THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

Delegation to Denver Instructed for Bryan—Would Submit Liquor Question to Vote of the People.

Twenty-two out of the twenty-eight accredited delegates from Yakima county to the democratic state convention at Spokane responded in person last Monday, the remaining six delegates being unable to attend, were represented by proxy. Those in attendance were T. G. Redfield, W. A. Cox, W. H. Marble, L. C. Parrish, John Michels, Alex. Carlson, Joe Metzger, J. M. Edwards, Floyd Hatfield, W. A. Erwin, W. H. Moyer, David Longmire, Geo. F. McAulay, R. A. O'Brien, Frank Garrett, L. Talbott, N. J. Shanks, L. B. McWhorter, G. Sherwood, J. E. Ryan, S. E. Farris and J. D. Medill.

A majority of the delegates went over on the Tacoma special leaving here at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Messrs. Redfield, Ferris and Cox, arrived in Spokane the day previous.

The delegation was organized by the election of a steering committee composed of W. H. Moyer, W. A. Erwin and Floyd Hatfield. W. A. Cox was made chairman of the delegation, G. F. McAulay was appointed a member of the committee on resolutions, W. H. Moyer on credentials and F. A. Hatfield on rules and organization.

The state central committee named Hon. George Turner for temporary chairman and the temporary organization was subsequently made permanent.

Judge Turner's opening speech was a good one, although he clearly got off on the wrong foot on the liquor issue, advising the convention to adopt a "personal liberty" plank, a thing that the convention later refused to do by the emphatic vote of about 3 to 1. Chairman Turner hailed Bryan as the next president of the United States and said that it was clearly the duty of the convention to instruct for the great Nebraska. He believed that Bryan could carry the state of Washington in this campaign, as he did 12 years ago and urged that every effort be made by democrats to that end. Judge Turner also eulogized President Roosevelt and his work. The speaker was frequently interrupted with great bursts of applause, especially when he referred to W. J. Bryan.

After the appointment of the usual committees the convention took a recess until 1:30 p. m. On reassembling the convention was entertained for nearly two hours with a feast of oratory by state speakers. A notable address was made on this occasion by Wm. Goodyear of Colfax, prominently mentioned as a candidate for congress from the third district. Mr. Goodyear's address was a good one, full of meat, and was well received.

The state convention was then temporarily adjourned to enable the three congressional district conventions to meet and elect their delegates to the national convention. On reassembling the state convention accepted the reports of the committees on credentials and rules and organization. There were no contests for seats to be settled. The committee on rules and organization reported in favor of making the temporary organization permanent, in favor of electing 20 delegates to Denver instead of 10, each delegate to cast one-half vote, also in favor of electing the national committeeman and chairman of the state committee in open convention.

The first contest was in the selection of a national committeeman. The two able contestants for that honor were Charles G. Heifner of Seattle and W. H. Dumphy of Walla Walla. It was clear in advance, at least to the insiders, what the result would be, for Dumphy was supported by the hard and fast combination between the counties of the second and third congressional districts, while Heifner had only the support of the first district, which was dominated by King county. The election was preceded by considerable fervid oratory, the most notable speeches being made by Judge Ronald and Mr. Heifner of Seattle. The latter gentleman, who is often referred to as the "silver tongued" orator, made a ringing speech in the course of which he declared: "Take off your combinations and turn me loose with Bill Dumphy."

Had the fight been an equal one there was but little doubt Heifner would have won, as he had a host of warm friends and admirers among the delegates of the opposing combination, but who were powerless to aid him on account of being tied up to the majority by reason of the unit rule, or by the action of county steering committees. There was tremendous excitement in the convention over the adoption of the report of the committee on rules and the selection of national committeeman, although at the last moment the name of Mr. Heifner was withdrawn by King county and the election of Mr. Dumphy was made practically unanimous. The convention then adjourned to 7:30 p. m. to await the report of the committee on resolutions.

At the hour named the convention reassembled and the session was a most stormy and excitable one until its close about midnight. The first question taken up was the election of the eight delegates at large to the national convention.

King county had come to the convention asking for four of the eight delegates at large, having conceded the election of the four district delegates to the other counties of the first congressional district. The four candidates from King were C. G. Heifner, Judge McDonald, Judge Alfred Battle and Isaac Calhoun. The big combine that

BURIED FLOATER WITHOUT PERMIT

O. H. Jaeger Discovers Body of Man
Floating in Columbia and Buried it on His Own Responsibility.

It is a little out of the ordinary for anyone to bury a dead body discovered by them without notifying the county authorities, whose business it is to investigate the probable causes which resulted in death. There may be cases, however, as there are exceptions to all rules, that should be dealt with quickly, and in which it is unnecessary to put the county to the expense of an investigation.

Last Saturday the body of a man was discovered floating in the Columbia river about nine miles below Priest Rapids. The body was discovered by O. H. Jaeger, a resident of the Columbia river country. Mr. Jaeger secured a boat and brought the body to the nearest bank. The deceased was dressed in workmen's clothes. On his body was a registration receipt showing that he had formerly lived in Chicago, and the name of John Haydn appeared in the receipt, which is supposed to be the name of the man.

Mr. Jaeger was in the city Tuesday of this week. He called at The Democrat office and gave the above information. He said the dead man was about 35 years of age, that his body was badly decomposed and had been in the water fully three weeks.

"What did you do with the body," asked a Democrat representative.

"Well, I made a crude wooden box, placed the body in the box, and then dug a hole and buried it on the banks of the Columbia. I had obtained all the information that any one could have found, and I didn't want to leave the body on the banks of the river to be devoured by the coyotes, while I came here to notify the coroner. Of course, I understand that such procedure is not customary, but I think under the circumstances that my action was justifiable."

Mr. Jaeger is of the further opinion that the man had worked on the bridge of the Milwaukee railroad above Priest Rapids. There were no signs of violence on the body and he draws the conclusion that the man either met his death by accident or was a suicide.

When Mr. Jaeger left The Democrat office he said that he was going to notify Coroner Frank and make known to him what he had done.

FRANCIS WILSON

Nonpareil Comedian Appears Here on Friday Night, May 29.

The theatre goers of the city and valley should by all means take advantage of an opportunity to be presented to them on Friday night, the 29th, and go to see "When Knights Were Bold," a comedy in three acts, played by the inimitable Francis Wilson, formerly of comic opera fame.

Throughout the length and breadth of this entire country Francis Wilson has been hailed as the greatest comedian of the age. His is the refined and cultured humor which appeals to the finer sensibilities of the pleasure-loving Americans. Few cities the size of North Yakima have been given the opportunity of seeing this show, and Mr. John Cort deserves the thanks of the community for securing the entertainment in his local playhouse.

James McArthur, formerly connected with the Schott Dry Goods firm, of this city, but of late months holding down a responsible position in a dry goods store at Boise, Idaho, has returned here, and is now a member of the firm of the Schott Suit House. Mr. McArthur has a host of friends in this city who will be glad to know that he is once more a full fledged Yakima man.

Mrs. W. A. Cox, accompanied her husband to Spokane Saturday, where she visited with her sister, Mrs. Frank Hunter.

CITY OF RITZVILLE BEARS DISTINCTION

Only Town in United States Which is so Completely Closed on Sunday—Can't Even Buy a Meal Ticket.

A remarkable state of affairs exists in the enterprising little city of Ritzville, Wash. Situated as it is in the heart of the Big Bend wheat district, the county seat of Adams county, enjoys a distinction probably unheard of or unknown in any other city of this entire country.

At the present time it is impossible to buy a single thing in Ritzville on Sunday except a meal, and they say it is hard to get a meal at any old price, unless it can be shown that the person requesting such service is absolutely in need of sustenance. It is impossible to buy a newspaper, a stick of candy, or a glass of soda water. The town is closed on Sunday as tight as a drum. This story may sound like a mid-winter nightmare, but it is a fact, nevertheless, and the indications are that such a condition will continue for some time, at least until the harvesting season opens.

W. A. Erwin spent the day at Ritzville last Tuesday, with the family of Henry Bauer Jr., who is one of the big wheat growers in that county. He was taken out in the wheat belt and shown what magnificent farms the Adams county wheat grower can boast of. Most of the farmers are wealthy. They seem to take great pride in keeping up appearances about the farm, and nearly all the farmers have beautiful homes, residences that cost in the neighborhood of $5,000 or $6,000.

Mr. Erwin stopped over in Ritzville on his way home from the democratic convention for the purpose of distributing a few Jack Splawn badges in that vicinity and learning, if possible, the sentiment of the Adams county people on the question of a candidate for governor. He had no trouble in finding ready wearers of Splawn badges, and he discovered further that Jack is pretty well thought of in that locality.

Mr. Bauer talked freely about the political situation in his vicinity and said among other things that the farmers of the Big Bend country were almost unanimous in demanding a change of state government in the interests of those who favor a more economical administration.

"We believe that no party should remain in power for an indefinite period," said Mr. Bauer, "and I think that the majority of my neighbors are of the opinion that taxes have been pretty high of late, and so far as I am concerned I would like to see a change. As for your man Splawn, I can say that we have all heard about Jack, and many of us know him personally. It is safe to say that he will surely poll a big vote in our county."

In talking about the situation in Ritzville on the closed town proposition Mr. Bauer said that it was caused by the saloon men.

"The anti-saloon element here demanded that the authorities close the saloons on Sunday in accordance with the law, and the saloon men retaliated by putting the lid down on everything. Even the drug stores are closed, and you can not even get a meal ticket in town on Sunday," concluded Mr. Bauer.

TO SEE THE FLEET.

North Yakima People Visit Seattle in Large Herds.

Since Thursday there has been a constant stream of people pouring out of this city bound for Seattle. They are all going over to see the battleship fleet which arrives in the harbor of the "Queen City" at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

It is estimated that fully 300 Yakimans are now on the Sound. A great many country people have also gone over, and those who found it impossible to leave at this time for Seattle expect to take in the festivities at Tacoma next week.

NOW FOR GOOD ROADS

Yakima County Good Roads Association Formally Organized and Ready for Business—Every Citizen Should Help.

The Good Roads committee consisting of fifteen members, appointed at the general meeting held at the Commercial club some three weeks ago, met at the club rooms and organized under the name of the Yakima Good Roads association last Thursday evening.

W. L. Steinweg was elected president, Dr. A. H. Henry vice president, H. P. James secretary and Frank Horsley treasurer.

An executive committee consisting of Messrs. Weed, Noble and Lancaster was appointed. The duties of this committee are to keep in touch with the board of county commissioners in regard to public road work now in progress and to suggest general repair work.

A committee on publicity was appointed consisting of Messrs. Janek, Medill and Mitchell. The duties of this committee is to collect and distribute Good Roads literature and to have charge of a general campaign of education on the subject throughout the county.

A motion was passed as being the sense of the meeting that Yakima county should invest the sum of $25,000 in a complete rock crushing plant to be located either at Selah or Union gaps, according to the urgent recommendations made by President Hill and Samuel Lancaster of the Washington State Good Roads association. This plan is to have the county purchase the necessary machinery and install the same preparatory to having the state take over the same and operate it with convict labor to prepare the necessary material for scientific road making and deliver the crushed rock to the county at cost. By this plan the state would reimburse the county for its outlay.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one and it was resolved to agitate the movement for good, hard roads for Yakima county from this time forth until such a time at least as a number of trunk line roads have been built.

The association asks for the co-operation of all the people in the great work undertaken. It is a matter that certainly should interest every citizen whether he be a taxpayer or not.

Certain it is that the Yakima valley is in sore need of better roads. It is already becoming thickly settled and as a consequence the roads are used more than formerly in wagon traffic, so that as a natural result they need more care.

The Good Roads association is of the belief that this section has now reached that point when it should commence the construction of permanent roads and quit the policy of spending large sums of county money annually in merely patching the roads, a system that requires repeating every year and gives the people no permanent results.

Let every citizen put his shoulder to the wheel and do what he can to aid the movement for Good Roads for Yakima County.

The association adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Capt. Dunn Dead.

Captain Robert Dunn, a well known pioneer of Yakima county residing at Parker, died suddenly at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at his home from heart trouble. Capt. Dunn had been ill for several weeks, but was not thought to be in any immediate danger when the final summons came. At the time this paper went to press definite arrangements had not yet been announced for the funeral.

Deceased was one of the most widely known and respected pioneers of the county. He was postmaster at North Yakima during the Harrison administration and in 1902 was elected to the legislature from this county. He was an honest, honorable man in whom his neighbors and the public generally had confidence. Deceased leaves a widow, two sons and four daughters to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.

Later.—The funeral of Capt. Dunn will be held under G. A. R. auspices at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A. L. Slemmons, formerly of this city, but now of Ellensburg, was elected a delegate to the Denver convention by the democratic state convention at Spokane Monday. A number of old friends on the Yakima delegation were glad to lend their aid to Mr. Slemmons in his campaign at the convention.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., May 20.—There has been a surprising amount of Johnson talk in Washington and wherever he has gone the Minnesota governor has been the center of a group of politicians since he came here to attend the national resources convention. It is even rumored that there is a movement on foot among the governors to start a sort of gubernatorial Johnson movement, to have the whole thing carefully organized and then, at what they deem the psychological moment, to come out strongly for the handsome young governor of Minnesota. Of course as soon as this program is made public there will develop strong opposition from the Bryan strongholds and it is entirely possible the movement will die aborning, but that it is being seriously discussed here in Washington, there is no doubt.

The republicans have once more given a notable exhibition of party discipline by suppressing the Brownville debate for this session. Senator Culberson jumped into the breach and tried to force a vote before adjournment, but he was powerless against the almost solid republican opposition, led by Mr. Foraker himself who, only a few days ago, was swearing by all the gods of war that the senate should not adjourn without voting on his resolution restoring the discharged negroes to the army. Just what happened to Mr. Foraker is not known, but of course he was in the hopeless minority and it is probable that the republican leaders laid down the law to him so emphatically that he was powerless to do otherwise, especially as he still hopes to come back to the senate for another term.

The republicans have tried to sidetrack the Rayner resolution providing that a court of inquiry shall be granted to Colonel Stewart, whom the president has ordered to Fort Grant, Arizona, where, as one army officer expressed it, "He has nothing to command but tarantulas." The republican majority referred the resolution to the committee on military affairs where they hope to keep it until adjournment, but Mr. Rayner has not given up the fight and he will do everything possible to secure prompt action by the committee. The case of Colonel Stewart is a peculiar one. He seems to have displayed an extraordinary capacity for quarreling with all his subordinates and with civilians, but Mr. Rayner's contention is that he at least deserves to have the charges brought before a court of inquiry or before a court martial, before he is punished, while the president contends that were it possible for officers to appeal to a senator and get a court of inquiry whenever ordered to a post they dislike it would disrupt the discipline of the army.

The natural resources convention which the president has brought together at the White house is probably the most notable in the nation's history, and the distinguished men of both parties who are participating in the sessions are most hopeful that it will result in genuine benefit to the country. Extraordinarily enough, the purpose of the conference, the conversation of the natural resources of the country, is wholly democratic rather than republican, but then Mr. Roosevelt has never hesitated to appropriate any good idea which the democrats evolved. The republican policy has been to confer these resources on their political favorites, precisely as they favor special interests by the tariff. However, the question is assuming such vast proportions that loyal democrats feel that they cannot permit partisan bias to diminish the earnestness with which they apply themselves to the problems which the president proposes for their consideration.

Speaking of party discipline, the republicans have apparently gotten together behind Secretary Taft, and it now seems probable that no other name will be presented to the Chicago convention. Many of the party leaders who were most opposed to the nomination of the secretary a short time ago are now working energetically for harmony at Chicago. It has long been recognized as the keynote of republican success that the members of that party bury all personal preferences—I had almost said convictions—and labor for the success of their candidates when chosen, and well wishers of the democracy hope that this year the same may be true of their party.

There are many men in public life in Washington who regard the visit of the American fleet to Japan with grave concern, and the reports from the Pacific coast, where the sailors are being treated with extraordinary consideration and hospitality, do not diminish the apprehension. It is pointed out that the officers and men will start across the Pacific after an experience as well calculated to make them egotistical, not to say cocky, as any that could possibly be devised. Under these circumstances they will, it is feared, be in no humor to take any affronts, even though they come from wholly irresponsible sources, and yet should they become enraged at any incident in Japan the most untoward results might ensue. There are many republicans who believe that the president made a mistake in accepting the invitation of Japan and all will breathe easier when the visit to Nippon is a closed incident.

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

ruled the convention was willing to concede two delegates to King county, but no more, and on this irreconcilable difference the contest waged. The four candidates from King county composed a quartet of warm personal friends who had firmly resolved to stand or fall together. They would all go to Denver or none, they said, and they were evidently sincere about it. King county therefore refused to present the name of any candidate and Judge Ronald in an impassioned speech urged the winning combination to take all the honors as it easily had the power to do. C. G. Heifner and other Seattle orators made stirring appeals along the same line. On the other hand, the winning combination turned loose their best orators to persuade the convention that it was its duty to draft two of the four candidates from King county and send them as delegates to the national convention whether or no. The Hon. Steve Judson and M. A. Langhorne of Pierce county took the lead in this matter and the latter did some pretty plain talking on the subject. The impassioned debate lasted for nearly two hours, during which time the excitement was intense. In the end the King county gentlemen, loyal to a fault to each other, were forced to give away to the determined majority, and Charles G. Heifner and Judge McDonald were elected delegates to the national convention over their own earnest protests and the exciting incident was ended.

Next the majority and minority reports were read from the committee on resolutions, the minority having indorsed all that part of the proposed platform, except the so-called prohibition plank.

This the minority of the committee, numbering four men, wished to strike out and insert in lieu thereof a plank declaring in favor of "personal liberty," as advocated by Chairman Turner.

The debate on the plank, participated in by a dozen or more orators, was a most inspiring one and excitement was at fever heat. Nearly every delegation was divided on the subject, and the vote when finally taken was badly split up, although an overwhelming majority was in favor of the majority report, which read as follows:

"We favor the submission to the voters of Washington of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture or sale of spirituous liquors within our borders."

The vote resulted in the passage of the majority report by 354 to 164. The Yakima delegation voted 26 to 2 in favor of the submission plank.

The following named gentlemen were elected by the state convention:

National committeeman, W. H. Dunphy of Walla Walla.

Nominated for chairman of the state central committee, George P. Wright of Pierce county.

Elected as delegates at large to the national convention, with half a vote each: A. R. Titlow, Pierce; L. E. Big-nold, Chelan; Fred E. Baldwin, Spokane; Dan Paul, Douglas; George F. Christenson, Adams; A. G. Mitchum, Lincoln, and Charles G. Heifner and F. A. McDonald, King.

No alternates were elected.

Nominated for presidential electors: J. M. McKernan, Garfield; E. A. Fitzhenry, Chelan; Wilmon Tucker, King; Thomas M. Vance, Thurston, and George F. Richardson, Benton.

Elected as district delegates with half a vote each:

First district—John L. Lukes and W. M. Pemberton of Whatcom and Daniel Currie and W. W. Black of Snohomish.

Second District—Frank R. Spinning of Pierce; W. W. Cannon of Lewis; Tal. Brattan of Klickitat and J. C. Conine of Thurston.

Third District—Jerome Drumbeller of Spokane; T. A. White of Whitman; A. L. Slemmons of Kittitas and M. A. Smalley of Okanogan.

THE YAKIMA COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

The Platform.

We denounce the republican county officials, of this county, for their unbusinesslike and wasteful manner of handling the people's money, particularly in the employment of unnecessary help in the various departments.

We heartily commend the thoroughly efficient and economic conduct of the affairs of the sheriff's office, by Sheriff John M. Edwards, and predict for him a sweeping victory at the polls this fall.

We indorse the prompt, honest and efficient enforcement of our laws by Prosecuting Attorney Henry H. Wende, and we especially commend both the sheriff and prosecuting attorney for their vigorous and efficient prosecution of the illicit liquor traffic in this county.

The able, learned and eminently just manner in which the Hon. E. B. Preble has presided on our superior bench calls for an expression of our hearty appreciation.

We call upon our coming legislature to properly recognize the importance of the state fair as a rapidly growing state institution, and to that end, make moribund appropriations for maintenance and the erection of much needed buildings.

We believe that the material prosperity of our county depends very largely upon good roads, and we therefore recommend a complete reorganization of our present road laws, to the end that state and county may co-operate in the building of better roads.

We reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the democratic party, and pledge ourselves to the continued support of those doctrines advocated by our honored leader, William Jennings Bryan, and declare our belief that he is the man to carry the banner of our party and lead us to victory in the coming November election. And we request the delegates from this state to the Denver convention to work and vote for his nomination for president.

We condemn the ruthless squandering of public funds, in the administration of state affairs, and deplore the present ruinous rate of taxation, and submit, for the consideration of the people of the state of Washington, the Hon. A. J. Splawn, of this county, as a man who, as governor, will conduct the business of the state in an economical and business-like manner, and offer him as a man of integrity and determination, whose unswerving fidelity to duty places him head and shoulders above the present vacillating occupant of the executive chair.

We declare ourselves in favor of more efficient naval protection of the Pacific coast.

Resolved, That we request the coming legislature to pass a local option law.

County officials are arranging to go to the Sound to see the big fleet in a manner that will not interfere with the work of their respective offices. This can be done by some of the officials going to Seattle and some to Tacoma and this plan will be followed in each office.

DEATH OF R. K. NICHOLS

At 2 o'clock p. m. Wednesday, death finally came to the relief of County Clerk R. K. Nichols and set a tortured mind at rest.

Mr. Nichols had been seriously ill for several months, although he was at his desk at the courthouse much of the time until the last few weeks. Many years ago when living in Arizona in an attack made upon his party by Indians, Mr. Nichols was injured in the arm by an arrow presumed to have been poisoned. He thought little of it at the time, but it seems that in late years the wound developed into a very serious ailment that caused the poor victim excruciating pain and finally brought about his death.

Deceased was a native of New Hampshire, but received his education in Massachusetts, and was 65 years of age.

While yet a young man he joined his elder brother in California and lived in that state for many years, where he practiced law and took an active part in politics. However, financial reverses overtook himself and brother and after the brother's death Mr. Nichols came to North Yakima, arriving here in 1886, where he practiced law for a time. He was secretary of the school board here for three years and was elected county clerk in 1906.

Mrs. Nichols died about four years ago. Miss Lucy Nichols, a niece and adopted daughter, is the sole survivor of the family. The funeral was held Thursday under Masonic auspices.

Ralph K. Nichols was a man possessed of many admirable qualities. He was an educated man, always a student. But above all else he was an honest man with high ideals of honor. To his friends he was loyal, even to a fault, and in turn they loved him because of the goodness of his heart and they followed him to his grave with sorrow.

Mr. Nichols was one of the most learned of Masons in this section of country, having been a Knight Templar in York rite and a thirty-second degree man in the Scottish rite. He aided materially in instituting the new K. T. lodge of this city last year.

"Peace be with thee, dear friend," was the sentiment felt by every neighbor and comrade that followed the remains to their last resting place.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Prices of sack flour in North Yakima have been advanced 5 cents, the advance applying to all kinds of flour. This raise in price is in sympathy with the general advance in flour prices and is the result of the recent sharp advance in wheat. The advance in the price of wheat, it is said, can be traced directly to the coming to the Pacific coast of the fleet of battleships and incidentally is declared to mean something like $1,500,000 for the wheat growers of the Pacific northwest which they otherwise would not obtain. A great many foreign steamships were sent to the coast with fuel and other necessities for the fleet. These boats found it impossible to get anything but a wheat charter for the return trip.

Charter Rates Tumble.
As a result of the competition because of the presence of so many boats rates tumbled more sharply than has been the case in years. Six months ago the basis of charters to Europe was 36 to 40 shillings. Within two weeks charters have been made as low as 20 shillings for sailing vessels and 22 shillings 6 pence for steamers. This slump is estimated to have saved the wheat growers of eastern Washington and Oregon the amount mentioned above. Exporters declare that they have been paying grain raisers the total amount of the saving in shipping charges and that the activity has arisen from the need of procuring freights. The difference between Chicago and local grain prices is declared to have never been so small as at present.

Retail Trade Is Slack.
North Yakima is feeling the presence of the fleet in a retail way, according to grocers, butchers and others who are engaged in catering to the household trade. Curtailment in purchases has been general, according to dealers, the women who manage the various households declaring outright that they are economizing because of their intention of taking a trip to Seattle or saying that they will not need household supplies as many members of their families are to be away for a few days or a week. Apart from the flour prices figures remain practically unchanged. The California strawberries are off the market and the Kennewick stock is holding the trade. The berries from the Columbia river town sell at a higher figure than those from California.

Meat prices, despite predictions to the contrary, remain unchanged, but the supply is heavier and butchers are showing an excellent display of meats of all kinds.

There is no activity either in hay or potatoes though the recently awarded contracts for hay for Philippine delivery are expected to stiffen up the market considerably when delivery begins.

Better Apple Market.
Fleet influences are reported to have somewhat stimulated such market as there is on the Sound for apples, but a supply sufficient to meet all demands is going forward so that no alterations in prices of particular importance to local holders of fruit have resulted. There is still some fruit held here but it is being disposed of gradually.

Eggs and butter remain unchanged. There is a general cry throughout Washington and Oregon of the scarcity of dairy cows. Large importations to the state of eastern butter are being made or arranged for.

Onions have been a scarce article on the larger markets and those who have had them to offer have cleaned up good money. Texas is making liberal shipments.

Gooseberries are in evidence are are finding an appreciative public. General quotations are as follows:

TAMPICO

Mrs. Sherman Eglin and son James, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Eglin's mother, Mrs. Anna Slavin of North Yakima.

Joseph Mondor spent a few days of last week in the city.

Although the rain on Sunday was very good for the crops it disappointed a great many people who were intending to picnic at the Soda Springs. Most all, however, had a picnic dinner at home and a few of the more daring went to the springs in the afternoon. Those who went were Mrs. Henry Sandall and Mrs. James Reilly, the Misses Irene Harlow, Nela Nelson, Carrie Shaw and Annette Roberts, and Messrs. Will Roberts, Cecil Shaw and George Harlow.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eglin were in the city on business Saturday.

Mr. Alm took John Shaw down to the Sanitarium Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mondor were in the city one day last week doing some shopping.

Harry and Don Roberts went over to the Cowiche sawmill Sunday with a load of hay. They went over the hill on the road which has been opened up lately.

There will be a dance at Mondor's hall on Saturday evening. Everyone is invited to come and have a good time.

Mrs. A. D. Eglin is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. John Shaw and children returned from the city last week as the doctor says he can treat Archie here just as well for awhile. Everyone is glad to hear that Archie is improving very much lately.

Mrs. James Eglin and grandson, Willie Norris, were in the city Saturday. Willie intended to go to Seattle but got homesick before starting and came back.

Mrs. Carrie Potter of Seattle was in Tampico Sunday looking at her childhood home. On her way back to Yakima she called on Mrs. Frank Eglin.

Jasper Knox left here last week for western Oregon, where he will remain for some time.

Miss Nela Nelson dismissed her school on Tuesday and went into the city to take the teachers' examination, which was held on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Charles Herman, who came here from Bradgate, Ia., two months ago and who has been working for Henry Mondor since he came, has gone to Frank Mondor's for the rest of the summer. He likes this country very well and does a great deal of "Yakima boosting" in his letters home.

A. D. Eglin spent several days of last week in the city and incidentally attended the democratic convention held there.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker were in the city Monday doing some shopping.

Edward Slavin went into the city last Saturday to attend the democratic meeting.

Isidore Mondor is in town getting the West Side Feed Store, which the Mondors recently bought, into running order. Will Mondor will remain in town all summer to superintend the store.

GRANGER.

The second games of the Central Valley baseball league were played Sunday, resulting in victory for Wapato, Zillah and Sunnyside. Mabton lost to Wapato by a score of 9 to 0; Outlook to Zillah, score 18 to 3; Granger to Sunnyside, score 12 to 2. This leaves Wapato, Sunnyside and Zillah with a clean record, those teams having lost no games. The games next Sunday are as follows: Wapato at Granger, Zillah at Sunnyside, Outlook at Mabton.

George P. Eaton returned Sunday from Spokane where he was in attendance at the republican state convention as one of the delegates from Yakima county. Mr. Eaton reports a good time.

Mrs. B. E. Fenner was a business visitor in North Yakima yesterday.

The play "Way Down East," given by the high school scholars last Saturday evening, was a decided success. The hall was crowded to its capacity and a nice sum of money was realized for the new school library. The play will be given at Outlook next Saturday evening.

Work was resumed on the Episcopal church yesterday, a crew of brick masons having been secured to complete the brick work.

Quite a delegation of people from Granger and vicinity will visit Tacoma and Seattle during the visit of the Atlantic fleet, the majority making their plans to spend Decoration day in Tacoma and witness the parade. Among those to go are the following. George P. Eaton and son Warren and daughters Misses Edith and Clara; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dooley; J. M. Hutton; Carl and Walter Reinholt, Fred R. Hawn, R. M. Bardue, John Bardue.

THAT PROHIBITION PLANK.

The democratic state convention which met at Spokane last Monday was a notable gathering. It was a short and stormy affair and a goodly amount of dirty linen was washed—the usual grist brought over from King county. However, the laundry work was done in good shape, a work that required a good spanking, figuratively speaking, for the King county delegation with the admonishment to be good hereafter and let us hope that they will be.

The King county delegation came to the convention with the apparent determination to dictate the program. They demanded more than what was thought to be due them and ended up by being obliged to take what the convention saw fit to give them, although they strenuously insisted that because they were denied what they wanted they would take nothing.

The platform adopted is on the whole we think, a wise one. The regulation of the liquor traffic was an issue that had to be squarely met, since the republican party only a few days before had placed itself on record in favor of local option. It was finally decided by the committee on resolutions that the wisest and most honest course to pursue was to place the party emphatically on record in favor of submitting to a vote of the people the whole question whether the liquor business shall live or die in the state of Washington. The democratic platform therefore demands that the next legislature shall submit the question to a vote of the people through the medium of a proposed amendment to the constitution.

This is the most honest way of meeting the question now before the people, and it is the democratic way. The people, or rather a majority of them, are supposed to rule in this country. The question is now up to the people so far as the democratic party is concerned.

The convention by an overwhelming vote of about three to one voted in favor of the submission plank in preference to a so-called "personal liberty" plank supported by the minority. The personal liberty plank was merely the result of a conference held by a lot of city politicians who were extremely desirous of securing the saloon support, with the main purpose in view of helping themselves in their local elections. That an emphatic majority of the convention refused to submit to an open alliance with the liquor interests is creditable to the party.

Yet, unquestionably, there were many delegates who voted to submit the liquor issue to the people in the convention who would vote against constitutional prohibition at the polls. They merely accept the democratic principle that the people should determine the whole question and that the will of the majority should govern.

THE LOCAL OPTION GAME.

The republican state convention, which met at Spokane last week, was not sincere in placing a local option plank in its platform. At any rate it is perfectly clear that the element in that convention which proposed such a plank was not honest and sincere in doing so. Unquestionably many of the delegates present who voted for the plank were quite sincere in doing so, and believe in the justice of the proposed law. For all such The Democrat has no criticism.

The local option plank in the Republican platform was fathered and promoted by that astute political tactician and fixer, Mr. Harry Fairchild, chairman of the state railway commission and the political prophet and right hand bower of Gov. Mead. And as soon as the significance of the plank was understood Mr. Fairchild soon secured the zealous support of the entire Mead "push" in the convention.

It is now an open secret that the purpose of the Mead crowd in insisting upon the local option plank was with the view of putting ex-Gov. McBride and his following in the hole, so to speak, to catch them napping in fact. Because that McBride, while governor had vetoed a local option bill passed up to him by the legislature the Mead men thought to score an advantage over the ex-governor in the present campaign. But in this they failed, for the McBride men, seeing the trick, simply got in as one man and supported the local option plank with even more alacrity than did the Mead "push." The Mead men have, therefore, gained nothing so far. Indeed it is quite likely that they have put their own chief in the hole, for Mead was undeniably under strong obligations to the liquor interests, which supported him almost unitedly in his last campaign, and elected him, too, for that matter. The fact that he has now turned traitor to the saloon men, in the belief that there is more votes to be had from the other side, is hardly calculated to make votes for the wily milly governor at the September primaries. As for the McBride men they of course, are not sincere in their support of local option either.

The local option plank, therefore, in the g. o. p. platform is plainly merely a piece of political buncombe, the result of a cheap and nasty trick of factional politics. Neither faction mean to crystallize that principle into law. In any event the leadership of the republican party of this state is now and has for years been in such a close and binding political alliance with the brewery interests that the party's hands are effectually tied.

The local option plank, originating in sin will now be used for bait with which to catch suckers.

BRYAN'S CHANCES.

In predicting success for Bryan in the coming campaign, the News is not allowing the wish to become father to the thought. There are many circumstances which sharply mark off the campaign of 1908 from either that of 1896 or of 1900. In 1896 Bryan was nominated by the representatives of the real democracy of the country. But his nomination threw the faction which had for some time managed the destinies of that party into the opposite camp; and not even the splendid campaign waged by the new leader could quite overcome that handicap, joined, as it was, with so many others. The east was pretty solid against any changes in the monetary system, the manufacturing districts were tempted by the promise of higher tariff, and the generalship of Mark Hanna was the final word in the political strategy of money. In 1900, the circumstances against the democracy were even worse. The old faction of seceders was unreconciled, the administration just closing had been moderately successful, and the easy victory over Spain had roused the imperial ambition which is never more than sleeping in a people as strong and energetic as our own. Add to this that in both campaigns the republican party claimed to be the chosen confidant of Providence and the dispenser of prosperity, and you will cease to wonder that the most popular man in the United States was twice defeated for the presidency.

Now see how changed are the conditions. The silver question has simply been buried in the golden flood from the mines of the world. Imperialism is now seen by the whole land for the unclean and dangerous thing that Bryan pronounced it eight years ago. The administration of Theodore Roosevelt has taught the people that most of the policies which Bryan championed are not only safe, but profitable, and it is no longer easy to sear with the word "radical." And perhaps most potent of all, the luck of years has turned against the g. o. p. and the gospel of the full dinner pail has lost its meaning. The republican leaders are at outs with each other, not only on questions of precedent but on questions of policy. The tariff bugaboo is continually rising to haunt them, and the banking and currency measures vie with the ship subsidy steal as promoters of discord in republican ranks.

And into the arena where these jarring factions are fighting for supremacy, democracy flings the gauntlet of a clear-cut, logical declaration of principles; principles which every year of recent history has proven wise and just, and names for its champion the leader who voiced these principles when to do so was to render one's self a target for slurs and ridicule. The result can hardly be in doubt.—Denver News.

MURDERS THE TRUTH.

That lean and attenuated human freak, Frank Cushman, who misrepresents the state of Washington in the congress of the United States, is apparently ever willing to sacrifice truth to gain notoriety and applause. For instance he made the statement in a speech delivered in congress that he, Cushman, had succeeded in buying or building a home during the McKinley administration that he was compelled to mortgage during the Roosevelt administration. This, of course, was meant for a slap at the policies of President Roosevelt, which the corporation-loving congressman really has no use for. This and similar other stories, without the faintest relation to truth, sound well to the standpatters in congress and raise a merry laugh as they are rolled off from the slippery tongue of the freak congressman who claims a reputation for great wit. Yet it concerns him not a whit that his stories are distinctly untrue.

Only last week a Tacoma neighbor and political supporter of the congressman said to us: "I can't imagine what makes 'Cush' so brutally inconsiderate of the truth in his speeches. Now as a matter of fact he never either bought or built a house during the McKinley administration, for the very good reason that he never had the price. He has since built a modest little home in Tacoma which I am inclined to think was done largely for political effect. I have never heard before that he has had to mortgage that little house, and I don't believe that he has. If he has it is not a very good sign of business ability on his part, considering that he is in receipt of a salary of $7500 per year in addition to mileage. The trouble with 'Cush' is that he is always willing to sacrifice the truth for the sake of a good story or a beautiful figure of speech."

THE BRYAN INSTRUCTIONS.

The State convention not only enthusiastically endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Bryan, but instructed the delegation to the national convention at Denver to vote for the great commoner "first, last and all the time." Surely that sort of language is plain enough.

There was no anti-Bryan sentiment worth mentioning manifested at the state convention. In the deliberations of that body there was not even an allusion to Gov. Johnson or any other possible candidate. While there was much division of opinion on many other questions there was none in evidence at least, against the advisability of Bryan's nomination. Every mention of the great leader's name called forth a storm of applause.

And all this in the face of the claim made by the Johnson boomers that Washington would send an uninstructed delegation to Denver that would support Johnson. It has been repeatedly pointed out in these columns that there was not the slightest foundation for the Johnson claim as to this state. That we had the situation sized up correctly is proven by the action of the state convention.

"Refused notice." Every editor has received it says an exchange. The post-faster sends it to the editor. For instance, there is a man by the name of, well, say John Smith, who refuses to take his paper out of the postoffice. He did not want it any longer. We wondered what was the matter. Upon investigation of our subscription book we found that John was short $5.70. He had stopped his paper as a matter of economy to us. A few evenings ago we stepped into church, and John's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in the soul-stirring song, "Jesus Paid It All." We might have been mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.—Ex.

If Albert E. Mead or Henry E. McBride should get the nomination for governor on the republican ticket, A. J. Splawn will be the next governor of Washington and he would make an ideal officer, too. He is a man who is in touch with the people and knows their wants and needs from Alpha to Omega. He is a man that we not only want but need in the governor's chair.—Elensburg Dawn.

Bryan and Johnson, rival candidates for the presidential nomination, met for the first time the other day on a train traveling from Chicago to Washington. Apparently the two men took an immediate liking to each other, for they were very chummy during the entire trip. Both denied talking politics—except republican politics.

"Jack" Splawn for governor. It now looks as if the democrats are going to give the state the second John R. Rogers. A pioneer—a man of ability—a man of honest convictions with courage to enforce them.—Davenport Tribune.

Most Anything

By LUE F. VERNON

Women always think they mean what they say at the exact moment they say it.

If all people were as big as their talk this world would be a race of giants.

There is nothing more enjoyable than an animated discussion of something we don't know anything about with somebody that knows less than we do.

When a woman gets her hooks in a man, and is aided by her mother, then it is time to ring the fire bells.

This time of year we're not so bold To ask him where he got his cold; For when we hear his little cough, We know he left his flannels off.

It is pretty hard for any man to believe that any other man pays as much for taxes as he ought.

The "P.-I." says Ank is a drunkard and—well, it is not reported what Ankeny says of John L. Wilson, let alone thinks.

When your friend begins to tell you What his doctor says he's got— All in Latin—don't be worried; He'll outlive you, doubt me not.

A policeman found a hotel guest roaming about the streets in his sleep a few nights ago. He started to lead the man to jail, when the stranger protested.

"I am guilty of no wrong doing," he said, "I am a somnambulist."
"It don't make no difference what church you belong to," returned the officer, "you can't do no walking on these streets in your shirt tail."

Mrs. Starfish: "Baby looks like mother."

Mr. Starfish: "Yes, and I'll lick her for it when she gets old enough to know what I'm licking her for."

'Twas in a breach or promise suit the letters all were read, And here is what the opening words of each epistle said:

"Dear Mr. Smith," "Dear Friend,"
"Dear Fred," "My darling four-leaf clover";
"My ownest Fred," "Dear Fred,"
"Dear Sir," then "Sit," and all was over.

LETTERS AND THE MAN.

For mischief done naught can amend The letters men have failed to send. And hearts are pierced with harsh intent

By letters better left unsent. Great woe comes to us, I believe, From letters that we don't receive. But heaviest on my soul doth sit Those letters that I've never writ.

—Lue F. Vernon.

Real Enterprise.

The foreman printer rushed into the editor's den with a sacred look on his face.

"I've just got a letter from the paper firm," he said, "and they refuse to supply us with any more till the account is paid. What shall we do? I haven't a scrap in the place?"

"Just think," said the editor, sadly contemplating the cash box, "Haven't you any other sort of paper in the place?"

"Not a bit except a few reams of brown wrapping paper we got in to pack parcels."

"That will do; use that. But keep the machine back for a large-type editorial. Now get along."

Then the editor grabbed some "copy" paper and wrote the editorial:

"Once more," it ran, "the 'hobo banner' scores for enterprise. We are the only paper to give a correct portrait of Booker T. Washington.

"The cut has been carefully prepared and in order to show his complexion and color, about which there have been so many disputes, accurately, we have gone to the expense of printing the entire edition on paper which shows these accurately.

"Extra copies can be had by applying to the publisher."

NORTH YAKIMA MAN IS HONORED

When the election of officers took place at the state convention of Knights of Columbus held in Bellingham during the past few days, Dr. Thomas Tetreau, of this city, was made state deputy and selected as a delegate to attend the national council to be held in St. Louis in August. The office of deputy is the highest one in the order in this state. It is considered by the members as the highest honor that can be bestowed on a member of the order.

Other Officers Elected.

Other officers elect are as follows: State secretary, E. J. Manion, Seattle; state treasurer, Ed. O'Shea, Spokane; state advocate, W. H. Dunphy, Walla Walla; state warden, James Hamill, Spokane; state chaplain, Rev. H. Sweens, Ellensburg. Delegates to the national council at St. Louis were chosen as follows: Thomas Tetreau, state deputy; T. J. Gorman, past state deputy, Seattle. The alternates are Chas. A. Cole, of Everett, and J. T. Hickey, of Tacoma.

Representatives from 10 councils were in attendance at the convention in Bellingham, making in all 22 delegates. Dr. Tetreau says it was one of the most conventions he ever attended. The Bellingham people showed the visiting delegates a good time, taking them for picnics to neighboring island in Bellingham bay and providing other interesting forms of amusement. Some degree work was done while the convention was in session.

Dr. Tetreau immediately qualified and is now in charge of his new office.

Following is the list of officers of the local lodge: Grand knight, P. A. Ditter; deputy grand knight, Frank Bartholet; financial secretary, Joe Bartholet; treasurer, Charles R. Donovan; chancellor, Thomas Tetreau; warden, Alfred C. Myers; recording secretary, James I. Flynn; lecturer, J. B. Ernsdorf; advocate, J. H. Linee; outer guard, Pat Jordan; inner guard, T. H. Lea; trustees, Henry Kohls, John Ditter, Charles Gleeson.

SPOKANE DIRT DEALERS JEALOUS OF YAKIMA

Because E. L. Roney, in charge of Yakima valley's exhibit at the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, has succeeded in sending scores of homeseekers to Yakima valley, Spokane real estate men who handle irrigated lands in close proximity to Spokane, have asked the secretary of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce to cause the exhibit of Yakima valley to be discontinued.

The above fact was learned by Secretary James, of the Commercial club, this morning when he received a letter from Mr. Roney. That gentleman said the real estate men of Spokane had asked L. G. Monroe, secretary of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, to put a stop in some manner to the work of the exhibit and of Mr. Roney. They declare all of the prospective investors and homeseekers who stop off in Spokane immediately hunt up the Yakima exhibit in the Chamber of Commerce building rather than inquire about Spokane lands. The result is that people intending to buy irrigated lands set out for the Yakima valley without farther delay.

The matter is rather an amusing one. It is a fact, says Mr. James, that the Commercial club at North Yakima receives more inquiry than does the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. It is also known that Mr. Roney has been the means of bringing many people to North Yakima this year. It was not expected however that North Yakima would claim all the homeseekers who stopped off in Spokane, but such seems to be the case, as the realty dealers of that city are strenuously opposed to the publicity given this valley in that city.

As the Commercial club has entered into a contract with the Chamber of Commerce whereby the space in that building is leased for one year, it is not probable that the request of the dirt dealers of the Falls City will be complied with.

The scores of inquiry letters that have been arriving at the secretary's office for the last month continue to arrive with each mail. Yesterday over 40 letters were received from persons wishing to know more about North Yakima and the country tributary to it.

NORRIS & ROWE

Popular Circus Outfit Will Show Here on June 2.

When the Greater Norris and Rowe circus exhibits in this city Tuesday afternoon and night, June 2, a family of circus performers will be seen by the name of Orton. There are eight members of this family which includes young men and women. Their father before them was in the circus business and conducted a rather pretentious circus in the New England states under the name of the Myles Orton circus. This family are indeed versatile artists, for they are clowns, wire walkers, jugglers, trapeze artists among them, and their bicycle riding on a very slender wire at the very top of the tent, and divers other hazardous and thrilling feats are astounding. During the run of the Norris & Rowe circus in San Francisco this spring 60 performances, 279,873 persons paid admission to the big show. The Orton family were among the distinct hits of the big program which contains the names of performers of worldwide reputation; performers from every clime in the civilized world.

TEACHERS MEET A DENIAL.

School Directors Decline to Grant Request for Special Holiday.

Teachers of North Yakima public schools have appealed in vain to the board of school directors for school holidays that they may visit the fleet of warships at Seattle. The directors say "no more holidays," and in explanation of their action say the teachers have over-reached themselves. Application for a holiday was made at Easter and granted, the plea at that time being that the teachers wanted to visit other schools and inspect the methods of instruction in them. But one teacher of the whole number on the payroll of the district carried out this promise. The exception was Miss Grace Shannon, principal of the Summitview school, who inspected the schools at Seattle.

BELLINGHAM IS GOOD BUT YAKIMA IS BETTER

So Says Phil Ditter, Who Thinks This the Best Town in the State.

Phil Ditter returned Saturday from Bellingham where he attended the Knights of Columbus convention and attended to private business. He says he is more than satisfied with North Yakima now that he has observed a town similar to this in size. "Bellingham is a very good town, but it fails to display the wealth and prosperity that North Yakima does," said Mr. Ditter this afternoon. "One thing that might be said of that city is that it is one of the best lighted towns I have ever seen in my life. The whole length of Bellingham's business streets is strung with thousands of small electric lights. Just the same as North Yakima lights its streets during fair time, Bellingham lights its streets every night. I asked one prominent business man what it cost to light the city in that extravagant manner. He told me to my surprise that it only cost the city $1 per 25 feet for all that display of light and cheerfulness. Of course I do not recommend that North Yakima try anything like that until we can get power at a much cheaper figure than it is furnished us now."

"Bellingham is planning on building miles of paved streets and cement sidewalks this year. For years that city has had poor streets much the same as those of North Yakima. Many new buildings are being erected also. There is a native stone in that locality that makes some of the finest looking work I have ever seen when it is laid up."

"Business on the sound is quiet. Bellingham merchants told me things were good, but I came to the conclusion that it was all a bluff. Things in Seattle are bad. There is nothing doing at all in that city. The mills are shut down and there is an atmosphere of depression in the air that gets a man."

SAYS WENATCHEE NOW IS HUSTLING COMMUNITY

H. Stanley Coffin Much Impressed By Trip to the Columbia River City.

H. Stanley Coffin, who has just returned to North Yakima from the Wenatchee section of the Columbia river, says the Wenatchee orchards appeared to him to be in excellent condition and there is every indication of an excellent crop. Mr. Coffin made a more careful inspection of the city and the surrounding country than he had ever made before and says the fruit orchards are certainly a near approach to all that the people of the district claim for them. Save that the immediate valley is much smaller the conditions are largely similar to those here. A large tributary territory, however, is to be added, as many thousands of acres of land across the Columbia river are to be brought under cultivation by means of a high line ditch which is now carrying water. This water is taken across the Columbia river by the recently constructed passenger bridge there, which is now open to traffic and which means a great thing to the town in placing it in communication with the far side of the river.

The proportion if not the actual acreage in alfalfa in the Wenatchee valley is fast falling and Mr. Coffin says they are now growing scarcely enough for home consumption. As a matter of fact, he says much of the land formerly in alfalfa has been plowed out and thus it is likely that the actual acreage is reduced.

As a city Wenatchee, according to Mr. Coffin, is not in the North Yakima class. Its streets, its buildings, its wooden sidewalks and the character of its topography are such that it cannot begin to compare itself with this. However it is a growing, thriving and hustling community which is rapidly improving.

GRAZING REGULATIONS UPHELD BY THE COURTS

Government Wins Important Case Regarding Drifting of Stock Upon Reserves.

The government has just won its sixth important case concerning the validity of the regulations made by the secretary of agriculture to control grazing in the national forests. In the United States court at Denver, Col., Judge Robert E. Lewis has overruled the demurrer of Fred Light, a wealthy stockman of Pitkin county, Col., which contended that the grazing regulations in force on the national forests are unconstitutional. The whole case revolved around the contention raised by some Colorado stockmen that the government is no more than a private land owner in the matter of state fence laws. The national forests are not fenced and on this the stockmen based their refusal to pay grazing fees.

A friendly suit was brought to test the regulations prohibiting the drifting of stock upon the forest.

The decision stated without qualification that state land laws do not apply to the national forests and that therefore, the drifting of stock upon the forests in violation of the regulations is trespassing, notwithstanding the state law.

SHOULD THIN THE APPLE TREES NOW

Inspector J. M. Brown Gives Advice Regarding Important Operation.

Fruit Inspector Joe Brown calls the attention of the orchardists of the Yakima valley to the fact that now is the time to thin the fruit on the apple trees. One reason why this is the best time is that the young fruit can be removed readily, leaving the stem on the fruit spur, which should be done by all means. Another reason is that the work can be done much cheaper now than later. Again, if the surplus fruit is removed at once, the growth that would go into it will go into other fruit that is expected to mature and will benefit it that much.

The old method of thinning was wrong, Mr. Brown says, and did much injury to the trees.

RANCHER'S PHEASANTS WERE HATCHED BY HEN

Warden Meets With Surprise When Report of Lawlessness Is Investigated.

Game Warden Mullen has been investigating a report from the Moxee that a rancher there had captured pheasants in his possession. This report he found to be incorrect though the rancher, J. LeGasse, had a number of pheasants, and Mr. Mullen was glad to see them.

The rancher, in working over a field which had been neglected last year, found two pheasants nests. In each there were 16 eggs. The birds having been frightened away by the workmen, the rancher took the eggs home and placed the whole lot under one hen. In a few days 14 pheasants hatched and the hen then left the nest with the young ones and, of course, abandoned the other eggs. This means that one batch of eggs was fertile, as the other batch was too, but they were not of the same age, and there being no second hen available, one brood was lost. Those that hatched were getting along nicely and seemed to take to the domestic conditions and their barnyard mother. The rancher was very much interested in the birds and their welfare so as a matter of policy was encouraged.

WANTED—A representative in this county by a large real estate corporation. Special inducements to those who wish to become financially interested. The Real Estate Security Co., Fort Dearborn Building, Chicago, Ill.

SPOKANE WILL EXHIBIT

Big County Will Participate in State Fair This Year.

J. M. Brown, who returned from Spokane this morning, brings back word that the Spokane Chamber of Commerce is beginning to take an interest in the state fair, and that the secretary practically promised him on Wednesday that the county should be represented here this year at the state fair with a complete exhibit. The management of the fair is greatly pleased with the information. Heretofore Spokane has taken the position that its own interests required that all its attention should be given to the Interstate fair. According to Secretary Monroe there will hereafter be a disposition among Spokane business men to help get larger appropriations from the legislature for the state fair.

CELEBRATE FOURTH IN GRAND STYLE

Business Men Hold Enthusiastic Smoker in Commercial Club Rooms and Decide to do Things July 4.

The North Yakima Business Men's association gave a smoker at the Commercial club rooms Wednesday evening which was a pleasant and most instructive affair, with a good attendance present, President Winsor presiding.

A sort of experience meeting was held. A number of leading business men were called upon for speeches regarding the condition of business this season as compared with the amount transacted last year. In nearly every case the business men called upon reported that trade thus far in his line is, on the whole, as good if not larger in volume, than that transacted last year. Messrs. Cahalan, Ditter, Barnes, Bell, Schroeder and others gave testimony along this line.

Manager Lucas, of the Yakima Trust company, called attention to the bank clearings as the best possible indicator of business conditions. He said that since the local clearing house had been established a few weeks ago the clearances had shown a distinct gain every week since. He predicted that the end of the first year of the clearing house in North Yakima would show a volume of business aggregating at least $15,000,000.

Mr. Cahalan, of the Fourth of July committee, reported splendid success thus far in soliciting funds from the business men for the Fourth of July celebration. He said that the public contributed liberally and that no difficulty would be found by the committee in raising $1500 or $2000 for the celebration. Chairman Cahalan announced the full list of sub-committees and officers of the day.

The following committees were appointed to have charge of the Fourth of July celebration, those being named with chairman alone to be filled by that appointee:

Music and band, L. O. Meigs, chairman.

Fireworks, Harvey Young, Harry Sprague, H. J. Rand.

Oratory, W. W. Robertson.

Parade, Dr. Frank, chairman.

Sports and games, John Weigel, Frank Sharkey, Harry Cahalan, Henry Goldberg, E. Leckey, Joe Cliff.

Decorating and lights, George Listmann, Ed. Merwin, Henry Kohls, W. O. Bradbury.

Advertising, Charles Barnes.

Railroad rates, L. A. Dash, secretary.

The last named committee will have a job on its hands, as it will extend an invitation to every town in the valley from Easton to Kennewick, and it is believed every town will be well represented.

J. D. Medill and I. H. Dills, each made a good roads talk and urged the Business Men's association to co-operate with the other local organizations in the effort to secure a system of good, hard roads for the Yakima valley. Chairman Winsor also made some timely remarks along the same line. The chairman said that the association is in sympathy with the good roads movement and would undoubtedly render all the assistance in its power.

The next general meeting of the association will be held June 1, at which time a vote will be taken on the revision of its by-laws.

Schott Suit House

North Yakima, and have many friends all over the county.

One of the most important cases now before the federal court is that of Paul Kruger, charged with using the United States mails for defrauding people. Early in the week on the day set for the commencement of the trial Mr. Kruger claimed that he was sick. His physician submitted a report to the court to that effect. The court subsequently appointed two doctors to diagnose Mr. Kruger's case, and they reported that the patient was all right so far as they could ascertain. The defendant was ordered to appear for trial. He has pleaded not guilty, and the trial is now being heard.
