OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

IF the legislature at Olympia keeps up its present gait in the appropriation of public money, it will out do any of its notorious predecessors in that line. The amount already runs well up into the hundreds of thousands. The appropriation for instance of $121,000, which passed the house last week for the maintenance of the three normal schools of the state seems like an unusually large one. The young state of Washington has no business to have three normal schools any way, when one centrally located would answer the purpose better. Many states with three or four times our population have but one. The establishment of three schools in this state was the result of jobbery and trading among politicians a few years ago, when our first senators were being elected. It was a crime against the taxpayers of this commonwealth for which the republican party is answerable. That party however after receiving an emphatic rebuke at the hands of the people two years ago, has through the force of peculiar circumstances again secured a new lease of power in this state, but it will be only a very brief one if they persist in their present course, for thousands of voters in this state are not married to any party when they discover that their already great burdens of taxation have been perceptibly increased. The cause of such excessive appropriations generally originates in the fact that our legislatures are usually made up largely of two classes of men, ambitious politicians and selfish grafters. The former are actuated by a desire to succeed in politics and therefore to maintain their "pull" at home, think it necessary to secure their share of the spoils. The other class of course are animated only by a desire for personal gain. In the case of our own legislature, however, there is some hope in the taxpayers in the fact that there sits in the executive chair a man of unquestioned honesty and firmness of purpose, who will not hesitate to use in their behalf his constitutional prerogative.

EMBALMED beef and the methods by which it was foisted on the war department by dishonest contractors, the first exposure of which was made by Congressman James Hamilton Lewis—which caused our republican friends to laugh and sneer, is now one of the chief topics of discussion in congress and the eastern press. We reproduce in this issue an article from the Cleveland Plaindealer which completely vindicates our brilliant representative from the ugly charges which were made against him in the late campaign by certain men who were not only bent on defeating him politically, but in so smirching his character that he could be kept down in the future. With the aid of Algiers war department they succeeded in making out what many were persuaded to believe was a strong case against the doughty colonel, but the truth cannot always be hid and it now comes forth to vindicate this much maligned man in more ways than one. General Miles states positively that the meat was "rotten" and that he can prove it. It leaks out now that the special orders 25 to 29 inclusive in the adjutant general's office, under which Mr. Lewis condemned the meat at Newport News, "are missing from the files." All of which tends to show that our courageous congressman has been the victim of a conspiracy. Lewis however will rise again and shine in public life with greater brilliancy than ever, when his detractors are completely forgotten.

A cannery, pickle and starch factory are industries which Yakima needs very bad and which we will feel the need of more and more as the years go by. Such institutions if they were in operation here would save thousands of dollars worth of good raw material from going to waste in this valley annually and put money in the pockets of our farmers. From this time on, this county will produce hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of fruit per annum providing that it can find a profitable market. There will always be a large proportion unsalable in the green state that can be consumed by a cannery. As for the vegetables needed by such a plant, they can be grown here in the highest perfection and would prove a profitable crop for our small farmers. A starch making plant could certainly be made a paying investment here where potatoes are cheap and contain a much larger percentage of starch than eastern spuds. When we stop to reflect that there is not yet established in the Pacific northwest either a cannery or a starch factory and that a vast sum of money is sent east annually for the products of such institutions, we can see the advantage that such factories would be to this city. Let us agitate these matters and see if it is not possible to attract capital here that will establish such plants, if it is impossible to procure them in that way let us do it by co-operation.

THE passage of the McKinley resolution by the senate on Tuesday, while to some extent reassuring to the attitude of that body on the question of the absorption of the archipelago, will probably have but little weight in the solution of the problem as no one who has been well posted on the situation believes for a moment that it will deter the administration from carrying out its policy of permanent annexation. The resolution as passed follows: "That by the ratification of peace with Spain it is not intended to incorporate the inhabitants of the Philippine islands into citizenship of the United States, nor intended to permanently annex the said islands as an integral part of the territory of the United States, but it is the intention of the United States to establish on the said islands a government suitable to the wants and conditions of the inhabitants of the said islands, to prepare them for local self-government and in due time to make such disposition of the said islands as will best promote the interests of the citizens of the United States and the inhabitants of the said islands."

WHILE The Oregonian is without doubt, a most honest and devoted advocate of the gold standard, it cannot be charged with being a reckless advocate of a high protective tariff, especially where its own interests are largely affected. In a recent issue it shows up the iniquities of the paper trust that monster corporation which levies a wrongful tribute on every newspaper publisher of the country. The trust says "thunder" although protected by a heavy import duty under the Dingley law, managed to export last year in competition with the world 35,000,000 tons of paper, which fact ought to convince even the most rabid protectionist that the industry needs no protection at all. If congress does not remedy this great evil, says the Portland paper, paper will be sent there who will do it.

IF the legislature at Olympia is without giving the people some relief from extortionate freight rates, the republican party might as well hang up the white flag. Eastern Washington, ton.

CITIZEN.

Tampico Tattles.

Chinook winds are howling, the snow is rapidly disappearing and every little gully is filled with a yellow flood. It looks as though we are to have early spring and we are all thankful for it.

Sleighting parties are a thing of the past. Last week the streets and lanes of our town were enlivened by two big loads of merry young sleighriders, one headed by the Conrad brothers, who after an exciting ride brought up at the residence of E. A. Shanefelt where they enjoyed the remainder of the evening with a taffy pull and a few turns on the light fantastic. The other headed for the spacious home of Chas. Ander on where the time flew by in a very enjoyable manner. But now the boys have laid away their bobsleighs and are grinding their axes preparatory to an attack on the hop poles.

G. W. Cary, representing Coffin Bros., is enjoying the fresh breezes from the Tampico hills and taking a mid winter vacation of one day.

Glad to see the face of our old neighbor, B. C. Eglin among us again and hope that he will conclude to remain.

The Tampico Lyceum has settled several important questions this winter. A short time ago the members decided by a majority of one that the best thing to do with the Philippines would be to annex them to Tampico. It was agreed that this plan would relieve the government of a great many responsibilities and that we might at the same time secure a large tract of land suitable to hop cultivation and an abundance of cheap labor to work the same. The details of this plan have not all been matured, but the intellect of our citizens is settled upon the subject and everything will be provided for by the time the ground settles and the islands may be moved.

In the House of Commons.

Members are not allowed to refer to each other by name in debate. The only member who is properly addressed by name is the chairman who presides over the deliberations of the house in committee. On a member rising to speak in committee he begins with "Mr. Lowther," and not with "Mr. Chairman," as at public meetings. When the speaker is in the chair, the formula is "Mr. Speaker, sir."

In debate a member is distinguished by the office he holds, as "the right honorable gentleman the chancellor of the exchequer," or by the constituency he represents, as "the honorable gentleman the member for York." Some make use of the terms "My honorable friend" or "My right honorable friend." In case of family relations the same form is usually observed. Occasionally "My honorable relative" or "My right honorable relative" is heard, but "My right honorable father" or "My right honorable brother," though no doubt allowable, has not been hitherto used. —Nineteenth Century.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE.

Instructions Designed to Prevent Mistakes and Keep the Profits Up.

The sugar beet is an exacting crop and persons unfamiliar with the best methods of growing it have much to learn and will make many mistakes that will cut down the profits. With a view of helping those who are thinking of growing beets for the factories, the Cornell experiment station has prepared simple instructions, from which the following items are gleaned:

Sugar beets can be grown successfully on quite a variety of soils—gravelly loam, sandy loam, loam and clay loam—though a sandy loam is usually considered best suited to the crop. Any soil that is well adapted to potatoes will raise sugar beets.

Sugar beets should have a deep soil with a moderately porous subsoil. A shallow soil with a hard or water soaked subsoil is fatal to the crop. If the soil is not right in these respects, it may often be made so by thorough drainage and subsoil plowing.

The necessity of deep plowing cannot be emphasized too much in this connection. The sugar beet should bury itself in the soil the same as a parsnip, and it will do so if the soil conditions are right. If, however, the subsurface soil is hard or saturated with water, the tap root cannot penetrate into it, or if it does get down fairly well, it cannot expand freely in the hard soil, but expands in the direction of least resistance, which being upward the result is a short root, a considerable portion of which grows above the surface of the soil.

It is found that the upper portion of the beet, especially that part that grows above ground, is less rich in sugar than the part growing well in the soil, while this same part is highly charged with impurities that interfere seriously with the manufacture of sugar. The factory people aim to keep the impurities down by requiring that the portion of the beet growing above the surface of the ground be cut off. The aim should be to so prepare the land that the root can bury itself well in the soil. Thus will be secured not only a larger yield, but a smaller percentage of waste in the crown removed.

It is best to apply barn manure to the preceding crop rather than to the beets, but if used on the beet land it should be applied in the fall. An effect of the direct application of barn manure is the tendency to produce ill formed beets. Commercial fertilizers applied in the spring should be thoroughly incorporated with the soil. Observations made lead to the belief that commercial fertilizers applied on the surface have a tendency, like recently applied barn manure, to cause the development of "fingers and toes," as the ill shaped sprangly roots are called.

The Kleinwanzlebener and the Vilmorin have been most grown in this country and seem to be best adapted to our soil and conditions. It is customary to sow about 20 pounds of seed per acre, though if it all grows this is many times more than is needed. If dry weather follows the planting, only the best of the seed will germinate. If a crust is formed before the plants are up, they help one another to break through, hence the chances are much better for getting a good stand with heavy than with light seeding.

New York's River Tunnel.

There is a big hole under North river. Some day it will be a tunnel connecting this city and Hoboken. No work has been done for four years, but the owners of the hole are now trying to raise money in London to complete their tunnel before a bridge can be built over North river. Only 1,230 feet remain to connect the two holes bored from either shore, each of which is now full of water. This water has simply soaked through since work was abandoned on the death of the principal backer. So far $3,000,000 has been poured into the hole, and only $500,000 will be required to complete it. —New York Letter.

Visitors From Space.

Whatever be their origin, it would seem that these solid bodies (meteorites) are hurtling through space at velocities which may be anything between 10 and 40 miles a second. If they come near enough to this earth to be attracted by it, their course is changed, and presently they enter our atmosphere. The result is a sudden check to their speed, owing to the intense resistance and friction engendered by contact with the air particles.

What happens may be likened to the sudden application of the wooden brake block to the rapidly moving wheel of an express train. Heat is generated in exchange for motion, and the trail of sparks from the checked wheel is represented in the checked meteorite by a luminous trail. We commonly call it a shooting star, and if its mass be small it is possibly altogether dissipated in heat and gas, or it may ultimately find its way to our earth as dust. Such "meteoric dust" has been found on the eternal snow of mountains, where dust of the ordinary type would be impossible. If, on the other hand, the mass of matter be large, its surface only will be affected by the sudden heat generated, and it may fall to the ground entire or possibly explode and be scattered in fragments over a wide area. —Chambers' Journal.

The Blue Hole of Kentucky.

One of the places in our neighborhood which is shunned alike by saint and sinner is the old spring near our town, in Logan county, known as the Blue hole. Though legendary, the story I shall relate of this spring is true, for it has been corroborated by the former generation, by the older men of the present century. According to this story, when the Shaker village at South Union was first established by a few venturesome though hardy pioneers, a member of the sect was dispatched on horseback to put the money in a safe in the county capital.

When the treasure bearer reached the spring, he rode his horse in to give it water, but rider and animal were swallowed up, never to rise again. It is said that the Shaker's friends used as much as 500 feet of rope in an attempt to recover the body and coin, but never struck bottom. I myself have heard old men say they have tried to find the bottom of the spring by using hundreds of feet of cord and a lead sinker, but without success. —Auburn (Ky.) News.

The Man That Knows.

"There are some men," said Mr. Staybolt, "that always know about things. They have a power of judgment that amounts to genius. They discern the truth unerringly. They know what is right and what is wrong in a question, and they know it at the outset without waiting for the event. They range themselves not with confidence, but with knowledge, and however the clouds may lower they are not disturbed. Indeed they rather like the storm, for they know when the end will be."

"They are more powerful than other men because they are unhampered by doubts. They don't doubt, they know, and men follow them, as they always will. Everybody admires a man that knows and is sure about it." —New York Sun.

Killed His Sentiment.

A newspaper correspondent at the battle of Atbara tells a good story about a couple of Scotchmen. He was walking softly about the camp so as not to disturb the sleepers on the night before the fight when he overheard a sentimental Seaforth highlander say to a comrade:

"Ah, Tam, how many thousands there are at home across the sea thinking o' us the night."

"Right, Sandy," replied his chum, "and how many millions there are that don't care a d—n. Go to sleep, you fool."

And silence fell upon that corner of the square.

The colored quartette, in negro melodies and pantomime acting called forth tremendous applause from the audience, many declaring that it was the richest treat of its kind they had ever heard. Their imitation of a caliope was especially good. It was a splendid performance on the whole and deserved a much better patronage than it received in Yakima. Those who prejudged the show and pronounced it as "no good" missed the best theatrical treat we have had this winter.

The Gray-Mantz senatorial contest has been referred to the supreme court. The question being too weighty for the mental capacity of the senate,—Vancouver Register.

So a republican legislature has passed a resolution favoring an amendment to the constitution of the state instituting direct legislation under the initiative and referendum system. Verily, "the world do move."—Olympia Capital.

Hereafter the associated press dispatches will pay little or no attention to the sayings or doings of Wm. J. Bryan. If the people of a whole state should turn out to greet him, and he should discuss the most important questions of the hour with greater ability and power than any other American, a small paragraph announcing it a tame affair, is all that the associated press will have to say about it. The great monopoly desires to throttle Mr. Bryan effectually.—Centralia News.

In the engagement between the American troops and Filipinos last Sunday one man in Co. H was killed. His name was Arne H. Moeckel and he was a resident of Roslyn, where he was in the barber business. Second Lieut. Joe Smith of Co. H. was slightly wounded. Smith is a resident of Spokane, and was promoted from sergeant major to second lieutenant of Co. H upon the discharge of Lieut. Davidson.—Ellensburg Localizer.

In a famous lecture Henry Ward Beecher once said: "The thoughtless farmer permits his potatoes to rot in the cellar. The arising miasma finds its way through the floor and permeates carpets and furniture and beds. Baby falls sick of a fever, and presently is carried tenderly to its tiny mound in the cemetery. Its grief-stricken parents mourn for a season, and finally become reconciled with the consoling thought that it is all somehow a providence of God. It is no such thing. God had nothing to do with it. It is all due to rotten potatoes."

A newly married editor gets off the following joke: "What is the difference between a honey comb, a honeymoon and a pretty girl? A honey comb is a sell, a honeymoon is a big sell and a pretty girl is a damsel."

Rubbing it in the P. I.

It is interesting now to note that the P.-I.'s effort to beat Lewis, in order to leave Seattle open for senatorial favors and for the schemes of the owners of the P.-I., and after all leaving Seattle without a friend in congress. Are the people of Seattle who voted against Lewis because he criticized the administration willing to take the loss upon themselves and their whole city as a revenge upon a citizen for exercising the constitutional duty of a member of Congress of criticizing the administration when it is wrong? Particularly when it has been so justified by subsequent events.

It is interesting also to note in remembrance of how the P.-I. accused Lewis of lying about the Wilson lie and bill during the late campaign and at the same time to note that the same P.-I. editorially condemns the bill as a railroad measure from top to bottom, just what Lewis had said about it during the campaign.

According to the P.-I. Lewis is lying about Wilson when Lewis is to be defeated; but Lewis' statements are true and Wilson is the liar when Wilson is to be defeated.

Thus the public is forced to believe that consistency thy name is not P.-I.—Seattle Review.

At twenty, when a man is young, he thinks he knows it all: he likes to wag his active tongue and exercise his gall: he struts around in noble rags—the world is all his own; he laughs in scorn the world of age, and lists to self alone. He wears a window in his eye to see his moustache grow; he thinks the ladies pine and die because they love him so. At forty, as you may suppose, he bucks down to biz, but its not till sixty th t he knows just how big a fool he is—Centralia News.

What a roasting the Post Intelligencer is getting from almost all of the weekly press of the state. Even the "cuckoo" republican weeklies, that formerly never expressed an original idea but took their cue from the big bully, have had the scales removed from their eyes and now see it in its true character—the boss of a ring of unscrupulous grafters.—Everett News.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says. "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This is supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headaches, backaches, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Louis O. Janeck, druggist.

John Milton's Portrait.

John Milton's harmonical and ingenious soul did lodge in a beautiful and well proportioned body. He was a spare man. He had auburn (auburn) hair. His complexion exceeding faire—he was so faire that they called him "the lady of Christ's College." Oval face. His eye adarke gray. He had a delicate tuneable voice, and had good skill. His father instructed him. He had an organ in his howse; he played on that most. Of a very cheerful humour.—He would be cheerful even in his gowtefitts, and sing. He was very healthy and free from all diseases: seldom took any physque, (only sometimes he took manna:) only toward his latter end he was visited with the gowte, spring and fall. He had a very good memorie, but I beleve that his excellent method of thinking and disposing did much to helpe his memorie. He pronounced the letter R (littera canina) very hard—a certaine sine of a satyricall witt. Temperate man, rarely drank between meales. Extreme pleasant in his conversation, and at dinner, supper, etc., but satyricall.—Aubrey's "Brief Lives."

Told on Kentucky Legislators.

A member of the late legislature from southern Kentucky was invited one evening to participate in a Welsh rabbit lunch at the Capitol hotel. Diking himself out, he awaited the hour. With that prince of good fellows, Tutt Burman, he walked into the dining room, where coffee and rabbits were served standing. After partaking of one or two and a cup of coffee, he remarked to Tutt: "This is no rabbit. It's nothing but fried cheese and light bread." It is useless to say that member never attended any more lunches.

On another occasion the assembly balls or germans, which were given every Tuesday night, attracted the attention of a mountain member, and he asked, "Whar are all them people goin that are goin up stairs?" Some one remarked up to the german. "The — you say. Do they let the Dutch dance here?"—Owenton (Ky.) News.

Reid Scores Windsor.

EVERETT, Feb. 9, 1899.

Editor The Times: Judge Windsor in his "open letter" to H. T. Jones et al., published in your issue of the 4th inst., goes out of his way to throw a stone at W. J. Bryan. He says that Mr. Bryan "has recently made such a blunder as to absolutely prohibit his usefulness as a leader in the future." Evidently the blunder referred to is Mr. Bryan's opposition to the policy of "expansion." As a member of the same party of which judge Windsor is a distinguished member I dissent, emphatically, from his ex cathedra utterance. I believe that Mr. Bryan in opposing the policy of "imperialism" has given evidence that he is a statesman and not a shallow or time-serving politician; that he is a man of nerve and moral fibre, who will not surrender to the folly and insanity of the hour, but will "stand foursquare to all the winds that blow;" in other words, a real trustworthy and true "heaven born" leader, and not "a blind leader of the blind."

Should the People's Party join Judge Windsor in condemning Mr. Bryan's position on this question, and lock arms with the "imperialists," it will by the same act have torn the Omaha platform into shreds and trampled the shreds under foot. I can understand how republicans can logically advocate the policy of territorial aggrandizement, and completing the work they have begun of building here in the New World a world empire dedicated to strengthening and perpetuating the service and power of Mammon, whose throne rests on the murdered bodies and souls of men, women and little children—but I cannot understand how populists can advocate that policy. I had thought that the people's party advocated the policy, the duty, of converting the heathen in this country, of whom there are millions, before undertaking the task of converting the heathen beyond the seas. We need that justice and righteousness should be established as the foundation of the state here, before undertaking the missionary (?) work advocated.

I had thought the people's party was the organized protest of the awakening spiritual man against the danger that threatened the people from the ruthless and devouring spirit of commercial greed, and taught the duty and glory of developing a noble manhood and womanhood—a Spartan state rather than a Babylonish empire.

Let the people's party beware of this red herring which the Devil (the Prince of this World) has drawn across the path it was traveling. Let it refuse this Devil's bait, and prove true to the spirit that gave it birth; and so escape the fire that now threatens to consume "this false modern world." Judge Frank Reid in Seattle Times.

An Interesting Trial.

Henry Goetjen was arraigned by Commissioner Howlett on Saturday charged with the crime of selling whiskey to Siwash. He was bound over to appear in the district court at Tacoma on Monday and was taken to the "city of destiny" by Marshal Dilley on Sunday night. The trial of Goeten was made the occasion of a fistic duel between Deputy Dilley and attorney D. L. Crowder, who appeared as counsel for the accused. The row seems to have started from an objection raised by Dilley to Crowder's appearance in the case and from hot words the two men soon came to blows, seemingly oblivious of the fact, that they were desecrating a "temple of justice." When matters had seemed to reach a climax, Judge Taggard who was sitting in a rear room rushed out and interposed his two hundred odd pounds of avurdo-pois between the angry belligerents and in the name of the law demanded the peace. After the dignity of the court had been re-established and everybody quieted down, Commissioner Howlett disbarred Mr. Crowder as counsel in the case. At the prisoner's request Col. Miller was then sent for and acted as counsel for the accused.

A Pleasant Affair.

The marriage of Miss Nettie E. Wheeler, of this city, to James J. Bigger, of Spokane, was duly solemnized by the Rev. A. H. Lyons, of the Baptist church, on Thursday evening. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. J. S. M. Foster and was attended by about thirty invited guests. The presents were numerous and beautiful. The newly wedded couple left the same night for Spokane which city will be their future home. They were escorted to the depot by a merry party of friends who literally covered them with rice as they stepped upon the train. THE DEMOCRAT sends its congratulations to the happy couple. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. James, Mr. and Mrs. John Michels, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Grist, Mrs. Anna James, Mrs. J. Mull, Misses Younger, Michels, Jacobs, Phillips, Mull, Foster and Hazel James. Messer Marr, McCormick, Weikel, Merwin, Dixon, Saylor, Mull and Whitehead. Gold in the Hog Ranch.

No one would have ever thought that gold would be found on the "hog ranch," which as nearly every one knows is located about 15 miles east of this city over the Moxee divide. The discovery of free gold quartz was made some time ago in that neighborhood but the secret has been well guarded until recently. Mr. P. J. Flint who is largely interested in mining enterprises, became interested in the find and sent away some of the out cropping rock for an assay. The result shows $7 per ton in gold, which is considered a good showing considering the fact that it was surface rock. It is said that the gold can be traced to quite a distance. Mr. Flint we are informed has located a claim and H. B. Seudder and D. E. Lesh visited the "ranch" on Thursday with the intention of staking out claims also. The ledge is said to be situated partly on government land and partly on a homestead owned by George Ker.
