

COWARDLY CULPRITS COMMIT CRIME

Lazy Hoodlums Destroy the Young Orchard of W. B. Holt Near Wapato—Sheriff John Edwards Sends Out Detectives.

Sunday night a band of criminals entered the young orchard of W. B. Holt, near Wapato, on the Yakima Indian reservation, and with the use of axes and hatchets, and by uprooting, absolutely destroyed between 300 and 400 young fruit trees. The crime ranks with the cowardly and dastardly work of the Kentucky night riders, whose depredations in that state have cost many lives and the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property.

The authorities here are of the opinion that the destruction of Mr. Holt's orchard was brought about through the agency of a gang of lawbreakers at Wapato. The ring leader is said to be an illicit liquor dealer, and unless all signs fail, it is a sure shot that this same Mr. Whiskey Dealer will sooner or later find himself in the clutches of the law.

The same crowd that destroyed this orchard is thought to have visited the nursery owned by the Wapato Nursery company. At any rate, on this very night, some one threw down the fencing of the Nursery company and dragged it across the county road, and posted warnings of further contemplated outrages in case the owner continued to employ oriental labor. Similar notices were posted on other orchards where Chinese or Japanese laborers have been employed.

The closest investigation is now being secretly carried on under the supervision of Sheriff John Edwards, and it is more than likely that some of the cowardly offenders will be brought to justice.

Certain people in Wapato, including a "blind pig" man in that town, are known to have been encouraging an anti-Japanese sentiment. This year a considerable tract of country around Wapato has been planted with young fruit trees, and, being utterly unable to get white men to work steadily, the owners have been forced to employ Japanese and Chinese. The orchardists state that the men who can be found at Wapato will work only for a few days, just long enough to earn a few dollars, and then they buy whiskey, and lay off until the money is spent. These workmen are worthless to the orchardists.

The notice placed on the Wapato Nursery was to the following effect:

Warning Notice.

"If you expect to sell your nursery stock to white people, do not employ Japanese. Warning."

The notices in other orchards are of similar import.

Sheriff Edwards states that the wrecking of Mr. Holt's young orchard has not been officially reported to him yet, but he has already commenced an investigation and hopes to land the offenders. "That sort of thing is not permitted in this county if I can prevent it," said Mr. Edwards. "The next development might be a riot."

W. B. Holt, whose place was destroyed, is the owner of several hundred acres of orchard land near Wapato and has expended upwards of $30,000 on improvements on the property. He is regarded as one of the principal upbuilders of the Wapato section.

similar growth, being the hamlet center of a rich district. It will be so all along the line. It will increase the rate of development down that way in every material respect at least 50 per cent.

The project has attracted the attention of eastern capital and many inquiries are being received concerning it. The company is elated at the promise of early maturity of its plans and an equally early commencement of the work of executing them."

MOXEE ITEMS.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

One of the most enjoyable social affairs ever held in the Moxee valley occurred last Monday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. DenBester. It was the occasion for the celebration of their 25th marriage anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. DenBester were the recipients of many costly presents from their neighbors. A supper was served at 6 o'clock which was enjoyed to the fullest extent. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Sutendorst, Mr. and Mrs. Hogland, Mr. and Mrs. Mears, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sybouts, Mr. and Mrs. Swears, Mr. and Mrs. Postma, Mr. and Mrs. Dehertoch, Miss Ida Mears, and the pastor and his wife. Much fun was afforded the guests by one of the neighbors who dressed up after the fashion of a French chef and waited on the tables. His name is not given for obvious reasons.

It is the quality of Goldberg's Cigars that attract.

FORGER M. E. NICHOLS CAUGHT AT LAST

Clever Confidence Man Landed by the Authorities in Hanford, Cal. Will be Tried Here.

Through the efforts of Sheriff Edwards, one M. E. Nichols, wanted here for obtaining money under false pretenses, was arrested last week at Hanford, Cal., after having cleverly eluded the officers from Portland to the place of his capture.

Sheriff Edwards has been in communication with officers all along the supposed route of the fugitive Nichols, and several times the prisoner narrowly missed capture. The description of the man as sent out by Sheriff Edwards fell into the hands of the Hanford authorities, and when Nichols arrived there in his flight south he was promptly nabbed.

At the request of Mr. Edwards he will be brought back here to stand trial. He succeeded in obtaining $40 from the First National Bank of this city under false pretenses, and also of fleeing Frank Oviatt out of $5. The latter, however, declares that he will not ask Nichols for the money when he sees him.

"He didn't fleece me," said Mr. Oviatt in talking about the affair. "He just touched me for five in a nice confidential gentlemanly manner, and I let go."

GEORGE GANDY RETURNS

Former North Yakiman Here With His Wife for a Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gandy, well known in this city by all of the old residents, who left here three years ago to reside on a ranch on one of the San Juan islands in Puget Sound, arrived in the city last Tuesday afternoon and will visit here some time. Mr. and Mrs. Gandy are at present stopping with the Camerons, of the Moxee.

For the past three years George has been farming, that is to say, he has been living on a farm. It is a large ranch consisting of 400 acres where game is plentiful and fishing good. The other day some one came along and asked George what he would take for the place. He named a high and fabulous price, not wishing to sell, on account of the hunting and fishing to be had there. The prospective purchaser agreed to take the farm, however, and paid George a nice sum down. Mr. and Mrs. Gandy expect to visit here for a time and may decide to locate again permanently. They are both greatly surprised at North Yakima's growth since they left.

The building will be up to date with all modern conveniences. The Review learns this pleasant bit of news too late to give details.

Contractor L. M. Hilton has commenced excavation for the basement and foundation. The building is to be 30x60 in the clear, arranged to enlarge as the demand requires.—Review.

PROMINENT Y. M. C. A. MAN COMING SOON

Fred S. Goodman, of New York, will be Here March 23 to Confer With Local Promoters.

Mr. Fred S. Goodman of the Y. M. C. A. International committee, New York, who will be in the city on Monday next, to hold a conference with the local association, has practically agreed with Secretary Turner upon the following program; one which will certainly be full of value for the interested student as well as being of deep interest to any intelligent men:

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, Monday, the conference will open in the First Methodist church with Rev. M. L. Rose acting as chairman. At this session the theme to be considered will be "The Obligation of the Association to Promote with Vigor the Bible Study Campaign." Rev. C. E. Gibson will introduce it from the pastor's standpoint, and Mr. W. S. Earls, and probably some others, will speak from the business man's viewpoint. Mr. Goodman will close the discussion upon this topic, and will then present, "An Adequate Policy in Promoting Association Bible Study," and as he is the International Secretary for Bible Study, his words upon this subject will be full of local importance to the project.

At 6:15 lunch will be served in the church rooms, under the direction of the Men's club of the M. E. Church, after which a Round Table discussion will be held upon Bible Study problems, and the evening will close with an address by Mr. Goodman on "The Fundamental Problem—the Teacher."

All leaders of boys' and Men's classes and Sunday school superintendents, in fact, all men who are or ought to be, interested in Bible study methods of the present time, are welcome to these sessions, and it is understood that the only charge will be 35 cents for lunch, and all who desire to partake of the meal must let Secretary Turner know by Saturday in order that a plate may be reserved.

There is no question about Mr. Goodman's authority as a leader in the subjects announced. The international committee sends out only representatives worth while, and it is too good an opportunity to lose to get right up to date on methods and details of Bible study work, both in and out of the association.

FIRE ESCAPES FOR COLUMBIA BUILDING

Fire escapes for the Columbia school are an improvement to that building which the board of school directors of this district now has under consideration. It has not been decided to put fire escapes on the building, but the advisability has been discussed and a representative of a manufacturer has been here to interview the directors. The Columbia school building is the only one which is likely to be so improved, if any. The other buildings do not require them. All have broad, double stairways leading in opposite directions and are considered by experts to afford not only ample and safe exit but easy exit as well.

In the Columbia building the necessity of fire escapes is considered to be a certainty. There is but one stairway in that building and it leads down directly over the site of the heating apparatus. This is considered to be in some measure a menace and therefore it is probable that the escapes will be required as an extra avenue of exit in case of necessity. As reported in this paper some time ago frequent fire drills are a requirement of the school work and teachers must report on the number held. President Rand, of the board, is a stickler on this point, and also on the other points as to doors which swing free, ample exits, etc.

COL. ROBERTSON TALKS POLITICS

May Have to Swallow Mead's Nomination for Governor—Lets John L. Wilson Whip Him Into Line for Taft.

Col. W. W. Robertson attended a meeting of the republican state central committee in Seattle this week. He returned home Wednesday night, perfectly satisfied that Secretary of War Taft will get the nomination for president. He says he thinks that Taft will be elected president if he gets the nomination.

Personally Col. Robertson, who, by the way, is the owner and editor of that strong republican organ, the Yakima Republic, is not a Taft man. It is quite probable that he will vote for Mr. Taft even though he might know deep down in his innermost heart that the vote was being thrown away on a hopeless candidate. Candidly, Col. Robertson is a Hughes man, but when he arrived in Seattle and found John L. Wilson and his co-agitators lined up for Taft, why, the colonel just climbed on the Taft wagon and said, "Boys, count me in."

The colonel is a great respecter of John L. Wilson's political opinions. In fact, next to H. J. Snively of this city, the colonel believes that John L. is the smoothest political manipulator in the state. The reason that the colonel is so bitterly opposed to Mr. Taft is due to the fact that Taft is the avowed candidate of President Roosevelt, and the editor of the Republic never was very strong for Teddy.

While the colonel was away he got next to a lot of inside politics. He has learned to his sorrow that Gov. Mead stands a pretty good chance for re-nomination at the hands of the republican party. He admits that the nomination lies between former Governor McBride and the present incumbent, with the chances favoring the Bellingham man. "Are you afraid that you will have to swallow Mead after all the nice (?) things you have written about him," was asked of the colonel.

"Well, I don't know just yet," was the answer. And then, brightening up like an arc light on Yakima avenue, he added, "But they say on the Sound that McBride can beat Mead."

There is one thing that the colonel is positively sure about, however, and that is on the senatorial situation. He listened intently to a number of conversations between prominent republicans anent the Ankeny-Jones race for the senate, and he is now convinced that Jones has a walk away.

The colonel, being a Yakima man, was naturally asked a great many questions about the Yakima congressman.

"Do they like him in his own town, Colonel?" they would inquire.

"Why, do they?" he would indignantly reply, "Honestly, there is not a single democrat in Yakima county that would refuse to lend Yakima Jones a five dollar bill if he had it. And vote for him? Why, men, I'll tell you I made a personal canvass of the entire county, and among all the democrats, republicans, populists, socialists and anarchists, I failed to find a single voter who is not an enthusiastic Jones man."

Yes, the colonel had a great trip, and if it were not for the gloomy situation on the gubernatorial question, he doubtless would be in the highest spirits. As it is, he may support Jack Splawn on the grounds that Jack is a native son, just like many of the democrats are going to do in Congressman Wesley Jones' case.

HARRY ORCHARD MAY ESCAPE THE GALLOWS

Judge Wood Sentenced Him to Death But Recommends that Mercy be Extended to Murderer.

Boise, Ida., March 18.—Judge Wood today sentenced Harry Orchard to death in accordance with the plea of guilty entered by Orchard last week, but the court recommended that the sentence be remitted.

In sentencing Orchard, Judge Wood stated he believed Orchard in his testimony at the trials of Haywood and Pettibone for the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg, told the exact truth and had attempted to conceal nothing.

"I am more than satisfied," said the judge, "that the defendant now at the bar of this court awaiting final sentence has not only acted in good faith in making the disclosures that he did but that he also testified fully and fairly to the whole truth, withholding nothing that was material and declaring nothing which had not actually taken place."

The judge formally sentenced Orchard and fixed May 15th as the date of his execution.

Orchard thanked the court for his review of the case and for the kindly remarks regarding him. He repeated that he had told the whole truth and that no promise of immunity or mercy ever had been made to him. Before he had concluded tears were streaming from his eyes and his voice almost failed as he thanked Judge Wood for his recommendation to the board of pardons.

SHOOTS WOMAN; DRINKS POISON

Negro Man Commits Murder and Suicide—Terrible Tragedy En- acted in Fremont House.

Mrs. Leo Vina McCoy was shot and instantly killed in the kitchen of her home, 11½ West Yakima avenue, at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Mortimer Moore, who immediately thereafter killed himself by taking carbolic acid. Moore thus carried out an intention formed by him over a month ago and told to the police when he was arrested by them at that time. Mrs. McCoy was cutting bread for the noon meal when Moore sneaked into the room. The manner of his entrance is unknown. He made no threat and did not speak at all to attract attention. Mrs. McCoy, who had called the others in the house to dinner, turned and found Moore before her. He was holding a revolver which he at once fired, the bullet entering her left eye and passing right through her head. Mrs. McCoy fell to the floor on her back and Moore, standing over her, shot again. One bullet went into her cheek and lodged in her head. The second entered the neck, just above the shoulder and came out diagonally opposite, on the left side, just above the shoulder blade.

Murder Has Three Witnesses.

The killing was witnessed by Mrs. Neata Vierow, daughter of Mrs. McCoy, by E. F. Howard and by Niels Johnson, but the crime was effected so quickly that not one could interfere. All these witnesses say that but three shots were fired, but Coroner Frank thinks that the five chambers of the 38-calibre Iver-Johnson revolver used were emptied. If so the course of the other two bullets is untraced. Immediately he had shot

Mrs. McCoy Moore seized a cup from the table, emptied into it the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid which he carried, drank the poison and fled.

Carrying the revolver with him he ran through the alley, across the tracks and to the county jail, where he arrived panting and excited, and asked "Missouri," the cook, to lock him up. "Missouri," thinking the man insane, took the gun away from him and told him to sit down outside while he summoned the turnkey. Sickness overtaking Moore, however, a doctor was summoned but within a few minutes the man died.

Was Jealous of Rivals.

The cause of the killing has not been satisfactorily explained. Jealousy is at the bottom of it. Mrs. McCoy, who was about 35 years of age, was a woman with a trace of colored blood in her veins. Moore was of pronounced African origin. He claimed that the woman was his wife and that they had lived together for years before coming to this state. This Mrs. McCoy denied and said they had not met until last July in North Yakima. The only relations between them, she declared, were those of a religious worker on her part and convert on his. Mrs. McCoy, according to her daughter, was soon to have married Edward T. Clifford of Seattle. Moore knew this and had declared that if he could not have the woman for himself no one else should marry her. It will probably take a searching examination at the inquest, which will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, to bring out the truth of the relationship of the two and the history of each.

Killing Was Premeditated.

A month ago Moore started out to kill the woman. He is alleged to have stolen a pony and saddle which he pawned, procuring therefor $9 with which he purchased a revolver and carbolic acid. He evidently was in ill health at the time and his actions attracted such attention that he was arrested on South Front street by Police Officers Millican and Niles. At the time he was on his way to the home of Mrs.

McCoy. He fought the police on the street but was disarmed. Later at the police station, while being searched, he made an attempt to reach the gun, which had been laid on a desk near him. Failing in this he tried to swallow acid from the bottle he carried, but this, too, was taken from him, but not until after the police, including Former Police Officer Kelly had had a tussle with him. In this struggle Niles was slightly burned by the acid.

After being locked up in a cell Moore tried to hang himself and seemed bent on suicide, making four separate attempts on his life. He was removed to the county jail, where his physical condition was found to be very low, due to lack of sleep and nourishment. He was forced to eat against his will by Deputy Sheriff Grant and apparently had recovered his health and mental balance by the next day.

Man Given His Freedom.

Moore was discharged from the county jail on March 9, no charge having been made against him, and the sheriff having no authority to hold him. Since then he had been hanging out in various places in and near the city. He had a suitcase and some articles which he pawned with Barney & Leach, on the West Side, raising money with which he purchased the gun and acid used Sunday.

The whole history of Mrs. McCoy is not known, apparently, by any one here. Her daughter, Mrs. Nieta Vierow, who lived with her at the scene of the tragedy, the Rainier House, on West Yakima avenue, appears to be hazy upon it. Mrs. Vierow says her mother was a native of Arkansas and was 35 years old. She had married there a man named Fred McCoy, who died when Mrs. Vierow was five years old. The daughter was then taken care of by friends and Mrs. McCoy, she says, removed to California where she lived some years, removing afterwards to Seattle where she was a resident for three years or more, and where the daughter joined her. In Seattle Mrs. McCoy engaged in mission work and assisted the Salvation Army at times. There, too, she met Edward Clifford, a building contractor, whose present address is room 50, 417 James street. She was befriended by Mr. Clifford, who is a North Yakima property owner, and when her health failed on the Sound, some three years ago, she was induced to come here. For a time after her arrival she worked as a nurse and was in the employ of various North Yakima physicians.

Opens a Gospel Mission.

About a year ago she opened a gospel mission in the basement of the Sloan drug store, and about the same time acquired the proprietorship of the Rainier House, said to be owned, house and furniture, by Clifford.

It was at the Gospel Mission, some time last July, according to the statements of the daughter and of Mr. Clifford, that Mrs. McCoy first met Moore. He drifted into the mission room and, it is alleged, recognized the woman and greeted her as his wife. Moore told the police, when arrested, that he had recognized the woman as his wife, and that he had thrown his arms about her neck and had exclaimed, "My God, my wife!" The woman, he said, had whispered to him to kneel down and be quiet, which he had done. He further alleged that the woman had got rid of a large amount of money, about $1800, which he had saved.

Say Moore's Story Is False.

Mrs. McCoy's friends say that there is no basis for this story. They declare that the woman had a warm, tender heart, that Moore had affected religion and gotten her sympathy through tales of illness. He used to go to her house, they say, and feign sickness, groan and writhe and then permit himself to be soothed into peace and good health again. This went on from month to month and continued despite the protests of Mr. Clifford and other friends of the daughter and of the better judgment of Mrs. McCoy herself.

Moore, it is declared, showed a great interest in the history of Mrs. McCoy and had her repeat her story to him time and again. As time passed he began to fit himself into it as a part of her former life, then began to claim they had met before the Gospel Mission meeting in North Yakima and finally that they had been married and had lived together for several years in Arkansas. Moore, who talked considerably, claimed that the woman had suddenly left him in the south and had been absent for years when they accidentally encountered each other here. He claimed her as his, professed jealousy of Clifford, threatened death to the woman, and general destruction to all and was considered a menace. Mr. Clifford says he expostulated with Mrs. McCoy, who, however, extended a friendly hand to the man and alleged that the best way to treat him was to humor him and be kind to him.

Moore's History in Doubt.

Moore, as nearly as can be gathered, came to North Yakima about a year ago from Montana. His home, according to a note left in his clothing, is at 114 East South street, Newton, Iowa, where somebody, probably his mother, named Mrs. W. M. Moore, resides. He worked here as a brick mason and was employed on the court house in stone work, and on the building work of the Telephone office. He is said to have been a reliable, steady workman until after the meeting with Mrs. McCoy, when he became erratic and unreliable. Mr. Clifford, Mrs. Vierow, Mrs. McCoy and others who met him more or less frequently, say that he used considerable alcohol and in their opinion, was addicted to morphine, opium or other drugs. Frequently he complained of pains in his head.

Mr. Clifford, who was telegraphed for at Seattle immediately after the tragedy, came to North Yakima Sunday night. He thinks that in view of the threats made by Moore better care should have been taken of him after his first arrest. As far as he could gather, the consensus of opinion had been that the best course to pursue, there being no charge against Moore, was to release him from custody and give the police an opportunity to run him out of town. He thinks the man should not have been given his freedom under the circumstances.

Does Not Know Mother's Story.

Mrs. Vierow, the daughter of the murdered woman, says she is 18 years old and is the divorced wife of a mate on a steamer running out of Seattle, from whom she separated some three months ago. She has a daughter seven weeks old and had been in North Yakima since her divorce with her mother. She had never learned much of her mother's history and was not thoroughly conversant with the story of Moore. She is convinced, however, that her mother had not met him before he professed religion in North Yakima less than a year ago. Her own father, Fred McCoy, she does not remember, nor his occupation.

Mrs. McCoy's Past.

From information received by the officers it is believed that Moore and Mrs. McCoy lived together in Arkansas and in Texas for several years, that Mrs. McCoy left him and came to the coast, where, it is alleged, she married one man in San Francisco and another in Seattle, of the name of Olsen. According to this information, Mrs. McCoy led a strange double life, in which her religious leanings played at times the leading part. It is possible that the facts may be brought out at the inquest.

Mrs. Leo Vina McCoy, who was killed Sunday and Mortimer Moore, who killed her, were together for six weeks in Denver last September and October. They went from North Yakima together and returned together. At Denver they resided at the home of Dr. Fulton, 1539 Thirtieth avenue, and occupied the same apartments. These facts were told to the jury at the coroner's inquest today when Dr. Frank held court to inquire into the circumstances leading up to the death of the woman. The theory on which the examination is proceeding is that no such man as McCoy existed, that Mrs. McCoy and Moore lived together in Arkansas 10 years ago, as alleged by Moore, that the daughter, Mrs. Vierow, and a son whose location is unknown, are the children of Mrs. McCoy and Moore and that the negro declined to abandon what he considered as his rights or permit of a marriage planned between Mrs. McCoy and E. T. Clifford of Seattle. This wedding, it is declared, was planned for January, but was deferred because of Moore, and was then arranged for some day about a week hence.

Coroner's Verdict

The verdict of the coroner's jury, handed in by L. O. Janek, its foreman, was to the effect that Mrs. McCoy came to her death at the hands of Mortimer Moore, who was insanely jealous, and that Moore died from an overdose of carbolic acid, taken while he was in that condition, with suicidal intent.

HOME-BUILDERS ACTIVE.

Element of Speculation Is Absent in Real Estate Deals This Spring.

Never in the previous history of the development of rural homes in the Yakima country has the activity among home-builders been so constant and earnest as now. There is no speculation in the purchase of country homes this year, so far. Nine-tenths of the property sold covers the purchase of small tracts for orchard and garden homes. Immediate cultivation is proposed in nearly every case of purchase. In 90 per cent. of the deals new houses will be built for the residence of the buyers, many of them this season. Not all of the dwellings will be finished cottages, many buyers having come too late to do that and enter properly upon the work of cultivating their tracts at the same time; but the homes being built are so arranged that additions may easily be made at any time thereafter. The general class of residences being erected by those who have been occupants of their places for some time is far superior to that of the average farm home in many states. Quite a number of the farm cottages are really elegant and modern structures.

Not Much Choice.

Little preference is shown in the districts in which purchases are being made, the location with respect to convenience to this city appearing to be a prominent feature of the selection. Each valley in the cluster of valleys that converge in the Yakima appears to be getting its share of the activity among buyers and builders. If there is a difference in favor of some of the valleys it may be said that Selah, Parker Heights, Tieton, Cowiche and the district southwest of Nob Hill are given the preference, while Moxee, Naches, Wenatchee, the lower Ahtanum and the pleasant valley districts are not far behind. Down the valley, including Parker Bottom, where there is unusual activity, Zillah, Sunnyside and the districts about Granger, Wapato, Toppenish and many other places home-seekers are numerous, development is rapid and building improvements excel those of any previous year.

HANFORD NEWSPAPER.

Rapid Development of Attractive District in Yakima Country.

Arrangements have been perfected for the establishment of a newspaper in the new town of Hanford, 50 miles east of this city on the Columbia river. W. W. Watson, recently connected with the Republic, will have editorial and business management of the paper. The town of Hanford is less than three months old, the first business house in the place being erected early in January of this year. Its growth during the past 10 weeks indicates the manner in which communities are established and business centers organized and equipped with necessary commercial facilities in a remarkably brief period of time in the sage plains of the Yakima country.

Amazing Transformation.

The only indication of civilization and evidence of business life three months ago where Hanford now stands, centrally located in a vast and rich fruit and agricultural district, was a building in which to house and feed a large force of men engaged in the work of constructing the great canal of the Hanford Irrigation and Power company, with operating headquarters at Priest Rapids, nearly 50 miles above on the Columbia river. The site on which Hanford now stands was an undulating sage plain at that time, as innocent of the turmoil of business as the great sand dunes about Pasco. The town now contains four general business houses, two hotels, a livery stable and a lumber yard. In addition to these, a number of cottages have been erected and others are now in course of construction as the homes of those who are the business pioneers of Hanford. The first section of the great canal is now ready to receive its burden of water in sufficient volume to irrigate 16,000 acres of as rich fruit land as the sun ever shone on.

The Early Fruit Belt.

The sagebrush has been cleared from great areas of that fertile land and much of it has already been plowed for further cultivation this year. This land will be largely devoted to fruit and vegetable culture. It has been sold to actual home builders almost exclusively in 10-acre tracts and on many of these garden and orchard home places cottages are being erected for the tenancy of the purchasers. Thousands of acres will thus be cultivated this year, while present plans indicate that that acreage will be more than doubled next year.

Thus are towns built and vast areas of wild lands brought under scientific and profitable cultivation in a few months in the famous Yakima country. So cheaply may these lands be cleared of their growth of sagebrush and so easy of cultivation is their rich, ashy soil that all that is needed is the construction of the channels through which water may be conveyed to them for the purposes of irrigation.

This Is Only a Beginning.

This is only the preliminary step toward the reclamation of the great Hanford district, which is a part of the Yakima country. Next year the canal will be extended to cover 16,000 acres more, while a highline canal will be constructed to cover 20,000 acres above the first big ditch. Other extensions and additions will be made at a later date and as demand requires them for the irrigation of the entire district, covering many thousand acres more.

The Hanford district, being about 600 feet lower in altitude than the fruits developed in the Yakima country, is known as the early fruit belt because fruits and vegetables mature there from 10 days to two weeks earlier than in many other places in south-central Washington. Strawberries, cantaloupes and cherries particularly are early there.

Transportation Prospects.

After the supply of water shall have been turned into the big canal, the chief desideratum of the people of the Hanford district will be direct rail communication with North Yakima. A route for an electric line has already been surveyed, but the first electric road to be constructed as an outlet for that district to a connection with the Northern Pacific, North Coast and North Bank railroads will be to Kennewick, on the Columbia river, opposite Pasco, a distance of 35 miles. This line will be built this summer, the material having already been ordered, the line surveyed and the forces engaged to do the work.

Two steamboats ply the river from Kennewick to Hanford now; and two more steamers will be added during the summer. This is the present means of transportation from the nearest point on the Northern Pacific railroad to Hanford. These steamers are crowded every day with passengers and freight for Hanford. Additional transportation facilities are already needed to that point and the hegira to that district has only begun.

DIMMICK, WHO STABBED TYLER, HAS RETURNED

"Red" Dimmick, who stabbed George Tyler with a pocketknife about 10 days ago, over a game of cards in a local saloon and then disappeared, has returned home. Tyler, meantime, went to Spokane to take treatment for his injuries. It is reported that he is getting along all right toward recovery. Whether or not it is the purpose of Tyler, whose home is near Toppenish, to make trouble for Dimmick for the alleged assault with a dangerous weapon, is not known. Tyler quickly turned his entire attention to nursing his wounds.

It may be that others will take up the case for Tyler and ask the state to prosecute Dimmick. The latter is very unpopular in this community on account of his quarrelsome disposition and his alleged tendency to settle his personal difficulties by resort to the use of dangerous weapons.

NO SYMPATHY FOR HER

That Mortimer Moore, the negro man, who shot and killed his former paramour in her boarding house last Sunday afternoon, and then committed suicide by taking carbolic acid, did a good job, in so far as ridding the community of two very undesirable inhabitants is concerned, is our opinion. The spectacle of a white woman professing to be a devout Christian, and even conducting public worship and gathering around her a band of co-workers in the cause of Christ, while living a double life with a negro man, with several white men trailing in her wake, possibly innocently, exposes one of the most despicable and filthy scandals that was ever unearthed. The tragedy of Sunday afternoon may be termed a fitting and appropriate ending to such an existence. There is a pitiable feature connected with the tragedy, however, as will always be found in any tragedy. A daughter of the murdered woman, a girl 18 years of age, herself the mother of a baby, is left to reap the harvest of her mother's sin. She knows nothing of her father, she says. She knows now that Mortimer Moore claimed to be her father. Equality may be all right, but no human power can ever convert it into a fact. Then why will a white woman place herself on an equal footing with a colored man. A tragedy must follow when this incongruous relationship is established, if not after the manner of Sunday afternoon's occurrence, at least in the evil results to oncoming generations, and the degrading example depicted to our society. The woman in this case, the dead woman, the murdered woman, is certainly not deserving of a single sympathetic thought. Her daughter and grandchild, however, are fit subjects for some truly Christian missionary society to help. May God Almighty in his infinite mercy look down upon these two unfortunate human beings, and may the man who stood on a street corner in this city, and attempted to defend the dead woman in this case, just remember that he not only has a family to defend and protect, but one which he wishes to rear while surrounded by every Christian environment of a civilized people, and not with filthy tragedies to explain and defend, of the kind enacted Sunday afternoon.

LOOK OUT, MR. HOODLUM.

Sheriff John Edwards and his efficient deputy, Ronald Grant, will not permit a gang of lawless hoodlums of the Kentucky night rider type, to terrorize a single community in this country. That bunch of rough necks down at Wapato, that crowd of cowardly, lazy, drunken criminals, who are attempting to run things as they desire, unless they call a halt immediately, will find themselves lodged against a snag of an insurmountable nature. Already detectives are on the trail of that Wapato outfit, and another occurrence of the kind which resulted in the destruction of the W. B. Holt orchard last Sunday night, will find the law breakers facing a serious situation.

You are not living in Kentucky, Mr. Hoodlum, where the meadow grass is green, but you are residing in the beautiful valley of the Yakima, where some of the people may be green, but these same people will not permit a bunch of idiotic laggards to despoil their magnificent orchards, because the owner refuses to employ you and pay the prices that you demand for your lazy worthless work. A Jap, a Chinaman, an East Indian, in fact any kind of a foreigner, is better and much more desirable than a gang of inebriated white men. Give 'em rope.

GOPHERS ENDORSE JOHNSON

The democratic state committee of Minnesota met at St. Paul March 6 and adopted resolutions endorsing John A. Johnson for the democratic nomination for the presidency. The meeting was presided over by Frank A. Day, Governor Johnson's private secretary. The resolution endorsing Governor Johnson was introduced by Martin O'Brien, of Crookston, Minn. Following are extracts from the Associated press report of the meeting: "Somewhere in this country," said Z. Austin, of Minneapolis, "some cunning mind conceived the idea of pitting Bryan and Johnson against each other and killing them both. There is not a man here but knows that if the New York World believed Johnson was a man of the Bryan type it would die before it would support him." In answering statements that the adoption of the resolution would injure Governor Johnson, State Senator Works, of Mankato, said that Mr. Johnson was too big a man to be injured by such a resolution. "This resolution," he declared, "is the spontaneous democratic opinion of the people. The country has been waiting for some indication of the governor's attitude. The action taken here today will largely determine his attitude. In his administration Governor Johnson has been with the people and against the so called predatory interests. Never has he betrayed the trust reposed in him." Alfred Jaques of Duluth, the law partner of National Committeeman Hudson, said: "Those of us who are for Bryan will leave the committee without regarding your action—we will have to work for an instructed Minnesota delegation for W. J. Bryan. All over the United States in the back offices of the trusts, railroads, banks, they are listening to hear from this committee because the adoption of this resolution will open up the possibility of defeating the nomination of Mr. Bryan. They do not care for Mr. Johnson. They do not say that the governor is a party to anything, but 'the interests' would like to find a weakening in the Bryan armor." After several other speeches had been made some of the supporters of the resolution said that though they doubted the wisdom of its introduction, it would not be just to the governor to vote it down, and after John Dewan of Two Harbors had said that if Bryan lacked a few votes of the two-thirds necessary to nominate Johnson would gladly throw the Minnesota delegation to him, the committee voted on the motion to lay the Johnson resolution on the table. This resolution was introduced by Judge H. L. Buck of Winona, and though under parliamentary rules, it was not open to debate, Judge Buck consented that the fullest discussion be had. The motion to lay on the table was defeated. Mr. Vassally then introduced as a substitute a Bryan resolution, which was defeated as already stated. The Bryan resolution, after enthusiastically eulogizing Mr. Bryan and hailing him as the most worthy successor to President Roosevelt, whose recent message to congress was commended and enthusiastically endorsing the record of Gov. Johnson, said: "We view with suspicion many of the eastern sources of acclaim for Johnson; we discern in the eastern movement the 'mailed hand of harmony' that cost the party a million votes in 1904. Resolved, that in this hour of political intrigue, while the most subtle enemies of good government are seeking by every means to violate the will of the majority by their controlling or dividing the national convention, we condemn all temporizing in the matter of parliamentary votes to favorite sons. Resolved, that we are in favor of delegates to the Denver convention instructed unqualifiedly for W. J. Bryan for president, first, last and all the time." When the resolution had been defeated, the original Johnson resolution was put on its passage and carried.

KENTUCKY'S SHAME.

Kentucky is the last state to show the necessity for the election of senators by direct vote of the people, and we have scarcely had a more striking example of the embezzlement of power than Kentucky has presented. Four members of the legislature who were elected as democrats, and by their election pledged to vote for a democratic candidate, have voted for the republican candidate. They did it, too, under circumstances which take away every possible excuse that they had or can offer.

At first they excused themselves for not voting for Governor Beckham on the ground of opposition to him personally. This excuse was not a valid one because he was nominated at a primary, and they were elected after his nomination and when their constituents had a right to expect them to vote for him. But even this subterfuge was taken away when Governor Beckham appeared upon the floor and withdrew his name, and left the democrats to select a democratic candidate by caucus. The four democrats, however, refused to change their votes even when the reasons for objection had been removed. They simply preferred to elect a republican rather than elect any democrat, for they could not assume in advance that no acceptable democrat could be found.

It is not necessary to inquire what things led them out of the democratic party and into the republican ranks. It is enough to know that they are embezzlers of power, and as such they have sinned as gravely as one can sin by the embezzlement of money. As individuals they had a right to change their opinions, but as the representatives of constituents, they had no right to convert the suffrages of the people to their own private use. A republican office is a public trust and representatives of the people have no more right to make a private use of the authority conferred upon them than a person has to convert to his own use money left him in trust.

For those who are responsible for Governor Bradley's election no satisfactory explanation can be given, and if Governor Bradley was as devoted as he ought to be to the principles of representative government, he would not accept an office secured by the betrayal of a trust.

What would we think of a candidate for the presidency who would accept the position if it was secured by a betrayal of duty on the part of electors? Electors are voted for because they are pledged to the candidate who heads their ticket and no language could describe too harshly the sin of an elector who would desert his party after an election and vote with the opposition, and the public would have contempt for a presidential candidate who would accept the position under such circumstances.

Wherein do the members of the legislature differ from electors? They were instructed at a primary and were elected with the supposition that they would carry out the will of the party expressed at the primary. Even if they could have claimed that their democratic constituents preferred another democratic candidate, they could not assume that the democrats who elected them would have preferred a republican senator.

The Kentucky incident ought to strengthen the sentiment in favor of the election of senators by popular vote, let the democrats in congress push this measure and put the republicans upon record if they refuse to adopt so necessary and popular a reform.

ANARCHY.

The dastardly killing of a Catholic priest at the altar in Denver by one who claims to be an anarchist has revived the fear naturally excited by anarchy and led to a renewed discussion of it. Anarchy has no excuse for existence in the United States. Whatever defence may be made of assassination under arbitrary government where the people are denied participation in government and the right to express themselves in regard to government, no apology can be offered for it in a country like ours where speech is free and where everyone has an opportunity to raise his voice against an injustice done either to himself or to others. A clear line can be drawn between the advocacy of reforms, however sweeping, and the advocacy of murder. The taking of a human life is anywhere and at all times a supreme tragedy and as civilization advances, more and more respect is paid to life. Only in the case of the gravest crimes does the state assume the right to put an end to a human life, and there are many who insist that this extreme penalty should never be enacted.

The anarchist takes into his own hands the execution of a murderous intent not against an individual, but against one who stands in a representative capacity and is clothed with the authority of law. As the official is elected by the people, he is responsible to the people, and as the law fixes the punishment in case he betrays his trust, no one can justify the execution of vengeance by individual decree.

In dealing with anarchy two remedies are to be considered. First the direct remedy and second the indirect remedy. The direct remedy deals with the punishment of the offender and with the prevention of the crime. The man who kills another directly and with malice aforethought is guilty of murder, although he may have argued himself into the belief that he is serving a public purpose, and those who advocate the killing of officials, share in the guilt, however sure they may feel that they are public beneficiaries. Assassination must be condemned and those guilty of the assassination, or of advising it, must be punished, whether the blow is aimed at an individual, a spiritual leader, or a public official.

In our effort, however, to apply the immediate remedy, we must not overlook the fact that conditions may contribute to the false ideas which lead up to assassination. While we enforce the law and protect those who administer the law, we must not forget that the surest basis of law is the affection of the people and the laws to be loved must be just. Government is a great instrumentality for good, but it may be made a great instrumentality for injustice. Equality before the law, both in the enforcement of the law and in the making of the law, is necessary if we are going to make the people love their government. Punishment of the petty offender is wise and necessary, but the escape of the large offender breeds discontent and incites revenge. Those are doing most to prevent anarchy who seek to make the government so just that all, being beneficiaries of the government's blessings, will seek to preserve the government for their children and their children's children; those are doing most to cultivate anarchy who either cause or defend partiality and injustice in government.

No language can be too severe for the condemnation of those who would raise their hands against an official merely because he is clothed with power given him by the people, and yet in our indignation at the acute forms of anarchy, we must not be indifferent to the sowing of the seed from which anarchy grows. All injustice involves a denial of the claims of brotherhood, and insofar as we can compel a recognition of the claims of each individual for justice and fair treatment, we shall remove the dangers that follow in the wake of anarchy.—Commoner.

THE FULL DINNER PAIL AGAIN.

A special dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald (rep.) under date of Newcastle, Pa., March 4, follows:—

"Adam Hainer, poor director, was confronted by forty foreigners today, who marched to the city hall and demanded that they be sent to the poor farm to work for their meals and lodging. They had just been turned out of their boarding houses. Most of them formerly worked at the mills as laborers. Only fifteen of the applicants were sent to the poor farm, as no more could be taken care of."

"Four years more of the full dinner pail!"

WHAT ABOUT IT.

Mr. Harriman is now able to control the Illinois Central by a decision of a court which allows him to vote the stock of the road. Is it not about time that the railroads be prevented from buying stock in other roads? What are the republican leaders going to do about the matter? Are they going to sit idly by and let a few men gobble up the railroad systems of the country, extinguish competition and collect tribute at will?

CONFISCATION.

The Wall Street Journal complains because a recently enacted law "confiscates $34,000 of the stockholders' money each year." But that isn't a marker to the amount of the freight payers' money confiscated each year by the holders of watered stocks.

COMMONER CLIPPINGS.

Will the Chicago convention adopt a smokeless platform?

It is about time for the right hand to learn what the "Black Hand" is doing.

The Knox boom has reached the stage when it is necessary to put its fender on behind.

Easter hats are to be smaller, but this is not the hat information that interests father.

If the presidential boom of Pennsylvania's "favorite son" gets to first base it will be on balls.

The ulterior motive sought to be concealed in the Aldrich bill sticks out like a boy's sore thumb in base ball time.

The gentleman who has charge of the republican "full dinner pail parades" this year will have his work cut out for him.

Mr. Jerome of New York is assuming the what-are-you-going-to-do-about-it and the Commodore Vanderbilt to the public attitude.

Doubtless Pat Garrett's last regret was that he, such a wonderful "gun man," should have been caught napping by a mere farmer.

Now it is charged that there was congressional graft in the Holland submarine boat matter. Always trying to do something under cover, eh?

Mr. Gompers seemingly forgets that the tariff which protects steel does not protect labor. That's why the price of steel is kept up and the price of labor hammered down.

The marriage of a Gotham heiress to an American born gentleman was considered enough news importance to warrant a column of mention under a triple-decked slug head.

When the London and Paris papers described the "Indian debate" between Senators Owen and Curtis they will picture all the grave and reverend senators as wearing war bonnets and blankets.

The statistician who figured out that congress costs the country $120 a minute should have gone farther and told us what returns we have secured for our money. For instance, the working men of the country have been wonderfully benefited by the reduction of twenty per cent on the tariff on French champagnes.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., March 18, 1908.

An ugly land fraud almost under the dome of the capitol has been discovered within the last week whereby the Government has been defrauded of land worth a very considerable sum and only by a mere chance avoided losing another valuable tract. Senator Carter exposed the transaction in the senate and that body immediately repealed the law which conveyed to Bieber his last title, the Secretary of War having delayed his acting under that enactment. It is not known what the house will do in the matter as it is evident that in that chamber there are powerful influences at work to hush the whole matter up. For the entire parcel of land, Bieber appears to have paid about $5,000 the parcel containing about 20 acres, and for a small part of the land he recently refused to accept from the Pennsylvania railroad $15,000 cash. The government has already expended $300,000 for improving the Anacostia river on which this land, which carries the riparian rights, abuts, and it is proposed to expend a very much larger sum. The records show that for the last transaction Representative Bartholdt of Missouri was responsible and Mr. Bartholdt has made a statement saying that the action of his committee was perfectly proper and regular, but there is every indication that the senate will express a different opinion. It is assumed in the senate that Bieber must have exerted very powerful influence in the house to secure such favorable legislation.

Bieber was formerly assistant fire marshall of the District of Columbia. He became ill and through the kind influence of Speaker Cannon he secured a pension of $90 a month for life, although he is still a man of middle age and is now in excellent health. He has recently been engaged in an effort to have the two delegates from the District instructed to vote for Speaker Cannon in the republican national convention. When asked on the night after Senator Carter made the expose in the senate what he had to say regarding it, Bieber said that he was "too busy with local politics to discuss the matter."

The fighting in the Republican ranks is becoming more and more bitter every day. A republican representative, Mr. Acheson, of Pennsylvania, has recently inspired a report to the effect that Cecil Lyon, of the republican national committee from Texas, was collecting from postmasters in that state 10 per cent of their salaries as a campaign fund. Then the president came back at Mr. Acheson and pointed out that a republican, but not Cecil Lyon, had attempted to make such a collection that he had been prosecuted by direction of the president and that only this week the supreme court of the United States had decided the case against the said republican who is now liable to a fine of $60,000 and imprisonment for thirty years. The political end of the fight is interesting, however, from the fact that this arraigns Acheson against the president and vice versa, and as Acheson is having a very hard fight in his district against a prominent Pennsylvania Elk, it is now believed the congressman will be defeated.

The most brilliant speech which has yet been heard on the Aldrich bill was made this week by Senator Bailey of Texas. Mr. Bailey spoke for three and one half hours and held the attention of an audience which crowded both the senate and the galleries, many democrats coming over from the house to listen. Mr. Bailey opposed the Aldrich measure because he believes that the banks should be allowed to issue no money and that such issue should be confined to the government. He indicated, however, that if he could not get his substitute, providing for $1,000 million emergency treasury notes, he would vote for the Aldrich bill.

Congress seems prepared to pass the Frye resolution which provides that the material for the Panama canal must be carried in American vessels unless the prices charged are extortionate. Of course this exception makes the bill seem fair on its face, but the fact is that under such a bill the secretary of war will feel compelled to pay at least 50 per cent more to American ships than is asked by foreign vessel owners, and even if when asked still higher prices by Americans there will be a howl of indignation from the vessel owners if he dares to employ foreign ships. That was the case with the vessels carrying coal to the Pacific for the current battleship cruise, it will be remembered, although the secretary did so in the face of the ship owners and charter a number of foreign vessels.

Representative Tawney is again shouting economy and he declares there will be no public building bill this year and that provision will be made for only two battleships if he has his way. He says he is determined to keep the total appropriations down to the limit for the current year, $920,000,000, but it will be interesting to see if Mr. Tawney raises his voice against the pernicious pension legislation whereby it is proposed to put all the old soldiers' widows who are not entitled to a pension under the existing laws, on the rolls at $12 a month, thus increasing the pension budget by about $15,000,000 a year. That is a measure with which it is expected to make republican votes and perhaps promote the candidacy of Speaker Cannon. Cannon makes Tawney chairman of appropriations, and so it goes.

There has been a little more variety in democratic politics this week. Several representatives of Judge George Grey of Delaware have been in Washington looking over the ground and the action of the Minnesota democratic committee in endorsing Governor Johnson adds somewhat to the gaiety of the situation, although there is as yet no indication that Mr. Bryan will meet with any serious opposition in the Denver convention.

PAVING WORK TO BE LET AS ONE CONTRACT

Council Revokes Former Plan of Letting Work to Three Bidders.

If the bonding issue carries, North Yakima's street paving contract will be let to one man. Such was the decision reached by the city council at the meeting Monday night. The original resolution was discussed at length, resulting in passing the ordinance to that effect. Councilman Meigs spoke of the delays which would necessarily be experienced were the contract to be let in three separate jobs as was suggested. He thought it an ill advised plan and all agreed except Mull and Smith who opposed the one job idea. Mull thought that by letting the contract to three parties, it would be given an opportunity to the small contractors to get in. Smith agreed with him, declaring the bonding issue would never carry unless the paving is divided into three districts. He said it would be unfair to the local bidders who could not furnish the bond required for the larger job. Mull thought so too.

Meigs explained that any reputable contractor could raise the necessary amount and Janeck agreed.

Councilman Smith again emphatically declared the issue would never go unless the three district plan were followed. Miller thought the statement of Smith a threat and told him so. Smith said he had no idea of trying to defeat the issue, but said he was of the opinion that the people would not vote for the job to be let to one company. The ordinance passed, with Smith and Mull voting against it.

NO MORE RACING ON NORTH YAKIMA STREETS

Council Passes Ordinance Limiting Speed of Vehicles in City.

Persons accustomed to using the thoroughfares of North Yakima for racing purposes and the exercising of fast horses, automobiles, flying machines or motor cycles must henceforth slow down and "drive steady." Such was the conclusion reached by the city council at its meeting Monday night. Riders and drivers must also have lights on their machines, white ones in front and red ones behind. The number of the license, printed plainly in black letters, must also hang in plain view.

The ordinance passed requires that horses be driven not faster than six miles an hour between Naches avenue and Seventh avenue west. The same speed limit must be observed on streets two blocks each side of the avenue. Outside of this radius the limit is 10 miles per hour, provided discretion and care are exercised. Automobiles or any other mechanical contrivances used for travel must proceed at the same limit as the faithful horse in the business district. Outside of the radius named a speed of 24 miles an hour will not be prohibited.

The fire department is not included in the ordinance, nor is the "police patrol." It is, however, required that all rigs give full berth to either of these important property protectors and that when the fire alarm sounds, people are expected to drive as close as possible to the right curb and remain there until the "hurry ups" are past. Failure to comply with this ordinance means a fine of from $5 to $100.

Y. M. C. A. FOR SUNNYSIDE.

Young Men of That Town Want Building.

Secretary Turner, of the local Y. M. C. A., and State Secretary Wilcox have returned from a trip to Sunnyside where they went for the purpose of assisting the young men of that town in effecting an organization. Much enthusiasm was displayed at the meeting held Monday night, says Mr. Turner. An effort is being forwarded to raise sufficient funds for the erection of a small building for association purposes in that town. Mr. Turner says they display the right sort of spirit and will doubtless succeed in their enterprise.

Y. M. C. A. in Tieton.

If present plans are executed a Young Men's Christian association will be organized among the men of the reclamation service in the Tieton basin. Secretary Turner of the local organization, accompanied by State Secretary Wilcox, will go to the Tieton this afternoon in the interests of that cause. Word from the secretary of the interior has been received regarding the proposed organization. He speaks in the highest terms of the association and states that he will expect the local reclamation service department to lend all courtesy and assistance to the work.

The boys in the Tieton have long been in need of some kind of an organization to take up their spare moments. If the organization is effected the local Y. M. C. A. will visit the camp and co-operate with the work.

Work on the new Y. M. C. A. building has been resumed in earnest. A large force of men are at work plastering. With the manner the work is being pushed Secretary Turner says he thinks it will be completed before 90 days.

MAY DOCK TEACHERS WHEN PUPILS ARE ILL

School districts have the right to make and enforce a provision in their contracts with teachers that the teachers shall not be allowed pay for time it is necessary to close the public schools by reason of contagious diseases. The attorney general's office has given such an opinion, the question having arisen in Lewis county. In the absence of a specific contract it has been previously held that under ordinary conditions the closing of the schools for such purposes shall not affect the salary of the teacher. Just at this time there is considerable sickness in various places throughout the county and in some places schools have been closed. A case in point is in the Altanum district where the teacher has been under quarantine. In North Yakima the difficulty in the schools has been temporary. Mumps has been a fruitful source of trouble to several business houses and the young men who have been the sufferers have learned more about taking care of themselves than they ever knew before.

Roadways on Reservation

The Toppenish Commercial club has platted and mapped 50 miles of roadways on the Yakima reservation. These plans and maps are to be turned over to the county, which at present has no roads on the reservation. The government, however, it is declared, has expressed its willingness to construct such and deed them to the county. One strip of roadway from Union Gap to Toppenish, which will be 16 miles long and almost straight, will be developed into a speedway for automobiles.

RANCHER OF MOXEE HONORED IN EAST

Thomas W. Davis Praised for His Work as Mining Commissioner in Michigan.

Thomas W. Davis, a rancher of the Moxee valley near North Yakima, receives two columns of a tribute in the March issue of the Michigan Miner, published at Saginaw, Mich. Mr. Davis has been mining commissioner for the state of Michigan and one of the editors of the Miner. He retires to cultivate his acreage in this section of the United States. Of him the paper says:

"The Michigan Miner takes this the earliest opportunity afforded to join in the general regret experienced at the resignation of Thomas W. Davis as operators' mining commissioner for this state. Ever since Michigan was organized in the coal mining industry, and had to do with wage scales in the mining field, Mr. Davis has been a conspicuous figure in all conferences and similar meetings, to say nothing of the vast amount of detail work he has undertaken in the discharge of his official duties. No man knows mining, no man knows wage scales and it may further be said no man knows miners better than Mr. Davis.

He Rose From the Ranks.

"He himself was in the early days one of them, for he is one of the many successful Americans who have risen from the ranks. He began life quite young in the mines and the lessons of activity and untiring industry there learned have stood him in good stead all through his very busy life. He played a man's part, and early rose to prominence in labor's ranks, his efforts always being directed to the uplifting of his kind and the bettering of their condition intellectually and morally, as well as financially.

"In life he has occupied many useful and important positions, and acquired so thorough a knowledge of mines and mining, as well as a general education in men and affairs, the result of deep and wide reading, that he was able to occupy with credit to himself and advancement to the organization, the position of editor of the Mine Workers' Journal, official organ of the United Mine Workers in this country. Tom Davis proved a power in that position, a vigorous, forceful and able writer, and one who devoted himself unsparingly to his exacting duties.

Became State Commissioner.

"These qualities of devotion and faithfulness to duty he brought with him to the commissionship he occupied with such signal success in Michigan, and his conservative, evenly balanced mind, gave him deserved influence and commanded respect from all. He was thorough in his methods, of sound judgment, and many disputes and troublesome delays in operation of the Michigan mines were saved through his wise counsel and judiciously applied effort. The Michigan Miner had the great benefit of his services as editor during the time he was part proprietor of this publication, and here, too, he made a success.

"Mr. Davis, it is understood, proposes now to devote his time to the fruit ranch he acquired some time ago in the Moxee valley, near North Yakima, Wash., and where his family is now resident. He was always a lover of nature, and that success which has always been his will follow him to his new home is the wish of the Michigan Miner and of a vast army of friends in Michigan as well as elsewhere, for Mr. Davis as vice president of the association of operators and operators' secretaries occupied a position of national importance in the coal mining field."

WATER IN THE CANALS

Demands of New Acreage Are Such That Irrigation Begins Three Weeks Early.

Water was turned on in the canal of the Union Gap Irrigation company Wednesday and it is reported here today that the water has also been turned on in the Sunnyside canal. This fact speaks for itself. The usual time of turning on the water is April 1. The conditions this year are so different as to necessitate such action as has been taken, namely the furnishing of the water practically three weeks earlier. Under the canal of the Union Gap company there are some 3500 acres, of which about 2400 are under cultivation, all in orchard. The new acreage this year is, in round figures, some 500 acres and it is for this and for those who are putting in trees that the earlier water is supplied.

With reference to the Sunnyside canal the water is turned on for two good reasons. One is the new acreage to be put to fruit, and which requires the water, and the other is extension work for which water was required for puddling. This state of affairs, perhaps better than anything else, shows the progressive work the lower country is doing and to which reference has been made from time to time. D. M. Rand, of the board of school directors, who came in this morning from his ranch, said that the water is the only thing needed. All the work that can be done has been carried on up to that point. The country, he said, is away ahead and everything pointing right for an excellent season.

Colonist Travel Heavy.

Colonist travel west from St. Paul is heavy though the number to come this far is light. The extreme western travelers are expected at a later date. The homeseekers are so far a small proportion of the number, the majority of those who leave the trains at the various stations in Washington being men in search of work. Scores of Greeks and Italians are coming west as far as Butte to work in the mines of Montana. The early movement of travelers is larger than the railroad people had expected. The real home seekers are yet to come.

Fred Eberle and Mrs. Eberle have returned from their sojourn in California. They have been absent for some months. Mr. Eberle says there is nothing that he enjoyed quite so much while on his trip as he did the sight of North Yakima as the train pulled in on the return trip.

4 That by care, attention, skill and strict application to business, the plaintiff has materially increased the value and importance of said business, and enhanced the good will thereof; and that said plaintiff has established for said business throughout the County of Yakima and state of Washington, a wide and honorable reputation, and thereby said business has become extensive and valuable, and profitable; and the public have become accustomed to plaintiff's method of doing business, and have been induced to rely, and do rely upon the good faith, honesty, and skill of the plaintiff in managing and conducting its business in the manner aforesaid; and by reason thereof have been induced to bestow, and do bestow upon the plaintiff their custom, patronage and business.

5 That by reason of the nature and character of said business conducted by said plaintiff as aforesaid, a great portion of its said business comes to it by and through telephonic communication, it, the said corporation maintaining a telephone at its place of business and also one at the residence of A. J. Shaw, president of said corporation.

6 That on or about the 25th day of January, 1906, the defendant herein was organized and created under the said name of Flint Shaw Company and was created and organized for the purpose of conducting an undertaking establishment in the city of North Yakima; and said corporation having no established reputation or business of its own, and being unknown to the trade and general public, engaged in a similar line or trade as this plaintiff, and ever since then has maintained and conducted and still maintains and conducts an undertaking establishment in the city of North Yakima, and carries on said business in said city.

7 That the defendant, well knowing the foregoing facts, and contriving and intending and designing fraudulently to injure this plaintiff and to obtain undue advantage of plaintiff, and to deprive plaintiff of its business; and fraudulently and unlawfully to increase its own business and to pirate and make use and appropriate to itself the good will of the plaintiff's business and the said reputation and honorable esteem and confidence that the plaintiff enjoyed in the minds of the people of the county of Yakima and State of Washington; and in order to create confusion in the public mind and to take advantage of the esteem of the plaintiff, by its aforesaid acts, had acquired in said trade; and fraudulently designing to deceive the public and people intending to trade and do business with the plaintiff, and to divert the custom of the plaintiff to itself, and to deprive the plaintiff of its custom and its trade and to induce the public to trade with the defendant under the belief that they were trading with the plaintiff, and for the purpose of deceiving the plaintiff's customers and persons intending to trade with plaintiff and believing that the defendant's store and place of business was that of the plaintiff, and thereby inducing them to enter the said place of business and to call the mover the telephone and give them orders for work and business, by means of the telephone and to trade with said defendants to its profit; and in order to carry out its fraudulent and corrupt design, as aforesaid, the defendant has persistently carried out a system of deceit and misrepresentation concerning the said business and its ownership in connection with the plaintiff's business as follows:

That in October, 1907, it caused and induced the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, which owns and operates a telephone business in the counties of Yakima and Benton, and the State of Washington; to give it a number in its telephone directory, and opposite thereto, print the name of Shaw Flint Company, undertakers, with the knowledge and understanding that said company would furnish all of the subscribers in the counties of Yakima and Benton, said state, with a copy of said directory.

8 That by the aforesaid means the defendant has derived from the plaintiff a large part of the plaintiff's trade and custom; has induced many persons to trade with the defendant who otherwise would have traded with the plaintiff; has sold large quantities of goods to and directed a large number of funerals for persons who but for said acts of defendant would have purchased said goods of the plaintiff, and would have employed the said plaintiff to direct a large number of funerals; has deprived the plaintiff of a large share of its legitimate profits, has injured the business and reputation of the plaintiff; has impaired the confidence of the people in the plaintiff, and its method of doing business; and has deprived the plaintiff of a large number of its customers and patrons.

Wherefore, the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendant:

1 That the defendant and its servants and agents, be forever restrained from advertising and holding itself out to the public to be Shaw & Sons, or from advertising itself in any other way, or under any other name than Flint Shaw Company, its legal and trade name; and from carrying itself in the directory of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company or any other telephone directory as Shaw Flint Company.

2 And for such other and further relief as to the court may seem just and proper in the premises.

Another J. I. Case Great Crop Producer

Like all J. I. Case implements, the J. I. Case Disc Harrow embodies many features that make it not only the most durable, lightest draft, and most economical, but the most efficient in the field—hence the greatest crop producing Disc Harrow made. Here are some of its advantages. A slight movement of the foot operates the scrapers and cleans the discs completely and thoroughly. The scrapers, when at rest, tend to prevent dirt from collecting. And the inside discs always stay in the ground, no matter how hard it is. Again, when one end of a section raises over an obstacle, the other remains at work and the companion section is not disturbed.

J. I. Case Disc Harrow

is fitted with the most practical, durable and economical bearings made. They were designed especially for this purpose only after the most exhaustive tests. And remember, nothing has been omitted in this harrow to make room for its many improvements. It is a right-made, right-working implement that has few rivals and no real competitors—an implement you ought to know more about. Our FREE catalog describes it fully, also the entire J. I. Case line. Read our free encyclopedia offer opposite and write us today. Address

WANT CITIZENS HELP SAY G. A. R. VETERANS

Request Cooperation of People to Assure Success of June Encampment to be Held Here.

Meade Post G. A. R., at the 25th annual encampment of Department of Washington and Alaska, held in Ballard last June, by unanimous vote of the post, extended an invitation to the convention to hold its next, the 26th, encampment at North Yakima, and the convention with great enthusiasm and unanimity voted us the encampment. Meade Post delegation offered this invitation in the conscious belief that it would be one of the best things for the general welfare of this city, that could be mapped out, and they had faith and confidence in the good judgment and patriotism of the citizens of the City of North Yakima and surrounding country that they would measure up to the requirements of making this encampment "the best ever." We promised them this, and why shouldn't we? We have the best of everything; we can show them the best progressive city, for various good reasons, to be found on American soil; the best profit-producing valley in orchard and all other soil products, known under the sun. The soldiers and Woman's Relief Corps ladies—wives and husbands—and their multitude of friends, will be here from all over the state and sister states adjoining, numbering many thousands. "What for—a day's celebration? No; but for a whole week."

Will Last a Week.

The 26th annual encampment will cover Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 23d, 24th and 25th of June. The department officers and the advance guard of the old wideawake veterans will begin to arrive presumably on Sunday, and Monday trainloads of them will usher in with good cheer—as well as prairie schooners. And this is not all. The people of the entire valley will be living, figuratively, in the city and rural homes. One day a grand picnic will be given, probably in the State Fair ground grove, to all the old veterans and their wives, the Spanish war veterans and their wives, by the Woman's Relief Corps. The high school of the city will give one of the first entertainments on the program in return for which they will be presented with a beautifully inscribed silk banner by the Relief Corps of the department. One day there will be a grand street parade of the veterans, Spanish war veterans and Company E, N. G. W., to participate, with profusion of martial music and with receptions, campfires and old reminiscences by the Boys in Blue. The days and nights will be made hot, and it will be a red-letter time for North Yakima. Our Department Commander, W. H. Mock, has already been here making partial arrangements. Their council of administration have met and set the time and issued general orders. Department Commander Mock will be here again in a short time to complete the program. Meade Post will soon have a committee of ways and means abroad soliciting funds to carry out our program, which we desire shall be elaborate enough that every visitor will go home (if we don't anchor him) sounding the praises of North Yakima and justify our slogan, "But Yakima is better." To the business men, the professional men, the farmers and all the good citizens of the community, please meet our solicitors in the right spirit, thereby enunciating your patriotism as well as your best interests, and your pride in your adopted country.

B. L. BULL, Adjutant.
