THE CITY FATHERS

New Council Does Considerable
Legislating—John H. Lynch Confirmed as Police Judge.

The first business session of the new city council was held Monday evening and proved an interesting one. Mayor Fechter presided and all the councilmen were present except Fisher. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by Clerk Brooker and duly approved.

A large crowd of spectators was present to watch the outcome of the contest between the mayor and the council over the police judgeship. After the reading of the minutes the mayor plunged into the subject with such seeming haste as to lead to the belief that he was desirous of getting the matter off his mind. "I nominate Mr. Lee C. Delle for the office of police judge," said his honor, "and the council will now proceed to either confirm or reject the appointment." For a moment there was deadly silence and one could hear a pin drop in the city hall. Then the council proceeded to vote on the nomination with the result that it was rejected by a vote of 4 days to 2 years, the ballot being a secret one. As everyone present knew the five new members of the council desired the office to go to Attorney Geo. F. McAulay, but this the mayor emphatically refused to agree. When the result was announced the mayor said: "I now nominate for the office of police judge Mr. John H. Lynch, the council will proceed to ballot." The council did so and Mr. Lynch received 4 out of 6 votes and was declared elected, thus ending the fight.

Rev. H. M. Bartlett was then recognized and addressed the council briefly in advocacy of the proposed public library. He stated that the association would make over to the city its books, 2500 volumes in all, and what money it had in bank and that he would turn over the $3800 subscribed by citizens to purchase a site for the proposed building, all in consideration of the city agreeing to contribute the sum of $1000 per annum as a maintenance fund. The matter went over pending an investigation by City Attorney Cull.

Councilman Rand from the special committee appointed to confer with the new managers of the Yakima Water, Light and Power company, reported that a conference had been held with Messrs. Strahorn and Smith and that those gentlemen had promised to consider the matter fully and had shown a disposition to do what is fair regarding a reduction in the price of water and light. Mr. Strahorn had said that he would agree to make a rate equal to the average rate of a dozen other northwestern cities and would settle the matter definitely with the committee on such a basis.

The clerk then read an exhaustive report from Chief Hauser on the condition of the Larson and Edison theatres, also an inventory made by the chief of the property owned by the city in his charge. A summary of these reports will be found in another column.

Mr. Angell from the east end of Yakima avenue asked the cooperation of the city with river front property owners for the building of a breakwater in the Yakima river. The matter was referred.

Chairman Sinclair of the street and ditch committee reported in favor of changing the course of the Union ditch on south Sixth street in order to avoid the expense of replanking it. B. F. Barge, who was present, protested against the change on the ground that an open ditch was a menace to the safety of the little children in the neighborhood and also because that such a change would destroy the beautiful lawns made by citizens in front of their premises. Mr. Barge warned the council that the change would not be made until every legal expedient had been first exhausted. The council, however, backed up the committee and assented to the change.

An ordinance was read and passed creating the police department under the provisions of the new state law. An ordinance was also read and passed that created the office of street superintendent under the new law. These ordinances are printed officially in the Democrat this week.

An ordinance creating the office of city engineer was read and laid over. These ordinances vests the appointing power entirely in the mayor and provides that he may remove the officials at will.

The matter of collecting delinquent street assessments came up and Attorney Cull was instructed to proceed against all delinquents, particularly on Front, First and Second streets.

The attorney was also instructed to bring condemnation proceedings for the opening up of Cherry street.

The clerk was directed to advertise for bids for the south Naches cement walk.

Before adjournment the council approved the bond of Plumbing Inspector McCafferty in the sum of $1000 and that of Sexton Carosso in the sum of $500.

The Charity Ball.

The ladies of St. Joseph's Catholic Church will give a Charity Ball Tuesday, January 26 in the Armory for the benefit of the Sisters of Charity. The patrons and patronesses will be Mayor and Mrs. O. A. Fechter, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitson, Mr. and Mrs. Phil. A. Ditter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Villaume, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartholet, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Tetreau, Mr. and Mrs. M. Schorn. The grand march will be led by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Vance at 9 o'clock sharp.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE

Chief Hauser Proposes Some Sweeping Changes in Interior Arrangements of Local Theaters.

Chief Hauser of the city fire department having been requested by the council to make an examination of the theatre buildings of this city made a lengthy and detailed report to that body Monday evening. Regarding Larson's theatre the chief suggests that the following changes be made to insure the safety of patrons in case of fire:

That a substantial six-foot stairway be ordered built on the south side of the structure leading to the balcony and gallery. That all doors be made to swing outward as well as inward and that all exits be plainly marked as such and that all doors be kept unlocked during performances. A line of pipe should run to the building tapped by a two-inch pipe running to the two wings of the stage. Three 3-gallon fire extinguishers should be kept constantly on the stage and in the basement. The house should also have an independent light wire so that the house would not be left in darkness should any trouble occur with the stage lights. Regarding a fire proof curtain, the chief says that such a curtain is a necessity but that he has not yet made up his mind which particular kind of curtain is the best. He is investigating that point further.

Regarding the Edison theatre the chief suggests that exits should be provided leading from the stage. The report of Chief Hauser is a very comprehensive one and goes into the subject in detail. It will doubtless be a surprise to many people who have been frequenting the local theatre regularly that so many radical changes are deemed necessary by the chief, in order to make the building entirely safe for its patrons in case of fire during a performance.

The present city council seems disposed to go as far as its authority will permit in enforcing regulations that will tend to protect the public in case of fire in buildings of a public character. It is said that the church buildings of the city will also be closely inspected. Since the terrible catastrophe at the Iroquois theatre, Chicago, similar investigations of theatre and other public buildings have been or are being made in nearly every city of the country. If the result makes for such better protection to the people that a repetition of that great disaster is unlikely to ever again occur in this country, the terrible Iroquois calamity, which cost 566 lives, will not be without its compensation.

Attorney Butcher in Trouble.

W. F. Butcher, a prominent attorney of Baker City, Or., and known to a number of people in North Yakima, is in serious trouble, according to the press dispatches of last Saturday. The Oregonian's account states that Mr. Butcher on the evening of Jan. 15 fired two shots into the body of his business partner, J. C. White, which may possibly result fatally. Butcher and White were interested together in a contract to install a water and light plant at Weiser, Idaho, and had quarreled over making a settlement. Butcher and his friends claimed that at the close of an interview held in Butcher's office during the afternoon White had declared that he would thrash Butcher as soon as he could catch the latter out of his office. That evening the two men met in a hallway and Butcher commenced shooting with the result stated.

Mr. Butcher will be remembered by the older residents here as the man who married the widow of the late Dr. Coe of this city, the deceased brother of J. R. and B. N. Coe. Some time after his marriage Butcher came here to aid H. J. Snively in the defense of Wm. Feamster, his wife's brother, who was on trial here for an attempt made on the life of H. L. Tucker. While out on bond Feamster fled the state.

Mr. Butcher has for years been prominent as a democratic leader in Oregon. Two years ago he was the party candidate for congress in the second district and in 1900 was one of the delegates from the web-foot state to the democratic national convention.

Captain Dunn Returns.

Captain Robert Dunn arrived home on the early morning train Thursday from his trip to London where he went a few weeks ago to market the four car loads of hops grown on his Parker ranch last year. Captain Dunn while not stating the exact price which he received for his hops, said that he had more than realized the cost of his trip from the additional price received over what he could have got had he sold here at the same time. He spent a few days on his native heath in Scotland, but says that the weather was so cold and foggy that he soon got enough of it.

THE ARTIFICIAL ICE PLANT

Yakima's Newest Industry Ready to Begin Business—Will Have a Capacity of 15 Tons Daily.

The machinery for the Yakima artificial ice making plant is now installed and satisfactorily tested and it is the intention of the proprietors, Messrs. Hawks and Hughes, to begin the manufacture of ice either today or Monday. This enterprise was begun here only a few months ago by the gentlemen named, who are from Atwood, Ill. They have exhibited their faith in the project and in the future of this city by investing about $25,000 in their site and plant, a fact that ought to convince the people of this city and vicinity that they mean business and are here to stay. The plant is located on the railroad track just south of the North Yakima flouring mill. The site is a well selected one and affords the company first class shipping advantages.

The ice plant has a capacity of 15 tons daily, while the cold storage warehouse, which will be divided into a number of different compartments with varying degrees of temperature adapted for the different classes of products. The cold storage warehouse will contain a capacity of 60,000 cubic feet of space which the company propose to enlarge as their business in the future may require. The plant when in full operation will give employment to from 10 to 15 men and will thus add quite materially to the city's pay roll. The works will be under the charge of S. A. Walker, a well known ice manufacturing engineer who has had years of practical experience.

It is the intention of the proprietors to manufacture a quality of ice that will be chemically pure and when the season opens to put out wagons to supply both the commercial and domestic trade. They also hope to secure a shipping rate from the N. P. railway that will enable them to place their product daily in all the towns along the line between the Cascade mountains and the Columbia river. The people of this city should and doubtless will fully appreciate the value of this new enterprise to North Yakima. They should, moreover, show their appreciation in a practical way for the success of this new industry means much to the city. The Democrat will contain a more extended description of the new ice plant in a future issue.

Necessity of a Public Library.

Editor Democrat:—"Better the first man in this small village than second man in Rome," we cry, and so shut ourselves up in the village where we can be first, and all the great inspirations and delights and cultures of Rome are lost—Phillips Brooks.

Do the citizens of North Yakima wish to deprive posterity of the enjoyment and culture of the world? A public library will banish dull care, encourage that which Alexander Pope declared "Maketh a wise man" and lessens the liability of the multiplication of saloons, billiard playing and kindred amusements. All the great journals of the world are teeming with editorials relating to the upbuilding of the morals of the rising generation. A public library of well selected books is a potent factor toward this end.

The Star Clothing company, as will be seen in its announcement in another column, offers two fine premiums to apple growers who will exhibit the best specimens of apples at the forthcoming Farmers' Institute to be held in this city, Feb. 16, 17 and 18. The first prize will be a $12.50 suit of clothes and the second a $5 Stetson hat.

The conditions of the contest are that not less than ten boxes of apples shall be on exhibition, two boxes of which are to go to the donor and the balance to be sold, the proceeds to go to the Yakima public library. A. Van Holderbeke, F. A. Huntley and Joseph Lannin are to be the judges.

JUDGESHIP SQUABBLE OVER

John H. Lynch Gets the Position—
Misunderstandings Within Reform
Ranks Causes Some Ill Feeling and Leaves a Few Sore Spots.

With the confirmation of John H. Lynch as police judge by the city council Monday night the contest for that position is over, but so many sore spots are left as the result of the deadlock between the mayor and the council that it is safe to assert that it will not only require time but the manifestation of a Christian spirit all around before the sore spots will be entirely healed.

The facts in the local imbroglio are about as follows: The five new councilmen, namely, Sinclair, Rand, Dudley, Thorpe and Bull, wished to have Attorney Geo. F. McAulay appointed as police judge. All these gentlemen, we are informed, signed a written request to Mayor Fechter asking him to appoint Mr. McAulay. The mayor instead named R. K. Nichols for the place. The council by the vote of 5 to 1 refused to confirm Mr. Nichols. The mayor then nominated Lee C. Delle for the position who in turn failed of confirmation by the council by the vote of 4 to 2. The mayor then named John H. Lynch for the honor and the latter was confirmed by the vote of 4 to 2.

The friends of Mr. McAulay are inclined to charge the mayor with bad faith. The claim is made that his honor stated to some of the members of the council that he would first nominate Nichols for the office. In the event that the nomination was not confirmed he would nominate Delle and in case that Delle was not confirmed that he would then name McAulay for the place. Neither Nichols or Delle was acceptable to the council but neither was McAulay acceptable to the mayor.

The mayor's position is that he would not permit anybody, not even a majority of the council to dictate to him. The appointing power is vested in the mayor, his friends say, and the councilmen had no authority to promise the job to anyone since they were unable to deliver the goods. The councilmen on their part claim that they did not promise the position positively to Mr. McAulay, that they merely promised to use their influence for his appointment.

Mr. McAulay states that he never asked for the office but that several of the reformers including members of the council came to him and asked him if he would accept the place. After consideration he decided that he would accept if the position was offered him. He knows of no reason why the mayor should have been so steadfastly opposed to him as he had supported Mayor Fechter loyally in his campaign and had not asked him for any office.

The Local Markets.

In no line has the local market been especially active this week. Potatoes have been coming in quite freely, but the market is hardly as firm as it was a week ago. Spuds are now quoted at from $11 to $12.50 per ton for good stock.

Alfalfa hay is somewhat lower too than a few days ago, due to the fact that the season is well advanced and yet no signs of severe weather. Sheepmen are letting their flocks run out largely for feed in the lower valley and are not buying hay, while the rise in the price of beef cattle has had a tendency to make the cattlemen sell their herds rather than to continue feeding hay at $10 per ton and over.

The hop market still remains inactive, no sales being reported this week although 28 cents is said to have been offered Thursday. The total number of bales of 1902 and 1903 hops is now given as 723. Two or three contracts for 1904 hops were filed this week with the county auditor, the consideration being 17c.

Yakima Apples at St. Louis.

State Horticultural Commissioner Van Holderbeke arrived here Saturday and with the assistance of W. L. Wright and Orlando Beck loaded the 300 boxes of choice apples that had been secured by those gentlemen, in a car bound for St. Louis. Monday the car was pulled to Topenish where 300 boxes in addition, that had been collected in the Sunnyside country, through the efforts of W. N. Granger, were taken on. At Spokane the car was to take on a like number of boxes of Wenatchee apples and then was to be shipped direct to St. Louis, where the fruit will be placed in cold storage and kept until the World's Fair opens in May.

This makes the second installment of Yakima apples shipped to St. Louis for exhibition purposes, the first car having left here in October last.

THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT

JOHN DAVID MEDILL,

Editor and Publisher.

Entered at the North Yakima Postoffice as Second-Class Matter.

One Dollar Per Year—In Advance.

Published every Saturday morning at the Democrat Printing House on First Street, North Yakima, Washington.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THE DEMOCRAT has been urged by a number of people to take a stand against the acceptance of the conditions laid down by Mr. Carnegie for the establishment of a free public library in this city, but we have declined to do so, for we are in favor of the project and not against it.

The city is asked to pledge the payment of the sum of $1000 per annum as a maintenance fund in consideration of Mr. Carnegie donating the sum of $10000, for the erection of a building, individual citizens contributing $4000 in cash with which to purchase the necessary site and the library association making over to the city all of its fixtures and books, consisting of about 2500 volumes. The city be it understood to own all just so long as it continues to furnish the necessary maintenance fund.

To our way of thinking it would be a foolish policy for the city to refuse this offer if there is any legal way of accepting it. A number of people seem to be of the opinion that the question ought first to be submitted to a vote of the people on the ground that such a contract means a perpetual tax which the council has at least no right to place on the already overburdened municipal taxpayers without first securing authority by first submitting the proposition to a vote of the people. With this view the DEMOCRAT fully coincides. A tax which in its nature is perpetual, no matter for what purpose levied, is a matter that intimately concerns the people and they have or ought to have the right to express their views upon it. A city council that came into power through denouncing the "flagrant abuse of authority" on the part of its predecessor in voting an indirect tax on "generations yet unborn" can hardly refuse this request and maintain a reputation for consistency.

We believe that the people of this city will unquestionably ratify the proposal to vote, say a one half mill tax, to provide the library with the necessary maintenance fund. If they do not they will probably wait a long time before they secure as good an opportunity to establish a free public library at a minimum cost.

ROCKEFELLER and his standard oil crowd appear to have ousted Morgan and his satellites from control of the gigantic steel trust. Rockefeller went about the job in this way: He first began to bear the stock of the Erie, Morgan's pet road. The latter in order to protect the Erie was obliged to part with large blocks of steel stock. This the Rockefellerers bought greedily and then offered on the market again for but little over one half its cost. This had the expected effect of sending the steel stock tumbling. Panic stricken, the small holders in steel offered their stock for what they could get. When the market had reached the weakest point the Rockefellerers began buying wholesale until a controlling interest was secured, since which time steel stock has been steadily advancing. It was a smart trick, although a mean one, but Rockefeller won as he always does.

Knowing ones claim that Rockefeller's next attack will be on the Northern merger roads, now controlled by Jim Hill through an alliance with Morgan. The oil king is believed to have it in for Hill because the latter went to Morgan's rescue in the attack on the Erie. This change, if it should come about, would bode no good to the Pacific Northwest. Hill has the reputation of being a hard master but there are some redeeming features about his administration which would be missed under a Rockefeller regime. Hill, at least, is a practical railroad man and with his characteristic enterprises does much to build up the country traversed by his road. Rockefeller on the other hand, does not interest himself in the welfare of the people. He is entirely selfish and constantly demands the largest possible dividends from the smallest possible investment.

The New York World says that Rockefeller's wealth is now conservatively estimated at over five hundred million dollars and is now increasing at a rate of over fifty millions a year. If the old man's stomach holds out it is probably only a question of time when he will own the entire nation if not the planet itself.

STATE AUDITOR JOHN D. ATKINSON announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor last week in the Wenatchee papers. The announcement has been anticipated for some time among the politicians so that when it came it occasioned no surprise.

It is always hard to forecast what a republican convention in this state will do for there are so many cliques and factions that either assume or desire to dominate that party that any ticket nominated is apt to be the result of compromise. The proposal to nominate Auditor Atkinson as yet does not seem to be taken very seriously by any of the politicians, save himself. He is said to be a man of small bore who has no record that would justify his selection for the office of governor. The suggestion that he be a candidate, according to report, emanated from the railroad lobby in the hope that he might be able to sap enough strength from Gov. McBride in certain counties to seriously weaken the latter in the state convention.

The record made by Atkinson as state auditor is not of the kind that is calculated to secure him the office of governor. During the past two years he has spent much time away from his office at Olympia in the effort to promote various mining and railroad schemes in which he is interested. When the state hires a man to do its work and pays him a good salary therefore it is entitled to good service, just the same as an individual or corporation would demand under similar conditions.

AND now comes the antitoxin trust and the medical men of Chicago are preparing to make war against it. Regarding this, probably the most noxious of all trusts for the reason that it deals in human lives, Secretary Pritchard of the Chicago board of health says:

"The antitoxin trust is nothing more or less than a traffic in human life. Three concerns which manufacture and practically control the antitoxin supply of almost the entire country, have seen fit to arbitrarily advance the price of their product 100 per cent."

"The department felt compelled to call public attention to the evidence that a combine had been formed which effectively controlled the price of the only known remedy for the most dread scourge to the child life of the country. Primarily our object is to call attention to the immediate effect this would have on the death rate of children in the city of Chicago. The burden of increased cost will fall heaviest on the self respecting, self supporting heads of families of modest incomes."

The pie maker of the Seattle Republican, the organ of the colored race, figures out the g. o. p. slate this way: Governor, John D. Atkinson, Chelan county; lieutenant governor, Oliver Hall, Whitman county; secretary of state, Sam H. Nichols, Snohomish county; treasurer, C. W. Clausen, Kitsap county; attorney general, Geo. A. Hurd, Skagit county; state land commissioner, E. W. Ross, Cowlitz county; state auditor, James H. Davis, Pierce county; supreme judges, Mark A. Fullerton, Whitman county; Herman D. Crow, Spokane county.

This is perhaps not a bad guess on the theory that John L. Wilson will control the republican state convention, which is unlikely. At any rate this appears to be the Wilson slate. It is to be noted that Yakima county and Central Washington is completely ignored. Atkinson is credited to Chelan county but in reality is a resident of Seattle. He merely keeps up the fiction of a residence at Wenatchee for political purposes, according to certain newspapers of that section.

The daily press of this state has been giving its readers columns upon columns of matter regarding Miss Louise Harris of Spokane, who with 53 other unfortunate was lost in the Clallam disaster. Miss Harris, no doubt, was an estimable young lady and general regret is felt at her sad fate, but the fact that she was a beautiful society girl and an heiress is not a good reason why there should have been so much fulsome laudation of her to the exclusion of the 53 other unfortunate who went to their deaths at the same time. Life was undoubtedly just as sweet to all of them as it was to Miss Harris and that they found it just as hard to die. Yet, the public has scarcely had any information regarding the other 53 except to see their names in the list of dead.

A RIGID investigation is being conducted at Seattle in the effort to ascertain the cause and locate the responsibility for the wreck of the steamer Clallam. The vessel, it seems, was top heavy in its construction, a fact that told heavily against her in a heavy storm. It develops, too, that a new rudder had been ordered for her, found lying on the dock at Seattle. The investigation should be pushed, for if anybody was guilty of negligence the public should know the facts. When people pay their money to travel they have a right to expect that all reasonable precautions should be taken to insure their safety, and it is the duty of the government to see that they get it.

JUDGE HUMPHRIES, Seattle's perennial candidate for governor, has just issued another installment of photographs of himself which adorn the walls of hotels, restaurants, saloons and divers other places in the Elliott Bay city. Somebody ought to take the judge in hand and teach him the rudiments of politics. The man certainly needs a political guardian.

THERE is neither pleasure nor profit in pursuing an argument with the Sunnyside Sun. The editor of that journal worships so devoutly at the shrine of the Washington Irrigation company and has become so enamored of his idol that even an argument calculated to appeal to his cupidity and self interest will not move him. It is fair to infer therefore that Bro. Hitchcock is not actuated by any sordid consideration in opposing the welfare and progress of his own community in the matter of land reclamation. It is more reasonable to assume that he has been hypnotized and that his mind is asleep.

AUDITOR ATKINSON, now a full fledged candidate for governor, is liable to get a reputation equal to that of "Foxy" Quiller. When questioned this week by a reporter regarding his views on the railroad question Mr. Atkinson after heming and hawing for awhile replied in quotations as follows: "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof" and "I make it a point never to cross Fox river until I get there."

If Mr. Atkinson thinks that he can fool anybody by hiding his head in the sand like an ostrich he will deceive nobody but himself.

COLONEL PROSSER has been lecturing to the students of the state university on "The Morals of the Indian." Another celebrated lecturer once advertised an address on "Snakes in Ireland." He talked a long time, but said nothing about Ireland or snakes, and finally concluded by saying: "There are no snakes in Ireland." Colonel Prosser did not treat his subject in this way, though there is much reason to believe it would have been a good way to treat it.—Tacoma Ledger.

THIS appears to be a hard season for the thespians, especially in the east. Show companies to the number of 185 traveling out of New York have disbanded, throwing about 3500 actors and actresses out of employment. This is a straw that shows which way the wind blows. Times are getting hard in the east; in fact they have been hard for several months. When times are good the legitimate actor never fails to secure his share of the general prosperity.

A NEW YORK paper states that the total losses to small investors through the collapse of the rotten U. S. Shipbuilding company and the shrinkage of value in the steel trust stocks will foot up one hundred and eighty million dollars. A great many people who formerly considered themselves well to do now find themselves impoverished and some have lost their all through buying stocks in Morgan's get-rich-quick schemes.

THE editor of the Republic in a long winded editorial on Andrew Jackson concludes that "Old Hickory" after all didn't amount to much, or at least wouldn't if the old commoner were living in our day. The colonel of the Republic has had the distinction of being a Cleveland democrat but never a real Jacksonian, hence his lack of appreciation of the true spirit which animated the patron saint of democracy.

THE favorite son business promises to be worked pretty well this year at the democratic national convention. The democrats of Oregon will present the name of Gov. George E. Chamberlin for president. A strong effort will be made to secure a delegation from California for William Randolph Hearst, while it need surprise no one if the delegation from this state be instructed to present the name of ex senator George Turner.

CONGRESSMAN JONES has come out for a single convention. Mr. Jones is more precipitate than usual. The railroad leaders themselves have not fully determined on the one convention scheme, and, if Mr. Jones should inadvertently get out of step with the railroad leaders he would have heart failure.—"politician" in Spokesman Review.

THE mayor and city council after being at logger heads for some time over the appointment of a police judge have finally compromised by the selection of Judge Lynch. Such action, however, does not necessarily mean that the legal code has been suspended in North Yakima.

WHILE Senator Ankeny was at Walla Walla recently resting from his arduous labors the Idaho senators succeeded in getting an order from the war department transferring the military post from his home town to Boise. Senator Ankeny ought to fire his secretary.

"The nimble lie is like the second hand upon a clock; we see it fly; while the hour hand of truth seems to stand still, and yet it moves unseen, and wins at last, for the clock will not strike till it has reached its goal."—Longfellow.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that the war department has definitely decided to abandon Fort Walla Walla. This is bad news for our sister city. What is the matter with Senator Ankeny and his pull? Why don't he get busy?

THERE will probably be no war in the Orient because the London Jews refuse to lend Russia the money to fight with. Russia is thus justly brought to book for the inhuman policy that she has pursued toward the Jewish race.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has sent his best wishes to the newly organized Roosevelt club at Walla Walla, a fact that causes the Union of that city to swell up with pride. What would you expect him to do neighbor?

SENATOR BAILEY, of Texas, has informed some of his constituents that he will retire from public life before he will vote for the Panama treaty. One can't but admire Bailey's nerve at any rate.

The Telegram, Syracuse, N. Y.—The Smith Premier Typewriter works shut down on the 19th inst. The report is current among the employees of the company that no definite time has been set for reopening the big plant. Over 700 men are thrown out of employment and there is little hope of their being reengaged in the near future. Many of the employees of the company are exceedingly low spirited at the thought of being out of employment during the holidays with small prospects of going back to work at all during the next two or three months. The impression prevails that a lull in business is the real cause of the lay off.—The Visible writing machines are making great inroads in the blind writers' business.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Ex Sheriff Tucker went to Anaconda, Mont, Monday to testify against a man charged with a criminal offense whom he arrested here while sheriff.

C. H. Bruenn has received a contract from H. J. Rand for the construction of an engine house in connection with the latter's slaughter house south of the city. A boiler and engine of large capacity will be installed in the new building.

At Keen's drawing held last Saturday the following were the lucky numbers: No 3685 held by a party at Wapato secured the gold watch. No. 8698, held by Miss Clara Waugh, the silver tea set and No 2578, held by S. Alderson, the fine clock.

Quite a number of Yakima people journeyed over to Seattle the first of the week to hear Patti sing. According to newspaper reports the Diva's voice is now considerably worn about the edges. The great lady is now 61 years of age and says that she is making her "farewell" tour of America.

The Moxee people are said to be using the condemned bridge across the Yakima notwithstanding the fact that the structure was ordered nailed up last week by the commissioners. The people over there think there is no danger as long as but one team is allowed on the main span at one time.

Some twelve Yakima citizens who want to wear a policeman's star have made formal application to Mayor Fechter for the three positions at his disposal on the force. The appointments will probably be announced by the mayor at the next council meeting, when the new police ordinance will be in effect.

Messrs. Brown and Remy, the hustling committee of the Yakima Horticultural Union, have been busy this week in preparing the program for the Farmers' Institute to be held in this city Feb. 16, 17 and 18. The program, which will be quite an elaborate one, will be turned out from this office next week.

The following fruit growers will leave here for Spokane to attend the Inland Empire Fruit Growers' convention: M. N. Richards, E. Remy, J. M. Brown, E. S. Price, O. A. Clark, Will Everett, W. L. Wright, Orlando Beck, Paul Kruger, W. C. Wimer, L. B. Kinyon, P. L. Zirkle, W. D. Thompson, S. S. Shaffer, W. P. Sawyer, R. Vanderhaar. Other growers will also attend whose names we have been unable to secure.

They Entertain

The local hive ladies of the Maccabees entertained the members of their brother tent in a very pleasant manner last evening in Odd Fellows hall. After the regular business of the lodge had been transacted the doors were opened to admit the men, a goodly number being on hand, and the balance of the evening was given over to music, speaking and luncheon. The ladies are excellent entertainers and all present thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

Death of Mrs. Joseph Bakker.

Mrs. Joseph Bakker died last Sunday night of heart disease, at her home 25 miles east of North Yakima and was buried on Thursday. Mrs. Bakker, who had been married but a few months, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Meenour and leaves a large circle of friends.

Don't Kill the Chinese Pheasants.

The 50 pair of Chinese Pheasants ordered by the county commissioners to be paid for out of the game protection fund have arrived and part of them have been distributed in the most favorable locations in the county for the welfare of the birds. The game warden will retain a part of them in confinement until the winter is over and will turn them out in other sections of the county. Hunters are requested to be careful so that none of these birds will be killed accidentally.

The law prohibits the killing of any Chinese pheasants or quail until Sept 15th 1908 and attaches a penalty of not over $500 for any violation.

Made a Good Catch.

A team hitched to one of the Northwestern Improvement company's coal wagons, left standing near the depot Wednesday afternoon, got scared and ran away. The horse and buggy of Mrs. Street standing tied in front of Denley's was captured by the runaway team, a wheel and the rear axle of the buggy being broken. At first street the team was stopped by Napoleon Menard who seized one of the horses by the bridle rein and at great risk to himself hung on until with the assistance of bystanders the team was finally stopped. Mr. Menard was warmly commended for his good work.

Bryan's Latest Firebrand.

Mr. Bryan's last speech awakened much enthusiasm among the 700 democrats present at the "dollar dinner" in Lincoln, but it is doubtful if it makes for harmony in the democratic party. It is quite evident that success can be won only with a united democratic party. It would seem, therefore, that the thing to do is to strive to bring opposing factions together; for the old motto, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall," was no more true on the day it was first uttered than it is today. When Mr. Bryan says, "Instead of talking of compromises and concessions, it is time for honest and aggressive action," he expresses a sentiment that is morally wholesome; but the history of the political world is a history of compromises and concessions, and Mr. Bryan's party will never win when probably half of it can not agree with him on what honest and aggressive action is.

Just at a time when there seems to be a disposition among democrats in the ranks to patch up differences, forget old quarrels and come together for united action, it is certainly poor policy for the democratic candidate in the last two campaigns to declare that "the Kansas City platform is sound in every plank and the first act of the next convention should be to reaffirm it in its entirety." If the planks in that platform were responsible for disaffection and desertion, why make use of them now when the issues they represented are either dead or discarded? Why awaken past disputes and keep old scores open when by so doing nothing is gained and overwhelming defeat is invited?

It is natural, of course, that Mr. Bryan should be reluctant to retreat from any position he may have taken. But why revive issues that make a retreat necessary? To many it will seem that he has needlessly injected trouble into a party that was gradually coming together, and has made it all the more difficult to oppose a solid front to the enemy.—Spokane-Review.

Perilous Period of National Life.

The following editorial appeared in the Nashville Daily News, published at Nashville, Tennessee, and demonstrates that the outrages committed in the state of Colorado against organized labor are attracting the serious attention of men whose love of country and human liberty cannot be muzzled by the potency of the almighty dollar. The editorial reads as follows:

"Every thoughtful man who relies for a livelihood on the products of his labor must view with alarm the unstable and unsafe industrial system of this country, for it is clear to every student of political economy that we are hastening to not only a critical, but a most perilous, period in our national life.

"In the face of the fact that mills are being shut down and the wage scale is being reduced all over the country, it is estimated that the aggregate annual interest and dividends to be paid on the first of January will be $145,000,000, an excess of $10,000,000 over last January.

"If increased earnings in dividends and interest and a reduction in the wage scale and the volume of work mean a continuation of prosperity, in what way or through what channels will this new kind of prosperity get to the laborer, the farmer, the merchant and all other middle men? How is it possible for these vast earnings to be distributed among the people who produce the wealth or buy the production? How is this money going to get back into the channels of trade, when the laborer is without work or poorly paid? Who will consume the products of the farm, of the shops and of the factories?

"What has been put up to earn this vast amount of money that goes, not to the man that produces but to the manipulator of stocks, bonds and industries?"

"William Randolph Hearst, in his New York American, says: 'Millions, tens of millions, hundreds of millions, thousands of millions of practically valueless watered stock are palmed off upon the public. The steel trust alone succeeded in getting rid of nearly one thousand millions of stock that represented nothing but trust dishonesty.'

"If this be true, and it is not denied, how much farther does the villainy reach? Nearly every product is under the domination of a trust. Through the agency of this industrial piracy the production, as well as the distribution, of wealth is regulated and when there is a slump in stocks and bonds, the captains of industry decree that the laborer must pay the deficit.

"Vicious legislation corruptly procured, is responsible for the present perverted state of our economic system. The congress of the United States has paid for big campaign contributions in 'legislation to order,' and step by step the villainy has led up to the present abnormal conditions.

"To complete the work of this purchased conspiracy and to maintain an economic monstrosity, increased strength of the United States army has been deemed necessary, and with the characteristic stealth of a usurper, the federal congress passed the Dick bill, making the citizen soldiery a part of the federal army.

"Rockerfeller, Morgan and the whole crowd of plunders were directly interested in having the Dick bill passed, for they knew their industrial conspiracy would ultimately require a stronger military power to maintain it.

"The first application of this military law usurpation and encroachment is seen in Colorado, where troops under the pretext of federal authority, are guarding Rockerfeller's mining interests. The militia has superseded the state authority. Adjutant General Bell, who is in authority in the Cripple Creek district, issued an order proclaiming 'that it became necessary to suspend, by the occupying military authority, the criminal and circuit law and the domestic administration and government.'

"This in the face of the Colorado constitution, which says:

"The military shall always be in strict subordination to the civil power."

"Another military order issued at Victor, Colorado, says:

"All persons in possession of arms, equipments and munitions of war of any description are required to surrender same on or before 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, December 8, 1903, to the military district commander, taking his receipt for same. Any person or persons failing to surrender the said arms and equipments and munitions of war will be arrested and confined in the military prison and further punished as occasion may require."

"The constitution of the United States says:

"The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

"In direct contradiction and violation of the first amendment to the constitution of the United States, the Victor military order proclaims:

"No publication, either by newspapers, pamphlets or hand bill reflecting in any way upon the United States and the state of Colorado, or its officers, or tending in any way to influence the public mind against the government of the United States and the state of Colorado, will be permitted; and all articles of news or editorial comment or correspondence, making comment upon the actions of the military forces of the state of Colorado or of the organization above referred to, will not be tolerated."

"The federal constitution says: 'Congress shall make no laws... abridging the freedom of speech or of the press.'

"The Associated press reports that four Germans, imported from Duluth to Cripple Creek to take the place of strikers, refused to go to work when they learned of the conditions, and were placed in the military prison. Numerous other cases of arrest and imprisonment without trial are reported.

"The fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States says: 'Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law.'

"Here are the first fruits of the Rockerfeller-Dick bill—a creature of and for the trusts. The first stroke is a bold, daring one, for under its operation the press is silenced, citizens are thrown into prison and military despotism prevails.

"When the Rockerfellers, et al. are reduced to the exigency of putting all labor into perpetual industrial servitude to insure the permanency of the dividends, the military will then be, as it is now, at their backs, ready to shoot hungry labor into submission.

"Is history repeating itself?

"Is America threatened with the same fate that befell Rome, the proudest republic the world has ever known?"

"Let those who can successfully defend the existing villainy do themselves the honor of an honest effort."

A FREE FIGHT Women Stopped It

THERE was a new baby in the roadside house. Its mother was a sweet, glad girl, only nineteen. Its father kept a grocery next door to his home on the country road, and, more's the pity, a whisky saloon was attached to the grocery. The young father was one of his own best customers in the drinking shop. Neighbor men gathered in the evening to "make Zeef treat off his daughter." Zeef was only too willing. Then a high official of the country "treated," too, and round after round of the madden-ing, burning whisky was swallowed. The official had a loaded pistol in his hip pocket. Among those "drinking off Zeef's daughter" was a big, red haired son of Mars with all the belligerency of the Martian temperament.

Presently howls, shouts, oaths, roars like those of an enraged bull, all mingled with the shrillest, most painful screams that ever pierced human ears filled the air around that country whisky shop. The jumbled uproar sounded as though at least ten drunken lunatics were murdering one another. There never was din more infernal.

Three ladies, city women spending autumn days in that unpeaceful rural neighborhood, heard it. They were in a house near the saloon. It was odd, but the first thought of all three was one that never entered the mind of even the new baby's father. They looked at one another and said:

"They'll kill that poor woman and the baby, too, with their devilishness."

The girl mother lay upon her bed, with her hand on the baby's downy head, and heard it all and knew her husband was in the fray. Finally one of the three ladies rose and with a warlike mien marched into the highway and toward the battle ground.

"I can't stand this," she said.

Without a word the other two followed, not large women, but valiant in the strength of their cause. In this free fight the principal belligerents were the baby's father and the big red haired son of Mars. They were clawing and cuffing each other like two drunken tigers, as they were, though they were in God's image. The commander of the squad of three women dashed in between the baby's father and the red haired man. The red haired man, not knowing it was a woman who rushed in, turned and gave her a grip by the arm that made her howl with pain. His little son had hold of the red haired man's right leg, and the boy it was

"POPPER! POPPER! COME AWAY HOME!" who emitted the fiendish screeches that sounded like a siren steam whistle gone crazy.

"Popper! Popper! Come away home!" he screamed. Several country canines barked their best and loudest, sealing all the notes in the dog gamut.

After the momentary interruption at it again went the new baby's father and the redheaded man. In between them sprang the second of the squad of three city ladies. The third one grabbed the squalling boy by the neck and dragged him loose. She shook him.

"Shut your mouth! Shut up, I tell you!" she said. The boy shut.

Meantime the second member of the woman squad had seized the big red haired man by the arm and was reasoning with him, asking him if he wanted to kill the young mother and her baby. He protested, with drunken tears in his voice, that he didn't, that he would die a thousand deaths himself first. The red haired man was a brave chap, chivalrous to women.

The second and third members of the feminine squad of three conveyed the red haired man home, one holding each arm, and saw that he stayed there—actually stood guard over him and talked him sober—till there was no more danger of his running back and renewing the fray. The fight, that might have resulted in murder, was ended. When it was over the leader of the feminine squad found something in her hand. She looked at it. It was Zeef's shirt, torn off his back, slit and rent from top to bottom. Moreover, it was neatly folded up. How, when or where she got it, above all, how it came to be carefully folded, the commander can not tell to this day.

The next morning the baby's mother said: "It was all that Bink's fault, so it was. He hit poor Zeef's first. Besides, it's always customary for a man to get drunk when his first baby comes." MARY L. BURNS.

FASHION CHATTER.

Some of the Popular Things For Women's Wear.

Waists we must have anyhow, and it is a good thing for many of us that shirt waists hold their popularity so long, as in this way one skirt may be made to do double duty, for waists wear out much faster than skirts.

So with a pretty silk waist for evening, a velutina one for street, a flannel one for the house and perhaps one or two others of vesting or thick washable stuff a woman can get along with fewer skirts and look quite as pretty. The waists are, generally speaking, not so ornate as they were, and they are much more elegant for the difference.

There are some really beautiful French and Scotch flannels intended expressly for shirt waists. They are in all the fashionable colors and designs and are made up quite simply, with a few tucks or gathers at the shoulders, and are, as before, drawn to the front in a modified blouse shape. Some are worn with pointed belts, but the majority have straight ones, plain, draped or embroidered. Some of the fine ones are very beautifully devised, with all sorts of arrangements to make them handsome, and these are made of the richest of silks and satin. Leather belts are very fashionable, but they are extra fine. Some are of plain leather, bound on the edges and stitched, while the others are of the best patent leather. Gun metal buckles are much liked for this kind of belt, but some have silver or gilt buckles.

Gun metal in dress material, silks for ties, velvets for hats and in buttons is exceedingly fashionable just now. Shirt waists have decorations made of bands of velvet ribbon, and on these are set several handsome buttons of this metal. These buttons are made in different shapes and sizes, some being oval and others pointed at the ends. These are called olives. They are showy, and when in steel set on a dark and rather dull color they light it up wonderfully.

One of the waists in the illustration shows the olive button down the front, with a row of fancy castle braid on each side; also on the cuffs and collar. This braid is offered in all the combinations of color of the season and in very many really artistic designs. Some of them are as fine as lace and, being made of silk, give an effect not obtained by any other trimming, this being partly due to the fact that it is so flexible that sharp corners can be turned and many new arrangements made which would not be possible with ribbon or with lace alone.

Among the stuffs made almost exclusively for the shirt waist is a new material in the flannel order, which, it is claimed, will not shrink in washing. This is a great drawback in most flannels. It is produced in all the colors now in vogue in designs suitable for the material, but it has not struck me as being very pretty.

For evening wear there is a great variety of silks and china crapes, and some of the new mohairs are pretty enough to be used for this purpose. The liberty silks, taffetas, bleached pongees, some brocades and some china crapes are adapted to the making of evening waists for theater and informal occasions where full dress is not required. They are made on the same lines as those here shown, but lace and embroidery and fancy stitches, fine castle braids and fancy buttons are all applied as trimming.

While I was trying to find out all I could about waists I saw some garments intended for the intimacy of one's own room, and, though perhaps they are out of place here, yet I shall mention them. One was a wrapper in soft wool of laine, with a small red dot on a gray ground. The gray was that known as French, and the red was crimson. The back of the dress was made in princess shape, while the front hung loose from a lace yoke to the feet. On the shoulders were caps of the white lace and cuffs of the same to the bishop sleeves. Around the bottom of the dress were five rows of very narrow black velvet ribbon, with large medallions of white lace placed over them all around. At the throat there was a dainty looped rosette of velvet ribbon, with twelve single ends of the ribbon in varying lengths, none shorter than six inches nor longer than twelve. At the end of each was a tiny bow with ends of the same ribbon. A rosette of long and narrow velvet loops is worn in the hair with this pretty home gown.

A neat little negligee of polka dotted silk extended several inches below the belt, where it was plainly hemmed. The belt was of ribbon to match the dot, and the cape collar was bordered top and bottom by a row of black lace insertion. A bow at the neck finished it. The sleeves were rather narrow bishop shape, with lace bands.

Canal as Republican Capital.

By means of democratic votes the Panama treaty will be ratified. It is a fitting conclusion of the struggle which has been waged in favor of an isthmian canal, a struggle led by democrats.

Republican organs are even now advancing a specious party claim to a great achievement. To put it bluntly, this is about as absurd a proposition as has been advanced since the republicans of Missouri set themselves up to be the boodle scourgers of the state.

At the outset it is well to remember that the canal is a public improvement in the largest sense—a world improvement. It should have no partisan significance whatever, and open-minded citizens approach it from the standpoint of their good business judgment. But the effort has been and will be made to find republican campaign capital in the enterprise. There is no campaign material for that party in the issue.

In the first place, the demand for a canal has risen chiefly from the south, upon which it will confer the most direct benefits. Assertive champions of the enterprise have been democrats from the beginning. It is within the bounds of reason to assert that the activity of the railroad lobby within the trust party has prevented the work from being well-nigh completed at this writing.

During the agitation of the last few years democrats have inclined to the Nicaragua route. The attitude is explained by the one statement that a great body of engineers deemed the Nicaragua proposition to be altogether the cheaper and more practical. But congress decided upon the Panama route and so instructed the president. That action closed the debate as between the two locations—whether wisely or not makes no difference.

Empowered by congress to negotiate for the Panama privileges, Roosevelt went ahead. The results attained are before the public, with all the details of Colombia's perfidy and Panama's opera bouffe revolution. The heroic part in this transaction, when facts are sifted, was taken by a United States navy officer, Commander Hubbard. In a legitimate defense of American lives and property he "bluffed" and 450 Colombians with forty-two marines and gave an opportunity to a handful of Panamanos to form their de facto government.

American property was safe. Traffic across the isthmus was uninterrupted. But before Colombia was permitted to stir a hand or voice a plea, before this country or congress could pass upon the situation, in contravention of all precedent Roosevelt hastened to a recognition of the Junta. Recognition was instigated by the European imperialistic powers, which are none too particular about methods when their interest is involved. The heroics involved in this procedure are difficult to perceive. Yet this is the republican "achievement."

Such being the circumstances it rested with the democrats to choose a plan of action. The better sense of the party saw at once that the president had acted within his prerogatives and authority and that the nation could not with dignity renege from the position taken. They perceived also that Nicaragua was out of the question and that the only way to avoid a five or ten years' delay was to insist upon a ratification of the treaty. Their sense of the need for a canal retired controversial considerations into the background. The newspapers representing that element have urged the ratification, which now is assured. The pressure brought to bear upon senators determined them against a fight on the treaty. It follows that when the ratification is granted it will have been secured chiefly by the democratic press, which promptly and imperatively demanded such a course.—St. Louis Republic.

Train a Queer Character.

The late George Francis Train was an original and eccentric character whose component parts were probably one-half genius and one-half crank. Into his long life were crowded many varied and wonderful experiences. In recent years he had occasionally written for the press in his visionary but vivid style but he has not been a part of the world's affairs. Those who may have seen him in his old age, surrounded by children and caring not for association with his fellow-men, could hardly realize that 50 years ago he was a startling if not always a successful force in the commercial world.

Train's career was a meteoric one. As a young man he was considered a little "off," but he had energy, enterprise, shrewdness and abundant confidence in himself and his advance was rapid. He began as an office boy, but soon had an interest in a Boston shipping house, established a branch in Liverpool, opened a commission house in Australia, attempted to build street railways in England, organized a line of slipper ships to California in early days, assisted in the promotion of a line of railway from the Missouri to the Pacific and even presented himself as a candidate for president of the United States.

In some of these ventures Train achieved success, in others failure. He was a dreamer and often irresponsible, but as a projector and promoter he had whirlwind qualities and many of his schemes were carried through by sheer pluck, push and perseverance. His eccentricities increased as he grew older and while he was forever conceiving great undertakings, conservative men regarded him as too irresponsible to be trusted. Many called him crazy and he was frequently in jail as a lunatic, but there was never a time when he did not regard himself seriously. Gradually he withdrew from the affairs of his fellow-men and lived the life of a recluse. Had there not been a "screw loose somewhere" he would have been one of the remarkable men of his time. As it was he did little harm and perhaps much good.—Spokesman-Review.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Democratic National Convention Called—International Arbitration Meeting at the Nation's Capital.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16, 1904.

The democratic national committee met at the Shoreham on Tuesday—full house. The first hours were wasted over the insignificant contest for committee-man from this district. The lobby was crowded with familiar faces. There were Senator Clark, slight of figure, keen-eyed, jocular, voluble with the western manner; Senator Jones, serious and dignified, conceding at last that Bryan was not elected; Senator Dubois and his comrade, ex-Senator Charley Towne, both buoyant and confident of the future; McCarren, the new boss of Brooklyn, tall and smooth-shaven, received effusively; ex-Governor Peck, of Wisconsin, who alluded to Chicago as the twenty-third ward of Milwaukee; Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, moustached, solid, commanding; Tillman, shaggy, pugnacious, loquacious and of opinion that "it is high time the south was conceded a vice president;" Sulzer, brisk, talkative, chockful of opinions; Bryan, belated and welcomed affectionately, but not vociferously. The committee selected St. Louis, July 6th, for the convention to nominate a president. In the lobby Judge Parker was undeniably regarded as the name to conjure with. Neither Cleveland's friends nor Bryan's object. Gamaliel Bradford of Boston, vice president of the anti-imperialist league, stirred up the crowd everywhere by his appeals in behalf of General Miles for president.

When the committee adjourned for refreshments, your correspondent walked round the square to Lafayette theatre and attended one of the most remarkable meetings ever held in this city—in behalf of international arbitration, especially between England and the United States. Their flags were hung side by side in the proscenium arch. From the stage the audience was very distinguished, including a hundred members of the senate and house, and to the audience the six famous publicists ranged in rank back of the footlights seemed even more remarkable. Mr. Cleveland, who lost his little Ruth the other day, was not present to preside, and his place was taken by our foremost diplomatist, John W. Foster, often ambassador to foreign countries and recently active in the settlement of the Alaskan boundary. Slender, alert, facile, he is at 70 the ideal presiding officer. Thomas Nelson Page, acted as secretary and vigorously read the resolutions. There was little that was strictly novel in any of the speeches, but they were impromptu and deeply earnest. Cardinal Gibbons, tall, lean, grave, conventional, made a favorable impression, the key of his thought being the necessity of peace between the English speaking races. General Miles was received with applause long continued, as his commanding voice and vigorous personality drove home his sentences. The gem of his speech was that armies should not be organized and armed for the purpose of hunting down weak peoples, and that arbitration had its noblest service in protecting the feeble against the powerful. The situation was unique; the foremost soldier of America speaking for liberty and justice instead of conquest and pleading for peace against all warlike methods. Edward Everett Hale, the venerable author and chaplain of the senate, was an agreeable but almost a startling presence, unfamiliar to the people of Washington. Tall-giantesque, hirsute, explosive in speech, abrupt in manner, with the meek, the gesture, and the lusty ejaculations of the primitive man, he trumpeted forth his denial that arbitration was a new invention. The constitution adopted in 1787 was an arbitrament, providing a supreme court; now we need a world's supreme court. J. M. Dickinson spoke for the south most eloquently. He was counsel for the American boundary commissioners in the Alaskan dispute. He said that the south is more interested in arbitration than any other people on earth, for it will be fully 100 years before the south recovers from the destruction of her young manhood wrought by the civil war. Dr. Silverman spoke for the Jews, and warned the audience against and ruler "who proclaims peace and permits thousands of his people to be butchered." Andrew Carnegie, underized, close-cropped, fire in his eye and a laugh on his face even when most in earnest, warmed the audience into a real Scotch conflagration of enthusiasm. It was good to be there and made one feel for a moment as if the world was progressing.

While the democratic committee and the international congress were in session within a block of the White House, the senate was stirred to its depth a mile off on Capitol Hill by a resolution offered by Senator Bacon of Georgia advising the president to negotiate a treaty with the republic of Colombia, looking to full and complete compensation by the United States for the loss of her sovereignty and property rights in Panama. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, denounced the resolution and all reference to the matter as being pernicious, but debate was permitted. Something like consternation was caused among republicans by a remark of Senator Hale that he was in favor of compensating Colombia.

Senator Scott of West Virginia strongly opposed the appointment of General Wood to be major-general, denouncing that officer in caustic language. He said "Condole his conduct, and the character and morale of the army will be gone."

The annual rebellion against the civil service law occurred yesterday in the house of representatives, several prominent men of both parties denouncing it as a humbug and a fraud. It was attacked by Gen. Grosvenor, Mr. Hepburn and others, and on a division the appropriation for the commission was struck out—78 to 65. The senate will probably restore it.
