THE CITY CAMPAIGN

Municipal Politics Warming Up—Early Conventions to be Held and Two Tickets to be Placed in the Field.

It begins to look as though the municipal campaign, now on, will prove to be the warmest thing of its kind that ever happened before it draws to a close on election day, December 8, which will decide the matter.

Never before in the history of North Yakima, has so much interest been shown in a city campaign as is evidenced this year and with election day still a month in the future.

Already two conventions have been called to nominate candidates for the different city offices to be filled. The first open move for the calling of a convention was made evident Thursday of last week by the appearance suddenly of hand bills signed by "a committee" announcing that primaries would be held in the three wards of this city the evening of November 5 to select delegates to a nominating convention to be held November 12. With the appearance of the anonymous hand bills local politicians at once began to evince an interest in the campaign and the question was asked perhaps a thousand times, "Who is doing this?" No one apparently was able to answer this question until Henry Lombard was approached. Like the distinguished father of his country, the genial Lombard would not lie, neither would he equivocate, as politicians sometimes do. On the other hand he was quite frank and was willing to take the newspaper men into his confidence and make a clean breast of it. He stated that the movement originated with a few business men who had determined to take a keen interest in the coming municipal election, not that they desired the honors or emoluments of office for themselves, but for the general good of the city. Questioned as to the frame-up of the new combination for city offices, Mr. Lombard had nothing to give out except to admit that those in the movement had signified their preference for H. B. Rigg for the office of city attorney. It is said that Mr. Lombard's associates in planning the campaign are Alexander Miller, A. B. Weed, E. B. Moore and Rev. H. M. Bartlett. The name of Phil A. Ditter was also connected with the movement, but that gentleman asserts that he is taking no part in city politics.

On Wednesday of this week another hand-bill was circulated on the streets signed by "Many Citizens," announcing that on Tuesday evening, November 10, a public mass meeting would be held at the city hall to place in nomination a set of candidates for the city offices. So that it is evident that here will be two full tickets in the field and that there will soon be things a-doing.

The city offices to be filled at the coming election are as follows: Mayor, clerk, attorney, treasurer, health officer and five councilmen, one at large, two from the first ward, one from the second ward and one from the third ward, the out-going councilmen being Keck at large, Moran and Harrison from the first ward, Wyman from the second ward and Liggett from the third; Fisher of the second and Switzer of the third ward, will hold over for another year.

The candidates most freely mentioned for nomination on the so-called business men's ticket, are O. A. Fechter, W. B. Dudley and Frank Horsley for mayor; R. K. Nichols and George S. Vance for clerk; H. B. Rigg and L. O. Meigs for attorney, and F. G. Drew for health officer.

For councilmen, H. K. Sinclair, W. I. Lince and F. C. Hall are talked of in the first ward, W. B. Dudley, A. B. Weed, Alex. Miller and U. F. Diteman in the second ward, while Robert Scott and W. M. Watt are mentioned for the place in the third.

In the aggregation presumed to favor the nomination of a Citizen's ticket, a forecast as to probable nominees would be rather difficult to make. Except for the nomination for city attorney there are not, as yet, many candidates in evidence. Mayor Shaw, it is understood, while not actively seeking a re-nomination, is not averse to holding down the mayorship for another term in case a majority of his fellow citizens desire him to do so. Councilman Wyman is also spoken of in connection with the office of mayor as is also Miles Cannon and Ira P. Englehart. For clerk, the present incumbent, H. B. Doust, seems to have no opposition as it is generally assumed that "grandpa" is a hard man to go up against. For city attorney, Vestal Snyder, the present incumbent, has no desire to enter the race for his official shoes. W. M.

Thompson, I. M. Krutz, Charles E. Forsyth and J. O. Cull are all mentioned for the place. The contest for this nomination promises to be interesting.

For health officer on the Citizen's ticket, Dr. P. Frank is the only candidate mentioned. For treasurer, C. S. Donovan, the present efficient incumbent will probably have no opposition for the nomination, as Mr. Donovan is generally regarded as a good vote getter and a hard man to beat.

For councilmen, Harry Moran and R. N. Harrison are talked of as their own successors in the first ward as is also Frank Sinclair for one of the vacant places.

In the second ward, Councilman Wyman in case he is not nominated for mayor, will doubtless be asked to run again although he is known to be averse to serving another term on the council. C. C. Case and H. D. Winchester are also mentioned for councilmen for that ward. In the third, where councilman Liggett retires, no candidates are as yet in evidence. Mr. Liggett's friends desire that he should stand for the place again, but he is said to be unwilling to do so.

The primaries were held Thursday night in the three wards of this city with a fair attendance. The following gentlemen were elected delegates to the city convention to be held November 12: First ward, H. K. Sinclair, E. O. Kelso, J. A. Kleis, P. Y. Heckman, J. T. Haines, Geo. F. McAulay, Wm. Rand, J. A. Leach.

Second ward, H. H. Lombard, Geo. Donald, Daniel Sinclair, H. D. Winchester, W. A. Bell, W. M. Watt, James Greene, J. H. Fraser, A. B. Weed.

Third ward, Robert Scott, Walter J. Reed, W. J. Aumiller, B. L. Bull, C. H. Hinman, H. V. Holden.

M'MILLAN LOSES BOUT

After Losing Two Falls Larson Is Saved by Time Limit—MacMillan to Go Against Both Larson and Lewis Tonight.

An audience of about 200 assembled at the armory Thursday night to witness the wrestling contest between Duncan McMillan of Milwaukee and Chris. Larson of this city. The former had contracted to throw the latter three times within an hour on a wager of $100, but failed, although he came dangerously near winning. He threw the local man twice and was apparently about to secure the third fall when Larson was saved by the time limit. It was a splendid contest throughout between the two giants, the best and most exciting yet seen in this city.

A preliminary bout between "Blubber" Irby and E. C. Wood which kept the audience entertained while waiting for the main event was won by "Blubber" who won two falls in five and seven minutes respectively. "Blubber" has been training under Larson since his previous bout with Wood and as a result went at his man in a more scientific way. Quite a bunch of money is said to have changed hands on the result.

The contest between McMillan and Larson, though not an equal one was extremely interesting from the start. Although the local man was clearly outclassed he made a plucky defense even at times assuming the aggressive. Although himself a large man weighing 190 pounds stripped, he looked small as compared with his lank antagonist who weighs a little over 200 pounds in tights. The stranger, however, with his long and sinewy arms seemed to have a decided advantage in the way of reach.

The first fall was won by McMillan in 19½ minutes and after a 10 minute rest the second was taken by the stranger in exactly the same length of time. This left McMillan 21½ minutes in which to finish his man and win the bout and probably every man in the house thought that he would succeed in doing it. But Larson's bulldog tenacity and splendid power of recuperation kept him up until the time keepers announcement of "time is up" saved him the stakes. The home man was dangerously near out of it though.

After Referee Wood had declared Larson the winner McMillan mounted a chair and issued another challenge. He was willing to wager $100, he said that he could win a fall each from both Larson and Lewis within one hour. The challenge was promptly accepted by Larson and Lewis and the match made for this Saturday evening, at 9 o'clock at the armory. This ought to be another splendid contest as Lewis as well as McMillan, is a past master of the art. The admission fee on this occasion will be only 50 cents and a large audience is anticipated.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

The democratic party apparently has little reason to complain of the result of Tuesday's elections. New York city has elected George B. McClellan mayor and the entire democratic ticket by majorities of over 60,000 and entirely repudiated the "I am a holer than thou," Seth Low, Maryland and Kentucky, two border states which in late years have been regarded as extremely doubtful, are both safely back in the democratic column again, where they will probably remain. Little Rhode Island has again elected Garvin her democratic governor, while Mississippi, of course, is democratic. In New Jersey and Massachusetts the party seems to have made decided gains as it has also in the rock-ribbed republican state of Iowa.

On the other hand, the republican party has won in Ohio, one of their strongholds where the political life of High Priest Mark Hanna was at stake. In the Buckeye state Tom Johnson made a magnificent fight against overwhelming odds and although he has been beaten his political sun has by no means set, as many of the republican organs assume. The republicans have also won in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Nebraska in all of which states their majorities have been materially cut down.

Democrats generally will extract a good deal of comfort from the result in Greater New York. There may be some features about Tammany Hall which many democrats do not approve of, but the fact remains that it is a bulwark of defense to the democratic party of the nation. Western democrats cannot forget that in the campaigns of three and seven years ago when the party was beset with enemies without and traitors within that Tammany Hall stood as firm as a rock for the standard bearer of the party. Accordingly they are glad to see her triumph over her enemies composed of republicans, mugwumps and sorehead democrats who formed the unholy alliance known as the fusion party which was engineered by Boss Platt.

While Senator Gorman of Maryland is far from our ideal of a democratic statesman or of any kind of a statesman, yet we cheerfully endorse the sharp lecture he gave President Roosevelt on account of the latter's interference not only in the Maryland campaign, but for dragging the race question back into national politics.

The election in Maryland is a purely state affair, of interest primarily to the people of Maryland, and it is difficult to understand on what pretext the president could justify himself for "butting in." Such a course on his part is certainly at variance with his policy announced soon after he became president. At that time, it will be remembered, Mr. Roosevelt severely censured a number of offholders from Illinois for interfering in the senatorial fight in that state. On that occasion he informed the offenders that they must attend to the duties for which the government paid them, and that the people of Illinois were competent to decide for themselves as to whom they should elect senator without interference from Washington, and that if the offense was repeated it would be regarded as inviting dismissal from the public service. After this hint, it is needless to state that the Illinois politicians kept their hands off.

But the president, seemingly, has become intoxicated from the use of power and forgets to apply to himself the same rule that he applied two years ago to the Illinois politicians. Gorman complains that he has been interfering in Maryland politics, and that the people of that state don't like it, and that he, Gorman, thinks the president ought to keep his hands off, and the fair minded among the American people will agree with Gorman. Mr. Roosevelt's intentions are doubtless good, but he has no right to meddle, holding the high office that he does, with the internal affairs of any state. Peanut politics ought to be beneath the dignity of a president of the United States.

In the second indictment brought against the president by Senator Gorman, that of dragging the race issue into politics, the Marylander will doubtless find many republicans who will agree with him. By adopting the policy that he has on this question Mr. Roosevelt has already alienated a good deal of the support that he and his party might have got next year, particularly in the border states. Roosevelt has not profited by the experience of President Harrison, who bumped up against the race issue a few years ago and got the worst of the encounter. The southern people will not stand for equality between themselves and the negro race, all the laws and constitutional amendments that may be passed between now and doomsday will never compel them to. Neither is there any considerable sentiment in the north that now demands race equality. The people of this country are wiser on that issue now than they were a generation ago when force bills were talked of and threatened. The race question in fact would solve itself if politicians would leave it alone. In Mr. Roosevelt's case there is certainly so far nothing to show that by agitating the matter he has either bettered the lot of the negro or made any political capital for himself or his party. As a matter of fact he has not gained but has lost ground, both for himself and the struggling negroes.

The report of City Sexton Carvosso for the month of October shows that there were but 18 interments made in Tacoma cemetery for that month as against 22 for the same period last year. This report gives the name of each person buried, as well as the former place of residence of the deceased and cause of death.

It is an interesting fact that out of the 18 dead, but 7 had resided in this city and of the 7, but one, David Jungst, had died of typhoid fever, and that young man, as most of our readers are aware, is believed to have contracted the disease in Seattle.

In the light of this report and of other facts adduced it is evident that we have all been scared rather worse in this town than the facts warrant. While it is true that there has been a considerable amount of sickness in and about North Yakima this fall, due mainly to the prevalence of fever in some form, it is not true that there has been a large proportion of deaths resulting therefrom as the returns will show.

This paper has no apology to offer for the course it has pursued in this matter. It has not been stamped out by all the loose talk that has been made to the effect that our water supply is reeking with the germs of disease and that our city abounds in filth that breeds annually disease and pestilence. While there may have been some truth in all this wild talk the Democrat has felt satisfied that it was mostly untrue and such reports by gaining currency abroad would seriously injure the good name of the town and that it has done so every man in business here knows.

On the other hand it would certainly not be wise to attempt to deceive ourselves or for that matter the outside world. If conditions exist here that are even suspected of causing sickness, such conditions must be changed and the sooner we tackle the job the better. North Yakima cannot afford to undergo another such experience as the town has been going through this season.

Whatcom and Fairhaven have resolved to quit quarreling, get married and go to housekeeping under the name of Bellingham, which is to be the name of the united city when all the legal quibbles are settled. The new city of Bellingham starts off with a population of somewhere between 20,000 and 25,000 people, making it the fourth city in size in the state. Good luck to Bellingham, and may she ever prosper. Seeattle, we observe, is also getting ready to expend though in a different way, by preparing to gobble up some of her juicy suburbs including Ballard, a town of 10,000 inhabitants. Should Seattle incorporate her suburbs which naturally should form a part of the municipality. Seattle could probably boast of a population of perhaps 160,000 people which would entitle our state metropolis to easily rank as the second city of the Pacific coast, passing Portland and Los Angeles. In fact there are plenty of people outside of Seattle who, though already on the shady side of life, expect to live to see the Queen City become the leading city on the Pacific coast. San Francisco is a great city and is doubtless destined to remain so, but her location is such with regard to northern and oriental commerce that she cannot in the long run hope to cope successfully with the ports of Puget Sound.

A public mass meeting of the citizens of North Yakima will be held at the city hall next Tuesday evening to nominate a set of candidates to be voted upon at the ensuing city election, which will be held, Tuesday, Dec. 8. The mass convention will assemble at 8 p. m., and all voters in the city are urged by the committee which called the meeting to be in attendance.

The Democrat believes that the old fashioned mass meeting is the best method in vogue of nominating candidates for office in a town the size of this. Every citizen whether he be a property owner or not is interested in the welfare of the town and at the mass meeting he has a chance to be heard as well as to make his influence felt in the making of a ticket. The mass convention probably would not work satisfactorily in a large city, but it is best, we believe, in a small city or town.

In the primary system each voter must surrender his prerogative to a set of delegates, who may or may not carry out the aim and purpose of the individual voter. After they are elected, they usually do as they please.

The receiver of the defunct U. S. Shipbuilding Company says that the organization of that get rich quick concern was an "artistic and colossal swindle" and recommends that the unlucky investors, many of whom have lost the earning of a lifetime to bring suit against Charles M. Schwab and his confederates in the hope of recovering at least a portion of their money.

This is rather poor consolation for the misguided people who find that they have acted the part of suckers in the big game played by Morgan and Schwab. It is not likely that they can get action for their money on those shifty gentlemen, who have probably covered their tracks to well.

The poor little Democrat has succeeded in scrambling into the band wagon and says there is some fever in the city. It's wail is powerful weak.—Washingtonian.

We are willing to submit our course in this matter to the judgment of the public. At any rate, no one so far as we have heard, has accused this paper of being a "knocker" or subject to fits. Our youthful contemporary apparently has not yet arrived at the age of discretion.

It must be, judging from the election returns from the eastern states that republican prosperity is not quite so much in evidence as it used to be. J. Pierpont and his crowd might have kept that bubble from bursting until after election.

It would be interesting to know how Teddy received the news of Lowe's downfall in New York and of Gorman's victory in Maryland.

The Bet of a Woman Hater

(Original.)

Bob Brackett after learning a great deal in college about football tactics— he was a wiry quarter back—and a very little of Latin, Greek, mathematics and such annoyances to young men who go to college for fun, woke up one June morning and found himself in possession of a diploma.

Bob determined to do some more studying abroad. He was a professed woman hater, and before he left the girls poked fun at him by betting him a box of cigars against a hundred yards of Brussels lace that he would bring back a wife with him, and one little mix declared that she would be black. Bob offered to take a hundred such bets, but his teasers were quite content with one.

Six months after his departure Bob was in India. He was dining one evening with a party of Americans and British officers when the subject of the suttee or burning of widows with the bodies of their husbands was introduced.

"That's stopped now," said a British captain, "by a treaty with the British government."

"Sahib," said an Indian servant, "there will be a suttee tomorrow morning at sunrise. The young widow of the prince of Pingpore will be burned with her husband."

"The deuce you say?"

The servant being questioned said that the prince was a very old man, who had married the wife when she was twelve years old. She was now fifteen. The party became much interested, but as there was no English garrison near it did not seem that anything could be done to prevent this outrage against civilization. Brackett proposed that the party constitute themselves a posse to do so. The Englishmen were hard to move until they had had a number of brandy and sodas. Then they chimed in with alacrity. The party arose from the table and, guided by the servant, went to the place where the pyre had been set up in the court of a ruin. On the pyre was the body of the old prince, guarded by beathen Hindus.

"I have a scheme," said Brackett—"a real out and out Yankee scheme. We'll conceal ourselves in what is left of that apartment on the other side of the wall from the pyre. It isn't more than thirty feet from the pyre to the room. Suppose we dig a tunnel to a point beneath the pyre, remove the material from under where the widow will lie and let her down and out before the flames touch her."

"Good," said every one, and the Hindu servant was dispatched for spades and a wheelbarrow. With a will they set to work, all of them young strong men, and in three hours a spade broke through the ground and struck the wood of the pyre. Then commenced the more difficult work of locating the required spot and removing that part of the pyre directly under the spot where the widow would lie. However, it was at last accomplished, the wooden platform being left supported by pieces of lumber that could be removed at will.

In the morning there was a great din as the funeral procession approached. A troop of Brahman priests, their shaved heads uncovered, carrying torches, followed by a concourse of natives, came howling into the court. In the midst was the young widow. The party of Anglo-Saxons had pushed the mortar from a chink in the wall, through which they watched the proceedings. At the foot of the pyre the widow was stripped of all her clothing except a fine silken undergarment. To see the young thing stand there, looking about her with a bewildered stare, then at the pyre with a shudder, was enough to move stouter hearts than the English and Americans. Brackett took one look through the peephole, then dashed into the tunnel and to the bottom of the pyre, where he stood ready. When the widow ascended the pyre and lay down and a cloud of smoke concealed the bodies, the signal was given by a British officer at the peephole. Removing the supports, Brackett lowered the living body, receiving it in his arms. The widow, frightened at this unexpected occurrence as well as the flames, swooned and was easily carried through the tunnel to the ruined chamber. When she came to, a hand was clasped over her mouth, and she was forced to remain quiet.

It was not till night that the party, dressing the widow in the costume of their servant, Bob Brackett sacrificing his beard to conceal her features, dared to leave their place of concealment and return to their quarters. The widow, knowing that if found she would be spurned by her people and compelled to again go through the dread ordeal to its completion, begged her liberators to take her out of the country. As none of them could go where he liked except Brackett, he was assigned the post of honor. It was on a long journey on a P. and O. steamer to England, sitting with her daily on deck, talking of her past life and telling her of the western world, that Brackett lost his heart. The consequence was that when they reached England the widow of the Prince of Pingpore became Mrs. Bob Brackett.

On the arrival a few weeks later of the steamer Lucania at New York Brackett's girl friends, who had heard of his marriage with an Indian, were on the dock awaiting him.

"A hundred yards of lace, please." "I didn't lose the bet, which was that my wife would be black. She is copper colored. Nevertheless I am so nappy that I am ready to pay." And he drew from his pocket a bundle of the finest quality of lace. Then they all dined together, and Bob presented his bride.

EDNA CARROLL.

Commissioners in Session.

The board of county commissioners was in session Monday and Tuesday.

The most important business transacted was the election of the three new road commissioners under the provision of the new law passed by the last legislature. The new law goes into effect January 1, and the road districts in this county will correspond with the commissioners' districts. George Nelson of the Naches was appointed commissioner for the First district; W. C. Wimer of Nob Hill for the Second, and S. M. Webber of Kiona for the Third district.

Hugh Stuart was awarded the contract to build a bridge in the Glade settlement at a cost of $510. A. A. Nicol was awarded a contract to build a bridge over the Sunnyside canal near Zillah at $445. C. E. Lum was given the contract to do certain riprap work on the Naches to protect the Nelson bridge, at $648. The board adjourned to meet again Monday, December 7.

Superior Court Notes.

Judge Rudkin held a session of the superior court Tuesday, his time being occupied mostly with the consideration of divorce cases.

The case of Mabel Yeates vs. Leon E. Yeates, action for divorce, was dismissed by the court on the ground of insufficient evidence.

In the case of Frances Carpenter vs. J. W. Carpenter, action for divorce, the court issued an order restraining the plaintiff from removing any of his property from the jurisdiction of the court, while the case is pending.

The court signed the decree in the case of Mary Gale vs. Warren Gale. The defendant in this case had filed a cross bill.

John A. Viles has brought suit for divorce against his wife, Ada M. Viles, on the ground of unfaithfulness. The plaintiff in his complaint alleges that on a certain date recently he surprised his wife in the company of another man, which led him to believe that he had been, or was about to be, grievously wronged. He prays for a divorce, therefore, on the ground that the conduct of the defendant has been indiscreet and unwise. The plaintiff asserts that he has suffered great mental distress as the result of his wife's conduct, the effect of which has been to make him very ill. The unhappy couple reside at Prosser, and were married in 1895.

Orville B. Runyon has filed a suit for a divorce against Mary Runyon. J. E. Sutton has likewise filed a suit against Hattie Sutton.

Funeral of W. H. Minner.

The funeral of W. H. Minner, who was killed October 30 by Charles Meyers, was held from the Christian church Monday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended, burial being made in Tahoma cemetery.

Deceased, in addition to his widow, whom he had recently married, leaves six children by his first wife, one son and five daughters, namely: Mrs. J. D. Mitchell of Nampa, Ida.; Mrs. Horatio Crosso of the Ahtanum; Mrs. Joe Morrison of the Ahtanum; Mrs. C. F. Clayton of Peoria, Ore., and J. E. Minner and Mrs. J. F. Lisle of this city. All the children were present at their father's funeral except Mrs. Clayton, who was detained at home by illness in her family.

William H. Minner was born in Indiana in 1835 and had resided in this county since 1876, coming from Oregon and settling on a homestead on the Ahtanum, which he retained to the day of his death. During the past few months he had lived in this city, having purchased property on Kittitas avenue.

The Democrat feels that it has lost a staunch friend in the death of this old pioneer. Mr. Minner was a very devoted admirer of this paper, for the reason, as he himself stated it on more than one occasion: "Because you say what you mean, and mean what you say."

Landed in Jail.

Albert Hartman and John Carroll were brought up from Prosser this week by Sheriff Grant and Deputy McNeal, the two men having been convicted in a justice court at Prosser and fined $90 and costs for carrying concealed weapons. The men had no money to pay and are accordingly elected to remain for nearly two months in the county jail.

The county jail is a paradise for hoboes in bad weather, and it is said that many of them purposely break in by committing some petty offense. So it looks to a man up a tree as though the taxpayer is the man most punished.

Toppenish Notes.

Mrs. Staten and daughter have returned from their visit to the Alberta country, where Mrs. Staten has acquired some interests. They left Toppenish again Tuesday for Portland, where they will remain for the winter. Mrs. Staten will attend school there.

Quite a number of the reservation farmers are busy now doing their fall plowing, while the ground is in such excellent condition.

B. E. Parton shipped two carloads of horses to Seattle Tuesday.

CHANGE OF PARTNERSHIP SALE

Everything at a Great Sacrifice

E. B. Moore, treasurer of the Henry H. Schott Company, and one of its largest stockholders, is to retire. Arrangements have been completed whereby Mr. Moore's interests are to be purchased by Mr. Schott, who in future will have the business under his control and management. Preparatory to making this change this immense stock of merchandise must be reduced and everything in the house is being offered at a great sacrifice. Two dollars will do the work of three during the next 30 days. Such opportunities as this do not come frequently. The public, unfortunately, are too often lured by "The most marvelous chances of a lifetime." No matter; we're not responsible for others' misstatements. In this instance we guarantee everything exactly as represented. No exaggeration. We enumerate below a few of the many extraordinary bargains to be found here. Everything in the store reduced in price. No reserve.

COUNCIL MEETING

Big Batch of Routine Business Disposed of--Sanitary Measures Are Discussed.

At the bi-monthly meeting of the North Yakima city council Monday evening, Mayor Shaw presided with all the seven councilmen present.

The clerk read a petition for a new sidewalk from the property owners along the east side of South First street from Walnut to Race. On motion of Moran the petition was laid over.

A petition for a sewer to be laid in the alley between blocks 150 and 151 was read. On motion of Liggett this petition was referred to the street and ditch committee, with instructions to investigate and report.

Resolutions were read and passed accepting the grading done on North First street by Pettijohn & Daniels, also the sidewalk laid on South First street by G. H. Moulton. The council also accepted the sewer laid in the alley between South Third and South Fourth streets by Wm. McKivior.

Marshal Mull reported 49 arrests for the month, 26 convictions and fines collected aggregating $484.50. Police Judge Taggard's report showed the same amount collected in fines.

Sexton Carvosso reported 18 burials in the city cemetery for October, as against 22 for the same month last year, and $113.60 collected. The sexton in his report enumerated the different persons buried, where they had lived and the cause of death. Only 7 of the 18, according to the report, can be credited to the city.

By request the salon license of E. W. Dooly was ordered transferred to J. E. Ryan.

The October grist of bills O. K'd by the finance committee were ordered paid.

The old Cherry street muddle was again aired. T. D. Quinn stated that all the property owners had deeded the necessary right of way, except Messrs. Reed, Lowe and Grant. Switzer and Keck were in favor of condemnation proceedings, but Liggett demurred on account of the expense involved. A motion by Harrison finally prevailed, referring the matter back to the street and ditch committee with power to act.

Richard Strobach addressed the council, complaining about the lack of sanitary conditions existing on Selah avenue, caused by the failure on the part of certain property owners to connect with the sewer. Mayor Shaw stated to the council that he had made a searching investigation of the sanitary conditions of the city since the smelling committee had been here and found that the conditions were in on sense as bad as reported, although he was willing to admit that the conditions could be improved and would be if the people would take hold and co-operate with the city government.

City Attorney Snyder reported that he was preparing an ordinance, drastic enough to suit the council, he thought, covering the matter of sewer connections. The ordinance would be ready at the next meeting.

Fire Chief Hauser stated that a number of the occupants in wooden buildings within the fire limits were using stove pipe flues extended through the roofs. The council instructed the marshal to inspect such buildings and warn such persons against any further violation of the fire ordinance.

The council then adjourned.

Boy Killed at Selah.

A rear end collision between two freight trains occurred at Selah siding Tuesday night with the result that Claud Dent, a 16 year old boy, who was riding in the caboose of the west bound train, was instantly killed. Coroner Frank was notified and had the body brought to this city the following morning. From a letter in the pocket of the unfortunate lad it was learned that the boy's father lives at Summit, in Chehalis county. The father was informed by the coroner of the sad accident and on his order the remains were forwarded to him Thursday.

Deceased was 16 years old and was stealing a ride home when the wreck occurred that cost him his life. He was found by one of the brakemen sick and penniless in a boxcar, and the trainman taking pity on him, took him back to the caboose where he afterward met his death.

But little damage was done in the wreck outside of the injury to the caboose. The trainmen all escaped injury.

The Catholic Fair.

The Catholic ladies wish to bring to the notice of the public their great fair which they will open in the Armory hall next Wednesday, November 11, for the benefit of the new church now being built. On every day during the fair, which will close Saturday evening, November 14, the ladies will serve excellent meals. On Wednesday a fine chicken dinner will be served. In the evenings during the fair good musical entertainments will delight the public.

The corner stone of the beautiful new church edifice will be laid by the Catholic bishop, Right Rev. E. T. O'Dea, on Sunday, November 15.

A BRIEF BUT STIRRING COURTSHIP

(Original.)

Elise Marcel was a Louisiana creole. Her father and mother were pious people and insisted on Elise maintaining the same rigorous notions that governed them. She was not permitted to dance, and she must keep all the fast days and do penance for the slightest infraction of church rules.

Henry Soulard, the son of a neighboring planter, met Elise one evening at a party and was captivated by her oval face, olive complexion, black eyes and the long cable of hair reaching nearly to her heels. He was a manly young fellow, without anything mean or selfish about him. He asked Elise to dance, but she declined, explaining that her parents forbade dancing and if she did so and they heard of it she would have to suffer. Henry looked disappointed, but declared that he would not bring trouble upon her for a world. Whereupon Elise was seized with a desire to suffer for his pleasure and insisted on dancing with him. When he found it impossible to dissuade her, he consented, and they danced together often during the rest of the evening. When Elise went home, she told her mother what she had done. Instead of making her do the usual penances Mme. Marcel simply forbade her ever again to speak a word with Henry Soulard.

The next time Henry saw Elise he was on horseback and Elise was ahead of him driving her pony. A man was riding beside her, talking to her, and it was plain that Elise was offended, for she answered never a word. When Henry drew near, he saw that the offender was Jean Gaspard, a young man who had lately inherited a plantation, on which he lived a by no means exemplary life. As soon as Henry came up Elise, with flashing eyes and burning cheeks, told him she desired that M. Gaspard would ride on and leave her alone. Henry rode up to her tormentor and cut him with his riding whip, then cutting Gaspard's horse, a high mettled beast, it shot on, carrying the rider far away.

That afternoon a friend of Gaspard's waited on Henry bearing a challenge. In that day dueling was common in the south, and Henry could not have declined to fight without meeting consequences as serious as fighting. The next morning the two men met with sharp pointed foils. Though Henry was the better fencer he was so indignant with his antagonist that he was under-cautious. He received a flesh wound in the side. This ended the combat.

The meeting soon became common talk in the neighborhood, but as the people were not averse to dueling there were no arrests. M. and Mme. Marcel not only heard of the affair, but of its cause. Elise, learning that Henry had been wounded, took her pony cart and drove to her father's plantation. She found him lying on a wicker couch on the veranda. Though they had seen each other but twice before, the episode in which Henry had defended her and afterward risked his life and was wounded on her account was quite enough to draw them to a climax. Not a word was spoken before Henry had clasped her and she had wound her arms about his neck. When they separated, they were betrothed.

It was a great shock to Mme. Marcel when Elise drove home and told her that she was engaged to the man with whom she had danced and who had fought a duel for her.

"Mon Dieu," exclaimed the mother--"that I should have a child to love one who has tried to kill another! Our protecting saints surely will leave us a prey to the devil. Go to your room, wicked child, and if you ever again meet or speak to this would be murderer you must leave this house and your poor father and me that you may not jeopardize our immortal souls."

Elise's love and respect for her mother forbade her disobeying, and she went to her room, where her meals were sent to her for three days. Then she was told to go to confession. She promised her mother that she would speak to no one but the priest. The promise was sacredly kept, and when she returned she went at once to her room. For a week she remained day and night there, seeing no one, her meals brought to her. Then one morning she was called down into the great hall which served as a living room. There stood Father De Bleek, the parish priest, and there sat her mother on the old mahogany and haircloth sofa.

"Embrace your daughter," said the old man kindly.

"Are you sure, father, that there will be no contamination?"

"There is no sin to contamination. Whatever of sin there may be, if any, would pertain to the young man. But there is no sin in defense. Has not our church found her defender in all generations since she was planted on earth? Are you not presumptuous to set up your interpretations of our doctrines?"

"Forgive me, father."

Elise stood over her mother and at this point bent down and the two were clasped in each other's arms. When they looked up the priest had withdrawn.

Elise in a flutter of excitement and joy wrote the words, "Come when you are able," and sent them to Henry. He had been forbidden by his surgeon to walk or drive for another week, but he had no sooner read Elise's note than he ordered a horse and wagon to be got ready and in ten minutes was on his way to the Marcel plantation. Elise met him at the gate and supported him to the house, where M. and Mme. Marcel received him, though the latter could not refrain from crossing herself before she permitted him to touch her hand.

In Tender Memory.

(Written in memory of little Pearl C. Caines, who died October 16, 1903.)

O, where have they carried our darling,
Our darling that has gone to sleep.
We thought that our precious treasure
Was all our own to keep;
But they folded the wee hands so nicely
And closed the eyes once so bright;
And afar in Death's silent city
They hid her away from our sight.
The portals of heaven were opened
And a messenger came that day
And whispered to our dear one,
"I have need of thee; come away."
There is a vacant place at the table,
By the fireside a vacant chair.
Our daughter and sister is resting now,
Free from all sorrow and care.
Slowly but surely she faded,
Like the sun at close of day,
And loved ones watched beside her
As she breathed her life away.
For us is the sorrow of parting,
For us who are left the tears;
But for her is a heavenly welcome
And the friends of her earlier years.
But such is the Father's wisdom.
Oh, let our faith be strong;
Whom God doth love to chasten;
Yet He would do nothing wrong.
Up to her home in heaven,
Where sin can never mar,
Our kind and gentle Pearlie
Has left the gates ajar;
So we'll lift our eyes to heaven,
Above this world of sin,
Where our darling one is waiting
For us to enter in.

—MRS. R. E. C.

Moving Hell.

This is the latest story smuggled through Castle Garden and now going the rounds of the papers: Two young Irish immigrants, Pat and Mike Maloney, arrived green and fresh from the Emerald Isle. Pat and Mike were much astonished at the sights of the city, and when night came they sought lodging in a downtown hotel. The noise was too much for Pat and he couldn't sleep. So he got up and sat by the window. Just then a fire engine, with shrieking whistle and spouting flame and smoke, rattled noisily past. Pat looked at it in astonishment. He had never seen anything like it before. In alarm he was too much for Pat. "Mike, Mike," fully. In a few minutes another engine clattered into view, more sparks and smoke pouring from the stack. This was too much for Pat. "Mike, Mike," he shouted, "get up quick." "What's the matter?" growled Mike, sleepily. "Matter enough," replied Pat. "Shure an' they they are a movin' hell and two loads have already gone by."

How Old Is Ann?

Here is the problem that is now convulsing the people of the United States, driving the men to drink and the women into the insane asylums:

Mary is 24 years old. Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann?

Dooly Quits Saloon Business.

A Great Clubbing Offer.

For the large numbers of people in the northwest whose mail facilities will not permit them to take a daily newspaper the Weekly Oregonian is especially designed. It is edited especially for readers in Washington, Oregon and Idaho, containing besides all the important news of the Columbia river basin, a systematic presentation of the news of the world, supplemented and elucidated by editorial comment, written from the beginning to the close of every week. Illustrated stories, traveling correspondence and feature articles add to the attractiveness of The Oregonian. The regular subscription price of The Weekly Oregonian is $1.50 per year. Given in connection with the YAKIMA DEMOCRAT for 12 months for only $1.50; a saving on the subscription price of the two papers of one dollar.

No Offense Intended.

At the exhibition of the International Live Stock association in Chicago a portly old gentleman remarked to one of the men in charge of the cattle department, "You don't call this the 'fat stock show' any more, it seems."

"No," replied the other. "It's quality that counts with us now and not quantity. You can put fat on any kind of an animal, and after it's all done he's nothing but a big, fat--I--I beg pardon, sir! I--I hadn't noticed--I didn't mean!"

The portly old gentleman had begun to turn red, and the attempted apology only made the matter worse. After an ineffectual effort to express himself he waddled on in speechless indignation.

Andalusian Specter.

Upon a mountain in Andalusia quaint spectral forms are frequently seen. Whenever there is a heavy mist and persons are ascending the mountain they appear in all their ghastly splendor and sometimes so suddenly as to strike dismay into the hearts of those who see them for the first time.

Of course it is all a trick played by the sun. When a mist partially shrouds the mountain, the sun is naturally obscured, and then he revenges himself by projecting the shadow of any person who is ascending the mountain until it assumes the form of a gigantic specter.

Early.

"You will come home early, won't you?" she said as he was starting for the club.

"Oh, yes; I'll be home early," he replied.

"But of course, dear," she persisted, "you understand that I mean early tonight, not early tomorrow morning."—Chicago Post.

A Philadelphia contemporary has discovered a joke in a dictionary, no other than the learned and staid Century. It is one of those unconscious bits of humor.

Under the word "question" is the following:

"To pop the question--see pop."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.

Mr. Bristow's report on the postal scandals has been given to the president but there is no danger of its being given to the public, just at present, while there is an election about to take place in eleven states of the union. It is said that the president is going over the report carefully, and that before making it public he will supplement it with some comments of his own. As it contains over a million words, which would make 2000 pages of an ordinary public document, it will probably take Mr. Roosevelt some time to finish it. Postmaster General Payne is now preparing his letter of transmittal, to accompany the report. There seems good authority for the statement that Mr. Bristow makes grave charges against Perry S. Heath, the former first assistant postmaster general and present secretary of the republican national committee, of which Mark Hanna is chairman. The Tulloch charges accused Heath of juggling payrolls, giving sinecures to women and political friends, and sending politicians around the country at government expense ostensibly on official business; but it is said that Mr. Bristow charges him with official corruption similar to that for which Beavers and like Congressman Littauer in the glove contracts, he will probably be saved by the statute of limitations. It looks as if the republicans will hardly dare to retain him as secretary of the national committee; but perhaps he hopes for something "equally as good." The irregularities discovered in the New York postoffice are of such a grave character that the president has directed Mr. Bristow's inspectors to subject it to a rigid investigation. They will leave for New York in a few days and will have a month or six weeks to complete their work. The head of the New York office is Postmaster Van Cott, a close personal friend of Senator Platt, who will fight any attempt to remove him. Although no direct charges have been made against Van Cott as yet, his removal has been so frequently discussed as to alarm Senator Platt and his other friends.

The Maryland campaign is the chief topic among politicians here. Senator Gorman has taken the stump and is leading the democrats in an attack on the administration, which is causing the republicans the gravest alarm. He again scores the president for his interference in the state campaign and for his championship of the colored race by dining Booker Washington. He said in his last speech: "Unfortunately the president of the United States—I speak of him as the president always ought to be spoken of, with respect—goes from one end of the country to the other intensifying the race issue. He well knows that all thoughtful men of the south without exception, unless it be the politicians who want the votes of the negroes, and every thoughtful man of the north, has reached the conclusion that no greater crime was ever committed against good government, no greater crime was ever perpetrated against the women of the south than the emancipation of the negro by constitutional amendment. The president of the United States with an impulsiveness and thoughtlessness which would hardly be excused in a small boy in this community, has a faculty of expressing himself which has become dangerous to the peace of the community. He has interfered in our state and has tried to stimulate the republicans by inviting them to a harmony meeting and to sit around the same table at which Booker Washington sat." He declared further that matters which did not properly belong to his office the president had unsettled business interests. Isador Rayner, the democratic candidate for United States senator, spoke along the same lines, declaring himself for the disfranchisement of the negro as a matter of self preservation as a leader of the opposition to the president on his attitude on the race question and this will probably be made the issue of the coming campaign; unless the republicans refuse to nominate Mr. Roosevelt, who stands for equal opportunity for black and white.

According to the official figures our merchant marine has now reached the highest point in the history of the country, and this remarkable growth was regardless of the fact that there was no ship subsidy act passed. The total tonnage amounts to 6,087,345 tons, which places us second to Great Britain in the merchant marine. As her tonnage exceeds 16,000,000, it will be some time before we can hope to occupy first place. The growth of our marine began in 1900 when the five million mark was passed for the first time in many years. Since then the progress has been so rapid that the advocates of a ship subsidy will be at a loss for arguments when the measure is brought up at the regular session of congress.

Gigantic land frauds on the Pacific coast have been under secret investigation by the interior department for some time. Such startling rumors have escaped that Secretary Hitchcock has promised to make a comprehensive statement in the course of the next few days. The first public development is the suspension from office of Asa B. Thompson, receiver of the United States land office at La Grande, Ore. Thompson has been indicted for receiving bribes. It is said that the department's investigation will involve United States Senator Mitchell and Representative Williamson, both republicans from Oregon, who recommended Thompson's appointment. It has been known that Secretary Hitchcock's feeling toward these two men has been very bitter since the investigation started. Many government officials and members of congress are believed to be implicated in these land frauds and startling revelations are daily expected.

According to the annual report of Commissioner General Frank P. Sargent of the bureau of immigration, there has been a large increase in immigration to this country during the last fiscal year, when 857,046 foreigners crossed our borders. The greatest number, over 230,000 came from Italy, while Austria-Hungary furnished over 206,000. From the Oriental countries came nearly 185,000 Japanese and over 2,000 Chinese. 185,000 of the immigrants could neither read nor write. The total amount of money brought with them amounted to $16,117,513. 8,769 alien immigrants were rejected, because they were paupers, diseased or contract laborers. Counting second and first cabin immigrants who arrived in this country last year, makes the number very near the million mark.

Weak Argument for a Subsidy.

Secretary Shaw speaks for subsidies or shipbuilding. The argument in substance is that though it is unprofitable ships, it can be made profitable if the government will tax the profitable business and industry of the country and bestow the proceeds upon shipbuilders. But, since it is clear that at this time investments in ships, the world over, is poor and almost profitless investment, why not allow the foreigner to bear the loss? Why tax the good industries of our country to support a bad one? Why, specially, since the subsidies would all go to the people rich enough to engage in shipbuilding?

Doubtless congress could enact laws conferring bounties and subsidies so liberal that the losses of the business would be compensated by payments from the treasury. Very likely then here would be a new growth of American financial enterprise. But oranges could be grown in Oregon and tea in Ohio on that basis.

The fact that shipbuilding in our country is at low ebb indicates simply that we can do other things with more profit. Again, ocean freights are so low that ship-owners the world over are discontented with their investments. Is this a condition under which the really profitable industries of our country should be taxed to support an unprofitable one?

The idea seems to be that money drawn from the treasury costs nobody anything. But the treasury has no money that is not taken from the industry of the people in one way or another. Which is the sounder policy to pursue the various lines of enterprise that are really profitable enterprises and make up the losses out of the public treasury? If ocean shipping were so profitable to the foreigner as Secretary Shaw represents it, American money couldn't be kept out of it.—Portland Oregonian.

Ye Editor Explains.

A local preacher at the conclusion of one of his sermons, said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Instantly every man, woman and child rose to their feet. The preacher seated them and said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted, clothed in his last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position. "How is it my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only man not able to meet his obligations?" "I run a newspaper," he meekly answered, "and the brethren here who just stood up are my subscribers and—" "Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.—Joplin Herald.

Irrigation Project.

Government surveys are now being made from Spokane for an irrigation project of huge proportions. It is no less than a scheme to irrigate 1,600,000 acres of land in the Big Bend country, forming a loop from the north end of Douglas county down to Pasco and circling up the Snake river valley towards Spokane and the Palouse country.

The water is to be taken from the Spokane river a few miles above the city, and the cost is to be defrayed by the government under the national irrigation act. Spokane river flows out of Coeur d'Alene lake a great reservoir for the purpose of supplying the water for the immense project. Surveys are now going forward on said lake.

The part of the Big Bend marked off as irrigable by the waters supposed to be available from Coeur d'Alene lake is chiefly in Douglas county, says the Spokesman-Review. Part of it is plateau land and part is in the coulees and valleys leading to the Columbia river. The average altitude of the plateau which can be reached is 1500 feet, low enough to give a fall of about 400 feet from the point where the Spokane river will be tapped, if the project is approved as feasible. Such a system would cover the entire tract of land on the opposite side of the river between Wenatchee and Rock Island, consequently would be of incalculable benefit to this immediate region of country.—Wenatchee Advance.

A Lesson for Young Men.

William Hogue goes to the penitentiary to spend the next 20 years. Here is a temperance lecture for young men. Hogue is probably no worse at heart than many young men who today are sipping strong drink. He was a hard up, had taken several drinks, and then assaulted and robbed a companion. He narrowly escaped trial on a charge of murder, so viciously was his victim assaulted. His loving mother came all the way from California to endeavor to have the sentence of her son made lighter, but her efforts were without avail. With the liquor the boy drank he cast the die that branded him for the penitentiary. He must pay the penalty. The mother must suffer. It is always thus; the innocent friends and relatives suffer sometimes quite as much as the man that joins the lockstep gang. A mother's tears and a mother's prayers will not avail after the die is cast. Young men have their own way to make in the world. Mothers teach their sons while they may. The rest depends upon the sons.—Everett Herald.

A. E. Howard has been awarded the contract for the 40 foot extension of the building occupied by the New York store, which is owned by A. E. Larson. The work is already in progress.

Fruit Inspector Beck Thursday condemned a shipment of apple trees received from the Stark Bros. nursery of Louisiana, Mo. The young trees were found to be infected with the woolly aphid.

Chester Congdon left Sunday for California and Arizona to look after his interests in the southern country. He was accompanied by his wife and two children.

Walter Tuseley left Sunday for Kendrick, Ida., to remain for two or three weeks while he is recovering from a prolonged attack of malarial fever.

He will not be able to resume his duties for some time yet.

A large gathering attended the social given by the Deaconess Aid society at the home of Mrs. J. H. Fraser Tuesday evening. Games and music were the order of the evening. These socials will probably be held regularly in order to aid in the support of the Deaconess hospital.

As of old, Halloween night was observed in this city. The small boy, as usual, was out on mischief bent, and from all reports did the usual amount of damages. Property of a portable nature was generally shifted around, regardless of the amount of work required in the shifting process.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Union Ditch company was held last Saturday in which a vote was taken on the proposition offered by the Yakima Water and Light company to furnish the Union people water for irrigation purposes in exchange for their water right. The proposition was voted down.

Miss Carrie Mumphord, Wilford F. Blair and Miss Ada M. Mitchell, Will E. Deveroux and Miss Audrey Brown and Winton Case and Miss Mabel Lamberson.

W. J. Daniels, N. P. express agent here, accompanied by Mrs. Daniels, left Monday on a six week visit to their old home at Greenville, Ill., to be absent six weeks. While Mr. Daniels is away on his leave of absence his place will be filled by P. H. Sankey of Seattle, a brother of Architect Sankey of this city.

R. D. Read last Monday sold his steam laundry business to Captain Marshall Scudder, who will conduct it in the future. The transfer includes the plant and business of the laundry, but not the lot and building, which are retained by Mr. Read. The former proprietor, who has not been in rugged health for several months, expects to leave some time this month for old Mexico, where he expects to spend the winter with the feeling that a change of climate would be beneficial.

Charles Myers, accused of killing W. H. Minner, had his preliminary examination before Justice Taggard Friday afternoon. The prisoner through his attorney, Ira P. Englehart, set up the plea of self-defense and after three witnesses had testified the case was dismissed and the prisoner discharged.

Died from Pneumonia.

S. D. Bauman, proprietor of the Edison theatre, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after an illness of about four weeks. He was first afflicted with what was supposed to be typhoid fever when he was removed to the hospital. Being a strong and vigorous young man, he succeeded in weathering the attack, and was thought to be getting along nicely when he was attacked with diphtheria, complicated with symptoms of pneumonia. In his weakened condition his system failed to respond to treatment, with the result that death summarily ended his suffering. The funeral was held Thursday morning under quarantine regulations.

Although the deceased was an utter stranger when he came to this town in August and opened up his popular playhouse on First street, he soon made many friends who were attracted to him by his frank and genial ways. Mr. Baumann was a native of England and was 26 years of age at the time of his death. He leaves a young wife who is distracted at her great loss.

Modern Woodmen Carnival.

The North Yakima camp of Modern Woodmen have started a movement for a big celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the birth of the order, which will be January 5, 1904. There is said to be over 1000 members of the order in Yakima county and the plan is to bring all the Woodmen of Central Washington together in this city on the date mentioned and to hold a two or three days' carnival to commemorate the coming of age of this lusty young giant among fraternal orders which now has on its rolls within the United States the names of over one million members.

The local camp gave a smoker Tuesday evening which was largely attended, a number of Woodmen being present from Yakima City, Zillah, Ahtanum, and other camps of the county. A purely a "stag" party, the members spent a pleasant and most enjoyable evening. Card playing was indulged in and refreshments served.

Cured Consumption

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by F. L. Janek Drug Store.

Strong Nerves

Are good, but in an emergency strong nerves is an absolute essential to safe driving. Take no chances, but use the best harness that your money can buy you. Fisher's make of carriage and wagon harness is the best obtainable, and you will find that it takes no more of your money to get it than it does for inferior kinds.
