

Yakima, Wash. October 22-1924.

Dear Mr. Lockley:-

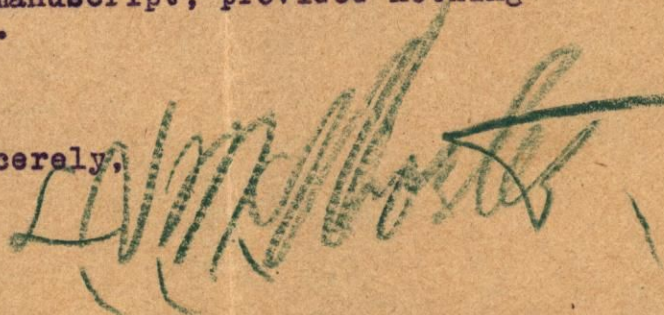

Thanks for the extra check, but other one has been found--as I wrote you by card--cashd and money spent. Returning check herewith.

Relative to publication of legends by Wash. State Hist. Socy. or University of Wash. I happen to be a curator of the first named, and seemingly there are no funds for publishing reports or any thing else of importance, although I understand that there is a goodly amount of material accumulating along historic and other lines. I do not suppose that the University would be in shape, or would care to handle it. There is a possibility that something may occur in the no distant future, possibly looking to publication of the legends.

I shall look into the probability of the Helena bankers being interested in the Mourning Dove's manuscript, provided nothing comes of present prospects now looming.

Thanking you kindly,

Very sincerely,

L.V. Mc Whorter,
