OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE state of Washington has certainly profited by having a fusion government during the past three years. When the reckless and profligate McGraw administration went out of power in January, 1897, it left the state nearly two million dollars in debt and that debt increasing at the rate of one thousand dollars per day. Interest on the general fund warrants had not been paid for a period of over two years, notwithstanding the fact that the treasurer had a considerable amount of money on hand, or rather had it placed on deposit among favorite banks. Since the present administration came into power this rotten condition of affairs was speedily changed. Not only has the accrued interest been paid, but the principal of the warrant indebtedness itself has been reduced as much as possible. In September, 1896, state warrants were selling for only ninety cents on the dollar, although the paper was drawing interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum. Now these warrants readily sell for a premium of from one to one and one-half per cent, notwithstanding the fact that the rate of interest has been reduced to five per cent. At the present time the state administration is not only paying all expenses but is rapidly getting out of debt, until the credit of the state is now equal to that of any other in the union. The present state officials are asking no particular credit for this condition of affairs, for since coming into office they have merely met the situation with good business sense and went to work to redeem the credit of the state and have been highly successful. They have doubtless done no more than duty demanded of them, but the men whose votes placed them in such positions of trusts naturally feel some pride in the records they have made, for they well remember the taunts and jeers of republican partisans in the campaign of four years ago when it was vehemently charged that should these same men be elected that the credit of the state would be irreparably injured, that capital would shun the state like a plague spot and the devil be to pay all around. How silly those predictions seem now. This state's affairs have been administered now for nearly four years by "wild eyed pops" and its finances have never before been so successfully handled. But will republican partisans be fair enough to render them due credit?

ELSEWHERE in this issue appears a call for a county convention of the democratic party for the purpose of selecting eleven delegates and the same number of alternates to the state convention that meets in Spokane on May 19. This latter body in turn will elect eight delegates and eight alternates to the democratic national convention that will convene in Kansas City, Mo., on July 4th. It is to be hoped that for the sake of the great principles that are involved in the coming campaign that a spirit of harmony and a unity of purpose may prevail at all of these meetings from the precinct primaries up to the national convention. The democratic party in the coming campaign is charged with a great responsibility for upon its success or failure in the coming campaign depends the fate of the republic itself as well as the individual and industrial liberty of its citizens. It behooves democrats, therefore, to be firm in their purpose to do nothing to disturb the existing harmony, even though such action might entail some personal sacrifice. A party that is fretted and weakened by intestine strife, is as a rule, not in a fit condition to fight a successful battle. Personal politics should have no place in the coming campaign.

BOSS Hanna and Boss Quay have very evidently had a falling out, which is said by the latter's friends to be due to the fact that the Ohio boss failed to keep his word with the Pennsylvania boss after promising him his vote and influence to retain his seat for him in the senate. The "king maker's" real reason for throwing Quay down is said to be due to his appreciation of the fact that his party already had enough to answer for to the people in the coming campaign without having to apologize for having reversed all precedents of the senate for one hundred years in order to bestow a seat on a man who was clearly not entitled to it. Boss Quay disappointed and angry at being turned down is said to be meditating vengeance against the administration for its treachery towards him and will probably take his revenge by refusing this year to do his accustomed work of bleeding the trusts for the benefit of the republican campaign fund. Thus may the people be the gainers.

THE republican nomination for governor is a coveted plum that a goodly number of the faithful seem to be longing for this year. Among those who have already shied their castors into the ring are Humes and Guie, of King county, Moore, of Spokane and Cosgrove, of Garfield, while a host of lesser lights are in an expectant attitude, hoping and praying that gubernatorial lightning may strike them. An amusing feature of the situation is that all of these men, excepting possibly the Spokane candidate, seem to go on the assumption that they can get what they want without the help of that once great man, John L. Wilson. The latter individual may not be so dead as some people think and may yet turn the tables on the motley crowd that humiliated him at Ellensburg, for it must be admitted that Wilson has on numerous occasions in the past given evidence of a much higher order of political generalship than any of the gang that now boast of having "done him up."

THE brilliant young man who shapes the policy of the local Hannaite organ, finds time this hot weather to write columns of political gossip when not otherwise engaged in wearing out shoe leather in the effort to run down a 75c job of printing. The matter of having the slightest basis of fact to build his fairy tales upon is a matter of no importance, for the colonel's vivid imagination is capable of supplying facts as it gallops along through space. It is evident that our neighbor over the way has mistaken his calling. Nature certainly meant to have made of him a great novelist, but was balked in her efforts by the evil influences and vulgar necessities that invariably surround and hamper a bright mind in a country print shop.

THE delegation from this state to the republican national convention met at a hotel in Tacoma recently and spent a day or two in passing resolutions which they will ask to have incorporated into the platform to be made at Hanna's big show. This thing of a state delegation passing resolutions seems to be a new wrinkle in party management. It used to be supposed that a national delegation received its instructions from the platform of the state convention. Since Mark Hanna has become a saint in the party, however, they seem to do things different from what they once did. It will be noted that the delegation passed no resolutions of sympathy or condolence for the family of the late John L. Wilson.

ONE by one, and sometimes in pairs, the penitent gold democrats of four years ago, who foolishly followed Grover Cleveland off into the enemy's camp, come slipping back into the party fold. Ex-Congressman Wm. L. Wilson and J. Sterling Morton are the latest of the most prominent of the prodigals to return, and they are bringing a great many others with them. The former says that the democratic party will be re-united in this campaign and that Bryan will be elected to the presidency.

LET every democrat in this county turn out and attend the primaries on next Wednesday. It is the proud boast of the present day democracy that it comes up from the people and not down from the political bosses. The place where a party's course ought to be shaped is at the primaries. This is Jeffersonian democracy, pure and simple.

Held Up By Tramps and Thrown off the Train.

Fred Brooker, the well known liveryman of this city and John Cleman, the Wenas sheepman, had an experience that they will probably never forget while riding home from Ellensburg on a freight train on Thursday night.

The two men had been in the "burg" on business Thursday and wishing to return to Yakima that night, were dismayed at the prospect of not being able to get home before morning after they had been refused a permit to travel on the extra freight which pulled into Ellensburg about 9 p. m. They made up their minds that they wouldn't get left and so climbed upon a flat car loaded with lumber and the night being warm were enjoying the ride immensely.

When the train slowed up to cross the temporary bridge at Uhmtnum station two rakish looking men—one tall and the other short in stature—climbed up on the car and announced their intention of riding. After asking some commonplace questions the tall man suddenly whipped out a revolver and covering the two Yakima men exclaimed, "Now we want what you've got, hands up!" Under the circumstances Brooker and Cleman of course could do nothing but comply. The short man was then directed by his confederate to search them and did so, taking $180 in money from Brooker, besides a package of notes, which were subsequently returned to him at his request. Cleman was also relieved of what money he had on his person—amounting to about $8—and his gold watch. After the money had been transferred the tall robber said, "We'll have to excuse you gentlemen now and insist that you leave the train." Their victims remonstrated at this on the ground that the train was running too fast. The tramp then retorted "Oh damn the difference, you must get off or take the consequences, meanwhile brandishing his pistol in a threatening manner. Cleman was first escorted to the end of the car and told to jump under the threat of death as the penalty of refusal. He accordingly jumped striking the earth on the rock ballasted road bed on his face and breast miraculously escaping unhurt excepting some slight bruises about the head and face.

Brooker's turn came next and he was likewise ordered to jump off. Fearful that the leap in the dark would mean death Fred parleyed with the ruffians awhile hoping that the train might slow up. Finally the big tramp lost his patience and discharged his revolver apparently with Brooker's head for a target as the ball grazed his temple and left an ugly mark. Under such urging Brooker then made the leap and fortunately struck terra firma in a soft and favored spot escaping injury. He then walked back up the track until he found Mr. Cleman bathing his wounded face.

They then walked eight miles to Roza station where they aroused the operator and sent a telegram to Sheriff Tucker to look out for the robbers.

The sheriff wired to Prosser and Pasco asking the officers to arrest everybody on the train aside from the crew.

Up to the hour of going to press, however, no arrests had been made and it is not considered probable that the two desperate highwaymen will be caught. Early this morning local officers run onto three men below the stock yards, who told a peculiar story. These men were badly disfigured and bruised and accounted for their forlorn appearance by stating that they are workmen and were beating their way to Spokane on the extra. They said that just before the train had arrived in Yakima they were set upon and robbed by six tramps, who had held them up at the point of their revolvers. Between here and Yakima City they were finally ejected from the train by the tramps, all receiving injuries. One of the men in fact, being pretty badly used up. They were taken to the hospital where their injuries were attended to. One of the men claims that he was robbed of over $50.

Messrs. Brooker and Cleman came down from Roza on Friday morning on the 2:20 passenger. Naturally they feel rather sore over their experience, but at the same time feel duly thankful that they are still on earth.

The Stockmen's Meeting.

Forest Superintendent Shleler was here again on Tuesday and Wednesday and satisfactory arrangements were made with the stockmen of central Washington for grazing on the reserve this season. The conference took place at the city hall and did not finally adjourn until Wednesday at 5 a. m. Nearly 100 stockmen were present, there being a delegation from both Klickitat and Kittitas counties.

An adjustment was finally reached between the cattle and sheep interests on Tuesday. It was agreed that the Ahntanum range which has been in dispute for sometime, should be occupied exclusively by cattle between June 1 and July 15 and after the latter date to be occupied jointly by cattle and sheep.

The Big Klickitat range is to be given over exclusively to cattle.

What prolonged the meeting was the difficulty encountered by the sheepmen's committee in apportioning the range allotted to them satisfactorily to the large number of applicants. By means of mutual concessions, however, the matter was finally fixed up. The applications for grazing have been sent to Washington by Mr. Sheller for approval.

The intimation that appeared in a local paper last week that there would be no fair, is an error, as the commission is now laying its plans for the most creditable exhibition that has yet been held.

The Course of True Love Never Runs Smooth.

The boys are telling a pretty good story at the expense of a popular young salesman of this city, who went wheeling up the valley in the company of his best girl last Sunday.

While scorching along at a ruinous rate of speed with his fair partner by his side the young man is said to have become inspired under the influence of the bright spring sunshine and to have momentarily allowed his thoughts to wander from the abstruse subject of bicycle navigation to the more agreeable one of love making. The usual result happened when a bad piece of road is suddenly struck under such circumstances. The two wheels came together with a ting, ting, ting, which meant that there wasn't a live spoke left in the young clerk's guide wheel. The sudden contact as a matter of course, precipitated both riders to terra firma, the young man cutting a semi-circle in mid air before reaching mother earth. After recovering his mental equilibrium and duly comforting his fair companion in misery, the handsome young man took an inventory of the situation, finding that his own wheel was a fit subject for the bicycle doctor, while the other was fortunately but little injured. Their exact location he noted too was fully seven miles from town. He speedily made up his mind, however, on the proper course to pursue. The young lady was placed on her wheel and sent back to town, while young Lockinvar after remarking that he would get home all right, made his way to the nearest farm house. Here he concluded negotiations with the farmer's son to deliver the broken wheel "at the back door of our store" on the morrow. The young man, but little the worse for his adventure then "hoofed" it into town whistling merrily as he walked, "I'll see her when the sun goes down," meanwhile consoling himself with the reflection that "the boys will never catch on."

But the morrow it seems brought both remorse and exposure to our luckless young hero. The lad from the country came in sure enough with the remnants of the bike and remembering the parting injunction to bring it in through the back door endeavored to do so, but the numerous back doors in that vicinity amazed the young fellow and naturally enough he entered the wrong one. Here he met with a sympathizing clerk to whom he gradually unfolded the story of the broken wheel. Before leaving the lad remarked, "You aint the feller, but you'll see that he gets it won't you?"

The crestfallen young man next door was soon in possession of his property but with it came the unwelcome knowledge that his secret—their secret—was out and the joke was on him.

The Hotel Yakima, which is favorably known throughout the whole northwest, has recently been completely renovated and made more attractive than ever to the traveling public. Mrs. Johnson, the popular landlady, on the first of the month, made a lease of the second floor of the adjoining Livesley block, which gives to the hotel a large number of additional rooms. ### United States Department of Agriculture, Division of Forestry

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 2, 1900.

Mr. Gifford Pinchot, forester of the Department of Agriculture, and Mr. F. V. Coville, Botanist of the same department, will leave Washington for the west about May 15, to make a personal investigation of the problem of grazing in the forest reserves. The restriction of sheep grazing in these areas has raised a storm of protest from wool growers, and public feeling in the west has become divided and intense. A plan for an exhaustive investigation by the government was published a few weeks ago; but the tour of these officials will be the first actual work in the field.

They will be met at Holbrook, Arizona, by a committee consisting of A. E. Potter, of that city, who is secretary of the Arizona Wool Growers' Association, and J. E. Bark, of Phoenix, who represents the cattle and irrigation interests. They will spend three weeks in the Black Mesa Reserve and then visit others in Arizona. The examination will be extended to other western reserves later in the summer.

The watershed of Rock river, in northern Illinois, will soon be the subject of an investigation by the division of forestry in order to determine the cause of the diminution of the stream. This is supposed to be due to the denudation of the forests alone its headwaters and to excessive artificial drainage for commercial and agricultural purposes. The decrease in volume of water has become alarming, and, in response to the agitation of citizens in that locality, their representative in congress, Hon R. R. Hitt, has applied to the secretary of agriculture for an investigation. G. Fred Schwarz, Field assistant in the division of forestry, will proceed to Rock river in a short time to study the conditions and report in favor of such action as he finds advisable.

Two agents of the division of forestry left Washington recently to organize an investigation of commercial trees, which will be carried on in Western Washington this summer. They will be joined in a few weeks by about 20 assistants. The chief object will be to determine the rate of growth and the stand per acre of forests of different ages under varying conditions. From this data can be reckoned the time required to produce a second crop on cut-over land, and lumbermen can decide whether it will be profitable to hold and pay taxes on such property.

Some work of this kind was done on the Red Fir last summer. This will be completed, and about July 1 the western Hemlock will be taken up. A party will also go to California to study the Redwood about the same time.

A good many people have stepped into the new theatre this week to admire the handsome border that has just been put on the walls by Artist Davis and his assistants. It is generally pronounced to be very artistic.

GIRLS SOLD FOR 30 CENTS.

Horrible Traffic Caused by the Famine in India.

The Rev. Rockwell Clancy, a missionary at Allahabad, when in Boston recently said:

"The condition of famine stricken India today is something perfectly awful to contemplate. I cannot tell anything about the number dying, but when I left Bombay last February there were some 60,000,000 people suffering and over 30,000,000 were in dire distress, and of these but 5,000,000 were receiving government aid.

"It is not the cities, but the country places that are stricken, and when you know that it is mostly among the agricultural classes and that 80 per cent of the population of India is made up of tillers of the soil, you may be able to grasp in some slight manner the extent of the suffering at the present time.

"When the famine set in the people began to sell everything they had to buy food; they took the doors from their house and sold them; sold their furniture and farming utensils, and then, when they could no longer sell anything, they sold their children. The boys don't sell well, and the traffic is largely in girls.

"I saw girls in one town just before I came away being sold for 30 cents apiece. They were bought up by Mohammedans. But they won't buy the boys, so when the parents can no longer support their children they abandon them, and henceforth they must get on as best they can.

"Those cast off congregate at the doors of the grain merchants shops, and the only way the proprietors can get rid of them is to throw out handfuls of grain, scattering it wide. The children pick and pick all day, and at night they are delighted by having collected a single handful."

The Convention on Time.

Some apprehension has been expressed by democrats in different parts of the country lest the destruction of the convention hall at Kansas City should necessitate a postponement of the convention. It may be stated with the utmost positiveness that no postponement will be considered. The people of Kansas City have begun the work of re-erecting the hall with characteristic energy. The contracts for the entire structure have been let and heavy bonds filed to assure its completion in ample season for the convention. The insurance companies contributed largely to the movement by waiving the provision of the policies which gave them thirty days' delay before paying losses, and the citizens have subscribed more than enough money to make up the additional sum needed. Only a most unexpected obstacle can prevent the completion of the hall in time, but even should there arise such a contingency, Kansas City has in its exposition building a hall of sufficient size to house a national convention, and the local committee agrees to fit it up in case necessity should arise.—Press Bulletin.

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

SCHOOL BONDS SOLD.

Bring a Premium of $305.

The thirteen bids received by County Treasurer Dudley from different bond buying houses throughout the country for the new $1,000 issue recently made by the board of directors of school district No. 7, were opened on Saturday last and the bid of Mason, Lewis & Company of Chicago accepted. This firms bid was to take the issue of $11,000 at a rate of 4 1/2 per cent interest payable annually in this city, besides a premium of $305.

What was considered as the next best bid received was that of E. H. Rollins & Son of Denver, Col., which firm offered a premium of $387 for the bonds, but stipulated that the interest should be paid semi-annually and that the cost of the engraved blanks for the bonds amounting to $25 should be paid for by the district.

By close figuring the bid of Mason, Lewis & Company was considered to be the best among the thirteen received and it was accordingly accepted by the board.

In the county treasurers circular letter addressed to the bond buyers asking for bids, is given a financial statement showing the present standing of the district which reads as follows:

Bonds dated 1890, running 20 years.	$14,000.00
Bonds dated 1894, running 20 years.	20,000.00
Total bonded indebtedness.	$34,000.00
Outstanding warrants on special building fund.	$3557.05
Outstanding warrants on general fund.	14,841.70

Total bonded indebtedness.	$18,198.75
Total bonded and warrant indebtedness including the late issue of $11,000.	$63,198.75

Against this total indebtedness the treasurer claims an offset of $3,357.05 to cover the warrants of the special building fund as that amount was included in the tax levy of 1899 and is either now paid or soon will be.

The treasurer claims a further offset of $8000 against the warrant indebtedness of the general fund for the reason that delinquent and unpaid school fund taxes to that amount are to be used as soon as collected to liquidate general warrant indebtedness. Including the late bond issue of $11,000, this total offset of $11,359 when applied will leave the total bonded and warrant indebtedness of district No. 7, $51,847.

The limit of indebtedness where the same is incurred by vote of the people is $60,177.40.

Epworth League Entertainment.

The entertainment given at Mason's opera house under the auspices of the Epworth League was a pronounced success in every way except financially.

The program consisted of readings by Miss Ross, a vocal selection by the ladies' quartette, piano duets by Mrs. Richards and Miss Reed, a piano solo by Miss Edith Spain, a piano duet by Misses Spain and Bunniell and a violin solo by Mrs. Crow.

The feature of the entertainment aside from the excellently rendered recitals of Miss Ross was the "Grecian pose" in which five lovely young ladies beautifully costumed namely; the Misses Murchie, Alexander, Bartholet, Varker and Ross took part.

The entertainment was given for the benefit of the building fund of the M. E. church and it is a matter of regret that the attendance was not larger.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Hurdy Gurdy in Dawson City.

Across the street, three blocks away, a white banner is stretched, bearing this notice in screaming red and black letters: "Nigger Jim's Pavilion." I am surprised to learn that this Nigger Jim is a white man. The noise that comes from this place resembles music. A man in his shirt sleeves is calling the figures of the dance. Sometimes he sang them, and this is his song. It must have originated in a cow camp:

S'lute your ladies, all together:
Ladies opposite the same!
Hit the timber with your leather!
Balance all and swing your dame!
Bunch the heifers in the middle!
Circle stags and do-se-do!
Pay attention to the fiddle!
Swing her round and off you go!

First four forward! Back to places!
Second follow—shuffle back!
Now you've got it down to cases—
Swing 'em till their trotters crack!
Gents all right a heel and toeing!
Swing 'em; kiss 'em, if you kin!
On to next and keep a-go!
Till you hit your pard's agin!

Gents to center; ladies round 'em!
Form a basket; balance all!
Whirl your gals to where you found 'em!
Promenade around the hall!
Balance to yer pards and trot 'em
Round the circle, double quick!
Grab and kiss 'em while you got 'em—
Hold 'em to it if they kiek!

Ladies, left hand to your sonnies!
Balance all, and swing your honeys—
Pick 'em up and feel their heft!
Promenade like skeery cattle—
Balance all and swing your sweets!
Shake yer spurs and make 'em rattle!
Keno! Promenade to seats!

Roosevelt as a Soldier.

A supplementary chapter to the Spanish war is detailed in a rather sensational pamphlet issued by Col. Alexander S. Bacon of the New York Seventy-first regiment. It will be remembered that charges of cowardice were made against certain officers of the Seventy-first regiment, and that Theodore Roosevelt, in his book on the war—which Mr. Dooley aptly suggests ought to have been entitled "Alone in Cuba," by Theodore Roosevelt—echoed the charges and added some comments of his own. Col. Bacon now says that Maj. Reid in his official report quotes Col. Roosevelt as having said at headquarters just before the enemy surrendered at Santiago: "Twenty-five per cent of my Rough Riders can't carry a pail of water from the creek to the trenches. No man can decry me or my regiment, but we must accede to the next proposition from the enemy."

This was a rather extraordinary statement to be made by the colonel, who very shortly afterwards in a letter to the war department boasted that his rough riders were worth ten ordinary volunteers. The utterance is indeed obviously a timorous suggestion of a possible surrender.

Col. Bacon also comments somewhat caustically upon the gusto with which Roosevelt in his book describes his own killing of two Spaniards. This is an exhibition of bad taste, or worse, on Roosevelt's part that has earned him the contempt of military men everywhere and of all men, whatever their profession, who believe that if the taking of human life shall ever be a necessity, it is a very solemn and a very melancholy duty and one not to be boasted of nor made the subject of self-laudation. Men who know regular soldiers, particularly such as have seen long and honorable service, know it is with the utmost diffidence that they mention in any way their own personal part in the shedding of human blood, and it is most unprecedented for a soldier or sailor writing for publication to write as Roosevelt has. The only parallel to the sanguinary boastings of New York's governor is to be found in the memoirs of Benevenuto Cellini, a very talented cutthroat and assassin of the days in which the "strenuous life" was more generally led than in these degenerate times.—New York Journal.

The Lust of Power.

The Porto Rican act of congress is a product of that lust of power that is forever mangling the letter and tearing at the spirit of the constitution. Yet it is but the foam on the crest of the billow that tells of the fret of the depths below. The presidential announcements that "forcible annexation" would be "criminal aggression" one month and the issue of a proclamation in another so fraught with perfidy that the trusted general of the army shrank from its publication; the ostentatious proclamation of our mission of liberty and progress among the nations in one breath and the sanctification of polygamy and slavery in Jolo and bond labor in Hawaii in another; the substitution of a secret and sinister diplomacy for the historic, candid, open good faith diplomacy of the republic, and the ill-concealed sympathy with the march of British empire over the liberties and independence of the two South African republics, all serve to illustrate how malevolent is the spirit once smitten by the lust of innovation and given up to the whims and caprices of undridled power.—Hon. B. F. Shively, South Bend, Ind.

Tortured a Witness.

Intense suffering was endured by witness T. L. Martin, of Dixie, Ky., before he gave this evidence: "I coughed every night until my throat was raw; then tried Dr. King's New Discovery which gave instant relief. I have used it in my family for four years and recommend it as the greatest remedy for Coughs, Colds and all Throat, Chest and Lung troubles. It will stop the worst cough, and not only prevent but absolutely cures Consumption. Price 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Quitt & Ayres Drug Co's."

BEAUTY'S EYES

SHOULD BE eyes of Strength and Perfect Vision—eyes of beauty are always so. Beauty's eyes are not. Strange how a woman will go on straining her eyes, producing premature wrinkles and wasting nervous energy under the supposition that glasses will ruin her appearance. In reality nothing so enhances one's looks as do glasses when placed before defective eyes. We put beauty in glasses, as well as behind them.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, April 27, 1900.

There is little doubt of the liability of Mr. McKinley and Secretary Root to impeachment for their open violation of law in paying two salaries to favored army officers in Cuba, and they would be likely to get it if congress had a democratic majority. Secretary Root's answer to the senate resolution asking for information is a pettifoggish document from start to finish. It tells only a part of the truth, which is often much worse than telling a lie, but even then it contains a practical acknowledgement of violation of law by the executive branch of the government, in the citation of acts of congress in 1849 and 1853 authorizing extra compensation for army officers who performed civil duties in Mexico and California. This congress would have done the same for officers in Cuba, had the necessity for such action been brought to its attention by the war department; but that does not excuse the violation of law on the part of the president and the secretary of war. In citing acts of congress as a precedent Mr. Root shows that he knows that congress alone has the authority which the executive branch of the government has in this case usurped. And that isn't the only ugly thing about Mr. Root's answer. His argument that the regular allowance of an annual sum from the Cuban revenues does not constitute a second salary for the officers named is farcical, but his failure to name all the officers who are known to have had an "allowance" is worse. It is to much to expect anything approaching a thorough investigation of war department expenditures in Cuba, from a republican congress, but steps will be taken by others to get at the truth and make it known to the people of the country.

Mr. McKinley is unquestionably the man who engineered the plans which resulted in the refusal of the senate by a vote of 33 to 32 to seat Mr. Quay. Mr. McKinley has had it in for Quay for just about four years and has been patiently awaiting a chance to get even. In order to throw Quay and his friends off the scent, Boss Hanna allowed himself to be counted as a Quay man until the day of the vote, when it was announced that he was paired against. It would be interesting to know how Mr. McKinley induced Senators Aldrich and Beveridge, both Quay men, to absent themselves without pairs. Their votes would have seated Quay. Mr. McKinley may, however, find his triumph a dearly bought one, as Matt Quay is about as relentless an enemy as any politician could possibly have following his trail awaiting an opportunity to strike.

Admiral Dewey will not make a statement of his attitude toward important public questions, unless he changes his mind, but will ask the Kansas City convention to nominate him for president solely on his record. That shows how guileless, in a political way, the dear old boy is. Think of the absurdity of a great party nominating a man for president without knowing how he stood upon a single one of the great issues upon which the campaign will be fought. Only a man like Dewey could think such a thing possible. Notwithstanding the public declaration of almost every prominent democrat in the country that Col. Bryan's nomination was a certainty, and the failure of a single democratic state leader to advocate the nomination of Dewey, the admiral still believes that he will be nominated.

A hearing was granted by the select committee of the house which has charge of the bill to a delegation in favor of the bill appropriating $5,000,000 toward the holding of a World's Fair at St. Louis in 1903 to celebrate the centennial of the Louisiana purchase. The delegation included governors of the states within the Louisiana purchase and a number of prominent citizens of St. Louis.

Ex-Representative Lewis of Washington, sized up the political situation out his way thusly: "Col. Bryan will receive the unanimous vote of the delegation for the state of Washington, at Kansas city, and I am confident he will get the electoral votes of the state. My belief that he will carry the state, in spite of the existing strong sentiment for expansion, is based on the stronger sentiment in opposition to trusts and the faith the people have in bimetalism. I believe the same thing will apply to all the Pacific slope states, except Oregon."

The men who have been slowly but surely pushing a scheme to loot the United States treasury by means of contracts with the postoffice department for pneumatic tube service in the large cities were given a hard throw down this week when the house by a vote of 87 to 50 struck out that portion of the postoffice appropriation carrying $725,000 to pay for existing pneumatic tube service and to extend the same during the coming fiscal year. The action was brought about by the public statement of Representative Moody, of Oregon that these men had been bribing and trying to bribe members of congress with stock in their company, which existed solely for what it could get through congressional legislation.

THE GROWING OF SORGHUM. is Well Adapted to Irrigated Sec- tions.

The growing of sorghum is a much neglected industry in the warmer districts of the northwest. The crop produces well and there is always a demand for the syrup, if it is properly manufactured. Minnesota sorghum raisers claim they can produce 20 tons of cane per acre, and a ton will yield from ten to twenty gallons of syrup. The syrup sells at an average of forty cents a gallon, and where so much adulterated stuff is put upon the market, it would come more into general use, if made pure at home. Where local mills are managed for custom work, the usual price is $2 per ton for cane, delivered at the mill, or ten cents a gallon for making the syrup. In addition to the income from syrup, the seed is valuable for poultry, cattle and hogs; the blades make good forage and the crushed stalks are profitable for manuring the land and binding the soil.

Sorghum is grown on a sandy loam, or prairie soil, in forty-four states and territories. The annual production is about 25,000,000 gallons. It does better when planted on clean land, where the weeds have been pretty thoroughly cleaned out, and where early cultivation is given. Northern latitudes produce a better grade of syrup as the saccharine forming conditions are suited to its perfecting. The soil is better if plowed in the winter or early spring, and left to mellow with the frosts.

So far as fertilizing sorghum is concerned, it must have plant food in proper proportion. A complete fertilizer supplying about eight per cent of phosphoric acid, three per cent of nitrogen and nine per cent potash, or instead a mixture of 600 pounds bone meal and 200 pounds sulphate of potash per acre. The fertilizer should be well mixed with the soil; potash in the form of sulphate produces a higher per cent of sugar than the muriate.

The seed should be planted in rows three or four feet apart and drilled so that plants will be four to six inches in the row. A lister is one of the perfect machines, but other methods that will not plant the seed too deep are recommended. Two pounds of clean seed will be sufficient for an acre. There are several varieties but the Early Minnesota or Amber, seems to be the best. The plant withstands drouth better than any other similar cultivated crop, yet it will thrive on moist soils, if properly drained. Harrowing is a favorite method of giving the first cultivation, as the plow covers the plants too much, and thus retards the crop. Two or three cultivations will be sufficient to produce a good crop. The cane is cut when the seed begins to ripen, and hauled to the mill after the blades have been stripped and the seed heads cut off.

There are various kinds of mills for grinding sorghum, but little improvements having been noticed in the past forty years. The mill that presses the pulp the hardest and gets out the most juice is the kind to use. Some horse power plants have the capacity of 400 to 500 gallons of syrup per day. The juice should be thoroughly filtered two or three times and slowly boiled at the start to skim away all sediment and impurities. Many successful sorghum makers use a milk of lime at the rate of one quart to 100 gallons of cane juice, as a method of purifying. Some find the use of clay for clarifying more preferable than the lime. Whatever method is used, the juice should be well cleared of impurities, to make the best syrup. The evaporator process of boiling for a while in one vat and drawing off to another, is the best way of making the syrup. Any handy farmer can make his own vats, pans and furnaces without much expense. Copper is recommended for pans for syrup making as it saves trouble in cleaning and always gives a bright pan. Sorghum makers will find the market ready to purchase their syrup, if only first quality is produced. The refineries have various processes for making over cheap molasses, and transposing the glucose and other dangerous material into fancy syrups, but the farmers can, and certainly will, duplicate this more generally in good, healthy sorghum. The business, like all others, must be studied in all its bearings, and the projectors act accordingly. But, the people want pure syrup, and will purchase it at any price, within reason, if it is produced at home, by competent manufacturers. This industry should be encouraged.

In The Philippines.

The Filipinos, though long since officially and repeatedly declared pacified, continue to demand occasional slaughter. Not a week passes without the report of a killing party; and although these stories come to us in the mild and brief form imposed by the censorship, the impression is anything but happy. To be sure, the American loss is comparatively trifling, there being only nine killed this week and sixteen wounded; while—according to the dispatches of Monday—"the work of the past week probably finished about 1,000 insurgents,"—which means, being properly interpreted, that about 1,000 foolish and wicked Filipinos were benevolently civilized and christianized into a better world!

Ah, what a strange and sorrowful business is this for a republic, founded upon a principle that all governments must derive their just powers to govern from the consent of the governed, and that all men are endowed by their Creator with the inalienable right of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness!" And it is getting very wearisome, not only for the killers, but for the people at home who must pay the bills and patch up the sadly torn national conscience.—Sumner Herald.

"WONDERLAND."

A Tale of the Great Northwest.

"Wonderland" is the title of a new and handsome volume of 132 pages recently issued by the Northern Pacific Railway company. The work was compiled and edited by Olin D. Wheeler and is devoted to a description of the northern tier of states in Uncle Sam's dominions from the Great Lakes to the Pacific, an empire within itself which is traversed its entire length by the Northern Pacific railroad. Beginning with a history of President Jefferson's acquisition by purchase from France in 1803 of all of that vast stretch of country then known as Louisiana territory, but now comprising some 15 different states, the work continues down to the present time. The history of the great Lewis and Clarke expedition of nearly a century ago is given in detail, many interesting particulars of which have not heretofore been published.

The work also includes a very thorough and comprehensive description, with splendid illustrations of the beautiful scenery that abounds everywhere within the territory named. Among the many beautiful illustrations is a very good one of the handsome new depot at this place. "Wonderland" also contains "The Story of a Railway" and in which it gives an authentic history of the inception and organization of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, and the different stages of its construction to the west coast. On pages 89 and 94 a comparison is made of the present most prosperous condition of the road with what it was in the earlier years when the road was struggling for existence. "Wonderland"—and the book was certainly well named—is in short a work containing not only very much and very useful information, but records historical events in such a readable way as to make the book one of thrilling interest to the casual reader. It is in fact of such originality and excellence in its make up compared with the usual class of literature put out by transportation companies that we feel it deserves a more extended notice than we are able to give it in this brief review.

Four Republican Platforms.

Republican conventions in the four states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin adopted platforms Wednesday. All of them indorsed Mr. McKinley. All of them excepting Wisconsin formally demanded his renomination, and by logical inference Wisconsin's platform did also.

The platform adopted in the president's own state, where the convention was "personally conducted" by Senator Hanna, makes the most interesting exposition of republican policy toward our new island possessions.

It affirms that the sovereignty acquired from Spain over the Philippines "must not be repudiated, and the high purpose of its origin must be accomplished in the establishment of peace and order and the blessings of individual liberty among the peoples of the Philippine Islands."

"Individual liberty!" Not a national liberty of their own under our protection, nor American liberty under our constitution, but just "individual liberty"—which means whatever degree and kind of limited liberty a carpet-bag colonial government appointed by Mr. McKinley after the Porto Rico pattern chooses to offer them.

And yet this plank in the Ohio platform, while denying the people of the Philippines any status except that of a subject people, acquired by a mixture of purchase and conquest, starts out by impudently invoking the principle "on which Abraham Lincoln was elected president."

Abraham Lincoln, though dead, is still speaking against any such policy. His famous declaration stands: "No man is good enough to govern another man without that other man's consent"—New York World.

What Hoar Would Do With the Philippines.

I would declare now that we will not take these islands to govern them against their will.

I would reject a cession of sovereignty which implies that sovereignty may be bought and sold and delivered without the consent of the people.

I would require all foreign governments to keep out of these islands.

I would offer to the people of the Philippines our help in maintaining order until they have a reasonable opportunity to establish a government of their own.

I would aid them by advice, if they desire it, to set up a free and independent government.

I would invite all the great powers of Europe to unite in an agreement that independence shall not be interfered with.

I would declare that the United States will enforce the same doctrine as applicable to the Philippines that we declare as to Mexico, Hayti and the South American republics.—From the speech of Senator Hoar.

A Woman's Awful Peril.

Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gallstones had formed and she constantly grew worse. Wm. Munsill while working at his trade of carpentering this week, made a false move with a sharp chisel at the over head work that he was doing with the result that a deep gash was cut in the forehead which will lay him up for some time.

The fourth annual meeting of the Washington federation of women's clubs will meet in the M. E. church in this city on May 29, 30 and 31. The local club is making the necessary arrangements for the entertainment of their guests. Some 300 visiting delegates are expected.

Jas. M. Smith who was sent to the penitentiary about 18 months ago from this county for forgery, committed while under the influence of liquor, has been pardoned by Gov. Rogers on the recommendation of local officials familiar with the case. Smith is said to have been a most exemplary prisoner while in confinement.

County Treasurer Dudley has sent out a circular letter to eastern bond buyers asking for bids on a $500 issue of bonds recently voted by school district No. 50, which is the new district recently created in the Sunnyside country by a division of Zillah and Winterset districts. The money is wanted by the new district for the purpose of building and furnishing a new school house.

The prune growers will meet in this city today and endeavor to perfect an organization through the medium of which when perfected they mean to evolve a system that will admit of greater profits in the business. Those advocating organization believe that the output can be more profitably handled by co-operation in curing, packing and selling, making the consignments more uniform in grade and enabling the growers to select their markets.

A large crowd of people were present at the depot on Tuesday afternoon to inspect the new and handsomely appointed North Coast Limited train which arrived from the east at 2:20 o'clock. The train consisted of a baggage, a mail and an express car, two handsome day coaches, a Pullman diner and sleeper and lastly the magnificent observation car, which was especially regarded by all the bystanders as the finest thing they had ever seen on wheels.

The residence of Lloyd Purdin located twelve miles from town in the Wenatchee valley, burned down about 7 p. m. on Thursday evening of last week. The fire in the structure which was a frame building, is thought to have been caused by a defective flue. Mr. Purdin estimates the total amount of his loss at $1500 on which there was $750 of insurance covering the house and furniture. While considering plans for rebuilding Mr. Purdin received an offer to sell his 120 acre ranch and closed the deal this week. The purchasers are Messrs. Deitz and Waugh of Seattle, who will reside on the farm and operate it. They expect their families to arrive next week. Mr. Purdin is as yet undetermined as to what his plans will be for the future.

The new train service on the Northern Pacific went into effect on Sunday and is now in full operation. The time card is as follows: Train No. 1, west bound, "North Coast Limited, arrives here at 2:20 p. m.; No. 2, east bound, "North Coast Limited," 2:20 a. m.; No. 3, west bound, "Pacific Express," 7:45 a. m.; No. 4, east bound, "Twin City Express," 2:50 p. m.; No. 57, west bound local freight, 2:15 p. m.; No. 58, east bound local freight, 8:39 a. m.

County Commissioners Horsley and Eglin met on Saturday and opened the bids for the construction of a bridge over Simcoe slough near Simcoe station and for grading the road to connect with the new bridge. The bid of C. H. Bruenn of this city was found to be the best one received and that gentleman was accordingly given the contract for $474. The road petition of E. J. Jaeger et al was granted and L. E. Lawrence, J. A. Patterson and County Surveyor Arnold were appointed as viewers.

C. E. Schultz, a resident of Wide Hollow, met with a painful accident on Sunday last while riding a wild horse to pasture. The animal suddenly shying threw his rider to the ground with the bridle rein gripped tightly about his hand. The frightened horse then ran for a considerable distance dragging the unfortunate man with him. Besides sustaining some severe bruises in the melee, Mr. Shultz when he finally got the animal stopped, found that his right hand was terribly lacerated.

Thomas Lund, accompanied by a friend, while exercising his fine stepper on the fair ground track on Friday evening of last week, met with an accident that has since called forth the sympathy of his many friends. The horse getting scared suddenly changed his course throwing both of the occupants of the buggy to the ground violently. Mr. Lund's sudden contact with terra firma inflicted upon him a painful gash in the head besides a broken thumb and some minor injuries. His friend fortunately escaped without injury.

A Narrow Escape.

About 11 a. m. on Thursday the sound of a terrific explosion alarmed a number of people in this city and they rushed about to ascertain the cause. The scene of the explosion was soon ascertained to be in the rear of R. Strobach's bottling works on First street.

Mr. Strobach explained the unusual occurrence by stating that he had thoughtlessly struck a match to look into and examine the condition of an iron tank that lay nearly half filled with sulphuric acid at the rear of the house. The lighted match caused the acid to explode with terrific force blowing the end out of the tank and deluging the immediate vicinity with the contents. Mr. Strobach has since received the congratulations of his numerous friends over the fact that he had such a narrow escape from a violent death as it was evident that had he stood three feet in advance of where he was at the time he would have certainly been killed. As it was the only ill effect that he experienced was the dashing of some of the fiery liquid into his face and eyes, which though for a time painful is not believed to be serious.

Superior Court News.

Judge Davidson held a short session of the superior court on Monday. The following cases were considered:

Madie A. Wyman vs. John Cleman—suit on a promissory note—continued for one week.

F. N. McCandless vs. Labaree, change of venue granted to Spokane county.

In the matter of the estate of W. H. Kershaw, deceased, the court announced that the case would be heard at Ellensburg, at the term of court beginning the third Monday in May.

Court was then adjourned to meet here again on the first Monday in June.

The following new cases have been filed with the clerk of the superior court:

Nellie Franklin Smith vs. S. O. Morford et al—a suit to foreclose a mortgage.

Fry, Bruhn & Co. vs. W. B. Dudley, county treasurer—a suit to procure an injunction.

Vinnie C. Woolery vs. Charles C. Woolery—a suit for divorce.

Burned Bridge makes a Lull in Traffic.

Traffic on the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific railroad was suddenly interrupted on Tuesday evening by the burning of the Umtahnum bridge, better known in railroad parlance as the third crossing of the Yakima. The bridge is situated a few miles on this side of Ellensburg and is supposed to have caught fire by burning cinders ejected from the ashpan by the fireman of the through freight which arrives here from the west at 11 p. m. The night passenger was accordingly held up at Ellensburg and was finally annulled.

A wrecking and bridge crew was promptly sent forward from each end of the division and after about 24 hours of continuous labor were able to repair the burned structure sufficiently to permit of a resumption of traffic.

A west bound passenger train which arrived here about 8 a. m. on Wednesday day morning returned to Pasco and then made its way to Portland over the lines of the O. R. & N. as did the other trains until the burned bridge was replaced.

Meeting of the Democratic Central Committee.

A regular called meeting of the democratic county central committee was held on last Saturday afternoon at the city hall with a good attendance of committeemen present.

The committee having met for the purpose of calling primaries and setting the time for a county convention soon got down to work.

By a unanimous vote the ratio of representation to the county convention was made of one delegate for every twelve votes cast for Hon. N. T. Caton, a fusion elector of 1896.

The secretary called attention to the fact that there were vacancies on the committee caused by removal from the county of the former committeemen. The vacancies were then filled by the election of T. G. Redfield as committeeman from the first ward of this city, Harley Taylor to represent Selah; J. B. George, Sunnyside, and J. M. Baxter Fairview precinct.

After discussing the matter thoroughly the committee concluded to fix the hours for holding the primaries throughout the country precincts between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. on Wednesday May 9, and the county convention on Saturday, May 12.

The county convention according to the call which is published in this paper will assemble at the court house at the hour of 11 a. m.

The time for holding the primaries between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m., was so fixed because of the fact that primaries which are usually held at the school houses in the country precincts could more conveniently be held after the adjournment of school for the day and for the further fact that members of the party would not lose so much time from their work at this busy season in attending them.

As the time for advertising the primaries was felt to be comparatively short the secretary was instructed to have some bills printed for distribution throughout the county, advertising the date of the primaries.

Perfect harmony prevailed in the committee and all action taken on the business disposed of was by unanimous vote.

The Passing of Quay.

The United States senate purged itself of Matthew S. Quay. It was done by a bare majority of one; but, like Mercutio's wound, "'tis enough." The senate is to be congratulated, for it has saved its own honor. The whole country is to be congratulated too, for it puts a period to one of the most sinister careers that has ever scandalized its public life. The precedent thus established is valuable and wholesome. It is settled now that a senator whom a legislature will not re-elect cannot re-elect himself through the appointing power of a governor who may be, as he was in Quay's case, the mere creature of his own corruptly obtained power.—N. Y. World.

School Statistics For April.

The enrollment of pupils in the city schools for the year is 934 and for the month of April 731, which is only ten less than the maximum enrollment during any one month of last year.

The attendance at the close of April was 140 in excess of what it was during the same period of last year. The average daily attendance for April was 662 or 171 in excess of last year.

IN THE SHALLOWS.

My feet are in the shallows,
Sunk soft mid yellow sands,
The beads of yellow sunshine
Drip idly from my hands.

I watch the crimson sea dulce,
The dimpling eddies fleck,
And gather shells bright tinted
To circle brow and neck.

I match white, polished pebbles,
And laugh, to catch a glance—
Laugh back from gurgling ripples,
As to their time I dance.

Afar the winds are hasting,
The billows leap and roar;
They press in mighty transport
To clasp the sunset shore!

Afar the ships are sailing
Across the trackless blue,
'Neath skies whose stars are strangers
To lands I ever knew!

O depths stirred strong in passion!
O waves that toss and shine!
My feet are in the shallows—
Would God the sea were mine!

HIS OWN PORTRAIT.

How an Artist Paints a Picture of Himself.

It has been a common practice with artists of all ages and countries to paint their own pictures, and at the Uffizi gallery in Florence can be seen a magnificent collection of portraits of the world's great painters done by themselves. It is a coveted honor to be invited to contribute one's own portrait to this collection, for one must be eminent before this compliment is paid. As may be easily understood, painting one's own portrait is a somewhat troublesome task, for the painter must do a good deal from memory, especially if he puts himself in an attitude which it is difficult to reflect in a mirror. A straightforward portrait looking out of the picture is obviously the easiest to manage, for the painter has only to place the mirror in front of him to see his model.

Triple and quadruple mirrors must be employed when the attitude is in any way removed from full face. A profile would be more difficult to see for oneself, but a three-quarter face would be no less so, as in both cases the artist would be working from a reflection of a reflection, which, to say the least of it, is a bothering condition.

The looking at oneself for a long time is one of the strange and trying conditions of painting one's own portrait, for difficulties and complexities appear to grow the more one tries to grapple with them. Like the road to the tired traveler, which seems to lengthen as he goes, so the difficulties of painting oneself appear to increase rather than diminish the more one looks at oneself.

Apart from painting one's one portrait, artists largely draw from themselves, for a man can more easily assume a particular attitude than get another person to do so. Then for details, such as a hand, arm, nose, eye, the artist and a mirror supply all that is required. Another of the many uses of a mirror is to reverse the work during its progress, as reversing a drawing will often reveal an awkwardness, want of balance or faulty drawing, which might otherwise go undetected.

—Chicago News.

In answer to a correspondent Vick tells that currants, blackberries and raspberries can all be planted in October or November or in the spring. A currant bush can be divided into as many parts as will have some root attached, and each will make a plant. This can be done in fall or spring. In the case of fall planting of any of the plants mentioned it will be well to draw some soil up around each of them after setting out and to throw some leaves or litter over them to prevent action of frost.

The Rock Island Springs a Surprise On the Colorado Lines at Today's Meeting.

The Trans-Missouri Committee of the Western Passenger association is holding its annual meeting at the Brown Palace hotel. A surprise was sprung on the committee at the morning session, by General Passenger Agent Sebastian, of the Rock Island. Beginning about June 20, the Rock Island will run four excursions from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha to Colorado common points, making a rate of one fare plus $2 for the round trip and return limit of October 31st on the tickets. These excursions will be run as special excursion trains and about the same dates return excursions will be run from Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo to all eastern points, the same rate prevailing, thus enabling Colorado people desiring to do so to make tourist trips east during the summer, with the same advantages granted eastern tourists who come west.—Denver Times.

A number of Yakima county people left for Walla Walla on Thursday to attend United States court. Among others who went over were Messrs. Roberts, Slavin and Mondor of Tampico, who are witnesses in the timber cutting case against the Conrad brothers and J. B. Braden of this city who was called on to do jury duty.
