LANDS DORF SAYS NO

Russian Foreign Minister Politely Declines all Offers of Intervention.

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 13.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Telegraph states that the Russian minister, Count Lansdorf, has sent his reply to the United States in regard to the proposition of having the Russo-Japanese difficulty decided according to the provisions of the Hague convention. The foreign minister states, according to the report, that he is grateful for the intervention, but that he believes the same to be inopportune.

This dispatch contains the first statement that President Roosevelt has tendered his good offices to the Russians government with a view to mediation. No confirmation of the report is obtainable from any of the available sources at Washington. It may be assumed, therefore, that the correspondent of the Telegraph refers to the invitation sent by President Roosevelt to St. Petersburg for attendance at the second peace conference at The Hague.

Electric Engine Makes Fast Time.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Saturday, Nov. 12.—The big electric locomotive built for the New York Central Railroad by the General Electric Company attained a speed of seventy-five miles an hour today in its official test here. The run was made over a specially prepared four-mile track. It is declared that the locomotive can make ninety mile an hour on a longer stretch of rail. Several races were held between the electric and a steam engine, and the new creation proved a marvel and more than the equal of its rival. With a train of nine heavy Pullman cars attached the electric locomotive beat out an engine of the New York Central company running alone, and picked up a speed of more than sixty miles in less than two hours with a train of 400 tons attached to it.

A Man Who Can't Sleep.

TRENTON, N. J., Saturday, Nov. 12.—Albert Herpin, of this city, who says he has not slept a wink in ten years, will undertake to prove himself the sleepless wonder and at the same time win a bet of $10,000 made by a Chicago specialist that he cannot keep awake thirty-one days.

The test is to commence in this city February 28 next. The money has been put up by R. C. Corbin of Chicago and four physicians will "sit up" with Herpin for the purpose of making sure that he does not steal a nap.

Herpin's wakefulness dates back ten years to the time when his wife died.

His nerves were affected so much he could not sleep and he kept awake so long that he could not get into the habit of sleeping again.

TO BUY VIRGINIA HOME

President Roosevelt Negotiating for an Estate Near the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Nov. 13.—President Roosevelt has been contemplating for some time the purchase of a country house in Virginia, about three miles south of Washington. It is on the line of a trolley road now under construction and near the estate of Surgeon-General Rixey of the navy. At the White House it was stated that while efforts had been made by the President to buy the estate, Mr. Roosevelt had not come to any conclusion in the matter. The owner of the land wants more than $100,000 for his property.

Since the report got abroad in the neighborhood that the President would purchase a home there, property has doubled in value.

Big Battle in Prospect.

ROME, Sunday, Nov. 12.—The army organ Militaire publishes a dispatch from Mukden stating that the Japanese and the Russian army south of Mukden have been filled by reinforcements and that over 600,000 combatants will be engaged in the next battle. The paper also publishes a rumor to the effect that a snotia of Cossacks has been cut off and massacred by the Manchus.

Until Noon Sunday.

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 13.—A report from Tokio asserts that General Nogi has given the Russian garrison in Port Arthur until noon today to accept terms of surrender he has offered. Failing acceptance by that time, the report adds, the Japanese will commence what is believed will be the final bombardment of the fortress.

Japs Lose Two Gunboats.

ROME, Sunday, Nov. 13.—The Chefoo correspondent of the paper Italia cables that the Japanese lost two gunboats off Port Arthur. The bombardment of the fortress continues with unabated fury. Violent explosions occurred in the town on Friday. Their source is not known in Chefoo.

Working to Get Acreage.

The committee in charge of the soliciting for beet sugar acreage held a meeting Saturday night in the Commercial club rooms. They expected to receive a report at that time from all the solicitors who have been at work upon the proposition, but only a very few reported. So far only 200 acres have been contracted for. The reservation has not yet been heard from but the committee expects to get in the neighborhood of 2500 acres from that section. Those who are now working to secure acreage are R. J. Harrison, Al Whitson, L. C. Deeringhoff, O. Beck, and Mr. Prein the agriculturist for the company.

IS IT SUICIDE?

Taylor Piles, Colored, Well Known in this Community is Found Floating in the City Reservoir.

The body of Taylor Piles who was a well known colored man of this city, was found in the city reservoir late Sunday afternoon. The discovery of the body was made by a passerby who informed the workmen at the power house. The body was at once identified as being that of Taylor Piles, a colored laborer of this city who lived with his family on south Fourth street. The dead man's wife said on being informed of the finding of her husband's body that he had been missing from home since last Sunday night. The body when found although nearly submerged in the water was in a fair state of preservation. The corpse was taken to Shaw & Flint's morgue last evening on the order of Coroner Frank. The coroner regards it as almost a plain case of suicide and it is not likely that any formal inquest over the remains will be deemed necessary.

The deceased was a well known character of the city which had been his home for a number of years. He made a living working around at odd jobs and was rather strongly addicted to the flowing bowl. He was 56 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

There is naturally some speculation as to how Piles met his death. Some people who knew the deceased well scout the idea of suicide and assume that he staggered into the reservoir while in an intoxicated condition. Others think that the man deliberately committed suicide. The water in the reservoir at the point where the body was found was only about seven feet deep. After the discovery of Taylor's remains Supt. Arrowsmith of the Light and Water company at once had the reservoir drained.

The dead man's funeral will probably be held this afternoon from the morgue.

A Tie Game.

Yakima and Ellensburg battled against each other on the gridiron last Saturday afternoon in a vain effort to land the pigskin behind the others goal line. Neither team scored. At the end of thirty minute halves the score stood 0 to 0. The Ellensburg Normal team played very good football and as a matter of fact they were playing against a heavier team. Both sides fumbled badly at critical moments. The Yakima team kept the ball in Ellensburg's territory most of the time except the last part of the second half when the visitors seemed to have no opposition and had carried the ball down the field by straight line bucking to within five feet of the enemy's goal line when time was called. Earnest Pentz, captain and fullback of the local eleven, Carl Shaw, Dudley and Arendt played good ball for the home team. Pentz tackles too high as in fact do all the boys. Their interference is poor and needs coaching. They should play together with more concerted action. The Ellensburg team would be helpless without their quarterback, Merryman. He is a heady little player. Davidson their left halfback is a whirlwind and Wilson who plays right end is good. The same criticism would apply to the visiting team in regard to tackling and lack of concerted playing. Next Friday afternoon the Yakima eleven will go to Ellensburg to meet the Normal boys on their own grounds. Yakima expects to win this time.

Work Has Been Stopped.

Building operations have been temporarily postponed on the new Methodist church owing to the fact that the order for the iron work has not been filled and will not be for some time. As soon as this iron arrives work will be resumed, unless cold weather sets in, which will necessarily retard the work and probably cause a lay off of all workmen until next spring.

Mrs. Dan Arnold entertained a number of friends at her home on north Third street Saturday evening.

BIG HOP DEAL

The Biggest Hop Deal of the Year Reported to Have Been Made Here Saturday.

TACOMA, Nov. 12.—The largest transaction in hops made in the United States this season was the purchase today by Isaac Pineus & Son and Herman Klobber & Co. of Tacoma, of what is known as the Moxee crop at North Yakima. It consisted of 1100 bales, 250,000 pounds. The price paid, it is said, was 30 cents a pound, though the exact terms of the sale are kept secret. One of the buyers said this afternoon that $50,000 in cash was paid, and there was a small additional cash payment to be made.

The deal perceptibly strengthened the market and stiffer prices will rule for the remaining hops in the state. The companies bought the hops for the purposes of speculation, and they may be kept stored in hop houses until next spring or the early summer.

The purchase cleans out the hops in the hands of growers of the state down to 8,000 bales, of which 5000 bales are in the Yakima country and 3,000 bales in hop districts of the west side. A leading dealer said today there were but 11,000 bales unsold in Oregon and 4,000 bales in California. Last season at this time there were 11,000 bales in Washington, 30,000 bales in Oregon and 8,000 bales in California.

Representatives of Isaac Pineus & Son and Herman Klobber & Co. are in the city today. They were seen by a reporter for the Democrat and asked to verify the above statement. They simply said that part of it was true and they did not care to say anything further in regard to the matter at this time.

City Election Dec. 6.

The annual city election will occur Tuesday, Dec. 6. The registration books in the city clerk's office will close 20 days prior to that date, which will be Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 4 o'clock, p. m. The officers to be elected are as follows: Mayor, clerk, treasurer, attorney, health officer, and four councilmen. There is little or no public talk so far, as to the personnel of candidates. It seems to be taken for granted that most of the incumbent officials will be candidates to succeed themselves.

The most interesting phase of the election this year will probably be the proposition that is to be re-submitted by the council of the vote on the sewer and drainage question. This was turned down at the special election held last June but the city fathers believe that public sentiment has changed on the question to such an extent that it will carry if the people get another chance to vote on it.

SUNNYSIDE NOTES.

Rev. E. J. Baird left yesterday for his new field of labor in Pomeroy, Wn. The Episcopal church here has prospered during his rectorship.

R. L. Reese, who has been sick with typhoid fever for six weeks or more, is still confined to his bed. Word received from the sick chamber today indicates a decided improvement.

The water has already been shut off for the winter in most of the irrigating ditches of the county. The Congdon ditch will be shut off tomorrow, Nov. 15.

While Swinging on a Moving Freight Train, Young Man Slips and Loses a Leg.

Avery Collett, the 15 year old son of Mrs. William Herrington of No. 516 North First street, fell under a moving freight train about ten o'clock Saturday and had his right leg crushed so badly that it became necessary to amputate it. The boy has been playing around the yards jumping on and off the moving trains for some time. Saturday morning while indulging in his accustomed practice he made a fatal misstep which has cost him his right limb. His leg was crushed above the knee. He is now in the Deaconess hospital receiving medical attention.

A. J. SPLAWN EXTENDS THANKS.

Cowiche, Wash., Nov. 12.

Editor Democrat:
I wish through the columns of your paper to extend my sincere thanks to those golden-hearted friends who so faithfully supported me at the late election; they will always have a warm place in my heart.

After cutting off a thousand of their great majority in this county I failed of reelection. A reasonable majority would not have been in my way, a large majority I could still have beat, but the overwhelming, brutal majority of last Tuesday I could not overcome.

Yours truly,

A. J. SPLAWN.

THE SOCIAL COLUMN.

Miss Jessie Patton will entertain this afternoon in honor of Miss Lilly Bogle of Seattle.

Mrs. C. C. Millard leaves this afternoon for her home in the east after a visit here among relatives and friends. She has been the recipient of many social functions given in her honor.

Mrs. A. E. Kinsey gave her little daughter Ruth a tally-ho party Saturday evening. Miss Ruth invited all of her boy and girl friends and the good time they had was simply indescribable.

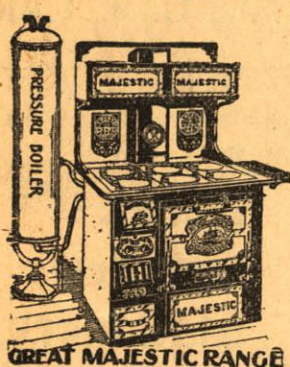

Mrs. E. G. Tennant chaperoned the little folks who were driven all around the city and upon Nob Hill. After the drive they repaired to the Kinsey home on north Sixth street where dainty delicacies had been prepared and were in waiting for them. These consisted of sweet pickles, salted almonds, sandwiches, chocolate and cake. Those who were members of the party follow: The Misses Irene Palmer, Florence Erwin, Blanche Wolcott, Iris Barthollett, Jessie Hatch, Margaret Jennings, Belle Bronlette, Vera Hill, Mabel Hough; also Master Harold Sharkey, Howard Case, William Horsley, Herbert Angevine, Phillip Englehart, Edward Parker, Arthur Forsythe, Harper Grimes, and Miss Ruth Kinsey.

The luncheon given by Mrs. Miles Cannon in honor of Mrs. C. C. Millard and Mrs. Mary Coburn last Friday afternoon was one of the social successes of the season.

Mrs. N. S. Johnson, in her usual elaborate manner, entertained a gathering of twenty-five ladies in her large and spacious dining room Saturday afternoon at a "German luncheon," given in honor of Mrs. C. C. Millard. It was a typical German affair and the menu consisted of native German dishes. Mrs. Johnson always entertains in elegant style and on this occasion the guests were amazed at the ingenuity displayed in the unique arrangement of the dining room and the beautiful table decorations. Mrs. Johnson entertained with lavishness. Nothing that could have been done to lend lustre and brilliancy to the general effect was neglected. In the dining room where had assembled the guests to partake of the "Jutch" delicacies. Mrs. Johnson, arrayed in a magnificent Parisian gown presided with grace and composure. She gave a toast to the departing guest of honor to which Mrs. Millard responded in a very happy vein. Mrs. Wallis Williams then proposed a toast to Mrs. Johnson. This naturally met with spontaneous accord from all those present, and Mrs. Johnson was toasted to the full. At this period Mrs. Schindler was introduced and sang with native feeling the German national air, "Wacht On Rhine." Mrs. George Donald delivered an apt German quotation. Mrs. J. P. Crawford gave a German toast. Others responded with equal alacrity. Following the luncheon the guests were taken to Mrs. Johnson's finely furnished parlors where the game of "blind whist" was played. The parlors presented a scene of magnificence. The chrysanthemums were large and fluffy and in abundance. Mrs. Murray B. Miles won the first prize, a Rookwood teapot; Mrs. Millard was given the guest of honor prize consisting of a black lace collar and a Haviland china cup and saucer.

Late in the afternoon the guests reluctantly took leave of Mrs. Johnson who received overtaxing congratulations upon the success of her entertainment.

Space will not permit the printing of names of those present. Suffice to say that at least seventy five of Yakima's "four hundred" was there much to their delight.

Some women buy a steel range because it looks attractive as it stands on the store floor. Lots of nickel plating to show it off and catch the eye. Did you ever stop to consider how much this nickel plating costs? How hard it is to keep clean? How much it improves the Cooking Quality of the Range?

ABOUT A COMMISSION LAW.

The P-I. comes out editorially with the demand that the incoming legislature pass a railway commission bill.

There is not much likelihood that such a bill pass the newly elected legislature which will be almost solidly Republican. There are numerous reasons for believing that this is so. In the first place the Republican politicians can point to the returns of the late election and say that a majority of the voters of this state are not in favor of such a law. In the second place the passage of such a law would prevent a considerable number of shyster politicians connected with the lobby from continuing to gain a livelihood as easily as at present and all the influence at their command can therefore be counted upon in opposition to a commission bill. Should a commission law be passed these men, like Othello, would find their occupation gone. In the third place the west side is still as much opposed to a commission as ever and that portion has two thirds of the membership of the legislature and dominates the policy of the party in the state. In the fourth place there is no reason to believe that the railroad people themselves will stand for any such a program. If they do, it may readily be assumed in advance that the new law will be a measure without teeth and that it will be passed more for the purpose of bringing discredit upon the commission cause than for any serious intention of regulating the railroads. The fact that the P-I. is now advocating such a measure greatly strengthens this view of the case.

It would be a good thing if an honest commission law could be passed, no matter which party should enact it. Such a law would not only give needed relief to producers and shippers but would take this annoying question to a great extent out of politics and do much to break up the corrupt lobby that surrounds the legislature every session like birds of carrion.

THE OREGONIAN "BUTTS" IN.

The paper (Spokesman-Review) can recover itself, and The Oregonian really wishes it may. But George Turner cannot. Of all the cheap and nasty little fights against plain judgment and common sense that have been made in recent years and since the collapse of the silver craze, this anti-railway fight in Washington has been about the most irrational. Washington is a state that owes everything (except its scurvy politicians) to the railroads. They have made it what it is, and without them it would still be nothing. They are serving it well, at moderate rates, and they want only fair treatment. Attacked by unscrupulous politicians and newspapers, they naturally will retaliate. Why shouldn't they?

The above is from the Oregonian, the Thunderer, as it is sometimes called. The Oregonian, is, of course, a railroad sympathizer and ever has been since the early days when the O. R. & N. became a dominant factor in the politics of the "Webfoot" state. The Oregonian, of the act, contains tenfold more of the act, continues to interfere in the internal affairs of this state, a policy that is without doubt dictated by its solicitude for the interests of the railroads. The Oregonian being an Oregon institution, ought to confine itself to the affairs of its own backward, moss covered state and allow the people of Washington to choose their own officers unimpeded by wholly gratuitous, unasked advice from outsiders. The Oregonian's policy towards the people of a neighboring state is unparalleled in the history of American journalism.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS PARTY.

The statement made by President Roosevelt on the night of election day, that he would not again be a candidate for the presidency is without precedent. There was no occasion, apparently why he should give out such a statement, unless he was perfectly sincere in making it and doubtless he is.

The President in thus committing himself evidently has a purpose in view. It must be that he wishes the politicians of his own party to understand that he will not be under obligations to them for the next four years and that he proposes to conduct the next administration solely upon lines which he himself lays down. He will not be in a position where he will be compelled to seek the favor of the politicians and can therefore act independently. Mr. Roosevelt is a good deal of an idealist even if he has proved himself to be a most masterful politician, and with his imperious temperament it frets and worries him to feel that he is hampered by the demands of the politicians who are merely looking out for their own welfare.

It would not be at all surprising if a serious rupture should occur between the President and his party during the next administration. Barring Jackson, perhaps no more self willed president has ever occupied the white house than Theodore Roosevelt. He does not and never has pleased the spoilsman of his own party and he is less likely to try to please them henceforth for without the expectation of another term he can get along with out them. There is likely to be something doing within the ranks of the g. o. p. between now and 1908.

THE SENATORIAL FIGHT BEGINS.

There promises to be something doing this winter in the Senatorial fight to be pulled off at Olympia. Senator Foster, is, of course, a candidate to succeed himself and there are already not less than four other active candidates in the field who are anxious to deprive him of his toga, besides a number of dark horses, who are awaiting an opportunity to butt into the race.

Two millionaires of Spokane have announced their candidacy for the Senate. Sweeney and Campbell. Then there is John L. Wilson, now of Seattle, who is a standing candidate. Wilson cannot get actively in the race, however, until Attorney Sam Piles has first had a fling at the Senatorship, as the latter has the King county delegates tied up under instructions. There is little likelihood though that Piles can be elected and when he fails Wilson hopes to inherit his strength. The fight is likely to simmer down to a contest between Foster, Wilson and Sweeney, each of whom will doubtless have one of the big counties of the state behind him. It promises to be a bitter fight in which the "long green," as usual, will in all probability be the determining factor. This is an outlook which the professional politicians regard with perfect equanimity.

PREVIOUS LANDSLIDES.

Great as Mr. Roosevelt's majority in the electoral college is, it is by no means unprecedented.

In 1820 James Monroe received 231 electoral votes to one cast for John Quincy Adams, a majority of 230.

In 1840 William Henry Harrison received 234 votes to 60 for Martin Van Buren, a majority of 174.

In 1852 Franklin Pierce received 254 votes to 42 for Winfield Scott, a majority of 212.

In 1864 Abraham Lincoln received 212 votes to 21 for George B. McClellan, a majority of 191.

In the election of 1872 Grant received 286 votes, while 80 Greeley electors were chosen whose votes were divided when the college met by reason of Greeley's death, Grant's majority being 206.

Owing to the consummate genius and mighty "influence" of Editor Robertson of the Republic, Sheriff Grant, upon whom he made such an outrageous fight, is the only democrat elected in the county. His opponent, Hal Webber, is as good and true a man as was ever nominated for a public office, and it is to be regretted that he should be defeated by the foolish tactics of his pretended friends.—Sunnyside Sun.

It should not be forgotten that Mr. Roosevelt has badly shattered a favorite tradition in this country, to wit: that no accidental president could succeed himself in the white house. The man of destiny has put that old saying into innocuous desuetude.

REFLECTIONS ON THE ELECTION.

The result of the election follows naturally from the apparent prosperity of the country, which gave to the party in power an advantage which it is never easy to overcome. Many republicans refused to take Mr. Roosevelt seriously in his own pose as the Lord of the Big Stick and Regulator of the Western Hemisphere. They gayly declined to believe that, if elected, he will continue "the same" extravagant use of the public money. They looked upon him as honest and well-meaning, however headstrong and erratic, and the vote shows that the majority of the people admired him. They put aside the Cortelyou scandal with the cynical assertion that the other party was "just as bad," and held all fair in politics as in war. Their attitude and feeling may have been lamentable, but there you are!

It can truly be said of the people's choice of Mr. Roosevelt, as Disraeli said of the man who married a second time: "It is a triumph of hope over experience." If President Roosevelt will be satisfied with this splendid vote of confidence, the climax of his whole career, the greatest personal triumph ever won by any President—if he will strive for four years for the place in history to which his earlier ideals would have bid him aspire—the popular mandate resisted and deplored by democrats and independents may yet redound to the welfare and the true glory of the Republic. His announcement that he will not be a candidate for reelection is a first firm and most sagacious step in the right direction.—N. Y. World.

SIDELIGHTS ON STATE POLITICS.

Some self styled railroad commission men who supported the railroad ticket last Tuesday are in print now with the prediction that the next legislature will pass an appointive, regulative railroad commission bill. Maybe so; but just why a party which is not pledged to pass such a bill should pass it, after refusing to pass it when it was pledged, is not clear to the mind of anybody save a railroad commission man who could see his way clear to support the railroad ticket.

Still, the legislature might pass such a bill. The fact that the railroad candidate for governor was cut in every county in the state, and that the democratic candidate ran about 25,000 votes ahead of the democratic national ticket may sober the republican leaders and cause them to steer a safer course by putting on the statute books a measure which is so obviously demanded by the people, regardless of their political affiliations.

The railroads have not the incentive to oppose the bill that they have previously had. Governor Mead owes his nomination to them, and in selecting a commission, no reasonable man supposes he would do anything to injure his creators. With the strongest kind of a commission bill, the railroads would be safe during Governor Mead's four year term, and they could devote those four years toward building up a machine to capture the next republican state convention and naming Governor Mead's successor.

It should not be forgotten, however, that J. D. Farrell, when he made his famous midnight ride to the Tacoma convention, forbade positively the insertion of a commission plank in the republican state platform, even though his prohibition forced B. D. Crocker, Mr. Farrell's first choice for governor, to decline further to be a candidate.

Mr. Farrell has no interest in preserving the integrity of the republican party, for he is a democrat. Most of the west side members of the legislature are men who have a railroad string on them, because they were nominated in county conventions which the railroads controlled. It would be passing strange if the railroads, under the leadership of a democrat, would permit a legislature which they so obviously control to pass a commission bill for the mere purpose of strengthening the republican party.

However, the question is squarely up to Mr. Farrell. If he says a commission will be passed, it will be passed, and Great Northern attorneys will draft the bill. If he forbids its passage, it will not be passed. There isn't a politician in the state with a grain of sense who doesn't know this to be true.

The more likely result of the legislature's session will be the passage of a "toothless" tax commission bill, much along the lines of the one which Governor McBride vetoed two years ago. The republican state platform, with Mr. Farrell's consent, contained a milk and water plank declaring for a tax commission, and the leaders will probably make a bluff at carrying out that declaration.

The prospect is for the hardest fight over the senatorship ever witnessed in the state. That contest will probably overshadow everything else in the minds of the legislators. With two millionaire candidates and a number of other candidates with more or less money or corporate support, the railroad commission bill is likely to be lost in the shuffle.

King county was told that in order to get a senator she must give Mr. Mead a majority. Mr. Mead himself told the voters of Pierce county that the way for them to get the senator was to vote for him for governor. King and Pierce both voted for Mr. Mead, but, sad to relate, there is only one senatorship to give out, and both can not get it.

Moreover, if Charles Sweeney has his way, neither King nor Pierce will get the senatorship. Mr. Sweeney hails from a county which did not give Mr. Mead a majority at all, but he has at least 12 republican members of the legislature from his own county behind him, as well as a bunch of powerful state politicians, who want neither a King nor a Pierce county man. He has more money than any other senatorial aspirant, save possibly Jacob Furth of Seattle.

The senatorial game which was worked in Mr. Mead's interest in both King and Pierce counties was "guff" pure and simple. Every Ankeny man in the state "knifed" J. M. Frink, the republican nominee for governor in 1900, and yet when the next vacancy occurred, Ankeny won the senatorship in a walk. If Mr. Sweeney or some man outside King or Pierce counties is elected to the senate, it will be the irony of fate.

If the railroads have made up their mind to pass a railroad commission bill poetic justice demands that State Senator M. E. Stansell of Stevens county, the most notorious pledge breaker in the state, be permitted to introduce the bill.

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away, Thurston county appears in the limelight as a county which smashed a ring—the Lord-Scobey ring. The county gave Roosevelt a majority of 1297, but held Mr. Mead down to 115. It defeated George W. Hopp, an unfaithful republican member of the last legislature, and elected democrats to the offices of sheriff, clerk, auditor, treasurer, prosecuting attorney, assessor, surveyor, coroner and county commissioners.

Senator A. S. Ruth is reelected, and the republicans get one member of the lower house. The defeat of the county ticket, however, has broken the Scobey-Lord ring, for it deprives it of the potent power of patronage. There will probably be a new deal in Thurston county republican politics two years from now, and some familiar faces are likely to be missing from the republican state convention.

It is pretty early to discuss possible speakership candidates, but Charles S. Gleason of King county and J. G. Megler of Waukiakum county will undoubtedly be in the field. It is a safe bet that Dr. W. H. Hare of Yakima county, the last speaker, will not be reelected, though he has been returned by his county.

The senate will not elect a presiding officer this year. It will be presided over by Lieutenant Governor Coon.—THE POLITICIAN in Spokesman-Review.

VIRTUES OF VIAVA

Viava cures diseases peculiar to women, and it checks insidious uterine diseases at their commencement.

Under Viava treatment obscure uterine diseases are easily handled; likewise inflammatory conditions are reduced and lacerations of the cervix are cured.

Under Viava treatment nervousness, headaches, neuralgia and other disorders that are reflexes from diseases of the uterine organs are promptly cured.

Under Viava treatment tumors of the womb, the ovaries and elsewhere, are removed without the knife. Photos of tumors dispelled on view at the Viava offices. Call and see them if interested.

Viava assists nature by absorption and enables the body to eliminate all waste product.

Viava feeds the nerves and tissues through the circulation, and is so popular because it cures.

Viava is popular because it does not unsex women; because it makes women strong and healthy; because it makes women happy and useful.

Viava is popular because it makes girls attractive by the magnetism of perfect health; because it makes husbands domestic and contented; because it brightens the home and the world.

Viava is popular because it makes women handsome; because it makes home happy; because a contented husband is a good provider; because a contented wife is a good manager.

OFFICE: Janeck Bldg., 109 Yakima Ave. Mrs. Alex Bowman, Manager.

The "Just Alike."

Few people perhaps notice that all omnibus wheels are painted yellow, says the London Chronicle, so that any wheel may be worn with any bus color. Every circus ring in the world is of precisely the same diameter, whatever the size of the auditorium, so that the rider knows the angle at which he must lean in San Francisco is the angle of safety in St. Petersburg. Even the ladder is "standardized." Every bodman in England knows what he has to step when toiling up the builder's ladder, though he may not know it is seven inches. The sailor who runs up the ratlines has twelve inches as a step, and that makes a run possible, and the fireman's ladder is crossed with exact equivalence to the ratlines.

Death From Electric Shock.

The ultimate cause of death, when due primarily to electric shock, is generally considered to be stoppage of the action of the heart or of the respiratory organs. That the latter may be affected is shown by the fact that victims of electric shock are sometimes brought to by practice of some of the well known methods of artificial respiration. The cessation of the heart's action may be due to stimulation of the nerves which control the beating of the heart. These, when stimulated to excess, may cause the heart to stop altogether.—Archibald Wilson in Cassier's Magazine.

The Consulting Caddie.

There is one personage who of late years has rather disappeared from the golfing world, but used to be greatly in evidence in it—the advisory caddie. Many of the caddies of the old Scotch school used to treat their masters (so called) much in the manner that a good old nurse treats a baby when she is beginning to teach it how to walk. In those days there was not a stroke played without the most careful consultation with these sapient mentors.—Westminster Gazette.

A Weird Incident.

Some years ago the following strange incident took place in a west end club: There lay on the table in one of the rooms a list of members who had put down their names for an approaching house dinner. A workman on a ladder, who was putting the finishing touches to the decoration of the ceiling, let fall a single tiny splash of red paint, which dropped on the first name on the list and obliterated it as if with the stroke of a pen. Some of the members who noticed this occurrence thought it a very bad omen; others, like Hamlet, defied augury. But, curiously enough, the member whose name had thus been struck out was taken ill the next day and died in the club on the night before the dinner was to have taken place.—Golden Penny.

Men very naturally seek the smooth, prairie out of which to make a farm in preference to land covered with brush and trees, for the reason that prairie land can be more readily subdued. But the brush farm has something in its favor. In the first place, such land can usually be obtained at a low price. Then much of the timber land is a better and stronger soil than any prairie. The use of the ax, the brush scythe and grass seed, stocking the land with all the animals it will carry, preferably sheep rather than neat cattle, and in side of six years the land is practically free to plow. Young men with small means should look after these brush farms.

We have a friend who has filled a 150 ton silo this fall, the contents of which will form an important part of the winter ration for his stock. It required the product of about twelve acres of corn, which were good for forty-five bushels an acre, to fill the silo. This silo contains 7,500 rations of forty pounds each, forty pounds being about the limit for a day's ration for a matured animal. None of the silage will be wasted. All will be eaten up clean. The cows, calves, sheep and steers will have it for a daily ration, while the brood sows, the horses and the chickens will all relish it occasionally. In no other manner could he possibly have secured so much good feed from so small a piece of land.

I don't care to meet the man who has never made a mistake, for that infallible individual has likely never made anything else.—Macaulay.

THE CLOAK SALE OF THE SEASON

THE BOSTON STORE

$5,000 Stock of the World's Best Cloaks to be sold at about half their real worth. Sale Commences Monday Morning, November 14, at 8 o'clock.

Another Scoop by the Boston's New York Buyer

And as usual our customers derive the benefit. And this is how it came about: Our New York Buyer, Mr. J. D. Morton, of 41 Mercer Street, who never stops at quantity, and with plenty of cash at his command, made a ridiculous offer on the entire output of a Leading Maker of Ladies' High Class Coats. This manufacturer found it necessary to raise a certain amount of CASH at once, and the Cash Buyer's Union captured the entire prize, which amounts to several Thousand Garments. The Boston's portion amounts to just 400 Garments, and they will be handed out to you at about half their real worth. Never in the history of Yakima---yes, we can safely say ---never in the history of Washington have such bargains passed out of any store.

A TAINTED BREATH.

WHAT CAUSES IT AND HOW IT SHOULD BE TREATED.

The Trouble is the Result of Decomposition Along the Respiratory Tract, and the Remedy is Pure Living, Pure Habits and Cleanliness.

Any one afflicted with bad breath, instead of using disinfectant washes or gargles, should try to discover the cause of the bad breath. It is almost ridiculous to keep using disinfectants while the cause of the fetor continues to operate. Suppose any one were to notice a bad smell in the back yard. Instead of finding out exactly what the cause of the bad smell is, he would simply throw a disinfectant around, or deodorizer, in order to stop or disguise the smell. Such a procedure would be silly indeed. No one but a sanitary officer would do such a thing.

A bad breath indicates some decomposition going on somewhere in the respiratory tract. It may be a hollow tooth filled with decomposing material, or the teeth may be so jammed together as to inclose portions of the food, which ferment and fill the mouth with noxious gases.

FOR SALE

One of the best paying business in North Yakima.
Inquire at 219 Yakima Avenue.

The trouble may be in the posterior nares. One or both nostrils may be stopped up. This leaves an unventilated space just back of the nostril, in the upper portion of the throat. The want of ventilation allows the mucus to accumulate and decompose, which forms a very fetid gas.

Or, again, the trouble may be caused by enlarged tonsils. These sometimes assume a globular form, with deep crevices and seams which retain mucus. Again, mucus collects behind and above an enlarged tonsil, where it is sure to decompose and cause bad breath.

Any portion of the respiratory tract from the throat to the lungs may be the seat of the difficulty. The mucous surface is liable to catarrh, and the catarrh abrades the mucous membranes here and there, forming superficial ulcers, which furnish a continuous effluvia to the breath. Like little volcanoes, they pour out their eruptions of noxious gases day and night to contaminate the breath.

The stomach has often been accused of being the cause of bad breath, but the fact is the stomach rarely is the cause of a bad breath. The breath does not enter the stomach. Respiration has little of nothing to do with the stomach. Breath is simply the act of drawing the air into the lungs and expelling it again.

The fetor of bad breath sometimes originates in the lungs and is no doubt the result of a deranged condition of the whole system. The blood, being surcharged with foul gases and decomposing material, gives off these gases at each respiration. This is why the breath of a person who drinks liquor will become tainted with the smell of the liquor. At first the breath undoubtedly smells of the liquor simply because in passing through the mouth and throat some of it adheres to the mucous surfaces. If any one were to rinse out the mouth with liquor, the breath would smell for a short time, but only for a short time. With the dram drinker the case is different. The liquor having passed into his stomach, it is absorbed into the blood. Through the blood it reaches the lungs, and with each respiration from the lungs a portion of the fumes from the liquor are given off with the breath. This illustrates how a bad condition of the blood can taint the breath.

Undoubtedly onions and many other aromatic substances find their way out of the system through the breath. In this way a bad stomach may taint the breath. This is why a bad stomach means bad breath. Bad digestion produces a bad quality of blood. The blood, circulating through the lungs, gives off bad odors, which find their way into the breath. In this roundabout way the stomach may cause bad breath, but as a rule the cause of bad breath can be found closer at hand—either in the teeth, posterior nares, tonsils, throat or bronchial tubes.

Instead of using mouth washes or perfumes of any sort to cure a bad breath, a person ought to have the cause of the bad breath discovered. Unfortunately it would be of little or no use to such a person to call on the average doctor, as he knows nothing or cares nothing about such things. He is simply engaged in prescribing drugs and spends very little time in ferreting out causes or removing obnoxious ailments by harmless and rational methods. In these matters every person must use his own common sense and try to be his own doctor.

No one should be content to allow a bad breath to continue. It is very unhealthy and is very obnoxious to other people. Every man and woman is entitled to a sweet breath, and with a little care and judgment this can be had. But so long as any one continues to take drugs or use narcotics to any extent he cannot hope to have a perfectly sweet breath. A pure breath comes from pure living, pure habits and the continuous practice of absolute cleanliness. The toothbrush and cold water should be used thoroughly once a day. Gargling the throat should immediately follow. The nostrils should be kept clear; deep breathing practiced. These things alone will do very much toward insuring the possession of a sweet breath.—Medical Talk.

Stupidity of Men.

A group of women were talking about the stupidity of men at all times and their enormous denseness when their wives were trying to give them a hint.

"You know one day we had company unexpectedly, and we hardly had enough to go around," said one woman. "I tried to catch my husband's eye to convey to him that he was serving the meat too generously. But he would not take the hint. When he had given out the last bit, there were two plates still unfilled. What do you suppose that shameless man did? He simply called all the plates back again and scooped enough off each one to fill the remaining two."

"I shall always take my husband aside beforehand and tell him a few things," said an engaged girl.

"Well, that won't work," said an experienced matron. "I did that one day, and when I asked my husband whether he would have pudding or pie for dessert he blurted out, 'Good gracious, Helen, I've forgotten which you told me to take.'"—Pittsburg Press.

Gloves and Kisses.

The claim of gloves by ladies as a reward when they have stolen a kiss from a sleeping man is alluded to by Gay (1688-1732):

Meely, brisk maid, steps forth before the rout
And kissed with smacking lips the snoring lout;
For custom says, "Whoe'er this venture proves
For such a kiss demands a pair of gloves."

In chapter 5 of "The Fair Maid of Perth," by Sir Walter Scott, Catherine leaves her chamber on St. Valentine's morning and finding Henry Smith asleep gives him a kiss. The glover says to him:

"Come into the booth with me, my son, and I will furnish thee with a fitting theme. Thou knowest the maiden who ventures to kiss a sleeping man wins of him a pair of gloves."

And in the following chapter she accepts it.—Notes and Queries.

A Lost Necklace.

Quantities of ornaments are lost each year at the drawing rooms or courts at Buckingham palace, and only a very small proportion is recovered.

A very strange story is still told about a diamond necklace which was found at one of the state balls some years ago. It happened that one of Queen Victoria's ladies in waiting picked up a diamond necklace from the floor. As she stood with it in her hand a lady came quickly forward and claimed it.

The finder was very firm, however, and declared it was her duty to give it in to the lord chamberlain's office, as this was the rule with regard to anything found in the palace. The lady protested in vain, but the oddest thing was that this necklace never was claimed and is probably still at the lord chamberlain's office.

The Reporter and the Doctor.

The following conversation between a doctor and a newspaper man was overheard the other day:

"I've met some newspaper men," said the doctor, "and I don't like their ways. They're always trying to pry into other people's business."

"Well," responded the reporter, "There's but one difference between newspaper men and doctors that I can see."

"And what's that?" asked the doctor. "You fellows dissect bodies and we dissect brains. For my part I like the brain end of it."

Then the doctor sat down and thought for several minutes.
