The FOURTH ANNUAL
Pacific Northwest International
Writers' Conference

July 30, 31, August 1, 1959

The Pacific Northwest International Writers' Conference, an incorporated non-profit literary association, is sponsoring its Fourth Annual Writers' Conference on the University of Washington Campus, July 30, 31, August 1, 1959.

The Conference opens with a "pre-conference" banquet Thursday July 30 at 7:00 P.M. in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building.*

James Warner Bellah, outstanding author and Saturday Evening Post writer, will be a featured banquet speaker. The public is invited to the opening banquet, price $3.50. All other sessions of the Conference will be held in the Student Union Building, but will be open only to registrants. The registration fee will be $12.00 for members of the Conference, and $14.00 to non-members.

Enlarged Program

Conference workshops begin on Friday, July 31 at 9:00 A.M. Subjects tentatively scheduled are Poetry, the Novel, Short Story, Writing for Television and Radio, Non-Fiction Books, Article Writing, Juveniles — and, as a special new feature, a panel program on Conservation and Outdoor Sports Writing.

The writers' workshops will continue on Saturday, August 1. General sessions scheduled on Friday and Saturday evenings are intended for all registrants and will feature outstanding authors, leaders in teaching of creative writing, and representatives of major magazines and book publishing houses. Leading professional authors' agents and editors have been invited to serve on the 1959 Conference faculty.

Time out for fun!

No-host luncheons in the Union cafeteria have been arranged as a popular attraction of the 1959 Writers' Conference. During lunch hours and coffee breaks, participants in the Conference will have opportunity to compare notes and "talk shop".

The Conference program will be a substantial one but will not be too crowded to preclude generous "breathing spells" for reunions and consultations.
