Mr. J.E. Reynolds, bookseller,
16031 Sherman Way,
Van Nuys, California, 91406

Dear Mr. Reynolds:

I have worked through a couple of rooms in my library to make room for proper shelving of books in which I am primarily interested.

I have set aside the following listings, and while I seldom sell any of my books I am offering them to you at what you can see is a good price with the increasing scarcity of such material.

One group includes much Californiana and what should be good stock. This is available at $80.

The second, with individual prices indicated is offered at $115.

Both would be available at $175.

If you care to make a selection of a smaller amount, individually priced or in a lot it would be considered.

If you desire them before they are put in another room in storage which I wish to do shortly you may send payment for them and they will be sent postage paid, insured with returnable privilege. I think they would pack out at about five large cartons.

Sincerely

Long Beach 2, Calif.

Mr. Frank Cotten:

Dear Mr. Cotten:

On my recent pleasurable shopping tour of Long Beach and visit to your store, Mr. Smith requested information on a recent publication dealing with military costumes. It is Soldiers of the American Army, 1775-1954, Drawings by Fritz Kredel, Text by Frederick P. Todd, Henry Regnery Co., Chicago.

I also talked to you about the forthcoming publication of my own book, Drummers and Dreamers.

I am enclosing a circular at this time in the hope you will place an advance order, returning it to me so I may forward it to the publisher and ascertain a spot check of advance sales. You will receive the usual 40 per cent discount Caxtons extends to dealers.

I am hopeful you will see your way clear to advance order more than two copies, since I am satisfied you will find the item desirable in any field where Indians are concerned.

I still have a small supply of the Treaty Centennial booklets on hand and will be glad to give one for each advance copy ordered as long as my supply lasts, which should not be too long.

Sincerely Yours
