

Daily Mirror of Life in Yakima

By S. L. ANTHON

Ability to share is one of the real tests of friendship. By that stern standard, Mrs. Peter MacKintosh, who on Tuesday noted the passing of another birthday, has claim to be considered as one of the greatest friends many Yakima people have. No friendship endures as does that with a truly good book and Mrs. MacKintosh has made it her life work to see that Yakima people are supplied with good books, readily accessible. Before her marriage Mrs. MacKintosh, as city librarian, gave Yakima's library a great push toward its present usefulness and since her marriage, as a member of city and state library boards, has continued that service with unabated enthusiasm. Every Yakima patron of the city library owes her a continuing debt of gratitude—and certainly no one with such a record as Mrs. MacKintosh's can fail of having joyous years ahead.
