean Pigou tells in his book of anecdotes the story of the little girl who was much upset by a maiden aunt and posted in a hole in the garden a letter in these terms:

Dear Mr. Satan—Will you kindly come and take away Aunt Jane? She is a very fussy person and does worry me so. Yours affectionately, ALICE

Curiosities of Cut Glass.

The process of glass cutting requires great skill and care. A design is first lightly copied on the glass, and the cutters take it in hand. A fine stream of sand and water falls continuously on a rapidly revolving steel wheel. To this the glass is applied, and the cutting is really accomplished by the friction which the sand sets up. Then another workman with another steel wheel and plain water brings the cutting up to a sharper edge. A third workman with a soft wooden tool takes off the cloudiness caused by the friction of the steel, a fourth polishes the glass, a fifth with a preparation of oxide of tin gives it that iridescent luster which makes us value cut glass so highly.

A Compliment.

Mrs. Hersey was unhappy over the stern severity of her new photographs. "Norah," she said to her pretty waitress, "do you think this photograph looks like me?"

Norah's warm Irish heart came to the rescue. "Shure, Mrs. Hersey, dear," she replied quickly, "if you looked like that would I ever have two afternoons a week?"—Christian Register.

Feeding on Souls.

A certain minister applied to his church for an increase of salary. "Salary," cried one of the members. "Salary! Why, I thought you worked for souls!"

"And so I do," meekly replied the impetuous minister, "but I cannot eat souls, and, if I could, it would take a good many souls the size of yours to make a decent meal."

Not His Experience.

Mrs. Henpeck—Let me see, is it "bigamist" or "polygamist?"

Mr. Henpeck—What are you talking about?

Mrs. Henpeck—Why, a man who has one wife too many is a "bigamist," isn't he?

Mr. Henpeck—Not necessarily.—Philadelphia Press.

An Unreasonable Fellow.

"Oh, it's no fun being engaged to him," she said bitterly.

"Why not?" asked her dearest friend.

"Why, when you stir up a little quarrel just to drive away the ennui he takes it seriously and keeps you worried for fear you've really lost him."—Chicago Post.

Postnuptial.

He (whose wife has been reading some of his old love letters to her)—What is the use of keeping all those old things?

She—Lest we forget—lest we forget.—Brooklyn Life.

Power is a fretful thing and hath its wings always spread for flight.—Wallace.

POISON OF THE RATTLER.

Not Nearly as Dangerous as It is Popularly Supposed to Be.

"There is a good deal more fright about the bite of a rattlesnake than there is actual danger," said a well known physician recently. "I do not mean to say that the bite of a rattler is not a very serious thing, but I do mean to say that this particular sort of snake is really not so ready or apt to 'get in his bite' as some others."

"In the first place, there is the now generally credited fact that the rattler is the most honest of snakes. He doesn't 'pick a fight.' He doesn't lay in wait for any one. He won't run away, of course, for he is a plucky reptile, but he will curl up and give you a fair warning from those rattles of his before he attempts to strike. I remember once in the west finding a rattler just ahead of my horse's fore feet. I had no weapon of any sort, so I rode on, passing within a few inches of the reptile. The snake was curled and ready for my horse in case the animal side stepped, but as we did nothing of that sort we were allowed to pass in peace."

"Again, the truth is that the poison of the rattler does not get into the wound inflicted by the fangs in the average human being. For the average human being nowadays is clothed, and the holes in the fangs through which the poison comes are rather far up toward the roof of the mouth. Consequently very often the point of the fangs may enter the skin, while the poison dribbles out harmlessly enough upon the trousers or the boot. It is then that the 'victim' gets scared, fills up on whisky—a bad thing in bona fide cases of rattlesnake bite—and believes himself marvelously cured when he wakes up next day."—Philadelphia Press.

APHORISMS.

Set a beggar on horseback and he will ride a gallop.—Buttton.

The hearing ear is always found close to the speaking tongue.—Emerson.

To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step to knowledge.—Disraeli.

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice, and yet everybody is content to hear.—Seiden.

A life spent worthily should be measured by a nobler line—by deeds, not years.—R. B. Sheridan.

Health is the second blessing that we mortals are capable of, a blessing that money cannot buy.—Walton.

When a man assumes a public trust he should consider himself as public property.—Thomas Jefferson.

Everybody likes and respects self made men. It is a great deal better to be made in that way than not to be made at all.—O. W. Holmes.

Little Henry's Questions.

Little Henry was reading ancient history stories. "Pa," said he suddenly, "can I ask you a question?"

"I guess you can, Henry. You seem to have a fair command of English."

"Well, may I, then?" Little Henry continued.

"Yes," said pa. "Fire ahead."

"That's funny," said little Henry. "I was just thinking of such things. Now, did the old Romans light their houses with Roman candles?"

"I shouldn't wonder," said pa, chuckling. "Nero, at least, indulged in a good deal of fireworks. Anything else?"

"Yes," replied little Henry. "Did the people of Athens do all their cooking with Greek fire?"

Then pa got mad and said he couldn't be bothered with any more silly questions.—Household Ledger.

Laying the "Ghost."

The Earl of Onslow tells a very effective story. His beautiful old place, Clandon, suddenly became possessed of a "ghost," and the servants of the place were almost terrified out of their wits by the noises they heard and the sights they saw or imagined. The reputation of the mansion became noised abroad, and at last Lord Onslow took a short cut to end the mystery. He assembled his servants and gave it out to them that he was determined to have no more of this sort of thing. For the future all members of his family would sleep with loaded revolvers by their side, and at the first suggestion of a noise they would send a bullet in its direction to investigate the cause. Clandon nowadays is quite commonplace in its immunity from the uncanny.—London Globe.

An Irish Compliment.

When Earl Spencer was lord lieutenant of Ireland the people of Dublin called the beautiful countess, one of the loveliest women of her time, "Spencer's Faerie Queen."

But when their excellencies were about to return to England Irish gallantry was shown in a characteristic way. At the farewell banquet in their honor an Irish gentleman got up and said, with much fervor and many bows:

"We all hope soon to see you back again, you and the work of art by your side."

Knew Paris.

Bobson—I see that a Parisian countess is obliged to earn her living at the wash-tub. Too bad, isn't it?

Deacon Bingle (who knows something about Paris)—Well, I don't know. Those Parisian washerwomen seemed to be a decidedly jolly lot.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Heartless Female!

Young Wife—What do you do when your husband gets cross and wants to scold?

Wife (with experience)—I read him one or two of the letters he used to write to me before we were married.—Baltimore American.

A Trip Through Yellowstone Park

is what everyone hopes to have—some day. It is the most wonderful trip in the world. There are more than 3000 square miles of weird, marvelous, unimaginable things that can be seen nowhere else, therefore if one ever sees them one must go to the Park, in the heart of the magnificent Rockies with snow tipped peaks all around. If Old Faithful geyser, a Paint Pot, Mud Volcano, or Emerald Pool were to be found in Lincoln park, Chicago; Central park, New York; or Fairmount park, Philadelphia; the people would flock to see it or them by tens of thousands. For a very small sum, comparatively, all these and hundreds more of nature's unduplicated marvels can be seen between June 1 and September 30 of each year, and one will enjoy, to boot, the best coaching trip in the country.

The Northern Pacific folder on Yellowstone Park, just issued, is a new, right up to date, finely illustrated dissertation on this Yellowstone Park trip. It is not descriptive, but deals with the detailed, technical matters everyone needs to know about such a trip. It tells all about the hotels, the stage coaches, the roads, the cost of the tour; where the geysers, the waterfalls, the bears, the canyons are, and where the trout fishing is found. We have printed thousands of this beautiful leaflet and want everybody interested to have a copy, and it can be obtained by sending A. M. ### Shots From the Commoner.

Every time the beef trust imagines a shortage in the supply of cattle it raises the price to the consumer and lowers it to the cattle raiser.

Pennsylvania changes from a senator whose sins were those of commission to a senator whose sins are of omission. And the people get the worst of it either way.

The president cannot understand why his personal interests should be endangered in Wisconsin by such a little matter as a quarrel about state offices.

Speaking of refrigeration, there is nothing quite so cold as the atmosphere in Washington's official circles for the man who offers to present evidence sufficient to convict trust magnates of violation of the anti-trust law.

Three years of Roosevelt has cost the country $883,000,000 more than four years of Cleveland, notwithstanding the fact that four years of Cleveland cost the country about $300,000,000 more than it would have cost had Cleveland not played into the hands of the gold gamblers.

We opine that the liberty bell is glad to get away once in a while and breathe a little better political atmosphere than that which surrounds it in the city hall of Philadelphia.

Every time we hear what a good man Judge Parker is, we take a glance at Hill, Belmont, Meyer and other Parker boomers and recall to mind the sad story of Old Dog Tray.

After several years of arduous labor at preventing trust prosecution, Mr. Knox has been accorded a vacation. He will now hold down a seat in the senate and block anti-trust legislation.

Congressman Burkett of Nebraska evidently believes in the double standard. He is running for two offices at once—congressman and senator—and the chances are 16 to 1 that he will not get either.

The new chairman of the g. o. p. national committee will find imposed upon him the task of keeping the dinner pail full of "hot air" and its owner satisfied with a diet of political atmosphere.

"During the eighty-eight years of my career," says Russell Sage, "I have never taken a vacation." This, doubtless, is due to the fact that Mr. Sage has been extremely busy taking everything else.

A South American visiting at the St. Louis exposition says he has seen forty revolutions in his country. That is almost as many as the g. o. p. has made on the financial, tariff and reciprocity issues.

All Same, Grover.

President Joseph F. Smith, of the Mormon church, delivered a remarkable sermon a week ago last Sunday at the Salt Lake tabernacle, in the course of which he said he would never cast aside the wives and children to whom "God in his infinite wisdom" had joined him. Smith's candor is even greater than that of Grover Cleveland who sent the famous "Tell the truth" telegram when asked if it was true that he was the father of an illegitimate son. That was almost the making of Cleveland because a denial would certainly have been fatal to his political aspirations. Smith not only is following the identical Cleveland tactics, but in doing so realizes that no federal law can reach his case and no state law will while his church is in power.—Tonopah (Nev.) Sun.

The Day We Celebrate.

At last it is not commercial prosperity or civil freedom, or population, or wealth, or good government, or advancement in civilization which is a nation's surest anchor of safety, or hope, or pride. But it is sentiment. Nor are bloodless anarchy, or misrule, or evil legislation its greatest danger. Lack of patriotism is irreparable. A people who cherish no love of country, who are without any reverent sense of affection for its honor, its traditions or its history, who are purely commercial and selfish, are upon the certain path to downfall.

This thing we call sentiment is as essential to the preservation of society as it is to government. When people begin to ridicule patriotism and love of country national dissolution and decay are as inevitable as social impurity and moral degeneracy follow a disregard of the ties of marriage or of parentage. A people's patriotism is largely measured by the enthusiasm with which they celebrate national anniversaries. God help the man who has no reverence for the day of his birth or his marriage. God help the people who care nothing for the date of this nation's birth or for the day when it was wedded unto freedom.

Commercialism is to a nation what selfishness is to the man. It dries up every patriotic sentiment and will ultimately beget the worst evils the government may be heir to. In this day of money getting there is danger of the corroding touch of avarice in our national life. The crime of the age is its lack of conscience. There is a growing destitution of conviction in politics and religion. We must keep the fires of patriotism burning upon our altars, and the time for fighting them is upon our national anniversaries.

The love of God, the love of family and the love of country are three sentiments essential to the happiness and prosperity of any people. To ridicule or disregard either is to invite ultimate misery and destruction. The Fourth of July is the day when we signalize our love of country. As we prize national perpetuity and happiness let the day be celebrated with all the enthusiasm which its memories recall and with all the gratitude which one hundred and twenty-eight years of national growth and glory deserve.—Payallup Tribune.

No Heart in It.

The attempt to force Coon, candidate for lieutenant governor, off the ticket has been abandoned, but the fact remains that the republicans never came before the voters with a state ticket so generally discredited. There is no heart in the republicans anywhere in the state to put up a robust fight for it. There is nothing to fight for. It is generally believed that the party has been outrageously betrayed, and that it will eventually have to cut loose from the forces now in control. There is little objection to Mead, but the interference of railroad officials and their too evident control of the last convention is indefensible, and it would be worse than useless to attempt to offer excuses for the work of that convention. Republican newspapers and republican leaders who never faltered during populist days, who contended with all the power and earnestness they could for the great principles then at stake, and who never would falter in defense of a righteous cause, however unpopular, will remain silent in this campaign, because no other course is open.—Lincoln County Times (Rep.).

Unknowable Russia.

Those who are permitted to speak the open truth in Russia may be counted on the fingers of one hand, and then half of them will be left unused. Why these people are tolerated is one of the secrets of state. Outside of these only those who write works of fiction, which the majority of the people cannot and do not read, are permitted to speak of things as they are. When they exceed the limits of Russian decency and speak too openly, they are given a trip to Siberia at the expense of the government. Siberia is the place where the boldest, the most courageous and most talented products of Russia are put on cold storage.

It is the coldest part of the country, and honest people are sent there when the country becomes too hot for them. When the innocent tourist asks, "Where are your honest people?" Siberia is pointed out to him. If he asks more questions, he is himself sent there. The government objects to questions on general principles. Russia refuses to be interviewed.—B. G. Richards in Reader Magazine.

An Underground Confession.

Women are growing quite embarrassingly frank about the basis and the crown of their charms. On Saturday afternoon a pretty young married woman, with her five-year-old son—so much we could infer—jumped into a first class carriage on the underground. After her came three friends, two girls and a man. "Yes, I'd never be without my wig," said the pretty woman. "It isn't as if I hadn't enough hair of my own. Celia can vouch for that." Celia nodded—we all looked for Celia's nod. "Why, the other Sunday we were lunching at Wimbledon, one of those damp, muggy days. Margaret was there—with her fringe all over her eyes. Mine was all right, and yet Margaret has a maid and I haven't. I've worn a wig for three years, and I don't care who knows it." The rest of us—strangers—held our breath till the tale was told.—London Chronicle.

Peril in the Handkerchief.

It is in fact a grave sanitary question whether the handkerchief does not do more harm than good as it is ordinarily used. When we assume that the healthy nose does not need to be wiped we face a reasonably broad proposition as to the danger of the handkerchief as a disease propagator. Most of nasal catarrhs are of an infectious character, notably those of grip origin.

Contrary to a general law of aseptis, the handkerchief saturated with disease germs, instead of being promptly washed, is stowed for hours in the pocket, with a result that can be easily imagined. Is it any wonder then that catarrhs are constantly fostered by a system of auto-infection?—Medical Record.

Easy Way of Measuring Heights.

Anybody who knows how to take the altitude of the sun or a star with a sextant and wishes to take that of any distant hill, steeple or the like should put a tea tray on the ground, fill it with water and then retire from it until the top of the hill, steeple or what not is reflected in the liquid. Now take the sextant and make the image of the summit coincide with its reflection in the liquid. The angle of elevation will thus, obviously, have been measured double. Half of this will give the measurement required.

Caught With the Goods On.

"Silas wuz down to the city an' had to send for money."

"Get bunked?"

"Nope. He pasted his money to the inside of the bosom of his shirt, and when he went to come home the land-lord wouldn't change his shirt."—Exchange.

BETTER THAN ORATORY.

The Secret of One Clever Lawyer's Unvarying Success.

One of the most common defects of a recently admitted lawyer is a striving for oratorical display. A successful older practitioner endeavors, on the other hand, to give the jury a heart to heart talk. The ways of an eagle in the air, of a serpent upon a rock, of a ship in the midst of the sea and of a man with a maid are as A B C compared with the methods usually pursued by the twelve good men and true. It seems a trifle odd at first that a dozen individuals who separately are shrewd, sharp business men should collectively be guilty of the most absurd performances, but the fact must be reckoned on nevertheless.

A story is told of two farmers who were returning home, one of them from jury duty in a neighboring town. "Lawyer Smith is a great orator," said one—"a perfect Daniel Webster. My, how I hated to decide against him in the three cases he tried!"

"How about Lawyer Jones, who was on the other side?"

"Oh, shucks! Why of course he wins all his cases. I heard every one of 'em, and they were the simplest things. He just explained things to the jury. He didn't have to do any hard talking at all. You couldn't help but agree with him."—Success.

Galileo's Caustic Humor.

In a biography of Galileo some stories are told of the caustic humor of that bold investigator. Lotario Sarsi, a writer on science, having said that the Babylonians used to cook eggs by whirling them in a sling, Galileo replied: "The cause of such an effect is very remote from that to which it is attributed, and to find the true cause I shall reason thus: If an effect does not follow with us which followed with others at another time it is because in our experiments something is wanting which was the cause of the former success, and if only one thing is wanting to us that one thing is the true cause. Now we have eggs and slings and strong men to whirl them, and yet they will not become cooked; nay, if they were hot at first they more quickly become cold, and since nothing is wanting to us but to be Babylonians it follows that being Babylonians is the true cause why the eggs became cooked and not to the friction of the air, which is what I wish to prove."

Shorthand 2,000 Years Ago.

It is no doubt a surprise to most to learn that shorthand was known and practiced 2,000 years ago. Manilius, a contemporary of Caesar and Cicero. Virgil and Horace, asserts that some system of reporting very similar to our shorthand was in vogue in his days. Writing these words under the influence of Virgo and Mercury, he says they are—

In shorthand skilled, where little marks comprise Whole words, a sentence in a single letter lies.

And while the willing hand its aid affords, Prevents the tongue to fix the falling words.

It is certainly a novel conception that Cicero's grand orations were committed to paper with as much skill as our modern stenographers boast.

A Story of Rossini.

In "Gossip From Paris During the Second Empire" A. B. N. Peat, the author, tells a story of Rossini, who was much dogged by the lion hunters: "Once a Russian lady outstripped the limits even of Rossini's patience and, having watched his daily promenade during several days, sent a message to his house expressive of her desire to be received by him. The reply to this strange communication was: 'I do nothing for nothing. If the lady brings me a fine bunch of asparagus she will be welcome, and she can take a view of me at her leisure.' Then, pointing to his waist, which had attained a somewhat aldermanic roundness, he added, 'The lady may even walk round me if she pleases, but I must have my asparagus.'"

Insect Traps.

Brazilian birds, fly catchers, display a brilliantly colored crest easily mistaken for a flower cup. Insects, attracted by what appears to be a freshly opened blossom, furnish the birds with food. An Asiatic lizard is entirely colored like the surface of the desert plains where it lives except that at each angle of the mouth blooms a brilliant red folding of the flesh exactly resembling a little flower that grows in the sand. Insects lured by the seeming flower are incontinently disillusioned when they settle upon it.

Appearances Against Him.

"Well, appearances seemed against him."

"What appearances?"

"Well, for one thing he was holding a glass upside down trying to fill it from a tightly corked bottle."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TYPHOID FEVER TREATMENT

State Board of Health Issues a Bulletin and Requests That It Be Given Wide Publicity.

The Washington state board of health has issued its bulletin as agreed upon when in this city in May on the important subject of typhoid fever, its causes, prevention, etc. The bulletin follows:

Though typhoid fever is a certainly and readily preventable as any of the contagious and infectious diseases, yet each year more deaths occur in Washington from this disease than from all the other preventable diseases combined, if we except consumption.

"The chief reason for this is the popular ignorance of or indifference to the measures which should be taken to prevent it.

"Typhoid fever has been proven beyond all doubt to be due to a specific micro-organism known as the bacillus typhosus or bacillus of eberth, which is taken into the intestinal canal either in water or other fluids or with food. That bacillus comes only from the bowel discharges, the urine and the sputum (spit) of a person sick with typhoid fever; therefore a person who has typhoid fever must have swallowed some of the bacilli typhosus which comes from the body of a person suffering from that disease.

"Unfortunately when the bacilli typhosus pass out of the body of the patient they do not die, but continue to live and multiply in this material almost as well as within the body. Cold, even freezing, does not kill them, but when frozen or when the weather is too cold, they lie dormant, and on being warmed up they at once begin to multiply and are as virulent as ever. This is why the disease is not as prevalent in the colder seasons of the year as during the warmer seasons.

"The two most important methods of conveying this disease are through the medium of water and the common house fly. Whenever the discharges from the bowels are deposited in a common privy vault or in a sewer the eventual destination of the liquid elements is running water, either upon the surface or below the surface of the ground, and this running water, whether surface or sub-surface water, not only can, but often does contaminate sources of water supply, which then become infected. If the excrement of a typhoid fever patient be thrown upon the surface of the ground or in an open privy without being disinfected, the bacilli are often carried by the surface water into the wells and streams in the vicinity and even at a considerable distance.

"Whenever the bowel movements or vomited matter or urine or sputum of a person sick with typhoid fever are left exposed without being disinfected, flies will get at them and very greatly increase the danger of spreading the disease. It has been demonstrated to a certainty that flies do pick up the bacilli on their feet, and not only deposit them, on the food of people living in the vicinity, but upon the manure piles and other accumulations of filth, where they breed rapidly and thus spread the infection.

"To prevent the spread of typhoid fever it is necessary to prevent the typhoid bacilli being conveyed from one person to another. This would not be difficult if the excrement of all persons sick with that disease were thoroughly disinfected. The trouble, however, is not so much with those who are very sick, for they are usually looked after by the physician, but with the mild or irregular cases, many of whom do not employ physicians, or go to bed, and no attention is given to disinfection. Then, too, a considerable number of the nontypical cases are not recognized as typhoid, and the result is that the stools and other excrement are not disinfected and the health of the community is further menaced.

"The first essential thing to do, in preventing the spread of typhoid fever and in stamping out the disease in a community, is to insist that each and every case of typhoid fever be reported to the health officer, and also that every suspicious case be reported as suspicious of typhoid. The reason for this is, that by having complete reports, the health officer will not only know the full extent of the prevalence of the disease, but he will know just what localities are most affected and he will then be better able to trace the infection to its original source and apply the remedy. When all cases are not reported, the health officer is in the dark as to what localities are most infected and the community is thereby not only exposed to an unnecessary spread of the disease, but an unnecessary expense in discovering and removing the cause.

"Second—Insist upon municipal and household cleanliness; do not allow any filthy privy vaults to be maintained; keep all garbage in covered cans; clean and disinfect and keep clean all surface or dry earth privies; allow no other accumulations of filth to gather; and disinfect with free use of quick lime all places from which garbage, manure or other filth has been removed. All such places are not only unnecessary, but are dirty and attract and breed flies and are all liable to become infected with the typhoid bacilli and thus to infect the water and afford an easy opportunity for flies to carry the infection into the houses.

"Third—See that your water supply is pure; if there is any doubt about it do not use it for any culinary purposes or for drinking until it has been thoroughly boiled; do not use ditch water for any purposes without boiling.

"Fourth—Protect your house, especially the kitchen and dining room, from flies.

"Fifth—See that bowel movements, vomited material, sputum (spit) and urine are thoroughly disinfected immediately after being voided from the body of typhoid cases, or those suspicious of typhoid; and also see that all bedding and all soiled clothing worn by the patient are also thoroughly disinfected. The printed rules governing this matter will be furnished by the health officer. Also protect every sick person about the house from flies and see that the bowel movements, vomited materials, sputum (spit) and urine are thoroughly disinfected and protected from flies.

"Sixth—Not only do all the above things yourself, but insist that your neighbors do them, for their carelessness may bring sickness and death to your family."

SIGNS ARE OLD.

In Ancient Greece They Were Used on Business Houses.

The custom of marking a business house by means of a sign is of very ancient origin. In the great cities of the east and among the ancient Egyptians such a practice must have been unnecessary, as all trades were classified and confined to certain sections of the city, and then all wares were exposed to full view, as they were displayed in open booths.

The history of Grecian signboards is meager, yet the allusions of Aristophanes and Lucian to signboards warrant our belief in their use by the Greeks. Athenaeus tells us, "He hung the well known sign in front of his house."

Advancing to Roman times, there is abundant evidence of signs, as the discoveries of Pompeii and Herculaneum amply testify. In the Eternal City some of the streets derived their names from signs, just as hundreds of London streets have been so named. The Roman street Vicus Ursi Pileati was named from the sign, for, as the name indicates, it was the street of "The Bear With the Hat On." But it was not until late in the fifteenth century that the custom gained a footing in England, first of all among the taverns and alehouses. Later came the necessity of distinguishing between certain shops brought about by the fact that the houses were not numbered and the people could not read word signs.—Julian King Calford in St. Nicholas.

SKEE JUMPING.

The great event of the skating clubs of the western states is the jumping contest. Only a skee runner knows the sensation. Below, the endless hill seems to stretch on forever into the distance of the valley, the steepness of the incline lost in its whiteness. A long breath and you start. Faster and faster you go, till suddenly a flash of green in front, and the jump off is coming. Crouching until your knees almost touch your shins, with muscles strained, out into the air you sail!

A strange lightness and feebleness take possession of your limbs, and your spirit shares the intoxication of soaring into space. After long seconds you are called back to earth, first for half a second softly, but then hard as iron that seems to give you an electric shock. You wobble helplessly from right to left; each foot seems glued to the ground and still in the air, but you have kept your balance and are shooting forward. At last you catch your first breath, like a hiccup; then a longer one. You are master of the field, with a jump of a hundred feet or more, and finish the victorious course in a neatly rounded curve.—Country Life in America.

A WEIRD INCIDENT.

Some years ago the following strange incident took place in a west end club: There lay on the table in one of the rooms a list of members who had put down their names for an approaching house dinner. A workman on a ladder, who was putting the finishing touches to the decoration of the ceiling, let fall a single tiny splash of red paint, which dropped on the first name on the list and obliterated it as if with the stroke of a pen. Some of the members who noticed this occurrence thought it a very bad omen; others, like Hamlet, defied augury. But, curiously enough, the member whose name had thus been struck out was taken ill the next day and died in the club on the night before the dinner was to have taken place.—Golden Penny.

LIGHTNING IN THE ROCKIES

It Is One Continuous, Dazzling, Awe Inspiring Performance.

If the reader of this has never been in a mountain thunderstorm at an elevation of 7,000 feet or more he has missed an experience that will doubtless should he ever pass through it add several gray hairs to his head. To me a thunderstorm back east held no special terrors, and frequently I have been out in such a demonstration without feeling any especial nervousness. Up here on the Rocky mountains things are different, and I confess now to live in awful, abject terror of a thunderstorm, especially at night, in my tent. I suffer this terror notwithstanding the fact that so far the storms have been in every instance except one gone around or beneath us without even raining enough to wet the ground. But it is the "going around and beneath" that gets on to my nerves. In the first place imagine what it is to be one and one-half miles nearer a rip roaring thunderstorm than one is at Pittsburgh. There you have occasional flashes of lightning; here it is one continuous, dazzling, awe inspiring performance. The lightning strikes, too, for it is no uncommon thing during a storm to hear the rocks splintering and cracking where one especially vigorous bolt has landed.

Add to this nerve racking exhibit the most awful detonations of thunder that you can imagine and a "straight blowing" wind that sometimes makes the daps of your tent play a ragtime melody, and you have some idea of a mountain thunderstorm. The thunder is worse than the sound of a mighty battle. It bangs up against the mountain side and reverberates and rolls off into one ear splitting concussion after another until you, lying quaking in your tent, fully believe that the next "boom" will split the mountain and valley in twain and land you in China or some other seaport town.

I lay one night and with chattering teeth counted five distinct thunderstorms come up to the edge of the plateau on which my tent stands and each time go through with an electrical performance that would give a stone man a dumb ague, and through it all not a cupful of water fell on my tent. Later on in the night, when I had about regained something like my usual majestic calm of mind, it began to rain steadily, and the thunder and lightning didn't even whisper. They had doubtless gone off down the canyon, scaring some other poor tenderfoot half out of his wits. These electrical displays are not seemingly much dreaded by the people who live in high altitudes. They comfortably declare that a tornado or cyclone is unknown in the mountains. But sometimes these mountain storms go off through a canyon to the foothills and the plains. Then there is something doing.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

ODD THINGS SOLD IN NEW YORK.

Drinking water is sold by the barrel to tramp steamers, sailing vessels and pilot boats.

Kisses may be bought occasionally at church fairs.

Reduced gentlemen sell their social influence, acquaintanceship and knowledge of good manners in the guise of chaperons.

Superstitious persons buy relics of prisoners condemned to death, and abnormally curious persons buy personal belongings of notorious prisoners from jail employees.

Astrologers and fortune tellers sell rabbits' feet, madstones and moonstones.

Hairdressers and ladies' maids are frequently offered money for locks of hair from the heads of famous society beauties and popular actresses.

The big hotels sell unspiced scraps of food to cheap restaurants.

Florists sell four leaf clover for good luck.—New York Press.

A FASHIONABLE WOMAN'S CONFESSTION.

Nobody finds it more difficult to spare time for reading than the very idle, yet every woman in society religiously orders every new book from her library, even though she sends most of them back without having even cut the leaves. If it is a book every one is talking about she skims through the opening chapters, dismissing the volume with a single observation at a dinner party and forgetting everything about it a month after she has returned it. Most of us remember the books of our youth, but if any one were to ask me the titles of the novels I read a couple of years ago no definite impression would be aroused.—"A Countess" in London Telegraph.

PHOSPHORESCENCE.

Animal and Vegetable Light Rank Among Nature's Mysteries.

Animal phosphorescence is one of the most surprising and least understood of nature's phenomena. The pale, bluish white light of the glowworm has been found by naturalists to be dependent upon the motion of the insect's body or legs. From this it would seem that the phosphorescence depends upon some nervous action, regulated at pleasure by the insect, for it has the power of obscuring it entirely. If the glowworm be crushed and the face or hands rubbed with it, luminous streaks like those produced by phosphorus will appear. They shine more brightly in oxygen gas and in nitrous acid.

The power of emitting luminous rays belongs to several varieties of fly and three species of beetle of the genus elater. One of the most brilliant of these is the great lantern fly of South America, which gives enough light to enable a person to read by the rays from a single insect. Numerous classes of these flies are found in Surinam, where they illuminate the darkness in a most remarkable manner.

In some of the bogs of Ireland lives a worm which gives out a bright green light, a fitting color for the Emerald Isle. There are many other kinds of insects which become luminous in the dark.

Yet there are many curious instances of phosphorescence in dead animals and vegetable matter, the lobster among crustaceans, the whiting among fishes and decayed wood being striking examples. Their emission of light seems to depend, however, not upon putrefaction, for as this progresses their luminosity diminishes, but upon certain unknown atmospheric conditions. This phosphorescence of decayed matter has been regarded as somewhat different from the slow combustion of phosphorus, but upon examination all the chemical conditions are found to be the same.

The strange phosphorescent quality of some plants and flowers is not exactly the same as that possessed by animal matter, but it is as little understood. It seems to be an absorption of light and a subsequent liberation of it. If a nasturtium is plucked during sunshine and carried into a dark room, the eye, after it has reposited for a few moments, will discover the flower by the light emitted from its leaves.

The phosphorescence of the sea is due to a living animal, which gives out its light under nervous excitement, as when it is stirred by the motion of a passing vessel.

A MILLION OR MORE OF DEAF MUTES.

Recent estimation places the number of deaf mutes in the world at more than 1,000,000. This great number of human beings, living a life which a normal person cannot conceive, is destined to increase because of the tendency of these people to marry persons laboring under the same disability.

Examination of the records of 4,500 marriages of deaf persons shows 9 per cent of the children to be deaf, while only one-tenth of 1 per cent of the offspring of an equal number of marriages of normal persons are likely to be afflicted with deafness. Deaf parents whose relatives are not deaf run no greater chances of having deaf children than persons who can hear, but in the case of normal persons in whose families there are members who are deaf the danger of deaf children is, according to Professor E. A. Fay, who has studied the question, just as great as among deaf people.—New York Press.

HENS IS CURIOUS ANIMALS.

A boy who was required to write an essay on hens produced the following: "Hens is curious animals. They don't have no nose nor no teeth nor no ears. They swallow their whistles whole and chew it up in their crops inside of 'em. The outside of hens is generally put in to pillars and into feather dusters. The inside of a hen is sometimes filled with marbles and shirt buttons and such. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they'll dig up more tomato plants than anything that lays eggs. Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum puddings. Hens have got wings and can fly when they get frightened. I cut off a hen's head with a hatchet, and it frightened her to death."

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington for the county of Yakima.

JOHN SHERMAN, Plaintiff.

THOMAS COSGROVE, Defendant.

That under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the Superior Court of Yakima county, State of Washington, on the 25th day of May, 1901, in a certain action wherein John Sherman, plaintiff, recovered judgment in said court against Thomas Cosgrove, defendant, on the 25th day of May, 1901, for the sum of six hundred sixty-five and 10/100 dollars ($665.50), plus interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum until paid, and costs of suit taxed six dollars ($6.00), and attorney fees of the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00). And in pursuance of the command in said execution contained I have levied upon certain real estate as the property of the defendant, Thomas Cosgrove, which real estate is more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

The west nine and one-half acres, (w 9 1/2 a) of section ten (10), township eight (8), north range thirty (30), Yakima county, Washington. Also a tract described as follows: Commencing at the southwest corner of lot two (2), section seventeen (17), township seven (7), range thirty-one (31), thence running west to west line of section seventeen (17), thence north 1000 feet, thence running east down to the Columbia river, and also all of lot three (3) of section seventeen (17), township seven (7), range thirty-one (31), Yakima county, Washington, containing 100 acres more or less, and being in all 109 1/2 acres.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, July 13, 1902, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Yakima, Yakima county, State of Washington, I will, in obedience to the command in said execution contained, sell to public auction the above described property, and as much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment, interest, attorney fees, costs and increased costs, to the highest and best bidder for cash in hand, lawful money of the United States of America.

Dated this 14th day of June, 1902.

H. A. GRANT, Sheriff of Yakima county, State of Washington.

Fay F. Dean, Attorney for Plaintiff.

June 18, 1902.

NOTICE AND SUMMONS.

In the superior court of the state of Washington for the county of Yakima.

H. R. Wells, Plaintiff.

W. F. Butcher and Helen Winthorpe, his wife, Defendants.

That the plaintiff, H. R. Wells, is the owner and holder of a certain certificate of delinquency, numbered 267, issued on the 13th day of September, 1902, by Yakima county, State of Washington, unto this plaintiff, H. R. Wells, for the sum of $6.87, the amount then due and delinquent for the taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, together with the penalties, interests and costs thereon, which said sum was paid to redeem the above described property from foreclosure of certificate of delinquency numbered 1897, issued to Yakima county for the unpaid taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, together with the penalties, interests and costs thereon and thereof, which said sum bears interest at the rate of fifteen per cent per annum from the date of redemption, upon said property assessed to unknown owner, situated in the county of Yakima, State of Washington, and described as follows, to-wit: Fractional lot numbered eleven (11), in block numbered forty-nine (49), in the city of North Yakima, Yakima county, State of Washington, as the same is laid down and described upon the official plat thereof, now on file and of record in the office of the auditor of said Yakima county.

That the plaintiff, H. R. Wells, is the owner and holder of a certain certificate of delinquency, numbered 267, issued on the 13th day of September, 1902, by Yakima county, State of Washington, unto this plaintiff, H. R. Wells, for the sum of $6.87, the amount then due and delinquent for the taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, together with the penalties, interests and costs thereon, which said sum was paid to redeem the above described property from foreclosure of certificate of delinquency numbered 1897, issued to Yakima county for the unpaid taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, together with the penalties, interests and costs thereon and thereof, which said sum bears interest at the rate of fifteen per cent per annum from the date of redemption, upon said property assessed to unknown owner, situated in Yakima county and described as above.

That the heirs at law of William G. Coe, deceased, namely the said Helen Winthorpe Butcher, formerly Helen Winthorpe Coe, the widow of William G. Coe, deceased, and William G. Coe, Mary E. Coe, Emma B. Coe and Blanche Coe, were at the time of the assessment of said taxes upon each of said tracts, for the year 1896, were the owners or reputed owners of said tracts of land, as heirs at law of the said William G. Coe, deceased, and that the said defendants, Helen Winthorpe Butcher, formerly Helen Winthorpe Coe, is the widow of William G. Coe, deceased, and that she in her own right, and as widow and one of the heirs at law of the said William G. Coe, deceased, and the children of William G. Coe, deceased, to-wit: William G. Coe, Mary E. Coe, Emma B. Coe and Blanche Coe, minor heirs at law of the said William G. Coe, deceased, and W. F. Butcher, as husband of Helen Winthorpe Butcher, nee Helen Winthorpe Coe, and George S. Vance as administrator of the estate of William G. Coe, deceased, and all other parties described as unknown, if any, having or claiming to have any title, right, estate, lien or interest in or claim in their several rights to have some estate or interest in said tract or tracts of land, or whatever interest they may have in said tracts or any one of them, this plaintiff alleges that the same are junior, inferior and subordinate to the lien in virtue of said certificates of delinquency and the taxes herein set forth on each of the respective tracts of land separately described.

And you, each of you, are hereby notified that said plaintiff, H. R. Wells, is the owner and holder of a certain certificate of delinquency, numbered 267, issued on the 13th day of September, 1902, by Yakima county, State of Washington, unto this plaintiff, H. R. Wells, for the sum of $6.87, the amount then due and delinquent for the taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, together with the penalties, interests and costs thereon and thereof, which said sum bears interest at the rate of fifteen per cent per annum, upon the real property assessed to unknown owner, situated in the county of Yakima, State of Washington, and described as follows, to-wit: Fractional lot numbered eleven (11), in block numbered forty-nine (49), in the city of North Yakima, Yakima county, State of Washington, as the same is laid down and described upon the official plat thereof, now on file and of record in the office of the auditor of said Yakima county.

THE SUNNYSIDE RAILROAD

President Granger Talks on the Subject—Says Construction Work Will Probably Begin in Six Weeks.

W. N. Granger of Zillah, general manager of the Washington Irrigation company and president of the newly organized Sunnyside Railway company, was a North Yakima visitor Thursday.

Mr. Granger stated to the editor of the Democrat, on being questioned regarding the proposed belt line, that the road would certainly be built and that construction work would begin by Aug. 15, judging from the present outlook. Mr. Granger added that the promoters of the new road hoped to have cars running into Sunnyside before the close of the present year in order to move the present crop.

The building of this proposed line will not be so great an undertaking as most people imagine, continued Mr. Granger. The people down that way are enthusiastic over the proposition to build the road and will aid the enterprise in every way possible. The committee now at work securing the right of way reports that they have not yet met a single property owner along the proposed route but what has cheerfully agreed to donate the needed right of way through his premises for the new railroad.

Mr. Granger said that the report published in a local paper this week to the effect that the Prosser people at the meeting held in that town last Monday had refused to extend any financial aid whatever to the new enterprise is absolutely false. On the contrary the Prosser people through their committee gave notice to the officials of the new company that they are prepared to carry out their part of the tentative agreement entered into last fall when Prosser agreed to take stock in the enterprise to the extent of $25,000, and this offer was renewed by the committee last Monday the only stipulation made being to the effect that the Sunnyside farmers should raise the same acreage of beets that they agreed to raise when the matter was being agitated a few months ago.
