Superior Court Grist.

The Superior court has been in session only a portion of the time during the past week, several adjournments being necessary on account of the non-attendeance of witnesses in several of the cases set for trial.

Judge Rudkin, for lack of jurisdiction, dismissed the case against Jim Ike, the Indian accused of placing obstructions on the N. P. track, it appearing that the act was committed on the reservation. The prisoner will therefore be transferred for trial to the U. S. court.

Geo. Finley, a Negro, was found guilty by the jury of having "rolled" Lake Orton, an Indian, and relieving him of "five brand new silver dollars."

Court stood adjourned from Saturday until Tuesday morning when a start was made on the civil docket. The first case tried was that of Davis vs. Parker, a suit brought to enforce payment for a tombstone. The jury awarded the plaintiff a judgment in the sum of $330.

The case of Wile Bros., a New York mercantile firm, vs. D. Hanna, for the collection of an account was settled on the payment of costs on the part of the defendant.

IRRIGATION ASSOCIATION.

Meeting Held in this City Last Saturday Not Entirely Harmonious--Special Legislation to Be Asked for Regarding Mountain Reservoirs.

There was not a very large attendance at the meeting of the State Irrigation association held in the assembly room of the Commercial club in this city last Saturday, but what the meeting lacked in the number of those in attendance was made up by the interest taken in the proceedings.

S. J. Harrison of Sunnyside, president of the association, presided, while Marshal S. Scudder of this city, officiated as secretary. Members of the association present from a distance were: E. F.
Blaine of Seattle, E. F. Benson and G.
H. Plummer of Tacoma, Ralph Kauffman of Ellensburg, W. N. Granger of Zillah, S. J. Harrison and H. M. Lichty of Sunnyside.

B. F. Barge briefly addressed the meeting regarding the work accomplished at the session of the National Irrigation congress held at Colorado Springs in October last, to which he went from here as a delegate.

E. F. Blaine was then recognized, and addressed the meeting at some length on the necessity from this time on of conserving the water supply of the Yakima river and its tributaries by means of reservoirs. The mountain lakes at the head waters of the Yakima river, he said, were natural reservoirs, but a good deal of money must necessarily be expended in order to make them serviceable. This expense the national government was unwilling to assume, as the eastern element in congress went as far as they could be induced to go in the passage of the irrigation bill which was of doubtful value to this district under present circumstances as no new ditches of any magnitude could be undertaken in this valley until assurances could be given that a larger volume of water could be secured from Aug. 1 until the end of the irrigating season. He, Blaine, did not believe that it was advisable to wait on the government, which at the best was proverbially slow in such matters anyway, to act. Neither did he think that it was possible at this time to interest the state government in reservoir building. There was nothing left then to do but for those interested to act in the matter and build reservoirs for themselves. With that object in view he had prepared a rough draft of a bill which he hoped the meeting would approve of before it was submitted to the legislature for passage. Secretary Scudder then read the bill by sections.

H. B. Scudder raised some objections to the bill as read and some argument followed between that gentleman and Mr. Blaine. A number of other members expressed their dissatisfaction with the bill as drawn, asserting that corporation control of the water supply of this valley would not be tolerated by the people interested in water rights. After considerable debate a committee consisting of E. F. Blaine, E. F. Benson, H. B.
Scudder, Ira P. Englehart and Ralph Kauffman was appointed by the chairman to redraft the bill. The committee was in session several hours and finally agreed to the bill in an amended form.
The bill will appear in the next issue of the DEMOCRAT.

Work of a Heartless Brute.

Dr. L. N. Richardson, of 102 S. Abnatan avenue, went to his barn Wednesday morning and there saw a sight that made his blood run cold.

He saw that some miscreant had entered the stable during the night and with an ax or some other sharp instrument had almost severed the left hind leg of his driving horse just above the hock joint. The poor brute when discovered was weak from the loss of blood, but whinnied in a pitiful way at the approach of his master. In a heap in a corner of the stable lay the doctor's driving harness, all cut into little bits, which indicated that the foul work was done by some revengeful scoundrel, who owed the physician a grudge.

Sheriff Grant and Marshal Mull were promptly notified and spent some time in investigating the strange case. The sheriff, with the consent of the owner, shot the horse to put him out of his misery.

Dr. Richardson says that he is at a complete loss to understand why such an inhuman deed was done as he does not know that he has a personal enemy in the country. When the news of the revolting crime got about town there was a good deal of indignation expressed. A number of prominent men on hearing the story, stated that if the guilty wretch could be found that they would gladly assist in at least helping to dress him in a coat of tar and feathers.

GRAZING IN RESERVE.

New Restrictions Added--Sheepmen Are Indignant and Will Probably Invade the Reserve this Year Without Regard to the Department.

A special dispatch from Tacoma to the Seattle P. I. of last Tuesday says:

"Forestry Superintendent Sheller received instructions from Washington today to have the rangers on the state reserves construct corrals on the borders of the Washington and the Rainier reserves. All sheep entering the reserves hereafter will be compelled to pass through the corrals, where rangers will be on hand to count them, both as the flocks enter and as they leave the reserves. The plan originated with Superintendent Sheller, and was approved by the secretary of the interior.

The supervisors of the different reserves are directed by the interior department to notify all owners of outside cattle and horses that their stock must not be turned loose to enter the reserves prior to June 1. Any infringement of this order will result in the permits of the owners of the cattle being canceled, followed by action for trespass. This radical step is taken by the department to prevent crowding and encroaching on the reserves which, it is alleged, has characterized the use of the grazing concessions enjoyed by the cattlemen. It is ordered that sheep grazing be confined to the mountain crests, consisting mainly of balds and burns. As far as possible the sheep must be kept out of the huckleberry patches used by the Yakima Indians, and the rangers are instructed to see that the herders keep the flocks out of these districts. The sheep must also be kept clear of any settlements on the reserves. All cattle and horses owned by actual reserve residents are allowed free pasturage on the reserves."

Local sheepmen feel a good deal elated over the news from Salt Lake that Judge Marshal of the U. S. court had rendered a decision which in effect knocks out the forest reserve restrictions of the interior department on the ground that congress cannot delegate its lawmaking power to any executive branch of the government.

Speaking of Judge Marshal's decision, a prominent Yakima sheepman informed the DEMOCRAT this week that the sheepmen here following the cue of the sheepmen of Utah, would enter the Rainier reserve with their flocks this season and pasture them where they saw fit and as long as they cared to. The department, said he, has constantly discriminated against the sheepmen when it had no right whatever to do so.

The sheepmen of this county seem to be somewhat annoyed by the introduction of a bill in the legislature which forbids the herding or grazing of sheep within a radius of two miles of any settler's domicile. The bill was introduced in the house by Haynes of Douglas county, and in the senate by Hurley of Okanogan. In the latter body the bill has been referred to Senator Spaw's committee on dairying. John Cleman and S. J. Cameron went over to Olympia Thursday to lobby against the passage of the bill.

Where is Kate Campbell?

According to the Seattle Times of last Sunday, Miss Kate Campbell, formerly of this city, has been missing from Monod hospital of that place since the Tuesday morning previous. The girl slipped out taking with her her babe, but nine days old, nobody knows whither. When Miss Campbell entered the hospital she is said to have told the matron that she was a married woman and that her husband lived in Yakima. She probably referred to the man who ought to be her husband. Her sister, Miss Ella Campbell, has for several days been in Sea-tle, in what seems to be a vain search for the missing girl.

Kate Campbell is well known in this city, where she had been employed as a waitress in Mechtel's restaurant and the Bartholet hotel. She is 23 years of age and a brunette, prepossessing in appearance. Her friends in Yakima trust that the unfortunate girl has not been so rash as to take her own life.

As a sequel to the girl's sad story, it is said that a well known young sporting man of this city suddenly packed his grip this week and left for parts unknown.

Ex-Senator Allen, Dead.

Ex-Senator John B. Allen died suddenly at his home in Seattle about 12:30 o'clock Thursday morning, death being caused by heart disease.

John B. Allen was one of the leading public men of this state. He was born in Indiana in 1847. While yet a mere boy he enlisted in the Union army during the civil war, making a good record as a private in an Indiana regiment. In the early seventies he migrated to Washington territory, beginning the practice of law first at Olympia, subsequently moving to Walla Walla.

In 1888 Mr. Allen was elected delegate to congress, defeating Charles S.
Vorhees, democrat. After the admission of the state in 1889, Mr. Allen was elected U. S. senator, serving in that high office until 1893, when he was defeated for reelection. He subsequently removed from Walla Walla to Seattle, where he associated himself in the practice of law with the firm of Struve, Hughes & McMicken.

The news of Senator Allen's death was a shock to his numerous friends in this city. Edward Whitson, a brother-in-law of the deceased, was notified by wire, and accompanied by Mrs. Whitson, left the same afternoon to attend the funeral.

Yakima National to Build.

Wednesday of this week the last detail of the big deal was arranged whereby the Yakima National Bank becomes the owner of the valuable business corner on which the store of the Yakima Hardware Co. is now located. The latter corporation received $12,000 as the consideration for parting with its 45 feet of frontage on Yakima avenue, which is considered only a fair price by good judges of realty values in this city.

The transfer of this property means that a stately and commodious new business block will be constructed this season by the bank people on their new site. The new building in all probability will be of brick, but it is not yet determined whether the building will be two or three stories in height. It will be 140 feet in length, extending to the alley in the rear. It is also the intention of the bank officials to extend their present building on to the alley, which would give them in all a solid building 100x140 feet in dimensions.

The hardware company in selling its property has made arrangements with the bank for a 20-year lease on a good portion of the building, which will give them a 45-foot frontage on the avenue as well as 60 feet frontage on First street and a portion of the second floor. The Bank, of course, will occupy the corner room in the new building, when completed. The arrangement is regarded as most advantageous to both corporations.

THE YAKIMA

JOHN DAVID MEDILL,
Editor and Publisher.

Entered at the North Yakima Postoffice as Second-Class Matter.

One Dollar Per Year—In Advance.

Published every Saturday morning at the Democrat Printing House on First Street, North Yakima, Washington.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THE time has arrived in the history of irrigation in this valley when the question of water supply must necessarily become the all absorbing issue. Heretofore, as a rule, there has been plenty of water in the Yakima river and its tributaries for everybody who possessed a right to use it and there is still plenty for the present users. However, large tracts are yet to be redeemed from the sagebrush waste in the Yakima valley, an area perhaps ten times as great as that now under water. It is impossible for this water to proceed until provision is made for a larger supply of water than we now have, especially in the months of midsummer and the early autumn. The upshot of the whole matter is that before any other large enterprises in the way of canal construction can be undertaken successfully a way must be found to dam up the waters of the Yakima river in the mountain lakes where it originates and hold it back until such time as it is needed. Nature has provided the necessary reservoirs in the shape of a series of lakes in the Cascades, which with some needed work done upon them in the way of dams will answer the purpose in a first rate manner, so experts say.

Now, that these natural reservoirs ought to be the property of the national government every man will concede who knows anything about the all important subject of water supply in an irrigated country. If it is not possible to induce the national government to assume such sovereignty then the state government ought to do it and if the state government won't do it then the people who depend upon such a supply for their water ought to combine together and take steps to jointly own and control the water upon which they must depend for their prosperity.

It is extremely dangerous to allow one man or a corporation or even a number of corporations to step in and virtually assume the ownership of a water supply upon which a whole community must depend. In case of private ownership of the reservoirs what is to prevent a few big fish from taking all the water at critical times?

The Democrat, aiming, as it does, to look at every public proposition from the standpoint of the people, is not inclined to believe that the best interests of the average citizen of this section would be best subserved by the passage of a law through our state legislature granting to any corporation the right to control the natural reservoirs of the Yakima river.

If the people of this valley permit the mountain lakes to pass into private ownership, and thus place themselves in a position where they would have to dance every time some corporation hiring cracked his whip, they will make a serious mistake and the great majority of them will live to see it.

If God made the Yakima river, as Mr. Scudder says, he certainly didn't make it for the special benefit of any man or corporation.

THE newspapers, or the majority of them, have been publishing red hot editorials denouncing Lieut. Gov. Tillman for killing Editor Gonzalez of the South Carolina State. Tillman is held up as a red handed murderer who ought to be made to expiate his crime on the gallows.

The facts seem to be that Gonzalez persisted in roasting Tillman in his paper until the worm finally turned and in the heat of passion destroyed his tormentor. According to southern papers, Gonzalez used some pretty harsh language in his editorial denunciation of Tillman, in which the latter was referred to as an "ass," a "deep-dyed villain" and a "political cut throat." This campaign of vituperation and abuse was kept up for months, Tillman all the while being held up to the public as an object of contempt.

The trial of Tillman will be keenly watched all over the country. Without doubt he deserves severe punishment, but it is freely predicted that no jury can be had in South Carolina that will vote to hang him, if indeed to convict him at all under the circumstances.

In the opinion of most intelligent, unprejudiced men, the much vaunted liberty of the press should not be permitted to run riot. Why an editor with any brains should assume that he has either the legal or moral right to assassinate the character of any fellow man or hold him up to public contempt is almost beyond comprehension.

SENATOR SPLAWN has introduced a bill in the legislature (Senate bill No. 80) which fixes the salary of the secretary of the state fair commission at $1500 per annum. The bill also gives the commission wide latitude in the matter of fixing the dates for holding the fair.

THE election of Reed Smoot, an apostate of the Mormon church, to the U. S. Senate by the republican legislature of Utah, is a public disgrace and an insult to the people of the entire country.

Of course, the constitution of this country guarantees to every citizen the right to believe in any form of religion that the individual may see fit to choose or in no religion at all if he should be so constituted. The constitution fairly implies, however, and every public officer of the United States must take an oath to the effect that his allegiance to his country is paramount to every other duty where there may be a conflict.

If all reports be true the Mormon church teaches the obnoxious and antiquated doctrine that the first allegiance of its votaries is to itself and that in comparison a member's duty to his country and its flag is secondary, if to be observed at all. For many years it preached openly and continues to preach secretly that a man may have as many wives as the church will allow him and that he feels the ability to support. This pernicious doctrine the Mormon church persisted in teaching until the legal arm of the national government forced it to abandon it.

Smoot may not now be a polygamist, as he declares, but the fact that he is a high functionary in such a medieval institution as the Mormon church, which is notoriously un-American in spirit and in practice ought to disqualify him from a seat in the senate. President Roosevelt gave it out flat some time ago that Smoot was not wanted in the senate and that his election would be a serious mistake. Instead of acting on this hint the republican legislature of Utah went ahead and elected the Mormon chief and the probabilities are that he will take his seat, much to the disgust of millions of patriotic people in this country.

THE jig is now up. The die is cast and Levi Ankeny has at last been given the right by a corrupt majority of the legislature to wear what he has so long coveted, a senatorial toga.

From a purely political standpoint there is a reason, perhaps, why a democrat in this state should rejoice at the final success of Ankeny in buying his way into the national senate, but we should all look at the matter as citizens rather than as partisans. It seems to us, considering the disgraceful methods which this man and his heelers have employed, that his election to the highest office within the gift of the people of this state is no less than a public calamity and disgrace. Viewed in the most charitable light it is a serious mistake for which the state will necessarily suffer.

Ankeny's wealth, of itself, is not objected to as a bar to his preferment, but the fact that he has used it lavishly to corrupt men, to tempt them to repudiate their sacred pledges and to part with their manhood is the real reason why the man is held in public contempt by self respecting men of all parties in this state.

It should be noted that Yakima's two representatives, Hare and Dunn, used their votes to aid Ankeny in the caucus. When the Democrat stated immediately after the nominations were made that these men would vote for Ankeny a good many republicans scouted the suggestion and intimated that the editor was "talking through his hat." Well, what have such gentlemen got to say about it now?

AFTER a most strenuous fight the democrats of the Colorado legislature succeeded last Saturday in reelecting Henry M. Teller to his seat in the U. S. senate, a fact that gives intense satisfaction to democrats all over the country.

This is not only because Teller is the "grand old man of Colorado," but because the republican leaders of his state, headed by the unprincipled Wolcott, formed a conspiracy to steal his seat. The revolutionary methods employed by the Wolcott gang in deliberately unseating enough democrats in the house to give them a majority on joint ballot was promptly frustrated by the democratic senate which unseated two republicans, thus restoring the democratic majority on joint ballot. It was not the most desirable way to reelect the "grand old man," but it was the only way. The means adopted illustrate the truth of the old saw regarding the necessity of fighting the devil with fire.

"YAKIMA" JONES doubtless found out at last to his satisfaction that the government levied a duty on anthracite coal under the provisions of the Dingley act. At any rate he had the chance to learn that such was the case by reason of the recent debate in congress. In the vote taken in the house to suspend the duty on coal for the period of one year the two benighted congressmen from this state and three other unfortunates were the only ones who voted "nay." It seems funny that "Jonesy" and "Cush" didn't get on the band wagon.

THE local correspondent of several state dailies is evidently possessed of a powerful imagination. The Democrat's scoop of last week, anent the Cowlitz coal fields, was seized upon by him, dressed up in somewhat different language and a good deal of supposition added, to-wit: That home capitalists were preparing to build a railroad from this point to the new fields. This latter information would be good news if it were true, but, unfortunately, it isn't true.

SENATOR SPLAWN, in a letter addressed to Hon. H. J. Snively, of this city, under date of Jan. 28, characterizes as "rot, pure and simple," the assertions made in a number of republican papers that he intended to vote for Levi Ankeny for senator. On the contrary, Mr. Splawn states his intention of going down the line for Senator Turner and the commission bill, as he is pledged to do. Yakima Republic, please copy.

KING county will never secure a Senator as long as she persists in sending a job lot of double dealing political scoundrels to represent her in the legislature. Neither should she. The sympathy of a majority of the decent people of the state has been with Preston from the start in this dirty senatorial fight, but that unfortunate candidate stood no show to win from the beginning because of treachery in his own camp.

THE Spokesman-Review is talking pretty plain to republican legislators these days, anent the commission bill. To such as propose to sell out, thus betraying their party and constituents, the Review tenders the advice that they demand a big price in payment for their perfidy, as political death will be their portion in any event.

In Memory of "Bobby" Burns.

A pleasant little party to the number of twenty-four gathered at the home of Mr. George Donald Monday evening to do honor to the memory of the immortal Scottish bard, Robert Burns. Through the efforts of G. S. Vance and Ronald McArthur, the beautiful home of the host was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

About 10 o'clock the merry party sat down to a sumptuous repast. The tables groaned under a burden of good things, including a number of good old Scotch dishes that had been prepared by Grandma Donald for the occasion.

G. S. Vance was master of ceremonies, the genial host himself acting as toastmaster. The toasts were all impromptu, a number of the guests responding in a humorous vein to the subjects assigned them.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ker, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sloan, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Fichter, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cornett, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Vance, Will Cameron, Miss Cameron, Miss Lizzie Cameron, Mrs. Frank Wheeler, Miss Hamilton, Mr. Frank Bartholet, Mr. Ronald McArthur, Mrs. Jane Donald, Mr. George Donald, and George Donald Jr. The party broke up about 12:30. The guests of Mr. Donald seem to be of the unanimous opinion that his "Burns party" was the most pleasant and enjoyable social event of the season.

Virginia Drew Trescott with Lord Strathmore Company.

Miss Virginia Drew Trescott, a society lady of Portland, Oregon, a member of the well known Drew family and one of the best leading women now before the public, has created the role of "Lady Vavasour" in the dramatization of Onida's novel "Strathmore." She will appear in this city with the "Lord Strathmore" company at Larson's theater on Friday night, February 6th.

Miss Trescott is a remarkably handsome woman, the possessor of a beautiful voice which she handles with consummate skill. Her queenly bearing makes her the center of attraction during the scenes which afford a splendid opportunity to display her talents. As an artist, Miss Trescott has conscientiousness and ardent enthusiasm, and she is never so happy as when she is doing a benevolent action. On account of exceptional gifts and admirable qualities as a woman, the young Portland actress is indeed a general favorite, loved and admired wherever she has appeared.

Big Rush for Olympic Country.

Charles Carpenter, of Puyallup, was in the city the first of the week renewing old acquaintances. Ten to fifteen years ago Mr. Carpenter used to make frequent trips to this valley while engaged in the business of handling Yakima valley lands. He expressed astonishment at the growth that North Yakima has made since he was here last, several years ago.

For the past two years Mr. Carpenter has spent most of his time in Clallam county, where he is interested in timber lands. He stated to the Democrat that there is now a remarkable rush of people into that section of the state, the newcomers being in search of timber land, which is now getting very valuable. The fact that the N. P. R'y. Co. is building a new line from Hoquiam up the ocean beach to Port Angeles, is doing much to encourage settlement.

Author Roosevelt on the Presidents.

It will be remembered that about a year and a half ago republican organs were filled with violent criticisms of men who dared to speak slightly of a president, and criticisms of a president were likened to anarchy. Indeed, the assassination of William McKinley was attributed to the newspapers and speakers who criticized Mr. McKinley and his policies, and these same republican organs demanded a federal law limiting free speech and free press. These facts are recalled for the purpose of emphasizing some of the extracts which the Columbia Herald has made from Roosevelt's "Life of Thomas H. Benton."

Speaking of Thomas Jefferson, Author Roosevelt said: "The scholarly, timid and shifty doctrinaire. . . . Was the father of nullification and therefore of secession. . . . Cheap pseudo-classicisms that he borrowed from the French revolutionists. . . . Constitutionally unable to put a proper value on truthfulness."

Of Martin Van Buren, Author Roosevelt said: "Faithfully served the Mammon of Unrighteousness. . . . Succeeded because of and not in spite of his moral shortcomings."

This is what Author Roosevelt wrote concerning Franklin Pierce: "A small politician, of low capacity and mean surrounding, proud to act as the servile tool of men worse than himself."

When Author Roosevelt wrote of James K. Polk this is what he said: "Excepting Tyler, the very smallest of the small presidents between Jackson and Lincoln."

Of President Monroe, Author Roosevelt wrote as follows: "Colorless, high-bred gentleman, of no especial ability, but well fitted to act as presidential figurehead."

But Author Roosevelt's opinion of John Tyler is especially interesting. "He has been called a mediocre man; but this is unwarranted flattery. He was a politician of monumental littleness. . . . His chief mental and moral attributes were peevishness, incapacity to make up his mind, together with inordinate vanity."

If we remember aright, similar estimates of presidents made by other gentlemen were denounced as "anarchy" and "abuse of the freedom of speech," by the writer of the above estimates of presidents. And if memory is not playing us false we recall a number of remarks to the effect that such "attacks" on a president were responsible for "anarchy," and that those who made them should be held responsible along with the assassin for any crime committed because of their "influence upon weak and irresponsible minds." Is it patriotism to defame a president after death and anarchy to criticize him while living?

A comparison of Author Roosevelt's words with President Roosevelt's words will bring to light many interesting things; and, above all, it establishes a splendid precedent for criticizing the chief magistrate whenever opportunity presents itself.

In this connection, moreover, it is interesting to compare the opinions expressed by President Roosevelt of some of his predecessors in the White House with the opinions expressed by one of the greatest American historians, the late John Fiske. You have read above, Mr. Roosevelt's estimate of Thomas Jefferson. But Mr. Fiske (Massachusetts Yankee as he was) calls Jefferson "the conservative reformer," and says, "as a political leader we have hardly seen his equal." You have noted what Mr. Roosevelt says of Martin Van Buren. This is what Mr. Fiske says: "Van Buren had a more philosophical and luminous view of the proper sphere and functions of government, in its relations to the people, than any other American statesman since Jefferson. The mantle of Jefferson fell upon Van Buren, and it was to Jackson's credit that he took that statesman into his innermost councils." You have also observed what Mr. Roosevelt says of President Tyler. Mr. Fiske says: "While we cannot call him a great man * * * he is not so trivial a person as his detractors would have us believe. He was honest and courageous. * * * If he was small as compared with Jackson he was great as compared with Pierce."—Sumner Herald.

His "Darlingest, Darlingest Angel."

Rev. C. D. Nickelson, the Colfax preacher who threatened to commit suicide because of his love affair with Mrs. M. E. Dunbar of this city, has been suspended from the ministry of the M. E. church at his recent trial at Spokane which was concluded last week. The deposed preacher is very bitter over the manner in which he was found guilty of "conduct unbecoming a minister" and has said some rather harsh things against the judge and jury that voted him guilty in four out of the five charges preferred against him.

The Spokesman-Review of last Monday published a picture of Mrs. Dunbar that attracted a good deal of attention locally. It is a reproduction of Mrs. Dunbar's picture, taken while that lady was posing as the "angel" in the recent presentation of the "Belshazzar" in this city.

Mrs. Dunbar is said to be in Portland at the present time, where she is perfecting herself in music.

How Mining Pays.

Mining is a business, a science, requiring in its successful conduct the same degree of intelligence, skill and experience that is required in any intricate or complicated enterprise. Where a man brings these qualities to bear mining is uniformly successful and the result is certain. The trouble is that almost every man who goes out in the hills and stumbles over a piece of rock salt imagines himself a mineral expert and a miner. He forthwith picks up a smattering of technical terms, talks learnedly about chalcopryite, pyrothote and hornblende and then forms a million-dollar company on a prospect that he couldn't pawn for a square meal at a cheap Jap restaurant. There are many good mines owned in Tacoma and many good miners here, but they have been handicapped by the work of irresponsible with a limited capacity to think, who have injured a legitimate business in the past and who will continue to injure it as long as they are tolerated. There is no better time to commence the needful work of elimination than right now.

Many people imagine that the purchase of a thousand shares of stock in a mining company is in the nature of a gamble, and a speculation of the most hazardous kind. This is an error, if due business prudence and caution be exercised in making the investment. While there are some stocks not worth the white paper on which they are printed, and never will be, yet there are many that give reasonable assurance of good returns if conservatively and honestly managed. The Le Roi stock first sold for 5 cents per share; it is now quoted in London at $25. A miner once invested $500 in a prospect; his widow sold it for $82,000. Granite Mountain went begging at 10 cents and then by rapid leaps reached $68. On 1000 shares of stock the Treadwell pays $1,500 per year in dividends; the Homestake $6000 per year, and the Calumet & Hecla $33,000 per year. Similar instances could be multiplied almost indefinitely. Some time ago the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, a conservative publication, printed a list of 236 dividend paying mines, to own a thousand shares in any one of which would mean a respectable and steady income.—Tacoma News.

Of Revolutionary Stock.

Morgan V. Cochran, Sr., one of the pioneers of Rattlesnake, dropped into the Record office Tuesday for a chat with our reporter. The subject in discussion was concerning the lives of the pioneers who blazed the way for the present generation, and in the course of the conversation we learned that he was a nephew of Jas. and Levi Morgan, the famous Indian fighters who figured prominently in the early history of West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio. A monument raised to their memory was unveiled at New Martinsville, W. Va., on July 4th of last year.

It was a band of riflemen, led by these two men, who covered the retreat of General St. Clair's army and saved it from destruction, on the 4th day of November, 1791. The Indians were led by Little Turtle, and the battle occurred on the banks of a small tributary of the Wabash, near Fort Washington. Capt. Levi Morgan, the more distinguished of the two, died in 1829, at the age of 90 years.—Prosser Record.

Wild Zebras.

The zebra when wild is a ferocious animal, and an unwary hunter is likely to suffer from its teeth and hoofs. The author of "Kloof and Karoo" says that a Boer in Cape Colony had once forced a zebra to the brink of a precipice, when the desperate creature turned upon him, attacked him with its teeth and actually tore one of his feet from the leg.

Another author writes of a soldier who mounted a half domesticated zebra. The creature, after making the most furious attempts to get rid of its rider, plunged over a steep bank into the river and threw the soldier as it emerged.

While the man lay half stunned upon the ground the zebra quietly walked up to him and bit off one of his ears.

The Penalty of Being Idle.

Idleness is at the bottom of the drunkenness, gluttony and sensuality which compass the destruction of one section of the community at the present time. It is at the bottom of that particular form of heartache which is the plague of women—the heartache of a purposeless, miserable existence. Such women often look forward to marriage to cure them, but when they are married and settled the old malady recurs, and in our own day we see them running hither and thither after that elusive something. Others try to find a cure in the suffrage and others again in cigarettes.—Sarah Grand.

An Oklahoma Rotation.

In the summer, after corn has been given its last cultivation, Mr. Miller of "101" ranch, Oklahoma, has sown between the rows of corn a row of cowpeas. These peas do not need sunshine in order to grow, nor do they need cultivation. By the time the corn is harvested the cowpeas have grown up and are ready to pasture the cattle upon. As a forage they are very nutritious. Thus two uses are got out of the one cornfield. After wheat has been harvested the ground is at once plowed up and sown to Kaffir corn, and when the Kaffir corn is eight to ten inches high in the fall the wheat is drilled in under it. This drilling process does not destroy much of the Kaffir corn. After the wheat has got started to grow the cattle can then be pastured upon the field without injury to the grain. After all of the corn has been eaten down the field is left unharmed for a month or more, when the wheat blades are high enough to turn the herds upon.—New York Times.

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L. L. D.

Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first rising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm, which produces a cough, and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons, needing a medicine for throat or lung troubles." ### The King's Finger Bowl.

When a member of the royal family comes to dinner, it is a point of etiquette to provide none but the illustrious guest with a finger bowl at the end of the banquet. The other diners must get on somehow without that convenience.

The reason is a curious one. In early Georgian days one never knew who was loyal. Every other man might be a Jacobite in his secret heart. Now, it was a piece of Jacobite ritual whenever the toast of "The King" was drunk secretly to pass the goblet over any water that happened to be by the drinker. This was supposed to convert the toast into that of "The King Over the Water," the exiled Stuart at Rome or St. Germain.

On this becoming known the court insisted that there should be no water within reach of any guest, and the prohibition still holds.—London News.
