DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

List of Delegates Elected to the County Convention Today.

The democratic primaries held throughout the county last Saturday, to elect delegates to the county convention today, passed off quietly so far as the DEMOCRAT has been informed. In most of the precincts a good attendance is reported, considering the extremely busy season of the year, when harvesting is in full blast. The best of feeling was exhibited everywhere, the prevailing sentiment being to send representative men to the county convention for the purpose of nominating a county ticket.

Made a Good Catch.

Sheriff Tucker and A. G. McNeil of Prosser arrived in Town Tuesday morning with two prisoners, who gave their names as Jim Brady and Frank Ellingsworth. A third prisoner, John A. Perkins, a colored man, was also lodged in the county bastille, to be held as a witness against the two first named individuals.

It appears that Perkins had been in the employ of Contractor Burlingame on the new ditch below Kiona and having quit, was paid off Saturday. His story is that he boarded a freight train at Kiona Sunday morning and started for this city. The other two men saw him climb into a box car and proceeded to get in after him. Just below Prosser, Perkins says, the two hobos named proceeded to hold him up at the point of a revolver and extracted from him his whole summer earnings, amounting to about $50, notwithstanding his tearful protest. When the train slackened up entering Prosser, Perkins managed to make his escape and informed the train crew and some bystanders about the depot what had happened. The men immediately went through the train and finding the two culprits compelled them to surrender.

At their examination before a Prosser justice, the two men were bound over to the superior court, as was also Perkins, to make sure of his being on hand to testify. Sheriff Tucker was communicated with and went down after them Monday night.

Nominee For the Legislature.

John Scott, a brother of Assessor Robert Scott, stopped off between trains here Monday, while enroute to the Sound. Mr. Scott was at one time a resident of this county, moving from here to Walla Walla, following his vocation as a building contractor. During the last two years he has resided at Medical Lake, where he superintended the building of the new wing to the asylum. Unlike his brother in this city, Mr. Scott is a very ardent democrat. At the county convention held at Spokane last Saturday, he was nominated for the legislature. Residing in a district that is normally democratic, Mr. Scott feels reasonably sure of election. He says that Senator Turner will have almost all of northeastern Washington solidly at his back in the next legislature.

MEET IN MASS CONVENTION.

Socialist Party of Yakima County Nominates a Straight Ticket..

For Coroner—
JAMES KESLING, N. Yakima.

For Surveyor—
JOHN A. KINGSBURY, Prosser.

Commissioner, First District—
PETER BACH, Fruitvale.

Commissioner, Third District—
E. L. STEWART, Prosser.

The above is the ticket nominated at the court house in this city last Saturday by the socialist party of Yakima county in mass convention. Numerically considered, the convention was not a formidable looking body, as it consisted of but 31 delegates, two of whom were ladies, but it seemed to make up in earnestness what it lacked in numbers.

With the possible exception of the legislative nominees, the office in every case sought the man, the disposition of the convention seeming to be that if it pinned a nomination to a man the unlucky individual must necessarily stand for it.

Because of the belated morning train from the east, by which was expected a number of delegates from the east end, the opening of the convention was delayed until after 11 a. m. After appointing a committee on credentials and listening to speeches from some of the delegates, the convention adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

On reassembling, Charles Richey was selected as permanent chairman and Floyd Hatfield as secretary. A committee of five was appointed to draft a platform, of which H. D. Jory was chairman.
After a session of half an hour the committee reported, the platform being adopted by a unanimous vote. The convention then began the work of making a ticket.

Jory was easily the controlling figure of the convention, and when his name was presented for senator several of the brethren were on their feet at once to offer seconds.

For representatives the names of E.
Edwards, Floyd Hatfield, C. Richey and
A. M. Miller, the well known war horse of Wenas, were placed in nomination. Before the ballot was taken Edwards withdrew his name. The ballot resulted in 26 votes for Richey, 29 for Hatfield and 5 for Miller; whereupon the two first named were declared the nominees.
While the ballot was being prepared Delegate Stadelman of Parker created quite a sensation by declaring that A.
M. Miller was not eligible for nomination, on the ground that he refused to make a pledge to vote the ticket. This evoked a sharp reply from the Wenas man to the effect that he believed in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, and that while a socialist he refused to bind himself to vote blindly, for, as a citizen of the United states, he regarded it as his duty to vote wisely. The explanation was straight from the shoulder, but, as the vote showed, it didn't seem to suit the meeting.

Later when the nominations for commissioners were taken up, Miller and Jory got into a wordy war. Miller refused the nomination in the first district and finally the honor was bestowed on Peter Bach of Fruitvale, who was not present to protest. When it came to making a nomination for the third district Jory arose and suggested that the naming of a candidate be left to the delegates in that district. This brought Miller to his feet, who wanted to know why Jory had withheld his motion until after a candidate had been named in the first district. The two statesmen then taunted each other for quite awhile, much to the edification of the spectators. Miller got the parting shot by asserting that he had lived and preached the principles of socialism before the man from Sunnyside had been heard of.

A good deal of jollifying was done over the office of coroner. The nomination was passed around and after half a dozen had refused, it was put off onto that old veteran of populism, James Kesling, the convention seeming to have it in for him, probably on account of his having made so many speeches.

After the ticket was named an executive committee, consisting of James Kesling, W. A. Marsh, E. T. Stone, Perry Wilson and C. D. Bowman, was appointed to have charge of the campaign.

Horse stealing, more than ever, seems to be a popular vocation this fall. Two young men from Chelan county have been in this neighborhood for several days searching for five horses stolen from them last week. With the assistance of the sheriff's office, the missing horses were finally located, two of them being found in the hands of Indians in town and the others in the Wenas. An effort is now being made to apprehend the thieves, the assumption being that they are white men who traded the horses to Indians.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THERE seems to be a common sentiment among the delegates to the democratic county convention, which assembles today, and that is to nominate a ticket of the best available material. If this is done and an active campaign is made on strictly democratic lines, at least a part of the ticket is bound to win.

Some of the republican leaders in this county talk glibly and boastfully of "our overwhelming majority," and seem to assume that a nomination on their party ticket necessarily means an election. Frequently, such republicans admit that their ticket "is weak in places" and that there are certain names upon it that ought not have been put there. They invariably wind up by asserting that "the ticket will be elected anyway, because we've got the majority, and what are you going to do about it."

We merely mention these facts to illustrate the brutality usually exercised by the majority. A majority is often, though not always, inclined to be impudent and arrogant, and arrogance is what leads to its downfall and converts a wholom majority into a minority.

The truth of the matter is that the arrogance of the majority party in this county is becoming intolerable, and many of the rank and file of that party, who are not looking for office, regard this as a most excellent opportunity to administer a rebuke to a selfish leadership. Under the circumstances, it becomes more than ever the duty of the democratic minority to place before the people a ticket composed of men whom all good citizens can vote for without feeling in any way that they are doing violence to their conscience.

The socialist party of this county has held its convention and placed a straight legislative and county ticket in the field. The DEMOCRAT is of the opinion that our socialist friends could accomplish much more for the cause of good government by throwing their voting strength in this county to the democratic nominees, rather than waste it. The leaders of the movement are free to admit that the party cannot elect anybody this year, and that the only motive they have is to make a showing of their strength. If this is what they desire, it is strange that it did not occur to them that such a showing could be made equally as well without any county ticket at all. With their voters left free to act in county matters, they would exercise a commanding influence in the settlement of a number of local questions which, the good Lord knows, need settling had enough, but to accomplish which the republican machine in this county must first be beaten. There are votes enough, to be sure, to do it with if the dissatisfied elements would all come together.

The republican papers of this state that have been engaged in chanting a funeral dirge over the political remains of Col. James Hamilton Lewis will now have to change their tune, for the genial colonel is yet very much alive. Lewis presided over the King county democratic convention last week with all the grace, dignity and ability that characterized him in the old days. He not only was elected chairman, but wrote the platform, and vindicated his claim to leadership to the fullest extent. Those who have assumed that Col. Lewis is politically dead, have been reckoning without their host.

The democratic county convention at Spokane last Saturday formally launched the boom of Hon. Geo. Turner for the senatorship. The meeting was enthusiastic and harmonious, and placed in nomination what even many republicans admit to be the strongest ticket ever put out in that county. The personal popularity of Senator Turner in his home county will, it is said, insure the election of the entire legislative ticket, consisting of two senators and ten representatives, there being three hold-over senators from Spokane county, two of whom are democrats and one republican.

SEATTLE, apparently, has had her fill of the carnival business and wants no more of it. While it is admitted that the carnival gave the hotels, restaurants, saloons and street cars a good deal of extra business, all reports agree that it had a detrimental effect on almost all other lines. So on the whole the carnival didn't pay, and Seattle don't care to monkey with anything that don't pay in dollars and cents.

"In politics there is always reaction. The winning side one day may be the losing side another. The losing side represents a minority, and a minority is sure to comprise more intellect than a majority; in the long run, intellect will force its way, get a majority, and then lose it, because with a majority it will become stupid."—Lytton.

Gov. McBRIDE, by a vote of 308 to 262, won his fight for a railway commission bill in the republican state convention. That, however, was only the first round—mere preliminary skirmish. The real fight will come up in the legislature.

The democratic platform to be adopted today should be short and explicit and deal principally with local issues. The people of this county have quite a quantity of dirty linen that they want to wash in this campaign, and they don't want their attention distracted by long-winded talks on general issues, which they heard enough about in the last campaign.

THE DEMOCRAT has endeavored to be fair to all candidates seeking nominations at the hands of the democratic convention. Unlike the two republican papers in this town, we have not attempted either to "boost" or "queer" any candidate for a nomination, as we consider that a newspaper is going beyond its rights and province when it does so.

JONES, Cushman and Humphries are the republican nominees for congress, by acclamation. The newspapers in discussing the situation, say that the two latter statesmen each had a big bunch of votes that they were able to use for trading purposes in the convention, but that Jones merely had the 16 votes of his own county. It's a little doubtful if he even had that many.

Visitors to this city invariably express amazement at the vast amount of improvement that they see going on here on every hand. Many of them say that they never before saw a town the size of North Yakima that was going ahead with such strides. Yet there is nothing of a boom on here, but simply a steady, natural growth. Yes, you can bet your last bean, stranger, on North Yakima. It is an up-to-date town and will ever remain the metropolis of central Washington.

THE Portland Oregonian from an editorial standpoint is one of the ablest republican papers in the country. It is vigorous and trenchant in style, and usually hits the bull's eye. In discussing Senator Foster of this state, the Oregonian says:

"In the senate, Senator Foster is a mere lay figure. He has no acquaintance with the broad questions of the time and is past the age when culture of this kind is easily acquired. He has no basis for independent judgment. His opinions are all second hand and held subject to revision and correction by his secretary. Nobody asks his view; nobody cares what it is. His voice is never heard in the senate on large issues, for the simple reason that he has nothing to say, nor the heart to say it if he had. His position, contrasted with other senators, is trivial and pitiful. He has paid an unreasonable price for the empty honor of being called 'Senator,' and there is no real respect, either in the senate or out of it, for such a person, who has no qualifications for this position, who is a mere pawn in the game."

Democratic Campaign Book.

The "Democratic Campaign Book" was issued recently, and is replete with interesting and, in many instances, startling facts. It is doubtful if the longest search would have revealed a better motto or one more in accordance with democratic ideals than that chosen to ornament the front cover of the book. It reads: "Equal rights for all—special privileges for none." While space will not permit a comprehensive review here, it may be said that the handling of the trust question is of the utmost importance and reveals a condition of affairs which calls for prompt and positive remedies. While a constitutional amendment may, in time, be necessary to meet the exigencies of the situation, nothing of the kind is practical or necessary at this time. As is clearly shown by the figures given in the Hand Book, the trusts are the children of the tariff from which they draw their nourishment and a curtailment of that nourishment along the lines of the bill offered in the house of representatives, before he became reduced by congressional favor, would promptly and effectively remedy existing conditions. Were the tariff reduced, or in some instances removed from trust-made articles, a free and open competition would compel the sale of American manufactured articles at, at least as reasonable prices as the trusts are now asking foreigners for the same goods. Such tariff revision, it is evident, would not destroy the trusts, which would still be able to do business on a basis that would enable them to pay a handsome profit on the capital actually invested, and there is no reason why they should be allowed to charge the consumers prices which permit of their paying large dividends on immense quantities of "water."

The Philippine situation is extensively canvassed in the Hand Book, and President McKinley is effectively quoted as saying, "I speak not of forcible annexation, for that is not to be thought of. That, under our code of morals, would be criminal aggression." Senator Spooner's words are also quoted on the subject, as follows: "I shrink from the notion that the interests of this country will be subserved by making permanently a part of our land, territory thousands of miles away." What has become of the high ideals of these exponents of republican doctrine, the authors of the text book do not attempt to say.

Due consideration is paid to the nefarious ship subsidy bill, which, according to the republican program, will be enacted during the next session of congress. The utter absence of any excuse for such palpable class legislation is clearly shown, and it is further demonstrated that the only beneficiaries will be certain capitalists who are already far beyond the need of government charity. The close control exercised over legislation by a republican congress by the vested interests and the trusts, despite the earnest protests of the president, is clearly set forth in the handling of the subject of Cuban reciprocity.

The book may be obtained by all persons on payment of 25 cents, and it is worth the price.

J. J. MILLER.

Venas, Wash, Sept. 5, 1902.

The Difference.

The democratic party stands for government by all of the people. The republican party stands for government by a few people. This is the supreme difference between the two great political organizations. Issues change with each campaign, but principles remain unaltered. Democracy minimizes the government and maximizes the individual. It is opposed to the oligarchy of trusts, the aristocracy of wealth, the domination of imperialism. The republican party seeks openly or by veiled ways to bring the government into the control of certain classes.

In this underlying, fundamental difference between the parties there may be found the reason for the attitude which each takes upon the issues which arise from time to time. It was inevitable, for example, that the republican party should become the party of protection supporting the tariff system, which levies burdens upon the people to promote private business. The democratic party, on the contrary, could not do otherwise than oppose a tariff for protection and also the formation of trusts based upon government-created tariff monopolies. The republican party favored the United States governing without their consent peoples beyond the seas. The democratic party favored "the consent of the governed" abroad as at home.

When, because there and there, party leaders, for apparent advantage, abandon or attempt to confuse party principles, it is suggested that the difference between the party organizations is slight or nil, there needs to be pointed out this supreme, irreconcilable difference. Democracy means in its final analysis the right of every man to govern himself so long as he does not interfere with the right of another man to govern himself. Republicanism, in its legitimate outcome, means the right of every man who is rich, or powerful, or educated to govern some other man who is less rich, or powerful, or educated.—Sunner Herald.

To Raise Sheep in Alaska.

F. D. Vessey contemplates engaging in the sheep business on Kodiak island, off the Alaskan coast. While the venture is a pure experiment, he thinks that it can be made to pay, especially as the winters are comparatively mild and there is good forage to be had on that island. There is said to be a large and growing market for all kinds of fresh meat products in the Alaska mining camps.

School Books Adopted.

The following text books have been adopted by the Yakima county board of education:

The Beginner's Reader, D. C. Heath & Co.

The Rational Spelling Book, part one, American Book Co.

Roddy's Geographies, elementary and complete, American Book Co.

SUPPLEMENTARY.

New Education Readers, books I, II and III, American Book Co.

Stepping Stones to Literature, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and higher grades, Silver, Burdette & Co.

Selah School District Divided.

Steps have been taken to divide the Selah school district and erect a new $1100 school house on what is now the west end of the present district. The location of the new school house will be in the vicinity of the big reservoir in the Selah Valley canal. The large increase in the attendance of the Selah school, resulting from the increase in population in the district, make it absolutely necessary to provide more room, so it is deemed wiser to divide the district and build the new school house in a location where it will accommodate the most pupils. The new structure will be built at once and made ready for the winter term.

State Fair Items.

An invitation has been sent to Gov. McBride to be present at the opening day of the fair. An answer has not yet been received, but it is expected that he will be in attendance during part of the week.

There are twice as many attractions billed for the fair this year as were shown last season. Among the attractions will be a miniature railway one thousand feet long and several good vaudeville shows, besides the balloon ascension.

Race horses are already being brought to the grounds and training for the week's events. The program of races is large this year, and many good horses are booked.

Mrs. C. M. Bartlett, assisted by a number of other Yakima ladies, will have charge of the woman's department in the pavilion. She will receive all exhibits and look after them.

The band contest will be an interesting feature this year. Four bands have already entered for the contest, and it is expected a number of others from over the state will take part in it.

21 Years a Dyspeptic.

R. H. Foster, 319 S. 2d St., Salt Lake City, writes: "I have been bothered by dyspepsia or indigestion for 21 years; tried many doctors without relief; recently I got a bottle of Herbine. One bottle cured me, I am now tapering off on the second. I have recommended it to my friends; it is curing them, too." 50c. at Fred L. Janek's.

School Board Meeting.

At the meeting of the school board Monday evening all members, Barge, Nichols and Cannon, were present. Clerk Hough, however, was absent, owing to illness, his duties being performed by Supt. Jolley.

The resignation of Thomas Wilson, supervisor of music was read. Mr. Wilson stated that his intention was to remain in New York. He asked that a testimonial be given him, which was granted.

Bids were read from J. Mikkelsen and the N. W. Improvement company to furnish wood and coal during the coming school year. The bid of the former was to furnish wood in 16-inch lengths at $5.25 per cord and coal at $3.80 per ton; that of the latter was $5.50 for wood and $3.75 per ton for coal. The bid of Mikkelsen for wood and that of the Improvement company for coal were accepted. The bids of D. N. Keene, F. L. Janek and Plumb & Stephenson for certain school supplies were referred to Supt. Jolley for analysis as to which was the cheapest.

The resignations of Misses Owens and Tripp, teachers in the grammar school, were read and accepted. Four applications were read for positions in the schools, the applicants being Prof. L. Scroggs, Mrs. Josephine Scroggs, Miss Gilman of Minnesota, a former teacher in our city schools, and Miss Moore of the Chicago schools, and a Miss Peabody. After considerable consultation, it was decided to accept the application of Prof. Scroggs to succeed Prof. Armstrong as assistant teacher in the high school, at a salary of $86.66 per month. Mrs. Scroggs, and Misses Moore and Gilman were elected, the understanding being that one of the three ladies should be selected to fill the position as principal of the Columbia school, lately vacated by reason of the resignation of Prof. Plumb.

At an adjourned meeting of the board, held Tuesday evening, the bid of D. N. Keene for school supplies was accepted. On the recommendation of Supt. Jolley, Miss Lula Meeds was elected to fill the position of principal of the Columbia school.

Rules were adopted for the government of the schools and ordered printed. A resolution was also passed making C street the dividing line between the Central and Lincoln buildings.

School will open Monday, Sept. 22.

"The Toy Maker," Sept. 16.

"The Toy Maker," the most novel piece ever constructed, sparkling with characteristic music, and bubbling over with comic situations and humorous dialogue, will be the opera presented by the Tivoli Opera company on next Tuesday, Sept. 16, at Larson's theatre. The San Francisco contingent is composed of the original people that made the Toy Maker such a success in that city, with the clever comedian, Ferri-Hartman at the head. Annie Meyers created the part of the animated doll in the Tivoli production, and made the hit of her stage career. Arthur Cunningham, who, to quote from a San Francisco daily, "is the best baritone in light opera," and Karl Formes, who is a great favorite in the role of the ancient pop, will be seen at their best in "The Toy Maker." The Tivoli female chorus has a reputation for general comeliness and a well-selected group of them will be seen in the piece. The toy shop transformation scene at the end of the first act is said to be one of the most intricate and beautiful scenes ever staged, filled as it is with working automata and figures.

This is the attraction that played to standing-room-only business at Tacoma during the Elks' carnival last held in that city, and in spite of the opposition met with there in the way of outdoor amusements, they hold the house record for business in Tacoma.

Composition on Love.

Love is a thing that makes people think each other pretty when nobody else does.

It causes two persons to be awful quiet when you're round and also quiet when you're not round—only in a different way.

It also causes people to sit together on one end of a bench when there's heaps of room on the other end. Nurses has it and sometimes policemen. That's when they don't know where you are, and you have lots of fun playing on the grass.

Husbands and wives has it, but most generally only lovers.

Old people don't have much, 'cause it has to be about dimples and red cheeks and fluffy curls and lots of things which old people don't ever have.

When I grow up, I'll have to go and love some one, I suppose. Only she'll have to let me say what I do.

I've written all I know about it till I do grow up.—Eddy in New York Sun Croup.

Usually begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough, apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment externally to the throat. 50c. at Fred L. The Sorrowful Tree.
There is a tree in Persia to which the name "the sorrowful tree" is given. Perhaps because it blossoms only in the evening. 1901
When the first star appears in the heavens the first bud of the sorrowful tree opens, and as the shades of night advance and the stars thickly stud the sky the buds continue gradually opening until the whole tree looks like one immense white flower. On the approach of dawn, when the brilliancy of the stars gradually fades in the light of day, the sorrowful tree closes its flowers, and ere the sun is fully risen not a single blossom is visible. A sheet of flower dust as white as snow covers the ground around the foot of the tree, which seems blighted and withered during the day, while, however, it is actively preparing for the next nocturnal festival. The fragrance of the blossoms is like that of the evening primrose.
If the tree is cut down close to the roots, a new plant shoots up and attains maturity in an incredibly short time.
In the vicinity of this singular tree there usually grows another, which is almost an exact counterpart of the sorrowful tree, but less beautiful, and, strange to say, it blooms only in the daytime.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Bride With Some Good Points.
Some years ago in an agricultural district there lived a farmer who wanted to sell one of his cows. There was not at that time a weekly paper in which he could advertise, so he resolved to follow a local custom and ask the vicar of the parish when giving out his notices at church to advertise the cow.
"Yes, farmer," said the vicar, "I should be willing to oblige you, but you don't attend my church."
Presently, however, they struck a bargain that the vicar should advertise the cow, and the man in return promised to go to church.
Now, unfortunately the man was deaf, and on the Sunday following when the vicar gave out the banns of marriage between Joseph So-and-so, bachelor, and Sarah So-and-so, spinster, the farmer took it for granted that the vicar was giving out particulars of his cow and shouted out:
"You might as well say while you are about it that she is a most gentle creature and entirely free from vice."—Stray Stories.

Bridal Night in Skookum House.

Albert French and Susie George came "up from the reservation Tuesday, and promptly put in their appearance at the county auditor's office to procure the sanction of the white man's law preparatory to being made one. After the license was procured, the festive groom inquired for a magistrate, and Justice Taggard being phoned, promptly arrived upon the scene. The blushing pair stood up, and in the presence of the young ladies in the office and other witnesses, were soon joined together in the holy bonds of wedlock. Before their departure the groom had to be reminded by the judge that he had overlooked something, the young man evidently assuming that the auditor's fee discharged the entire obligation.

Leaving the courthouse, the newly wedded pair proceeded to celebrate the joyous occasion by loading up with "tanglefoot." By the time the shades of night had fallen both were so far under the influence of bad booze that the city officers had to take care of them and put them in the skookum-house for safe keeping. The next morning the crest-fallen groom left $10 to expiate his untimely offense, and, setting the bride of his bosom on her way, departed with her for their happy home.

Big Boom On at Wenatchee.

W. A. Cox returned Saturday from a visit to Wenatchee and other eastern Washington points. Mr. Cox thinks Wenatchee, next to North Yakima, can show more signs of improvement than any other country town in the state. He says that a number of substantial two-story blocks are going up, and that improvement is the order of the day there. This improved condition of things is largely due to the construction now under way, of the high line ditch by W. T. Clark and his associates. The new ditch when completed will bring about 10,000 acres under cultivation, at a cost of $60 per acre to the owners. Mr. Cox says that people who assume that the price of land about North Yakima is high should visit Wenatchee, where sagebrush land with a prospective water right is selling from $300 to $400 per acre. A friend of Mr. Cox, who owns a 40-acre improved farm near the town, with a bearing orchard of 30 acres, recently refused $48,000 for his property, which is equivalent to $1200 per acre. The man had realized $15,000 from his orchard last year, and could see no object in selling at such a price.

Mr. Cox states that several former Yakimans are now in business at Wenatchee. N. N. Brown, formerly host of the Yakima, is now in the hotel business there, while Joe Metzger, well known here, has recently bought out a bakery and will make Wenatchee his future home.

Tivoli Opera Company, Sept. 16.

The Tivoli Opera Company will be seen at Larsen's Theater on Tuesday, Sept. 16, having gone on the road to make way for the grand opera at the San Francisco house. Artistically and numerically the company is stronger than ever, and will present the famous hit of the Bostonians, The Serenade. This opera has never been seen outside the large cities, the Tivoli company being the only one beside the Bostonians that have ever given it. It scored an enormous hit at the San Francisco house a few months ago, the newspapers and the public agreeing that it was better than the original production. The opera is in three acts, the first and last taking place in the vicinity of a ruined Spanish castle, and the second in the garden and monastery of St. Benedict, adjoining the School of St. Ursula. The plot concerns effort of Duke Santa Cruz to discover a singer Carlos Alvarado, who has made love to his niece Dolores, through the medium of a serenade. Much amusement is developed by the attempt of all the performers to sing the air at the most inopportune times, the chief offender being the tailor Gomez. The Duke who is very near sighted, is confused by an interchange of costumes between Dolores and Yvonne, a ballet-dancer of the Madrid Opera House, which leads to some most amusing situations. The serenade takes refuge in the monastery in act second, and Gomez goes there to escape the rage of the Duke, who has heard him sing. He gives a copy of the serenade to one of the monks, and when the Duke searches for the singer, he finds his despair that the monks and the pet parrot all know the serenade, and he is baffled in his vengeance. In the third act he is taken prisoner by the bandits, and agrees to the marriage of his ward and alvarado, with the proviso that they never sing again. The Tivoli company includes some of the best known singers in the country.

He was engaged in stabling a horse at the time after having been out driving. He was regarded as an estimable young man. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, deceased leaves a brother and sister to mourn his untimely end.

to the end of the season.

"McCart's Mishaps" was presented to a large audience Thursday evening, and most of those present seemed to get their money's worth. The show is made up mainly of specialties, some of which are very good. The performance given throughout was decidedly racy and calculated to please the bald heads.

The new Shallow building, at the corner of Yakima avenue and Front street, calls forth a good deal of favorable comment from passers-by on account of the beauty of its finish and its generally up-to-date appearance. The new Sloan block also comes in for a good deal of praise on account of its massive and imposing front.

A. J. Pennig, a Moxee rancher, lost control of his team while driving into

A fire alarm was turned in on Thursday evening from the residence of A. L.
Hixon, on South Front street. It seems that one of the boys of the household, while attempting to fill a lamp with kerosene in the darkness, struck a match, with the result that the house was soon on fire. The department responded quickly, but before the boys reached the scene Mr. Hixon's neighbors had the blaze well under control.

United States Marshal Hopkins has detailed Deputy Davidson of Spokane to look after the "bootleggers" here through hocking. On his arrival here the officer was shown around by vices have been secured as cashier. The dry goods department has also been reinforced through the acquisition of Mr.

Foplin, a very genial gentleman who arrived last week from St. Paul.

Earl B. Watt and family returned here Friday of last week, and have since been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Swain, on the School Section. Since leaving Yakima in April last, they have been in British Columbia and Western Oregon.
Mr. Watt is now satisfied to live in Yakima, and is making arrangements to settle with his family permanently on his Wenas stock ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. John McPhee of the Natchez, who left here in May last to visit their old home in Nova Scotia, arrived home Tuesday morning. On their way east they stopped off at Salt Lake, Denver, Chicago and other places, and put in some time at sight-seeing. After looking the country over on his extensive trip, Mr. McPhee returns firmly of the opinion that he saw nothing that would compare favorably with Yakima as a place of permanent residence.

The Hop Situation.

Hopping is now under way in practically all the yards in the valley, with plenty of pickers on hand. There are fewer indians, as compared with former years, but more whites are picking, the home supply being larger than ever before. In fact, 29 pickers arrived from the Sound Wednesday night for whom it was quite difficult to find places the next day.

The yield in many of the yards is said to be fully as large as last year. In a few particular yards it is believed to be even better. On the other hand, it is thought that certain yards in the Athanum and Moxee will show a slight falling off.

The only sale reported this week is 26 bales of earlies from Hope & Knox of Tampico to A. E. Poole at 22c. Not many deals are likely to be effected before the crop is in the bale. Opinions seem to differ widely about the crop going much higher, many growers seeming inclined to take the risk of holding, so it seems likely that when the crop is harvested it will begin to move.
