OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

For President,
WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

For Vice-President.
ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

OUR republican friends talk loudly and long about the probability of their party carrying the state of Washington on the issue of imperialism, or as they are pleased to call it, expansion. Unable to defend from the standpoint of justice, morality or humanity, the policy of their national administration in the Philippine islands, they fall back for justification on the argument that our people are profiting in a financial way through this South Sea adventure and that that is reason enough why the four electoral votes of this state should be delivered over to Mark Hanna. This argument is clearly akin to the "full dinner pail" cry that we hear so much about. It is an appeal to the cupidity, to the pockets of the people, and not to their sober sense or to their conscience. It well illustrates the demoralizing effect of Hannaism on the morals of the republican party. This sentiment, which now dominates the once great party of Lincoln would strangle free government, murder truth and boycott liberty for the prospect of miserable gain. They say that the people of the great state of Washington must sanction this unholy scheme of conquest against a people whose only crime is their love of liberty, or else there will be no prosperity. If so, then send prosperity to the dogs, for the people of the state of Washington are too humane and too intelligent to desire a prosperity that is based on the ruins of free government, and is fed by the labor of slaves and vassals. That was the kind of prosperity that ancient Rome enjoyed and speedily caused her disruption and national death. Do we want to follow in the footsteps of Rome? No, a thousand times, no. And that will be the answer of the people of the state of Washington on the sixth day of November to the minions of Mark Hanna. The republic forever; empire never.

REPUBLICAN papers take delight in exploiting the feeble opposition to the re-election of Gov. Rogers that still exists within the fusion party ranks. It cannot be truthfully denied, of course, but that some opposition does still exist to the governor, although outside of Thurston county, where the capitol question is always paramount, such opposition is gradually melting away. As everybody knows, a strong and influential faction in both the democratic and populist parties, vigorously opposed the renomination of his excellency, but even with the assistance of the two-thirds rule they were fairly and squarely beaten in the union convention. As loyal party men, therefore, they must and will support the nominee, for as honorable men participating in the convention, they can do no less. Disgruntled politicians, especially place-hunters of the DeMattos stripe, should be made to understand that when they deliberately disavow the work of a convention after taking part in it that they simply and effectually commit political hari kari. Fortunately there are not many of this class. They may desert if they will, but the fact remains that the party is better off without them. We believe that ninety-five per cent. at least, of the fusion voters will support the governor for re-election, for they well know that the price of his defeat will be the restoration of the old McGraw ring to power in this state; and that would be a catastrophe which all good citizens hope to avert. There is good reason to assume, moreover, that where the governor will lose one fusion vote that he will gain several from the opposition. That his splendid record will appeal successfully to hundreds of independent republican voters, particularly in eastern Washington, there is no room to doubt. This class of voters would probably prefer to support the nominee of their own party and would do so if the candidate commanded their confidence; but with the odor of bossism so strong upon him and an unfortunate legislative record to still further handicap him, they will not be dragooned into his support. The situation, therefore, insofar as it effects Gov. Rogers' candidacy, is all that could be desired. Fate has already decreed that we are to have four years more of good government at Olympia and nobody evidently feels sorry at the prospect, except the place-hunting politicians of the g. o. p.

THERE seems to be some general ground for believing that an arrangement has been effected, or is about to be effected, between the republican managers and the people of Olympia anent the capitol question. If it be true that in consideration of that city's practically unanimous support of the republican state ticket, a palatial capitol building is—in the event of republican success—to be constructed, then the reverse proposition should be made to work, in case such well laid plans "gang aft alee." Then the shoe indeed would be on the other foot.

THAT partisan institution, the associated press, would have us believe that "Teddy the terror" has been receiving the "glad hand" everywhere he went in the Rocky mountain country. Occasionally, though, we have the good fortune to meet some unprejudiced soul who happened to be there when "Teddy" was making his short calls, only to learn that the New York freak in many places that he visited in Idaho and Montana, received the "marble heart." It is evident that the vice presidential candidate would be more of a success if he undertook to star the country in company with "Buffalo Bill."

THE poor old Oregonian is at last forced to admit that the great majority of the gold democrats, whom Editor Scott has been incessantly slobbering over during the past four years, are going to support Mr. Bryan. It maintains, however, that the silver republican movement toward McKinley on the question of imperialism will counter balance and make good the loss. But that is where Col. Scott is badly off, as silver republicans who defend or even condone Hanna's colonial policy, are nearly as scarce as the proverbial hen teeth.

THE State Fair is an unqualified success this year. The exhibits, generally speaking, are of a higher order than in previous years, and the attendance, as compared with last year, is much better. Considering the amount of croaking heard here at home, and the false and misleading reports sent abroad to the detriment of the Fair, the excellence of the exhibition is a welcome surprise to all visitors. The management, under the circumstances, is entitled to the thanks of this community.

A REPUBLICAN orator at Pasaic, N. J., the other day, forgot himself and began to dilate on the "full dinner pail" racket. A large crowd of ill-paid mill operatives were present and naturally took exceptions to that kind of talk, which they knew by their own experience was a lie. The luckless orator was finally driven out of town by the angry men and pelted with over ripe hen fruit as he ran.

MARK HANNA in a recent speech at Chicago, stated that "I don't believe that there is a single trust in the United States." This is a most refreshing bit of information that Mark has given the world and it ought to be worth a good many thousand votes to the democratic ticket. If Mark continues his orations in this vein his political partner would do well to call him off the stump.

THE Journal, a bright and newsy paper, democratic in politics, has made its appearance at Goldendale, where a reform newspaper has evidently long been needed. Success to the Journal. May it grow and prosper.

THE STATE FAIR

Best Display Yet Made, Particularly in Live Stock.

Good Racing Program—The Attendance Better Than Last Year.

Contrary to the expectations of many people and despite the croakings of a few people here at home, the State Fair this year considering the many obstacles that had to be overcome by the commission, is an unqualified success.

The exhibits in the live stock department this year is particularly good and excited a good deal of commendation from visitors.

The fruit and general farm exhibits in the pavilion while not quite so extensive as in some previous years is par excellence as to quality and on the whole is a very satisfactory showing.

There are many other features of the pavilion display which excite the interest of the visitor, among which is the fine display of fancy needle work, embroidery etc., collected and exhibited under the auspices of the Yakima Woman's club. In this department may be seen also a very fine collection of curios, including two large cases of ancient, foreign and domestic coins, the property of Frank N. McCandless, of Ellensburg, besides a large assortment of Hawaiian curios exhibited by the same gentlemen. Among the individual fruit and general farm exhibits to be seen in the pavilion those of H. Kampeter, W. L. Wright, Redman, Kenyon, Orlando Beck and E. M. Harris are particularly fine and have attracted much attention.

E. E. James, the photographer, also has a very fine exhibit in the pavilion.

The poultry show is one of the best features of the Fair this year, the exhibits in this department being conceded by all the chicken men to be better both as to quantity and quality than at any preceding Fair. Poultry of all the different fancy breeds are to be seen and the many fine specimens of chicks, turkeys, ducks and geese attract the admiration of the crowd.

H. E. McBride, of Fruitvale, has on exhibition in the poultry house a number of his valuable Belgian hares, including a mother with her family of half grown young, which attract their full share of attention. The successful poultry exhibit is largely due to the untiring efforts of Editor Collier, of the Pacific poultryman, who is the efficient superintendent of that department assisted by L. R. Schott, of this city.

The live stock exhibit, which department is under the capable supervision of Guy MacL. Richards, of this city, is most excellent and embraces some of the best herds of blooded cattle, both beef and dairy, in the two states of Washington and Oregon. The exhibits of sheep and swine in this department are also noticeably better than in former years.

Among the live stock exhibits this year from abroad is the well known herd of the Oak Hill (Ore.) stock farm of which Mr. Ladd, of Portland is the owner. Thirteen head of fine Shorthorn, among which is a cow weighing something over 2000 pounds and valued at one dollar per pound. Mr. Ladd also has a number of pens of fine hogs and a band of Cotswold and Shropshire sheep here.

The Mountain Valley stock farm near Heppner, Ore., of which W. O. Minor is proprietor, is also well represented by a herd of 16 Shorthorns of the best strain. A. J. Splawn, of the Cowiche, has also on exhibition a portfon numbering 21, of his valuable herd of Herefords.

Among the exhibitors of dairy stock are the Hazlewood Company, of Spokane, with 18 head of Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins, and Fechter and Janeck, of this city with nine head of Jerseys.

The racing program has been a good one, most of the best stables in the Northwest being represented on the track, among them being the best stock of Sheriff Vandevanter and Dr. Powell Reeves, of Seattle; Chris Simpson and J. A. Baddely, of Pendleton, Ore; A. W. Turner, Davenport, and Robt. Pryor, of Ellensburg. The following local horse-men also had their stock entered in the different races: Volney Taft, Chas. Campbell, H. Eno. J. L. Morrison, A. D. Dglin, Wm. Peatross and J. B. Blair.

Tuesday's races resulted as follows: Half mile running race, winner Ida H., time :51; 2.40 trot, winner, Freak, time 2:32.

On Wednesday afternoon the feature of the program was the six mile Indian race, the riders changing every mile. The 5/8 mile dash for a purse of $125 was won by Pettigrew, time, 1:02. Special pace purse $200. Winner, Little Billie, time, 2:19. The 2:35 trot, purse $200. Winner, Spot, time, 2:27.

Thursday's program which was witnessed by the largest crowd present during the week, included a 2:20 trot for a purse of $400. The Indian war dance on that day was much enjoyed especially by the visitors.

The Parrot Turned Brown.

Long had the wife of a poor Washington clerk been yearning for the possession of a green parrot.

At last a fine specimen was obtained for $10. It was delivered in the morning, and it came to pass that a new servant from the depths of the country opened the door to the delivery boy. Her mistress was out; there was not a soul to instruct her in the code of ethics as applied to parrots.

"Is it for the table?" she asked. "Without doubt," was the wicked re-

Lou Washburn, a caterer to the appetites of the "thirsty ones" of Goldendale and owner of some fine trotting stock is taking in the Fair. James Richardson, the blacksmith, is with him.

Boodle vs. the People.

According to Mark Hanna's own standard of political morality and party duty there is every justification for the renewed effort which he is now making to compel from the trusts a total campaign subscription of at least $30,000,000 to be used in insuring the re-election of Mr. McKinley to the presidency of the United States.

Hanna finds to his dismay that American public sentiment, if allowed honest expression at the polls, would defeat Mr. McKinley this year. His first thought following such a discovery is to devise ways and means to prevent this expression. The instrument to which he turns for the accomplishment of his purpose is money. The source from which he demands the slush fund for the overcoming of the popular will, is the trusts.

The republican boss is logical in his action. He knows that through republican favoritism at the sacrifice of the people's interests the trusts have been enabled to amass the hundreds of millions of dollars which have enriched their two hundred organizers and chief officers. He knows that the 70,000,000 or more American people have been placed under iniquitous tribute to the trusts for this purpose. He knows that the republican party is entitled to a rake-off from the monopoly profits of the trusts. He is demanding this rake-off as a party right.

There is no doubt that the American trusts will contribute the vast sum assessed against them by the fat huckster who has degraded American politics to the barter-and-sale level. They will regard their contribution to the republican slush fund as an investment to be repaid with interest when their dollars shall have bought Mr. McKinley's re-election—if this be again possible. They know that all the influence of the Hanna-McKinley administration, and all the power of a republican congress, will be devoted to the service of the trusts. They are absolutely sure of monopoly legislation and of government for monopoly under republican rule. They are equally sure that the democratic national administration will oppose and endeavor to overcome the trust evil in behalf of the American people. The $30,000,000 demand of them by Mark Hanna will be forthcoming.

It is for the American people to protect themselves from this malign influence now so seriously threatening the public welfare and so openly striving to nullify popular government. They have the power to rebuke and to punish the trusts and the party of the trusts. One day's work at the polls will place the people in position to exercise this power. That day's work should be done on Nov. 6, 1900, by the retirement of the Hanna-McKinley gang of trust tools from control of the United States government.—St. Louis Republic.

Will Make Bryan Votes.

One of the best of Mr. Bryan's recent speeches was that made at Syndicate park in Omaha, recently. He was in the midst of his personal friends and neighbors, and he manifested his confidence by his freedom of manner and scope of treatment.

Defining some of his general views and speaking of the civilization in the abstract and as applied to politics, Mr. Bryan said:

I have my idea as to what civilization should mean. I want to see if it is your idea. Some people say that we democrats are enemies of property. It is not true. I have a home. I hope I may some time have a better one. I would that every head of a family had a home, and the better the home the happier would I be.

I want property to be the reward of industry, and I want every citizen to be secure in the enjoyment of the proceeds of his toil.

"I do not envy the rich, I am not desirous of pulling them down. I want a civilization that makes every poor man hope to be better off, and relieve the rich man of the fear that his children will be trampled on if they ever become poor (applause).

I want a civilization that embraces within its benefits every deserving member of society. I do not want a civilization that will prevent a man from riding in a carriage, but I want a civilization that gives hope to the driver of the carriage as well as to the man who rides in it. (Applause.) I want a civilization that gives hope to the girl who works in the kitchen as well as the one who sits in the parlor. (Applause.)

"I want a civilization that makes life worth living to every human heart. And when I speak thus I am not an unselfish man. I am selfish, I do not know what may be my life in the years to come. I do not know what will be the lot of my children, and if I dared to favor a system that helped the few at the expense of the many, my children might be among the many who would suffer rather than among the few who would profit by the law." (Applause.)

Such talk as that will win more votes than the denunciation of capital and an appeal to such prejudices as would call for a division of property and the attempted maintenance of an equality that is impossible.—Register Democrat.

The Family Re-Union.

J. L. Chamberlain, the veteran democratic wheel horse, of Fruitvale precinct, and his good wife have been happy during the past week, as a result of having all their children together. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain were married in Marion county, Ore., Aug. 7, 1853, and out of a family of eleven children born to them seven are still living, who with their children, numbering 23, and one grand child, visited their father and mother this week. The names of Mr. Chamberlain's children are as follows:

Mrs. Mary Grant, of Scappoose, Ore., J. F. Chamberlain, of the Wenas, P. P. Chamberlain, of Bickleton, E. L. Chamberlain, of the Natches, Mrs. Walter White, of Okanogan, Mrs. A. H. Hamilton, of Goldendale and James, who resides with his parents. The following poetry was written for the occasion by one of Mr. Chamberlain's sons-in-law, who it seems is on most familiar terms with the muse:

My greeting to our kind hearted parents,
I think of them often with joy;
I remember our mother's good cooking,
When I was a poor hungry boy.

And Jennie, the fair elder sister,
Who was always calm and serene
When us boys used to try to mash her,
Would say "don't be foolish and green."

And Mary, the maid of the kitchen,
Whom I used to think modest and fair;
But often she gets on her ear, now,
And yanks me around by the hair.

There's Paul, the unhappy chore boy,
I hope he's industrious and good;
But it used to require the whole family
To induce him to get the night's wood.

And poor little shock headed Joseph,
They say he has many bad sins;
But the good Lord will surely forgive him
For he's the father of two pair of twins.

And Lee, I hope will be heard from;
Although he seems rather slow,
I shall not be the least bit astonished
If he goes it one better than Jo.

And Emma, the dear little treasure,
I trust to the homestead will come;
I hope she's out grown the bad habit
Of constantly chewing at gum.

And Jimmy, the youngest, the baby,
I hope he is neat and well dressed;
Although he's the tail of the family.
He can keep the flies off the rest.

Yes, I pray while you're all together
No trouble or sorrow will come,
But pity poor father and mother,
And don't eat them out of their home.

I fear that when once more you scatter,
And all have gone back to their cares,
Dear mother will enter her kitchen,
And thank goodness you left the chairs.

But three cheers for all of the family,
May prosperity shine on each one;
May you each raise as noble children,
As good father and mother have done.

"For Her Sake."

The attraction announced for next Monday, October 1st at Larson's theatre is the powerful Russian melodrama, "For Her Sake," which has already had one very powerful season, and now comes to us in an entirely new dress, having been rewritten and novel and effective situations added. The present prominence of the Czar's government in the Chinese business tends to arouse interest in plays dealing with Russian military life, and this of itself will doubtless assure large audiences during the coming engagement. The stage setting of the piece is magnificent, the story absorbing and pathetic, and the comedy plentiful and varied. This is what the advance agent says, but from other and authentic sources it is learned that the play is really meritorious and far superior to the average production of the kind.

Hanna's One Issue.

In a speech at Youngstown, Ohio, a few days ago, Dollar Mark Hanna said: "You may talk about expansion, anti-trust, government by injunction, the constitution following the flag, and all the rest of it, but fellow citizens, I want to tell you that this whole issue boiled down is in the dinner pail."

In the opinion of Hanna the American voter likes only to eat, not to think, and if he can be fed whenever he is hungry he will prove a docile animal willing to be driven whenever his master wishes him to go. Reason, principle, and sentiment are subservient to the stomach. We are a nation of gluttons with appetites but without souls or consciences. Love of liberty must yield to the gross delights of a full "dinner pail."

Perhaps Hanna has correctly gauged the level of patriotic sentiment among the masses in this country. But if we may judge from the stories of starvation wages paid to the coal miners of Pennsylvania, Boss Hanna will be kept busy keeping dinner pails full until election day.—Walla Walla Argus.

She Made Them Smile.

Over in Idaho the women vote at all elections, and some of them have ventured to make political speeches. Quite recently a female orator gave expression before an audience to the following graceful peroration: "The American eagle, with its beak in the Philippines, its magnificent wings stretched from Alaska on the north to Porto Rico on the south, and its tail sheltering that grand man, William McKinley." The natural gallantry of the democrats in the audience kept them from making any remarks.—Id.

On a Pretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

THE LIGHTSHIP.

When boats come home across the bar
And winter's sunlight dies afar,
When green and purple dusk creeps down
And hides the harbor and the town,
Each night far out to sea a beam
Of pale, wan light sends forth its gleam
Across the peaceful, dark'ning tides
And marks the lightship where she rides.

When, tempest tossed, the ships slip by
The foam hid headland, and the sky
Is torn with wrack of scudding cloud,
And winds of winter cry aloud,
Lo, through the roar of crashing wave,
Above the tempest's moan and rave,
A voice comes o'er the troubled tides
And marks where yet the lightship rides!
—Richard Stillman Powell in Criticism.

A DEAL IN WHISKY.

The Profits Were Not So Large as the Buyers Expected.

"There are tricks in the whisky business as well as in others," said the drummer for a large compounding house, "and I remember once how the firm I was with got stuck. One day a man drove up in a one horse wagon carrying one barrel of whisky, which he wanted to sell. He told us some kind of a story about an old uncle dying and leaving it to him; but, as he couldn't afford to use as good liquor as it was, he had concluded to sell it.

"We took the barrel into the house, and, prying out the bung, we slipped in the siphon and drew off a glass of it to sample. And it was fine. The barrel showed age, and the liquor tasted it. It was worth $10 a gallon if it was worth a cent, but we didn't give the man any such pointers. We knew by the weight that there were at least 40 gallons of it, and we made him an offer of $150 for the barrel. He higgled awhile, but took the money at last and drove away.

"In the course of a couple of weeks we concluded to put that whisky in bottles and sell it as case goods, so we set the siphon to work at the bung and began to draw it off. After the fourth bottle had been drawn the siphon refused to work, and we examined it to find what was wrong. We could not get at it that way, and, as the contents seemed to be all right, we set the barrel on end and bored another hole in it. Then the siphon worked, but the liquor was much paler, and one of the men tasted it. By George, it wasn't whisky at all! It was only water, colored somewhat from the charred inside of the barrel.

"That scared us, and we smashed the head in to see what was inside, and we saw in a minute. The wily cuss had filled a can with fine old whisky to the bung where we made the examination before purchasing, and when that had been emptied the whole story had been told. He had probably paid $8 for the gallon to fill the can, and we sold it for $2.50 a bottle, but we didn't get a blamed cent for the 39 gallons, more or less, of water that filled the rest of the barrel."—Washington Star.

The Tamahac or Tomahawk.

Tamahac eventually came to designate the "war hatchet" of the Indian, supplied by the military commanders of the whole continent in equipping the warriors on the many expeditions in which French and English were constantly engaged, and was furnished the Indian allies of the English in our war of independence.

This weapon was either in the form of a spear or hatchet blade on one side, while upon the opposite side there was a cuplike cavity, with a small hole extending into the eye of the weapon, into which a tough handle of wood was fitted 18 inches or two feet in length. The handle was perforated almost its entire length, and below the hollow of the bowl it was bored at right angles to this perforation, a suitable stemhole for the passage of the tobacco smoke when the implement was in use as a pipe.

KISSED HER ON A BET.

She Was a Salvation Lassie; He, Her Husband—Traveling Men Didn't Know That.

A clever trick was worked by Walter Redmond and his wife at Union station by which several traveling men were lured out of their money. At the end of a long seat in the waiting room was a pretty and modest looking young woman attired in a Salvation Army uniform. She was very intent upon a paper which she was reading and paid little attention to the crowd of traveling men standing near her.

Aside from the crowd was a well dressed young man, who was walking back and forth by the newsstand puffing away at a fragrant cigar. Finally a member of the crowd of traveling men remarked upon the beauty of the little Salvation Army worker. All eyes were fixed on the little woman, and she received many compliments. The prosperous looking young man who had been walking near the group of drummers drew near to the crowd. He, too, was struck with the appearance of the woman.

"I'll give any one of you fellows $15 if you kiss that girl," said he.

Those in the crowd took the dare. One spoke up, however, and said to the stranger who had offered the money, "I'll bet you $20 that you can't kiss her."

The stranger hesitated for several seconds and then said:

"I'll just take that bet."

The money was put up, and the stranger, who had given his name as Walter Redmond, walked over toward the little woman in uniform, and, after bowing profoundly, took a seat by her side.

At first the woman seemed to be very indignant, and the traveling man thought he had the $20 won. A minute later, however, Redmond's arm stole around the woman's waist. The spectators then began to open their eyes wide. One of them said: "That fellow has a whole lot of influence over that girl. It may be that he is a hypnotist." Redmond talked for probably two minutes and then kissed the woman.

Redmond walked over to the stakeholder and received his money. He then started from the depot. The little woman quickly arose from her seat, and, taking his arm, walked to Ninth and Broadway, where the couple took an East Broadway car. Redmond is tall and handsome. His wife is a blond and is exceptionally pretty.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

In a Bad Way Anyhow.

George Ober once overheard some acquaintances in the hotel lobby at Hastings-on-the-Hudson discussing the demise of one Bill Jones, a well known character in that lively country village. Ober immediately joined the group, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

"Did I understand you to say Bill Jones was dead?"

"Yep. Died last Thursday."

"Is that possible?"

"Yes, that's right."

"So Bill Jones is dead. Well, well?"

"Yes, he's dead."

"Do you know, I can scarcely believe it, poor chap! Poor Bill! I knew him well. So he's really dead, is he?"

"Well, if he ain't dead, he's in a darned bad predicament. I saw him buried."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Extravagance.

"Here's a case," she exclaimed indignantly, looking up from her paper, "of a man who actually had the nerve to put his wife on an allowance of 10 cents a day."

"What did she do with it all?" he asked absentmindedly.

It was several hours before she felt that she was calm enough to discuss matters with him dispassionately.—New York World.

The Osservatore Romano thus explains why the pope does not appear on the streets of Rome: "If the pope went about in Rome, he would inevitably be made the object of demonstrations of respectful enthusiasm on the part of the faithful, and by a natural reaction these demonstrations would be followed by others of a hostile character. The pope would be simultaneously applauded and hissed and surrounded by tumults and faction fights. The government would render military honors to him, but it could not long tolerate in the streets of Rome demonstrations in favor of the pope, who, after all, is a dispossessed sovereign."

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

To the Populists.

If the reform forces had one reason for supporting Col. Bryan in 1896, they have ten now to the same end, because this campaign is one of the most vital if not the most vital since the civil war.

In his speech at Topeka on August 23, accepting the populist nomination, Mr. Bryan said:

"In 1896 the reform forces charged the republican party with intending to retire the greenbacks. This charge, denied at the time, has been confessed by the financial bill, which converts greenbacks, when once redeemed, into gold certificates, and extend new privileges to banks of issue. If a populist opposed the republican party when its hostility to greenbacks was only suspected, that opposition should be greater now since no one can longer doubt the purpose of the republican party to substitute bank notes for greenbacks.

"It is true that the populists believe in an irredeemable greenback, while the democrats believe in a greenback redeemable in coin, but the vital question at this time, so far as paper money is concerned, is whether the government or banks shall issue it. There will be time enough to discuss the redeemability of the greenback when the greenback itself is saved from the annihilation which now threatens it. The republican party is now committed to a currency system which necessitates a perpetual debt, while the populist finds himself in agreement with the democrat who believes in paying off the national debt as soon as possible.

"If belief in an income tax justified a populist in acting with the democratic party in 1896, what excuse can he find for aiding the republican party now, when even the exigencies of war have not been sufficient to bring that party to the support of the income tax principle?

"Populists believe in arbitration now as much as they did in 1896, and are as much opposed to government by injunction and the black list as they were then, and upon these subjects they have as much reason for co-operation with the democratic party today as they had four years ago.

"Democrats and populists alike favor the principle of direct legislation. If any differences exist as to the extent to which the principle should be applied, these differences can be reconciled by experiment. Democrats and populists agree that Chinese and other Oriental labor should be excluded from the United States.

"Democrats and populists desire to so enlarge the scope of the interstate commerce act as to enable the commission to protect both persons and places from discrimination and the public at large from excessive railroad rates.

"The populists approve the demand set forth in the democratic platform for a labor bureau with a cabinet officer at its head. Such an official would keep the administration in close touch with the wage-earnings portion of the population and go far toward securing such remedial legislation as the toilers need.

"The fact that the trusts support the republican party ought to be sufficient proof that they expect protection from it. The republican party can not be relied upon to extinguish the trusts as long as it draws its campaign contributions from their overflowing vaults."

No American voter who honestly believes in reform, or in the best fundamental principles of this republic, can afford to keep his vote from Bryan this year.—Whitcomb Blade.

The State Issue.

The issues are clearly drawn in the state of Washington this year. It is a contest between good government on the one hand and corruption and fraud on the other. It is the fight of the honest taxpayer against the dishonest grafter. It is the people versus the corrupt ring. It is a battle between the wholesale extravagance and high handed abuses of John H. McGraw and the scheming self-aggrandizement of John L. Wilson against the honest, economical clean administration of John R. Rogers. There is but one side the people can take honorably and with justice to themselves. It is useless to say that Frink is not the candidate of the McGraw-Wilson combine. It was this influence that brought him forward as a candidate, it was this influence that secured him the nomination at the state convention and it is this influence that is making frantic efforts to secure his election. Do you suppose for one moment that the men who made Frink will fail to profit by his election? Such a result is not reasonable, especially when the character of the power that made him is known. To McGraw the election of Frink means his restoration to the throne of republican boss of Washington. It is his final desperate struggle to retrieve his fallen fortunes. If Frink is elected there is nothing more certain than that McGraw will once more be supreme. To Wilson the election of Frink means everything—fortune, position and future political preferment. The Spokane adventurer is running several republican papers in his own interest on borrowed capital, chief among them being the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and Tacoma Ledger and News. The election of Frink is to place him back in the senate where he may recoup his fortunes and pay for his papers. The failure of Frink means to him the loss of the senatorial plum, newspapers and everything. His plight will indeed be pitiable, but nothing that he does not justly deserve. If he falls he falls like Lucifer never to rise again. All hail the day! It will be a God's blessing when the state is rid of these two men for all time. They are dangerous in the extreme.—Chehalis Advocate.

Mr. Wilson, Politician

The Oregonian in a single sentence says what every honest man in the state is compelled to confess:

"Against the present state administration, at the head of which stands governor Rogers, asking re-election, little can be urged."

Then taking up politics in this state it goes after John L. Wilson, whose political methods have ever been the subject of criticism and says:

"Among the republicans there are many of the elements of discord. The dominant faction in the state convention carried it with a high hand and gave no consideration to their opponents. What was known as the Seattle ring in former times is again in full control of the party, reinforced by such strength from eastern Washington as ex-Senator John L. Wilson could give it. Wilson is in politics as a profession. He has no other occupation. He belongs to a family whose members have no ambitions or expectations beyond the management of politics for the usufruct; and his real abilities are in inverse ratio to his pretensions. The only real obstacle to complete republican success in the state is the arrogance of the combined Seattle-Spokane machine. This will give the opposition state ticket many votes which otherwise it would not receive.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21, 1900.
Mr. McKinley's fellow imperialist, the emperor of Germany, not having a slumping political campaign on his hands, has notified his American imitator that he must fish, cut bait, or get out of the Chinese boat. Mr. McKinley found this notification in the shape of the demand of the German emperor that the Chinese officials who instigated the attacks on foreigners shall be punished before Germany will participate in negotiations with China, when he paid Washington one of his prodigal visits this week, and with it was a communication asking in diplomatic language what he was going to do about it. There was a hurrying and scurrying, and with the assistance of some assistant secretaries and those members of the cabinet who are not on the stump or taking things easy away from their offices a reply to Germany's communication was concocted and sent off. It was not made public, but there is little doubt that it was a plea for delay enough to carry the matter beyond the election. It is plain enough that Germany means to make war on China, and now that Count Waldersee, the German commander-in-chief, is on the ground, the Kaiser wants to know whether Mr. McKinley is going to help him or not, and Mr. McKinley wants to find out whether he is going to be re-elected before giving a positive reply. If re-elected, he may consider that an endorsement of imperialism and conclude to add a slice of China to his imperial domain.

Boss Hanna and his crowd, including Mr. McKinley, have lost no opportunity to humiliate Senator Foraker for several years past, but this week Mr. McKinley sent for Senator Foraker and begged him to put his shoulder to the McKinley wheel in Ohio. Nothing could tell the story of Mr. McKinley's fright in plainer terms.

Major Daniel O'Driscoll, who was previous to this administration an ardent republican, was one of the speakers at a meeting held under the auspices of the Central Bryan and Stevenson club, this week. He said: "Before the republican party became the party of conquest and imperialism it stood for all that any patriotic American could wish for, but since it had at its head such men as President McKinley and Senator Hanna not only are the old men turning away but they are followed by the young men. A party that will not keep promises is not a party to tie to. As a sample of these non-kept promises we have but to point to the natives of Porto Rico. Do you wonder that those Porto Ricans sigh for the return of the Spanish rule? I don't."

Democrats around the congressional committee headquarters are delighted with that Chicago speech of Boss Hanna in which he so far lost his head as to say: "I believe that there is not a trust in the entire United States." They believe that this assertion on the part of Hanna will be worth many thousands of votes to Bryan Stevenson and the democratic candidates for congress, because it is so manifestly false that it will disgust intelligent men who have heretofore voted the republican ticket. To say that there isn't a trust in the United States when there isn't a family in the country which does not know and feel by the surest test, increase in its living expenses, of the existence of numerous trusts, is as ridiculous as to say that black is white. The republican platform recognized the existence of trusts, as did the letters of acceptance of Mr. McKinley and Mr. Roosevelt, but Hanna says there are no trusts. After making such an assertion, Mr. Hanna cannot expect the people to believe anything he says about other issues of the campaign. If Hanna can only be kept talking in that strain, the election of Bryan and Stevenson can be made unanimous. Mr. McKinley is being urged by many to try to muzzle Hanna.

Representative Fitzpatrick, of Kentucky, who was in Washington this week, said of the political conditions in his state: "This talk that the republicans are going to carry Kentucky for Mr. McKinley and the state ticket is most amusing. Why, there never was a time when the democrats of Kentucky were in better fighting trim. We'll give Bryan a regular old fashioned democratic majority, and we'll elect Beckham governor, too." Of the general outlook Mr. Fitzpatrick said: "Republicans admit to me in private conversation that Bryan is growing in strength every day. Very few republicans have I met who say that McKinley will carry Maryland or Delaware or West Virginia. Nearly all of the influential democrats and independents who supported McKinley in 1897 are for Bryan this year on the paramount issue of imperialism and militarism. Just think of it, according to the present rates of expense for our army it will require $150,000,000 for its support for this fiscal year, and there is no reduction of the army in sight. If the policy of imperialism is to be continued, what will the army cost? As a conservative man, I give it as my opinion that Bryan will be elected by as large a majority as Cleveland received in 1892."

McKinley Prosperity.

Business is not what it was a year ago but men do not agree on defining the difference. The working forces are now decreasing, work stopping to relieve excessive output in manufactures in paper, cotton, wool, leather, and some forms of steel, while prices are suddenly reduced in lead, wire and nails. All this seems to some "merely spring dullness," others think it "the beginning of reaction." In place of the wild speculation in securities which swelled exchanges a year ago, there has come such liquidation that twenty preferred industrial stocks have sold this week at prices averaging $83.14 per share, though the same stock sold in April last year for $99.60 per share, and twenty common have sold this week for $38.49, which sold last year at $79.99, double the price.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

As usual at Fair time the town is over run with fakers this week.

Hot air furnaces are being put in this week to heat Larson's theater.

The Bittner company are filling a week's engagement at Larson's theater.

J. C. MacCrimmon had the misfortune to lose his youngest child on Tuesday. The funeral occurred on Wednesday.

The business men pretty generally closed up on Thursday and Friday afternoons, and with their clerks and assistants attended the Fair.

The excellent quality of the music furnished for the Fair by Prof. Nagler's band has called forth a great many compliments from Fair visitors.

The Belgian hares owned by Prof. McBride and exhibited at the Fair created a great deal of interest among fanciers on account of their fine breeding.

The dedication of the Natches Presbyterian church will take place tomorrow (Sunday) at the hour of 11 a. m. Rev. Hugh W. Gilchrist, of Seattle, will deliver the dedicatory sermon, and Rev. Blythe, of Roslyn, will assist in the exercises.

E. W. Bracket, of Nob Hill, has on exhibition in the window of the North Yakima drug store two pumpkins which weigh respectively 122 and 132 pounds. Another was left at home which measured in diameter nine inches greater than the largest of the two on exhibition.

The school board has employed Miss Lois Whittle, of Roslyn, and Miss A. Bell Cass, of Lloyd, Wis., as teachers to fill the vacancies made by the resignations of Miss Margaret Steinbach and Miss Daisy Beach. The former will teach in the second grade and the latter in the fifth.

The outside attendance at the Fair this year was much greater than that of last season. The hotels were kept completely filled throughout the week. The overflow was successfully handled by the reception committee, which found sleeping accommodations for several hundred in private houses.

"Under Sealed Orders" a thrilling comedy drama will appear at Larson's theater on next Thursday evening, Oct. 4. This great play is dramatized from one of Kipling's famous novels and is a strictly high class play. Tickets will be on sale at Briggs and Dam's music store on Tuesday.

Among the educational workers from abroad taking part in the teacher's institute this week were State Supt. F. J. Browne, Prof. E. S. Meany, of the State University; Prof. Sanders, of the Cheney Normal school; Prof. Munson, of the Ellensburg normal, and B. W. Brintnall, of Seattle, editor of the N. W. Journal, of Education.

Word has been received here of the death recently at Rock Rapids, Iowa, of Gerritt Leeurick, a former member of Co. E., the cause of his death being chronic dysentery. The young man was very popular with all his comrades who are grieved to learn of his death. Previous to his enlistment he made his home here at the residence of D. M. Shanks.

A rather amusing incident occurred at the water tank on Tuesday. The west bound passenger train pulled in and the fireman as usual pulled the string and filled the boiler of the engine. When enough water had been secured he attempted to shut the supply off but the valve in the big storage tank refused to work and the water continued to gush forth like a geyser from the full tank. As a result the track and surroundings were soon under water and a good sized rivulet was running down Front street. After being shut up tight the train finally passed through the surging stream which continued to flow until the big tank was empty.

H. Vance Lowery, the 23 year old son of J. M. Lowery, of the Ahtanum, died quite suddenly last week at Baker City, Ore., where the young man had been for several weeks in company with his brother. The ailment which carried the young man off is said to have been pneumonia. The remains were received here on Saturday last, the funeral services being held in the Presbyterian church of this city the same afternoon. Mr. Lowery was quite well and most favorably known throughout this county as a most promising young man and his many friends will deeply regret his untimely end.

The local lodge of K. P. gave a pleasant entertainment on Wednesday evening at the lodge rooms, in honor of visiting brethren. Manager Bittner was on hand with most of his company, including the tumblers and afforded a good deal of amusement. Music, recitals and story telling filled in the evening's entertainment which was highly enjoyed by all present. Delicious refreshments were served.

The dance given by the band boys at Mason's opera house was a grand success. The proceeds of the ball will be used to help pay for the handsome new uniforms recently purchased for the organization. The net receipts were $63.

POULTRY SUPPLIES—Granulated bone, oyster shells and feed sold at the Mill Company's brick warehouse across the track from the depot.

Don't be Afraid.

To write to A. D. Charlton, A. G. P. A., Portland; A. Tinsling, general agent, Tacoma; I. A. Nadeau, general agent, Seattle; J. W. Hill, general agent, Spokane; G. A. Graham, North Yakima, about the Northern Pacific's new train service. They are paid to answer questions. All you have to do is to ask them.

The Full Dinner Pail.

Look! In this great producing land of ours hundreds of thousands of workmen receive but nine dollars per week. Mark you well, $36 per month, if they work every day. Is that high wages?

God save the mark! Is that a just distribution of wealth? If so, we have no right to complain. It is the law. Yea, the law of nature, the law of God! Thirty-six dollars per month for the free American workman, from which he is to support himself and those dependent upon him. Thirty-six dollars per month sounds big to those who roll it under their tongues and prate of high wages.—R. T. Snediker in The Public.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca (Ills.) News, was afflicted for years with Piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world. He writes, two boxes wholly cured him. Infallible for Piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by Quiett & Ayres, Drug Co.

Passenger train No. 4, which arrived here from the east on Saturday morning was held up by a lone highwayman while crossing Idaho the night before. All the passengers in the two pullman coaches with the exception of one lady were held up at the point of a pistol by the masked robber, and compelled to disgorge their money and valuables, the robber compelling the porter to accompany him and hold the sack. The robber left the train at Athol and made good his escape. The Northern Pacific Railway company has offered a reward of $2000 for his apprehension.

We'll Own the Earth.

Let us cover up the sunbeams
Lying all around our path,
Get a trust on wheat and roses,
Give the poor the thorns and chaff.
Let us find our chiefest pleasure
Hoarding bounties of today,
So the poor will have scant measure
And two prices have to pay.
Yes we'll reservoir the rivers,
And we'll levy on the lakes.
And we'll lay a trifling poll tax
On each man who partakes,
We'll brand his number on him
That he'll carry through his life;
We'll apprentice all his children,
Get a mortgage on his wife.
We'll capture e'en the wind-god
And confine him to a cave,
And claim through our patent process
We the atmosphere will say;
Thus we'll squeeze our little brother
When his lungs he tries to fill,
Put a meter on his windpipe
And present our little bill.
We will syndicate the starlight,
And monopolize the moon;
Claim a royalty on rest days.
A proprietary noon;
For right of way through ocean's spray
We'll charge just what it's worth;
We'll drive our stakes around the lakes
In fact we'll own the earth.

Bryanism and Hannaism.

The terms Bryanite and Bryanism are used by the republicans to designate the supporters of Mr. Bryan and the principles for which the democratic party stands. These terms are meant to carry with them a certain degree of opprobrium, much in the same way the term Christian was applied to the early followers of Christ. The democrats are willing to stand for it. They are willing to accept the terms and all they imply, and in contradistinction they may be allowed to use the terms Hannaite and Hannaism to distinguish the supporters of the opposite party and the cause represented by them, since Mark Hanna is prime mover and the power behind the throne in the party. So then it is Bryanism versus Hannaism. How great is the antithesis! What a wonderful difference of meaning! To begin with the men themselves, it is hyperion to a satyr, Mark Hanna is the prince of corruptionists. The chief executive bears his cost mark. He occupies a seat in the senate, why? Because he has any qualifications which entitle him to it? No; because he bought it. He is an advocate of trusts, a trickster, an unscrupulous manipulator—everything that is the opposite of fair, square and honorable politics. When the command was given to swallow Mark, many honorable republicans made wry faces and some even to this day have refused the pill. Can there be any doubt as to the meaning of Hannaism when the character and antecedents of Hanna are so well known? And Bryanism? Of all that has been said concerning Mr. Bryan, there is not one single, solitary syllable impeaching his honor or honesty. He is a man above reproach, admittedly able, conscientious and clear headed. These are the characteristics a leader should possess. One may arrive at a conclusion as to the relative merits of Bryanism and Hannaism by comparing the men themselves.—Everett News.

ACCESSIONS TO BRYAN.

The Week Shows no Diminution in Converts to Democracy.

The week has brought forth its usual heavy defections from McKinley.

Ex-Congressman Scott Wike of Illinois, who opposed Bryan in 1896, has tendered his services to the democratic state committee.

Benjamin F. Johnson of the same state, who was the republican candidate for congress in the 18th district, in 1898, is out for Bryan.

David F. Brenner, a prominent capitalist, of Chicago, comes to Bryan as the savior of the constitution and the flag.

Charles E. Harwood, republican and former mayor of Lynn, Mass., is with Bryan on the issue of imperialism. David Spektorsky of Boston, renounces McKinley for the same reason.

Fred T. Ford, a Palmer and Buckner man of Indianapolis, Ind., leaves the republican party this year after a lifelong adherence.

J. Warren Greene, of New York, makes public his conversion to Bryan in a letter to the Evening Post of that city.

From Danville, Ill., the following are reported: E. R. E. Kimbrough, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives; Michael Kelly, "the wealthiest man in Vermillion county;" Louis Platt, real estate dealer; Dr. H. W. Morehouse, chief surgeon of the Wabash railway system; Thos. Conroy, hardware merchant; Ben Bandy, lumber dealer; Thomas B. Castleman, manager of the Danville Press; Dr. J. W. Wright, physician; A. R. Hill, attorney; J. H. Barkley, retired capitalist; R. W. Gillette, physician, and "150 Germans who formerly voted the republican ticket."—National Democrat.

The Jonathan Apple.

The Jonathan is pre-eminently an apple for dessert use in the fresh state, and by its beauty and convenient size is particularly adapted for sale in small lots from stands and stores for immediate consumption. It is a late autumn or early winter variety, except in the more northern districts, and is inclined to wilt and wrinkle in ordinary storage after New Year's, but in cold storage it is successfully held to a much later date. Because of its tender flesh and thin skin special care in picking, handling and packing is imperative in marketing the Jonathan. It is easily bruised, and its market value is materially lessened by careless handling.

Bill Was Fooled.

"Seen anything of a feller round here with red whiskers an a squint?" queried Bill Sykes of Newberg, as he adjusted his red comforter and blew a sonorous blast from his bibulous nose preparatory to taking a little stimulant, "cause if you have I've got business with him. He come to my house yesterday, an after talking around a spell an telling Hanner he thought she was my darter an making a fool of her he said he would have to inspect the well sent out by the state, you know.

"Well, I got a pailful of water, an he poured some in a sasser and looked at it through a mikyscope. Then I looked at it, an say, fellers, that water was full of alligators a foot long—microbes he called 'em. The upshot was I bought the mikyscope and some stuff to put in the well to kill the animals, an I paid him $10, but 'twas partly Hanner's fault."

Here Bill looked around defiantly and continued: "That stuff was salt an water an there wan't no bugs. They were painted on the glass to the mikyscope." And with a rather derogatory remark about the honesty of man generally Bill left in quest of the man with the squint.—Dowagiac Republican.

The Sultan's Barbarous Capital.

European ladies constantly run away with the idea that Constantinople is a civilized town and act accordingly. Then they are astonished when something disagreeable happens, and continually one hears of ladies being hustled, pinched or kissed by Turkish soldiers. It must be remembered that the soldiers are recruited from the wildest tribes in Asia Minor, where woman is considered an inferior creature, who must give way to man, besides being trained to avoid him on all possible occasions.

One can easily imagine that such a soldier is astonished to see a European lady unveiled, boldly expecting him to give way to her or at any rate not avoiding him, and he naturally takes it to be an advance on her part. Ladies have often told me they have been pushed by soldiers into the gutter, and I have nearly always found that it is simply as I have explained, that neither makes way for the other, with the result that the lady, being the weaker, comes to grief.—London Telegraph.

Tokyo Fire Walkers.

A Yokohama correspondent of the Indianapolis Press, who witnessed the religious ceremony of fire walking in Tokyo, says: "There were present diplomats and professors from the Imperial college and an Episcopal bishop, and we think there is sufficient evidence to prove that several Japanese women did walk through the fire. A doubting Thomas gathered up some of the salt in which they rubbed their feet, both before and after their hot walk, to take away and analyze. Another suggested that the bamboo pole that was used to make the path was hollow and may have contained a substance that sifted out as it was drawn backward and forward that destroyed the heat. The little 'amak' of my friend, when asked why the feet were not burned, replied, 'Much pray, much pray.' We have stated facts. The interpretation must come from those versed in the occult sciences."

She—So this is your picture? It is a true representation of the dining room of the ocean steamer, but why didn't you introduce some characters?

He—Because that picture is entitled "The Dinner Hour During a Rough Passage."—Stray Stories.

Nervous Old Lady (to deck hand)—Mr. Steamboatman, is there any fear of danger?

Deck Hand (carelessly)—Plenty of fear, ma'am, but not a bit of danger.—Harlem Life.

Vampires Not Bloodsuckers.

Mr. James Rhen, who is engaged in a special study of bats, says that it is a fallacy that the vampire is a blood-sucker. Travelers and story writers are responsible for the story of the terrible bloodsucking vampire bats of South America. Nearly all general writers on this subject agree with them as to its criminal record, and they all concur in laying the blame on a large grotesque looking bat with an enormous leaf nose, the Vampyrus spectrum. This bat is common in South and Central America and, from his great size, being about two feet across the outspread wings, is a suggestive and repulsive enough object to impute the blood loving habit to.

As a matter of fact, this is a somewhat useful animal and is totally innocent of these charge, the bloodsuckers being two much smaller and rarer bats. The front teeth of these two latter are enormous lancets occupying over half the tooth row of the animals and possessing very sharp edges, which can easily penetrate the human skin. The teeth of the big vampire, on the other hand, are simply adapted for a diet of insects and fruit. The true bloodsucking bats are much rarer than the vampire.—Philadelphia Record.

Home Life In Porto Rico.

To one unaccustomed to tropical conditions the furnishing of the Porto Rican home would at first sight seem meager, but it is quite ample. A short residence will demonstrate that nearly 500 years of experience with the unpleasant features of life in the West Indies have been crowned by a survival of the fittest in house furnishing as in other matters.

Austrian bent wood furniture and also wickerwork and willow ware constitute the main equipment of the parlors and living rooms. Upholstered furniture is unknown and undesired, little or no attempt being made at decoration except in the matter of embroidery and fine handmade lace work. Hundreds of yards of crochet work are used in the embellishment of a single canopied bed. This work is the chief delight of the Porto Rican housewife.

The walls are for the most part bare, but here and there a painting of merit may be seen. The sofa pillow is the one great feature of the home. It is everywhere, in every conceivable size, shape and material. Ferns of gigantic size and exquisite formation, as well as broad spreading palm leaves, are used to festoon the walls and arched doorways. Cut fresh from day to day, they render the dark, cool rooms inviting and attractive. Potted tropical plants in great variety abound within and without the house.—Harper's Bazar.

Throneroom of Spain.

The throneroom of Spain is a magnificent apartment of crimson and gold, with colossal mirrors and a chandelier of rock crystal that is considered the finest example of the kind in the world. Under the gorgeous canopy are two large chairs handsomely carved and gilded and upholstered in crimson brocade. These are the thrones of Spain, where the boy king and queen regent sit on occasions of ceremony. Sometimes the daughters stand beside their mother, when it is proper for all the royal family to receive the court.—International Magazine.

The October purple plum, for which great beauty and excellent quality are claimed, is one of Mr. Luther Burbank's latest productions.

There is no peach in cultivation which will stand a temperature of 30 degrees below zero without artificial protection. Among the hardiest peaches are Hill's Chile, Longhurst, Barnard, Early Rivers and Fitzgerald, says John Craig in American Gardening.

Law Suit About Chickens.

The supreme court of the United States has rendered a decision in a chicken case carried up from Newton, Iowa. One neighbor was greatly pestered by the chickens of another, who thought it was nothing for a neighbor to get mad about having a dozen chickens digging in every soft place in his lawn and ornamenting his board walks. The pestered neighbor thought differently and shot some of the chickens. The matter went to law and was carried from court to court until it reached the supreme court of the United States. That body decided that a person had a right to rid his premises of all pests such as chickens, when he does not want them there, and classes all such fowls as wild game, liable to be killed by whoever wants to do so. This decision should be carefully read by all our readers who are interested in either side of the chicken question—either the aggressive or the defensive side.—Chariton (Iowa) Democrat.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution.

STATE OF WASHINGTON,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
OLYMPIA.

To Whom it May Concern:
In obedience to an act of the legislature approved March 13, 1899, entitled as follows:
"An act providing for the constitutional amendment conferring power upon the legislature to exempt certain property from taxation," there is herewith published for the consideration of the voters of the state of Washington the following proposed amendment to the constitution of said
state:

"SECTION 1. It is proposed to amend section (2) two of article seven (7) of the constitution of the State of Washington by adding thereto the following proviso:
'And provided further, That the legislature shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to exempt personal property to the amount of three hundred ($300.00) dollars for each head of a family liable to assessment and taxation under the provisions of the laws of this state, of which the individual is the actual and bona fide owner.'
"SECTION 2. That at the general election to be held in November, 1900, the amendment hereinbefore mentioned in section 1
shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Washington for their approval, and there shall be printed on each of the ballots provided for said election the words 'For proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation.' Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation."

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington, at Olympia, this twentieth day of July, Nineteen Hundred.
WILL D. JENKINS,
Secretary of State for the State of Washington.

At said election each elector desiring to vote in favor of the adoption of said proposed amendment should place an X upon his ballot opposite the words "For the proposed amendment to section 2 article 7 of the constitution, in relation to taxation." Each elector desiring to vote against the adoption of said proposed amendment should place upon his ballot an X opposite the words "Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution, in relation to taxation."

WILL D. JENKINS,
Secretary of State.

D. A. McDaniel, of Page county, Iowa, and wife arrived the first of the week and will make their home in town this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ricker, of Denver, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horsley, departed for home on Saturday.

Frank J. Browne, state superintendent of public instruction, was in the city the first of the week in attendance at the county teachers institute.

H. C. Griffith, the former landlord of the Hotel Yakima, came over from Whatcom this week accompanied by Mrs. Griffith, to take in the fair.

Wm. Shearer had the misfortune to get a hand poisoned last week while drying hops at the Bosdet ranch and has since had quite a serious time with it.

J. W. Turner, of Sunnyside, was a county seat visitor on Wednesday. Mr. Turner is associated with H. J. Spratt in sinking an artesian well near Ellensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sloan are this week entertaining Mrs. Geo. Sloan, of Roslyn, and Mrs. Agnes Williams, of Baltimore, Maryland, who arrived on Wednesday.

W. H. Parlin, the head of the great plow manufacturing house of Parlin & Orendorf, of Canton, Ill., is in the city this week to visit the Fair, at which his firm has a large exhibit.

Harry Mull and sister, Miss Maud, came over on Saturday from Seattle, where they have been attending business college for the past year, to visit their parents for a week.

H. H. Collier, the genial editor of the Pacific poultryman, is in the city this week attending to his duties as superintendent of the poultry department at the Fair. Only a week ago Mr. Collier was honored with a nomination for the legislature by the democratic convention of Pierce county. As his district is normally democratic and as Mr. Collier is generally recognized therein as being both able and popular; his friends count confidently on his holding down a seat in the next legislature.

Chas. D. McGlothlen has moved his family over from the Columbia and is now residing on the west side. Mr. McGlothlen is a very proficient musician and will teach music this winter.

Captain and Mrs. Johnston, who have resided for the past year on the Holton place west of town, have purchased one of Prof. Barge's new houses on Sixth street and will make it their future residence.

Mrs. Edward Porter, of Saratoga, N. Y., arrived on Saturday for a visit with her brother, George S. Vance and family. Mrs. Porter was on the ill fated train that was held up by a lone highwayman while crossing Idaho the night before. The lady had the good fortune to lose nothing, however, being the only passenger in the two pullman coaches that escaped being robbed. This lucky coincidence is said to be due to the fact that opposite her berth the seats were occupied by four men who were "held up" by the masked robber who held a pistol in each hand. Consideration for his own safety precluded the man from robbing Mrs. Porter as to do so would have obliged him to turn his back to the men, which he evidently deemed it wise not to do.

"For Her Sake."

In the new Russ-Siberian play, "For Her Sake," there is one scene which must fall little short of the terrific, viewed from the standpoint of dramatic effect. It is a fogging episode. The knout, as the Russian cat-o-nine-tails is called, is made to figure, and the victim of the lash is a serf girl, whose only offense, it would appear from a reading of the plot of the play, is that she has won the love of a prince of the blood. The play is said to depict with startling accuracy the penal system of the Czar's dominion, and true to real life, it is also said to be not without the lighter touch of wholesome comedy. The play will be seen here at Larson's theatre, Monday, October 1st.

Look Out at Night

For the big electric lighted trade mark on the rear end of the Northern Pacific's North Coast Limited. It burns all night and leaves a trail of splendor behind to astonish the natives. Send to our agents for our North Coast Limited leaflet.

Freight on Apples Reduced

The Northern Pacific railway company announced that commencing on Oct. 1, and continuing until Jan. 1, a rate on apples of 60c per 100 pounds will be in effect. The minimum rate of 25,000 pounds, carload lots, applies. This rate is from Ellensburg to St. Paul, Minn., and intermediate points.

Public Meeting.

A public meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the Christian church, on Sunday evening, Oct. 14, at 7:30 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to get our work better before the public; that they may better understand our work and what we are pleading for. Everyone cordially invited to come out and hear what the women have to say.

PRESS SUPT.

Special Sale.

In order to clean up the old stock and make room for new goods, we will sell at actual cost, 75 mens' suits and 100 boys and youths' suits. This sale will continue as long as the above stock lasts.

E. O. KECK,
Clothier.

BROKEN PLATES repaired, reset and made like new.

GOLD AND PLATINA FILLINGS that will stay, $1.00 up. DR. STEPHENSON, Rooms 4, 5, 6, Janeck Building.

Before buying paints go to The Paint Store. I do not handle paints as a side line, but deal exclusively in paints, oils, glass, wall paper, brushes etc; in fact a full line of the best goods. In wall paper I have nothing but new stock from 10c double roll up. Being a practical painter I can advise what material to use and how to use it. I don't give chromos but you get full value and right treatment. Call on Metcalf, First street.

Quartette Orchestra.

The Quartette Orchestra will furnish music for public or private entertainments. Charges reasonable.

Will give primary lessons in music, both vocal and instrumental. Pianos tuned. C. L. MCGLOTHLEN. Inquire at Taylor & Denley's store. 3-6

The North Yakima Drug Store has on exhibition a decided novelty, as well as a most useful household article in the shape of the "Magic Cork Extractor" which is the neatest and most effective cork puller that we have ever seen. It is certainly a great improvement over the old fashioned corkscrew and is worth its weight in gold to every housekeeper or any other person who has corks to pull.

Twin City Express

East bound, on the Northern Pacific, passes through the red-colored Bad Lands and the North Dakota wheat fields in the day time. This train leaves Portland at 11:30 o'clock at night, Puget Sound points early the following morning and arrives at Spokane at 10:40 p. m., and at St. Paul at 7:45 a. m. connecting with all outgoing trains.
