OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE nineteenth century will have soon become a thing of the past and will occupy its place in history along with other centuries dead and gone. It will, however, occupy a greater place than any of its predecessors for the record it bears in the advance of civilization and human achievement is so incomparably greater than that of any other century since the Christian era that any attempt at a comparison seems merely an absurdity. Moreover it is manifestly unfair to make such a comparison for the reason that the glorious results achieved by science, by ingenuity or in the arts during this eventful century were in the great majority of instances possible only because of the rudimentary knowledge and actual results accomplished during and bequeathed to us by the eighteenth century. It is the last half of the present century, however, that will be known as the golden age of the world's development. This period would doubtless have set in earlier had not it been for the frequent and terrible wars that devastated the leading and most enlightened nations during the first 65 years of the century. Should an 18th century being now appear upon earth the chances are that he would naturally feel most extremely lonesome as in nearly every way he would find a different world from what he left. He would find the teachings of men so vastly different, especially in regard to science that he would be bewildered and lost. He would find for one thing that the popular dogma of his day the theory of a special creation had been almost entirely superseded by the recent theory of evolution, which he would find better calculated to sooth the imperious demands of reason when in a relentless search for facts as to the origin and destiny of the human race. It is a matter of deep regret, however, that the great glory of the closing days of the 19th century is marred and dimmed by a marked tendency in the human race to retrograde and loose sight of the greatest blessing bequeathed to us by the past and that is the love of liberty. Look where you will one can see the evidence of kingcraft encroaching more and more upon the liberties of the people. History is merely repeating itself and the pendulum of time moving backward. Long before the culmination will have been reached the golden age in which we now live will have become history and the world again perhaps plunged into the depths and misery of barbarism.

GROVER CLEVELAND, who was presumed by the general public to have retired some years ago, however ungraciously, to the privacy of his political tomb, has rushed into print recently to express his convictions and tender unmasked advice as to the future policy and management of the democratic party. The ex-president and ex-party leader of course complains of the present tendencies and attitude of the organization and seems to shed crocodile tears over what he purports to be a fact that the rank and file have no voice therein. The truth of this assertion depends entirely on what class Mr. Cleveland means when he speaks of the rank and file. The rank and file of the people that he has touched elbows with for the past 12 years, now for instance, should they be given a chance, would probably undertake to restore the "stuffed prophet" to the once proud position of leadership which cost his party so dearly. If he means that the rank and file of the democratic party as it exists today has the remotest intention of retracing its steps in order to follow in the wake of him and his former satellites, he is a very badly mistaken man. Oh, no indeed; now that it is all over and we have had our fill of Grover let the repudiated prophet return again to oblivion and remain there. Destitute of any feeling of gratitude towards the party that took him up an unknown man and twice placed him in the proudest position that a citizen of this republic can occupy yet he had the supreme nerve to use the great power and prestige of his office to humiliate and defeat the party which had blown the breath of political life into his huge and ungainly form. Cleveland may as well quit offering gratuitous advice to people who do not care for it and will not take it. Let him continue to make his bed with the republicans with whom he has been in close affiliation during the past two presidential campaigns.

AN agent of the British government is now in Kansas City with instructions to purchase 50,000 head of horses and mules for shipment to South Africa for the use of the army. The animals will be loaded on transports at New Orleans and 65 ships will be necessary to carry them to Cape Town or Durban. The voyage is said to be a very trying one on the poor horses as over 30 days will be consumed in making the ocean trip and as the equator must necessarily be crossed many of the animals in their overcrowded quarters succumb to the torrid heat and as the result of seasickness. The death rate in transit is said therefore to average 32 to the thousand, which brings the cost of the animals when landed on the shores of Africa up to the enormous price of $360 per head. But this is not all. The poor creatures when landed are in a weak and debilitated condition and unused to the climate, but owing to the pressing military necessities of the British army no time can be afforded them for recuperation, and six weeks service at the killing pace they are set at usually finishes them. During the past 15 months over 100,000 head of horses and mules have been shipped to the South Africa, nearly all of which are now dead. The horse is man's best friend and most faithful servant and it seems indeed a pity that so many of the noble animals should be ruthlessly slaughtered in this wholesale manner. But still we should remember that many brave men's lives are being daily sacrificed in the same manner, which forces one to call to mind the everliving truth of Gen. Sherman's trite saying that "war is hell."

DEMOCRATS and reformers generally will watch with much interest for the first appearance of Mr. Bryan's new paper, "The Commoner." The democratic leader as an editor is abundantly able to sustain the great reputation that he has made as a statesman and an orator, and his written views on public questions will unquestionably command public attention throughout the country, which will make The Commoner a most desirable paper for the general reader as well as for the political followers of Mr. Bryan. The DEMOCRAT is pleased to inform its patrons that it has made a clubbing arrangement with the Commoner and is therefore in a position to furnish the new paper at a reduced price.

THE talented editor of the Ohio Herald remarks that a great change has come upon the methods of business men since 50 years ago. Then a man always said when starting a letter, "I take my pen in hand." Now he will take his typewriter in his arms, and never say a word about it.

IT is a mockery to raise the flag in Porto Rico, while the governor stands under it and reads a proclamation that the island is outside the constitution and under congress.—Ex-President Harrison in an address at Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 14.

THE Hanna ship subsidy bill provides for the appropriation of $9,000,000 per annum for the period of 20 years for the alleged purpose of building up the American merchant marine. Such a system as Hanna is endeavoring to bulldoze congress into adopting will not to any appreciable extent aid in building up the merchant marine but it would certainly have the effect of building up a new crop of millionaires in this country.

THE editor of the Republic pats Congressman Jones on the back, tells him he is a mighty good fellow and that he intends to back him for U. S. Senator. Such slavish devotion as the colonel exhibits ought not to go unrewarded. The casual reader will observe by reading between the lines that "Jonesy" is being worked by the astute scribe for something or other.

HAPPY and prosperous New year to all our readers.

Christmas was a rather quiet day in town, the majority of people, of course spending the holiday at home. Christmas trees were much in evidence the night before, especially at the Methodist, Baptist, Christian and Congregational churches. The exercises in each were of a beautiful character and a large number of people witnessed the joy and happiness of the children as the gifts were bestowed on them.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Court Meyer has been seriously ill for some time owing to blood clot on the brain. Two local physicians performed a very difficult operation upon him Saturday since which time the patient has shown visible signs of improvement.

The Selah Valley Co. began hauling lumber this week for the purpose of building new flumes along the line of their canal. The company has directed its local manager, Mr. Englehart, to expend $10,000 during the coming season in needed repairs on the system which will include an enlargement of the ditch in places.

County Clerk Allen was somewhat annoyed on Wednesday at an item that appeared in the Yakima correspondence of the Spokane Review in which that official was represented as being determined to secure the increase in salary presumed to be due him owing to the advance in the county's classification. Mr. Allen indignantly denies that he takes any such attitude.

Justice Taggard on Monday made two young couples perpetually happy by tying for them, in the most approved manner, the connubial knot which is presumed to bind them for life. The happy quartette were Allen Moody Creamer and Miss Sadie Hinkle, Chas. Davis and Miss Ida E. Bryan. The ceremony for the latter couple was performed at the residence of F. A. Curry on the west side.

A. B. Weed has circulated a petition among the property owners of Yakima avenue for the paving of that thoroughfare the entire distance from the railroad track to Natchez avenue. Only one property owner, he states, refused to sign the petition. Mr. Weed is therefore sanguine that among the first acts of the new council will be to start the legal machinery in motion in order to bring this long needed improvement about.

A meeting was held at the city hall on Wednesday consisting of parties having dead relatives interred in the old Simmons grave yard north of town. It was unanimously agreed to remove the remains from that place and have them reinterred in Tahoma cemetery and the contract for removing the same was let to Amos High. The old site is the property of Capt. Simmons and has not been used for burial purposes during the last ten years.

Saturday was a red letter day in Auditor Kelso's office in the matter of issuing marriage licenses. Seven in all were issued to the following parties; James R. Brantener and Miss Pearl Shaw, Thomas Williams and Miss Bessie Brooks, Charles Davis and Miss Ida E. Bryan, E. J. Aumiller and Miss Laura Wright, Edward J. Hackett and Miss Zelma Greenwalt, Allen Moody Creamer and Miss Sadie Hinkle, J. Branchau and Miss Lilly Michels.

The Militia boys are working enthusiastically on the proposition to build an armory. They ask the citizens to donate the sum of $600 with which to purchase three lots on First street on which the company is said to have an option. The proposed structure would be 75x120 feet in size with an available space of 75x100. It is estimated that the building could be constructed for $2000 which the boys think can be raised by stock subscriptions within the company itself.

H. B. Seudder this week received a letter from a prominent business man of Seattle to the effect that a well planned effort would be made at the coming session of the legislature to have the state capitol location re-submitted to the people. The gentleman states that a very strong sentiment exists in that city in favor of removal from Olympia and suggests that North Yakima is the proper place for the capitol owing to its central location and that the people here ought to bestir themselves and make another bid for it.

John Sawbridge and a number of other Yakima men who are interested in the Gold Hill mining district feel hopeful that the coming session of the legislature can be induced to make a sufficient appropriation to finish the state wagon road through to the Sound country. At any rate they say that all the pressure possible will be brought to bear on that body to secure the necessary aid. Pierce county members they say, have pledged themselves to do everything in their power to secure the appropriation and on the efforts of the delegation from that county local mining men place much stress.

If Job were to rise from the dead and look upon the heavens, says Professor T. J. J. See in The Atlantic, he would see the constellations related to one another as of old, but he would find that the pole had shifted its position among the stars, and if an immortal could witness the grand phenomenon which the precession of the equinoxes produces in about 12,900 years he would find the heavens so altered that the former aspect could be recognized only by an understanding of the changes which had intervened.

As Humboldt justly remarks, the beautiful and celebrated constellation of the Southern Cross, never seen by the present inhabitants of Europe and visible in the United States only on our southern coast, formerly shone on the shores of the Baltic, and can again be seen in that latitude in about 18,000 years. The cross will then be visible on the shores of Hudson bay, but at present it is going rapidly southward, and in a few thousand years will be invisible even at the extreme point of Florida.

In like manner the brilliant star Canopus in the constellation Argo, situated some 37 degrees south of Sirius, is now visible in the southern portion of the United States. In about 12,000 years it will cease to rise even in Central America. From the same cause, if Ptolemy were to again look upon the heavens at Alexandria, he would be unable to recognize Alpha and Beta Centauri, which he easily saw and catalogued in the time of Hadrian. At present these magnificent stars are just visible at the pyramids, near Cairo, and in a few more thousand years they can be seen by dwellers on the Nile only in upper Egypt.

Point of View.

The beautiful Griselda deprecated his passionate praise.

"I am but a worm, after all," she sighed, the traditions of her Puritan ancestry being strong upon

"But you look nice enough to eat!" protested the youth.

"Oh, you're a bird!" the shy girl faltered, as if to indicate that she deemed his attitude of mind largely a matter of point of view.—Detroit Journal.

Born—On Tuesday, December 19' to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morgan (colored) a son.

The Fin de Seicle club held their semi-monthly dance on Friday evening at Mason's opera house.

The St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber Co.'s yard was raided one night last week, the thief making away with about 1000 feet of lumber.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wilfong died suddenly on Friday evening as the result of croup. The funeral was held on Sunday.

A special communication of Yakima lodge No. 24, F. & A. M. has been called for Sunday night, the 30th for the purpose of conferring the third degree.

Mr. Ed. J. Aumiller and Miss Laura E. Wright were united in marriage on Christmas day, at the home of Wm. Aumiller, by the Rev. J. H. Condit.

Mr. Thos. Williams and Miss Bessie Brooks, both of Prosser, were married on Christmas eve at the Presbyterian manse in this city, by the Rev. J. H. Condit.

Jasper Mikkleson has begun the erection of a one story stone building on his Second street property adjoining the Central house. The new structure will be rented for business purposes.

A slight loss was sustained from fire at the Yakima creamery on Tuesday evening. The fire was promptly subdued, however, without making it necessary to call out the department.

The Footlight Dramatic Club, composed exclusively of home talent, will present, at Larson's theater on next Friday night, the highly interesting comedy "What Happened to Jones."

Three homestead entries were made at the land office on Monday. The parties filing were the Misses Carrie M. Rulling and Mary A. Cone, of Tacoma, on land near Mabton and Oscar L. Griggs, of Mabton, on a claim in the "Horse Heaven."

Next Sunday morning the Rev. J. H. Condit preaches his farewell sermon at the Presbyterian church. There will be no evening service. The Rev. Frank Hayden D. D. of Kearney, Nebr., will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit the first three Sundays in January.

The Band boys will give a dance at Mason's opera house on New Years night. The proceeds will be used to help the payment due on their new instruments. The music will be furnished by the full band and the orchestra. A good attendance is assured.

Yakima business men as a rule, report that they have enjoyed the best holiday trade this season that they have known for years. On Saturday and Monday particularly the different merchants with their added force of clerks were kept busy in supplying the Christmas trade.

A number of local teachers have been in attendance this week on the Washington State Teachers Association which was in session at Ellensburg during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Prof. McCurdy delivered an address on the subject "Why Should we Study the Natural Sciences."

The cases of the five men found guilty at the recent term of the superior court have all been appealed to the supreme court by the different attorneys acting in their behalf. If the appeals are perfected the accused men are thus liable to remain the guests of Sheriff Tucker for an indefinite period.

Lieut. Will Lemon has recently received from Col. Weisenberger, the present commander of the N. G. W., the regimental staff appointment of quartermaster with the rank of first lieutenant. This is the same office that the young man held while in the Philippines and is a deserved recognition of his soldierly qualities.

The chapter of Royal Arch Masons recently instituted here has been kept busy during the three last evenings of this week in conferring the Royal Arch degree on 12 novitiates which indicates a fast increasing membership. Richard S. Nichols and N. Stolling, of Oriental chapter, Seattle, are here assisting their brethren in the work.

Sneak thieves have been plying their vocation of late at the expense of church goers. A number of overcoats and raps having been purloined from some of the churches while service was in progress. It would seem as though a man guilty of such tricks must belong to the lowest order of humanity. If caught they will be apt to get the full penalty of the law.

"That Man" as presented at Larson's theater on Christmas night was a disappointment to most of the people in attendance. The plot to begin with is a weak one and the quality of the acting was for the most part decidedly amateurish. The piece is one that properly belongs to the variety stage and is suggestive enough to suit the taste of even the "gallery gods."

A Health Alphabet.

The Ladies' Sanitary Association of London compiled the following health alphabet a few years ago, which everyone might commit to memory and put into daily practice with profits:

- A—s soon as you are up shake the blanket and sheet;
- B—etter be without shoes than sit with wet feet;
- C—hildren, if healthy, are active; not still.

- E—at slowly and always chew your food well;
- F—reshen the air in the house where you dwell;
- G—arments must never be made too tight;
- H—omes should be healthy, airy and light.
- I—f you wish to be well, as you do, I've no doubt,
- J—ust open the windows before you go out;
- K—eep your rooms always tidy and clean;
- L—et dust on the furniture never be seen.
- M—uch illness is caused by the want of pure air;
- N—ow, to open the windows be ever your care;
- O—ld rags and old rubbish should never be kept;
- P—eople should see that their floors are well swept.
- Q—uick movements in children are healthy and right;
- R—emember the young cannot thrive without light.
- S—ee that the cistern is clean to the brim;
- T—ake care that your dress is all tidy and trim;
- U—se your nose to find if there be a bad drain;
- V—ery sad are the fevers that come in its train.
- W—alk as much as you can without feeling fatigue;
- X—erxes could walk full many a league.
- Y—our health is your wealth, which your wisdom must keep;
- Z—eal will help a good cause, and the good you will reap.

Throneroom of Spain.

The throneroom of Spain is a magnificent apartment of crimson and gold, with colossal mirrors and a chandelier of rock crystal that is considered the finest example of the kind in the world. Under the gorgeous canopy are two large chairs handsomely carved and gilded and upholstered in crimson brocade. These are the thrones of Spain, where the boy king and queen regent sit on occasions of ceremony. Sometimes the daughters stand beside their mother, when it is proper for all the royal family to receive the court.—International Magazine.

A Bad Symptom.

"Has George ever hinted that he had thought of you as a possible wife?" asked the anxious mother.

"No," replied the girl, a faraway look in her eyes, "and I'm afraid he never will."

"Why," said the mother, "I thought"—

"It doesn't matter what you thought, mamma, dear," interrupted the daughter. "Only last night he complained of feeling drowsy, and it wasn't 9 o'clock."

Were Married in a Tree.

When the minister and the two lovers who were having a tiff were all treed by an angry bull, then followed the queerest wedding on record. Charlie Bangs and his sweetheart, Emma Swanzer, left their home, near Montrose, a town not far from Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, one evening recently to go over to Great Bend to attend the wedding of one of their friends. Young Bangs' attentions to other girls whom they met irritated his finance so much that when the time came to go home the lovers were on very poor terms with each other. The minister accompanied them, but the party was a very quiet and unsocial one.

On the way home they crossed a field that was pre-empted by a bull noted for his ugly disposition. The bull soon let them know that they were trespassers, and when he charged down on them all three scudded for the trees. Bangs was in the lead and the minister covered the rear. Bangs also was the first up the tree, but the minister waited until he had boosted Emma up before he sought safety. Once up there every one began to feel so much better that, in spite of Bangs' haste to lead in the retreat, a reconciliation was effected on the spot—or rather on the boughs.

Suddenly it occurred to one of them that here was a chance to have a record-breaking wedding, and then there a marriage ceremony was performed. Pretty soon the owner of the bull came along and drove the animal away, when the liberated party went at once to the home of the bridegroom.

Same Old Englishmen.

There is an almost pitiful significance in the news which announces that the recent reverses to British arms in South Africa are directly traceable to a failure of the cavalry contingent of General Clement's forces to properly perform that scouting duty upon which the safety of an army, especially when invading the enemy's country, so vitally depends.

This is the old story of a year ago, when repeated Boer victories dimmed the militant prestige of England to a degree from which the nation has not yet recovered. The Britishers fought well enough—there were epic deeds done by their gallant officers and enlisted men—but they fought under the terrible disadvantage of an almost total ignorance of the enemy's strength or equipment or disposition over disputed territory. This, of course, is the duty of the cavalry, "the eyes of the army," to learn by effective scouting service.

One would think that the bitter lessons taught the British in the earlier days of the war against the Transvaal Dutch were too plain and too costly to be ignored to the extent of making a repetition of such teaching possible. But your Englishman is a stubborn fellow about learning anything from other folk. He counts upon sheer pluck to bring him through a fight—and, as a rule, he comes through manfully enough but at a loss which is inexcusable in the eyes of soldiers who rate intelligence as equal to courage in warfare.—St. Louis Republic.

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21, 1900.

Mr. McKinley is eating the crow prepared for him by the senate when it thoroughly Americanized the Hay-Pauncefote treaty before ratifying it as though he enjoyed crow as much as he did Christmas turkey. But that is not strange. He is always in favor of what the majority favors. He has heard from the people as well as from the senate, and will direct that the amended treaty be forwarded to the British government with as much complacency as though it hadn't been amended at all. Secretary Hay made it easier for him by giving out an official statement saying that he was personally responsible for the wording of the original treaty, and that it was agreed to by the British ambassador without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i." This action of Mr. Hay was but following the example of Alger who made a scapegoat of himself to save Mr. McKinley's feelings. It is the belief of most senators that England will accept the amended treaty, but many of them do not hesitate to say that it is perfectly immaterial to them whether she does or not.

Senator Hanna took occasion before Congress adjourned until January 3rd, for the holiday recess, to do some vigorous cracking of the party whip over the heads of those republican senators who have dared to express opposition to the ship subsidy bill. He threatened them with all sorts of things if they did not get into line for the bill by the time Congress reassembled, and added that no republican who opposed the bill need expect congress to appropriate at this session. When the house committee on rivers and harbors met, at the beginning of the session, it was understood by the members that the bill to be prepared should not carry a total of more than $40,000,000. That understanding was knocked into a cocked hat by the provisional agreement by the committee to items in the bill which, with provision for continuing contracts, nearly doubled the amount first named. That frightened the committee, and a decision was reached to cut the total of the appropriations carried by the bill down to $60,000,000, which will in the opinion of most persons, be a sizeable amount.

Close friends of the administration admit that Mr. McKinley and his cabinet are in a state of anxiety concerning the decision that the U. S. Supreme Court will hand down in the cases involving the constitutionality of the McKinley policy toward the islands acquired from Spain which were argued this week—in other words, whether the constitution follows the flag where it is permanently placed. Attorney Gen. Griggs made the argument against that contention, and lawyers say that it was one of the ablest he ever made. It is not known of course what the decision, which is expected some time in January, will be, but the preponderance of legal opinion, entirely outside of politics, seems to be that it will be against the administration. That opinion is privately held by many who support Mr. McKinley.

Mr. McKinley's nomination of Mr. J. G. A. Leishman, of Pennsylvania, to be U. S. minister to Turkey, is considered to be an official acknowledgement of the failure of the series of bluffs, beginning with the departure from Constantinople of U. S. Minister Straus and ending with the call of the battleship Kentucky to Smyrna, Turkey, to make the sultan pay the claims of American missionaries for property destroyed by Turkish mobs, leaving the sultan the winner, as the claims have not been paid.

The senate committee on military affairs has knocked out the army reorganization bill passed by the house, which was prepared by Gen. Corbin, and credited by Secretary Root, by preparing a substitute which will be reported to the senate when congress reconvenes. The substitute provides for the same number of men as the house bill, but in the organization follows the recommendations of Gen. Miles. It also provides for a continuance of the army canteen, which the house voted to abolish to please the ladies of the W. C. T. U., who were at the capitol in force when the vote was taken, only stipulating that beer shall be the only intoxicant sold.

Although the resolution authorizing the retirement as a captain in the navy of Representative Boutelle, of Maine, who is now in a sanitarium suffering with an incurable brain trouble brought on, everybody knows how, went through the house and senate without objection and is now in the hands of Mr. McKinley. There are lots of senators and representatives who believe it to be a bad precedent for congress to set but who dislike to oppose it for fear that they would be charged with lack of feeling for a poor fellow whose friends only asked that he be provided with a government salary for the rest of his life. If congress should undertake to provide for all such the country would soon be bankrupt.

The Beautiful Long Ago.

Out in the woods where the air is sweet
And the fragrant wild things blow,
Dwelt you and I from the world apart
In the beautiful long ago.

Do you remember the pale pink flower
That grew by the wayside there?
Oh, every leaf was a leaf of gold,
And the commonest weed was rare!

There were snow white tents in the alder grove,
Where the gypsies slept at night—
And oh, but each hour was an hour of love,
Set with moments of delight!

The ceiling that trembled above our heads—
Was it only the sky's deep blue?
The jewels that hung on the lily's stem—
Were they only the drops of dew?

And the song that went to the gates of God
Thro' the dawn's first emerald hush—
Was it sung by a seraph lost from heaven,
Or a golden noted thrush?

Oh, love, my love, there was never a conch
So soft as that velvet sod!
And every song was a seraph's song—
For the soul of our love for God.

And oh, for the woods where the air is sweet,
And the fragrant wild things blow!—
Where we two loved as the angels love,
In the beautiful long ago.

HEATING GREENHOUSES.

Large Cast Iron Pipes Versus Small Wrought Iron Ones.

The question of large cast iron pipes versus small wrought iron ones for hot water in a small greenhouse has been studied at the Rhode Island station and reported upon as follows:

The piping consisted of equal lengths of 4 inch cast iron pipe and of 1½ inch wrought iron pipe. The large pipes had therefore 2 2-3 times as much radiating surface as the small ones. The two kinds of pipe were used on alternate days throughout the test, the change from one to the other being made at noon. At each change the water was drawn from the heater and pipes, they were refilled with cold water, and the fire was started anew. The results show that as regards economy of fuel there was no perceptible difference between the two systems. Had the radiating surface in the two cases been equal the results might have been different.

The large pipes were found to cool off very much more slowly than the small ones. In three hours after the fire was drawn the large pipes had cooled down on an average about 70 degrees F., while the small ones had cooled about 100 degrees F. Probably on account of this difference in rapidity of cooling the large pipes maintained the temperature of the house better toward morning, when no care was given to the heating. When the large pipes were used, the average temperature of the house at 6 p. m. was 1.1 degrees F. higher, at 9 p. m. 1.5 degrees F. higher, at 12 p. m. 2 degrees F. higher and at 6 a. m. 3.5 degrees F. higher than when the small pipes were used. This, though important with small houses, is much less so with large ones, where a man may be profitably employed to attend to the heating at night.

A point in favor of the small pipes was the greater rapidity with which they could be heated up. After starting the fire it took nearly three hours to heat the large pipes to their usual temperature and only 1½ hours to heat the small ones. This difference would doubtless have been somewhat less marked if the total length of the small pipes had been increased until their combined radiating surface was equivalent to that of the large pipes, for there would then have been less difference between the quantities of water to be heated in the two cases.

The cost per square foot of radiating surface is not very different in the two cases. As to ease of manipulation, the wrought iron pipes can be readjusted to suit new conditions very much more readily than the cast iron pipes.

Nitrogen From the Air.

Sir William Crookes, the British scientist, thinks we are within 30 years of the end of our natural possibilities in wheat culture. In order to increase the average yield of wheat per acre and keep up with the increasing demand more nitrogenous fertilizer must be used. Sir William believes that the ordinary sources of nitrogen—guano, nitrate of soda, etc.—will not suffice. As to the legumes, which assimilate nitrogen from the air and convert it into available form for plant food, he predicts a limit to the period of this process, and does not find the remedy for the threatened trouble in them, but there is an unlimited store of nitrogen in the atmosphere, and Sir William's idea is that this shall be manufactured by the quick processes of electricity into artificial nitrates, and should electricity from coal and steam engines prove too costly water power, such as that from Niagara, can be utilized. Therefore, according to Sir William, "the future can take care of itself. The artificial production of nitrate is clearly within view, and by its aid the land devoted to wheat can be brought up to the 30 bushels per acre standard."

Why He Wouldn't Subscribe.

"I was a country editor in Indiana about 25 years ago," said a retired news paper man. "One day an old farmer who had been one of my constant readers for three years, always paying in advance, came into my office and said he wanted me to quit sending him the paper. I was curious to know why, because he had been on the books so long. Then he told me he had missed from my columns a patent medicine advertisement in which was a testimonial from him of the efficacy of the medicine. He said that as long as the advertisement appeared he and his family always turned to it the first thing when they got the paper, and that his children were accustomed to talking about 'pop's name bein' in the paper.' I explained to him that the contract for the advertisement had expired and I could not run it without pay. But this failed to satisfy him. He insisted that his paper should stop at once. I wrote to the advertising agent explaining the incident, and I secured a renewal of the advertisement. Then the old subscribers name again went on the books. I am the only country editor I ever heard of who made money by losing a subscriber."—Exchange.

As a publisher Mr. Bryan will soon know what it is to see a dollar look like $1 when it comes in and like one of his own 50-cent dollars when it goes out.—Tacoma News.

This remark is doubtless supposed to be exceedingly witty. On analysis, however, it has merely the scientific distinction to be the net result of nothing. We often wonder that the paragrapher of the New's doesn't give himself a fatal case of ennui. Reading after him were like eating soap bubbles served on fried hydrogen with sauce a la Barmecide. Whoever he may be, he is a symposium of emptiness so utter that all known vacua were St. Patrick's Day plenums by comparison.—Sumner Herald.

When Democracy Was on Deck.

In the old days when the sails of our merchantmen whitened every sea, an American ship owner or captain would have laughed at the suggestion that he required assistance from the government to carry on his trade. Those were democratic days, when public taxation for private benefit had not been heard of. The commerce of the country was under the American flag because Americans built better ships and sailed them better than any competitors; they had the enterprise and the self-reliance needed for great ventures and the laws of the country imposed on them no burdens they could not lightly bear. All that they expected of the government of the United States was to secure to them their rights to the freedom of the sea.—Philadelphia Times.

True Love.

O for the love that comes without asking,
The love that dispels all doubts of the past;

The love that is given without any
Masking, the love that I know will be mine to the last.

O for the love that warms in the giving
The heart that is longing with love to be filled;

O for the love that makes life worth the living,
That says to the heart, with peace now be stilled.

O for the love from the one that none other
Can give to the heart, that claims but its own.

O for the love that in giving would Smother all that for which the heart would atone.

O for the love that in words tells the Story; That has never grown old since that "fountain" was filled.

O for that love which shines out in its Glory, and fills all the void in the heart that is chilled.

Uranus and its Four Moons.

Astronomers are turning their telescopes in the direction of the planet Uranus, which has become interesting of late by reason of the fact that it has assumed such a position in the sky that its four moons, revolving about it like so many golden shuttles, are at present in a plane at right angles with the line of vision from the earth.

Uranus is one of the great planets of the outer group in the solar system. Uranus is a very interesting sort of a world in more than one respect. It is about sixty times as big as the earth, and one of its years is equal to eighty-four of ours. From the viewpoint of its inhabitants (supposing any such to exist) the sun rises in the west and sets in the east, while all of the four moons have the same peculiarity. To them the sun looks only one four-hundredth as large as it does to us, inasmuch as they are 1,800,000,000 miles away from that luminary, and daylight is proportionately dim, though bright enough to see by comfortably, inasmuch as at mid-day it is equal to the illumination of fifteen hundred moons like ours.

Uranus has a diameter of 35,000 miles, and its distance from the earth is 1,700,000 miles.

A War That is Over.

The sad, the pitiful, the cruel war in the Philippines is "over." Its termination has been cabled to us, oh, how many times!

And now in the season of peace on earth and good will to men comes the news from the Philippines that Private Lynn Skinner, of Company D, Forty-third Volunteer Infantry, is to be shot on Christmas day for the offense of having gone to sleep at his post.

While the War Department discredits the news, it also admits that it is not necessary that its dignity should be disturbed by any such insignificant event as the mere shooting of a private.

Let us hope that the news is not true. It is true, however, that in his latest letter home Private Skinner wrote "D—n the Philippines, any way! And everyone thinks as I do."

It is also true that in the eight volunteer regiments ordered home on the expiration of their term of enlistment not a single man has been found who wants to enlist again. They indorse the Skinner sentiment, profanity and all. They bear eloquent testimony that the war is not over.—N. Y. World.

Monroe's Popularity.

No man except George Washington has ever actually received the unanimous vote of the electoral college for president of the United States, and yet to one other is really due the glory of such an election. While he did not receive it actually, he did virtually.

His first four years had been so eminently satisfactory to the people; they so thoroughly approved of his course in all essential points; he was so much the popular ideal of the people; his political enemies so rapidly melted from view and from very existence during those years that formed a part of the "Era of Good Feeling," that when the time for election came everybody with one accord seemed to be shouting "Monroe! Monroe! Monroe!" And it was the same later, when the electoral college met; vote after vote was registered for the president, until he had received 231, and there was one vote left. Mr. Blumer of New Hampshire arose when his name was called, and asked the privilege of making a statement. The privilege granted, he said that he desired to have it known that he considered that Mr. Monroe had earned a re-election; that he was entitled to it; that he had brought prosperity to the country and honor to the presidential chair; that he (Mr. Blumer) would rather see him in that office than any other man then living; that he was greatly pleased to see him receive such a large vote; but, he went on, he wished to announce that he intended to cast his vote for another, for it would break his heart to think of anyone else being given a unanimous vote and thus being honored on an equal with "our dear Mr. Washington," so he cast his ballot for Mr. John Quincy Adams.—Enquirer.

Tunnel Completed.

The great Cascade tunnel is completed and last Sunday the first passenger train of the Great Northern ran through it. This act, says the Seattle Times, is the golden spike of one of the most stupendous pieces of railroad engineering ever undertaken in this country. The immense hole in the mountain is 13,200 feet in length and in one place the roof of solid granite which covers it is 5350 feet in thickness. It has taken almost four years in construction, the work having been begun in the month of January 1897, and prosecuted constantly ever since.

Trees as Purifiers.

A single tree through its leaves is capable of purifying the air of the carbonic acid gas which has been exhaled by a dozen individuals, or even a score. A human being exhales in the course of 24 hours about 100 gallons of carbonic acid gas. According to Boussingault's estimate a single square yard of leaf surface, counting both the upper and lower sides of leaves, can, under favorable circumstances, decompose at least a gallon of carbonic acid gas in a day. One hundred square yards of leaf surface, then, will suffice to keep the air pure for one man.—North American Horticulturist.

Newspaper Don'ts.

Don't discontinue a paper until you have squared up with it.

Don't "knock" a paper unless you pay for it. Borrowers are the greatest fault-finders a newspaper has to contend with.

Don't abuse a paper if it uses space in printing something you do not consider worth reading. Others may like it and consider the matter you favor as pure rot.

Don't take a paper out of the post-office for five years and then refuse to pay for it "because you never subscribed for it, no how." It looks like working a skin game and then you could have refused it four years and eleven months before.

Don't ask the editor out to dinner and stuff him on roast turkey and trimmings. He can't stand such high living.

Don't get mad if your visitor's name does not appear among the personals. Perhaps you did not tell the editor and he is no mind reader.

Don't cuss the editor because his opinions do not conform to yours. If they did he might be at a variance with eight or ten million other people.

Don't pay the editor too much money at one time. He isn't accustomed to handling the stuff and an overdose might cause serious results.—Ex.

NEW IRRIGATION SYSTEM.

A Big Enterprise Contemplated for the Columbia River Country.

Mr. Chas. L. McGlothlen this week furnished the DEMOCRAT some interesting facts relative to a scheme that is on foot to irrigate a large body of land in this county lying parallel with the Columbia river and opposite to the White Bluffs, distant about 40 miles from this city.

Mr. McGlothlen, who owns a fine ranch on the banks of the big river, states that several months ago that section of country was visited and looked over by a Mr. C. B. Waring, a large eastern capitalist now residing in Seattle, who was accompanied by C. B. Livermore, a prominent real estate man of the queen city. During their stay these gentlemen made their headquarters at the McGlothlen ranch while surveying the situation. Both were delighted with the country and asked a great many questions relative to the soil, climate and possible means of irrigation.

Their investigations completed, the two gentlemen returned to Seattle full of enthusiasm and with a determination to perfect a plan for the reclamation by means of irrigation of a large block of land in that vicinity.

This week Mr. McGlothlen received a letter from each of the gentlemen outlining to a considerable extent their future plans in relation to their scheme. Mr. Waring stated that he had succeeded in purchasing from the railroad company some 6000 acres of land opposite White Bluffs and that he intended to push his scheme for its reclamation.

Mr. Waring says that he will first try the artesian well method and will be here soon to make arrangements with some of the local well borers for sinking an experimental well on his property. If the first well should prove a success an increased force will be put to work in sinking a series of wells. In case the well proposition should not be a success, means will be found for taking water out of the river upon the land which latter method is conceded to be quite expensive owing to the fact that the river at that point has but little fall.

The fact that such a scheme is in contemplation will be welcome news to the score or more of settlers in that part of the country, who knowing the advantages of that section have clung to their holdings confident in the belief that the time would soon come when that country now practically a desert, would under the stimulus of life giving water blossom into a district of great beauty and fruitfulness.

Got a Wife after 42 Years Advertising.

DURKEEVILLE, N. Y. Dec. 25, 1900.

Manley Munger, the farmer who advertised for a wife for 42 years, brought his bride home yesterday, and all the village turned out to welcome her.

Mr. Munger is 60 years old now. When he was a young man his ideas of a wife were so fastidious that none of the village girls at his home in Durkeeville, N. Y. suited him. He was situated where it was not practicable to travel far in search of one, so he conceived the notion of advertising for her. He did so, and the obscure little paper in which it appeared achieved fame temporarily for introducing the innovation

So, also did Mr. Munger, and replies came streaming in from every part of the United States.

As time went on Munger accumulated a vast number of letters and pictures until they became a burden to take care of. None of them was exactly what he wanted. He grew prosperous and managed his farm and property in the southern part of Chataqua county with material results. That and his correspondence have filled his life.

Lately Mr. Munger has extended his advertising and placed one with a Chicago newspaper. Miss Ethel Reed of Conneaut, O., read it and for her entertainment and curiosity answered it.

Mr. Munger read her letter with no more expectation than he had perused the thousands preceeding it. But when he had finished he consulted his heart and knew that she was the one. He didn't bother to answer it, but started out to find her. He was not disappointed when he saw her, and they were married immediately at her parents' home.

The bride is 26 years old and a blonde. She is educated and accomplished, and believes that she and Mr. Munger were intended for each other.

"Oh, I know it is unconventional and all that," she said the other day, "but intuition counts for something, and what does it matter whether we were introduced through a newspaper or a chaperone? I believe we will be happy together."

The bridegroom only smiled at his wife, and said simply: "She was a long time in coming but I know she is the one."

Where to Hunt for Them.

The Seattle P. I. contained an article a few days ago to the effect that a man by the name of McCormick intended taking passage on the Chas. D. Lane for South America for the purpose of hunting the chimpanzee and orang-outang. Now any 6-year-old school boy could tell the P. I. and Mr. McCormick that he might hunt for a thousand years in South America for chimpanzee and orang-outang without finding them, for the reason that they do not grow on the western hemisphere. We would suggest that McCormick load up his old fussee with salt and take a turn through the editorial rooms of the P. I. and see if he cannot get a shot at the kind of game he is looking for, without going so far from home.—Mt. Vernon Argus.

An Object Lesson in Subsidies.

"Forty years of experience in government is worth a century of book-reading," said Thomas Jefferson.

France has been paying ship subsidies steadily for 25 years. She is now paying $7,600,000 a year for them.

Norway pays no subsidies to her ships and never has done so.

Here then is Jefferson's test of "experience," and what does it show? Why that while France, paying out subsidies larger in proportion to her population and wealth than those Mr. Hanna wants the United States to pay, has only increased her total shipping tonnage 200 per cent since 1875, while within the same quarter-century period little Norway has increased hers by almost 400 per cent—twice as fast.—N. Y. World.

Identified by a Blind Man.

A blind man picked out his dead wife in the New York morgue a few days ago by his delicate sense of touch, says an exchange. Two women, both of the same name and both of whom died in Bellevue, were taken to the deadhouse at about the same time. When the morgue keeper caught the blind man's right hand and guided it to an upturned face, he said, "No, no; that's not my Mary!" The drawer was closed, and the next one was pulled out. The sightless man laid down his stick this time and used both hands. His face was transfigured as the tips of his fingers rested on the sharp set, cold features. "Mary," he whispered, "I have found you, dear! How thin your face has grown! How cold you are, Mary—how cold!" The blind man had made no mistake. The dead woman had been his wife.

A Story of Patti.

Patti once went on an excursion with a party of Americans, among whom was a young chap who could play on a banjo and sing "coon" and "rag time" songs like a professional. He did not intend that the great singer should judge of the quality of his art, but by accident she had a chance, and to the young man's joy she fell hilariously in love with every "rag time" melody he sang. This was a secret between the two until one evening Patti consented to sing for the company. Several listeners went mildly insane when the great artist, after a little preparatory "patting," sang "Mamie, Come Kiss Your Honey Boy."

Cuban Bric-a-brac In Vogue.

Curiosities and bric-a-brac from Cuba are now slowly coming into vogue. Oddly enough, they were quite fashionable 40 and 50 years ago. A favorite and one of the most beautiful objects imaginable is a bunch of crystals from one of the famous caverns in the limestone district. Some of these are as clear as rock crystal, and are not alone many faceted but are often covered in part with masses of large and small crystals of great brilliancy. When the faceting occurs in certain patterns, the crystal has the fire of a precious stone and, in a well lighted parlor will throw colored lights and fires in every direction. Still another beautiful object is a mass of fine fern leaf coral, which is found near the keys in the middle and eastern part of the island. Some of this is so delicate that it suggests a petrified cobweb.—Margherita Arlina Hamm in New York Mail and Express.

The Trunk Strap.

"No good," said a baggage man, touching as he spoke a rope that was tied around a trunk standing in a railroad baggage room. It was a stout rope and securely tied so far as the knot was concerned, but it did not bind on the trunk, and it would have been difficult, if not impossible, to draw it close without some mechanical means to help. As it stood with the rope loose about it the trunk could have been easily broken by careless handling as though there had been no rope around it at all.

"A strap is the only thing," the baggage man said, "to put around a trunk."—New York Sun.

The Glad New Year.

Thou art born in joy and cradled in hope, Pointing new paths for adventurous feet Promising power with the future to cope, Bring soft whispers of Springtime sweet, Harbringer of flowers and future times dear, What dost thou bring us, O, glad New Year?

Joy is often o'ershadowed with grief, While Hope's soaring pinions bringeth no light And sometimes forces sighs for relief; Sometimes in weakness turns back from the flight, While the old year lives as a memory dear, Then what dost thou bring us, O, glad New Year?

How little of the harvest of life do we know, While seeking treasures where there are none; So wind tossed and rain kissed the fruit must go, While eager that perishing flowers may be won, Then crying so sadly when these disappear, Then what dost thou bring us, O, glad New Year?

Then Faith hap'y comes with a mission of love, Driving sorrow away, bringing patience at length, Weary, we learn to find comfort above, When beaten we trust not in our own strength. Then when we value thy goodness and cheer, Thou dost bring blessings, O, glad New Year. —L. H. GALE

Harrison Against Hanna.

While Mr. Hanna was talking in the senate yesterday on the necessity of giving our merchant marine some "protection"—as though every foreign-made article used in our shipyards was not already admitted free of duty and no foreign built ship admitted to American registry—ex-President Harrison was out in a statement repudiating his alleged approval of Hanna's subsidy bill. Subsidy is not "protection," but something much less justifiable.

The great republican leaders of the pre-Hanna period were all protectionists, like Mr. Harrison, but not subsidists, like Mr. Hanna. John Sherman, the great predecessor of Hanna, was for free ships, but never for subsidies. Senator Morrill, of Maine, said, "Not a dollar of subsidies." Senator Chandler, the great Zach, of Michigan, said, "You will never restore your flag to the ocean by subsidies, I care not how great you make them." And Senator Edmunds truly characterized subsidy as nothing but "a favor to a set of men who wish to get some money out of the treasury."

But with the ascendancy of "commercialism in politics" the republican attitude has changed.—N. Y. World.

Admiralty Weak on Geography.
During the Boer war of 1880 the admiralty was hopelessly ignorant of the geography of South Africa.

The admiral in charge of the fleet at Cape Town received strict orders that he was not on any account to bombard the town of Potchefstroom. Now, as Potchefstroom is a good many hundred miles from the seacoast and lies on the Mooi river, which is barely 200 yards across and dry for three parts of the year, this order was superfluous.

During the same period the fleet was at Port Elizabeth, and the admiral headed dispatches to the admiralty from that seaport. By the next mail he again sent dispatches, but happened to head them Algoa bay.

The admiralty cabled out asking him what business he had to change the location of the fleet without instructions, sublimely ignorant of the fact that Port Elizabeth and Algoa bay are one and the same place.

By the way, the names Algoa bay and Delagoa bay are derived from the outward and homeward voyages of the old East Indianmen who, on their voyages to Goa, in India, were wont to call at Port Elizabeth on the outward voyage and at Lourenco Marques on the homeward voyage. Hence the names Algoa (to Goa) and Delagoa (from Goa).—Stray Stories.

Shoplifting.
Nothing has done so much to encourage stealing (shoplifting) as the modern department stores and their methods. The problem presented is a difficult one with which to deal, but while merchants have a right to display their goods the public also has rights and duties in the matter. If a banker dumps his cash on tables outside his desk railings and lets people handle it at will, he would not get much sympathy when he complained that it had been stolen, and if he continued the practice because these losses were more than offset by the increased profits which the display resulted in, as is the case with the department stores, there would be much justice in the claim that he had no right to make profits by any method which tended to debauch the public. In short, it may fairly be maintained that it is a prime duty of every citizen to exercise reasonable diligence in safeguarding his own property, and that if he neglects this he becomes in a measure a menace to society.—International Magazine

Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of said Committee on Streets and Ditches to prepare an assessment roll which shall contain a description of each lot or parcel of land included in said improvement district, together with the name of the owner, if known, if not, to be so stated, and the amount of the assessment against such lot or parcel set opposite the description, and in making such assessment the decision of a majority of said committee shall be deemed the decision of the committee.

Sec. 7. Sec. 8. The City Clerk shall note on said assessment roll, opposite each description, any change or amendment made by the City Council in such assessment, and shall thereupon deliver to the City Treasurer a certified copy of said assessment roll, as revised and amended by the City Council.

Sec. 9. Upon the receipt of the assessment roll it shall be the duty of the City Treasurer forthwith to publish notice in the newspaper doing the city advertising, for two successive weeks, that a certified copy of such assessment roll is in his custody, and that unless said assessments are paid to said City Treasurer within thirty days from the first publication of such notice, the same will be delinquent and be collected according to law.

Sec. 10. It shall be the duty of the City Treasurer to report at the first meeting of the City Council held after such assessments become delinquent to the City Council, what portion of said assessments have been paid, by whom paid, what portion is delinquent, together with a description of the lots and lands upon which said assessments are delinquent included within said local improvement district, together with the names of the owners, if known, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the City Attorney, under the direction of the City Council to enforce by proper proceedings the lien of such assessments upon the lots and lands in said local improvement district against which the assessments have not been paid.

Sec. 11. When assessments are collected by the City Treasurer the same shall constitute a special fund to be known as "Local Improvement District No. 22 Fund" and the same shall be applied in payment of the cost of the improvement herein provided for and to no other purpose and on presentation of any warrant or warrants drawn against said fund the treasurer shall take up said warrant or warrants drawn against the same out of any money in said fund, in the order of the issue of such warrants, or endorse on the back thereof the date and amount of any payment made if not paid in full.

Sec. 13. All assessments levied under the provisions of this Ordinance shall bear interest from and after the same become delinquent at the same rate as general municipal taxes.

Passed the Council December 17, 1900.

Approved December 18, 1900.

W. H. REDMAN,
Mayor.

Summons for Publication in Fore- closure of Tax Lien.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE State of Washington, for Yakima County, No. 1. W. Boyd, plaintiff, vs. Frank D. Hobbs, defendant. The State of Washington to Frank D. Hobbs. You are hereby summoned to appear within sixty days after the date of the first publication of this summons, to-wit, within sixty days after the 22d day of December, A. D. 1900, and defend the above entitled action in the above entitled court, and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, and serve a copy of your answer upon the undersigned attorney for plaintiff, at his office below stated; and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against you according to the demand of the complaint, which has been filed with the clerk of said court.

This action is brought upon Certificate of Delinquency numbered 844 issued on the 31st day of January, A. ## A PRETTY WEDDING.

The Branchau-Michels Nuptials on Christmas Day a Grand Affair.

A very pretty wedding ceremony was celebrated in the hotel Bartholet parlors at the hour of 3:00 p. m. on Christmas day, the bride being the attractive 19 year old daughter of landlord John Michels and the groom Mr. J. Branchau of this city, but recently of St. Paul.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomson, of the Baptist church, and was witnessed by a number of friends of the family.

Miss Mary Sentele, of Pasco, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. J. G. Aldrich officiated as best man for the handsome groom.

After the conclusion of the ceremony and the tender of congratulations from the guests, the merry party proceeded to the dining room where a most sumptuous wedding supper was in waiting, the table being most artistically decorated with bridal roses, smilax and carnations.

The happy young couple left on the evening train for Tacoma which city will be their future home. As they departed the crowd of relatives and friends present showered upon them a liberal quantity of rice to emphasize their best wishes for their future happiness.

The Firemen's Ball—List of Prize Winners.

The masquerade ball given on Christmas night at Mason's opera house by the Yakima fire department was a most enjoyable and highly successful affair. The capacity of the house was taxed to its utmost to accommodate the large number of dancers and spectators in attendance. The management this year was most generous in the distribution of prizes but notwithstanding the large amount paid out about $87 net profit was realized.

The committee on prizes had a most difficult task before it in making the awards, but the decisions as made, for the most part, commanded the approval of the spectators. The following is the list of the prize winners: For best costumed couple, Frank Spon and Miss Minnie Lever; largest couple, Frank Jackson and Mrs. Frank Sinclair; smallest couple, Ira Kinter and Miss Dora Rriggs; best sustained character Miss Annie Probach; most comic character "Doc" Sperry; best comic character, Fred E. Shaw.

The first prize for waltzing was won by Lewis Fulkerson and Miss Eva Davidson, the second by Lot Durgan and Miss Barbara Simpkins.

Four couple competed for the prizes in the artistic cake walk, namely Andy Davern and Miss Hilda Laubach, Albert Hawkins and Miss Minnie Fear, J. G. Hillyer and Miss Cora Davis, Abby Jordan and Miss Gertrude Ellis.

The performance given by the two first named couple was in the minds of the judges so nearly equal that it was decided to pool the first and second prizes, amounting to $17.50 and divide it equally between them, which was done. The third prize was divided between the two last named couple in the same manner.
