Cupid vs. Co-Education.

There is a crisis in the cause of co-education in the great Northwestern University of Chicago. When President Harper's sweet girl graduates were lined up on the platform last Friday two of them announced, amid college yells indescribable and cheering tumultous, that they would shortly crown the glory of their diplomas with marriage certificates.

The transition from Bachelors of Arts The transition from Bachelors of Arts ey, of Ellensburg, had been selected for to Queens of Homes does not necessarily imply the failure of co-education. The Northwestern "co-eds" number 1000, and that two of them should cast the laurels of learning at the feet of Cupid is not a formidable proof of the matrimonial perils of co-education. Yet the university senate is considering the expediency of abolishing mixed classes and "sequestering" the girl students in classrooms where no man shall be allowed to intrude. The freshmen and freshwomen have held a debate on the subject and decided by a large majority against the project to "sequester" the sexes.

Practically it matters little how the controversy ends. Co-education in the Settled by a Jury.

The condemnation suit of the Washington Irrigation company vs. S. H. Bedell for ditch right-of-way through the premises of the defendant was settled in the superior court Monday. The jury was taken to Sunnyside Saturday to inspect the property and estimate the damages, returning Sunday morning. Monday afternoon a verdict was render ed in favor of Bedell for $268.62. The amount of land belonging to the defendant needed as right-of-way was but two and a quarter acres, but the ditch nar-rowly missed his residence, necessitating the removal of the same. The com-pany had previously offered to move the house and furnish a water right for ten acres in heu of damages, but this was

Comes From the Hill.

As has been the case at this season for the past four or five years, water has made its appearance in many of the cel-lars and basements of this city. It has been thought by some people that the source of this subterranean flow was the street ditches, but this assumption is believed by others to be erroneous. Street Commissioner Hauser feels cer-tain that the irrigating ditches west of town furnish this unwelcome supply of water. Measurements that have been taken at different times, he says, bear out this theory. For instance, when the farmers on the hill were engaged recently in making hay and had the water shut off, the water in the town cellars as a result lowered very materially. This, Mr. Hauser thinks, is conclusive evidence of where the cellar water comes

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THE Hon. George Turner collected in. formation six or seven months ago which convinced him that the sheep are des-troying the Yakima watershed. Two weeks ago he introduced a bill in the senate to prohibit the sheep from grazing in the Rainier reserve. Some of the good people hereabouts are wondering why it took so long to get this little bill ready to introduce.—Yakima Republic. Our contemporary either is not posted or else is trying to create a prejudice against the senior senator. The facts in the case are that Senator Turner took no sides in the dispute over the question of grazing in the Rainier reserve until quite recently. In fact he consistently refused to do so until he had investigated the matter and found out that sheep weeks ago. This evidence was the writweeks ago. This evidence was the written testimony of some forty prominent farmers of this country, who all know what they are talking about. In addition a copy of the Fechter resolution, passed by the Yakima Commercial club, and the testimony of A. P. Carr, a forest ranger and other people familiar with conditions in the Cascades was included.

A few days after receipt of this matter

A few days after receipt of this matter Senator Turner introduced a bill to prohibit sheep grazing in the Rainier re-serve after Jan. 1, 1903. By order of the senate the documents from Yakima county were ordered printed, and each member supplied with a copy. Senator Turner notified the Yakima committee, which had procured the information, that it would be impossible, owing to the great rush of business at the close of the session, to get the bill passed now, but that he would use his best efforts to get it passed at the short session begin. get it passed at the short session beginning in December next.

ALL who have had business with the U.S. land office in this city during the past four years will doubtless regret that W. J. Reed has been turned down for re-appointment as Register. Mr. Reed has been a very efficient and painstaking officer and always accommodating and agreeable in dealing with the public. But in spite of the excellent record he has made and the fact that probably nine-tenths of the people in this district wished him to remain, Senator Foster and Congressman Jones determined to

This is bossism with a vengeance. The only reason known for Foster's hostility to the present Register is the fact that he is a follower of Wilson. As for Jones he was doubtless influenced by the clamor of a handful of politicians in Kittitas county, who wanted and have procured the political scalp of Reed, for personal reasons.

It is certainly an evidence of weakness on the part of the congressman to have yielded to this clamor, for it puts him in the position of a man who has sacriin the position of a man who has sacrificed a friend in order to appease the wrath of his enemies. Nor is this affair likely to yield to Mr. Jones any net returns in the way of votes. The public generally don't much relish a show of ingratitude on the part of a politician, in fact is apt to resent it.

NEITHER the senior or the junior organ are pleased with Jones' new Register of the land office but no one would ever discover that fact by a perusal of the two sheets Why? Because both are bidding for the "pap" that the new official has to give out.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT seems to have the same unforgiving disposition that long ago Senator Burton of Kansas delivered a speech in a caucus of republican senators in which he took occasion to roast Teddy's Cuban reciprocity measure. A iew days afterwards the Kansas senator went to the White House at the head of a delegation of visitors from his state who wished to be presented. The president received the party of "jay-hawkers" affably enough but refused to son's election is not very imminent. shake the proffered hand of the senator, much to that gentleman's chagrin and humiliation. Not satisfied with administering such a snub, however, he is said to have sent word to the Kansas statesman that hereafter he need not look for any more official favors in the way of patronage. This exhibition of petty spite, says the St. Louis Republic, reminds one of the unhappy period when Mr. Cleveland occupied the White House and often pursued much the same tactics towards the leaders of his party.

When the tyrant king of England was handed a copy of the American Declaration of Independence to read, he at first sneered and declined to look at it. Finally curiosity got the better of him and he ordered the court reader to read it to him in order that he might know what his rebellious subjects across the sea had to say. The first portions of the now historic paper met only with shouts of derision from the king as they were read and he made merry over the matter in the presence of his court. Finally the reader got down to that splendid sentence which will go ringing down the ages and which reads as follows:

"And in defense of the principles herein enunciated, to which we willingly subscribe, we pledge our lives, our for-tunes and our sacred honor." When the king heard these words read, his manner changed and his face blanched. To those about him, he said: "Now that reads different. Those words mean business, they mean war."

THE administration seems to be strongly opposed to the passage of a measure in the senate granting statehood to Ok-lahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. The bill passed the house by a large majori-ty, but through the influence of the administration has been sidetracked in the senate It would seem that there is no justice in longer denying statehood to these territories as all have the required amount of population and taxable wealth. Recognizing the justice of their claim, both parties in their platforms in 1900 declared in favor of giving each of the territories statehood, and the democrats in congress have lived up to their pledge by yoting aye. Many of the majority party, however, are afraid that the proposed new states may send dem. Wyman & Fraser ocrats to the senate, and for that reason are opposed to admission.

ought to take a day off and his head. That paper und and soak management is too bitter any use. A reasonable : ...unt of partisanship is expected and is to be commended in any party paper, but for a newspaper to inflict its partisan opinions and partisan rot in allopathic doses all through its editorial page for 365 days in the year is too much. It is evident that if the P. I. has many readers outside of its own party it is because of the fact that it is a great newspaper and prints the news of the day. Certainly no thinking democrat could continue to peruse its editorial department without losing

THE King county republicans demand a senator, a congressman and a supreme judge. Such an exhibition of modesty s characteristic of King county politi cians. King ought to be allowed to make the whole ticket, but even then she probably wouldn't be satisfied. The trouble with King county is that she always has too big a crop of job lot politicians on hand. Each individual statesman in the group feels that he ought to be recognized and when that is demonstrated to be impossible he usually gets mad and insists on kicking over the political tureen and smearing everybody within reach with soup.

SENATOR TURNER is home from Wash ngton. In an interview published in grazing on the mountain sides was seri-cusly threatening the preservation of our farmers' water supply. Indisputa-ble evidence that such was the case was gathered and sent to him about six the Spokesman Review last Sunday, he made an exhaustive report of the doings of the present congress and enumerated what had been procured for this state in the different appropriation bills. With characteristic modesty the senator does not give himself due credit in procuring these appropriations. The facts in the these appropriations. The lacts in the case are that it was mainly through his untiring efforts that Washington has and govern themselves accordingly.

While we are on this subject it is persuage to suggest to a few fared so well. This is due in no small measure to his personal popularity among the senators.

While we are on this subject it is perhaps not out of place to suggest to a few of our subscribers who are in arrears to

THE July numbers of nearly all the leading magazines contain graphic and exhaustive reports of the great volcanic disaster on the island of Martinique. To any student of events these magazine accounts of the eruption are much more satisfying than the fragmentary and perhaps highly imaginary reports given through the daily press. Besides the world wants as complete a record as possible of this, probably the worst death dealing calamity of modern times.

To omit reading the Declaration of Independence at Yakima's Fourth of present July celebration was a serious mistake on the part of the management. It may be that in this materialistic age many men do not care to hear the great magna charts of human rights read, on the ground that we have outgrown it. To many others, however, it is still the grandest document that the hand of mortal man ever penned and such people consider that it ought to be read on such occasions for the benefit of the rising generation at any rate. Americans who feel bored at hearing this precious heritage read almost deserve to lose the liberties which this great paper guarantees them.

"Now you're too hard for me. 1 ion't know where it started, but in the good old times of case type and hand presses it was the common expression used to designate a woman in a printshop. It wasn't used outside of the composing rooms. I'll tell you how l think it arose. All the old hand type, is everybody knows, is provided with ticks on the side, so that the typesetters don't have to look at the face of the type to know how to throw it in the 'stick.' Far back in prehistoric days the type had only one nick, but later two nicks became the style, and 30 years ago two nicks was the usual thing. But there came improvements in typemaking, and it was discovered that three or four nicks on the side of the type made it easier for the printer to handle, and so the three or fow nicked type came into style and the two nicked type went into disuse and bad repute. Printers despised the two alcked type. About that time womes got a foothold in the printing offices. They were not regarded with favor by the old time printers. The women and the two nicked type were in about the same category in the esteem of the old typo, and it was very natural that he should come to express both by the same words. They both became 'two nickers,' and the expression has become traditional in printshops."-Memphis Scimitar.

Quite a large audience gathered at Larson's theatre Thursday night to witness the performance of the Cyclone Minstrels. The show on the whole was said Beale apologetically. a good one. Guy Grafton and Bob Frayne as the end men of the aggrega-tion cracked jokes that kept the audi ence in good humor. The retrospect of Yakima from the view point of the year 1950, by W. H. Patterson was quite interesting and contained a number of good hits at local celebrities.

The net proceeds of the show were turned over to the Red Cross association to apply on the monument fund.

PRESENTS FOR HIS WIFE.

The Worm's Story of How He Final ly Came to Turn. "Hello, old man! What have you in all those bundles?" asked a gay, airy young bachelor of a careworn, solemn looking young man as they met in a suburban railway train. "Presents for my wife," was the sententious reply. "It's her birthday." "Well, what are you bringing your wife in that package from your tailor's?" gayly pursued the bachelor. "Trousers," was the answer. "What?"

"Yes, I repeat-trousers. Just you listen. On my birthday my wife got me three or four beautiful lace handkerchiefs, such as women carry at afternoon teas and such places, and a black velvet hat with high feathers, one of the three story kind that obstruct your view of the stage in the theater. They looked mighty well on her, and she asked me if I wasn't having a nice birthday.

"Well, I didn't mind that very much, but when Christmas came I got another deal of the same sort. I gave my wife a pretty gold ring. She gave me a turquoise ring too small to go over any of my knuckles, and she wears it now next to the one I gave her. But that wasn't the worst of it. She got her sister to give me some after dinner coffee cups and my sister to make me a lot of lace doilies. That was all I got for Christmas.

"Tomorrow is my wife's birthday. In this package I am bringing her a pair of trousers which I had made to my measure and which I shall wear. In this parcel is a pair of the very best patent shoes, size 81/2, a good deal too big for my wife; in this package is a box of cigars, and in my pockets I have a new meerschaum pipe and a packet of tobacco. Now, I don't see how she can fail to have a happy birthday. Do you? I hope she'll enjoy it, for I want to get even for all the pretty things she has given me."-London Tit-Bits.

A Model.

Mr. Jones came home at an unseemly hour the other night and was surprised to see Mrs. Jones sitting up for him below stairs, with no other light than that of the gas lamp, which faced the door, to keep her company.

"M-M-Marie," he said huskily, "y-you shouldn't sit up s'late when I'm out on business."

As Mrs. Jones did not answer him, he continued in an alarmed voice: "Shorry, m'dear, but it's last time-tell you I'm sorry-won't shpeak to me? At this moment Mrs. Jones called from above stairs:

"Mr. Jones, who are you talking to at this hour of the night?" "Thash what I'd like to know m-m-myself," stammered Jones.

Mrs. Jones hastened down stairs, lamp in hand. When she saw the situation, she laughed in spite of being very angry.

"It's the model," she said-"the model I bought today to fit my dresses on."
"Yes, thash so," said Jones tipsily. "Model woman-didn't talk back-make some fellow good wife."-London Tit-Bits.

The Odd Shillings.

There is very little difference between a pound and a guinea; only a shilling, and yet the keen business man insists that the shilling shall be considered. After Thackeray's series of lectures on the four Georges had been in London, Willert Beale says that he called upon the novelist in Onslow square with a check for

"What's this, W. B.?" cried Thackeray, reading the check. "Pounds? Our agreement says guineas, and guineas it must be." "You are aware that the lectures so far have involved very heavy losses,"

"That's not my affair," said Thackeray. "I don't know what occult means you have to protect yourself from loss. Guineas, W. R.! Guineas it must be, and nothing else. I must have the shillings."

And the shillings were sent him immediately.

Painting Black Eves.

"The painting of blackened eyes, of which you hear little nowadays," said a man of experience, "is so well established a business now that it does not even need advertising. A sign which I just passed aroused memories of earlier days within me. It was merely the name of a man who does this kind of painting, with the brief announcement, 'Black Eyes Painted.'

"Some years ago such a simple statement was not enough to enable one in that business to live. The artist whose calling this sign declared is the same man who some years back used to have a place on the avenue farther west, and in front of that old office he used to have an expansive and gorgeous sign which told his accomplishments in the phraseology which the only Tody Hamilton after perfected in describing the charms of the best that Barnum offered."-New York Sun.

Tests of Culture.

The chemist Liebig proposed to measure the standard of civilization by the consumption of soap, a creation which would put the inhabitants of north Holland at the head of all civilized nations. As a more reliable test Edmund About suggested the sale of steel pens, the socialist Bebel the frequency of reform meetings, Dr. Bernard the use of undergarments, a luxury unknown to the semicivilized tribes of Asia and South America; Professor Ebers the sale of postage stamps. Penetration of Light.

Experiments show that light can be seen through a clean cut opening of not more than one forty-thousandth of an inch. This fact was determined by taking two thoroughly clean, straight edges, placing a piece of paper between the surfaces at one end, the opposite end being allowed to come together. The straight edges being placed between the eye and a strong light in a dark room, a wedge of light was perceived from the ends between which the paper was placed and the opposite, which were brought together. The thickness of the paper being known. the distance apart of the two edges of the small end of the wedge of light was easily calculated, and the result was shown as above.

A Bell That Never Rang.

A curious legend is that connected with the bell of St. Mura, in Ireland. The bell was said to have descended from the sky ringing loudly, but as it approached the earth the tongue detached itself and returned to the skies. The people concluded from this that the bell was never to be profaned by sounding on earth, but was to be kept for purposes more holy and beneficent.

THE OCEAN SCORCHER.

Who Brags About How Many Times He Has "Crossed."

The ocean scorcher, the woman or man who was forever bragging about how many times he had "crossed," is, thank heaven, on the decrease. Fashion has at last set the seal of her disapproval on him, and he is rapidly becoming obsolete. The fashion is now never to mention the number of times one has been to Europe. "The last time I was over" is the way to refer to an over the water experience if you wish to be in the vogue. Of course you may, if you truthfully can, say "the time before last I was over" or "the tenth time I crossed" or "during my seventh trip through Europe," but a great majority, you will find, say "the last time I was over." It is safer—when one has been over but once.

Pin many of these travelers so fond of relating their European experiences down to the figures, and you will find that "the last time I was over" bears a close relation to the little boy who said he was next to the head of his class, to have it transpire later that the class consisted of himself and a little girl. "The last time I was over" may, like as not, have been the first. Still anything is better than the ocean scorcher and his bragging. To him it didn't matter where he hadn't been or what he hadn't seen or anything, but simply how many times he had crossed.

The one time on record that any one was known to get ahead of these scorchers was when a lot of them were sitting swapping lies on a certain steamship deck and a nonscorcher, having learned that the star scorcher's record was 188 runs, remarked, "There's a man on board who has crossed 566 times." Then, as the excitement caused by the news somewhat subsided: "He's never been anywhere except to the two ports Liverpool and New York. He's never seen anything, he's never done anything, but just cross the ocean 563 times—he's the ship's barber."—New York Sun.

HIGHWAYS TO WEALTH.

Sarmers Prosperous In Communities Having Good Roads.

Good roads are the highways wealth. If I could take you with me north, south, east and west, to where the beginnings of road improvement have been made, I could show you small farming communities growing rich in these hard times, contented and happy, and troubling themselves not at all with the great problems of finance which agitate their brethren. They have no time to waste in talk. If their fields are too wet to work, they go on the road. Their marketing is done in bad weather, and in rainy spells they bring from a distance cheap fertilizers to enrich their farms, such as marl, city refuse, etc. Philadelphia refuse is carried 20 miles on the stone roads.

In these fortunate communities every day brings its earnings to man and beast, for there is always paying work on a good road, and if a man has no hauling of his own to do he can get work from others, and good wages. Exsend these conditions and imagine, if you can, the prosperity that would burst upon the country if every farmer and every farm team could earn a fair day's wages for every day in the year, rainer shine; if every farm could be culdvated and improved to its utmost extent. -- Address by General Roy Stone.

The Gallant Cabman. Nothing perhaps produces quite so much wit from a cabman as a sense of being underpaid, which in most cases means that he has been justly paid. A lady who had been guilty of this kind of justice experienced the usual sense of discomfort when her driver straightened the palm into which she had just dropped her shilling and looked at her speechlessly. She was weakly about to add another sixpence when the cabby's sense of humor prevailed. He transferred the shilling to his pocket and smiled sweetly down at his embarrassed fare. "Course, missy," he remarked, "there was the pleasure o' drivin you!"-London Chronicle.
