For President,

WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

For Vice-President,

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

THE conventions of the reform party in this state that convene in the city of Seattle next Monday, have a great duty to perform, and it is to be hoped that the delegates will prove equal to the emergency. Every person possessed of any political sense knows that the conditions in this state are such at the present time that the fusionists have but little chance to carry it in the coming campaign unless they adopt the right course and steer clear of the pitfalls that are spread before them. As a matter of fact, there is entirely too much peanut politics in the present situation—especially in relation to the gubernatorial nomination. There is no valid reason to doubt the fact that a large majority of the voters that compose the fusion party in Washington, and particularly so east of the mountains, are in favor of the re-nomination and re-election of John R. Rogers as the chief executive of the state. Many of such are free in criticising the governor for committing what they regard as mistakes in the matter of some of his appointments; but for the general tenor of his administration they have nothing but praise. They know that the present chief executive is an able, honest and fearless man, who has endeavored on all occasions to do his duty as he saw it. Four years ago, when he was a candidate for the exalted position he now holds, he was treated with undisguised contempt by the politicians of the opposing party. He was denounced and ridiculed in bitter invective for being a crank, an anarchist and an irresponsible dreamer. A man totally unfit, they said, both by instinct and training to perform the responsible duties of such an office. But we have now had nearly four years of his administration, and what is the result? The result is simply this, that his public record has given the lie to all of his old time calumniators. He has given the people of the state a clean, businesslike, economical administration, along conservative lines. From the standpoint of the people's interests it has been an administration with scarcely a flaw, and every page of the record made will bear the fullest investigation. In the discharge of his duties, the governor has made enemies within his own party, and some very powerful ones, too. This is mainly due to his aggressive nature—for men of his stamp invariably arouse opposition. It is a curious fact, however, that the majority of men whose enmity he has gained will not attempt to deny that he has given to the state a good government; which indicates, of course, that the different grievances of these gentlemen spring from personal reasons. Such being the case, it is unreasonable for them to assume that the rank and file of the party, who feel that the public has been well served by the executive, should question their motives and decline to join with them in the overthrow of the governor. With due consideration for the claims of other candidates, it seems to us that Gov. Rogers is the logical standard bearer in this campaign. We do not believe that his nomination would alienate any considerable number of fusion votes. It might be that he would lose some on various personal pretenses; but the aggregate in the nature of things could not be large. Indeed the probability is a reasonable one, that his party would lose a much greater proportion in the event that he fails to receive the indorsement that he merits, for the reason that the people may object to being trifled with in this manner. On the other hand there is unmistakable evidence everywhere we look that the governor's candidacy would draw to him the support of a large number of independent voters of republican proclivities. This class of voters are not politicians, but are business men and well-to-do farmers, who make no secret of their admiration of the governor and their desire that the opportunity may be afforded them to endorse at the polls the splendid administration which he has given to the people of this state. This class of men are numbered, not by the hundreds alone, but by the thousands. What a senseless and suicidal policy it would be, then, as a party move, to slap these men in the face and drive them away, as well as a large number of disgruntled party men. This would be peanut politics, with a vengeance. Let those scheming politicians, who are so busy in laying traps to catch the unwary, desist long enough from their labors to listen to the voice of the people, and hearken thereto before it is everlastingly too late.

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS, of Massachusetts, who has recently made a tour of the state of Indiana, says of the political outlook in that state: "I did not find a democrat in Indiana who did not feel perfectly confident of carrying the state for Bryan this year. Everybody agrees that the democrats of Indiana have not in a generation started a campaign with such confidence of success as they have this year. In every city in which I stopped, I was given dozens of instances of gold democrats who have returned to the party fold, as well as numerous republicans who have thrown off allegiance to their party on account of its imperialistic proclivities and its responsibility for the trust evil." What is true of Indiana is likewise true of other states, according to other eminent authorities. The Irish vote that left the democratic party in 1884 and in subsequent years, has returned this year because of a righteous horror of imperialism and a natural aversion to the alliance, either written or implied, that seems to bind our government to that of Great Britain. The same sentiment that influences the patriotic Irish-American is also having its effect on countless thousands of voters of German extraction and is gradually jarring them loose from their old time affiliation with the party in power. These people, especially such as were born abroad, know by sorrowful experience what imperialism means, and they have taught their children to hate it. It is unreasonable to assume that they will not bitterly resist the transplanting of this noxious foreign weed in the free soil of America.

THE Republic this week, with the manifest purpose in view of fomenting discord in the fusion ranks, prints a lot of tommy rot about last Saturday's conventions. The assertion made that the silver republicans, by means of their 35 votes, dictated the personnel of the ticket, is a pure fabrication without the slightest basis of fact. The truth of the matter is, as the records of the convention will show, that the silver republican vote did not change the result in a single instance, where there was a spirited contest for the nomination. The figures will show conclusively that had Mr. Krutz and Mr. Grant received the whole of the silver republican vote and their opponents none, they would both have still been short of a majority in the convention. These are the facts in the case; but facts are not what the local organ wants.

THE ticket nominated by the joint conventions in this county last Saturday is a good one from top to bottom. It is a ticket made up throughout of representative citizens—for the most part heavy taxpayers. It is a ticket that will grow stronger every day with the people as election day approaches. The names of the nominees, one and all, are familiar to the people of this county and stand for ability, honesty and respectability. It is a ticket that deserves to win in November, and the chances are that it will win in its entirety. The joint convention certainly did its work well.

LOCAL republican politicians and their newspaper organ have a good deal to say this week about the big wash of "dirty linen" in the late democratic county convention. It is true without doubt, that the wash was a big one, but the work was well done, and now that the wearing apparel is thoroughly purified and the boys are all out with their clean clothes on, there is no good reason why in the future we should not be a most happy family.

The above excellent ticket is the result of the labors of the joint convention composed of the three wings of the fusion party that assembled in Mason's opera house last Saturday evening. That it is a good ticket and a strong one is evident from the general commendation it has received since it has been placed in nomination, even by strong partisans of the opposing party. While the contest over two of the offices, that of sheriff and prosecuting attorney, was very spirited, the losing candidates accepted defeat in a graceful manner and pledged their hearty and earnest support in behalf of the whole ticket.

The Democratic Convention.

The democratic convention was called to order in Mason's opera house at 11 a. m., by Chairman E. B. Preble, of the county central committee. Mr. Preble explained the object of the meeting and then called for nominations for chairman. The names of A. F. Snelling and J. D. Medill were presented. The roll call showed that 101 votes had been cast of which the former had received 63 and the latter 38.

W. N. Granger was then elected secretary and Harry Garrett, assistant secretary.

The usual committees were then appointed and a recess taken until 1 p. m. After re-assembling, the committees, after some delay reported. The resolution committee, of which H. J. Snively was chairman, made the following report:

"We reaffirm the national democratic platform unreservedly, and pledge our loyal support to that greatest of statesmen of our day, Hon. William Jennings Bryan.

"We commend the course of our senator from the state of Washington, the Hon. George Turner, for his grand efforts in the senate of the United States, where he has taken place as the first and foremost of the senators to whom the people must look for a champion and a defender of their rights, liberties and interests.

"We pledge the candidates of this convention for the various county offices, to give the people an economical, honest and intelligent administration of the affairs of the county.

"We declare this party to be in favor of improving the county roads of this county, and to permanently locate them upon their proper lines, so that the inconvenience to which the people of the county are now being constantly subjected, of a constant change shall cease.

"We reaffirm the position taken by this party in this county, during many years past, in relation to a reasonable and proper regulation and control of the railroads traversing this county, and pledge the members of the legislature nominated by this convention to advocate proper and reasonable regulation of railroads and railroad rates, and we pledge the people that the county commissioners and assessor nominated by this convention will see that all railroad corporations, persons and private corporations shall bear equally the burdens of taxation.

"We denounce the system of public officers riding on passes and accepting from railroads transportation, whether they charge it to the county or otherwise, inasmuch as the constitution of the state of Washington, which all public officers take an oath to support, declares that no public officer shall ever use or ride on a railroad pass, and to accept and use a pass after taking an oath to support the constitution of the state, amounts to what in good old-fashioned Jeffersonian democracy would be called perjury.

"We indorse the present administration headed by his excellency, Hon. John R. Rogers, governor, and we declare ourselves to be proud of the record which he has made, as admitted by his friends and political enemies alike, of having given the state of Washington the best state administration it has ever had. And we hereby instruct the delegates elected by this convention to attend the state convention, to cast their votes for the Hon. John R. Rogers for the nomination for governor.

"As in union there is strength, and as in democratic government a majority is always supposed to be wiser than a minority, and with a view of maintaining the proud and established standing of Yakima county in past state conventions, we direct that the delegates to the state convention from this county shall vote and act as a unit in that convention, and we urge them to lay aside all prejudices and exercise their soundest judgment in deciding the various intricate and important questions that they will have to decide in the discharge of their duties as delegates.

"Whereas, The question of the reclamation of the arid lands of this state is of paramount interest to the people of Yakima county, and, whereas, the session by the United States of the one million acres of such lands, by the 'Carter act' of congress, is of vital importance to the entire state, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we denounce the republican party of this state for its failure to serve the best interests of the people in this regard, and especially the last legislature of this state, which was in control of said party, and, being true to the corporate interests in this state, thwarted every effort made looking towards the earning of such one million acres of land by the state, fearing that the development of such lands by the state would cheapen the price of irrigated lands generally and cause a corresponding loss of profits to companies now owning irrigation canals and the lands thereunder."

After the adoption of the above platform by a unanimous vote, Dr. H. Green as chairman of the conference committee, appointed by the chair, reported that the populist and silver republican conventions had agreed to go into a joint convention for the purpose of nominating a county ticket provided that the silver republicans be permitted to cast 35 votes—which was the quota allowed them in the apportionment by the different state central committees. In addition the other two conventions asked that the silver republicans be conceded two places on the ticket, namely, auditor and commissioner from the second district. This report called forth a heated argument in the democratic convention and the issue was thoroughly debated from all standpoints. In the interest of harmony, Medill moved that the first part of the report be accepted and the second condition rejected and the conference committee so instructed to report back to the populist and silver republican conventions. After another parliamentary battle this notion was carried by acclamation, Mr. Krutz finally withdrawing all opposition and accepting the situation gracefully.

The next order of business was the election of 11 delegates and 11 alternates to the democratic state convention.

H. J. Snively suggested that the services of E. M. Reed and J. D. Medill to the party in their capacity as newspaper men was such that they were entitled to recognition at the hands of the convention and moved therefore that both men be elected delegates by acclamation. The motion provoked some antagonism, especially from Mr. Krutz, who insisted that the motion was improper and moved as a substitute that the 11 delegates be elected by precincts, no precinct being allowed to name more than one man. The debate that followed on the substitute revealed the "nigger in the woodpile" so plainly that it was overwhelmingly defeated. The original motion was then put and carried by acclamation. Nominations were then rapidly made for the remaining nine places on the delegation and resulted in the following choice being made: T. M. Vance, H. J. Snively, John McPhee, W. N. Granger, Harley Taylor, A. G. McNeil, Harry Garrett, Richard Strobach, and H. H. Allen. The alternates selected were E. B. Marks, Louis Joerdens, Walter Purdin, J. C. Gordon, J. C. Lonegan, A. J. Splawn, J. Kauffman, S. J. Lowe, W. E. Thornton, G. McL. Richards and Henry Stone. After the election of delegates and alternates the convention took a recess until the hour of 7:30 which was the time set for the meeting of the joint convention.

The hall was packed to its utmost capacity in the evening with the result that for some time there was a good deal of confusion. When the joint convention was called to order H. J. Snively was unanimously elected to preside and I. M. Krutz was chosen as secretary.

vention for the honor conferred, stated that the first order of business was the nomination of a candidate for representative.

E. B. Preble secured recognition and in a most eloquent speech placed the name of A. J. Splawn before the convention.

S. H. Mason the Prosser lawyer, then nominated Hon. H. D. Jory, but that gentleman in a happy speech declined the honor. The nomination of Mr. Splawn was then made by acclamation amid much enthusiasm.

Mr. Splawn in his short speech of acceptance made some witty remarks, which excited laughter and closed by saying that whatever he might do if elected, there was positively one thing that he would not do and that was that he would not ride back and forward to Olympia on a free pass. The short speech of the candidate brought forth tumultuous applause and it was some time before the convention got down to business again. The next nomination was that of prosecuting attorney and the two contestants, E. B. Preble and I. M. Krutz were entered in the race. The secretary's count showed that Preble had received 147½ votes to 76½ for Mr. Krutz. The latter gentleman then moved to make the nomination of Mr. Preble unanimous, which was done with a hurrah.

A. F. Snelling and George Biehn were then placed in nomination for the office of clerk by their respective champions. The result of the first ballot showed that Snelling had received 130 and Biehn 105 and on motion of Mr. Biehn the nomination of Mr. Snelling was made unanimous.

E. W. R. Taylor was then nominated for the office of county treasurer by acclamation.

Nominations for the office of sheriff were next declared in order by the chair and Ex-Sheriff A. J. Shaw and City Marshal R. A. Grant were entered in the race by their friends. The roll call of precincts was watched with keen interest in this contest as it was believed that the result would be very close. The ballot showed that Shaw had received 133½ votes to 89½ for Mr. Grant. Mr. J. C. Liggett then on behalf of Mr. Grant moved that the nomination of Mr. Shaw be made unanimous which was promptly done.

The office of auditor was next taken up and Attorney Snyder secured the floor and placed in nomination D. L. Druse of Nob Hill, who had previously been agreed upon by the silver republican contingent.

On motion the secretary was instructed to cast the vote of the convention for Mr. Druse and it was so done.

The assessorship nomination was the next thing in order. The names of E. A. Shanefelt of Tampico, J. A. Orchard of Zillah, S. E. Jones of Yakima City and I. B. Taylor of the Wenas, were placed in nomination. At the end of the first ballot Mr. Shanefelt and Mr. Jones withdrew and on the succeeding ballot Mr. Taylor secured 114 votes to 104 cast for Mr. Orchard and the former gentleman was declared the nominee.

For county school superintendent the candidates before the convention were Mr. Geo. Stephenson and Miss Carrie S. Young. Mr. Snively made a strong plea for the former, while Prof. Plumb did equally as well in seconding the nomination of Miss Young. The first ballot resulted in the nomination of the young lady by the vote of 169 to 59, whereupon Mr. Stephenson arose and after thanking his friends for their loyal support, gallantly moved to make the nomination of his fair competitor unanimous, which was done with much enthusiasm.

For surveyor the names of F. H. Marble and Capt. J. T. Kingsbury were suggested. The vote gave Mr. Marble 129 to 53 for Capt. Kingsbury and the former was declared the nominee.

For the office of coroner there was a spirited contest on between Dr. Dulin and T. A. Davis the well known marble man. The majority of the delegates seemed to think that it was good politics to nominate a physician for that place. The result was 151 votes for Dulin and 66 for Davis.

The race for the nomination for commissioner in the second district was quite an exciting one as there was such an abundance of first class timber offered. The candidates placed in nomination were J. P. Marks, Matt Stanton, Sterling P. Vivian, H. D. Winchester and W. A. Hall. After the first ballot Messrs. Marks, Stanton and Hall withdrew and the second ballot resulted in 65 for Vivian to 126 for Winchester. The nomination of Mr. Winchester was then made unanimous.

For commissioner in the third district Lawyer Preble nominated W. B. Mathews to succeed himself and took occasion to highly eulogize that gentleman's public record. W. N. Granger then presented the name of Marion L. Chase of Zillah. The vote taken resulted in 164 for Mathews and 56 for Chase, thus completing a splendid ticket.

The chairman then stated that the roll should be called for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for precinct officers, namely, justices of the peace and constables. This work being finished, three cheers and a tiger were heartily given for the success of the ticket and the joint convention adjourned sine die.

The Populist Convention.

The populist county convention was called to order at the court house by Chairman McCrimmon of the county central committee. A. L. Flint was elected chairman of the convention and D. L. Crowder secretary.

On motion the usual committees were appointed on credentials, platform, order of business and conference. Adjournment was then taken until 1 p. m.

On re-assembling the report of the credentials committee showed that 87 delegates were present and entitled to seats in the convention.

The committee on resolutions then submitted the following report, which was read by the chairman.

"We the peoples' party of Yakima county, Washington, in convention assembled, do hereby affirm our unqualified adherence to the principles of the peoples' party as enunciated in the Omaha platform and indorsed by every succeeding national convention.

"We unreservedly indorse the national ticket selected by the peoples' party, democratic and silver republican parties, and we pledge them our undivided support at the polls.

"We commend the clean and able administration of Gov. Rogers and his associates and point with pride to the improved condition of the state's finances under their efficient supervision.

"We view with extreme satisfaction the wise and patriotic position of the democratic and silver republican parties upon the great cardinal issues, imperialism money and trusts; and we congratulate our party upon the accession of the masses to the great principles for which we as a party have labored for years.

"We are especially gratified with the plank upon direct legislation, to which we look for the ultimate solution of all legislative problems and the most efficient possible correction of all political abuses.

"We demand the passage of a law in accordance with the state constitution prohibiting the use of free railroad passes by public officials.

"We demand a radical reduction of present freight rates.

"We realize that the grave and critical condition of our national politics call for the utmost harmony among the reform elements who while holding different political opinions are still united in opposition to the great dangers that threaten our national existence, and earnestly hope that the gravity of the impending crisis as it is better understood will more perfectly cement the union of the patriotic elements to whom we look for the preservation of our free institutions.

The above platform after being read was unanimously adopted by the convention.

The next order of business being the election of delegates to the state convention nominations were made and the following gentlemen were declared elected: L. L. Thorp, T. D. Quinn, A. E. Howard, I. Mondor, Matt Stanton, S. E. Speer, W. B. Mathews, H. D. Jory, Thomas Lund, F. H. Colby and B. J. Cole.

The conference committee at 4 p. m. reported the proposal of the democrats to meet in joint convention at 7:30 o'clock on the basis of 35 votes for the silver republicans and no division of places on the county ticket. The report was adopted and the committee discharged. The proceedings were marked throughout by the utmost harmony.

Rural Mail Delivery.

The following instructions concerning rural mail delivery have been received at the local postoffice from the department in Washington. The order bears date of July 26:

First. That on and after August 1, 1900, the "drop letter" or one cent rate of postage will not apply within rural delivery limits. The two cent per ounce rate will be exacted within such delivery upon all first-class matter except postal cards.

Second. That the introduction of rural free delivery will not increase or otherwise modify the present rate of postage on second-class matter.

Third. That rural free delivery carriers will not bring to the post office mail matter, collected by them, which may be delivered on their routes before completing their trips.

Fourth. That stamps upon mail matter collected by rural free delivery carriers, including those on matter delivered en route as directed in Section 3, will be cancelled by them and reported to the postmaster, who will derive the benefit of the cancellation if the office is fourth class.

Fifth. That until suitable rubber stamps can be supplied by the department, rural free delivery letter carriers will cancel stamps with the indelible pencils recently furnished them for use in registering letters.

What a Woman Needs.

In the preparation of this article we made many examinations and investigations of the different methods of treatment and remedies for all the ills so common to the female sex, and our INVESTIGATION has brought forth the fact that nothing proves so uniformly successful in restoring health and happiness to worn out women as the "Viavi Treatment," and we also found that this was the opinion of the most careful and SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL MEN OF THIS COUNTRY. This system of treatment has been remarkably successful in all cases of chronic diseases peculiar to women. No more trouble, misery, and suffering are among the speedy results after its use, as it certainly represents the latest and best treatment for all complaints of women's diseases. It has been proven by years of success and the testimony of thousands of ladies, including the highest and most noted of the women of the United States and England, who have been restored to health and the enjoyment of life by reason of "Viavi Treatment" even after all other methods of treatment had been tried and found wanting. The "Viavi remedies" are composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, and are manufactured under conditions of perfect cleanliness. Upon entering the system it supplies at once a clean, wholesome food to the muscular tissues and nervous fibres. It makes the circulation full and vigorous, and in this way enables the veins to carry to the organs of elimination all the impurities which it is their function to remove from the body. It acts as a prompt specific for all nervous and other troubles common to women, including irregularities, prostration, headache, anemia, palpitation of the heart and the thousand and one ills peculiar to the sex.—Extract from the National Health Journal.

The Jonathan Apple.

The Jonathan is pre-eminently an apple for dessert use in the fresh state, and by its beauty and convenient size is particularly adapted for sale in small lots from stands and stores for immediate consumption. It is a late autumn or early winter variety, except in the more northern districts, and is inclined to wilt and wrinkle in ordinary storage after New Year's, but in cold storage it is successfully held to a much later date. Because of its tender flesh and thin skin special care in picking, handling and packing is imperative in marketing the Jonathan. It is easily bruised, and its market value is materially lessened by careless handling.

State Fair Notes.

The Pythian drill, on Wednesday of the Fair, promises to be one of the leading features.

J. Lawson Smith, of the Hazelwood company, Spokane, writes he will be here with cattle, hogs, poultry and all in their line of products.

Secretary Gunn reports the indications for a successful fair better than ever before. All classes of exhibitors are engaging space in the several departments and the demands for concessions are greater than at any preceding Fair.

Several eastern exhibitors promise to take in the regular fair circuit, beginning with Sacramento, and including Salem, North Yakima and British Columbia or Spokane. The horsemen will follow the same circuit, excepting that they will go from here to Boise City, Idaho.

A new feature for the children will be a steam merry-go-round, the largest and best in the state. It was at Spokane last fall and was an attraction to young and old. The Bittner Dramatic company will play in the new Larson theater every night during the week, and have specialty performances in front of the grand stand, on the Fair grounds every afternoon. A pair of bicycle trick riders will perform for two hours daily in front of the grand stand.

Among the novel sights of the poultry building will be a full line of Petaluma incubators, by the Yakima Hardware company, of this city. They will make a grand display and have chickens hatching from different incubators every day during the Fair. This company will also occupy a large space in the machinery hall, and have some of the finest agricultural implements ever seen at any State Fair on exhibition. The machinery comes from the Parlin & Orendorff company, of Canton, Illinois, and will include many things made especially for exhibition purposes.

A New Declaration.

The time has come to re-write the declaration of independence and bring it into harmony with the ideas and purposes of those who propose that we shall hold some millions of subjects.

Part of the re-written document will have to run something like this: "We hold these truths to be self-evident: That men are created unequal; that they are endowed by their conquerors with such rights, and no others, as the latter choose to bestow; that none of these rights are unalienable; that to secure such limited and alienable rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from those who acquire the right to govern by conquest and subjugation."

This may not sound very well to some of us who are accustomed to the ring of the declaration of 1776. But it is only the plain English of what the republicans declare in their Philadelphia platform, and what McKinley has declared even more boldly and remorselessly in his speech of acceptance.—Chicago Chronicle.

Some Wise Sayings.

A man's work is an index to his character.

You can't mend your manners with a needle.

Kind words take less breath than harsh ones.

The highest peaks catch the first and last sunshine.

In chasing spray we tread diamonds under our feet.

The education of a villain will only give society more villains.

It takes two to make a quarrel, unless one of them is a woman.

Philosophy with some men means the love of their own wisdom.

The man who tells a thin story has a slim chance to be believed.

Better be true at the bottom than false at the top of the ladder.

There are people who actually believe their troubles interest others.

There are not many better cables in a storm than a mother's apron string.

Love never begins to come home to a man until he begins to come home to love.

A little flattery tastes sweet to a wise man, and a good deal of it tastes good to a fool.

A man could make money with five fingers if he didn't have ten for it to slip through.

When a woman asks you to be candid she expects you to be complimentary just the same.

Generally, the good man who has just gone wrong is the bad man who has been found out.

There are some things in this world that no man is able to find out, but it's different with a woman.

If a man was hurt every time he is scared he would never live to reach the three score and ten limit.

A man spends enough time wondering why his neighbors dislike him to make himself agreeable to them.

If men didn't believe that women were better than they are, they would believe that they were worse.

When the average girl isn't crying to her mother that the boys tease her, she is looking for boys to tease her.

Were some people to talk of only what they really know, their silence would soon become painfully monotonous.

When a bachelor and a spinster studiously avoid matrimony it is another case of "two souls with but a single thought."

The man who thinks he could manage any woman living is generally the kind of a man who gets off a train and leaves his valise.

The woman who marries a man to make him better, two years afterward is generally putting in her time taking care of her complexion.

The Steadfast Leader.

One reason that Mr. Bryan is so generally respected is that he is sincere. He says what he thinks, and what he thinks is generally right. And he does not keep quiet on any subject from fear that his views might injure his political prospects. It is because Mr. Bryan takes the position of a statesman and a patriot rather than that of a scheming politician in respect to public matters that he has such a remarkable hold on the people. The people like a sincere man and they are quick to recognize him when he appears in public life.—Savannah (Ga.) News.

On a Pretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes. The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

THE .. YAKIMA .. DEMOCRAT,

OPERA HOUSE BLOCK, FIRST STREET.

Why I am a Democrat.

While I'm no great politician, I think I know the right,
And if ever wrong was rampant, it is raging in this fight;
Republicans declare the constitution an old, old sham,
Too far behind the present, and too slow for Uncle Sam.
They are after all creation, with perquisites thrown in,
And are playing without limit, for their cards are stocked to win;
With a dealer like "Boss" Hanna to manipulate the deck
They are going for the jack pot, though honor goes to wreck.
They have betrayed poor Porto Rico, who joined our Union free,
And for sake of filthy lucre robbed her of her liberty;
Our actions in the Philippines illustrates one-man power,
In imperial usurpation of the natives' richest dower.
The fathers of our country who fought for sacred liberty,
And left a constitution to preserve us ever free;
How their patriotic spirits must be convulsed with rage
At the degenerate greed that rules some leaders in this age.
Mark Hanna? Julius Caesar possessed no greater greed for power,
And remember, please, how Rome declined from that portentous hour
When he used the Roman army to secure unto himself
An imperial position; what became of Rome's vast wealth?
Thank God! we have a party the people all can trust,
That declares our constitution not only should, but must,
Be supreme in our self-government, the magna charta true,
That gave dignity and glory to our old Red, White and Blue.
And, thank God, we have a leader in Bryan true and brave,
Who will lead us to sure victory, turn the rascals out and save
This great and glorious Union, the home of liberty,
Where the boast shall be: "All citizens of every grade are free."
For these and other reasons I'm a true blue democrat,
May I ask you, friend, a question: Tell me where you are at?
And if you want for president an honest, loyal man,
Turn away from Bill McKinley and vote for the heroic Bryan.

J. R. MARTIN.

New Hartford, Iowa.

The Warrant of Freedom.

The New York Times says that Mr. Schurz's facts and arguments, "do not establish the validity of his assumption that our relation to the Filipinos was of such a nature that were in honor bound to turn the islands over to them to govern."

This may be a mooted question, but the right of the Filipinos to govern themselves and what we were in honor bound to accord them do not depend upon any agreement or the lack of one, with our allies at Manila. This right is recognized and proclaimed and this obligation is imposed in that chart of our own liberties, the declaration of independence, in these immortal words: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just power from the consent of the governed."

If this corner stone of our own republic does not make us "in honor bound" to turn the islands over to their inhabitants to govern, as we are doing in Cuba, then words have lost their meaning and principles their application since July 4, 1776.

The logic of the imperial position is this:

1. That brown men are not created equal of white men in respect of natural rights.

2. That the Filipinos have in some way forfeited their natural rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness;" in other words have alienated the "unalienable."

3. That the "consent of the governed" is no longer a just principle of government, even in the case of 8,000,000 people who are proving their fitness for freedom by dying for it.

It is because of this un-republican, un-American and monstrous claim, embodied in the republican platform and policy, that imperialism is "the paramount issue of the campaign."—N. Y. World.

Council Meeting.

The city council met on Monday evening in regular session. The only absentees were Mayor Redman and Councilman Aikins. Owing to the mayor's absence Councilman Hough was asked to preside. The meeting was a short one, but little business of importance being transacted aside from the passage of two ordinances. The first prohibits expectorating on the sidewalks of the city; the second is in relation to the issuance of burial permits for interment in the city cemetery. The city attorney was instructed to draw up an amendment to the ordinance in effect regulating merry-go-rounds and other forms of amusements. The amendment is designed to reduce the license on the merry-go-round from $25 to $15 per day.

Mr. Alex Miller addressed the council on the desirability of opening up Selah street—which is in the neighborhood of the flour mill—in a westerly direction to form a junction with the county road. The street committee consisting of Messrs. Keck, Shaw and Taylor were requested by the council to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

No further business appearing, the city dads then adjourned.

Mr. Warner Returns.

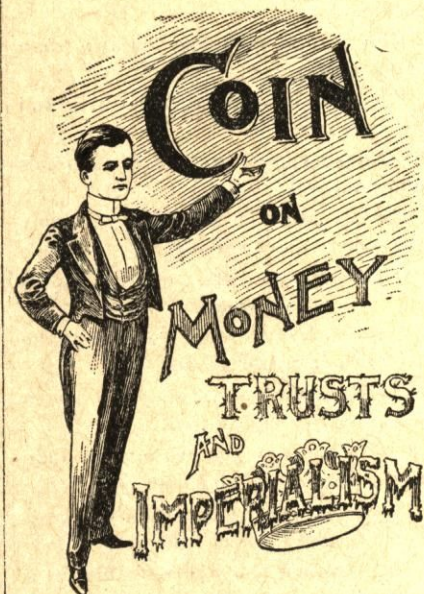

Four years ago ex-congressman John DeWitt Warner was found in the anti-Bryan ranks. Not so this year. He says:

"Our country is now at the parting of the ways. If we indulge in subject colonies, make satrapies, and pro-consulships the great prizes of political success, keep increasing our army to supply imperial legions for any part of earth where we wish to interfere, exploit less advanced nations for our commercial gain and allow the executive to assume whatever prerogatives this extra constitutional program involves, we shall get Roman rottenness long before we have achieved a Roman peace. Our ancestors in the revolution and our fathers in the civil war gave their lives and treasure to keep the country from such a fate, and I prefer their ideal of a country to that of Hanna, McKinley and Grosvenor."—National Democrat.

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

"Teddy" Wins Under Treatment of the Big Boss.

The relations of Mark Hanna and Teddy Roosevelt continue strained. It is said that the boss has sent word to Teddy to put a time-lock on his mouth, which advice the military harlequin rejects with scorn. The other day, in Washington, when Hanna sent a request for Roosevelt to step over to the national headquarters for a conference, the candidate for vice president simply ignored the request, and asked Chairman Odell to act as his substitute. When Hanna heard of this, he became angry and departed for Elberon, leaving word that he would be absent a week. The splinter which sticks in the crop of the vice presidential candidate is the report that Hanna had alluded to him as "That upstart Roosevelt," and he has been informed that the big boss has criticised his actions, his speech and even his clothes, and he has determined to resent such indignities.

"Teddy" sent his henchman, Marshall C. Blain, the other day to Mark Hanna, to suggest the organization of "Rough Rider" clubs throughout the country. "Where does Mr. McKinley come in?" inquired the imperturbable boss. "Well," was the reply, "he being Roosevelt's running-mate, will of course be benefitted." "It don't go," replied Hanna with decision, and it is about time the upstart learns that he is running with McKinley and not McKinley with him. We do not intend to sidetrack McKinley and put gold braid on Roosevelt."—Washington Standard.

Hauls Down the Flag.

By the courtesy of William McKinley, our imperial president, the richest gold placer mines of Alaska have been transferred to the ownership of England. A strip of territory half as large as Long Island has been turned over to Great Britain for the mere asking.

Two thousand American miners who discovered valuable claims in American territory have been given over to Canada, to be deprived of $3,000,000 gold output by the British Columbia alien laws. The Porcupine milling district is now English territory, and the American miners will be forced to pay their miners' tax to British authority.

Here we have an imperial situation that should give Washington, Oregon and California food for deep reflection.

Two years ago, when these demands of England for Alaskan territory were rejected, the mere rejection was heralded as a "complete victory of the United States over the policy of encroachment and untenable demands of Canada."

But that was before the leaven of imperialism had begun to work and before the McKinley-Hay-Roosevelt-Hanna ideas had begun to prevail.

But Canada wanted a port on the Lynn canal. She made an imperial demand, backed by England. McKinley gave in, and the result is that Canada has been presented with one of the finest gold-bearing districts of the United States.

The demands of Canada have been so astounding that even the most partisan republican organs have fought bitterly against them for years. There has been no claim or pretense that the British authorities or subjects ever occupied any of the territory now in dispute, except under a lease from Russia or ever exercised any acts of sovereignty over it.

Upon the transfer of Alaska from the sovereignty of Russia to that of the United States, an army was sent to occupy the very territory now given over to England.

But insulting demands, which any other country on earth would have met with indignant refusals have been submitted to by the man who seeks re-election at the hands of the American people.—Walla Walla Argus.

McKinley Prosperity.

The failures for May, as compiled from Dun's Review, number 947, as compared with 581 last year and 917 in the "calamitous" year of 1896. The number for May, 1900, is the largest ever known in that month since the records have been kept. The records for the two succeeding months have been equally significant, as indicating the full meaning of the McKinley prosperity. President Gary, of the Federal Steel Trust, who certainly has no motive for misrepresenting the facts on that side, said in a recent statement of the iron and steel industry: "The demand is not equal to the production, and the latter should be curtailed until conditions change."

Production is being curtailed at a rate extremely disastrous to the interests of workingmen. And this in spite of the pressure which, it is everywhere agreed, is being brought to bear upon the trust managers by their friends, Hanna and McKinley, to keep their works open if possible until after the election. The trust men are good Hanna republicans and would be glad to comply with this campaign request, but there is a limit even to the powers of a trust which has fattened upon the abnormal profits of a short season of artificial prosperity. The trust men are doing the best they can, but the truth cannot be concealed that the bottom is out of the McKinley prosperity, and the end is near at hand.—Register Democrat.

The Yakima Valley.

From the desert of 15 years ago to the thousand or more productive fruit and alfalfa farms of today is the change in the Yakima valley made possible through the excellent irrigating facilities and by means of railway transportation. The county is in a flourishing condition because crop failures are scarce and the markets within reach usually very fair. The fruit, alfalfa hay, potatoes, live stock consisting principally of sheep and cattle is of far greater amount than the most optimistic resident dared predict a few years ago. Like the Wenatchee valley progressing in like manner, it is centrally located so that for local shipping, producers have a choice of the Puget Sound and the Spokane markets. A large share of the cream and butter finds its way to Spokane while hay and fruit are shipped in large quantities to the Sound. Some fine communities being built up are composed of an excellent class of eastern farmers. The valley is but an example of other irrigated sections in the Pacific Northwest.—N. W. Horticulturist.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20, 1900.

The administration's keep-it-dark policy has been turned on the Chinese news this week. Everybody in Washington knows that important news was received from Minister Conger—so important that Mr. McKinley returned a day ahead of the time he had appointed, but what it was is merely guesswork, and Assistant Secretary Adey actually had the nerve to say that he thought the newspaper men should refrain from guessing at the nature of the news, lest it might be guessed right and harm done. According to latest advices from the allied army, it should be at Pekin by this time and able to prove whether the Chinese government means war or peace—whether the foreigners in Pekin are to be allowed to go to their friends or are to be kept as hostages by the Chinese government. When the facts have been given by the press dispatches the administration will probably give out the official news, unless it is calculated to reflect on Mr. McKinley or his wobbling policy.

Mr. H. R. Shade, who is in charge of the German bureau at democratic headquarters, said the bureau was receiving many letters from Germans, commending Col. Bryan's Indianapolis speech and announcing their intention to vote for him because of his sturdy stand against imperialism. Speaking of a recent publication, Mr. Shade said: "I notice that the republicans think they have a trump card in a number of German band uniforms, brought to Chicago from the fatherland by special permission of the German government. I think they will be mistaken in the value of those uniforms as vote-getters. Instead of commanding the admiration and enthusiasm of the German voter the uniform will remind him of the imperialism of the fatherland, which he came to this country to avoid."

"In the six national elections since Grant was president," said Col. J. B. Cleaver, of Tenn., "the democrats have had a plurality of the popular vote four times and the republicans but twice. Garfield had a plurality in 1880, although it amounted to but 7000 votes, and McKinley in 1896. In 1876 Tilden had a plurality over Hayes; in 1884 Cleveland over Blaine; in 1888 Cleveland over Harrison, and again in 1892 Cleveland over Harrison. Because McKinley had a plurality of 600,000 four years ago is no reason why Bryan should not have a plurality this year. Greater changes than that have taken place, even years ago when the total vote was much smaller. In 1882 Grant had a plurality of 760,000, and in 1876 Tilden's plurality was 250,000, a change of more than a million votes. When you stop to think that the vote in 1896 was something like 13,600,000, as against 6,400,000 in 1872, more than as much again, it isn't hard to believe that Bryan has a show of wiping out that plurality of 600,000 and himself receiving a plurality of the votes."

By rejecting the three bids submitted for armor plate for the new battleships by the Carnegie, Bethlehem and Midvale companies and calling for new bids the navy department has put off for a time the decision which Secretary Long was authorized to make as to whether the extortionate prices should be paid for a government armor-making plant be-established with the $4,000,000 congress placed at his disposal for that purpose. Although the date set for opening the new bids is October 2, there is reason for the belief that it is the intention of the administration to find some way to keep the matter open until after election and then to accept the bids of the Carnegie armor trust.

The democratic national campaign committee is meeting the efforts of the republicans to befog the Porto Rican question by circulating the proclamation issued by Gen. Miles when he took possession of the island, in which he told the Porto Ricans that the U. S. forces had "come bearing the banner of freedom" and to "bestow upon you the immunities and blessings of the liberal institutions of our government." How well the republican administration and congress kept the promises of Gen. Miles was shown by the telegraphic news of the present week, stating that a delegation of several hundred starving natives from the interior had visited the governor begging for bread or work. The Porto Rican chapter is one of the most disgraceful in the record of the republican administration in congress and the people of this country should not be allowed to forget it, and will not be.

In a letter to a local democratic paper, denying the editorial statement that the negro vote was solid for McKinley, a negro office holder said: "I am in a position to know whereof I speak when I say that Mr. Bryan will poll a larger negro vote than ever was polled by a democratic candidate for president. Mr. Bryan will poll a splendid negro vote in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and West Virginia. These are states where the negro vote is a factor, and where also you need every vote you can get. In New York he will poll 25 per cent of the colored vote."

"Teddy" the Whole Show.

Teddy Roosevelt's St. Paul speech will cost him ticket some votes, and every speech of the kind delivered will add to Bryan's votes. He said referring to the men in the democratic party: "They stand for lawlessness and disorder, for dishonesty and dishonor, for license and disaster at home and cowardly shrinking from duty abroad." Of course, Teddy is the only American boy who attained distinction in the Spanish war, and he thinks he has the right to make such statements about Schley, Dewey, Lawton, Lee, Hobson, Blue, Wheeler and hundreds of brave democrats in the ranks. They may be what Teddy says they are, but their names will live in history when he is defeated and forgotten. Hanna should muzzle the rough rider before he makes any more raw remarks.—Coeur d'Alene Press.

Mrs. Johnson of the hotel Yakima spent Sunday with friends in Tacoma.

Supt. Plumb spent the first part of the week in Prosser looking after school matters.

E. E. James went over to Castle Rock on Monday to look after his coal mining interests.

Nick Hartung left on Sunday to spend his week's vacation at Tacoma and other Sound points.

Attorney Vincent of Ellensburg was in the city on legal business during Monday and Tuesday.

Contractor Switzer resumed work this week on the new building of the Yakima Abstract Co. on Second street.

Col. Robertson spent Monday and Tuesday in Olympia with his wife and children who are visiting there during the hot weather.

W. P. Guthrie visited Portland on business matters after the adjournment of the republican state convention, returning home on Saturday.

W. H. Hare returned on Tuesday from Ellensburg. He reports having spent a few days very pleasantly in the mountains in company with old friends.

Auditor Kelso on Saturday issued a wedding permit to Stephen Patnod and Miss Alma Bergevin of the Moxee and on Monday to James Vaughn and Mrs. Sarah Knight of Kiona. The nuptial knot was tied for the latter couple the same day by Judge Taggard.

Capt. J. T. Simmons has received an appointment as a forest ranger on the Rainier reservation. He had been previously appointed for service on the Mt. Baker reservation and later on the St. Helen's force, both of which he declined on account of the distance from home.

Auditor Kelso on Monday received for record the deed conveying from J. Daltzell Brown and wife to the Washington Irrigation Co. title to 32537.44 acres of land under the Sunnyside canal. The deed bears a $1000 revenue stamp, which is the rake-off that your "Uncle Samuel" takes on the deal.

W. L. Wright reports that he has cleaned up this week his entire crop of Crawford and Elberta peaches on "Moorpark" ranch. The yield was good as it usually is in his neighborhood, and the prices realized were very satisfactory as the receipts of the orchard will net something over 50 cents per box.

Dan Sinclair accompanied by J. F. Parsons an expert minerologist, late of Tuscarora, Nev., left for the Big creek mining camp near Bumping river lake, on Thursday. It is the purpose of the Yakima men interested in claims in that section to have Mr. Parsons make a thorough investigation of their properties and report thereon.

John Porath, who resided on the Olney tract on Nob Hill, died at the hospital on Saturday. The deceased had not been sick long and it is said that his fatal illness was caused by eating improperly cooked cabbage that had been sprayed with Paris green. The autopsy revealed the fact that the unfortunate man's stomach was badly affected with ulcers which are believed to have been caused by the poison on the cabbage.

TAUGHT BY MR. ALLAN B. DOW,

Three Years Director of Whitman Conservatory, Walla Walla, Wash.
Four Years Experience as Teacher in Knox Conservatory, Galesburg, Ill.

Mr. Dow may be found in the Parlors of the Bartholet House on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week from 2 to 4 p. m.

Visitors .. are .. Cordially .. Received.

The deceased was 56 years of age and came here a couple of years ago from Minnesota. He was a widower and leaves three sons and two daughters to mourn his loss. One son resides here and the balance of the family in Minnesota. The funeral took place on Sunday from the Catholic church.

Judge Erwin returned this week from the Klondyke. He reports having had good success on his last venture. He took in last spring several head of beef cattle and on his arrival at Dawson found that the town was almost entirely out of fresh meat. He was thus enabled to dispose of his cattle at a fancy price, the beeves netting him about $300 each on foot.

Amiel Simmons the youngest son of Capt. Simmons, returned home last Monday from the Klondyke, whither he went with his brother Dan last winter. The young man had been at work for several months and on coming out had the misfortune to be "held up" with his partner one dark night in the suburbs of Skaguay. Young Simmons was relieved of all the money he had, about $300, but fortunately had secured his ticket home, which the robbers considerately allowed him to keep.

J. W. Shull an old time resident of this locality and one of the first business men to establish himself in North Yakima, is in the city this week from Republic, where he has considerable mining interests. Mr. Shull says that from the first he was a firm believer in the future of this city and that it is a great pleasure to him now to re-visit the town after his long absence and view the improvement that has been made and the great changes for the better since he left here in 1889. Mr. Shull was most heartily welcomed by all of his old friends here.

The county treasurer's office this week received from the state treasurer a draft for the sum of $6335.76 to be apportioned to the different school districts of this county under the "barefoot boy" law. This is the regular quarterly accounting and is considerable less than the previous quarterly draft which was $8761.94. The tax imposed upon this county under the operations of this law for the quarter ending June 30th, was $11,451, which figures indicate that the much lauded "barefoot" act takes away from the school fund of this county a good many more dollars than it pays back.

STATE PRESS OPINION

Congressman Cushman's recent speech at Waterville, in which he declared that the Germans "are a people but little better than the Spaniards," is another evidence that a calf will hang itself if there is plenty of rope and room.—Whatcom Blade.

If the democrats win this fall it will be due partly to the disgust inspired by the loud-mouthed, shameless vituperation of Teddy Roosevelt. The people who once admired Ted are now beginning to look upon him with suspicion. It would be well for the republican cause if some "strenuous" efforts were used in muzzling Ted.—Everett News.

H. H. McKinley, a cousin of the president, who lives in Harper county Kan., authorized this announcement: "I would rather vote this year for the Prince of Wales for president than William McKinley. I will vote for Bryan, because I think his election is the only thing that can save the republic." He has been a republican for forty years.—Walla Walla Argus.

Curious Cushman attempted to bluff the Pierce county delegation at the republican state convention into supporting Frink for governor and was successful. He told them that if they didn't endorse Frink he, Cushman, would refuse to run for congress. It was a bold, bad bluff, but its merit lies in the fact that Cushman was able to make it work.—Seattle Mail.

Mr. Bryan's Great Speech.

Mr. Bryan's speech of acceptance at Indianapolis is without doubt the political event of paramount importance in the present campaign. Mr. Bryan received at the hands of the democratic party the nomination for the presidency. A partisan utterance upon this occasion would have been pardoned, nay, more, was even expected by the country at large. Tradition and precedent exist to justify a candidate in such a course. He of Canton—Mark Hanna's man—who was recently notified of a nomination, took occasion to plead for the principles of a party and in the cause of an administration. In multifarious terms he told what "we" had done, and fairly revealed in the deeds of "us." The republican party was defended—even apologized for. And William McKinley accepted at the hands of those who bore the stamp of the republican party the nomination for the presidency of the United States. Mr. McKinley's speech of acceptance will go down in history as the statement of a party chief to his party followers. But how different is the tone and tenor of Mr. Bryan's Indianapolis address. McKinley spoke to a party—Bryan to a nation; McKinley pleaded the cause of an administration—Bryan the cause of a people; McKinley defended the principles of a party—Bryan spoke in defense of the principles that are at the foundation of free government; McKinley spoke as a candidate, but Mr. Bryan spoke as an American citizen.

In the face of existing circumstances it is a fact of peculiar significance that Mr. Bryan could reply to the notification committee in a speech bearing as little trace of partisan politics as the constitution of the United States or the Declaration of Independence. This does not indicate that Mr. Bryan is not a good democrat, but rather that the democratic party is contending not so much for certain theories of administration in a free government as for free government itself. Hence it is that, fighting for the very existence of the republic, the position of the patriotic citizen who stands for free government and the position of the democratic party become identical.—National Democrat.

"Manifest Destiny."

It will now be in order to hear from Washington that Mr. McKinley is passing sleepless nights in profound perturbation of spirit over the problem created by the Chinese situation, endeavoring to find some way of dealing with the problem in consonance with American principles.

It will probably be intimated also that the president finds this practically impossible. It is "manifest destiny," you know. He is up against it once more—this "manifest destiny" which has such a queer habit of always being on the side of the trust imperialists. It will nearly break Mr. McKinley's heart, we shall be told, to have to keep an American army in China, and to work hand in hand with England for the spread of empire, but he will do it, nevertheless. And, incidentally, the old hoot of "traitor!" and "flag-furber!" will be hooted by administration organs at all Americans who shall dare to oppose the new move toward empire.

It is doubtful if this hypocritical dodge continues to fool the American people. The nation is not disposed to believe that God is working hand in hand with the Hannas, the McKinleys, the Pierpont Morgans, the Rockefellers, the Rathbones and the Neelys for loot and booty and the betrayal of the republic to empire. The president's reiterated claim of partnership with God in overthrowing freedom and denying the rights of man is growing tiresome. It would be refreshing if he should now have the courage to at least inaugurate his scheme of imperial advancement in China without lugging the Almighty in as his accomplice.—St. Louis Republic.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution.

STATE OF WASHINGTON,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
OLYMPIA.

To Whom it May Concern:

In obedience to an act of the legislature approved March 13, 1899, entitled as follows: "An act providing for the constitutional amendment conferring power upon the legislature to exempt certain property from taxation," there is herewith published for the consideration of the voters of the state of Washington the following proposed amendment to the constitution of said state:

"SECTION 1. It is proposed to amend section (2) two of article seven (7) of the constitution of the State of Washington by adding thereto the following proviso:

"And provided further, That the legislature shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to exempt personal property to the amount of three hundred ($300.00) dollars for each head of a family liable to assessment and taxation under the provisions of the laws of this state, of which the individual is the actual and bona fide owner."

"SECTION 2. That at the general election to be held in November, 1900, the amendment hereinbefore mentioned in section 1 shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Washington for their approval, and there shall be printed on each of the ballots provided for said election the words: For proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation. Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation."

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington, at Olympia, this twentieth day of July, Nineteen Hundred.

WILL D. JENKINS,

Secretary of State for the State of Washington.

At said election each elector desiring to vote in favor of the adoption of said proposed amendment should place an X upon his ballot opposite the words "For the proposed amendment to section 2 article 7 of the constitution, in relation to taxation." Each elector desiring to vote against the adoption of said proposed amendment should place upon his ballot an X opposite the words "Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution, in relation to taxation."

WILL D. JENKINS,

Secretary of State.

True Love Never Runs Smooth.

The people of Fairview have been much entertained lately with the marital troubles of a family, who until recently have lived in the neighborhood of the fair grounds. A newcomer from Seattle and his new wife came there to reside last spring, and for a time lived as happily as the little birds. But at last the dream of happiness was dispelled by the sudden appearance of the woman's divorced husband on the scene, who came ostensibly for the purpose of visiting his child who lived with the mother.

The frequent visits of husband No. 1 naturally aroused the ire of husband No. 2, and he proceeded to assert his rights and ended by chasing No. 1 off the premises.

In his rage he is said to have accused the wife of one of the worst crimes in the calendar. The wife awaited her opportunity and when it came, she quietly took her child and slipped back again to the wicked city on Elliott bay, where she lost no time in bringing a suit for divorce against husband No. 2, who was so "awfully jealous."

In the meantime No. 2, concluding that the institution of marriage was a failure, lost no time in disposing of his personal effects with the object of leaving the country. On the night before taking his final departure, who should appear upon the scene, but the erring wife, who it seems had been overcome with remorse and had hurried back to her liege lord, whom she had promised to love, honor and obey. The injured husband is said to have melted as a result of the wife's entreaties, and clasped her again to his manly bosom and registered a solemn oath that never again would he doubt her, while the woman on her part vowed that never again would she allow that worthless man to again come between them.

The reunited couple are said to have left Fairview and returned to Seattle.

Back From Nome.

J. Ed Merwin, Dale Thorp, Andy Popovitch and E. T. Stone returned home the first of the week from their gold hunting expedition to Cape Nome. It is needless to say that they are all sadder, but wiser men. They are of the unanimous opinion that the Cape Nome gold fields are the greatest fake of the nineteenth century.

Mr. Merwin states that the much advertised beach diggings were worked out completely last season and that nothing was left for the new comers.

As for the creek claims, but few of them, he says, will pay for the working and the scarcity of water during the present season has made them impossible of being worked.

The balance of the Yakima colony, he says, will all come out before the season closes, most of them being on the way out now.

The condition of things at Nome, Mr. Merwin says, when the thousands of new comers realized that they had been bilked, beggars description. It could best be described by the word "Bedlam."

As a natural result of the conditions, sickness became very general, typhoid fever became epidemic and many were afflicted with a mild form of smallpox which, however, was finally stamped out. With many of the men, disappointment and enforced idleness turned their thoughts to dissipation and as a result they squandered what was left of their substance in riotous living.

Over 4000 men before he left, had signed the "pauper roll" in order to get out on government transports. Had it not been for this charitable action on the part of the government endless suffering would have resulted as the transportation companies who took the crowds in there under false representations would do nothing for them.

There is said to be much indignation felt on the part of some of the Yakima men against a certain individual of this place, who sold them interests in claims that failed on investigation to show up as much as a "color."

The Yakima boys estimate that the experience has cost them on an average about $400, besides the loss of time.

Hon. E. B. Preble has been nominated for county attorney by the union party at North Yakima, Washington, and is pretty sure of election. Mr. Preble was located for some years in Roseburg and while here won his way by high attainments as a lawyer to the front rank of the southern Oregon bar. A host of friends here, irrespective of party, will hope for his success at the polls, knowing that he is perfectly fitted to fill the office to which he aspires.—Roseburg, Ore., Review.
