CHRISTMAS MEAT

— by C. M. Russell

In 1919 C. M. Russell remembered well the loneliness and cold of an 1880 cow camp, offset by warm hospitality and memories of childhood yuletides.

Dear Click,

Want to thank you for the nice pictures & the apples you sent. It was most generous of you. The apples were shared with my fellow artists & we all enjoyed them.

No doubt you will be interested in knowing the progress we have made to this date. All molds have been made on your plastaline models. This was my main interest. To be sure nothing would happen to them. We hope to have waxes on all subjects completed for the first week in December. Casting in bronze will be done during Dec. We plan on finishing in January. The schedule will keep us up-to-date for an early spring delivery. Also, photographs are being taken during the process & if all turns out well, you will have a set of photographs.

I read the write up you sent Lynn; & appreciate your kind words. Again, many thanks.

NATURE'S SOLDIERS (1903)

— by C. M. Russell

Blackfeet warriors on the trail, ready for any adventure or peril. Note the perfect perspective as Russell depicts the lead rider and horse, followed by the rest across a typical wind-swept prairie.
