WILL PAVE CROSS STREETS

Council So Decides at Meeting Monday Night—Other Important Matters.

At the meeting of the council Monday night a resolution calling for bids upon the macadamizing of First and Second streets from Chestnut to A was passed. Remonstrances had been presented to the council against this by property owners on both streets, but the remonstrances were signed by less than a majority of the property owners. The paving will be similar in all respects to that on Yakima avenue. It is hoped to have the four blocks completed before the winter sets in.

City Engineer Marble reported that the sewer system on Naches avenue for 1900 feet north of Yakima avenue has been rendered useless by the growth of roots into the piping. The sewer has received almost no care since it was laid several years ago. It was placed between two rows of trees, which now is looked upon as a piece of bad judgment. It is extremely difficult to lay sewer pipe so that no leakage will occur. The minute roots follow along a moist track wherever there is a small leak, and enter the pipe in places where the opening is no larger than a darning needle. These small roots gradually fill the sewer pipe and prevent the free passage of sewage. If the pipe is dragged at intervals it may be kept in comparatively good condition. The council instructed the city engineer to make a careful inquiry and to see whether it would be best to relay the sewer where it is now, taking every precaution against its stoppage by roots and dragging it frequently; to lay the sewer in one of the roadways of the avenue, or to put it down the alley of the blocks fronting on the avenue. This last method would necessitate the laying of two pipes. The council will hear a report at the next meeting.

The petition of Thomas Lund for a saloon license allowing him to sell liquors in the Alfalfa saloon was granted.

The streets and ditches committee reported to the council that the Schanno ditch required to be cleaned out, and could be thoroughly cleaned for $230. The report was accepted and the city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the work.

An ordinance possessing the following title was passed by the council in substitution for an old ordinance having a somewhat similar title:

"An ordinance in the relation to the sale and disposal of drugs, medicines and nostrums and giving shows and exhibitions in connection therewith, where an admission fee is charged, or where the same are free and providing a penalty for the violation of the same within the limits of the city of North Yakima." The license fixed in this ordinance is the same as in the old, $25 a day or $400 a quarter. The difference lies in the fact that no exception in favor of Yakima products is made.

Mayor Fechter reported to the council that he had almost completed negotiations with Mrs. J. H. Thomas for the purchase of the piece of land southeast of town from which the city sewer empties into the Yakima river. Mrs. Thomas had agreed to pay the delinquent taxes, which had been materially reduced by the county commissioners, when one Glazier of Michigan had bought a delinquency certificate on the whole of the tax, greatly complicating matters. The council authorized the mayor to continue the negotiations as it is almost imperative that the city own the land.

The matter of the health of the city was then taken up to some length. Mayor Fechter said he had asked Dr. Heg of Seattle for his opinion of the Yakima water supply and he had said that every source of water used should be examined and a bacteriological test made of the city water and all well water. Dr. Frank, the city health officer, said that at two different times he had examined the Yakima water and while he found the city water comparatively good, well water with almost no exception is unfit for use and ditch water is particularly bad. The Yakima Water, Light & Power company was requested to put in a filter to cleanse all water going into the city mains. Dr. Frank was instructed to make a thorough examination into the purity of the milk supply of the town.

Reduced rates for Portland exposition, round trip $12.70, which includes two admissions to the exposition. Children half of above rate. Tickets on sale Sept. 19th, 26th, Oct. 2nd, 9th and 16th, limited 7 days including date of sale.

A WEEK FROM NEXT MONDAY

The Washington State Fair Begins—Interview With the Secretary.

Dr. T. B. Gunn, secretary, has this to say regarding the coming state fair: "We have reduced the prices of admission to the fair and arranged for hauling passengers to and from the grounds for one-half the former rates. The commission has done this for the benefit of both Yakima and the state fair. It is well known that other cities are laying plans to get the fair removed and the people of Yakima must work for retaining this state institution. In future years it will be one of the greatest places for stock and other exhibitions in the northwest. We must work it up gradually, and much of that can be done by the people of Yakima."

Visitors have complained of exorbitant charges for being taken to and from the grounds, as at other fairs the expense is never more than 10 cents. Hacks can be run to the grounds here for 25 cents the round trip and make the owners $10 to $20 per day. We have secured a large number who will carry our banners and haul the people to the grounds for 15 cents and back again for 10 cents. This meets with the general approval of our home people who have to pay for riding to and from the grounds and certainly will be appreciated by visitors.

"We are running excursions from different points at very cheap rates. An excursion from Tacoma and Seattle will be run for only $3.50 including two admissions to the fair. This will bring several thousand people here. They will have to be entertained and furnished lodgings. To do this we have concluded to list every room in the city that may be had during the week. Each person is requested to state the exact charges that will be made and to ask no higher rates. We intend to request every one having beds not to charge more than $1 per night. The matter of handling the visitors and assigning rooms, as well as collecting pay for them will be in the hands of Mr. E. F. Benson and assistants."

Another reduction we have made is in that of the family ticket. They will be sold this year for $2.50 each, and admit a man and his wife and family with team during every day of the fair. The commission feel that every family in Yakima county and within a few hours ride of this city, should purchase a season ticket and show their loyalty to the state fair and the county in which it is located. We believe that many people will come and camp on the grounds this year, and have extended the free use of space for tent and camping privileges. The rush of work will be over by the time fair begins, which has not been the case in former years, and we have every reason to believe that the people will take a holiday week and spend it at the fair.

"The commission has also decided to give the exhibitions of live stock, on the track, and some of the balloon ascensions in the forenoon this year. Other features will be added to the forenoon exercises and a special effort will be made to get the people to visit the fair during the forenoons. In this connection we have arranged with the ladies of the Catholic church to give meals in the restaurant, which insures good wholesome food for all who will attend, and thus give them an opportunity of remaining on the grounds throughout the entire day."

AGREED UPON A SETTLEMENT

Hendrix-Briggs Co. Pays Claims of Bryant and Hatch.

Mrs. C. M. Briggs of Seattle, wife of Mr. Briggs of the firm of Hendrix Briggs Co., with her attorney, Mr. Roberts of the Seattle legal firm of Roberts & Leehy was in the city last Saturday making a settlement with Messrs. Bryant and Hatch of the Selah, who had shipped to Hendrix-Briggs Co. three carloads of potatoes and who were preparing to sue that company for payment. Mr. Briggs was to appear here Monday to answer the charge of conducting a commission house without a license, but the criminal prosecution was dropped.

Mr. Briggs effected a satisfactory settlement with Mr. Hatch for his potatoes on the basis of $10 a ton. With Mr. Bryant the figure was $17.50, which was all the potatoes were worth in either case.

Mr. Briggs' attorney says that the affair has been an unfortunate one for that gentleman, who sincerely regrets that any trouble ensued over the transfer of the potatoes. The fault was largely with Mortensen, the company's representative, who shipped them before they were sufficiently mature, and against the protests of both Bryant and Hatch; particularly the latter.

Mr. Briggs feels that he could have shown in court that the potatoes were greatly damaged when they arrived in Seattle, notwithstanding the letter which he wrote to Bryant. He attributes some of the remaining misunderstandings to the fact that he was somewhat angry, and obstinately refused to answer some letters figuring in the case. The claims of all other creditors in this locality have been paid.

On and after Thursday, September 20, Dr. Bugbee will treat free the first 10 cases to arrive at the Fashion stables during his hour there. This on Thursday only for one month.

THE ORDINANCE IS INVALID

"Quaker Doctors" Will Do Business, But They Pay Costs of Litigation.

The much discussed and interesting contest in the courts, popularly known as the "Quaker Doctor Case," came before the United States circuit court at Spokane on Monday and resulted favorably for the city. The city was represented by Vestal Snyder, city attorney, assisted by Edward Whitson.

The first question that came up was upon the demurrer to the complaint, upon which Judge Hanford had issued a temporary restraining order against the city to enjoin it from enforcing section 7 of ordinance No. 265, upon the ground that the proviso excepting the products of Yakima county from the provisions of the ordinance was violative of the federal constitution. The attorneys for the city demurred to the complaint on the ground that a circuit court of the United States had no jurisdiction upon several grounds. First, that the complaint did not show upon its face that $2,000 was involved; second, that a court of equity had no jurisdiction in criminal matters, and therefore could not enjoin the city nor its officers from prosecuting under its criminal statutes; third, that no federal question was presented because there was no violation of the inter-state commerce clauses of the constitution.

This was urged upon the theory that the plaintiff had a right to ship his goods from other states and sell them in original packages, but as soon as the packages were broken up and they were offered for sale at retail, that the state had the sole authority by virtue of its police powers to regulate the matters. Judge Hanford sustained the demurrer and dissolved the temporary injunction upon the first ground, and discussed no other question except that the complaint did not show upon its face that $2,000 was involved. The dissolving of the injunction, of course, carries with it the costs, which the plaintiff will have to pay, by virtue of the injunction bond.

The question arising on the petition for writ of habeas corpus, which was argued before Judge Hanford in Seattle Monday of last week, was decided in Spokane at the same time. It was held that the proviso, "excepting the products of Yakima county," was violative of the rights of the petitioner as a citizen of the United States, and therefore the petitioner was entitled to be discharged. The new ordinance passed by the city on last Monday eliminates this objectionable feature, and the supreme court of the state has held that such an ordinance is a reasonable exercise of the police powers of the state, and this eliminates the jurisdiction of the federal court in so far as the matter is concerned.

This amounts to saying that the city won one point, lost another and succeeded in having the costs taxed up against the "Quakers." Since the matter was carried to the United States court the doctors have been arrested repeatedly for running a show without a license, contrary to the city ordinance, and have been arrested three times under the state law requiring a license for the sale of patent medicines. This latter would amount in this instance to $25 a month. In all cases Walton and Berry, the two doctors, gave bonds. The case under the city ordinance comes up for trial this afternoon at 1 o'clock and the one under the state law next Tuesday at 2 o'clock before Justice Taggart.

Mayor Fechter Monday evening read to the council a message setting forth the city's part in the affair. He said his actions were entirely without animus against the doctors, but that the city's ordinance must be enforced and the residents and business men of the town must be protected.

The Quaker doctors say that so far as they are concerned they are well satisfied with the decision of Judge Hanford. They say they secured everything they asked for, and now they intend to go ahead and sell medicine.

The court did not take any action in contempt proceedings against the city officials, but they say that at their instance it may be taken later.

May Not Go Back to Chicago.

C. S. Wenner, two years ago a member of the firm of Moore & Wenner here, arrived in town from Chicago last Friday morning and is visiting his sister, Mrs. Stanley Coffin. Mrs. Wenner and little son Stanley have been here three weeks or more. Mr. Wenner is still interested in the Sure Shot Solution. He and Mr. Moore did well the first season with the preparation, but encountered a serious setback in using a tube which proved to be injurious to the cement. Now the business promises to be quite profitable. Mr. Moore is in California in the employ of Sautorn, Vail & Co., but he is interested in the company yet. Mr. Wenner does not know how long he will remain in Yakima but expects to be here two or three weeks more. He is considering a business proposition with Stanley Coffin and it is possible that he will remain in this state.

A Long Eastern Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sinclair arrived home early Wednesday morning from their eastern trip, on which they started early in June. They visited nearly all the large eastern cities and had a delightful journey from the time they left until they returned. Mr. Sinclair says, though, that all the time he was away from Yakima, during which he traveled about 10,000 miles, he saw no place with as much business for its size or no place in which he had rather live than his home town. Speaking of his trip Mr. Sinclair said:

"From here we went to Portland, then to Pocatello, Idaho; from there over the Union Pacific to Abilene, Kansas; then on to Chicago, North Baltimore, Ohio; Buffalo, New York; Washington and Boston. From the last place we went north to our old home in Nova Scotia, where we visited for three weeks. One of the most interesting sights on the journey we saw at Sidney, Cape Breton Island, in which place there is a large steel factory, which is doing a tremendous business and is employing hundreds of men. We came home via the Canadian Pacific, and I never saw grander scenery than there is for hundreds of miles through the Rocky mountains on that road. The Fraser river was literally filled to overflowing with salmon, which could be seen by the thousands from the car window. The Canadian road is well built and is run in a systematic way, but the time is not made on it that is made on the American roads."

Death of Mrs. R. N. Gorden.

Mrs. Gorden, wife of Dr. R. N. Gorden, died Sunday at 2 o'clock at St. Elizabeth's hospital after an illness of about three weeks. The cause of her death was typhoid fever. For a week previous to last Sunday she was extremely low but all hope was not given up until Sunday morning. Mr. Taylor of Abilene, Kan., a brother of Mrs. Gorden, arrived with his wife shortly after 2 o'clock. Dr. Gorden and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left Yakima Monday afternoon with the remains for Cincinnati, O. A sister of the deceased who had been called west, met the party at Prosser. The death of Mrs. Gorden was particularly sad. After an engagement extending over a period of several years she and Dr. Gorden were married just four months ago. The doctor was building a handsome residence on Naches avenue, by his professional skill had acquired a large practice, and everything seemed bright for the future when Mrs. Gorden's fatal sickness came. In her brief stay here she had made many friends who now offer the doctor their sincerest sympathy.

Took a Shot at Starrett.

Monday afternoon as Officer Starrett approached three drunken men in the lower part of town, who were mounting their horses, one of the party, after getting into the saddle, turned and fired three shots into the officer from a revolver. Starrett, although taken by surprise, quickly returned the fire. Five or six shots were exchanged before the men on horseback got away, but no damage was done. Starrett does not know who the men were.

Prosecuting Attorney Guthrie and Dr. Hare came home last Sunday from Spokane. They assisted in the Elks' celebration in that city, which they say was up to the usual standard for such affairs, except that many features were omitted because of the death of President McKinley. His improvement the first part of the week justified additional preparation for jollification over his recovery. The Elks dedicated the Spokane temple, which cost about $75,000, on Sunday.

A Disastrous Runaway.

A team attached to a dray belonging to Jasper Mikkelsen ran away Friday about noon and came near demolishing the front of Beggs, Bradner & Co.'s skimming station on west Yakima avenue, besides knocking down and bruising E. Hackett, a veteran of the civil war, 78 years of age. One of the horses was so badly injured that the owner was forced to shoot it. The driver left the team standing in front of the wood yard on B street, when it was startled and ran south to Yakima avenue. He tried to catch it after the start but could not. The skimming station was in the way as it turned and the horses and heavy dray crashed into the front of the building, breaking numerous panes of glass and smashing the platform. Hackett was standing on this platform but did not know which way to turn to escape the plunging horses. He was thrown back against the building but suffered no serious injury. The dray was left in front of the building, where one horse broke its leg, and the team turned and ran east among the side tracks on the railroad right-of-way. Mr. Hackett keeps a shoe repairing shop across the street from where the accident occurred.

Yakima Water Supply.

A special report on the water supply and resources of a large part of the Yakima valley is in course of preparation at Washington by the United States Geological survey. The report dwells largely on the irrigation works undertaken in this region, besides taking up the question of water supply in detail. The area dealt with embraces 750 square miles, although particular attention is paid to a tract of 50 square miles in the immediate vicinity of the city of North Yakima. The report mentions the Yakima river as the master stream of the area, although it speaks of the Naches river as being the stream best adapted to irrigation purposes. The North Yakima region is the most extensively irrigated of any district in Washington. In the vicinity of Yakima are the Selah, the Wapattuck, the Naches, the Yakima valley, the Hubbard, the Sunnyside, the Reservation and many other ditches and canals. Among the irrigation enterprises in an undeveloped state are: The Naches & Columbia river canal, a survey for which was made in 1895, (this was to be 140 miles in length;) the Burlington canal, to carry water to the bench lands on Toppenish creek within the boundaries of the reservation, and other projects to take water from the upper Yakima river. Bumping lake is mentioned as an excellent site for a storage reservoir.

The report takes up the matter of artesian wells and advises strongly against the waste of water from this source. At present 1600 acres are irrigated by a score or more of wells. Increasing the number of wells would give a better distribution to the water.

"The summers are hot and dry," says the report, "and with a high percentage of bright, clear days. But the fact should never be lost sight of that excessive irrigation and waste of water in this region is a dangerous thing."

The Abandoned Mine.

A year or more ago Ed Merwin, Newt Scott and one or two others found the tunnel of an abandoned mine about 75 miles from town up the Natchez river. People had been searching for this mine, which was reported to be of great richness, for a score of years, so when the news of its discovery was spread it was not given much credence. Merwin and Scott, in order to satisfy their friends of the find, went up to it a short time ago and took a number of photographs of the tunnel entrance and the surroundings. On account of the growth of underbrush and other obstructions the finders have not penetrated into all the recesses of the excavations, which extend a long distance into the hillside.

The story of the mine is generally known. It is supposed to have been worked many years ago by deserters from the United States service. Picks and many other implements were found in the tunnel, and an old-fashioned shoe buckle such as was worn a hundred years ago was among the curios found.

D. B. Sheller, the superintendent of forest reserve, was in town Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. He says exactly how bad the forest fires for the month of August were he cannot tell until all the ranges report.

He was building the kitchen fire and was using coal oil in the operation when the oil, caught by a live coal in the stove, flared up in his face. The burns extended down on his chest but were worse about the eyes. It is not thought that the injury will leave scars. He will be well in a week or ten days.

CLAIRVOYANCE --- PALMISTRY

Prof. Harriden, the King of Palmists and Clairvoyants.

Known throughout the world as the Great Oriental Prophet, has arrived in North Yakima, and is now located at 113 1/2 Yakima avenue, in the Weed block, where he can be consulted on all the affairs of life.

Professor Harriden is now on his second tour of America. While on his first tour he visited only the large cities. He is too well known in this country to need much introduction, but for the benefit of the few who may not have heard of him, he will state that he is a graduate of the Occult Colleges of India and France, has edited palmistry departments and is still connected in this work with some of the most prominent newspapers of America.

He guarantees to reveal every incident of your life; tells you who, where and when you will marry; gives your own full name without asking you a question; tells you just what you are best fitted for and how to obtain the money you are in need of, etc.

Prof. Harriden makes a specialty of getting people out of financial trouble, and he has a standing offer of $1000 in any case where he fails to do so, provided, of course, the advice is taken. He also claims that every person is adapted to some certain kind of business or profession, and that no one can be successful until they find out what they are fitted for. In your reading you are told every incident of your life, your own full name is given, also the name of the one you will marry, with a full description, and where and when you will meet, etc.

You are told how to succeed and how to better your condition in all ways. No matter what your trouble is, he can and will help you, and if you are not helped after a visit he will positively refuse to accept a fee. Every one is invited to call on this gifted medium and test for themselves. His fee is reasonable and within reach of all.

The first two days the Professor will give free tests to those wishing a reading, just to convince skeptical people that he can and does do all he claims, and to show the people he is not to be classed with some of the cheap fortune tellers and mediums who have visited this city in the past. If your business is unprosperous, if you have trouble of any kind, feel yourself invited to call on this gifted medium, and he will send you away bolder and happier than you have ever been before.

Office hours: 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Sundays, 1 p. m. to 7 p. m.
Palmistry and hypnotism taught. Mediumistic persons developed. Call early to avoid the crowds. All business strictly confidential. Parlor so arranged that you meet no strangers. Lady in attendance. Perfect satisfaction by mail. Send $1 and date of birth for reading.

Prof. Harriden's parlors are at 113 1/2 Yakima avenue, and are secured with that view to privacy so frequently desired by those who have not consulted a medium before.

113 1/2 Yakima avenue, Weed block, same entrance as James' Studio, North Yakima, Wash.

Missouri Apple Kings

The Hazeltines, who own 2000 acres of "big red apple" orchards in Green county, have already sold $54,000 worth of the fruit this season. A St. Louis dealer has taken nearly $30,000 worth of the Ben Davis variety from them. A Chicago buyer offered S. I. Hazeltine $10,000 for 80 acres of his apples, but the offer was rejected. The apple crop of the United States this season will be the shortest for many years, the big orchardist told the interviewer. There will be no New York or Canada fruit for export, and buyers from nearly every state are coming to Missouri to buy for export. The European crop is short, which makes the demand still greater for export. An English merchant who purchased large quantities of apples from the Hazeltine family last year, on which he made a profit of about $3 a barrel, has notified them that he will be here again this season.

Prof. Harriden, the celebrated palmist and clairvoyant, who is now located in Weed block, 113 1/2 Yakima avenue, has done a rushing business all week. His parlors have been crowded with some of the best known people of this city. This would seem to indicate that the people of Yakima are quick to recognize a reliable palmist when one visits here. Some of his callers say that he tells their lives better than they know it themselves. His advertisement will be found on another page.

"A wful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from Pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Disease. Only $50 and $100. Trial bottles free at the Yellow drug store.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

A great man passed away when William McKinley succumbed to the wounds inflicted by Assassin Czolgosz. In his lifetime there were carping little men who said that he was no more than an amiable man and a time serving politician; but now that he has gone, and his critics have been disarmed of partisan bitterness, it clearly appears that no man of his day, and few men in our history, served this people so faithfully and with such distinguished ability and success.

The great men of American political history are few. When we have named Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Webster, Clay, Jackson, Lincoln and Grant, not many are left, and the titles of some of these are disputed. Read the lives of these, and consider the services of William McKinley, and then say why he does not deserve to stand with the immortals who made this union and those who preserved it intact.

As boy and man McKinley served his country almost continually for 40 years, and his record is one of continuous promotion. At 19 he was a private soldier in the army of the United States; at 53 he was president of the republic. As boy and man he served faithfully, and with splendid ability. Wherever he was, he was marked among his fellows. For a dozen years he was a leader in congress, and his speeches on the protective tariff were his party's textbook. In the end his was the master mind that framed the country's tariff law. During the four and a half years he served as president, he personally exerted greater influence upon the course of affairs, and more fully commanded the confidence of the people, than any of his predecessors, and in that time two wars were fought and many of the great policies of the government were revolutionized. For the last 15 years his public addresses, whether the subject was the protective tariff, the financial system, or the foreign policy, have been listened to with profound respect. Some of them rank with the greatest speeches ever delivered by an American statesman. Not one of our public men has ever struck a higher, grander note of patriotism in his public utterances than Mr. McKinley, and none has expressed a deeper, truer appreciation of American ideals.

As soldier, statesman and patriot William McKinley is fairly entitled to stand with his country's greatest men. We put none but Washington and Lincoln above him.

His death is a personal loss to every one of his millions of fellow citizens, not so much, however, on account of his services to the country, as because his private life and character were adorned with all those simple, homely virtues which the American people delight to honor. No breath of scandal, no suspicion of dishonesty, ever attached to his name. Deceit was foreign to his nature. He loved his friends as himself, and all men knew that more than wealth, more than the prizes of political strife, more than the wife of his youth.

He faced death bravely, as he had faced it on the battlefield. His last words were expressive of the religious faith with which his nature was so deeply imbued—the words of the Christian unfearful, strong and exultant to the end: "It is God's way; His will be done."

The life of William McKinley is and will remain, so long as courage, earnestness, virtue and devotion to the right are applauded, a precious heritage to his countrymen, and it will afford an example and an inspiration for thousands upon thousands of American youths.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Theodore Roosevelt is the youngest man who has yet been called to occupy the office of president of the United States. He is 43 years old. Eight generations of his family have lived in New York city, and the men have all been sterling citizens, and some of them have been prominent as leaders in that community. Theodore has been active in political affairs ever since his graduation from Harvard in 1880. His name has been familiar to readers of the newspapers ever since he was elected a member of the New York state legislature in 1881. After that he served three terms in the legislature; was an unsuccessful republican candidate for mayor of the city of New York; was one of Cleveland's civil service commissioners, having been appointed as a republican; was police commissioner of New York city, and later, assistant secretary of the navy. On the breaking out of the war with Spain he resigned his place in the navy department, organized a regiment of "Rough Riders," and went to Cuba as a lieutenant colonel. When he came home he was elected governor of New York. During the last 20 years his life has been one of tremendous activity. In addition to the performance of his duties in office in such manner as to win public approval, he has found time to do much literary work. His "Winning of the West" in four volumes is known to every lover of literature descriptive of western life. Every student of American history has read his "Life of Gouverneur Morris" and the "Life of Thomas Benton." He has also written a history of New York City, "Life of Cromwell," and magazine articles too numerous to mention.

From the first day that he took an interest in public affairs, Roosevelt has been a reformer. Sometimes he has been radical. He has always been for cleaner political methods and better public service. He has often acted impulsively, and yet seldom has made an error of judgment. He has been criticized for his impulsiveness, but none of his critics deny that wherever he has served he has done effective and valuable work. In all his political life he has been the antithesis of his great predecessor in one respect. He is outspoken and positive. He conceals nothing. He knows little of the art of keeping silent. His opinions are at the service of any man, but his reasons are as ready as his opinions.

Judging Theodore Roosevelt by the record he has made in private and public life up to this day; judging him by what we know he is as a citizen and by the ability and zeal to do right that he has always displayed in public service, one cannot but believe that that mantle of McKinley has fallen upon the shoulders of a worthy man. No one knows what the future may bring forth, but Mr. Roosevelt assumes control of the ship of state at what seems to be a most propitious time. The policies of the republican party are settled; the great problems of McKinley's administration have been solved; the country is at peace, and it is enjoying unexampled prosperity. Under such conditions, and with such opportunities as present themselves, President Roosevelt should make his administration wholly successful.

When the Republic went to press last Thursday evening the reports from the president's sickroom were encouraging. It was believed that his recovery was certain. The next morning came news that he was much worse, and the following night he died. Mr. McKinley was attended by several of the most eminent physicians and surgeons in the United States, but notwithstanding their learning and experience, they seem to have been mistaken in their opinions of his condition. The autopsy revealed the fact that the wound in the abdomen was gangrened along the entire course of the bullet, and that nature had done nothing to repair the injury caused by the ball. Although the surgeons had asserted that the bullet had not touched any of the organs but the stomach, the autopsy showed that it had torn away part of one of the kidneys. The report of the surgeons who held the autopsy concluded with the statement that the president could not have been saved by any means known to medicine or surgery.

A LOCAL sheet has been incessantly damned this week by a number of its patriotic subscribers for printing a regular weekly socialist department, the complaint being that the socialists are kin to the anarchists, and a paper that will permit itself to be used to circulate their doctrines is not worthy of the patronage of good citizens. This is not right. The socialists have nothing in common with the anarchists, and indeed there are some anarchists, who, while they advocate that all government is in restraint of natural rights of the individual, and ought therefore to be abolished, obey the laws, carefully avoid incendiary language and abhor the methods of the bloodthirsty extremists. But the socialists, however much mistaken they may be, no matter to what wing they may belong, advocate no violent methods. At the same time, there is no particular excuse for a paper that pretends to be democratic printing a "socialist" department.

MAYOR FECHTER is entitled to commendation for the course he has taken in dealing with the patent medicine vendors. These gentlemen upon coming to town defied the law and the city authorities. The mayor took the position that it was his duty to enforce the ordinance with respect to the "Quaker doctors" just the same as with respect to others. It transpires that the ordinance was defective. That does not prove the mayor wrong, nor does it put the "doctors" in any better light. They came into town with a bluff, and they have made it good; but the fact remains that their business is one upon which the city has a right to impose a license, and every time they open up to sell their goods as the matter now stands they job the city treasury out of the sum they should pay for the privilege. It is matter for regret that the ordinance was found to be defective, but criticism of the mayor is not called for. The council has passed an ordinance which will probably cover such cases in the future, but unfortunately it will not go into effect until next Thursday.

THE city authorities should take steps at once to clean up the town. Bad sanitary conditions, such as may now be found almost anywhere, breed disease. Typhoid fever comes from accumulations of filth, for which neglect and carelessness are responsible. Several cases of this dangerous disease have been reported this fall. They should be accepted as a warning. If the warning is unheeded, loss of life may be the result; but even if there are no fatalities, the prevalence of such sickness will be unfortunate and will give the place a bad name. Yakima is naturally one of the most healthful places in the world, and it will continue to be so if the commonest precautions are taken to secure and preserve health.

A MAN who came to Yakima early in the spring, and bought 25 acres of improved land for the sum of $4000, reports that he is well satisfied with his first season's work. A condition under which he bought his land was that one-half the crop of fruit this year should be his. He says that he has already sold 2100 boxes of peaches from the orchard, and that the value of the fruit still on his trees is greater than that of the fruit sold. He says his total sales will amount to more than $4000. In this case one-half of the fruit crop on Yakima land that sold for $160 an acre has paid for the land in one year. This man ought to be satisfied.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has invited all the cabinet members to retain their places during his administration. It is believed that all will accept, though Secretary Hay may decline. Since the death of his son a few weeks ago Mr. Hay has been very anxious to retire to private life. In case Mr. Hay retires Secretary Root will become secretary of state. It is intimated that Judge Taft will be recalled from the Philippines to become secretary of war.

CZOLGOSZ, the assassin, will be electrocuted, but his miserable, worthless life will not go far toward atoning for the crime he committed.

OF seven men who have been elected to the office of president during the last 40 years, three have died by the hand of an assassin.

THE steel strike was declared off last Saturday. It lasted ten weeks. It was a failure.

Should Take Every Precaution.

Dr. E. E. Heg of Seattle was called over to North Yakima Saturday to consult with Dr. Gordon regarding his sick wife. He returned to Seattle Tuesday. Dr. Heg says the cause of typhoid fever in and about the town is lack of proper sanitation. Dr. Heg says that a year ago Seattle was afflicted by typhoid but stringent methods of sanitation and disinfection were adopted and this year the city is comparatively free from the disease. Each case is reported to the city authorities by the attending physician, and when the patient regains strength the room, the patient's clothing and anything else likely to be infectious, are thoroughly fumigated. This has resulted in lessening the number of cases by 75 per cent. Dr. Heg is a member of the Seattle Board of Health, so his statements have an additional weight.

Notice.

The firm construes a statement in the REPUBLIC of August 23, 1901, that Hendrix-Briggs & Co., had failed and had been sued as a reference to them, and in justice to them the above denial is made. 2t.

What They Think of Yakima.

Roslyn Miner: The forenoon was spent in looking over the town and admiring the beautiful homes, in which North Yakima abounds. It is certainly a beautiful and thriving city and is growing at such a rapid rate a person hardly knows the place after being away from it for a year or two. While the excursion from a financial point of view was a failure the people here had an outing and they left at least $2000 hard cash in Yakima to pay for it. The people of this town when they go out for a good time wait nothing but the best, no matter what it costs. The Yakima people are a nice lot of folks, and, as we have said before, they have a fine town and a beautiful valley surrounding it, but they seem to be too busy at this time of the year to pay much attention to a lot of people on a pleasure trip.

INJURED IN A SALOON FIGHT

Two Men Hurt in a Shooting Scrape Early Monday Morning.

Monday morning about 1:30 o'clock a shooting affray occurred in Sandberg's saloon, on Yakima avenue, between Henry Waller, a gambler, and James Peaslee, a young fellow living not far from town. One shot made a flesh wound in Peaslee's neck, another grazed his leg and a third passed clear through the fleshy part of his thighs. Stewart Brown, a by-stander, was shot in the knee. Waller was uninjured. Peaslee and Brown were not badly hurt.

After seven or eight shots had been fired in the saloon there was a running fight between Waller and Peaslee into the saloon next door. Peaslee ran behind a partition in the rear of the building and fired one shot at Waller as he came in.

The details of the affair were brought out at the trial of Waller Monday afternoon. Peaslee had been drinking all the previous evening and was pretty well intoxicated at the time of the trouble. He went to get his horse but found the bridle reins cut and the horse missing.

He came into the saloon, so the witness said, and announced: "Some one has taken my horse."

Waller, although there was a number of other men in the room, took this as a personal affront and in a few seconds had pulled a gun and began firing, a moment before Peaslee did, the witness thought.

When the shooting began Brown found himself between the two. The first shot passed close to his temple. The fifth or sixth shot hit his right knee and made a painful wound. Peaslee made a dash for the front door and Waller closely followed. One or two shots were fired in the street. Only the one shot was fired in the building. The total number of shots was thought to be 11.

Sheriff Tucker was sent for and arrested the two principals. Peaslee and Brown were given medical treatment and Waller was released on $500 bonds. The two wounded men were able to appear at the trial in the afternoon.

Waller, who was defended by Attorney Eaglehart, was fined $99 and costs, total about $120, by Justice Taggard.

It was intended to have Peaslee's trial held Tuesday morning, but he pleaded guilty of carrying concealed weapons after the trial Monday afternoon and was fined $50 and costs.

The court room was filled with interested spectators at the time of the trial.

By the Bohemian Method.

The operation of drying hops by the Bohemian method, or an approach toward that method, is now in process in Senator Hemrich's new hop house in the Moxee valley. This is located directly west of the Hancock place. The hop house is constructed on slightly different lines from the usual model. It is heated by the usual method, but the air chambers under the two kilns are of a much greater depth, and the kilns themselves are larger than the ordinary, 30x30 feet. The hops used come from the Moxee company's yards. All leaves and foreign substances are taken from them by hand. The contents of the sack are put on wide tables and carefully culled over. The hops then are placed in the kilns and kept at a heat of 100 degrees for several hours, no sulphur being used until the drying is nearly completed, and then only to kill impurities in the berries. The process requires heat for a longer period than the ordinary method, from 30 to 34 hours. The heat is gradually increased toward the last until a temperature of 120 degrees is reached. The hops when cured appear to be more uniform in color, and have not the yellowish tinge noticeable in hops cured with sulphur. Senator Hemrich is extremely anxious to have the hops as nearly clean as possible, and to that end is threatening to pay $1.50 a box for picking, or to distribute $100 a week to the crew picking hops for him. It greatly increases the expense of handling the hops if each box requires culling. As a general thing Indians pick much cleaner than white persons.
