OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

HON. W. H. White, democratic national committeeman for this state, takes exceptions to an editorial article recently published in this paper and copied by the Post-Intelligencer, in which he is referred to as a "slippery gentleman" in politics. Mr. White, in an open letter to the editor of THE DEMOCRAT, which was published in the P.-I. of June 2, demands our reasons for thus characterizing him, and in assuming a defensive position, goes back into ancient history to dig up his political record to prove the falsity of our assertion. Before going any farther, we desire to assure Mr. White that we have not and will not, criticize him in any other capacity than as a politician, for we recognize the fact that during his long residence in this state he has enjoyed the reputation of being a fearless official and a most exemplary citizen. Mr. White asks: "Where did you get your warrant for calling me a slippery gentleman in politics?" Without the slightest hesitancy, we reply: From the duplicity exhibited by him at the convention of the democratic party which assembled in the city of Tacoma April 14, 1896. At that convention "Warhorse" Bill White, as he is generally known, was looked up to by the silver democrats of the state, whose delegates constituted an emphatic majority of the convention, as their natural leader against the pretensions of the arrogant "federal brigade," at the head of whom was the then national committeeman, Hugh Wallace. Mr. White came to the convention as an avowed candidate for delegate to the national convention, with the solid support of King county behind him. At a caucus of the silver men, held the evening previous to the assembling of the convention, Mr. White delivered himself of a fiery speech in which he advocated a fight to the finish with the cohorts of Wallace, and promised that the silver majority should not only write the platform, but should elect every one of the eight national delegates. But Mr. White reckoned without his host. When the convention met the boasted "Warhorse" was outgeneraled at every point by the astute Wallace workers with their minority of delegates. When Mr. White discovered that his own defeat was not only possible but probable, he began to talk very loudly about the necessity of "harmony," and insisted that "Pierce county had a perfect right to send Mr. Wallace to the national convention if she wanted to." The great leader's fighting spirit was gone and his downcast followers were obliged to submit to a humiliating compromise that divided the delegation with the goldites and sent them to Chicago without instructions, with the result that the delegation was so torn with dissensions that it cut virtually no figure in that great convention.

Mr. White, in his letter, says: "You do me great honor when you put me in the same class with Governor Rogers and say that I am not a practical politician." He is mistaken. We did not place him in the same class with the governor. Mr. White has put the wrong construction on what we did say. Our purpose rather was to warn his excellency against forming political combinations that would inevitably drag him down to defeat. We are not booming the governor (as Mr. White seems to be doing) nor any other man. We are willing to leave that to the convention, which is yet afar off. This paper, however, always aims to be honest with the public and we have seen a great deal in the governor's administration to commend, which accounts for the closing eulogistic paragraph in the article which has aroused the ire of Mr. White. Governor Rogers, by the announcement of his candidacy, has given the press the right to discuss it, and he need not be surprised if the comment is not all favorable. We have said, and we say again, that he has placed himself at a tremendous disadvantage in contending for the nomination by his emphatic pronouncements in favor of colonialism. In conclusion we say to Mr. White that we have no desire to misrepresent him; neither do we wish that he should in his capacity of national committeeman misrepresent the democrats of this state, unquestionably a large majority of whom are bitterly opposed to the imperialistic sentiments with which he is credited. Mr. White scornfully makes use of the obnoxious term "copperhead" to characterize all democrats who stand up manfully for human rights and are honestly opposed to our government beginning a dishonorable career of conquest and the creation of vassal states abroad.

After a long career of usefulness in his party, Mr. White seems at last to be out of sympathy with it on this vital question. In fact, the indications are that the national committeeman, unconsciously, perhaps, is already covering his retreat into the enemy's camp.

THE people of Fairview have a grievance which seems to us a rather just one. A large portion of that precinct is included within the confines of school district No. 7 and the taxpayers of that locality claim that they are being heavily taxed to help maintain the city's schools, without receiving a corresponding benefit. They say it is too far for their little children to come to school, especially in bad weather. Their lack of school facilities, too, they claim, keeps new settlers from purchasing homes in their neighborhood. All they ask is that a suburban school be established near the fair grounds. The new school board, when elected, ought to give the demands of the Fairview people some consideration.

THE Seattle P.-I., in a lengthy editorial in Thursday's issue, fairly outdid itself in slobbering over "Warhorse" White and the Yakima Herald, on account of the imperialistic sentiments that the Seattle politician and the Yakima paper have been giving the public lately. As for the Herald, the organ which the esteemed P.-I. delights to quote as democratic authority, all we have to say is that it is not so regarded here. For the benefit of the Seattle paper, which is so sorely worried at this time concerning the democratic policy, we will state that out of the 1,200 democrats and populists of this county, not a baker's dozen can be found who are in favor of the administration's new colonial policy. Nor is this the extent of the opposition to Philippine annexation in Yakima county. A number of republicans are likewise opposed to it, while there are still a great many others who are very lukewarm in support of it. While we cannot speak for other sections, yet judging from the voice of the reform press of the state, we believe that the same conditions obtain elsewhere in Washington. In view of these facts, which the managers of the P.-I. well know, it seems not only silly, but dishonest as well, for it to persist in its present course of misrepresentation of the public sentiment of the state. And why, we ask, is the P.-I. so solicitous regarding democratic policy? Is it really a fact that that great organ intends to flop in 1900? If so, God help the democracy of Washington. Its fate is sealed.

A BRIGHT young volunteer by the name of DeLacy, who is doing service in the Philippines, in a letter to his father, published in the Tacoma News, says: "You ask my opinion as to the future for the laborer and mechanic in this tropical country. I see nothing cheering to the masses at home in the retention of these islands, for the inevitable result will be to make Dives more powerful and Lazarus more dependent. American labor cannot hope to compete with the cheap labor procurable here. A very little reasoning should advise the masses that outside of a few lucrative jobs for place warmers there will be no place for Americans here. There is a growing mass of mendicants here, and you have thousands of them at home. Do you need the additional load? Will this Philippine crowd smell any sweeter under the title of American sovereigns?"

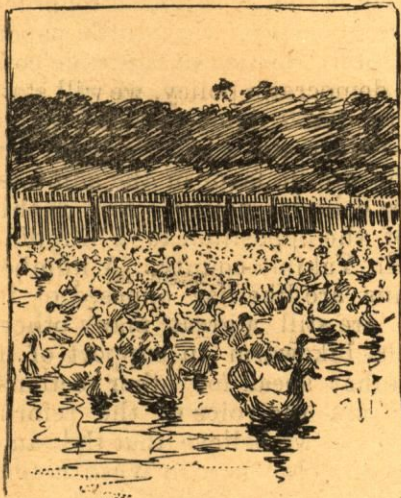

THE shallowness of the republican pettition of opposition to trusts was well exemplified by the republican convention in Ohio last week. That gathering, which was under the sway of "Boss" Hanna, put in its platform a plank denouncing trusts in vigorous language. After taking this virtuous stand they proceeded to turn down Attorney General Monnett, who has gained a national reputation by his fight against the Standard Oil trust, for which offense he is cast off by the g. o. p.

FATTENING DUCKS.

From the Egg to the Market in Ten Weeks.

The young duck does not come forth from the shell as quickly after it has broken a place for its beak to get out as does the chicken, says the Boston Cultivator. While the chicken, if strong and vigorous, will be entirely free in a few hours, the duckling may be 48 hours before it makes its way out, and during that time the pipped side must not be allowed to turn downward, lest the young duck may be smothered. If they are hatched under a hen, her instinct leads her to see to this, excepting that she may chance to roll some over if she leaves her nest.

Sometimes the outer shell of the egg is pipped while the inner skin or membrane seems to be so tough as to remain unbroken. We are not sure that this happens more frequently with ducks than with chickens, but think that it does. In such case break this inner skin carefully with a knife point or a needle, taking care not to put it where it can wound the duck, as, if pricked even but slightly, it may bleed to death. We have had to do the same thing for chickens, and by making the opening opposite the beak we had no trouble. If this is done and at the same time the outer shell is picked away for a little distance around where it is broken, the young duck, like a young chicken, will usually free itself without further trouble unless it may have been exhausted by a long attempt to get out.

While we would confine young ducks, as we do young chickens, in a wire cage or pen as a protection from cats, yet where these are not dreaded a pen of boards six inches high is enough to keep them from wandering, and they will do better so than when allowed to roam at will, but there is much difference in hens about the inclination to stray far away. Some hens would tire out and lose ducks, chickens or young turkeys before their first day was over, while others are content to remain very quietly near one spot. When we have the uneasy kind, we usually try to give her charge to a quieter one if we can, as even when shut in a coop she will travel about, walking over the little ones and keeping them in such a turmoil that they are apt to be as wild as partridges, or almost so, when given liberty.

When the ducks are first taken from the nest, they need but little food, perhaps nothing for 24 hours after coming from the shell, but we would prefer to feed in less than 24 hours than to wait 36 hours. For a feed during the first seven days a mixture of bread or cracker crumbs, with cornmeal in equal parts, mixed with water or milk is excellent. It should have about 5 per cent of clear, clean sand mixed with it. Some hard boiled egg chopped with it might be an improvement.

One of the largest duck raisers on Long Island uses equal parts of cornmeal, wheat bran and a No. 2 grade flour, and thinks cracker crumbs and boiled eggs are not necessary. He uses about 10 per cent sand. Either of these feeds should be given four times a day.

For the next seven weeks the Long Island man, who rears them by thousands and cannot change his feed, or thinks it will not pay to do so as often as those would who have smaller flocks, would keep on with the same mixture of grains, adding to it sand as before, with 15 per cent in bulk of beef scraps and 12½ per cent of green food, such as green rye or oats, clover, etc., cut short and mixed in. Mix with water, but not sloppy. Have it crumble when stirred with the paddle.

From this time until 10 weeks old he would give by measure two parts of cornmeal, one part each of wheat bran and No. 2 flour, one-eighth bulk of this in beef scraps, same bulk of green food as of scraps and 10 per cent coarse sand. For last two weeks feed only morning, noon and night, but for first eight weeks the feeding hours are 6 and 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

These rules are for ducks to be fatted at 10 weeks old. For those intended to be kept for breeding purposes it is not desirable to force their growth so much. After the first week the use of equal parts by bulk of wheat bran, cornmeal and green food, with 5 per cent beef scraps and 5 per cent coarse sand, will keep them growing.

They should have plenty of water to drink, but none to bathe in, and it should be fresh and pure. If there cannot be running water in the duckyards, give them fresh, clean water just before each meal. The ducks will get their nostrils clogged up with the soft food and must wash it out after a few mouthfuls. A grating over the water may allow them to do this without permitting them to bathe in it.

Poultry Diseases.

Volumes have been written on poultry diseases, and it would seem to the uninitiated that by the light of these books it would be an easy matter to detect and cure most any disease to which the feathered tribe is subject. But the ordinary run of poultry men will find it at its lost time to try to lay up a store of knowledge which will be of practical use to them in restoring ailing fowls to health. Their doctoring for the most part will be the rankest quackery in spite of all the wisdom they can collect from the books. They will have a few favorite remedies in which they have learned to place dependence in certain well marked cases, and they will often be used at a venture for ailments of a different nature, simply because they do not know what else to do, but they will learn very little about discriminating between the various diseases and making an intelligent application of remedies in accordance with the rules laid down in the books. Not one keeper of poultry in 100 will claim any degree of expertness in that kind of medical practice. The aim should be to keep the fowls in health by making their surroundings healthy. If a fowl gets very sick, kill it, unless you know to a certainty what is the matter with it and how to cure it. Don't take any chances on a mopey hen in August and September, unless you are very sure that you can draw the line all right between a case of indigestion and cholera in its early stages.

It is a good plan to make cuttings of grapes, blackberries and currants and bury them below the frost line before the ground freezes, in readiness for spring planting.

Weak and superfluous canes should be cut out of raspberries.

At the Missouri station, spraying peach trees with lime whitewash is considered one of the most promising methods of winter protection.

The First Picnic.

A picnic party in honor of Miss Shannon, was made up on Wednesday and the jolly party hied themselves away to the Ahtanum where the day was pleasantly spent.

The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Chandler and included the following ladies and gentlemen: Misses Shannon, Nichols, Rohrer, Patton, McDonald and Barge. Messers Kimmel, Kline, McCready, Wallace, McArthur and Coleman. The picnic was in the nature of a farewell party to Miss Shannon, who during her visit here as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Getts, has made many warm friends. The young lady left for her home in Stillwater, Minn. Thursday night.

A New Calla Lily.

A new calla lily, one of the productions of Mr. Luther Burbank, the famous hybridizer, is illustrated by Peter Henderson among other bulbs for autumn planting. Mr. Burbank's description of it is quoted as follows: "The common calla, though always destitute of any odor, unless it be a faint one of muriatic acid or a toadstool, has still won its way into universal public favor. In the new calla, Frangrance, which is one of many thousand seedlings of Little Gem, we have not only a most charming flower, produced in a profusion never before surpassed, if equaled, and a week or two earlier, but also with a genuine, sweet, lasting fragrance all its own, but similar to the fragrance of violets or lilies. The plants are of medium size, compact in growth and multiply with great rapidity, growing and blooming profusely under any ordinary treatment. The foliage is unique, being handsomely fluted. Frangrance is a seedling of Little Gem, but grows nearly twice its size in all its parts, making it about half way in size between Gem and the old standard calla (grows in best conditions 15 to 18 inches high). It is earlier by a week or two in starting to bloom than others and produces flowers more profusely than any other calla."

HEATING GREENHOUSES.

Large Cast Iron Pipes Versus Small Wrought Iron Ones.

The question of large cast iron pipes versus small wrought iron ones for hot water in a small greenhouse has been studied at the Rhode Island station and reported upon as follows:

The piping consisted of equal lengths of 4 inch cast iron pipe and of 1½ inch wrought iron pipe. The large pipes had therefore 2-3 times as much radiating surface as the small ones. The two kinds of pipe were used on alternate days throughout the test, the change from one to the other being made at noon. At each change the water was drawn from the heater and pipes, they were refilled with cold water, and the fire was started anew. The results show that as regards economy of fuel there was no perceptible difference between the two systems. Had the radiating surface in the two cases been equal the results might have been different.

The large pipes were found to cool off very much more slowly than the small ones. In three hours after the fire was drawn the large pipes had cooled down on an average about 70 degrees F., while the small ones had cooled about 100 degrees F. Probably on account of this difference in rapidity of cooling the large pipes maintained the temperature of the house better toward morning, when no care was given to the heating. When the large pipes were used, the average temperature of the house at 6 p. m. was 1.1 degrees F. higher, at 9 p. m. 1.5 degrees F. higher, at 12 p. m. 2 degrees F. higher and at 6 a. m. 3.5 degrees F. higher than when the small pipes were used. This, though important with small houses, is much less so with large ones, where a man may be profitably employed to attend to the heating at night.

A point in favor of the small pipes was the greater rapidity with which they could be heated up. After starting the fire it took nearly three hours to heat the large pipes to their usual temperature and only 1½ hours to heat the small ones. This difference would doubtless have been somewhat less marked if the total length of the small pipes had been increased until their combined radiating surface was equivalent to that of the large pipes, for there would then have been less difference between the quantities of water to be heated in the two cases.

The cost per square foot of radiating surface is not very different in the two cases. As to ease of manipulation, the wrought iron pipes can be readjusted to suit new conditions very much more readily than the cast iron pipes.

Aphids, or Plant Lice.

Aphids are sucking insects, taking their food through a slender tube which is thrust deep into the tissue of the plant. For this reason any arsenical poison that may be deposited on the surface of the plant will do them no harm. They will thrust their beaks clear through the poison into the plant and will suck the sap from beneath the surface. To kill these little robbers it is necessary to use contact poisons, such as kerosene emulsion, whale oil soap, tobacco water, pyrethrum, or some application which kills by closing up the pores or by irritation, or else to use some vapor, smoke or gas, such as tobacco smoke or carbon bisulphide. In exceptional instances, as in the case of lice that live underground, it is necessary to use some special treatment.

Geo. Donald Talks About Yakima.

George Donald, president of the Yakima National bank, of North Yakima, is in the city, at the Butler. He gives an excellent account of conditions at his home, and among other things he says: "We are having a considerable building boom, both business houses and residences. We have plenty of money to do business, and each of the two banks has larger deposits than ever before in its history. While the spring has been very backward, the crops are in good condition, and we look for a full yield. Large numbers of new settlers are coming in, both in town and in the country."

Speaking of irrigation and the development of farming operations, Mr. Donald says: "The Sunnyside canal, known as the Paul Schueze ditch which has been in the hands of a receiver, will probably be sold this summer under order of court. As soon as the new purchasers get control and present complications are relieved, we look for a large immigration to take up the land within its influence. The canal now irrigates 40,000 acres of land, and when completed will cover 60,000 acres."—Seattle P. I.

State Press Opinion.

James Hamilton Lewis does not want the governorship after all. The republican papers will have to dig up another man, as they have taken upon themselves the task of selecting the democratic nominee.—Coulee City News.

The editor of the Tacoma Ledger prating about republican protection to American labor is enough to make a horse laugh. By the way, what about the boat loads of Japs dumped at Tacoma from time to time? There's a sample of the protection dished up for the American laborer to chew on.—Ellensburg Localizer.

The great aggregation of capital in this country in the various trusts is greater than the power of the government under a republican administration. The trusts own most of the courts and defy the balance. In fact they are all powerful, and the father of all trusts is the gold trust.—Seattle Review.

Hon. W. J. Bryan gave those assistant republicans calling themselves gold democrats a hard rap over the noggin, in a very polite way when he said in his speech at the New York banquet that the silver republicans who left the party at St. Louis had not assumed to write platforms for the g. o. p. since leaving it. Colonel Bryan has a way of saying things that is both truthful and convincing.—Tacoma Sun.

If Uncle Sam is bound to embrace imperialism, let him go into it heart and soul, like a man in the business, instead of a mere boy pouncing upon helpless babes. Turn every plowshare into swords, set every blacksmith to work, call in the farm hands and laborers and give them guns and make them drill. There are plenty of worlds to conquer—fortune favors the brave.—Whatcom Blade.

Why is it that when our public officials want to do some tinkering with the finances of the nation they always consult the bankers and commercial clubs? We have men in the workshops, in the mills, in the factories, in the mines, in the stores and on the farms that are as capable, aye even more capable of giving honest advice than the bankers are. The truth is, our officials do not go to the commercial clubs and bankers for advice, but for instructions, and pay, for betraying the public.—Seattle Review.

Reports from the Palouse country state that the late rains have been so abundant that farmers are encouraged to believe that a large yield of grain is assured. It is said the acreage of grain sown this year is the smallest of recent years, assessors say 30 per cent less than last year. The acreage of wheat is a little less than 50 per cent of that of 1898, but of oats and barley it is greater than ever known.—Walla Walla Union.

That the volunteers who enlisted to assist the Cubans to liberty are weary of the war to conquer the Philippines is conclusively proved by the following special dispatch from Washington in yesterday's Post-Intelligencer: "The efforts of the war department to induce the volunteers in the Philippines to re-enlist have been successful only to a very small degree. Notwithstanding the offer to allow such of these men who re-enlist travel pay amounting to nearly $600 in each case, it is reported that not more than enough men to organize two full regiments have been secured out of the entire eighteen volunteer regiments now in the Philippines."—Aberdeen Herald.

ELEPHANT COMEDIANS.

Lockhart's Famous Elephant Actors With Ringling Bros.' Big Circus.

Lockhart's elephant comedians, which will be seen with Ringling Brothers' circus when that famous big show exhibits in North Yakima, Monday, June 19th, (afternoon only) are undoubtedly the most remarkable trained troupe of animal performers in the world. Lockhart's elephants have been the most pronounced sensation of Europe for several seasons, and the amount of money paid by the Ringling Brothers to bring this wonderful troupe of animals to America would be sufficient to equip and indefinitely operate a dozen good-sized circuses. These elephants are not simply "trained animals." They are veritable animal actors, displaying as much good sense and judgment, as great an appreciation of the humor of their several roles and as sincere a desire to please and entertain the audience, as any human performer in the great exhibition. Probably the most amusing comedy presented by these elephant actors is one portraying the arrest, trial conviction and incarceration of an elephant for intoxication. The spectacle of the clown elephant, rolling from side to side, apparently in the sportive stage of intoxication, is ludicrous in the extreme. In the midst of his revelry, the policeman arrives, armed cap-a-pie with a huge official helmet and jauntily twirling a club in his trunk. The offending elephant attempts to escape, but the policeman is too quick for him. The offender is seized by the ear, marched away to the magistrate's office, solemnly tried and sentenced by an elephant judge sitting in his judicial dignity upon his judicial bench, and finally hurried away, a condemned prisoner, to suffer duress in the elephant jail. The Lockhart elephants are, however, only one of the three troupes of elephant actors. They are an English importation. From Germany comes Herr Souder's wonderful elephantine brass band. Incredible as it may seem this company of proboscidian musicians not only play upon huge helican horns, but they actually master a popular air in a way only possible to such a mammoth twenty-ton band. France is represented in this triumvirate of elephantine wonders by Marchand's pugilistic pachyderms, a company of clever elephants carefully schooled in the many art of self-defense. In every kind of trained animal exhibition, in the size and completeness of its zoological collection, in the number of its high-class performers, in the historic accuracy and thrilling character of its hippodrome, and in the magnificence of its processionary displays, Ringling Brothers' famous circus is without a rival on earth.

FARMERS.....

When you buy a Mower, Binder or Rake, you want only the best, because the best is always the cheapest.

THE Buckeye Mowers AND Reapers

Stand unrivaled for simplicity of construction and lightness of draft and they are honestly made, which gives them durability. Read the following Pointers concerning the advantages of the

Buckeye Mower:

POINTER 1*—H. K. Tillitt, manager of the Arkansas Valley Feed and Cattle Company, Lamar, Colo., says: "I am using six of your Buckeye Mowers. I use the Buckeye because it is the only mower that will cut the first and second bottom grass of the Arkansas valley, the toughest grass that grows. I have tried all the makes of mowers, but have fallen back on the Buckeye for good, because it is the only machine that fills the bill."

POINTER 2*—J. W. Schmitz, superintendent of the Miller & Lux Cattle Ranches, of Firebaugh, California, says: "Our twelve Buckeye Mowers are in almost constant use eight months in the year, cutting the several crops of alfalfa. We have tried all the leading makes of mowers but pronounce the Buckeye superior to all others in ease of draft, strength and cutting qualities. It also costs less for repairs than any mower we ever had on our ranches."

POINTER 3*—The proprietor of the largest hay ranches in the world is the Kern County Land Company, Bakersfield, California. For 1896 this company bought two Buckeye Mowers and an equal number of several other makes, including Deering and McCormick. The company took this method of settling the question of comparative merit for itself and in its own way. For 1897 the company bought twenty more Buckeyes and no other machines. For 1898 the company bought sixty-three additional Buckeyes, making eighty five in all, and the superintendent issued this general order for the guidance of all the company's ranches: "Hereafter we will use the Buckeye and not a mower of any other kind on our ranches."

The Buckeye Binder's Record

For 1898 was never surpassed—never. There was only one trouble—the factory was unable to supply the demand. Our '99 machine will be the most perfect of its kind ever placed on the market. Its new features are a Steel Deck and an Improved Knotter.

The Island Issue.

The administration has practically asked the people to wait till the Philippine insurgents are subdued before passing upon the question of holding the islands permanently. Anti-imperialists are generally acting in accordance with this suggestion. The imperialists are not. They lose no opportunity to give voice to the demand that sovereignty shall be perpetual. The fighting is likely to go on more or less actively till congress meets. Many citizens sustain the forcible suppression of the armed natives, not seeing any other way out of the tangle we have got into, but they do not favor the policy of holding the islands as a colony and undertaking to govern millions of men as subjects.

When it comes to the discussion of the question whether the islands shall be retained, it will be found that the opposition to the scheme is much greater than many persons suppose. There are a number of issues involved in the decision. The laboring classes of the country will not look with favor on the acquisition of regions peopled by very cheap laborers. The cost of the occupation will be an objection to many. The extent of the privilege of emigrating to this country will be a serious problem to those who think we are already getting too many undesirable immigrants. The sugar and tobacco possibilities, coming into competition with our home growers, will cause alarm. The necessity for the continuance of the war taxes, and the various additional outlays made necessary by an imperial policy, will be unpleasant to large numbers. There are other questions that will arise in connection with retention. Then there is the great basic question whether our people desire to overthrow the old national policy and engage in one that implies the denial of independence to distant peoples and the ruling of them as subjects.

The farmers of the country will be apt to look askance at retention. The administration has never clearly stated its purposes, if it has any definitely formed. Vague talk is all that has been vouchsafed. In his Boston speech, however, Secretary Long asserted that there is no intention to deprive the Filipinos of any rights which are enjoyed by the inhabitants of any of our own home territories. If this be sincere, the matter becomes very serious at once. The people of our home territories can enter any state at will, have the privilege of free trade with all the states, and are in the line of admission to statehood. Are these privileges to be given the Filipinos? If so, there will be very strong objections from many quarters.

The question of retention will become an exciting one later on.—Tacoma News.

An Arkansas editor whose wife is a strong woman suffragist has sprung the following upon his readers: "Rockaby baby, your mamma is gone; she's at the caucus and will be there till dawn; she wore papa's trousers, and in them looked queer, so hushaby baby your papa is here. Rockaby baby, your mama's a terror, she's run three conventions, declared for three fellows; she's great on the straddle, way up on a vote, so rockaby baby, your papa's a 'goat.' Rockaby baby, the dishes are clean, papa's done with the scrubbing and put on the beans; your mamma is late, seems always to lag, but heaven help papa if she comes home with a jag."—Ex.

The Lines Forming.

The conference of the Democratic National Committee at St. Louis has put in the front of battle for next year two of the issues of the Journal's Internal Policy. The two are essentially one.

Destruction of criminal trusts.

No protection for oppressive trusts.

"The Democratic party," said Mr. Bryan, "is opposed to the principle of monopoly wherever it manifests itself."

It has declared war on the trusts. Not a little trust only, but a big trust as well. Not against one kind of trust only, but against all trusts.

Champ Clark adopted the Journal's plan of attack. "In my judgment," he declared, "the best way for congress to smash the trusts is to place on the free list all things used or made or sold by the trusts."

"Then let both congress and state legislatures make it a penitentiary offence to form, conduct or be interested in a trust, and these cancerous excrescences will be lopped from the body politic."

The forces are lining up for the first great battle on the issue of American industries by a little group of millionaires. Next year, a contest will test the question whether the trusts can be destroyed or deprived of their power for harm. If the Democracy can win on those lines, all will be well. If it lose, the question may be tested again. But if, after thorough trial, we find that the trusts have outgrown the power of the government to suppress them, the people will have to adopt a new order of battle. They will have to fight for the possession of the trusts and their management in the public interests.

Those conservative thinkers who are alarmed at the thought of such an extension of governmental functions will do well to aid the Democracy in its attempt to restore the old American system of individual enterprise and free competition.—New York Journal.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 2ND, 1899.

More men, more blood, and more money for the Philippines. That is the cheerful outlook. Mr. McKinley has become convinced that Aguinaldo successfully played the role of br'er' fox in his dealings with the blue-coated and red-trousered American civilian commissioners, by staving off active military operations against him until the rainy season, while he was preparing for another campaign in the fall. He has also become convinced that any further delay of the volunteers in the Philippines who wish to come home will be dangerous. Convinced of these two things there was nothing left for him to do except to decide to issue a call for volunteers to go to the Philippines, under authority of the army act of the last congress. He has made that decision, but, in keeping with his usual custom of giving the public an excuse for his every important act, will defer issuing the call for volunteers until he gets a cablegram from Gen. Otis saying that more men are imperatively needed over there. It has been found impossible to get any considerable number of the volunteers now in the Philippines to re-enlist, although each man who does so is given travel pay amounting to about $600.

The Spanish flag is for the first time in more than a year flying in Washington. It flies over the hotel in which the Duke de Arcos, the new Spanish Minister, and his American wife, are guests. The new Minister called on Secretary Hay and presented his credentials and later was presented by Mr. Hay to Mr. McKinley, and diplomatic relations are again established with Spain. The Minister has many personal friends in Washington, which was the home of his wife when he first met her and for many years afterwards.

U. S. commissioner of Patents Duell is making a record as an efficient official. He has the work of the Patent Office in such good shape that Washington's most successful firm of patent lawyers, C. A. Snow & Co., announce that they can procure patents in from four to ten weeks from date of application. They have procured more than 20,000 patents, and it would be impossible to find a city, town or village in the U. S. which has no client of theirs.

Although the negotiations have not been formally broken off there is practically a deadlock over the Alaskan boundary. Months ago it was charged that Great Britain did not wish this dispute settled, and it begins to look as though those who made the charge knew what they were talking about, although it is apparently Canada that has brought about the deadlock in the negotiations.

Since getting the consent of Boss Hanna, the Henderson-Sherman speakership combine have been rushing things so rapidly that they have already apparently got all the other candidates distanced. In the rush the Henderson wing of the combine has taken the lead to such an extent that they are claiming that Henderson is as good as elected, and there appears to be good ground for the claim, but appearances in this sort of a fight are often deceptive. It seems certain, however, that the combine will win, and that either Henderson or Sherman will be speaker.

Republican assistance is being secretly given to the schemers who are working to prevent the renomination of Col. Bryan and the re-adoption of the principles of the Chicago platform by the next democratic national convention by securing more than one-third of the delegates to that convention. The scheme is to get men elected delegates who can be controlled by the schemers, if they are not instructed. The practical result of this scheme is likely to be that many delegates will be instructed, who under ordinary circumstances would not be. The rank and file of the democracy know what they want and also how to get it. Subscriptions to the Dewey Home fund are coming in so slowly that daily statements are no longer issued of the amounts received.

The administration is much worried by the failure of the Cuban soldiers to surrender their arms and accept the $75 per capita sent over there for them. They had supposed that the poor, ragged devils would jump at the chance of getting $75 apiece, more money than probably three-fourths of them ever owned at one time in their lives. They don't know what to make of the refusal, but they fear that it means trouble of some sort, and their fears are likely to be true.

Prosser Pick-ups.

(From The Record.)

Thos. Cooper, of the Northern Pacific land department, was in this city the first of the week. He has been looking over the Sunnyside country.

Hon. Levi Ankney, of Walla Walla, arrived in Prosser, Thursday evening. Mr. Ankney owns valuable property in an about this city and was here for the purpose of looking over the same.

C. S. Wenner of the firm of Moore & Wenner of North Yakima was a Prosser visitor Wednesday. Mr. Wenner says he is well pleased with Prosser and expects to bring a supply of musical instruments to this city in the near future.

The Record office will be closed until next Tuesday. Anyone wishing to pay their subscription or whip the editor will please call on M. L. Weston, as he is authorized to transact all business for the office during the absence of the editor.

Nearly every spring the report goes out that the wheat crop of the state is ruined but as harvest time grows nearer the reports prove to be of little or no truth. The crop in the Horse Heaven country near Prosser will not be as large as it was last year but it will be a good one, and it must be taken into consideration that there is not near as much ground sown to wheat as there was last year, but as far as a failure is concerned it will lack several bushels of being such when the entire crop of the state has been harvested and measured.

School Closes.

The last week has been spent with final examinations and preparations for the closing exercises.

The sermon to the graduates and high school will be preached by Rev. Ira W. Kimmel at the Christian church Sunday a. m., June 11th.

The commencement exercises will be held at Mason's opera house, Monday evening, June 12th, beginning promptly at eight o'clock. The usual graduating parts by the graduates will be given and these interspersed by musical numbers by the best talent in town.

The graduating exercises of the eighth grade will be held the same evening. These will consist of a "Longfellow Reception."

The class of '99 is composed of the following: Myrtle Peck, Nellie Rogers and Ruby Vertner.

The pupils of the 7th, 8th, and high school grades, the teachers in and about Yakima, all patrons and tax payers are invited to attend. It is regretted that more ample facilities will not warrant a more general invitation.

Yakima Farmers at the Fair.

The farmers of Yakima valley should be particularly interested in the fair exhibits this fall. The commission has secured some fine special premiums that ought to be distributed among the people of this county, and will be if the farmers have the best exhibits. Among the prizes to be sought is one of a nice buggy worth $125, offered by the Studebaker Bros. Manufacturing Co., for the farmer making the best exhibit of farm products grown upon his own farm. This is worthy of a trial by every man in this county. Hon. Levi Ankeny gives $50 for the best sugar beets grown in this county and the commission offers regular premiums, which are large, for beets and all kinds of vegetables. This will be an opportunity for the farmers to show Yakima in its best condition to the people of the state and the entire Northwest.

The poultry show will be the finest ever made at the fair, and the people of this county should be well represented in every display. H. H. Collier the well known editor of the Pacific Poultryman has been appointed superintendent of this department and insures a most interesting exhibit from all parts of the state. Good prizes are to be given for all classes of poultry and our people ought to carry away some of the best. Now is the time to prepare for making creditable exhibits. Men are writing to the commission from all parts of the state asking to have space reserved and promise fine displays of everything. Farmers should plant, fertilize and cultivate premium products. Fruit growers should thin out, spray and care for their fruits. Let Yakima be in the lead this fall in carrying away the choicest prizes.

Bryan Men Active.

The talk of organizing a Chicago platform democracy in New York, and sending a contesting delegation to the national convention next year, continues. It is said to be instigated by some of the national leaders. Apparently much of what ever strength such a movement would have comes from disaffection among Tammany men. Croker has turned down a number of the old leaders, and they and their followers are ready for any step that promises revenge. If any important national backing can be secured, so as to give the movement an appearance of regularity, it may be persevered in.

In Ohio the Bryan men are showing a disposition to make a strong fight. In 1896 Bryan polled over 47 per cent of the vote of that state. The factional fight in progress in the republican ranks gives some hope of democratic victory this year. The independent candidacy of Mayor Jones, of Toledo, may be a factor of importance, but it is difficult to say which party he would draw most votes from. He may help or hurt the democratic chance. In any event a lively campaign is certain.—Tacoma News.

Was A Pioneer.

The remains of Mrs. Martha Morgan, which were brought from San Jose this this morning, were buried in the city cemetery this afternoon, Rev. Stevenson conducting the services. Mrs. Morgan was over 85 years of age. She was an Oregon pioneer, coming across the plains, her husband dying either on the way or a while afterwards. She was highly esteemed by the many old residents who knew her.—Albany Or. Democrat.

The deceased was the mother of Jock Morgan a well known resident of this county living near Mabton, who is well supplied with information of pioneer days. When Mr. Morgan with his parents descended the Columbia in 1851 and landed at Portland they found it a town of but three or four houses. Mr. Morgan and two sisters, Mrs. May, of Portland, and Mrs. Gorten, of San Jose, Cal., are left to mourn. Many people in this county will remember the deceased lady, she having visited her son here on numerous occasions.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at Louis O. Janek's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

Protection For Cold Frames—How to Thaw Out a Pot Plant.

It stands to reason that if one can in some way afford protection to the more tender flowering plants, such as are injured by a slight touch of Jack Frost, the beauty of the garden will be enjoyed for a longer period. This may be accomplished by the use of a screen of cheesecloth stretched over and a little above the beds at nighttime when the signs indicate frost. This thin network will effectually prevent the cold from settling, acting in respect to frost as the Davy lamp does to the gases in coal mines. Where the plants are not of any great height this means is very practicable and has been used to much advantage by one grower of violets. His plants are in cold frames, and for convenience of rolling up the cheesecloth during daytime an appliance such as is shown in the cut is used. It is of very simple construction.

While dealing as above with protection from frost a writer in American Gardening has thought it not out of place to consider also how the frost does its injurious work and to draw a lesson therefrom.

In cases of frost bite the usual and most efficacious remedy is rubbing with snow, although at first sight that would seem no remedy at all. In point of fact, however, the heat engendered by the friction brings about a very gradual permeation by warmth of the frozen member, so gradual indeed that the rupture of the frozen tissues which severe friction, unaccompanied by the modifying effect of the cold snow, would inevitably bring about is avoided, and with time and care the member is thawed, circulation is resumed and its functions continue. Now, with plants, this absolute need of extremely slow thawing is often overlooked, and it is highly probable that a very large percentage of the loss incurred by intense frost would be avoided if more attention were paid to this point.

We often notice that after a frost the leaves of even the hardest shrubs are black, as if burned. If we examine one of the shrubs during the frost, we shall find not only it, but the soil also, absolutely frozen, and the circulation of the sap in the roots and branches at a standstill. In the early morning it is probably white with hoar frost, the sun rises, and in a very short space of time a heat many degrees above freezing is beating upon those leaves, the hoar frost melts at once, and as the genial warmth penetrates the tissues a local circulation is set up and transpiration begins. In a very brief space, however, the rest of the plant being frozen, the circulating moisture is exhausted and the leaf dies. A slow, gradual and general rise of temperature, however, instead of a rapid and local one, would thaw the plant all over and thus permit the loss from transpiration to be made up from other parts of the plant.

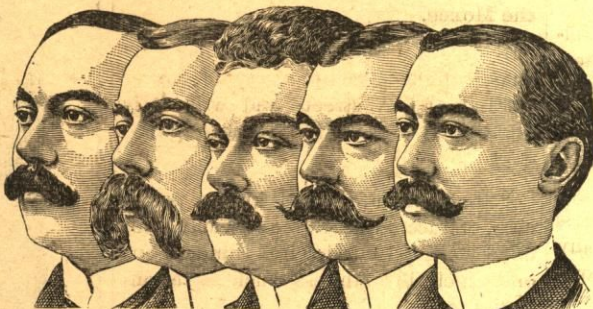

It is probable that the greatest danger exists in thawing the foliage before the roots, for it is quite obvious that if the latter are not in a condition to supply the leaves with moisture when these latter are thawed and demand it collapse must ensue. It is clear, therefore, that frozen pot plants are best thawed by being dipped in cold water a few degrees only above freezing point. This will gradually penetrate and thaw the soil and at the same time prevent the foliage being dried up in the way above indicated.

Summer Politics.

As warm weather comes on apace and the time in which to incubate booms grows visibly less, growing activity among the leading lights of the G. O. P. in this county becomes easily discernable. This is manifested in many ways. The man with a bee in his bonnet is somewhat akin to the man in love—for naturally he goes courting. The politician suddenly becomes enamored of all men whom he has reason to think may be of use to him in realizing his ambition. The result leads to private interviews with all the accompaniments which includes cigars and perhaps a few sips out of a hidden bottle. The political situation is canvassed and the chances of winning next time discussed.

Then Smith very carefully feels Jones' pulse to discover if he has any ambition; if satisfied that Jones has none that conflicts with his, gradually unbosoms himself. He may want to be governor or to go to congress; possibly he may want to be attorney general of the state, which he regards as a stepping stone to something higher.

Smith and Jones talk the matter over. The ambitions of other men in the push are freely discussed. A mutual friend is perhaps called in and asked for his advice after the situation has been gone over again in all its aspects. The black bottle is again brought forth and more inspiration imbibed. The interview finally ends and Jones feels slightly discomfited; he has learned that Brown or Johnson wants the same thing that he does. After this he is apt to lay awake nights studying a plan how to circumvent them. He reflects that Yakima is but a small county when weighed in the scales of a state convention and accordingly has but little chance to secure more than one place on a state ticket. But this is not all that worries him. He realizes that his party in this county has for years been seriously embarrassed by a multiplicity of great men.

Smith attempts to count them over on his fingers but he soon gets lost on account of a lack of fingers. Then he names over the leading lights—only those whom he knows are anxious to serve the dear people. The names of Jones, Whitson, Howlett, Englehart, Parker, Cannon, Hare, Lesh, Walker, Rudkin, Barge, Guthrie and after them a host of lesser lights flit across his mental vision and then the weary candidate drops to sleep and dreams of an army that contained within its ranks more colonels than privates.
