CANDIDATES MAKE A STATEMENT

Citizens Nominees Plainly State the Position They Occupy in the City Campaign--Misleading Statements of "Peoples" Candidates Refuted.

To the Voters of North Yakima:

The undersigned candidates on the Citizen's ticket stand squarely upon the platform adopted by the convention that nominated them. The platform is as follows:

"First: We favor an economical administration of city affairs, a thorough renovation of the city and a strict enforcement of sanitary regulations.

"Second: We demand an extension of the sewer and drainage systems by general taxation, to the end that those localities now without sewerage may have it upon the same terms as those who secured its benefits in the same way.

"Third: We favor measures that will tend to build up the city of North Yakima, and fully protect its business interests."

We have no explanations or apologies to make in reference thereto. It speaks for itself.

The platform adopted by the opposing ticket, called the People's ticket, is as follows:

"First: We demand a careful, conscientious business management of city affairs.

"Second: We demand a thorough renovation of the city along sanitary lines, and the extension of sewerage and drainage districts and systems to those parts of the city now without the same.

"Third: We demand that every line of business in the city be given the full protection of the law to which it is entitled; that no special privileges shall be given or shown.

"Fourth: We demand a thorough and fearless enforcement of all city ordinances and of those state laws applicable to the municipality.

"Fifth: We favor an active movement on the part of the city administration in conjunction with the commercial organization of the city for the better advertising of the city and county with the view of inducing immigration and settlement hereabouts."

The candidates upon that ticket have been explaining and attempting to modify the meaning of said platform ever since its adoption, and their position in relation thereto.

If they will not stand fire upon the platform adopted by their convention, having accepted their nominations thereunder, how and when and where, and under what conditions do you believe they will stand fire?

The second plank in their platform by its terms imports that the framers thereof, who gave those candidates their nominations, favored the extension of sewers under the district assessment system, yet the candidates are ungracious enough to say to the convention that nominated them, "We prefer the plank of the Citizen's ticket in relation to sewers, and therefore we will steal that, and maintain it as the plank of the candidates on our ticket." If the parties who constructed the People's convention desired the extension of sewers by general taxation, in the manner prescribed by law, why did they not so express themselves in their platform? The Citizen's ticket platform had already been published two days when they held the People's convention.

They say that the fourth plank in their platform does not mean Sunday closing. Then what does it mean? Has anyone yet explained that?

We desire to say to the voters that the Citizen's ticket was not dictated, framed, or in any way controlled by the Light and Water Company. The convention that nominated us was made up of substantial, self respecting citizens, and taxpayers of North Yakima.

The head of the ticket, to-wit, E. J. Wyman, is one of the two councilmen who voted against the franchise to the Water company over which there is now so much controversy.

The Washingtonian, a paper now endeavoring to besmirch and scandalize the personnel of the Citizen's ticket, in its issue after said franchise was granted, editorially lauded Mr. Wyman for his action, and said in effect that his action would redound to his credit as long as the waves of time should roll, and further expressed the hope that the time would come when the voters might have an opportunity of showing their appreciation of his fidelity to the people.

We favor a continued improvement of the streets and doing everything that can be done to improve the sanitary conditions of the city.

We do not approve of publishing and circulating broadcast throughout the country totally false and extremely exaggerated reports as to the conditions of sanitation and general health of this city. The truth cannot injure the welfare of our beautiful city. Falschood, and ill advised circulation of falsehoods as to our sanitary condition have already done us great injury.

The supporters of the People's ticket who have not hesitated to bring our community into great disrepute by misstatements, and grossly exaggerated reports as to conditions here, have not hesitated to falsely accuse the undersigned candidates of owing their nominations to the Water company and being under its control and influence.

We were not nominated by the Water company, nor any of its hirelings. The accusation is made with the knowledge of its untruth for the purpose of misleading voters in order to secure their franchise.

As to the validity of the franchise of the Water and Light company; if this franchise is illegal and unjust, we are most certainly in favor of taking whatever steps as are necessary to set it aside or to readjust it upon just and equitable lines.

We pledge ourselves further to thoroughly investigate this question with a view of determining whether the measure is illegal or unjust. We have no desire to involve the city in litigation, however, haphazard and off-hand, for the purpose of giving good fees out of the city treasury to briefless lawyers, or satisfy people who have some private enmity to gratify.

E. J. Wyman, Candidate for Mayor.

H. B. Doust, Candidate for City Clerk.

William M. Thompson, Candidate for City Attorney.

C. R. Donovan, Candidate for City Treasurer.

P. Frank, Candidate for City Health Officer.

Frank Clemmer, C. C. Case, Nels Short, H. Moran, R. N. Harrison, Candidates for City Council.

Big Land Office Business.

The business of the North Yakima land office during November was the largest in years. The total land filed on, including that of the state and railway company, amounted to 111,268 acres. The fees amounted to $7486. Of the total number of acres 12,211 were taken by homesteaders. The Northern Pacific got 25,832 and the state got the balance. Following is the list of the entries: Original homesteads, 31; timber and stone entries, 20; commuted homesteads, 1; final homesteads, 5; desert land entries, 6; timber and stone applications, 26; Northern Pacific list, 25,832; state lists, 63, 225 acres.

Ask Fruitgrowers to Come.

A meeting of the fruit growers and others interested in the business will be held today in this city. One of the questions to be considered is the appointment of a delegation to attend the Inland Empire Horticultural union meeting in Spokane this winter to make an effort to have the by-laws of that organization changed so that its annual meetings can be held at this place, Spokane and Wenatchee alternately. Under the present by-laws the meetings can be held only in Spokane. Wenatchee has signified its desire to have this change made.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

The voters of this city will be called upon next Tuesday to register their will as to who shall be selected to serve the municipality for the ensuing year. Two full tickets are in the field which are made up on the whole of representative citizens.

The citizens ticket, which was placed in the field at a largely attended mass-convention held November 10, is the one which this paper has preferred to support for numerous reasons among which are the following:

First; the candidates upon this ticket stand upon a platform which unequivocally pledges the nominees, if elected, to carry out a policy calculated to benefit the city not only in a material way, which will mean the upbuilding of the town, but in a sanitary way also, which means in effect that the town will be kept clean and that much needed sewage facilities will be provided. The platform of the Citizen's party speaks out plainly on these questions, while the platform adopted by the delegate convention is couched in ambiguous, if not misleading phrases.

Second; the Citizen's ticket stands for liberalism and a live and let live policy in municipal affairs. The candidates for mayor and council on this ticket, if elected, will not have it in for this or that individual, but will be in a position to guarantee all men who come before it fair and impartial treatment. They have neither friends to reward or enemies to punish.

Third; the Citizen's party in making its nominations aimed to be and was non-partisan. It placed upon its ticket both republicans and democrats, fitness being deemed the essential qualification for place, but both parties being recognized in the selection of candidates.

In addition, care was taken to make a ticket composed of business men who know how the business affairs of the town ought to be conducted.

As for the People's ticket. While it contains the names of a number of well known and highly respected citizens it is by no means as representative as the other. It is made up almost entirely of a class of gentlemen who compose a distinct faction of the republican party of this city and county, allied with the "push" in the court house the individual members of which are all intent on holding down their jobs for another term, hence the desire to have their friends in control of the city government. There is method in this lineup of the so-called People's party.

The element behind the People's ticket is essentially the same as was clamoring for a "straight republican ticket" only about six weeks ago. With the exception of Mr. Thorp, the nominee for councilman-at-large, that is what they have got now, so it is to be presumed that they are satisfied with the partisan character of the ticket.

The delegate convention, which put forth the People's ticket ratified a platform which in veiled language threatens to make of this a closed town. This plank the nominee for mayor, Mr. Fechter, attempted to kick from under him. Then 24 hours after the convention had adjourned, sine die, a few of the delegates met at Mr. Fechter's request to formally assure their candidate that the plank does not mean Sunday closing and that it is mere buncombe. With this assurance Mr. Fechter considerably consented to remain in the race and to have the majority of this city thrust upon him for the sixth time. In the meantime nobody seems to know what the candidates for the council of the People's party would do if it should happen that they should be elected.

The Washingtonian says that Sunday closing is not an issue in this municipal campaign, and that the Democrat is attempting to mislead the voters on that question. This is humbugery pure and simple. The Democrat did not spring this issue of Sunday closing. That issue would not have been thought of had it not been raised by the convention which placed in nomination the so called People's ticket by declaring for it in their platform. The following day the Sunday closing plank was kicked out of the platform by O. A. Fechter, the nominee for mayor, who was politician enough to see that he could never be elected on that issue.

The Washingtonian editorially and the candidates of the People's party in a public statement made in that paper this week declare that Sunday closing is not an issue, but that the city water question is. Well, if that is the case then why did not the convention which placed that ticket in the field say so? What that convention through its committee on resolutions did do was this: It rejected a plank in the original draft of the platform that condemned the renewal of the Water, Light & Power company's franchise in explicit terms, as a copy of the same in the possession of this paper will show. On the other hand, the committee accepted the plank construed to mean Sunday closing, and the same was ratified by the convention. Chairman Weed in reading the report of the committee to the convention never referred to the "water" plank, and the convention, as a matter of course, took no action thereon.

It is usually considered the province of the convention to make the platform, and frame the issues. Instead of this the candidates on the People's ticket arrogate this right to themselves.

A petition is being, or has been already circulated in this city in which the superior judge of this district is asked to call a grand jury. The prime movers in the matter are as silent as the tomb when approached for information, and seem to wish that their connection with the petition be not disclosed.

This attitude on the part of the citizens connected with the demand for a grand jury, made at this particular time—a few days before the city election—looks as though the move was made for political purposes. If it is not so meant it is hard to understand why certain gentlemen have so suddenly discovered that a grand jury is needed in this county.

Grand juries are usually most expensive luxuries from the taxpayer's standpoint, and as a rule accomplish little or no good. The grand jury called in King county about a year ago remained in session nearly three months and cost the county nearly $50,000. Men were summoned before it, in many instances, on most frivolous charges, kept in the sweat box for hours, and sometimes days, and compelled to reveal a great many things regarding their private affairs which were none of the jury's business, and certainly of no interest to the public. The net results of all the grand jury's labor at Seattle amounted to six or eight indictments against public officials which Judge Bell promptly squelched when called to act upon the same. In fact, nothing was accomplished at Seattle by the grand jury except to run up an enormous cost bill on the county and enough bitterness between individuals to last a lifetime.

The same result would doubtless be reached here if a grand jury should be called. However, if it should develop that it is the sentiment of a majority of taxpayers that a grand jury should be called, this paper has no objections. If there is any person in this community that really needs to be disciplined by a grand jury, the Democrat has no desire to shield him.

In the meantime, it is safer to regard the motive of those who have initiated the movement as political. The net result hoped for from springing this grand jury bugaboo at this particular time is the election of a certain candidate for mayor and a majority of the city council. It is, in fact, a very neat campaign card. Better politics, it must be admitted, has been exhibited in this than in the making of a platform.

Dr. P. Frank, Citizen's candidate for health officer, has been bitterly assailed in this campaign for things as alleged to have done or failed to do as a public officer. Whatever may be the virtues or faults of Dr. Frank, the Democrat has neither time nor space to enumerate all of them; it can be said of him that during the three years that he has acted as health officer of this city that he was a capable, energetic and painstaking official, and reasonable in his charges. When the smallpox was epidemic in the town two and three years ago Dr. Frank in order to fulfill the duties of his office properly practically abandoned his private practice and devoted his entire time to the victims of smallpox. He waived his right under the law to charge the city the sum of $15 for every house quarantined, but cheerfully accepted from the council payment at the rate of $10 per day. Considering the fact that he was kept going day and night, this was certainly not an unreasonable charge where the man was expending himself constantly. Furthermore, people who were too poor to pay for medical attendance got it from Dr. Frank just the same, and got it for nothing.

Our neighbor, the Washingtonian, in its bitter attacks on Dr. Frank is probably ignorant of these facts, which it might have got from inquiry or by consulting its records.

As this paper has before frequently pointed out, and as every observing citizen knows, the proper conservation of the source of water supply of the Yakima river and its tributaries is a matter that vitally interests every man, woman and child in the Yakima valley, and all their descendants who shall hereafter make their homes in this locality.

The Democrat has been and still is in favor of government ownership and utilization of the surplus waters of this valley as we believe that such ownership would be for the best interests of the people. It must be admitted, however, that it looks now as though no such action here is contemplated by the National government although it is engaged in similar undertakings in other parts of the country. We have a congressman to represent our interests at Washington, but he evidently is either unable or unwilling to secure affirmative action on the proposition from the interior department.

If the government won't build the reservoirs and canals, the next best thing then is to induce private capital to do it, if such can be secured, for tens of thousands of acres of our high lands would be made to blossom as the rose under the magic touch of water and the water to work such a change is now going to waste.

State Land Commissioner Calvert sets up the contention that the state of Washington owns the beds and shore lines of the Cascade lakes that are needed as the sites of reservoirs and that it is the province of the state to do with this vested right as it sees fit. In pursuance of this right or assumed right Mr. Calvert has made a deal with the Washington Irrigation company whereby that corporation agrees to extend its canal a distance of many miles with the object of covering 55,000 acres of arid land filed on by the state several years ago under the Cary act. What concessions Mr. Calvert made on the part of the state did not at first appear, but it is gradually leaking out that he guaranteed the corporation all the water necessary from the lakes.

If it be true, as asserted, that the taking of the additional water supply needed to put through this proposed extension of the Sunnyside canal will destroy all possibility of the construction of a Kittitas and Yakima high line canal then the matter becomes one for most serious consideration on the part of the people of the upper valley.

We do not think that the people of this city take any such a purely selfish view of the situation as some of our friends in the lower valley appear to think. The people of this vicinity feel that if it comes to a question of the greatest good to the greatest number of people, that the argument is all in favor of a high line canal.

The Talisman, published at Chicago, by George H. Maxwell, chairman of the National Irrigation Association, is doing a splendid work in its especial field, that of educating the public up to the necessity of reform in our national land laws. The timber and stone act and the desert land law, the Talisman says, should be repealed as they have become vehicles of fraud enabling corporations and selfish speculators to gobble up the public lands of the country which should be regarded as the common heritage of the people.

Every observing man who has resided for any length of time in any of the western states knows that there is a great deal of truth in this charge made by the Talisman, particularly with regard to timber lands. Nearly every day the press dispatches tell us of the result of the investigations now being conducted by the interior department which in many cases reveal most gigantic frauds that have been perpetrated in the interest of speculators desirous of securing great tracts of valuable timber lands at a minimum cost. At least the spirit if not the letter of the law in thousands of cases has been violated or evaded by the claimants who in perhaps a majority of cases have merely acted the part of a tool or dummy for a cash consideration, turning the land over to the speculator as soon as a patent was issued. The virtual crime of perjury committed is passed over lightly by the claimant as though the oath prescribed is a mere matter of form and that anyway they are dealing with the government which is rich and are paying the price asked for the land. The average man or woman is apt to think too, that after they have bought a thing it is theirs and that they naturally have a right to do as they please with the land after purchasing the same. The government, they assume, has no more moral right, at all events to dictate what disposition shall be made of the land after it has parted from it any more than A would have in selling B a horse reserving the right to say what disposition the latter should make of the animal. It must be admitted that there is much force in this argument.

Instead of all this loose talk and threats of prosecuting violators of the law, would it not be better to repeal the law itself which breeds so much corruption and works so much mischief? There can be no question but that under its operation the rich and valuable timber lands of this coast to a very great extent have been gobbled up by syndicates of Eastern lumbermen who have as a rule already logged off all the timber in their own sections and who have no interests in Washington or Oregon apart from the lumber industry.

Unquestionably the law ought to be repealed. It would, of course, be much like locking the stable after the horse has been stolen, but as there never was much justification for the law and as the effect of it is to place a premium on perjury it ought to be wiped off the statute books.

The Democrat has received a number of compliments for the position taken in the leading editorial of last week anent the Panama imbroglio and all did not come from democrats either.

We do not mean to be at all times a carping critic of what is or what is proposed by the party in power for such a course would never commend itself to men of reason. We plead guilty to being a free critic of republican party methods and policies, but that is because that we see much to criticize. Not long ago it was asked of us why it was that we do not make it a practice to commend what we believed to be good in the opposition party. We replied that that privilege was one that belonged essentially to the republican press and that the papers of that party could be depended upon to work overtime, if necessary, in telling the public about it. The functions of the democratic press at this time, as we conceive them, is to tell the truth about the other fellows and criticize freely where criticism is wholesome and for the public good.

The Panama incident is utterly at variance not only with American traditions, but with the good old American idea of justice and fair play. The point is conceded by some republican editors, inclined to be fair, that our part in the Isthmian insurrection has been disreputable and wholly without precedent, but they assume that the end in view, that is the Panama canal, justifies the means and that the canal is what we want. Such reasoning as this is based not upon justice, but upon greed. If carried to a logical conclusion such reasoning would destroy every government in existence and usher in universal anarchy. It would utterly de throne justice and might even be employed to enable the devil to rule in Paradise.

The Louisville Courier-Journal provides some food for thought when it asks: "In view of the actual fact—since the administration made short shift of Colombia, which to say truth deserved little consideration on its own account—why was it so liberal with the French company?" The Courier-Journal adds: "It could have wiped out the French company in Panama as easily as it has wiped out Colombia and got its much-vaunted franchises for nothing. Was it afraid of France? Or were its relations with Bunau-Varilla, and the stock gamblers, who financed the revolution, too close to make it safe to play the double-cross on the French company?"

The Washington correspondent for the Chicago Chronicle reports this interesting incident: "A group of congressmen were talking presidential politics in a committee room when one of the members said: 'Here is Hanna ready to enter upon a new six-year term March 4, 1905, but he will never begin that term. You remember Garfield, another Ohio man, had been elected to a similar term, but instead of being sworn in as senator he took the oath as president. Mark me, history will repeat itself.' 'But Hanna is for Roosevelt,' was suggested. 'Yes, and Garfield was for Sherman,' said the first speaker significantly."

Grover Cleveland has written to the Brooklyn Eagle that under no circumstances will he ever again be the democratic nominee for the presidency. Certainly this declaration is comforting. The busybodies who for months have been industriously engaged in trying to inflate a little boom for Grover ought to go away back now and sit down, and allow the sage of Princeton to spend his declining years in peace.

The demagogic appeal for votes made by Mr. Fechter and his associates is about as damaging to the interests of this town as was the report of the state smelting committee to the effect that typhoid fever was epidemic here. However, declamation is one thing and facts are often quite another thing. The candidates of the People's party ought to come forth with a bill of particulars.

The charge that E. J. Wyman voted for, or aided in any way the passage of the water and light ordinances through the city council is as absurd as it is untrue. The clerk's record will show that Councilman Wyman first voted to lay the ordinance over for two weeks. When that motion failed Mr. Wyman voted "no" on the final passage of the measure.

An American steel rail firm has agreed to deliver 20,000 tons of steel rails at Beirut, Turkey, for $22.88 per ton, freight paid. This is less than the steel rail makers charge home consumers, and the home consumers pay the freight. The infants seem to think they are too big to be thrown over the transom.—Commoner.

The Republic in scare head lines and with evident glee announces that "Sunnyside gets no railroad." Of course that would have a tendency to make us all feel pretty solemn were it not for the fact that our good friend Robertson has a peculiar faculty of seeing things contrary to the way they happen.—Sunnyside Sun.

The Washingtonian refers to the Citizen's ticket as "Bro. Medill's ticket." We are sorry we can't return the compliment by referring to the People's ticket as Bro. Oldham's ticket, but we really can't for the reason that it is Bro. Fechter's ticket, and the ex-mayor won't divide honors with anybody.

One would certainly think, as the Daily Republic says, that the candidates of the People's party claim to have a monopoly of all civic virtue, judging by the proclamation that appears in the Washingtonian this week.

The mud pavement on Yakima avenue is a legacy handed down from the last Fechter administration. Do the people like it?

THE Peoples ticket and its supporters are engaged most industriously in crying down the present city council. They haven't a good word to say for the present administration and yet the present mayor and city council have done more for the improvement and betterment of the city than any preceding city government. This is a statement that is susceptible of proof as any citizen knows if he will stop to think. During the present year seven miles of street grading has been done and six miles of sidewalks laid. Several blocks of new sewer pipes have also been laid and a great deal more would have been put down had it not been for the strenuous objection of a number who are now vociferously demanding better sewerage facilities. A city dumping ground has been secured and two scavenger wagons have been kept going for the past three months and the sewerage system made to pay its own way.

New crosswalks have been put in all over the business section and last but not least the streets have been swept at frequent intervals, something that no previous administration ever did do. The police force have been clothed in uniforms and have been efficient in the discharge of duty, the records showing that less crime has been committed than for several years. The red light district has been sharply held in check and made to yield a much larger revenue to the city than ever before. Another good piece of business transacted was the purchase by the present administration of forty acres of good cemetery grounds from the Lince tract at a most reasonable price, and the judicious handling of that property.

In spite of all the great expense that had to be met by a vigorous policy of public improvement the present city council was yet able to reduce the city tax levy for the ensuing year. Let us all try to be fair and give credit where credit is due.

Obituary.

James A. Mabry, a well known pioneer of this valley, died at his late residence on North First street, this city, on Friday of last week, a victim of that dread disease consumption. The funeral was held Sunday and was largely attended by old friends of the deceased. Burial was made in Tahoma cemetery.

Deceased was born at Vancouver, this state, September 22, 1858. He came to this country with his parents in 1871 and had since resided here. September 23, 1883, Mr. Mabry was married to Miss Emily Parker who, with her four children, survives him.

"Jim" Mabry, as his friends all called him, was a good hearted man, popular with all who knew him. He was of a cheerful disposition which even the knowledge that he was afflicted with an incurable disease could not shake. Mr. Mabry was by trade a harnessmaker and for a number of years followed that occupation in this city.

Thanksgiving at Fairview

We have again been so fortunate as to live to celebrate our great national Thanksgiving, an event on which we as a nation have a corner.

The West Virginia settlement of Fairview were not behind the times when it came to enjoying themselves on that day. Friends to the number of twenty-seven, with well filled baskets, gathered at the home of C. C. F. McWhorter, who with his family are new comers from the east. To say the surprise was complete is expressing it mildly. A sumptuous dinner consisting of all the good things of the season (and out of season) namely: Watermelons, grown by Clarence Starcher, and strawberries, fresh from the fields of E. Remy and C. A. Rhodes.

The afternoon was spent in social chat and music. Those present were C. A. Rhodes and family, Clarence Starcher and family, Albert Starcher and family, L. V. McWhorter and family, Mr. Dalton Boggess, Mr. James Haynes and Miss Mabel Simmons.

All too soon the hour for parting came, each one wishing many happy returns of the day.

COMMUNICATED.

WANT A GRAND JURY

Certain North Yakima Citizens Will Petition Court to Call One—Believed to be for Political Purposes.

A meeting was held in this city Tuesday evening which was attended by a number of well known citizens—although their identity is not well known in this instance.

The object of this meeting was to consider the advisability of circulating a petition for the calling of a grand jury. Owing to the fact that all of those in attendance are extremely reticent about the matter the Democrat man found it to be most difficult to secure information. Certain parties who were known to have been in attendance at the meeting when approached by the reporter would try to look wise and dissemble. Invariably the party whom the reporter attempted to interview would close up like a clam and finally suggest that some certain other man be interviewed.

There was a good deal of street talk Wednesday and Thursday about the matter, the consensus of opinion among citizens being that the sudden talk of having a grand jury was sprung for political reasons, the principal reason being to affect the result of the municipal election to be held in this city next Tuesday.

The authority to call a grand jury is, of course vested in the superior judge of this district, the Hon. Frank H. Rudkin. What action Judge Rudkin will take on the petition when it is finally presented to him, if it ever is, nobody here knows. Judge Rudkin is now holding court in Seattle but is expected to be back here again by Dec. 12. A number of intimate friends of his honor appear to think that he would turn down the petition unless a strong statement of facts or alleged facts should accompany it. Judge Rudkin has, so his friends say, often expressed himself unfavorably as to the late grand jury held in King County, which resulted in a farce after costing the taxpayers of that county nearly $50,000.

Ellensburg Baby Elks.

The Elks had a high time Thursday evening on which occasion horns were sprouted on seven new members of the band. S. J. Lowe, and six candidates from Ellensburg as follows: Oliver Hinman, Dr. J. E. McCauley, Harry S. Elwood, Paul W. Zeininger, Thos. Satterwhite and A. F. Shultz.

The ceremony of initiating is said to have been unusually interesting as a mark of respect to the visitors. Z. X. Coleman procured a rather venerable looking ram from the Naches market, who for the occasion answered the purpose of a Billie goat. His ramship is presumed to have taken a leading role in the ceremonies and to have performed his part with credit.

After the degrees work was finished, an elegant lunch was served. A number of Elks were present from outside the city.

New Suits Filed.

The following new suits have been filed with the clerk of the superior court: J. Funnemark vs. L. H. Limburger—action to restrain defendant from selling personal property; Geo. Wirt vs. Daniel Shultz—attachment; F. Groshen vs. Wm. Degenhart—unlawful detainer; North Yakima Furniture Co. vs. J. S. Dougherty—transcript from J. P. court.

The will of the late Thomas J. Kelly of the Wenas, was filed for probate Thursday. Mitchell Stevens, son-in-law of deceased, is named as executor. The principal part of the estate is bequeathed to Christine Kelly, wife of deceased. The seven children and three grand children are to share equally in the proceeds realized from the sale of 50 acres of land and personal property of the estate. The will bears date of January 6, 1900.

Begins Practice of Law.

John H. Lynch, attorney at law, hung out his shingle this week. The young attorney has secured an elegant suit of offices in the new Yakima National bank building. Mr. Lynch, who is well known here, having grown to manhood on the Ahtanum, is a young man of good natural ability which supplemented with thorough collegiate and office training fits him for active practice. The Democrat wishes Mr. Lynch unbounded success in his profession.

Billy Bounds Bound Over.

Billy Bounds, who was arrested at Seattle last Saturday by Sheriff Grant on the charge of having "rolled" a man named Peter Schmidt in this city one night last week, was given his preliminary hearing Tuesday. The young man was bound over to the superior court in the sum of $500.

What Do We Get?

The question has been asked, and not yet answered, "What is Panama selling to us that entitles her to $10,000,000?" It appears that she is selling us the privilege of doing her an inestimable benefit—a benefit so great that she thought its denial by Colombia a grievance sufficient to justify secession.

There is another question, or rather, another side to the same question, namely, "What is the United States to get for its ten millions?"

When the Colombians tried to force us to raise our bid to $25,000,000 they undoubtedly believed we were intending to enter upon a profitable enterprise, like the construction of the Suez canal. The London papers, which all talk about our recognition of Panama as a sordid "grab for dollars," have the same idea. But the fact is that we shall never make any direct profit out of the canal at all. We are building it to promote commerce by reducing the cost of transportation. If the tolls should yield a profit there would be a demand not to be resisted for their reduction to a cost basis, if not for their entire abolition, on the New York plan.

But the commercial advantages the American people hope to secure from the construction of the canal are to be open on equal terms to all the world. Our trade is to have no benefit that will not be shared by the trade of Panama, of Colombia, of Mexico, of Canada, of Great Britain, of France, of Germany—of any and every country that has a ship or a cargo to send from ocean to ocean. We assume all the cost and all the risks of the undertaking that wrecked De Lesseps; we draw no direct profit from it, and we share the indirect advantages with the whole world.

Why then should we pay $10,000,000 for the privilege of assuming this burden and the rest of the world pay nothing?

Uncle Sam is generous, but he does not like to be taxed for his generosity. Two hundred millions, if necessary, for a canal, but not one cent for blood-money.—N. Y. World.

Sidelights on Politics.

A railroad politician who was in Spokane last week is authority for the statement that a "slush fund" of $15,000 has been raised to defeat Governor McBride in his home county—Skagit—and secure the delegation for M. P. Hurd for attorney general. This man claims that the fund is not railroad boodle, but that it has been subscribed by corporations and individuals in the county who are hostile to the railroad commission policy of the governor. Heaven forbid that the railroads should spend any money in politics—especially when they can get somebody else to spend it for them!

The probabilities are that the $15,000 tale is an invention, designed to dishearten the governor's friends in other sections of the state. Or, if it is true, it is railroad money. No "angels" are in sight this year to help the railroads. So far as Mr. Hurd is concerned, he was at Olympia during the senatorial fight last winter, and when Harold Preston was defeated he actually shed bitter tears. He was a member of the platform committee in the last republican state convention and voted for the railroad commission plank, both in the committee and in the convention. There seems to be no doubt, however, that he has joined hands with the railroads, and that the prize of the attorney generalship has turned his head.

It may be, though, that Governor McBride will hypnotize Mr. Hurd before the state convention meets. Mr. Hurd was a member of the legislature of '93, and McBride held him in line for 60 days for George Turner, when he wanted to vote for John B. Allen every minute.—"Politician" in Spokesman-Review.

How to Reach the Sky.

Dr. Hermann von Schrotter, of Vienna, predicts that aerial navigators desiring to reach great heights will shut themselves up in hermetically sealed double-walled aluminum and glass cages and wear masks in which they can inhale oxygen.

The idea seems sound. There is no apparent reason why the height to which an aeronaut can ascend should not be the limit of buoyancy of a balloon. Hitherto the record has been held by Glaisher who rose to a height of 37,000 feet, more than seven miles, or over a mile and a half above the top of the highest mountain. That was a remarkable feat, although Glaisher was unconscious and his companions nearly so at its climax.

But balloons carrying scientific instruments but no passengers have been known to go as high as 50,000 feet. A man could take such a trip and be in good observing condition all the time if he took the precautions recommended by Dr. von Schrotter. Men who have to work under water wear diving suits; such an outfit would be just as useful for a long dive into the sky.—N. Y. World.

It's a shame to give away Babbitt & Graham's Fine Dress Skirts and Paris Cloaks, but they all go at Coffin Bros' Dry Goods Closing Out Sale.

Cured Paralysis.

W. S. Bally, P. O. Trno, Texas, writes: "My wife had been suffering five years with paralysis in her arm, when I was persuaded to use Ballard's Snow Liniment which cured her all right. I have also used it for old sores, frostbites and skin eruptions. It does the work." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by F. L. Janek's drug store.

A CITIZEN'S VIEW

A Correspondent Tells What He Thinks About the Water and Light Franchise.

North Yakima, Dec. 4, 1903.

Editor Democrat:—A great deal of criticism has been heaped upon the members of the present city council for the reason that a majority of that body voted in favor of the ordinance granting an extension of the present franchise held by the Yakima Water, Light & Power company. Perhaps this criticism in a measure is just, but certainly in a measure it is unjust.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am a citizen and taxpayer of this town. I was not in the city at the time the franchises were passed by the council, last September, and I presume that I was about as mad as anybody when I first heard that the franchise had been extended. I still think for that matter that the council should have held up the ordinance long enough for the taxpayers to have thoroughly learned what the provisions of the ordinance were.

When the ordinances were published I read them very carefully and then made some inquiries as to what the city, as well as private consumers, had heretofore been paying for water and light service and I found out some things that rather surprised me. I learned, for instance, that under the provisions of the new ordinance that the city would save the sum of $675 per year or a total of $8100 for the twelve years which the old franchise had to run. This certainly represented a very considerable saving in itself. Then in addition, Mr. Editor, I found that the new ordinance compels the Water, Light & Power company to put in a filter, something which the original did not require. Also that the company is required to increase the pressure five pounds to the square inch. I found further that the company is required to furnish water for street sprinkling purposes free which under the old ordinance was paid for. In addition to this a slight reduction was made under the ordinance on water delivered to private consumers.

Mr. Editor, I look at the matter this way. If the new ordinance had not been passed the city would very likely have had to go for the next twelve years without filtered water; for twelve years without free water for street sprinkling and for twelve years with a lower fire pressure and in this same period of twelve years the city would have had to pay the sum of $8100 additional for street lighting.

Therefore, I say, let us be just. There are two sides to this question, even from the standpoint of the taxpayer.—"CITIZEN."

The Hop Market.

In our hop report last week the Democrat stated that Fred Alter had purchased 53 bales from George Evans. The item should have read that the lot were bought by H. L. Hart.

Mr. Hart also bought several small lots this week at prices varying from 10½c to 17½c. Most of these lots were of coarser not of standard quality. McNeill Bros and Alter also made several deals within the past few days. There is no uniformity about the price.

Modern Woodmen Election.

Camp No. 5550 M. W. A., elected the following officers at their regular annual election Tuesday, December 1:

Venerable counselor, J. O. Cull; worthy advisor, J. H. Rightmire; banker, E. E. Knowles; clerk, Roy McWain; escort, G. W. Bissell; watchman, J. F. Lisle; sentry, N. Carpenter; managers, M. N. Richards, Chas. Gleason and J. F. Lisle.

Better Late Than Never.

Uncle Sam is now busy locking the door in the timber land cases after all the timber has been disposed of, and in many cases we may say stolen and not be putting it too strong. For years the country press has been sounding the alarm in the timber land frauds, but the alarm passed unheeded; meantime eastern syndicates were through the "hired man" gaining possession of large tracts of timber in Washington and Oregon.

At this time we see far and further department white-washing, for, judging from the past, that will be the only result. If it had been the purpose to prosecute to conviction, why has it not been done years ago, without waiting until all the timber has been stolen, and make a farce that the department must be vindicated?—Chewelah Independent.

"With all its superb vitality the democratic party cannot survive constant defeat," declares the Indianapolis News. But the democratic party has survived constant defeat. The trouble seems to have been that the democratic party could not endure some of its latter day "victories."

A few years ago Great Britain laughed with glee at the suggestion that she might be compelled to pay damages for allowing the Alabama to put forth from her shores. This is a hint to the prominent administration leaders who laughed with glee at mention of the Panama affair.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington D. C., Nov. 28, 1903.

President Roosevelt's Panama policy has been severely arraigned by Senator Morgan who accuses him of failure to obey the orders of the senate, of complicity in the Panama revolution, of utter disregard for the rights of Colombia and of personal ambition to glorify his own administration.

The report of the committee on committees was presented to the senate and among other changes it announced that Senator Hanna had been given the chairmanship of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, which had been held for many years by Senator Morgan. The senator from Alabama then arose and read his speech, which took up the greater part of two sessions of the senate. Before he finished he asked the privilege of continuing from his seat, saying under his breath, "My old limbs are getting as shaky under me as the republican party must be in the presence of the truth." With frequent and sarcastic use of the president's favorite words, "clean" and "decent," and referring to Minister Varilla as "some one from Panama," the aged senator declared, "Hereafter November 3, 1903, will be a saint's day, to be celebrated by all filibusters who destroy government in the interests of peace." Let us send a round robin from congress and inform the president that it is about time to provide for the health and safety of the country." Saying that President McKinley favored the Nicaraguan route, he continued: "But he is dead and a new Richmond comes upon the field, and he seems not to feel the obligation of good faith when a more enticing field for his unique administration breaks upon the vision of this ambitious spirit." He declared that the president wanted to have all the glory of constructing the canal. "Has the president any excuse for his failure to carry into effect the agreement with Nicaragua and Costa Rica, unless it is resentment toward Colombia and gratification of personal ambition which the law deprives him of the further power to indulge? Whatever the incentive, he will fail to carry the people with him in his wild and inexcusable raid." Although most of the democratic senators agree with Senator Morgan in his criticism of the president, they will vote for the Panama treaty when it is sent to the senate for ratification. It is now on its way to Panama to be ratified by the people of the isthmus.

The house is determined that the senate shall not take a vacation before the regular session, unless it takes action on the Cuban bill, which has been favorably reported from the committee on foreign relations. The regular session begins December 7, and the senators agreed to postpone the vote on the reciprocity bill until December 16. When the senators hinted to the house that they wished to adjourn the extra session, the house said no; and there is no doubt that this answer is popular with the country. Congress was called for a special purpose and there is no sound reason why it should adjourn without taking action on the measure submitted to it. As neither branch of congress can adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the other the house can force the senate to remain in session. Speaker Cannon will announce the committee appointments in a few days, instead of waiting until the beginning of the regular session. Several thousand bills have been introduced and are waiting to be sent to the different committees. The house can do at least one week's work before the regular session begins.

To get evidence concerning the administration of the island by General Wood, the senate committee on military affairs will send a sub-committee to Cuba. It is generally believed that the committee will report favorable on the nomination of General Wood, and that the affair will then be discussed on the floor of the senate.

Senator Newlands' resolution inviting Cuba to enter the American Union as a state and annexing Porto Rico to her as a county called forth an interesting debate in the senate, in which the republican senators Lodge, Hale and Platt of Connecticut, opposed the measure, claiming that it would expose the country to the charge of breaking faith with Cuba because the invitation would be looked upon as a command. The resolution caused a great deal of comment in Cuba and Porto Rico and it is believed that most of the Cubans, except the Spanish residents and large business interests of the island were not in favor of it. President Palma said that the island was getting on very well as it was and did not desire annexation. The people of Porto Rico also were opposed to the plan of a union with Cuba. No doubt the aspire to statehood and feel that their chances would not be increased by thus becoming a county of the state of Cuba. Senator Newlands argued the immense benefit Cuba would receive from free trade with the United States and the stability which her finances would acquire as a state in the union. In speaking against the resolution Senator Platt, who is the author of the Platt amendment, which was incorporated in the constitution of Cuba, said, "I think that our relations with Cuba have been misunderstood, I do not think that we are exercising a protectorate over Cuba. I do not think that we have ever constituted ourselves the guardian of Cuba or made Cuba our ward." Senator Lodge contradicts this statement by saying, "We have all the control in a military point of view and a political point of view that we can possibly desire." He added that he was opposed to island states forgetting that this was a slight to Porto Ricans. He stated also that he hoped all European flags would follow that of Spain back to Europe, and Senator Hale voiced the same sentiment by saying that he believed the men that were now listening to him would live to see Canada and the United States united.

A PECULIAR CAMPAIGN

Nobody Seems to Know What the "Peoples" Party Candidates Would Do if Elected.

The present campaign has degenerated into one of vilification. Any observer can see that the ticket put up by the People's convention is willing to get in on any terms. Its candidates are prone to reconstruct the platform daily. The platform declared for Sunday closing, it didn't say so in terms, but everybody understood it. If it did not mean Sunday closing, what did it mean? Yet some members of that convention had hardly left it before they began to solicit the saloon vote, notwithstanding the fact that they started on the other tack. With the platform of the Citizen's convention before it, no declaration was made for sewer extension by general taxation. Now that it is apparent that sewers by local improvement is unpopular, the platform is added to. The trouble with the platform is that it has to be construed so often that nobody can tell exactly what it means, and what it will be by the day of election can only be left to conjecture.

Having no particular reason to assign why one of the most efficient councils ever elected in the city should be displaced by men who have tried their hands at city government with not half its success, it seizes on the demagogic and always popular theme of jumping onto a corporation; and as the Water and Light company is the most available, it is the one to be jumped on. Mr. Fechter knows that the water and light ordinances cannot be annulled. He knows that the regulation of rates is with the legislature, and that the council has no power in the premises. He knows that the repeal of the extension franchises would cripple the company so that it could not keep up with the growth of the town. It seems a little strange that these objectors have never pointed out any thing unjust in the provisions of the ordinances. All they can say is that it was railroaded through yet these same people helped to railroad the gas franchise through, which asked for fifty years, and all the ordinances that have been passed have gone through in the regular course, as these did.

It is difficult to imagine what would have been the issue if these ordinances had not been passed. The truth is that under the new ordinances the city is getting about twice as much light for the same money as it got before; the company has been compelled to put in a filter and maintain it; fire pressure has been increased from sixty-five to seventy pounds to the square inch; the city gets free water for sprinkling the streets, which it did not get before; stringent regulations have been made about repairing streets where torn up by the company for laying mains.

The people of the city no doubt want to do the fair thing. Any business man knows that the company is putting out lots of money in extensions, and for the next ten years it will, if the town continues to grow, be compelled to continue such expenditures. How is it to get the money to do it? Can any of the men on the People's ticket, strong as they are financially, get it, and get it under the same conditions that they ask the water and light company to get it, namely, on a twelve-year franchise? They are business men, and they ought to consider this.

The question for the people of this city is, do they want it to grow, or do they want to drive away all capital? Does Mr. Fechter as an enterprising man do himself justice by acting the demagogue and promising things which he knows he cannot perform? Does his ticket do itself justice, or the town credit by trying to handicap the company at a time like this?

And now comes the threat of a grand jury. It is said that this is not done for political purposes. If not, why was the petition circulated just at this particular juncture? In five days the election will be held. But will Judge Rudkin lend himself to that kind of a factional fight? His court is open, and if anybody knows of any violator of the law, they can have the perpetrator arrested any day. That might not, however, suit their methods. They want to have a kind of a secret inquisition, where somebody can be besmirched behind closed doors, leaving the victim without remedy.

It all resolves itself into this: "We want to get in."
