

County Library 8/17/45 Gets New Home Republic

Moving into the new quarters of the county library was accomplished today by Miss Carol Trimble, county librarian. Plans have been made to keep office hours at the new establishment between First and Second streets on A street in the future, but Miss Trimble warns that her work will take her to the city library for many hours for several weeks to come.

Cards and books will continue to be issued from the city unit, while the county office is for records and preparation of books only, Miss Trimble explains. Office hours will be kept in order to interview persons interested in caring for the various branches and stations of the central unit which are to be established in the future. New books will be delivered there for preparation for the shelves and damaged books will be repaired at the record office.
