THE MACHINE CROWD WINS

Boxer, or Reform Element, Utterly Routed at the Primaries by the Stalwarts—List of Delegates Elected—Forecast of the Convention's Work Today—Rigg for Judge, Reed for Senator, Hare for the Lower House.

The republican party primaries were held in this county last Saturday and with the lively scrap that is on between the two factions the stalwarts and the boxers there was something doing all the time. In this city Saturday night hacks and carriages were kept busy between the hours of 8 and 10 p. m. hustling voters and bringing them into the party councils to vote for either one slate or the other. The tallest hustling however was done by the stalwarts or machine men, whom the Herald designates as "The yellows" because of the fact that the tickets used by that crowd were printed on yellow paper as distinguished from the white tickets used by the boxers.

The fight at the primaries resulted in a complete victory for the machine leaders. Of the 39 delegates to the county convention elected in this city the machine secured 38. E. O. Keck being elected on the boxer ticket from the first ward. The victorious stalwarts exalted a good deal over their victory and the boxers felt correspondingly depressed. The defeat of the latter is taken to mean the elimination of J. H. Fraser from the senatorial race at the convention today. The result in a majority of the county precincts where the line was drawn between the two factions is favorable to the continuance of machine rule.

The city delegates held a caucus on Thursday evening to determine the line up to be made at the convention for the nomination of a legislative and county ticket. Below is the ticket that will in all probability be named by the republican convention today:

DIED ON THE TRAIL

Death by Heart Disease Overtakes a Man Near Prosser—A Charitable Act.

Prof. John Kingsbury and Hub Pratt, while returning to Prosser from the former's homestead Friday night of last week came upon a sight that excited their pity.

In the road stood a mover's wagon surrounded by seven children, the eldest a boy of 18, the youngest a child of three. The children were all crying pitifully and on being asked by the two young men what their trouble was pointed to the inert form of a man lying by the roadside with the exclamation, "Papa is dead!" And so it proved, for there lay the body. The eldest boy explained that they had stopped to camp for the night and that the father was engaged in preparing their sample meal when death suddenly came upon him. The boy wasn't sure but thought that his father had been subject to heart trouble. His father's name was William Coons, he said, and they had traveled from their home at Cove, Oregon, to the Yakima valley to pick hops. His mother, the boy said, was in the Oregon insane asylum. They had no money and but very little to eat.

Messrs Kingsbury and Pratt told the children they would help them out of their trouble and they did. They loaded up the family together with the dead man and took them to Prosser. There they saw that the children were cared for and told their sad story. A collection was at once taken up aggregating the sum of $81.05 from the good people of Prosser and everybody chipped in. Coroner Frank was notified of the man's death and went down the next day but deemed an inquest unnecessary on hearing the story and the unfortunate man was buried the same day.

The children were advised to go back to their home, where they were known and concluded to do so. They were furnished with the necessary provisions to make the return trip by team. The remainder of the relief fund was turned over to the eldest boy, who seemed like a youth of discretion, on his promise to take good care of the little ones. And so the bereaved youngsters started back to the poor home that they had left. The little waifs thus thrown upon the charity of the world were fatherless, but their temporary wants had been supplied and they smiled through their tears as they bade their kind friends at Prosser good-bye.

Irrigation Committee Appointed.

Chairman Scudder of the irrigation meeting held in this city July 23 this week announced the personnel of the local committee which the meeting authorized him to appoint. The work mapped out for the local committee is to gather and compile information on irrigation matters relative to the needs and wants of Yakima county and then to make suggestions to the state irrigation commission appointed by Gov. McBride several months ago to investigate the needs of the arid sections of the state and to draft a form of bill to be presented to the next legislature.

Mr. Scudder was authorized to appoint a committee of five. He has thus far named four well known citizens of the county as follows: Senator A. J.

Splawn, John Clemen, F. H. Gloyd of Prosser, and A. T. Richardson of Fruitvale. The fifth man, it is understood, will be named later and will be chosen from Sunnyside if a suitable party can be located there who will work with the committee.

Runaway Freight Cars.

A string of freight cars numbering 12 and mostly empties, were standing on the main track in the yards here Saturday night. The cars had been pulled off the "Y" and it was the intention to include the 12 cars in a train being made up. The cars were bunted pretty hard by the engineer when he backed up and as no brakes had been set off they went down the grade, gathering speed as they went. They kept going as far as Wapato a distance of 12 miles, when the vagrant cars collided with the caboose of an eastbound freight train standing on the track there. Owing to the fact that the cars had lost much of their momentum after passing through Union gap, the impact was not very heavy and but little damage was done. Fortunately no one was in the caboose at the time.

Editor Boardman Buys a Paper.

E. L. Boardman, former editor of the Herald, visited Prosser this week. While there he is reported to have purchased the Bulletin of that city from Mr. Verity, who has been publishing the paper for the past few months. Mr. Boardman, it is understood will move to Prosser and personally conduct the Bulletin.

W. W. IRELAND KILLED

Teamster Meets Death Early Sunday Morning by Falling From His Wagon.

W. W. Ireland, a resident of Zillah, was killed early Sunday morning by falling from his loaded wagon on his road home. The accident occurred near the Ed. Goodwin ranch in Parker Bottom.

The unfortunate man left this city Saturday night for Zillah with a mixed load of keg beer and ice. About 4:50 o'clock Sunday morning W. D. Lancaster, who lives just west of Zillah, saw Ireland's team pass his place, but without a driver. Thinking that some accident might have happened Mr. Lancaster, after tying the team, went back up the road and after traveling several miles to the Goodwin place came upon the dead body of Ireland lying in the road with his head crushed in, one of the wheels having evidently passed over him. The dust in the road showed too, that the body had been dragged for a distance of about 50 feet. Mr. Lancaster notified some of the ranchers living in the vicinity and the body was taken to Zillah.

Coroner Frank was notified and he, in company with Deputy Sheriff Cox, drove to Zillah to make an investigation. On learning the above facts the coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary. It was evident that the unfortunate man had gone to sleep on his wagon seat and fell off.

The deceased was 47 years of age and leaves a widow and three young children. He was a native of Maine, a teamster by occupation and had resided in Yakima county about three years.

The Copalis Beach Company.

The stockholders of the Copalis Beach company, mentioned in the Democrat last week, are as follows: Fred Parker, Miles Cannon, Edward Whitson, H. H. Allen, G. J. Hill, W. N. Granger, I. H. Dills, Geo. S. Rankin, Ira P. Englehart, Stanley Coffin, D. E. Lesn, A. S. Congdon, J. T. Foster, Wallis W. Williams, W. L. Steinweg, H. H. Lombard, M. H. Grover, W. W. Robertson, Wallace Wiley and Arthur Coffin. At a meeting of the stockholders, held Monday the following officers were chosen:

President, Fred Parker; secretary and treasurer, Miles Cannon. The trustees for the first year are Messrs. Parker, Cannon, Englehart, Hill and Stanley Coffin.

The object of the corporation is to buy and improve a certain tract of land consisting of 138 acres on Copalis beach and erect thereon summer residences for themselves and families. The stockholders in the corporation are quite enthusiastic over the scheme.

Bad Man in Limbo.

Doug Hawkins, a colored man with a shady reputation who lives in the tenderloin district is now in jail on the charge of his wife who accuses him of an attempt to murder her. At the preliminary trial held in Justice Taggard's court Saturday evidence was introduced to show that Hawkins had attempted to carve his better half. On the showing made the prisoner was bound over to the superior court in the sum of $1000.

City Attorney J. O. Cull left for Goldendale Thursday on legal business.

DEATH OF G. H. MOULTON

An Old Time Resident of North Yakima Passes Away Suddenly From Heart Failure.

Gary H. Moulton, a well known citizen of Yakima and a resident of this city for a period of 20 years, died quite suddenly about 4 o'clock a. m. Wednesday, Aug. 24 at the residence of Mrs. Houston, 406 north Third street, to which place he was taken last Saturday from his rooms in the Pickett building by a few friends in order that he might have the benefit of skillful nursing.

Judge Moulton, as he was familiarly called by his friends was taken ill about two weeks ago, but did not take to his bed until about Aug. 19. Dr. Gunn was called in to attend him and pronounced his ailment typhoid fever. The immediate cause of his death, however, was from heart trouble, with which he had been periodically afflicted for several years. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Shaw & Flint's undertaking parlors. A beautiful song service was rendered by a trio of male voices consisting of Messrs. Dudley, Meigs and Loudon. Hon. E. B. Preble by request delivered an able address in which he gave a sketch of the life of the deceased and extolled the splendid virtues of the dead. After the conclusion of the ceremonies the body was conveyed to the grave and all that was mortal of Gary H. Moulton was consigned to mother earth in the waiting grave in Tahoma cemetery.

Gary Houston Moulton was born in Vermont in the year 1837, being at the time of his death nearly 68 years of age. While a young man he migrated to California about 1859, making the trip by way of Panama. At different points in California he worked alternately at his two trades, that of marble cutting and carpentering. He married in that state. After residing for a number of years in California he came to Washington and for the next three or four years worked as a carpenter on the Northern Pacific while that road was building to the coast. In that capacity he came to Yakima City with his family in 1884 and soon after to North Yakima when this town started and had continued to call this city his home until the time of his death. As the result of his marriage eight children were born, all of whom are now grown and widely scattered. His son Robert, of Portland, and daughter, Mrs. Ward Emigh, of Walla Walla, were present at the funeral.

Judge Moulton was a man of many lovable and splendid qualities that enabled him to form strong and lasting friendships. Among his circle of friends in North Yakima he will be sorely missed. He was always cheerful, good natured and kind hearted. Of his own troubles he seldom if ever spoke. For many years he had lived alone but that fact did not spoil his temper. He was kind and considerate in his dealings with everybody. He was a man of strong literary taste and was a very fluent writer of very excellent verse, but little of which, however, he would ever consent to have published.

Must Be "Bughouse."

Sheriff Grant Friday arrested Wm. Slosker, a man who is evidently insane. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest at the instance of Dr. Berry, the Quaker doctor who has been receiving threatening and peculiarly constructed messages from the man, invariably written on postal cards and addressed to the "Quaker Doctors." The following is a copy of one of these notices:

"Yakima, 8-25-1904.

"Quaker Doctors take notice and mock not ME, but give up the $100 bill to a man who is verily in need of it, identifiable by his extraordinary appearance and the clothing suggestive of poverty but whose name I do not know. You will find him in the public library reading books and occasionally the Bible. Supply him with all the money he wants. Dare not to ask him any further questions. Mockery forbear and fear SANA MOTO."

Slosker is a wild, unkempt looking individual but rather sly in his movements. It required some detective work on the part of the sheriff to locate him. The man is believed to have come here from Walla Walla.

Congressman Frank Cushman came in from Fort Simcoe Monday where he had been the guest for several days of Supt. Jay Lynch while hunting grouse in that vicinity. Mrs. Cushman came over from Tacoma Sunday to meet her husband and while here was the guest of Mrs. W. L. Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Cushman returned to Tacoma Tuesday.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES

List of Delegates Elected in City Precincts—County Convention to Assemble Sept. 3rd.

Democratic primaries for the election of delegates to the county convention, which meets in this city on Sept. 3rd, were held in the different precincts Thursday afternoon and evening. The following is a list of delegates elected from North Yakima:

First Ward: Chas. Rodman, J. T. Bragg, B. G. Walker, J. E. Ryan, Geo. F. McAuley, Harry Moran, T. J. Redfield, Jos. Metzger, Jack Kauffman, and John Michels.

Second Ward: W. F. Jones, Vestal Snyder, W. A. Cox, A. F. Snelling, Pat Jordan, Warren Erwin, H. H. Allen, Jas. R. Coe, Geo. Jewell, J. D. Medill, J. M. E. Edwards, Chas. Bruenn and C. C. Case.

Third Ward: T. D. Quinn, S. J. Lowe, J. D. McDaniel, Paul Kroger, T. A. Davis, J. C. Liggett, R. Strobach, J. Villume, A. E. Howard and L. L. Thorpe.

Late Political News.

The delegates from North Yakima to the republican county convention held a caucus behind closed doors in Masonic hall Thursday night. At the meeting a steering committee was appointed consisting of W. W. Robertson, F. D. Cook and Wilbur Powell. It was decided informally that the city delegates would support W. J. Reed for the senate and W. H. Hare for representative. The matter of supporting other local candidates was not discussed. Another meeting of the city delegates was held last night to hear the report of the steering committee and take further action.

A number of delegates arrived from the lower valley Friday and the politicians and candidates were proceeding to "get busy" as The Democrat goes to press. The Prosser delegation is making a determined effort to land P. E. Harris on the legislative ticket.

The Flynn Estate.

Court Commissioner Day Monday appointed Charles Longmire as temporary administrator of the estate of William Flynn of the Wenas. Mr. Longmire will serve in that capacity until September 10, when Judge Rudkin will probably appoint a permanent administrator.

Attorney Snively appeared in behalf of two alleged heirs of the deceased, one of whom lives in Colorado and the other in Ireland. Mr. Snively asked that Phil A. Ditter be appointed administrator. Prosecuting Attorney Parker appeared in behalf of his client, Longmire.

Apparently there is quite a legal battle in prospect over the settlement of the Flynn estate, the value of which is estimated at from $35,000 to $45,000. The old man's will, if he ever made any, has not yet been found. The most of his neighbors who were on familiar terms with "Doc" Flynn, as he was called, seem to be satisfied that he left no will and that the one that he made several years ago, by which he left the most of his property to the Catholic church of this city, was destroyed when he became estranged from the church. There are others, however, who believe that this will is still in existence.

From all accounts Mr. Flynn was never married. He left Ireland while yet a boy and his old neighbors say that he didn't know whether he had any relatives living or not.

Caught and Locked Up.

Sheriff Grant on Monday evening placed under arrest Dan Ford, formerly watchman for the Northern Pacific in the Selah canyon north of town. Ford was arrested and locked up on the complaint of Mrs. Wilson, of the Selah section house, who phoned the sheriff that Ford had deliberately went through her house and possessed himself of some of her valuables. Ford had previously been to her house with a livery rig from Tucker's stable and insisted upon her taking a ride with him, which the woman refused to do. Ford thereupon got angry, she said, seized the things and started off with them. The sheriff caught the fellow at the livery stable as he returned the team and placed him under arrest. The missing property was found in his possession.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by C. C. Case.

Jumped Off Moving Train.

A young Jap from this city jumped from a moving train about a mile below Wapato Monday afternoon. The train was going at a fair rate of speed and the oriental was seriously injured. His head and shoulders first came in contact with the earth and he was knocked insensible. He was brought to this city and placed in the hospital. It is thought that his injuries may prove fatal.

The Jap had purchased a ticket to Wapato to which place he had been summoned on account of the illness of his brother. When the train reached Wapato he did not get off, probably thinking that the next station was his destination. When he discovered his error he opened a door and jumped off before the trainmen could stop him.

Cant's a Drug On the Market.

Cantaloupes this year, even of the celebrated Rocky Ford variety, are almost a drug on the market. Owing to the agitation last winter and spring in favor of a larger acreage of cantaloupes in the Yakima valley a large number of farmers went into the business this season on the expectation that Coggins & Co. of Pittsburg and a number of other places would take practically the entire crop for eastern shipment. After some delay Mr. Latson, a representative of that firm arrived here this week and after looking over the situation and meeting a number of the growers Wednesday that it would be useless to attempt to find an eastern market this season for Yakima cantaloupes as the melons could not be secured in sufficient quantities to justify the expense of shipment east. It was considered the best policy to attempt to find a market on the coast for the present crop. Mr. Latson left here Thursday for the Sound cities and Portland.

"Cant's" have been selling locally during the past week for from 25 to 50 cents per crate.

At the Christian church next Sunday morning the services will be conducted by L. D. Green, of Eugene, Ore. There will be special music by the Green children, who are becoming noted as singers.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

the grave. Then comes the undertaker in his rubber-tired buggy, but the sick man knows it not.

Those Chicago strikers, or at least the most of them, are probably a bad lot.
Ninety per cent of them are said to be foreigners who can't speak English, and they are sufficiently cowardly and un-American to maltreat working girls, but the packing corporations are entitled to no sympathy, for they brought them to this country in violation of law in order to secure cheap labor. They are simply reaping the harvest of their own lawlessness.

One day while strolling in a certain town in Washington we chanced upon a man and wife engaged in a violent altercation.

"Come, come," we said, "this won't do
—you must not quarrel."
"This ain't no quarrel," replied the husband.

"No quarrel?" we said, perplexed.
"No, sir," rejoined the man, convincingly. "It ain't no quarrel. I've just been paid my wages. My wife thinks she ain't going to get it, an' I know she ain't. No quarrel at all, see?"

We have long accustomed ourselves to believe that all progress originates within our own glorious country, but it is not wholly true. Occasionally a new idea comes out of effete Europe.

For instance, we owe the successful working of the underground trolley to Budapest. Lately in Vienna there has been established a school for hackmen.
Now if they would rig up a scheme to prevent bicyclists and automobilists from running down pedestrians we would take off our hats to Austro-Hungary.

They had been married only three short weeks, and he was actually interested in his paper.

"Darling," she began in a tone meant to be reproachful, "do you love me just as much as you ever did?"

"Sure thing," he answered briefly.
She ought to have been satisfied to let it go at that, but she wasn't.

"Why?" she asked.

"Don't know," he replied. "Just a fool habit I've got into, I suppose."

Then for seventeen consecutive seconds silence remained supreme.

President Roosevelt is being strongly urged again to take up the case of the miner's strike and the general disorder that exists in Colorado, but has thus far declined to make a move in that direction. If the beef cutter's strike continues he will be urged to interfere in that case, and there will be as much reason for his doing so as there was in the case of the coal strike. The people of the whole country will be taxed while the strike continues and for some time afterward, and as the tax comes in the form of higher prices on an actual necessity of life, they will be unable to avoid it. On the poor it will fall with special weight. The price of beef has been growing rapidly enough of late,
through the manipulations of the trust.
With the shutting off of the supply
the price of all other provisions will go up at a rapid rate. The people will suffer as much as they did or could from the coal shortage. If the coal strike was a cause for executive interference this surely is.

Mr. Bryan's New Platform.

Big newspaper guns have been turned on William Jennings Bryan, because of his new platform. He has nailed his colors to the mast, and will advocate, regardless of the result of the national election:

State ownership and operation of railways.

Government ownership and operation of telegraphs.

Popular election of federal judges and United States senators.

Local nomination of postmasters.

His enemies, and he has them in clusters, say that the platform is stark, staring, howling madness, and not even worth discussing.

But are any of the issues he has touched on well regulated, from the people's standpoint, today?

There is being built up, by mergers and gentlemen's agreements, a railroad trust in this country that will eventually, if not checked, outdo any combination dreamed of. It is dangerous in its possibilities and in its immoral propensities.

Why shouldn't the government transmit communications by wire as well as by mail? It has shown its ability to perform the latter service with less error and greater dispatch than a private company could hope to equal.

The misuse of power by federal judges has given growth to a popular hatred for that particular branch of authority.
The fact can not be dodged. Perhaps the plain people are wrong, but they hate well.

The election of United States senators has become a synonym for boodle, and seats in the "Millionaires' Club," at Washington, are purchased as surely as the sun shines.

It is an advanced platform, but to call it "howling madness" is to stamp every new idea as madness. Municipal ownership has been called folly, and some of the best minds in the country were and are convinced that high protection is highway robbery, and so it goes all along the line of things untied.

Mr. Bryan serves his country by forcing the people to think. He doesn't ring the bell every time, but with millions of brains in action there must certainly come light that will lead this good and fairly prosperous land into paths that will bring those who are down up, without pulling those who are up down.

America needs more prosperity for all, a wiser and more honest division of things that are good.—Cincinnati

The Editor's Opportunity.

What the orator has lost in opportunity the newspaper editor has gained, and more, if he can but rise to the inspiring realization of his vaster, more thoughtful and more susceptible audience, freed from all distracting influences, to receive and to treasure his words if they be but worthy, wise, instructive and heart reaching. Every editor should write as he would speak if all his readers were gathered before him and within the hearing of his voice.

THE BRIGADIER'S REVENGE

[Copyright, 1904, by C. B. Lewis.]

The brigadier general was a great poker player, and he had been cleaning out the colonels and majors and captains in great shape. Some of them were old hands at the game, but for every dollar they won they lost two.
It wouldn't do to come out and say that the brigadier was a card sharp, but men shook their heads and wondered and grumbled over his strange luck, and one after another found excuses for not sitting down with him again.

Inside of a week or so it was reported and believed Colonel Bell lost to the brigadier over $2,000. That sum might have been doubled in another week but for an incident. More by accident than design the colonel caught the brigadier cheating, and the play broke up in hot words. Every effort was made to suppress the gossip, but it reached the ears of the commander in chief, and he raised such a row that there was no more poker. The harm had been done, however. Colonel Bell had said to the brigadier in presence of witnesses:

"Sir, I caught you cheating, and I denounce you as a sharper and a rascal!"

And the brigadier, hot faced, chagrined and cursing his own carelessness, had replied:

"I'll make those words cost you your life or your commission before three months have passed by."

Spring came at last, and the campaign opened. Early was too strong for Sheridan for the first two or three months, but we held him back and fought him in all the valleys. Sometimes it was a skirmish, with only a few hundred men engaged. Again it was a lively little fight in which each side had a brigade in battle line. We had plenty of excitement and plenty to occupy our thoughts, but we of the Third regiment did not forget the brig-adier's threat. You had only to look at his set jaw and cold face to realize that his enmity was deep.

Later our brigade was pushed over into the Luray valley to capture a small force and wreak destruction on growing crops. The Confederates were alert and could not be taken by surprise. As we fought them in a desul-tory way they were re-enforced, and suddenly we found our 3,600 men facing at least 5,000. The enemy had a strong position, too, and every man of us, from the senior colonel down, realized that if we could even hold our own until another Federal brigade came up we should be in luck.

"Well fight, of course," I heard our captain saying to the first lieutenant,
"but we'll get licked out of our boots inside of half an hour. If we had double our strength we couldn't carry their position. It's going to be a useless slaughter."

And the second sergeant of the company turned to the first corporal and growled:

"Say, now, but have you got a family back home?"

"Yes, and what of it?"

"Nothing, except that you'd better bid them goodbye and ask the Lord to forgive you your sins. We'll be pilled up in front of 'em like cordwood."

The brigadier had a plan, and it was soon developed. The Third regiment was on the left flank, just opposite the enemy's strongest position. The center of the Federal force was moved forward and then ordered back. The right flank was advanced, kept under long range fire for a few minutes and then withdrawn back. Then an aid came galloping up to Colonel Bell, saluted and said:

"Compliments of General Blank, and you will move forward and turn the enemy's right. Let your men go in with the bayonet."

"The Third to move forward alone!"
gasped Colonel Bell in astonishment.

"Alone and at once."

"But it cannot—cannot!"

"Alone and at once, sir!" repeated
the aid.

Not five men in our regiment heard the words, but all understood them.
The hour of revenge had come to the brigadier. He hadn't driven Colonel Bell to resign, but he would strike him here, and the blow would hit the whole regiment as well. There were groans and jeers from the men, and the officers shook hands and said:

"Goodby to you. This is a wipeout for the old Third."
We moved over the old meadow at common time, increased it to quick as the first bullets began to sing, and then with a cheer brought our muskets down to a charge and dashed forward with a whoop. The angels of heaven must have been saddened over the slaughter. We had no earthly show.
Grape and canister and bullet rained into us behind intrenchments until the men in gray stayed their hands out of play and let a beggarly quarter of the regiment limp back out of the hell.

The colonel, the major, five captains, seven lieutenants and 420 men left back there!

As the fragments of us got together and wondered how God had spared us the brigadier rode along our front at a gallop.

"You murderer!" shouted a hundred men at him as he rode.

"You cursed fiend!" shouted another hundred.

But the brigadier smiled and rode on.
In his official report he would say:

"The Third regiment was sent in on the left flank, but not being properly led or held up to their work accomplished nothing and suffered a heavy loss. I am sorry to say that among the killed was the gallant Colonel Bell, who had heretofore displayed the greatest judgment and gallantry."

Work Done While Asleep.
Cabanis tells us that Franklin on several occasions mentioned to him that he had been assisted by dreams in the conduct of affairs in which he was engaged.

Condillac states that while writing his "Course of Studies" he was frequently obliged to leave a chapter incomplete and retire to bed, and on awaking he found it, on more than one occasion, finished in his head.

The most remarkable testimony of this kind is perhaps that of Sir Thomas Browne, who declared that, if it were possible, he would prefer to carry on his studies in his dreams, so much more efficient were his faculties of mind when his body was asleep.

Hysteria in Dogs.

Nerves are the disease of the present day among human beings, but I do not know till recently that hysteria is also a malady of dogs. A friend of mine owned a dog which suddenly one day was seized with an attack of nerves.
Since then it has been very ill, wandering incessantly round and round the room, refusing food, but still recognizing its owner. Another little dog suffered from hysteria in consequence of fright from railway traveling, and it really seems as though civilization, in rendering dogs more delicate and more susceptible, had done them a distinct physical injury.—London Graphic.

Work Planned Out.

"That was a pleasant gentleman you introduced to me."
"Yes; he has some excellent qualities.
I am going to make something of him
if he will let me."
"You make something of him? Why, he looks old enough to be your father."
"He is old enough. That's what I'm going to make of him—a father-in-law."—Kansas City Journal.

Plenty of Taste.

"Well," said Nurich, who had been showing Kandor through his new house, "what do you think of the fur-nishin'?"

"They—er—show a great deal of taste," replied Kandor.

"Think so?"

"Yes; but it's all very bad."

No Cause For Complaint.

"So you resent these hints of dishonesty in the government?"
"Most emphatic," answered Farmer Cornstossel. "I've been buyin' postage stamps from the government for years and never got cheated yet."—Washington Star.

A Family of Influence.

"He seems to be quite an important personage now."

"Why, he always was, and so were the other members of his family."

"Nonsense."

"Not at all. He started as janitor in a flat, his brother is a policeman, and his sister is a cook lady."—Exchange.

Notice to Subscribers.

Delinquent subscribers to The Democrat are requested to settle at their earliest convenience. The tag on the paper will inform you to what time your subscription has been paid. Many of our friends, through carelessness no doubt, have permitted their subscription account to run. The amount does not seem much to them but it amounts to a good deal in the aggregate to the publisher when he is compelled to carry several hundred such accounts and putting out a paper at the nominal price of one dollar per year. We would not kick on this arrangement if our own bills did not have to be paid weekly, or at least monthly. So please come in with your mite and help us along with our good work by keeping the mill grinding.

Ed. Thomas, formerly manager and editor in chief of the Bellingham Revelle, has sued the Great Northern Railway company for the balance due on a political deal which the road is alleged to have made. The road, it is said, was to cancel $15,000 in mortgages against the paper if Thomas succeeded in defeating the McBride and Black element. This was done, and the road, it is said, paid $3,000 of the bill and later froze Thomas out of the plant and he now sues for $12,000 balance on the contract. Mr. Thomas will, it is understood, accept a position on the Seattle P.-I. and there will be some fur flying in railroad circles as well as the suit for balance due.—Anacortes American.

In commenting on the above the Bellingham Blade says:

"The fact that the Revelle was to be paid by the Great Northern Railroad company for its efforts to defeat Black and thereby turn traitor to the county and lose a congressman to this locality has long been well known here. It has, however, been an open secret that the scurrilous and malicious attacks of Editor Ed Thomas did but little in that direction. Had it not been for the cash of the Great Northern at the primaries and the free transportation that brought voters from all over the surrounding country to Bellingham to attend the county convention, the result would have been otherwise. It can scarcely be expected that Jim Hill wants to pay twice for defeating the people's choice."

Thus the truth though crushed to earth will rise again. The same influence that choked off the political ambition of Mayor Black, of Bellingham, at the Whatcom county primaries summarily suppressed Gov. McBride at the Tacoma convention. and for what reason? Simply because that both are reputable men who have made creditable records by standing up for the rights of the people. That is the reason why they were not wanted by the Great Northern interests that now dominates so effectually the republican organization of this state.

The one central fact that now interests the voters in all this riot of wickedness is simply this: That A. E. Mead, republican candidate for governor, is the protegee of the special interests that brought about the political assassination of Gov. McBride and Mayor Black. Mead is also the beneficiary. He was used by that giant corporation to accomplish its own ends, to remove McBride and Black from its path. The corruption fund that was spent in doing this was expended as well for his benefit. Surely, any man who is not blind can see the true condition of affairs.

After procuring his nomination in such a manner how can the republican editors truthfully deny that Mr. Mead is the railroad's candidate in this campaign? Would it not be more truthful as well as more manly for them to assert that he is the candidate of the corporations and that if elected governor he will see to it that their interests are protected? What right have they to assume or to attempt to make the people believe that Mr. Mead, in the event of his election, would prove an ingrate to the people who lifted him out of obscurity and made him what he is today, a candidate for the highest office within the gift of the people?

Under the circumstances it seems that Mr. Mead might very materially have improved his chance of election by admitting on the start what everybody knows, that he is the railroad candidate. In adopting such a straightforward policy he might at least have saved the votes of many men who admire courage and frankness. He might have also by such a course disarmed his political enemies.

William G. Choate, prominent lawyer and republican leader of New York and brother of Joseph H. Choate, U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, has repudiated Roosevelt and announced his intention of supporting Parker. He gives as his reason that the president has no regard for the constitutional limitations of his office.

Another distinguished flopper of Gotdam is Hamilton Odell, a leading lawyer, once republican candidate for supreme judge and a cousin to Gov. Odell of New York. His objection to Roosevelt is the same as that given by Mr. Choate.

Gen. Edward A. McAlpin, another leading republican of New York, refuses to support Roosevelt, according to the World, on the ground that the president is "unsafe and erratic." Gen. McAlpin has not only been a republican all his life, but he has been a strong party worker. Until recently he was a member of the republican state executive committee.

The Parker Constitution Club, an organization composed exclusively of New York lawyers, was organized recently and will take an active part in the campaign. Out of some fifty odd charter members, but two cast their ballots four years ago for Wm. J. Bryan.

The above are only a few illustrations of the changes that are going on quietly. That the trend is from Roosevelt to Parker, especially among the enlightened, independent class of voters, is obvious.

The Seattle Times shows up very clearly how John L. Wilson works the republican state committee and such of the country papers as publish Wilson's "ready made" editorials that emanate weekly from the Seattle "brain factory." This editorial copy is sent out from the P.-I. office and published in a number of republican weekly papers as "original" matter. Then when it comes back to the P.-I. office it is clipped by a hired man and printed in the Wilson organ as reflecting public sentiment in the locality where the weekly happens to be published. In this way it is made to appear that Mr. Mead's stock is looking up all over the state. The salary of the chief worker in the "brain factory" is said to be paid by the republican state committee.

We had noticed that the editorial sections of some of our republican exchanges are identically the same and thought it passing strange that so many of the brethren were possessed simultaneously with a single thought. But this "brain factory" scheme makes it all clear. What a brilliant idea it was that originated in the mind of the astute ex-senator. By all means let the "brain factory" go on. Its mission, that of furnishing brain product to brainless editors, is really a charitable one.

We are inclined to think after all that John L. Wilson is sufficiently smooth to yet get back that seat in the senate that Foster ousted him from six years ago. This newest scheme of his makes him look like a genius.

In the republican primaries held in this county last Saturday the machine faction won out easily. The Boxers or reform element within the party appear to have been snowed under, at any rate that appears to have been the case in the west end of the county.

The ticket nominated by the county convention today will be a machine ticket. It will contain the names of several well known local statesmen who have been before the public for a long time and are extremely anxious to serve the dear people.

Our friends, the Boxers, have cherished the hope that they would be able to reform the republican party of this county by cutting out a few of the old leaders and by nominating a legislative ticket that would be free from railroad influences. They meant well but their task was a well nigh hopeless one from the start.

Where the Boxers made their mistake was in not organizing several months ago and making their fight under the banner of Gov. McBride, as this paper repeatedly urged them to do. Had they done so they might have met defeat at Tacoma just the same, but they could have organized the county on the commission issue and might have smashed the local machine. They could even have done this if they had not thrown away the fruits of their partial victory that they won at the primaries last May.

"For the want of a leader the battle was lost." It is the old story over again of too many cooks spoiling the broth.

The Democrat is now so fortunate as to receive a weekly contribution from the pen of that polished and versatile writer, Luc Vernon, now a resident of Seattle. We congratulate ourselves as well as our readers on the fact that Mr. Vernon has become a regular contributor.

State Senator Stanton Warburton of Tacoma, who has repudiated the republican state ticket, in a recent interview says:

"I don't object to the ticket. It doesn't take much of a man to fill a state office, and I do not question the ability of any man nominated by the republicans. My protest is against the method of their nomination. I can't stand such methods, and I don't propose to try. Neither am I going to show my displeasure by scratching the head of the ticket and voting for the bunch that helped make the nomination for governor possible."

"The fact is, Al. Mead is a mighty good fellow. Under ordinary circumstances he could have my vote. He is a thorough gentleman and would make a capable officer. Unfortunately for him, he was brought into prominence by the wrong set of circumstances. He is the product of a remarkable holdup game which no right minded man can sanction. If I voted for him, as my personal inclination would direct, I would sanction the machine that made him possible, and that I am not able to do. As for the others, they are machine made candidates and I do not consider that a recommendation. I should be pleased to vote for E. W. Ross of Castle Rock for land commissioner, for he is a personal friend of mine, but I am not going to do it, and he knows it."

"I have no objection to the personnel of the democratic ticket, and in voting for the ticket I will be supporting the principles for which the ticket stands. The state needs a railway commission, and apparently the only way to get it is to elect a democratic administration. I look to see Turner and Judson elected by majority ranging from 5000 to 15,000."

"Of course, I shall support the republican presidential electors and the congressional part of the republican ticket. I may also support the judicial part of the ticket, but I have not as yet satisfied myself as to Judge Rudkin."

Every fresh paper seems to bring the news of further Japanese victories and Russian defeats. The bear entered lightly into this fight with the despised Japs thinking that it would be a short scrap and very one sided at that. The national feeling at that time was probably well expressed by a Russian officer at a Moscow banquet when he said, "We will catch those nasty little fellows on the points of our bayonets and send them home by mail."

But instead Russia has tackled a real Tartar and apparently can't let go until she is driven out of China, beaten, humiliated and utterly routed, which now seems inevitable. With her navy practically destroyed, her fine armies hurled back in confusion and defeat the boasted military prestige of the great empire is gone. At least under the most favorable conditions it will take Russia years to recover.

On the other hand, Japan will doubtless emerge from the war with the prestige of victory and a reputation for military prowess that will entitle her to be regarded henceforth as one of the great powers of the earth.

It is a great war, world wide in its influence upon humanity. It not only marks the future status of the nations engaged but it fixes the destinies of countless millions of an alien race. Its effects are likely to materially change, if it does not revolutionize conditions now existing throughout the old world.

M. M. Bannister, editor of the Vancouver Columbian, is exhorting the brethren to stand pat and vote for Roosevelt and Mead, those two splendid tribunes of the people.

This may be good advice, but it hardly sounds well coming from a political renegade like the editor of the Columbian. Only four years ago Bannister was publishing a democratic paper known as the News at Centralia. At that time he was yelping himself hoarse for Bryan and exhausted his vocabulary in denouncing the republican party.

When Bryan toured the state that year Bannister was a self invited guest with his party and like a faithful dog followed the great Nebraskan wherever he went. A short time after he bobbed up at Vancouver, running a rip-snorting republican paper.

Men of his stripe will work for whoever pays them best. We do not deny any man the right to change his politics, but when he does so purely as a matter of self interest, as is so plainly the case with Bannister, and sets himself up as a public teacher he is not entitled to much consideration from the public.

A number of prominent democratic leaders in addition to the state candidates assembled at Spokane last Saturday and an old fashioned love feast was held. From all parts of the state the good news came that the people have made up their minds to elect the democratic state ticket this fall and that they are in earnest about it, too.

This seems like a most remarkable state of affairs over two months in advance of an election and in a state that gives a normal republican majority of 20,000 or more, but apparently it is true. The reason for it lies in the fact that the majority party has previously offended the people, while the minority party has offered to do in good faith what the people want done. That is all there is to it.

"If I am elected lieutenant-governor I will not use that office to shape or defeat legislation in the interest of any individual or corporation. The committees of the state senate, which are appointed by the lieutenant-governor, will be so constituted that every measure of legislation proposed can have a fair and impartial hearing on its merits. No outside interest or individual will dictate committee appointments. I endorse every word in our state platform and will do my best to carry it out."

The above is a statement made by Stephen Judson, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, in Sunday's Spokesman-Review, and the old Roman means it, too.

Mr. Judson is the opponent in this race of Charles E. Coon—but what is the use of dilating. Everybody has heard of Mr. Coon.

The Gazette is trying to fool the voters into believing that Mr. Mead was not the choice of the railroads for governor. The facts of the matter are that the bosses of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. companies were all agreed and acted in harmony to prevent the nomination of Governor McBride. Having succeeded in this, each railroad had a favorite candidate of its own. George Stevenson favored either Senator Smith or Baker, the O. R. & N. favored Crocker. Mr. Farrell of the Great Northern selected Mr. Mead, and the other bosses accepted him. The combination, which was formed to beat McBride, was the combination which nominated Mead.—Colfax Commoner.

Harry Wilson—"Brother Harry"—is in this country, and may be expected soon to put in an appearance in this state. Brother Harry's leave of absence comes at a very opportune moment. John L. is certainly up against the real thing in this senatorial contest. To be sure the P.-I. is for him, but it isn't very strong, because the present editor does not believe in championing an unpopular cause. The old federal brigade is for him, but they are beginning to weary of riding on a horse and many of them would break away if they could do so honorably.—Seattle Argus (Rep.).

The Everett Record is authority for the statement that the republican state committee has levied campaign assessments upon the postmasters of this state as follows:

First class offices, $250; second class, $100; third class, $50; fourth class, $25. Letters have fallen into the hands of postoffice inspectors who will investigate the matter.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, ridicules the claim that "Grandpa" Davis will be able to take that state out of the republican column. But stranger things than that have happened. "Grandpa," no doubt, will get some secret help from Son-in-law Elkins. Anyway, Scott is probably prejudiced as his own political fate is at stake this year in West Virginia.

All the lobby newspapers contend that Mr. Mead is an honorable man. Granted, but the voters should remember that honorable men do not go back on their friends, and the friends to whom Mr. Mead owes his nomination for governor are the lobbyists and henchmen of the railroads.—Colfax Commoner.

As usual the crops are abundant this season in the Yakima valley and the prices that the farmers are receiving for the most part are excellent. Whatever happens Yakima stays at the head of the procession. Moral: If you want to be happy, live in Yakima.

That organ of the Boxers, the Yakima Herald, makes a wry face over the result of the primaries. The "Yellows" are owned by the railroads, it says. Well, isn't that what we've been telling you for a good while?

It was rather mean of Col. Boardman to sell out and go away just at the time that the Boxers needed him the worst. They appear to have missed him very much.

If the Oregonian should suddenly suspend the local daily would evidently be in a bad way for editorial fodder.

It was a battle between the "yellows" and the "whites" last Saturday and the "yellows" seem to be "it."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Political Pot Pie From the National Capital—Importance of Capturing House of Representatives—What the Politicians Are Doing.

(From our regular correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.

Yesterday this city was emptied of distinguished democrats. Chairman Cowherd, Col. Edwards, Col. Hay, (Ed., not John), Col. Norris, and several other colonels and generals—all were at White Sulphur Springs in West Virginia helping to launch Henry G. Davis as vice presidential candidate. Several of them have returned this morning in a state of high jubilation. Everybody but the speakers themselves thought John Sharp Williams' notification talk a little too long and Senator Davis' acquiescent response a little too short. But the spirit of both was right, and there was a great crowd and a blaze of enthusiasm that will illuminate the whole Kanawha valley. What the vice presidential candidate had to say about the conditions of labor was deemed peculiarly happy and applicable, and it should give him votes wherever there are men who toil with their hands. There is no great Democratic fund waiting to be spilled over West Virginia, but it is plainly understood that there is enough for legitimate expenses and that the friends of the candidate will see him through on the 8th of November.

Hay says that immense gaiety pervaded the great southern health resort yesterday and that the multitude assembled there displayed immense interest in the candidate for vice president, and who mingled with the dancers last evening and asserted his social traits in great style. The ex-Senator was very young and lively in his spick and span full-dress suit. On his lapel was a boutonniere of lilies of the valley, and he was as lively as a boy. He kissed all comers and went to bed at midnight and said he never felt better. The ceremonies were held on the great lawn of the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, where an adequate platform had been erected between two giant oaks. Attractive music was furnished by the old Stonewall Brigade band of Staunton. Congressman Williams had managed to assemble over thirty members of the notification committee, from as many states, and there were more than two hundred other leading democrats from all parts of the union. The notification ball in honor of Mr. Davis was given by the guests of the hotel. Mr. Williams playfully remarked yesterday morning that after being with Mr. Davis one whole day he had a vague suspicion that that gentleman had in some way found out in advance of notification that he had been nominated for the vice presidency. The formal speeches yesterday occupied only a couple of hours and were followed by political conferences as to the trend of public opinion and a round of social exchanges and evening festivities.

It is conceded at the Congressional headquarters of the Democratic party here that there is reason to regret that nominations of the party for Congress have generally been made so late. Republican nominations having been made on an average two or three weeks earlier. This is a handicap which it will require increased energy and activity to overcome. The delay was occasioned by the postponement of the national convention till after the nomination of Roosevelt.

What is the general outlook? Well, I met Congressman Cowherd the other day and asked him that same question. He said, "The Congressional Committee is not doing as much as it might do. We have orders for a million documents and have only sent out 100,000 and have only twenty girls at work addressing envelopes when we ought to have fifty. But the National Committee in New York is doing a slashing business and we expect to be in funds next week." The Democratic handbook ought to be out, but, though Miller handed in the copy a fortnight ago, the finished volume has not yet been turned in. It is being printed in New York.

I am afraid the fact is that Congressman Cowherd is not as strenuous as the Chairman of the National Committee ought to be. He is a scholar, a refined gentleman, and one of the brightest, brainiest men in the house, but he is slightly different in the presence of a millionaire and lacks the energy of a Methodist parson in taking up a collection. Such a man as his colleague, Vandiver for instance, would go for the magnates with his sleeves rolled up, and take the money right out of their pockets. But Cowherd is a shade too delicate when passing the contribution box. He is, however, living in hourly expectation of a large donation from Sheehan & Co., in New York.

Is Cowherd's work less important than that of the National Committee? Is the election of the next Congress a matter of slight consequence? Is the election of Congress much less important than the election of a President? Two years ago Griggs and his Congressional Committee had barely $60,000 to spend, and with that trivial sum they gained eighteen members of Congress for the Democratic party. At the same rate, Cowherd, Edwards, and Taggart with $200,000 can elect a majority of Congressmen in November. They have confidently marked the hats of forty Republican members as their victims, consisting of men who were elected by a small majority or under conditions that can now be overcome.

Even if Parker should be beaten, it is indispensable to the vitality of the Democratic party to capture Congress, so that a brake may be put on the imperial chariot wheels and some investigations started that will investigate. But the prospects for the National ticket are bright all round the sky, and from every state come up the cry that an eight-years inning is enough for any party. Moreover, the calm, conservative attitude of Judge Parker contrasts strongly and strangely with the delirious, menacing, flamboyant methods of the present incumbent. The country is ripe for a change.

Can You Forget?

Politicians and papers boosting for James J. Hill and J. D. Farrell's state ticket will try to shuffle up a just and obscure the issue before the voters of this state. There are, however, certain facts and transactions which are written indelibly in the state's political history.

The voters can not forget that—The railroads have long maintained a salaried lobby, and that lobby was hired to do certain specific things, including the defeat in the legislature of bills reducing freight rates and passenger fares, creating a railroad commission, prohibiting the issuance and free use of passes, compelling the railroads to pay their just burden of taxes, and of all measures generally which aimed at proper and necessary control of the common carriers.

It has long been notorious that the railroads, to gain their ends have bribed public officials, defeated beneficial measures before the legislature and contributed to the passage of objectionable bills, and entered actively and offensively into state and county politics in order to defeat men of high character whom they could not control, and elect weak and corrupt men who would do their bidding.

Governor Henry McBride, republican, in the able, honest and fearless performance of his duty, tried to break up the evil practices of the railroad lobby, and immediately aroused its powerful and determined enmity.

Acting under orders from J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad company, his assistant president, J. D. Farrell (both life-long democrats), organized the anti-McBride wing of the republican party of this state. By the free use of railroad resources that corrupted wing went into the state convention and openly repudiated the republican state platform of 1902, Governor McBride and the work of the republican administration.

It then nominated its tools for governor and other state offices.

It is now striving, with the support of time serving politicians and newspapers, to force its policies and its creatures on the republican voters of Washington.

These are the plain facts, plainly stated. It is a simple question which confronts the voter:

Shall Governor McBride and other men of his honest and fearless character be rebuked and humiliated? Shall the leadership of such men be rejected for the leadership of James J. Hill, Charlie Chamberlin, B. S. Grosscup and all the lesser figures in this bold and brazen attempt to chain the voters of this state to the Farrell railroad machine?—Spokesman-Review.

Morgan Supports Roosevelt.

On the authority of one to whom the New York World refers as "the most influential republican campaign manager," the World says that President Roosevelt has received the assurance of J. Pierpont Morgan's support. The World explains: "Mr. Morgan was for a long time greatly incensed at President Roosevelt, privately denounced him and threatened to oppose his election. The peace go-betweens were Georg W. Perkins, of the Morgan firm, and Elihu Root, now Morgan's representative in the Northern Securities suit. The president of a great New York corporation helped. Mr. Roosevelt has promised to be good hereafter. Large profits of government banking operations have been turned over to the Morgan firm—the Panama $40,000,000 transfer, for instance, on which a commission of 1 percent amounts to $400,000. Panama also paid commissions to the Morgan firm after President Roosevelt had designated it as this government's agent. The republican campaign managers are greatly cheered by the guarantee of J. P. Morgan's hearty support.—Commoner.

A Good Example.

Judge Parker has earned praise by resigning his place on the bench in time to allow a successor to be elected. Had he waited a few days longer the place might have remained open for him in case of defeat. He has by his own act excluded himself. He is now ready to begin his campaign.—Commoner.

Seventeen and Twenty

By KATHERINE M. YATES

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

"Marie, I've some news for you. Run up and put on your best bib and tucker, quick."

Marie dropped her novel and sat up in the hammock, blinking her eyes at the sunlight and the tall figure which obstructed it.

"What on earth! You don't mean the advent of an eligible man in this out of the way hole?"

"That's just it!" Elizabeth, slender, willowy and thirty, balanced herself on the arm of a veranda chair. "I just saw the register, and Captain Bleazby has arrived!"

There was a note of such genuine pleasure in her tone that Marie dropped back into a reclining posture, with her hands behind her head. "Well," she said slowly and disgustedly, "if you are so wonderfully glad, what is the use of my putting on the bib and tucker. Who is he, anyway?"

"HE HASN'T EVEN KISSED ME!"

"Marie! Gossie! Don't be foolish! Haven't I always taken a grandmotherly interest in you and tried my best to find a satisfactory husband for you? Now, here is Captain Bleazby, the very epitome of perfection, falling right into your hand. Of course I'm glad."

"But if you like him so much"—persisted Marie.

"Fudge!" Elizabeth's lip curled. "He's younger than I am. I thought I told you that. He was my sweetheart ten years ago. He was only seventeen, and I was twenty. Think of the difference between seventeen and twenty! Of course I didn't care anything about him, but he was an awfully nice boy and splendid company, and he thought that he was so terribly in love." Elizabeth leaned against the back of the chair and smiled reminiscently.

Marie sat up again, her face showing renewed interest. "What are you smiling at? It's an incident. I know by your eyes. Tell me about it and then I'll know his character better and how to captivate him."

Elizabeth's face flushed, and she laughed guiltily. "Oh, it was nothing. I was just thinking of the last time I saw him. He was going to New York, and he came to make his adieux. I walked down to the gate with him in the moonlight and—he kissed me goodnight." Again the flush crept over her face and the fascinating corners of her mouth curled upward in spite of herself, while the gray eyes, shining with merriment, kept themselves fixed persistently upon the toe of her patent leather slipper.

Marie gazed at her curiously. "Well, what was there so amusing about that?" she inquired tentatively.

"Oh, the kiss itself, it was so funny. Positively the funniest one that I ever had in all my life. It was the first time that he had ever kissed me, and—and well, it was exactly the kind of a kiss that he would have given to his grandmother."

Both of the girls laughed. "Really, Marie, you've no idea how funny it was. Such a gentle, pretty little kiss. If it had not been for the shadow of the lilac bush he certainly would have seen me laugh. But there, he was a dear boy." Elizabeth's tone took on a little self reproach. "And it's a shame to laugh at him; but, truly, I shall remember that kiss as long as I live."

"And is he still a dear boy?" asked Marie maliciously.

"How do I know? I've never seen him from that day to this. He quite distinguished himself in the war; went as a volunteer, a rough rider or something. He was awfully fond of the military and cavalry even as a boy. Now do run along and fix up, Marie, and I'll watch for an opportunity to renew old acquaintance and say a good word for you. And, Marie, don't disappoint me this time, for he is just exactly the man for you."

Marie rose lazily. "Well, then, see that you keep in the background, my lady, or perhaps the old love!"

"Marie, don't be silly! Think of the difference between seventeen and twenty! I don't want to take a boy to raise."

Captain Bleazby proved to be an exceedingly tall and well set up "boy," and seemed to fall in with the plans laid for him with remarkable facility, for during the following three weeks pretty Marie Nesbit and her graceful chaperon were rarely seen without a tall military figure in attendance, carrying golf clubs or handling oars or reins. Marie seemed to enjoy herself tremendously, so much so that Elizabeth occasionally glanced at her uneasily and then up at the tall captain, and when she had looked away again Marie glanced at her mischievously and then up at the tall captain.

The end of the captain's stay was at hand. After the first week the girls had not discussed him as they did in the beginning; in fact they had rather avoided the mention of his name when they were alone, and sometimes awkward silence fell between them. The morning before the day set for his departure Marie was swinging drowsily in the hammock and Elizabeth sat beside her with a book. Marie looked out lazily beneath her lids.

"Captain Bleazby goes tomorrow, doesn't he?" she asked suddenly.

Elizabeth read on to the end of the paragraph and then laid down her book. "Yes, I believe so," she said, looking off over the lake.

Marie's lashes shaded her eyes. "Well," she said meditatively, "evidently the campaign has been a failure. He hasn't even kissed me."

The pink color stole up around Elizabeth's temple, and Marie went on:

"It's an awful disappointment. I didn't care so much about marrying him, but I would like to know whether in ten years he has learned to kiss. Do you suppose he has, Elizabeth?"

Elizabeth's lips were pressed quite tightly together. "Probably," she answered briefly.

"And Elizabeth," continued the incorrigible Marie speculatively, "if he has, who do you suppose taught him? Did you ever think of that?"

Two tiny wrinkles appeared between Elizabeth's soft eyebrows, but she made no reply.

Marie yawned and placed a hand over her mouth. "I wouldn't in the least have minded teaching him. Would you, Elizabeth?"

No answer.

"Have you noticed, Elizabeth," she went on, "that there is not nearly so much difference between twenty-seven and thirty as there is between seventeen and twenty? I call that a very curious mathematical verity. Don't you really think so?"

Receiving no reply, she returned to the original proposition. "But he doesn't really look as if he needed instruction. Do you think he does, Elizabeth?"

But Elizabeth had fled.

The next evening Marie came softly behind her friend as she sat alone on the veranda, placing a soft little hand upon either cheek. "Elizabeth," she whispered, "has he learned how?"

She felt the cheeks grow warm beneath her palms, and Elizabeth caught the soft hands lovingly in hers.

"Yes," she whispered.

Company Privileges.

That company privileges can be abused is readily seen from the following incident:

When Bessie, a four-year-old, came to live next door to Susie, another four-year-old, it did not take long for an acquaintance to ripen into an intimate friendship. Susie had been taught to give her company always the first choice of goodies and privileges, but as her visitors had been different children, and the visits not very frequent, complications had not arisen. With Bessie, however, as her visits grew to be everyday affairs and all day affairs, and as the visiting was all on one side, the situation grew perplexing. One day Susie's mamma heard the following alarming conversation:

Bessie—You shut up.
Susie—I won't. You shut up yourself.
"Mrs. G.," piped Bessie's voice, "Susie told me to shut up."
"But, Bessie," replied Mrs. G., "I heard you tell Susie to shut up first."
"Well," said Bessie, with a pout, "ain't I her cummy?"—Anaconda Standard.

An Unfailing Test.

"I've just learned a new charm to tell whether or not a man loves you," said the girl with golden hair.

"What is it?" asked the girl with the new diamond ring.

"Why, you take four or five apple seeds and name each of them for a particular man and place them—the apple seeds, I mean—on the stove, and the first one that pops is the one that loves you."

"Humph!" mused the girl with the new diamond ring, absentmindedly twisting that piece of jewelry about her finger. "I know a surer way than that."

"You do?"

"Yes, indeed. You take one particular man and place him on the sofa in the drawing room and sit close to him, with the light a little low, and look up to him very attentively, and if he doesn't pop you know it's time to put another man on the sofa."

Legend of the Tonkawa Tribe.

The early history of the Tonkawa Indians is wrapped in mystery. A legend exists that at an early period the earth was covered with Tonkawa Indians and that a great flood came and scattered in all directions the tribes, who never again came together. The oldest living members date back their knowledge of the tribe from the first authentic location of which we possess any record. That is in the Wichita mountain country of what now constitutes south central Oklahoma. During the great civil conflict the Tonkawas remained neutral. This attitude during the war brought upon the Tonkawas the hatred of the Comanches, Caddoes, Wichitas, Delawares, Shawnees and Kickapoos, who combined their united efforts in an attempt to wipe out the entire nation of Tonkawas. The attack was made in true Indian fashion, and over 2,300 Tonkawas were killed.—Kansas City Journal.

A Trip Through Yellowstone Park

is what everyone hopes to have—some day. It is the most wonderful trip in the world. There are more than 3,000 square miles of weird, marvelous, unimaginable things that can be seen nowhere else, therefore if one ever sees them one must go to the Park, in the heart of the magnificent Rockies with snow tipped peaks all around. If Old Faithful geyser, a Paint Pot, Mud Volcano, or Emerald Pool were to be found in Lincoln park, Chicago; Central park, New York; or Fairmount park, Philadelphia; the people would flock to see it or them by tens of thousands. For a very small sum, comparatively, all these and hundreds more of nature's unduplicated marvels can be seen between June 1 and September 30 of each year, and one will enjoy, to boot, the best coaching trip in the country.

The Northern Pacific folder on Yellowstone Park, just issued, is a new, right up to date, finely illustrated dissertation on this Yellowstone Park trip. It is not descriptive, but deals with the detailed, technical matters everyone needs to know about such a trip. It tells all about the hotels, the stage coaches, the roads, the cost of the tour; where the geysers, the waterfalls, the bears, the canyons are, and where the trout fishing is found. We have printed thousands of this beautiful leaflet and want everybody interested to have a copy, and it can be obtained by sending A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., two cents with proper address.

"Wonderland 1904" which is a very fine pamphlet of 116 pages, descriptive of the Northwest, including the Park, will be sent for six cents.

Corruption in the Departments.

The president, in his acceptance speech, takes occasion to defend the administration against the charge of corruption in the various departments. He says: 'Never has the administration of the government been on a cleaner or higher level; never has the public work of the nation been done more honestly or effectually.' This is the president's statement, but there is one fact that answers it completely. That there is corruption everybody knows because several offenders were prosecuted by the administration. The friends of the president place great emphasis upon the fact that he prosecuted the offenders. But it will be remembered that the republicans in congress defeated a resolution for the appointment of an investigating committee. Why were the republicans unwilling that the investigation should be made by a committee composed of democrats as well as republicans? Why did the republicans insist that the investigation should be a one-sided, partisan republican investigation?

If a county official admitted that there was some corruption in his office but insisted that its investigation should be made by a committee composed entirely of members of his own party, it would be regarded as a confession that he did not want all of the facts made public. Why should we apply a different rule when a republican administration admits corruption in the departments but insists that only republicans shall know the inside facts? The republicans have no argument that will answer their own conduct in preventing a non-partisan investigation.

Judge Parker's election will give us a chance to look at the books and to ascertain the full extent of the corruption which became so flagrant that it could no longer be concealed.—Commoner.

Believes in Advertising.

Deputy C. H. Loveland writes that he has secured the entire membership of the Walden, N. Y., Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps for a degree team of Woodmen foresters for a camp instituted at Walden. He thinks this is a valuable addition to Woodcraft in eastern New York, as their music will be a great help in parades and at entertainments. He says things are looking brighter in eastern New York and they are anticipating better results. Deputy Loveland is a generous advertiser in the local papers believing that great benefit will accrue to our society from this kind of publicity. The following is a sample of his advertising in a local paper:

"What is the secret of success?" asked the Whale.

"Push," said the Button.

"Take pains," said the Window.

"Never be led," said the Pencil.

"Be up-to-date," said the Calendar.

"Always keep cool," said the Ice.

"Do business on tick," said the Clock.

"Never lose your head," said the Barrel.

"Do a driving business," said the Hammer.

"Aspire to greater things," said the Nutmeg.

"Make light of everything," said the Fire.

"Never do anything off-hand," said the Glove.

"Spend much time in reflection," said the Mirror.

"Do the work you are suited for," said the Flue.

"Get a good pull with the ring," said the Doorbell.

"Be sharp in all your dealings," said the Knife.

"Find a good thing and stick to it," said the Glue.

"Strive to make a good impression" and give your application to C. H. Loveland for the Modern Woodmen of America, and success will crown your efforts.—Modern Woodman.

The Statistician.

Noting that their employees were growing restless the Great Manufacturing Concern set about doing something to mollify them without increasing their pay.

"We are up against it," remarked the Chief Stockholder.

"Then we must hire a statistician," said the General Manager.

"For why?" queried the Chief Stockholder.

"Because figures are good things when rightly handled," replied the General Manager.

Having received permission to employ the Statistician the General Manager secured one who could handle figures easier than a g. o. p. platform can dodge the facts. When the men murmured some more the Statistician appeared upon the Outer Wall and waved his hand, saying:

"Why, murmurest thou?"

Whereupon the men exclaimed with one voice:

"We are getting the worst of it. Our wages have gone down and the cost of living has gone up."

"Not so," said the Statistician. "Here are figures showing the reverse to be true. While sugar and flour and meat have gone up 30 percent, spices, salad dressing, pate de foie gras and champagne have decreased 35 percent. This shows that the cost of living has decreased an average of 5 percent. Furthermore, while only the head of each family was working two years ago and making a living for his family, now every member of the family is working, including the six-year-old boys and girls who would be wasting their time in school were it not for the kindness of the employers in giving them places in the factory. This shows that the number of employed is increasing."

As the employees listened they became dazed, and without realizing what they were doing accepted another wage reduction that saved the employers more in a day than the Statistician received in a year.

Moral: Figures won't lie, but liars will figure.—Chicago American.

Precedent Against Roosevelt

It is interesting at this particular time to speculate upon the political fate of the vice-presidents of the United States who, succeeding to the presidency through the death of the chief executive, have subsequently aspired to be elected to the highest position in the land by the votes of their fellow citizens. A writer in the New York Commercial contributes the following to the current literature on this absorbing topic of popular interest:

John Tyler, after the death of President William Henry Harrison, began to realize the waning power of the Whig party, and consequently abandoned the party that had elected him on its national ticket and strove to obtain the next democratic presidential nomination. That party, however, scouted his candidacy and nominated Polk, who was sneered at by Clay as "the Duck River Colonel."

General Zachary Taylor, who was really without party politics, was nominated for president by the Whigs, in 1848, and was elected because of his Mexican war record, and the defection in New York of the Van Buren faction, who would not support General Cass, the democratic nominee. Taylor was in office only a month when he died and was succeeded by Millard Fillmore, a mediocre man. But he had followers who stimulated his ambition, and he soon began to lay plans for the Whig nomination in 1852. But his claims were ignored and the Whig party, with General Winfield Scott as its candidate, made its last rally for the presidency.

Fillmore in his disappointment was persuaded to abandon his party, and in 1856 ran as the presidential candidate of the Know Nothing or American party, and he received only the eight electoral votes of Maryland.

Andrew Johnson seeing no prospect of a nomination from the republicans followed the example of Tyler and Fillmore and deserted the party that had placed him in power. He planned and dickered for the democratic nomination in 1868, but his strength in the convention of that party was hardly worth considering.

Arthur followed Garfield and by skillful and prudent use of the federal patronage built up in his party an apparently strong faction in favor of continuing him in the presidency, but before the republican convention of 1884 assembled his strength had so melted away as to leave him no chance of success.

Thus it will be seen that what are called "accidental" presidents have all aspired to succeed themselves, and all have signally failed; and with the exception of Johnson, their failure has been followed by obscurity. Roosevelt is reputed to be a lucky man, and it remains to be seen if he will be more lucky than any of his accidental predecessors.—St. Louis Republic.

Spokane Interstate Fair.

Entries for some of the big races at the Spokane Interstate fair close August 27. It is surprising the number of entries which were made for the earlier closing races, and for this reason it is supposed there will be many entries for these other big races. On this date entries close for the Inland Empire handicap, purse $500, with $100 to second and $50 to the third. The Washington State Selling Race Stake is another in which entries close at the same time. A purse of $400 will be hung up in this race, $100 to go to the second and $50 to the third horse. But the biggest of all will be the Spokane derby, in which the first horse wins $650, the second $250 and the third $100. This is a handicap of three year olds and upwards.

The racing and the accompanying attractions will be popular in Spokane this year, for the management has provided for many races each day and has promised to cut out, as far as possible, the long waits between races and heats. Besides this, arrangements are being made to put on some of the finest vaudeville between heats. These turns, several of which are already engaged, will be in front of the grand stand, where they can be seen to the best advantage.

A Treasured Image

[Original.]

Queen Bertha was dead, and King Carl, her husband, was plunged in deepest grief. It was weeks before the obsequies were ended. Then the king set about perpetuating his beloved wife's image in his heart. He called together the artists of his kingdom and told them whosever would paint a portrait of his queen by which he could remember her as she was should be ennobled and an estate given him. Then he ordered that all the likenesses the queen had ever had painted be hung in a gallery, where competitors should have free access to them.

More than a hundred artists competed, and when all were ready their pictures were hung in a gallery by themselves and the king went in to examine them. He passed up on one side and down the other, shaking his head at the portraits.

"They have painted her as an old woman," he said. "Do they consider that my beautiful wife was an octogenarian? Take them away! I'll have none of them."

Some of the artists who had produced the best pictures, hearing the king's criticism, asked for another trial, which was granted. They softened the lines in the queen's face and made her look ten years younger than she had been at the time of her death. She had died at fifty and none of the pictures made her look over forty. The king was still dissatisfied, declaring that he would rather trust to his memory unaided than have it influenced by such likenesses. This discouraged the artists, and not even for the chance of a title and a fortune would any of them try again.

One day a young man sought an interview with the king, declaring that he had been sent from King Otho, a neighboring monarch, to paint the dead queen's portrait. He claimed to be the royal portrait painter and an artist of skill. He demanded, on behalf of King Otho, that if his portrait should be accepted the recompense should be the hand of King Carl's daughter, the Princess Lida, for King Otho's son, the Crown Prince Ralph. A proposition with this marriage in view had been made before, but King Carl, whose kingdom was much more important than that of King Otho, had declined. Now that all his own artists had failed, and thinking that what he asked was impossible, King Carl agreed to the terms.

The artist asked that he might have sittings of the Princess Lida in order to catch any expression of her mother's she might have inherited. The request was granted, and every day the princess went into the gallery where the likenesses of the dead queen were hung. The artist copied from her features all he cared to copy, but in order to bring different expressions to her face he chatted with her incessantly, and she was so delighted with his conversation that every day she looked forward expectantly to the time for her sitting. Long before the picture was completed she wished that the prize if won might be given to the artist rather than the crown prince.

Finally the artist announced that his portrait was ready for the king's inspection. Since this was an affair of state King Carl summoned his ministers to attend him, and with great ceremony the royal party swept into the apartment where the picture rested on an easel. The moment the ministers' eyes rested on the portrait they looked at each other in astonishment. They saw the queen not as a woman of fifty or of forty, but at twenty. Some said it was the Princess Lida and not the queen at all. Nevertheless all maintained silence till the king had spoken. Hurrying forward he bent over it and kissed the lips. For a time he was lost to all save the contemplation of what seemed to delight him excessively, then, turning, he said:

"My lords, there is my beloved wife as clearly defined as if the image had been painted from the one I carry in my heart. To me the portrait is priceless, for having it constantly by me I shall be able to keep my wife in my memory as I knew her in life. Let the foreign minister announce to King Otho that the portrait is accepted, and make arrangements for the wedding between the Princess Lida and the Crown Prince Ralph."

When the artist departed from the kingdom the princess wept bitterly that he had not won the prize for himself instead of for his sovereign. He pressed her hand at parting and assured her that she would find the prince a loving husband.

When Prince Ralph came in state to the nuptials he arrived in the night and went at once with his suit to his apartments. The next morning King Carl and the princess awaited him in the audience chamber with all the court assembled to receive him. When the door opened and he entered there was a hum of surprise. He was the artist who had painted the winning picture.

Of course the princess was happy and the king was especially happy in having for a son-in-law one who had enabled him to keep his wife's image in his memory. As for the prince, he had in disguise competed for the prize, had fallen in love with the princess and learned that the king was treasuring in his heart the image of his wife as it was when he had first loved her. He resolved to get as near that image as possible by using portraits of the queen in youth, blended with the living image of her daughter.

Not long after the wedding King Otho died and Prince Ralph succeeded to the throne. Then King Carl shut himself up with the portrait that so pleased him and abdicated in favor of King Ralph and his wife.

Gas Franchise Changes Hands.

Dr. A. F. Campbell of this city and Wm. Dunn of Seattle, have transferred the gas franchise, granted by the North Yakima city council about six weeks ago, to Walter Thomas and other capitalists of Seattle. Mr. Thomas was in the city this week and filed a formal acceptance of the franchise with City Clerk Brooker.

Mr. Thomas while here said that the new owners of the franchise meant business and have the wherewithal with which to do it. A new corporation would be formed at once, he said, and as soon as the preliminaries were settled work on the proposed gas plant for this city would commence.

However, the people of this city while not all from Missouri, are waiting to be shown.

Senator Splawn Not in the Race.

The Democrat is in receipt of the following letter from Senator A. J. Splawn which is self-explanatory:

Coviche, Wash., Aug. 23, 1904.

Editor Democrat:—The time of holding the democratic county convention being near at hand and my name having been mentioned as a possible candidate for the office of state senator from this district, not wishing a political office of any kind I deem it my duty to announce my intention publicly. I do this in order that our party may have ample opportunity to find some other and abler man for the place. I made a promise when I was nominated for this office two years ago that I would not again make the race and I expect to keep my word. I wish here to thank my many true friends in both parties who stood by me so faithfully two years ago. It is to me a very great satisfaction to know that after my long career in this county, which has been my home since boyhood, that I have the confidence and respect of the people of Yakima, the greatest county on earth.

Yours truly,
A. J. SPLAWN.

It is needless to add that the democrats of this county and Senator Splawn's friends generally deeply regret the fact that he cannot agree to again become a candidate to succeed himself in the senate. It is generally admitted that Mr. Splawn would have made a very strong candidate and in all probability would have been elected again had he decided to stay in the race.

Yakima Boys are Behind.

A dispatch received in this city from Capt. C. T. Dulin at Fort Riley, Kan., Tuesday, stated that the Washington team on that date stood eleventh among the nineteen competing teams at the national shooting tournament being held there and that the Washington boys, all but one of whom are from Yakima, in the score made stood 193 behind the leaders, the army infantry team.

The 19 teams represented in the contest are as follows:

Army infantry team, 1987; District of Columbia, 1951; New York, 1946; marine corps, 1924; navy, 1901; New Jersey, 1895; army (cavalry) team, 1880; Pennsylvania, 1879; Massachusetts, 1868; Rhode Island, 1846; Washington, 1775; Connecticut, 1773; Georgia, 1767; Iowa, 1762; Maryland, 1756; Florida, 1722; Michigan, 1674; Kansas, 1516; Alabama, 1175.

The Hop Outlook.

The hop market took an upward turn this week, 25 cents being offered Thursday and Friday. The only sale reported is that of Henry and A. J. Knox of Tappan, 6000 lbs at 25c.

The supreme court of this state handed down a decision this week that effectually knocks out the law authorizing municipalities of this state to collect a poll tax from citizens on the ground of being unconstitutional. The action tending the law was brought by Clarence Ide, U. S. collector of customs at Port Townsend.

Next Sunday is the last Sunday of the present conference year at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. Alfred H. Henry will give a review of the year's work at the morning service and in the evening will preach on "Some Present Day Evils and Their Sovereign Remedy." Mr. Henry leaves for Conference at the Dalles on Monday morning.

Col. Hitchcock Gets Facetious.

The czar's new kid has been made a colonel, which is not a matter of any very great importance. All babies are colonels, or at any rate are allowed to take command of the household.—Republic.

And thus is solved a great mystery. We have often wondered why Robertson and Medill were called colonels, and the Republic in childlike simplicity has let the cat out of the bag. Why, of course, what more appropriate title for willful and scrappy kids than "colonel"? Funny we hadn't thought of it before.—Sunnyside Sun.

Yakima City.

Cooler weather.

Marshal Oliver of Wapato was doing business in this city Wednesday.

Gilbert Gervais, Arthur Towne and party are in the mountains, near Mt. Adams.

The campaign waxes warm here and everyone has something to say for his favorite candidate.

The business of our local blacksmith has increased to such an extent that he has employed extra help.

Doctor Stover, James Weaver, Tom Butler and others will leave soon for a short stay on American River.

Will Butler and wife and several other ladies and gentlemen are spending their vacation at Bumping Lake.

The school board has had the school house repainted. This adds much to the appearance of this part of the city.

The steam thrasher is busy threshing on Mrs. Rudkin's place, north of the city. The yield of wheat is said to be good.

Enfield Ferris, who was hurt in North Yakima on the 18th, was brought to his home here yesterday. He is doing as well as could be expected.

Our hop growers feel jubilant over the prospects of a big crop of hops this year, but some fear that there will be a scarcity of pickers owing to the increased acreage.

Wapato.

Mr. and Mrs. McCredy spent last week in North Yakima.

Mr. Gearheart expects to sell the neat market to Mr. Jackson of this place.

Quite a number of people went to North Yakima last Thursday to see Ringling Brothers' show.

Orvil Smith was a visitor in North Yakima on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker were visitors in North Yakima last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Long, of Chehalis, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. John Ledwig.

George Eaton was a visitor at North Yakima and Fort Simcoe last week.

As No. 4, the east bound train, was leaving the sidetrack a mile from Wapato, for some unknown cause a Jap fell out of the window and was seriously injured. At this writing we do not know whether he will live or not.

Mrs. N. D. Wheeler and daughter, Mrs. Kale and her two children, arrived here from Spokane Monday to visit their daughter and sister, Mrs. E. S. Smith.

Mrs. Kale will leave Friday for Bellingham where she will stay two weeks before starting for Alaska.

Last Saturday night six flat cars broke loose from a train at North Yakima and ran down to Wapato, gaining speed all the time, until they struck the rear end of a train here, demolishing the caboose and several cars. No one was injured.

Mrs. McCredy entertained informally at her home a week ago Thursday in honor of her mother, Mrs. Barge. Those present were Mesdames Dorsett, Bridges, Tommaso, Piloni, Devine, Sandmire, Pequitt, Long, Ledwig, Smith, Kaler, Rankins, Lancaster, Baker, Barge and Miss Bridges. A dainty lunch of ice cream and cake was served on the lawn. The ladies report a very good time and Mrs. McCredy as an ideal hostess.

Toppenish Items.

Mr. Dan Lesh was in town over Wednesday on business.

Miss Katherine Van Slyke, principal of the North Yakima Business College, was in Toppenish Tuesday.

Fred Thompson, of North Yakima, has taken temporary charge of the post-office here during the absence of Mrs. W. L. Shearer, postmistress.

W. L. Shearer and family are leaving this week for a month's outing. Mr. Shearer, whose health has not been good for some time, expects to spend some time at the Sound seaside resorts, recuperating.

Mayor Patrick Mullen, of Butte, Mont., in company with U. S. Commissioner Howlett, of North Yakima, spent a part of last Sunday in Toppenish. Mayor Mullen was much interested in the agricultural resources of Toppenish and the immense output of the local valley.

It Needs No Defense.

Judge Turner was never employed at any time in his career as attorney for any existing railroad in this state. He was for a short time retained as general counsel by a company which sought to build a branch of the Canadian Pacific into Spokane. That employment ceased over a year ago.

It is evident, however, that this campaign is to be one of falsehood. Ready made editorials are being ground out in Seattle, under the direction of State Chairman Palmer and "Charlie" Chamberlin, chief political agent of J. D. Farrell, for publication in every paper which the railroad crowd can cajole or bribe into supporting its ticket. These "editorials" convey misrepresentation and falsehood concerning Judge Turner. Their purpose is to "kick up a dust" and blind the eyes of the voters to the real issue of the campaign.

Judge Turner's record on the railroad question needs no defense in this state where he has lived for 20 years. As a member of the constitutional convention he wrote into the state constitution those provisions giving to the legislature the power to regulate rates and fares and to create a railroad commission. He was the author of the section making it mandatory upon the legislature to pass legislation prohibiting public officials from riding on free transportation; of the section forbidding the consolidation of competing railway lines within the state and of the section prohibiting railway "pooling."

Judge Turner drafted and worked for the railroad commission bill which was defeated in the legislature of 1897. When James J. Hill organized his Northern Securities company, by which he proposed to merge the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, Judge Turner wrote a strong letter to Governor Rogers advising him to institute suit on behalf of the state to dissolve the merger. He also presented a brief to Attorney General Knox of President Roosevelt's cabinet, which was of great aid to that official in preparing his bill in equity against the merger.

Such in brief is the railroad record of George Turner. His career has been marked by splendid independence of corporate dictation—so marked indeed that every political honor which he has enjoyed has been won against the allied hosts of corporate bossism. His record is a guarantee that if elected governor no railroad boss will give him his orders. If he were a railroad henchman every railroad-owned sheet in the state would not be attacking and vilifying him now.—Spokesman-Review.

Mr. Bryan's Speech.

Addressing the Nebraska democratic state convention, held at Lincoln Wednesday, August 10, Mr. Bryan said:

"I desire, in the first place, to express my appreciation of the splendid delegation that the democracy of this state sent to the St. Louis convention. We worked together with harmony and enthusiasm. We helped to make a good platform. The platform did not contain all that we wanted but we kept out some things that we objected to. I did what I could to prevent the nomination of Judge Parker, but he was nominated and I want to see him elected. While he does not stand with western democrats on all questions he stands for enough that is good to justify us in giving him a cordial support. He will, if elected, put an end to imperialism, which we believe is a menace to our country. With imperialism out of the way the army can be reduced and the expenses of that department cut down. He will be able to put to rest the race issue that now interferes with the consideration of economic questions and he will substitute the spirit of peace and progress for the blustering, warlike spirit which President Roosevelt has introduced. Mr. Parker's election will not end our fight for economic reforms, it will open the way for a more effective fight by removing the things that distract public attention. Let no one think that our cause can be aided by his defeat. We can never help our party or our element of the party by endangering our country's welfare. We can not afford to risk a continuance of the policies for which President Roosevelt stands. If our principles are sound, as I believe they are, Mr. Parker's election can not endanger them, even if he opposes us on some questions. Those have little faith in the triumph of the truth who think that our cause can be defeated by the opposition of any president. Let us elect him and then with some of the evils removed we can proceed with renewed vigor to attack the other evils."

THE NEW YORK WORLD

Thrice-a-Week Edition

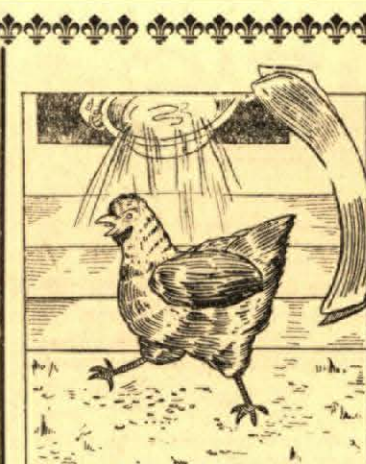

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken

The tickets are now made up and the most interesting presidential campaign the United States has known since 1860 has begun. And it is the most important, too.

Which will it be, Parker and Davis or Roosevelt and Fairbanks? Nobody knows yet, but the Thrice-a-Week World will tell you promptly, fully and truthfully every movement of a hot and thrilling campaign. The real newspaper now prints facts rather than hopes, and it has always been the effort of the Thrice-a-Week World to tell the thing that has happened exactly as it happened. Thus you can judge for yourself and form your opinion.

There is also a great war going on in the East, where the World has a brilliant staff of correspondents in the field, and their reports are found regularly in the columns of the Thrice-a-Week World.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT together one year for $1.65.
