MAY MEAN ANOTHER RAILROAD

A Possibility That the Columbia & Northern May Be Extended Into Yakima From Goldendale.

A company of Portland capitalists under the corporate name of the Columbia & Northern Ry. Co., are now engaged in building a line of road 42 miles in length from Lyle on the Columbia river to Goldendale. Work on the new line is already well under way and it is proposed to have it completed and ready for operation by Jan. 1, 1903, at an estimated cost of $600,000.

The promoters of this enterprise, among whom are W. M. Ladd, the well known banker, H. L. Pitcock, the principal owner of the Oregonian, H. C. Campbell, Wm. McMaisters and Rufus Mallory are all well known capitalists of the Oregon metropolis and constitute the board of directors of the new company.

The above named gentlemen, with the exception of Mr. Ladd, accompanied by Emory Oliver, the chief engineer of the road, made a reconnoitering trip overland from Goldendale to Toppenish this week to see the lay of the country intervening and what inducements in the way of business this valley might have to offer in case the road should be extended here from Goldendale. The party arrived at Toppenish Thursday pretty well tired out from their long trip, having traveled 60 miles that day. On the way over barometer measurements were taken in order to get the elevation of different points. While the road, or a portion of it, is pretty rough, the engineer, it is said, is satisfied that a feasible route with a moderate grade can be found over the mountain and down into the valley of the Satus.

The benefit that such a road, if built, would be to the people of this valley would be hard to estimate, as it would put this section in direct connection with the Columbia river and the O. R. & N. system.

A WARM GAME.

"Hoppickers" Defeat Everett's Crack Nine By the Score of 16 to 8.

What will probably rank as one of the best games of the season on the local diamond was pulled off here Wednesday afternoon before a small but enthusiastic crowd. The "Hoppickers" went up against the Everett team, reckoned as the best amateur nine in the state, and vanquished the boys from smoketown to the tune of 16 to 8.

At the end of the second inning when the score stood 3 to 0 in favor of the Sound aggregation, it looked bad for the "Hoppickers" and the bleachers were correspondingly depressed. After that, however, the Yakima nine got onto Mr. Derush's curves and hit him pretty freely. George Kohls shook off the hoodoo by making a three-bagger and scoring a run in the third, and after that the runs began to pile up. In the sixth six runs were recorded and in the eighth five. After the sixth the visitors seemed to lose their grip and secured thereafter only one run.

It was a game with plenty of errors and also a number of star plays which lack of space forbids a detailed mention of. The only mishap was that of Jewett of the locals who broke a finger in stopping a hot ball at the home plate. The home team showed up in much better form than in the game with Ellensburg Sunday and the work done was much better.

They Can't Bond.

Attorney General Stratton, in an opinion rendered this week at the request of County Supt. Dickey, has affirmed the correctness of the opinion given some time ago by County Attorney Guthrie to the effect that a union high school district cannot legally issue bonds.

It is proposed to form union districts both at Zillah and Sunnyside and the promoters desired to issue bonds to pay for the necessary new schoolhouse, but are of course stopped by this decision. The union districts will doubtless be formed just the same and the new school houses built, as there is a pressing demand for more advanced education in both localities. The county commissioners will be asked to raise the tax rate three mills in the territory affected, which with some private subscriptions will accomplish the object.

The Washington Irrigation Co. has very generously agreed to donate 40 acres of land to the Sunnyside district and a number of lots in Zillah to the Zillah project.

He Don't Show Up.

Police Officer Nat Yeates feels uneasy over the non-arrival here of his brother-in-law, Likens, of Urbana, Kansas. Mr. Likens who left his home about May, to come to this state to visit relatives has so far failed to show up here, although he started direct for Yakima when he left home. Indirectly Mr. Yeates has learned that the missing man was at Columbia City, a suburb of Seattle, a few days ago and has written to find out if he is still there. Mr. Likens is a man 72-years old, and recently lost a daughter that he was much attached to and his wife writes to Mr. Yeates that she fears that their daughter's death has to some extent unhinged her husband's mind and that he may have come to harm. If Mr. Yeates does not hear from him very soon he says that he will go to Columbia City to take up the search for the old gentleman.

PLENTY OF POWER.

The Natches will Furnish Abundant Power for Electric Roads.

J. F. McNaught, who spent several days with his surveyors in the upper Natches this week announces that he has found plenty of water power to answer his purpose in the Natches. The surveys show that a net fall of 130 feet of water can be secured at Horseshoe Bend, which is located 22 miles above this city. Mr. McNaught has located the site and is well satisfied with it, as he says that he can develop 4500 horse power there.

The surveyors on the proposed road to Sunnyside have located the line in this town and through the Moxee valley and are now at work in Parker Bottom. Some friction has arisen, it seems, in the last named territory over the question of right-of-way. Attorney Whitson and A. J. Splawn accordingly went to Parker yesterday for the purpose of straightening out the difficulty.

It is understood that Mr. McNaught has expressed himself as being willing to also construct an electric line up the Ahtanum, beginning the work this season, providing that free right-of-way is guaranteed. The sentiment of the Commercial club committee seems to be, however, that all effort ought first to be consolidated on the building of the Sunnyside line and make certain its construction first.

TEACHERS ELECTED.

New School Board Organizes and Elects Teachers.

At the first meeting of the new school board which was held Monday evening the following list of teachers was elected to fill the different positions in the city schools for the coming year:

Principal High School, Mrs. Ella Stair; Principal, Central School, F. H. Plumb; Principal, Columbia School, Asa W. Swartz.

GRADE TEACHERS.

Mrs. Bessie Needham and the Misses Clark, McKinney, Leonie Young, Hale, Jungst, Larson, Lum, Mead, May Young, Whittier, Sherwood, Pierce Shannon, Rodman, Price, Hitz, Ballinger, Burns; substitute teacher, Miss Ethel Burns. The assignment of the new teachers to grades has not yet been completed, but will be announced soon.

The enrollment of pupils of school age has increased about 400 as shown by the census recently taken by Clerk Hough. This increase will in the opinion of Supt. Jolly necessitate the employment of four new teachers and arrangements will be necessary to place every grade below the High School in each of the three large buildings which will obviate the necessity of small children crossing the railroad tracks.

The new school board organized by electing B. F. Barge president. The matter of providing more school house room was discussed but no definite action was taken. It was suggested that inasmuch as the legal limit of indebtedness of the district under the old assessment had been nearly reached and that the new assessment, which will show a large increase, would not be available for the purpose of a new bond issue before the equalization board meets in August, that it would be a good idea to erect a temporary frame building on the N. Fifth street lots, east of the hospital. This kind of a building would answer for a time, but some people think it would be false economy to erect a temporary building since it is so clearly evident that a permanent building would have to follow.

It Was a Slaughter.

Ninety-seven people, including the eight hired players from Everett, came down from the "burg" last Sunday and got sweet revenge for the two games previously dropped to the "Hoppickers." While the visitors were comparatively few in numbers, they were long on lung power and seemed to have plenty of the "powerful" to back up their good opinion of the imported players from "Smoketown." The game resulted in favor of the visitors by the score of 12 to 5. The attendance was about 1000, $214 being the amount of the receipts.

New Business Firm.

W. E. Ayres has decided not to re-embark in the drug business in this city and has sold his lease on the Janek store room back to Louis Janek. The latter, in company with his brother Fred, who recently sold out his drug business at Tekoa, will again take up their old business under the name of the Janek Drug Company. Fred is expected here in a few days and on his arrival the new stock will be ordered.

Mr. Ayres has settled with all the insurance companies that issued policies on his stock except one, which had insured him for $1500. This company, it is said, shows a disposition to contest. Mr. Ayres total insurance on his burned stock was $10,000.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

A gigantic banking syndicate with a capital of five hundred million dollars is now being organized in the city of New York with the purpose of reorganizing the banking business of the country. The new trust will, it is said, establish branch banks in department stores and while the banking business will be kept entirely separate from that of the department store the plan is to work the two in harmony. This new and dangerous appearing trust, it seems, has already given the regular bankers cause for alarm. At the meeting of the association of Missouri and Kansas bankers held at Kansas City May 15, a resolution was passed protesting against the branch banking houses of the big syndicate and condemning the new system in all its forms as being "unpatriotic, un-American, unbusinesslike and tending to create a monopoly of the great and honorable business of banking in the hands of a few millionaires."

From the above it will be readily seen that it makes a good deal of difference as to whose ox is being gored. Who would have thought in 1896 and 1900 that an organization of national bankers would be crying out so soon against the invasion of its field by a powerful trust? Or can it be that all these bankers are populists or democrats? If not, perhaps they will change their politics when the new trust gets to grinding.

THERE has probably never been a time since this town was founded in 1884 when its future looked as promising as it does today. What with the promise of work soon to be started on a system of electric roads radiating from North Yakima into all the surrounding valleys and the establishment here of such an industrial enterprise as that contemplated by the Cascade Lumber Company, insuring the town a large pay-roll, means much for the growth and development of this city and surrounding country. The town, located as it is at the confluence of several fruitful valleys, is fortunately situated, a fact which precludes the idea of a rival town ever springing up near it, but it is not this so much as it is the unity of purpose, the Yakima idea, if you please, that characterizes all our citizens, or nearly all, in their efforts to build up the town. This is what counts, inspires the newcomer with faith and sets him to work along the same lines. All this does not mean a boom. We have none and want none. It is simply an era of homebuilding and progress. It means, however, a steady, substantial growth and the Democrat sees no reason why it should revise its prophecy of over a year ago that North Yakima in 1910 will be able to show up a population of 20,000 souls.

THE democrats had nothing to lose and everything to gain in the Oregon election and they gained the governor and an increased representation in the legislature. It is especially gratifying to democrats everywhere that the defeat of Furnish, the republican candidate for governor, was accomplished. Furnish was formerly a democrat and after having been given two terms as sheriff and one as deputy U. S. Marshal by that party finally deserted it on the ground, it is said, that the democratic party was out of power for a generation in Oregon and therefore offered no inducements for an ambitious young man. This quotation from the candidate was used with effect in the late campaign and probably cost Furnish a good many votes. His own county, Unatilla, went against him by a majority of 250.

The Shah of Persia, who is on his way to "Luncheon" town to attend the coronation ceremonies, succeeded in shocking and mortifying the four hundred at the German capital by appearing in public in his shirt sleeves and smoking cigarettes. The Shah was much taken with the dulcet tones of an American music box which played "Yankee Doodle," "Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic airs for his benefit at the Persian legation. His royal highness made no bones of saying that he preferred the sweet tones of the little music box to that of the finest military band in Berlin and the four hundred was still more shocked. The Shah, evidently, is not such a bad sort of a fellow even if he is only about half civilized.

THE DEMOCRAT welcomes to its exchange table the Milan (Ill.), Independent, edited by C. D. McLaughlin, a friend of our youth. It is a bright, newsy paper and has particular interest for us because of the fact that it is published in the quaint little town in which the Democrat man first saw the light of day. The town of Milan or Camden Mills as it was originally called, was founded in 1843 by our maternal grandfather, William Jackson, who was one of the original pathfinders of Northwestern Illinois and who helped to rid that country of old Chief Black Hawk and his warlike tribe of Indians. We hope that the independent will live long and enjoy prosperity.

THAT orator and compendium of political misinformation, the Portland Oregonian, kept insisting before the late election in the Webfoot state that the defeat of the republican candidate for governor at the polls would mean that the country would take it for granted that Oregon repudiated the republican policy of aggression in the Philippines. Now that Chamberlain, democrat, has been elected governor, the veteran editor of the Oregonian, who has made and unmade so many public men in Oregon, has found it hard work to square himself with his pre-election prophecies.

The editor sat in his easy chair, lighting his pipe on his suburban hair. A halo shone over his face so fair, but his knees were out and his feet were bare. And he sang a song both sad and sweet, while the flies died all around his feet, for he had no grub in his shop to eat, and the ground outside was covered with sleet. Now, what in the world was the cuss to do? He had eaten the paste and swallowed the glue; he hadn't a drink and he hadn't a chew, and while he stared his whiskers grew—Ex.

THE republicans are still quarreling over the few odd pieces of federal pie. Congressman Jones, it is said, wants to let W. J. Reed out of the land office and put R. K. Nichols in his place. Crocker of Walla Walla, who is Ankeny's man, Friday, has been appointed internal revenue collector for Washington and Alaska at a salary of $4500 and perquisites. The office was made for him to please Senator Foster and as a result the Wilson men are hot under the collar. Speaking of Wilson, the dispatches say that President Teddy now has it in for the Spokane man for having purposefully tried to mislead him by telling him what a mean cuss Crocker is.

SENATOR TURNER last Monday introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate to prohibit the grazing of sheep in the Rainier forest reserve after Jan. 1, 1903. The associated press dispatch conveying this information stated that the senator took this action in deference to the wishes of a large number of farmers of this country who had sent to him a petition praying that some definite action be taken for the better protection of their water supply which they allege is being threatened by continued sheep grazing.

The principle of direct legislation was enacted into the constitution of Oregon at the recent election by a vote of over 10 to 1, the question having been submitted by a republican legislature. In this respect the republicans of Oregon are far ahead of the republicans in Washington. In this state that party has no sympathy with the aspirations of the people for real self government. The democratic party, however, will undoubtedly declare for that great principle in its next state platform.

It is to be hoped that Underwood, the unnatural father who tied his three weeks old babe up in a sack and threw it into the bay at Ballard, will be caught and made to pay the full penalty for his heinous crime. The fact that he deserted his young wife, leaving her to face the music alone shows him to be a cowardly cur as well as the meanest and most contemptible type of murderer.

OUR contemporary, the Herald, seems to think it a good joke because it has found a prominent gentleman in official capacity who has resided in this town for a year and was not aware of the fact that there is such a paper as the Herald in existence. 'Tis a good joke indeed, but it's certainly on the Herald.

The esteemed Washingtonian seems to regard it as a very great honor to be permitted to champion the interests of the woolgrowers. Well, well, neighbor, nobody begrudges it to you, so go right along doing good. Campaign time is coming on apace and wool makes a nice soft bed to lie on, now don't it?

Now that the Boer war is over a great boom is on in South Africa and a period of great development is expected. The big sawmills on the Sound are accordingly receiving more orders for lumber than they can well handle.

This is the season of the year when the sweet girl graduates are in evidence and fill the public eye, and they look good, too, to all of us.

If you are not too busy, count the "scoops" that the DEMOCRAT scores this week over all its slow going contemporaries.

State Fair Items.
Col. Prosser of Seattle is undertaking to get out the annual premium list this year without expense to the commission, in consideration of being awarded the advertising concession.

The commissioners have decided to add a trap-shooting to ornament to the attractions of the Fair this year. Several hundred dollars will be given in prizes and competing teams are expected to be here from several towns of the state.

Edward Fournier has been given a concession to build a theatre on the grounds and operate it during Fair week. The structure will be 50x100 feet in size, built of rough lumber with probably a canvas roof. The building will have an ornamental front of unique design.

As was announced exclusively in this paper some time ago, Ella Ewing, the Missouri giantess, whose height is 8 feet 9 inches, will be a leading attraction at the Fair this fall. Miss Ewing is believed to be the tallest woman in the world and a great deal of interest has been manifested in her coming engagement here.

The most of the concessions on the grounds for Fair week have already been sold and have brought better prices than has been the case during any previous year.

A party who has refused to allow his name to be used in connection therewith has donated to the commission $100 as a special premium to be given for the best single display of home grown ranch products in Yakima county.

The following are cash contributors to the premiums in cattle division:

PROHIBIT SHEEP GRAZING

Senator Turner Introduces a Bill to Protect the Forest Reserve.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Senator Turner today introduced the bill to prohibit the pasturing or grazing of sheep on the Rainier forest reserve after January 1, 1903, its purpose being to preserve and protect the water supply of Yakima valley, which comes from the reserve.

Senator Turner personally investigated this matter during his visit to the state in March and became impressed with the necessity for this action. He will have printed a document containing the statements of about 30 prominent farmers of the Yakima valley showing the damage done, and that will be done, if sheep are permitted to pasture there.

Funny, Though Naughty.

"Too Rich to Marry," a four act comedy, was presented at the local theatre Tuesday night by the Redmond company. The play is a lively one with its climax and funny situations. It is decidedly racy, too, so much so in fact that it borders on vulgarity. Mr. Redmond, the proprietor as well as the star of the show, is certainly above mediocrity in his impersonation of Johnathan Bradbury, a most comic character. At any rate he has the ability to make his audience laugh and that is doubtless what people go to a show for.

They Need Looking After.

The unsuspecting parents of certain wayward young girls in this town would do well to look after their progeny and endeavor to keep them off the streets at late hours. The police have been doing all they can in a quiet way to break up this habit and if it is not stopped they will feel compelled to take action that will cause parents heartache and will mean publicity. The young girls referred to range in age from 12 to 15, certainly a pretty tender age to be given so much liberty.

On the Right Road.

It must be borne in mind that the Kansas City platform and the Chicago platform as well dealt with privilege in general and not alone with that phase of it embodied in the gold conspiracy. Had nothing but free coinage of silver been involved in the democratic campaign there would have been no such tremendous upheaval among the privileged interests as there was. It was because an attack was upon privilege in general that every interest based on privilege or protected by it took alarm and rushed pell mell into the McKinley camp, where privilege found special favor and support. All the democratic re-organizers of today—all the people who are talking of a "redemption" of democracy from its follies—lent either their actual or moral influence to this party desertion; and it was through their aid and support that McKinley won the victory and set Dingleyism and imperialism to work in building up giant trusts and in criminal aggression upon weaker peoples. Here is the issue now. The Democrat sees no reason for reorganization. It sees many reasons for hoping that it will fail. The party is on the right road. It may blunder now and then; it may even falter and turn back sometimes; but its face is toward the light and we want it to press forward. And those going our way are earnestly invited to join us and to give us all the help they can.—Johnston (Pa.) Democrat.

Bernard Wilkinson Jr., who has been attending the state university at Seattle, is here this week to take in the commencement exercises of the High school.

No: the Same Old Party.

The condition into which the republican party has fallen cannot be better expressed than in the words of Senator Tamm, uttered recently in the U. S. senate, in which he said:

"I have no feeling of bitterness toward the republican party of Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses S. Grant. As long as these great men were the leaders of that party so long as the principles which they stood for animated that party, so long as the slightest shred of principle which they stood for animated that party, I was a loyal, ardent, and consistent follower of it. The republican party in that day stood for human rights. Abraham Lincoln declared that it was brought into existence to bring this government back to the principles and practices of Thomas Jefferson, and I believe that the republican party of that day was truly the exponent of the principles of Thomas Jefferson as I believe that the democrat party of this day is the exponent of the principles of Thomas Jefferson."

"But it would be a brave man who would assert and undertake to establish that the republican party of today has anything in common with the republican party of Abraham Lincoln's day. That great man, if he could come back to earth, would not recognize it as the party which honored him and which he honored in the high office to which it elevated him; that party which today finds the principal ground for its existence in the exercise of boundless extravagance and gross favoritism in government; which has had its sentiment so shriveled and shrunken that on all occasions it prefers the dollar to the man, and which has to little regard for liberty and the sacred principles upon which our free institutions are founded that at this moment it is endeavoring to drown in a sea of human blood the aspirations of a friendly and an allied people for liberty and independence."

"I followed that party as long as I could. I followed it longer than I ought to have done because of the associations which clustered around it; but the time came when conscience pointed in one direction and the republican party pointed in another, and I followed my conscience. I have never had any occasion, Mr. President, to regret the course which I pursued in leaving the republican party. When the scales have fallen from one's eyes he can see more clearly than he did before, and I see today that all idealism, all sentimentality in favor of human liberty has departed from the republican party, and that it is gross and material in all its instincts. It stands today not for a pure and simple administration of this government in the interest of the common people of the land, but it stands for the material interests of the nation, for the corporations, for the trusts, and for the enormous aggregations of capital which come to the halls of congress and demand exceptional legislation in their favor. It does not stand, as it did in the day of Abraham Lincoln, for the rights of the common people of the land."

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had Consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and today she is perfectly well." M. N. Mansfield returned from Mah-tou Sunday, bringing with him his three grand children, who will remain with him for a time at his home in the Abnathum. The children's mother, Mrs. Phillips, is in extremely poor health and is now taking special medical treatment at Boise, Ida.

Dr. Baker and family left Tuesday for Valla Walla. After locating his family at their home in the Blue Mountains for the summer the doctor will go to Everett where he expects to practice medicine for the next year with the expectation of returning to Yakima at the end of that time.

W. P. Guthrie, J. T. Foster, H. B. Doust and J. W. Sisdall left for the Sound Monday. Mr. Doust has been in attendance at the convention of insurance men of the state at Seattle. Mr. Sisdall was a delegate to the grand lodge F. & A. M. which convened in Tacoma Monday.

T. J. Lynch and wife recently returned from Lewis county where they had been to pay a visit to Mrs. Lynch's mother who is more than a centenarian, being 103 years old. The venerable lady is said to be enjoying fairly good health. She resides on a farm a few miles out of Chehalis with relatives.

Hon. Geo. Cotterill and wife of Seattle passed through Yakima Thursday enroute to Europe where they will spend the summer. Mr. Cotterill informed the Democrat at the depot that he would probably return September 1, in time for the state convention and that in the meantime he would consider the matter of whether or not he would be a candidate for congress on the democratic ticket.

Attorney Snively is taking steps to have Allinger, the one-armed commission house swindler, returned to this state from California for the purpose of standing trial in the U. S. court. Allinger, when he skipped from Yakima in March, left behind a number of confiding creditors, some of whom he owed large amounts.

Samuel Stone, who is president and general manager of the Cascade Lumber Company which operates a saw mill in the upper Cowlitz, made this office a pleasant call recently. He seems inclined to think that the newly organized Cascade Lumber Co. of this city ought to select a different name to incorporate under, otherwise there will be confusion.

Anson Elliott of the Moxee has purchased from S. J. Lowe, through Bosdet, Medill & Jones, 110 feet frontage on the sidetrack below the flour mill. He will erect at once thereon a warehouse 50x100 feet in dimensions, from which he will handle his hay and general commission business.

A large party will probably accompany the "Hoppickers" to Ellensburg tomorrow to see the return game of ball with the "Windy" city aggregation of hired men. No arrangements have been made for a special excursion and those that go will take the regular passenger at 8:45 a. m. and return at 10:55 p. m.

Mrs. E. M. Harris last Monday sold her grocery business in the Mason block to W. S. Earls, who arrived here last week from Salt Lake, Utah. The new owner has had a long experience in the mercantile business and is a most pleasant gentleman to meet. Mrs. Harris will retire from business for a time, at least.

W. L. Splawn last week sold 250 head of range horses to McDaniel & Davis, horse dealers of Calgary, Alberta. The price realized is said to have been $35 per head for the first 100, $28 each for the second 100 and $26 per head for the balance. The band was taken to Wenatchee for shipment east over the Great Northern.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
