Lost in El Paso Wreck.

Dr. C. E. White the dentist of this city, received early this week positive confirmation of the fact that his aged father Judge C. W. White of Manitowoc, Wis., had lost his life in a passenger train wreck on the Southern Pacific road near El Paso, Texas March 7th. The first intimation that Dr. White received that his father was an ill-fated passenger on the wrecked train was when his attention was called by a friend to the list of the dead as it appeared in the published reports. He immediately sent out a number of telegrams to ascertain the truth and the replies received both from railroad officials in Texas and relatives at Manitowoc, confirmed the truth of the sad news. The dispatches from Texas stated that there was no question about the identity of Judge White and that the remains, with those of other unfortunates, had been consumed by fire, the total number of casualties being 13.

The deceased was 76 years of age, an attorney by profession and a gentleman of means. He was on his way to North Yakima to visit his son here and had written that he would be prepared to make some investments in Yakima realty. It had been his intention to stop off in Arizona in order to visit two grandsons who have located in that territory. Dr. White has the sympathy of a host of friends by reason of his bereavement.

Title to Disputed Tract.

I. M. Krutz on Wednesday received the following telegram from James B. Kerr attorney for the land department of the N. P. Ry. Co., relative to the title of the "disputed" McCrimmon tract in this city:

"Have just returned from Washington where after conference with Judge Rudkin and Congressman Jones, papers were personally presented to the commissioner of the general land office in matter of application for patenting disputed tract to railway company."

From the above it is evident that reasonably speedy action may now be anticipated in the settlement of this vexed and long standing dispute. Now that both Mr. McCrimmon and the city of North Yakima have withdrawn all claim to the land there is little reason to doubt that the company will secure its patent, thus guaranteeing the title of a large number of innocent purchasers.

A Big Land Deal.

M. N. Knuppenberg formerly of this city but now of Spokane, as the representative of several capitalists of the Falls city, is said to have purchased last week from the N. P. Ry. Co. 60 sections of land situated in the southeastern part of this county and bordering on the Columbia river. The price paid is believed to have been about $1.10 per acre. There is said to be a considerable quantity of good land included in the purchase located below the level of the route originally selected for the old Leadbetter ditch.

Pasco Has Her Troubles Too.

At the regular session of the city council Tuesday evening, Ainsworth Sylvester was appointed to fill the office vacated by Councilman Bradshaw in order that he might accept the office of city marshal. Since the previous meeting Mr. Bradshaw has disposed of his Pasco property and with the intention of moving away, tendered his resignation as marshal at the regular session this week. Since the new council have taken hold of the reins of our city government strange things have happened among which an increase of salary for the marshal's office. The office now pays $15 a month and on account of this fat plum, which by the way is about the only one in the gift of the council, the other being already filled, they were deluged with a flood of applications, numbering about a half dozen. This caused considerable embarrassment on the part of the council as each aspirant was past 21 years of age and controlled at least one vote each. At last, however, a happy thought struck them and they decided to invest the mayor with power to appoint. As the new mayor has been kept busy revoking saloon license of others and taking charge of the business himself, he couldn't see it that way, so the office was left vacant until the next meeting by which time it is hoped some plan may be formed to let the remainder down without their being offended. The action, undoubtedly, was taken hastily before adjournment and no thought given to the next shower of applications that might overtake them when the council chamber is again opened.—Pasco News.

Examination of Officers.

Adj. Gen'l. Drain and Col. Geo. B. Lamping of the National Guard, arrived Wednesday and in connection with Asst. Regimental Surgeon Dulin conducted the examination that day at the armory for promotions in Co. C. The officers examined were Lieut. Liggett and Sergeants Tnesley and Wimer. While it will be some time before the results of the examination will be made known there is little doubt but that Lieut. Liggett will receive promotion to the vacant captaincy and that the two sergeants named will be advanced to the rank of first and second lieutenant respectively.

Church Notices.

Rev. W. S. Crockett, who has resigned as pastor of the Christian church of this city, will remove his family to Olympia in a few days where he will take charge of the church at that place. He succeeds Rev. McCallum at Olympia. Rev. McCallum succeeds Rev. Rose at Eugene Or. and the latter gentleman succeeds Rev. Eshelman at Tacoma. Mr. Eshelman has entered the field as an evangelist.

Rev. W. S. Crockett, who concluded a series of meetings at Selah school house Monday night, was presented with a well filled purse at the conclusion of the service by the spokesman of the congregation.

Brattain-Janeck Nuptials.

The marriage of James B. Brattain and Miss Bessie Janeck occurred at the residence of L. O. Janeck in this city at 8:30 Monday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. R. B. Hassell formerly of this city, but now of Everett. The happy couple left the following morning for their future home in Everett. The bride's mother accompanied them and will make her home with them in that city.

Recruits For the Navy.

Lieut. Morton of the U. S. navy and staff who were here Thursday and Friday of last week securing recruits had better success than had been anticipated. They secured six young men here namely: Charles Foster, Fitzhugh Bradford, Ernest Sample, George Jackson and Hugh Sanders. The first two are under 18 years of age and will therefore serve as apprentices. The others have enlisted for the full term of four years. The boys are instructed to report within 30 days at the Bremerton navy yard where they will be put through the first steps on the receiving ship.

How Prosser Grows.

A. G. McNeil, who was in the city the first of the week from Prosser, stated that that town and the country adjacent on all sides is now making wonderful strides in development. Home-seekers have been so numerous there lately that one night last week 25 men were unable to find beds in the town. Work was commenced last Monday by Contractor Bruenn on the new bank building. Coffin Bros. will erect a handsome store building and have contracted with a firm to make the brick on the ground. The Washington Irrigation Co., Mr. McNeil said, will open a branch office there next week as they recognize that Prosser is the most convenient point from which to handle the new lands which is being put on the market.

"The Pride of Jennico".

In "The Pride of Jennico", which will be given here on March 17th, a most striking situation occurs at the end of the third act. The hero, Basil Jennico, has been separated from his wife by a misunderstanding, and meets her for the first time afterwards in an old inn. He pleads with her and asks for reassurance reaffirming his love in eloquent terms. She stands in evident terror and dares not utter a word. This is explained by the fact that the villain has posted his cutthroats without and has threatened the wife with the death of her husband if she recognizes him. As she stands irresolutely the villain comes upon the scene—"Do you know this gentleman?" he thunders in threatening tones, and as the cutthroats appear in threatening attitudes, she falters, and half fainting, answers, "No." The villain leads her off and the hero is dumfounded. No sooner has the villain gone than Jennico learns the truth and rushes in pursuit, cutting his way to right and left through the men who oppose him. As the hirelings fall the hero calls out, "So much for the men, now for the master," and rushes off amid the prolonged applause of the audience.

Shakespeare's Best Comedy.

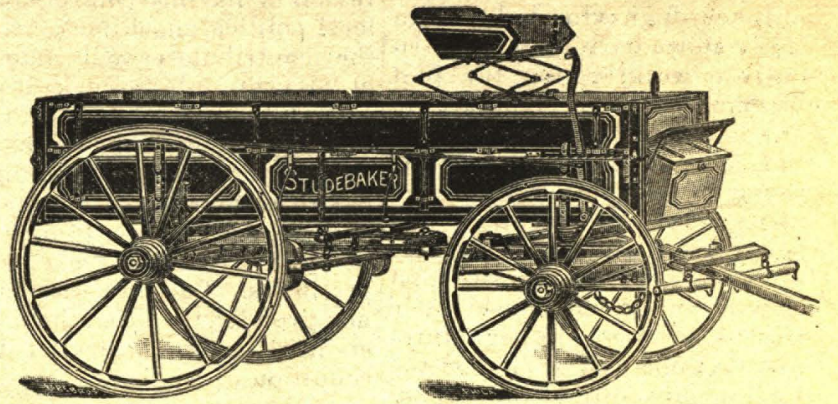

Since the first performance of Shakespeare "The Taming of the Shrew" which occurred during the latter part of the 16th century, down to the present day, the comedy has ranked as the best example of the immortal Bard's lighter plays. The action begins at the rising of the curtain and continues on interruptedly to the close of the final act, introducing wholesome and pleasing comedy to which the most exacting critic could not object. To those who have read "The Taming of the Shrew" the coming revival at Larson's theater on March 25th will be a welcome announcement. Mr. Chas. B. Hanford, one of the most accomplished of Shakespearean artists will be seen as Petruchio and Miss Helen Grantly, a young and handsome English actress, as Katherine. The rest of the company includes a number of well known ladies and gentlemen who have won their spurs in Shakespearean comedy. The following are included in the cast: Marie Drefnah, Emma Hayner, William J. Shea, Irving Knight, P. A. Nannary, Harold Fiske, Paul Anderson, R. O. Meech, L. F. Browning and John C. Davis.

R. Jones who returned here some time ago after doing time at McNeil's island, was caught by Marshal Grant Tuesday playing his old occupation of "bootlegging." A young man by the name of McGinnis was arrested also as an accomplice but at the examination before Commissioner Hough Wednesday the latter was discharged, while Jones was bound over. The latter is the man that Deputy Lum had serious trouble with in the county jail two years ago.

Frederick G. Marvin private secretary of Senator Geo. Turner, was in the city Wednesday having accompanied the senator from Washington arriving at Spokane Saturday night. Mr. Marvin is an ex-newspaperman and made the Democrat a friendly call while here. He is much pleased with Washington life. He went from here to the Sound Thursday where he expected to join the senator. The latter gentleman sent his regrets at not being able to come to Yakima during his present hurried visit to the state.

According to the Ellensburg papers, a company has recently been organized in that town under the name of the Cascade Canal Co. for the purpose of building a ditch that is designed to cover about 20,000 acres of land in the Kittitas valley. The intake of the new ditch will be in the vicinity of the town of CleElum and will follow pretty closely the line of survey of the old "middle" ditch scheme, which never materialized. About 6 miles north of the "burg" the flow of water will be divided, a portion being conducted across the Yakima river in a flume and carried down on the west side where 6000 acres can be irrigated. The proposition to build the "high line" canal seems to have fallen through.

THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

CERTAIN gentlemen, who are heavily interested in the welfare of the wool growing industry in this county, have been industriously at work during the past week in securing signatures to a remonstrance by members of the Commercial club against the action of that body recently taken declaring against further grazing on the Ranier forest reserve. It is reported that they have met with considerable success in securing signatures and that one half or more of the total membership of the organization have thus put themselves on record as being opposed to the spirit of the Fechter resolution which was ratified at a general meeting of the club and was published in this paper last week.

From the standpoint of justice and sound public policy it is a matter of regret that such a considerable portion of the membership of the club should see fit, as individuals, to take such action. The remonstrance can only have the effect of complicating the issue and perhaps of creating more or less of ill-feeling at a time when unnecessary friction in the settlement of this vexed question ought to be avoided. The majority of such signers had been given the opportunity to express their views on the grazing question both by voice and vote at the open meeting of the club. Having neglected to exercise that privilege it seems to us that it is hardly fair that they should take this method of repudiating the action regularly taken by the organization.

In the treatment of this question the DEMOCRAT has desired to be fair to all men and all interests concerned. Some of the sheep owners and their friends seem to think that this paper has in it for them and habitually raise the point that the DEMOCRAT is endeavoring to make political capital out of the matter. We have repeatedly explained that this statement has no foundation in fact, but these gentlemen continue to reiterate it, doubtless realizing that they are on the wrong side of the controversy and have no other argument that they can bring to bear. By this means they seek to throw dust in the eyes of the people and endeavor to obscure the real points at issue in which our people, regardless of party affiliations, are alike interested.

While it is true that the DEMOCRAT in national and state politics is and aims to be partisan to a reasonable degree, it nevertheless reserves the right at all times to express opinions of its own. When it comes to local affairs, this paper advocates what it believes is for the best interests of the people it serves regardless of partisanship. It wears the collar of no man, of no corporation and of no aggregation of selfish interests local or otherwise. It does not desire to wage war upon any local industry and would not do so if it could avoid such a course and continue to do its duty to the public.

The trouble with the Yakima Woolgrowers association is that it refuses to consider anybody's interests but its own and that of its members. A cloud of competent and reputable witnesses appear to testify that sheep grazing in the forest reserve is unquestionably injurious to the watershed of this valley and that the effect of it is naturally, year by year, gradually reducing the flow of water in the streams that are depended upon to irrigate the farms of this section. Yet all this evidence does not influence the average sheep owner or to induce him to withdraw or even to moderate his demands. He insists upon having his pound of flesh just the same, even though all other interests are compelled to pay the penalty.

It is this spirit of selfishness, persisted in for years, that has at last raised such an angry storm of protest among the farmers. They look about them and see that little or no attention is being paid to their interests. They see that the woolgrowers are able to get pretty much whatever they ask for at Washington and that their own petitions, in which they merely ask for justice, are quietly pigeonholed. They see that the sheep owners, few in number, are enabled to accomplish so much by reason of having control of the local political machine to which they contribute a goodly amount of tallow in order to make it run smoothly. The farmers see that they contribute nine-tenths of the prosperity of the community, pay three-fourths of the taxes and yet are unable to receive justice to say nothing of special privileges. Can any reasonable man wonder then that the farmers have grown weary of this condition of affairs?

THE Hansbrough national irrigation bill passed the senate last Saturday without division. The bill provides for the appropriation of the money derived from the sale of government lands in such states as have arid lands. The money thus derived goes to create a fund for the redemption of arid lands as the secretary of the interior may direct. There was no serious opposition to the passage of the measure in the senate, but the bill has struck a snag in the person of Speaker Henderson in the house. That functionary has declared emphatically that no such a measure shall pass the house as long as he is speaker. There is no doubt that Henderson is in a position to make his word good for under the autocratic and despotic Reed rules Henderson is the whole team and the yellow dog under the wagon so far as legislation in the house is concerned. This man represents an unimportant agricultural district in the state of Iowa and he is opposed to the policy of national irrigation because some narrow minded old farmers in his district think that the development of the arid west would hurt their industry of raising corn and feeding it to hogs. The country has grown sick of this arbitrary assumption of power on the part of the speaker and it is very likely to adopt this year the surest method of destroying it and that will be through electing a democratic majority in the next house.

EX-SPEAKER TOM REED, according to recent reports, is to be groomed by Wall Street as a prospective candidate for the republican presidential nomination in 1904. The magnates, it is said, are not taking kindly to Roosevelt's newly announced policy of interference with the trusts, especially in the merger case, hence have been looking around for an available man in sympathy with them to pit against him. Tom Reed with Wall Street at his back and Teddy with the federal brigade behind him, ought to make things interesting in the "grand old party" two years hence.

It is beginning to be bruited about that Ex-Senator Dan Lesh is to be the captain of the McBride-Preston forces in this county. Whether this be a fact or not it is evident that Mr. Lesh has the ear of the new governor and is to be consulted regarding state appointment in which this county may be interested. Taken all in all Mr. Lesh is probably the most suitable man that the governor could select to represent his political interests in Yakima county. However, it is not likely that his excellency will receive much comfort from Yakima at convention time.

ROOSEVELT will realize in the course of time that the matter of the Schley appeal will not be dismissed as he suggests should be done. It is not a ghost that will down at his bidding. The appeal is now up to the people, and their decision, when untrammelled and the subject submitted to them is thoroughly understood, has never been known to be at variance with justice. They will, in the course of time, find some way for rendering a verdict that will be placed on record upon the nation's achieves as it is now on the hearts of the people.—Olympia Standard.

HOMESEEKERS from the east are now pouring into this state by the thousands and it is doubtful if Yakima county is receiving the quota to which we are justly entitled. Spokane is making tremendous efforts to induce as many of them as possible to tarry in that neighborhood, and rumor says that the boomers of that town are advising the newcomers to stay away from this section. The Commercial club would do well to investigate this matter.

THE s'teemed Herald assures its readers that "Medill never did agree with Webster and that he has a happy way of framing sentences to suit himself." All of which may be very true. Still we wobble along very comfortably and without the necessity of keeping a bouncer to settle with the people who want to lick the editor. Neither do we conduct a department for blind people in which to record "what people say"—when they are asleep.

THE editor of the Republic squeals loudly because the DEMOCRAT saw fit to put he and a few other politicians on record on the sheep grazing question. "Whom the gods would destroy they first made mad", and the colonel appears to be very wrathful, indeed. Last week he threw up the sponge. This week he is full of fight again. It may be that somebody has revived his drooping spirits by the donation of a quantity of tallow in the interim.

THE cattle owners by evincing a willingness to have their own stock shut out of the reserve, if the same rule shall apply to sheep, show a patriotic and liberal spirit in the matter that others interested might do well to emulate. This too in the face of the fact that cattle grazing in the reserve is not believed to be harmful to the preservation of the watershed by anybody whose opinion is of any value.

THERE is no significance in the fact that a large percentage of the membership of the Commercial club have signed a remonstrance against the action of that organization in passing the Fechter resolution. The average man, especially if he be engaged in business, is very apt to sign most anything that is passed up to him. It has been aptly said that men will sign a petition to hang themselves in this western country.

THE wireless telephone is the newest thing out. The signal corps of the U. S. army stationed at Governor's Island, has been experimenting on this line and the N. Y. World announces that by the use of the instruments devised for the purpose, the ordinary human voice has been heard clearly at a distance of 480 feet. The apparatus is quite similar to that used in wireless telegraphy.

SENATOR TURNER is without question the best equipped man mentally who has ever represented this state in either branch of congress. We say this without desiring to detract from or to make odious comparison with any other statesman. The intellect and personality of Turner has given Washington more prestige and influence in the national senate than the state ever enjoyed before.

DEATH loves a shining mark. This week the grim reaper gathered in Ex-Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, one of the brainiest men of the nation. In spite of the vilification that he endured in life and the misrepresentation of his principles and record after death, the name of Altgeld will live long in the minds of men who love the principles of human liberty.

On Being a Gentleman.

Man's chief business is to be a gentleman. The chief purpose of being a man is not that business may be successfully carried on for the sake of business. Trade and profession and mercantile pursuits are trolleys, not car sheds. They carry to a destination, but are not the end of life. The business of a gentleman is a crutch, not an armchair. It is the groove in which his activities run, not the goal toward which his every effort leads. The purpose of school and church and government is to make gentlemen. That the purpose is unattained in many instances only speaks the inadequacy or the unwillingness of the raw material. A silk purse can scarcely be constructed from the lining of a porcine ear. It requires years to make a citizen from a savage. Nor is the citizen the flower of civilization. The individual who merely votes and pays taxes and occasionally runs for office performs all the duties of citizenship. He may do all this and not be a gentleman, the climax of the endeavor of civilization.—Sumner Herald.

Dubois a Democrat.

Fred T. Dubois, United States senator from Idaho, has written a letter to the Spokesman-Review in which he denies the report recently printed in a Boise paper to the effect that he contemplates returning to the republican party. Senator Dubois says he is a democrat, and that he intends remaining one. His letter reads as follows:

"When I left the republican party it had ceased to be a representative of the people, and had become the willing and subservient agent of corporate greed and wealth. It has become worse since 1896. I am not in agreement with the republican party in any of its policies. I entirely agree with the principles of the national democratic party as promulgated at Chicago and Kansas City.

"Senators Teller, Pettigrew, Cannon, Dubois, and Congressmen Hartman and Shafroth were the republican senators and representatives who left the republican party in 1896, and none of them have gone back. They are all democrats. The republican press throughout the United States has malignantly determined by misrepresentation, to create the impression that all of these gentlemen have returned to the support of the principles which they then repudiated. None of these gentlemen ever can or will support the principles of the republican party. Everyone of them stands squarely for the enunciation of principles as set forth in the Chicago and Kansas City platforms of the national democratic party. The fight may be a long one for we are opposed by the aggregate wealth of the country, but be that as it may, there will be no turning back, no matter how severe the contest."

Airships May Revolutionize War Methods.

The fact that M. Santos Dumont recently sailed his airship over Paris, under perfect control, both with and against the wind, does not argue that the problem of aerial navigation has been solved, for it was an extremely mild day. In any kind of a strong gale the big cigar-shaped balloon would be helpless.

However, the fact that Dumont was able to steer his machine to any given point at will, on a still day, suggests the awful possibilities of such a machine in time of war. Suppose it carried a charge of dynamite or other high explosive, and hovered over the enemy's country in the dark of night, seeing but unseen. A few shells dropped into the heart of the city, into the midst of a fort would work consternation to the enemy, for nothing is so hard to combat as an unseen foe. Even if it was observed in daytime it would be practically out of danger at a height of two or three miles. Moreover, a projectile can be delivered with more accuracy by a verticle drop than in any other manner. If a "flock" of airships similar to Dumont's was hovering over a fleet of battleships and dropped a few high explosives on their decks, it would soon have the entire squadron out of business, and at the same time be free from retaliatory attack from the vessels or forts.—Ex.

If the press reports regarding President Roosevelt and family in their private life are true, and we have not seen them contradicted, the president is quietly administering a strong rebuke to official aristocracy, something so despicable to every person possessing true manhood. The president is recognizing and encouraging citizenship by sending his children to the public schools where they would meet other children on common ground and become imbued with true democracy. Then the family in moving to Washington have continued their former church connections and their former home life as much as it is possible in such a public position. Now contrast this with some of the ill advised snobbery set forth in the world in the action of some of the families of our state officials in Olympia. It is not many years ago when a man elected governor of this great state who was living an humble and respected life, but in the announcement of the election there came a change, the daughters were sent to a dancing master to prepare for the transition to their new position, later, church connections were overlooked "society" with progressive eunuch substituted, and so it has been with so many who have come to Olympia to assume official positions, allowing themselves to lose their heads by a little brief elevation to office. This nonsense has even reached the supreme court of the state and some of its members, with one foot in the grave, since taking up their residence in the Capital city have had to undergo the training of the dancing master and the application of lubricants to their aged and stiffened joints because the "society" of the world be four hundred deemed it necessary. With what greater respect and esteem is our president regarded who has not allowed the highest office in the land to turn his head but is acknowledged throughout the land as our much loved citizen-president.—Olympia Capital.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by W. E. Ayres.

Judge Rudkin To Resign.

There is a well grounded rumor afloat that Frank Rudkin judge of the superior court of this judicial district, is soon to resign. Judge Rudkin is now in the east, having left for New York about three weeks ago in company with Frank A. Dudley who was formerly connected with the old irrigation company at Kennewick. It is said that through the medium of Mr. Dudley, Judge Rudkin has been offered and has finally concluded to accept an offer to become the attorney for a New York syndicate for an annual salary that would require five figures to express.

His honor is expected back next week but it is not believed that he will make a formal tender of his resignation to Gov. McBride until after the next term of court. The governor, of course, will have the appointment of a successor to the present incumbent.

It is understood that Austin Mires the Ellensburg lawyer, is an active candidate and that his friends have already circulated a petition in his behalf among members of the bar which has been very generally signed.
