The Epigram. By J. D. MEDILL.

The long and tedious voyage of the battleship Oregon from San Francisco to Florida by which nearly ten weeks of valuable time was consumed in making the trip, has unquestionably done more to call the attention of the American people to the necessity of building the Nicaraguan canal, than all the long winded speeches made in Congress during the last thirty years. According to naval authorities, if the canal was now in use, the huge battleship might have made the trip in fourteen days. By this plain object lesson the people of this country now clearly see that the proposed canal is a military necessity, as well as of great commercial importance to both coasts. By its construction our government will need many less warships than under present conditions, and can quickly gather its ships to repel an invader from any quarter. But from the commercial point of view the benefits to be derived from the construction of this great waterway will be very great, especially to the people of this coast. By so greatly reducing the cost and risk of water transportation, it will necessarily act as a governor on the transcontinental lines, and hold those ravenous corporations in check. Its construction, after this war is over, which we believe to be probable, will greatly accelerate development and business on this coast and in the end benefit everyone. Fealty to this great work should be made one of the supreme tests hereafter of every man's fitness, who aspires to represent the people of this state in the halls of Congress.

The embargo placed by the navy department relative to news being sent out by the war correspondents, while no doubt a military necessity, works a great hardship on the anxious people all over the country who desire quick information and depend on the enterprise of the newspapers to furnish it. That the embargo is working satisfactorily, is amply demonstrated by the dearth of reliable news in the papers for the past month. Naval officials, unlike many United States senators after executive sessions, are as silent as the grave, and pay no heed to the ceaseless importunings of the correspondents, which makes the latter's lot hard to bear, as he is a high-priced man, on great expense, and much expected of him from his employers, who desire to sell extras on the strength of his reports. In fact, the correspondents of the yellow papers are forced to write history before it is made, to satisfy the demand for news among the people, of the progress of this war which our Uncle Sam is waging against a fifth-rate power.

Brann's Iconoclast for June is out and at its masthead appears the name of C. B. Gerald as editor. Judge Gerald, it will be remembered, is the man who slew the Harris brothers in a street duel last December, which was chronicled by some of the southern papers as a spirited affair in Waco. The new editor, of course, is not up to the standard of Brann, but he starts in well, although we question his ability to keep up the interest in that remarkable publication. While Brann was unquestionably a blackguard and perhaps a despoiler of character, he was yet a man of wonderful genius and as a skillful word-painter in the use of invective, he probably never had a superior in this country. His motives were generally righteous, although in his attacks on men and measures he was extreme. However the brilliancy of his satire will not soon be forgotten. Brann is dead. There was but one Brann; there are ten thousand Gerald's.

The result of the Oregon election on Monday seems to have resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Republican party all along the line, including a large majority in the legislature, which means the election of a gold standard man to fill the vacant seat in the United States senate. This result is traceable to several causes, not the least of which was the bickering and friction which existed among the different elements of the Fusion party and the supreme mastery which the Portland Oregonian wielded over the minds of a majority of the Oregon people. The paper is often, in our judgment, wrong on public questions, but still we admire the ability with which its gifted editor defends his views before the people. But anent the Oregon returns, our own politicians are deeply wondering whether or no fate has decreed that this result is to be duplicated in the Evergreen State in this historic year of our Lord, 1898.

The ostensible reasons given by the government and people of this country for making war on Spain, to save the reconcentrados and avenge the Maine, and although the war is not yet two months old, the first proposition seems to have been lost sight of entirely. Indeed, it is fair to assume, since Cuba has been virtually cut off from the rest of the world, and no reliable news is to be had concerning the fate of the poor, suffering reconcentrados, that they have perished miserably while waiting and praying for deliverance at the hands of the people of the United States. Since the non-combatants are probably now all dead, it is to be hoped that our government will not turn this into a war of conquest after assuring the world at the outset, as Congress did in its declaration, that this was a war for the uplifting of a down-trodden people, and not a war for the mere lust of territory against a fifth rate power. To change our OG now, would be to brand us as hypocrites in the eyes of the world, and make true all the charges made against us by our enemies in Europe.

The probabilities are, from present indications, that this is to be one of the most prosperous years in the history of Yakima county. The prospects at this time are that our products, with a few minor exceptions, will be far above the average in quantity, and the outlook for remunerative prices has not been so good in the past eight or ten years. The causes for this better condition are obvious. California, our great competitor—especially in fruit products, has suffered from a long continued drought and will have little or no fruit for northern or eastern shipment. As it is with fruit, so it is with most other products. Capital, too, which was inclined to run in its hole six weeks ago, on account of the war scare, is more confident, as it is now generally recognized that we are in little danger of getting into complications with other countries. So on the whole, we are justified in expecting better times ahead in this favored locality.

Let all who have registered get to the polls today and vote at the school election. An enlightened nation cannot long exist without good schools, and good schools cannot long exist without good directors. For the first time here in years, a lady is asking for the suffrage of the people as a candidate for the clerkship. That fact alone ought to induce indifferent, but gallant men to go to the polls.

A blue mark on the margin of this paper indicates that this is a sample copy sent you with the hope that you will become a subscriber. Only 50 cents a year in advance.

YANKEE DEWEY.

Yankee Dewey sailed his boats
Down in Manila Bay, sir;
He found the Spaniards on their floats,
And blew them all away, sir.

Yankee Dewey, keep it up;
O Dewey, you're a dandy!
Yankee Dewey, keep it up;
Yes, Dewey, you're a dandy!

Then Yankee Dewey sent us word,
And this is what he said, sir:
"We've sunk their gunboats, every one,
And not a Yankee dead, sir!"

Yankee Dewey, keep it up;
O Dewey, you're a dandy!
Yankee Dewey, keep it up;

—Detroit Free Press.

Curiously Worded Advertisements.

Curiously worded advertisements that are funny without intent, are more common in the London papers, it would seem, than they are in New York publications. An English paper offered a prize recently for the best collection of such announcements and the following is the result: "A lady wants to sell her piano, as she is going aboard a strong iron frame." "Furnished apartments for gentleman with folding doors." "Wanted a room by two gentlemen about thirty feet long and twenty feet wide." "Lost a collie dog by a man on Saturday answering Jim with a brass collar round his neck and muzzle." "X boy wanted who can open oysters with a reference." "Bulldog for sale; will eat anything very fond of children." "Wanted an organist and a boy to blow the same." "Wanted a boy to be partly outside and partly behind the counter." "Lost near Highgate archway, an umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a bent rib and a bone handle." "To be disposed of, a pheasant, the property of a gentleman with a moveable head-piece as good as new."

No Political Interference.

EDITOR EPIGRAM:—There is an impression current in Yakima county, and I desire the courtesy of space in your paper to correct it. It is currently reported, and in many quarters believed, that in the formation of any force of volunteers that may be ordered to the front from this state in the present war, the military authorities of this state will permit political considerations to influence the issuing of commissions to volunteer officers. I desire to state that I know of my personal knowledge this rumor and belief to be absolutely unfounded. The politics of no officer commissioned in the first Washington volunteers was considered or known by the military authorities here, and I am informed by the governor and the adjutant general that I can speak with authority in saying that officers elected by volunteer companies, where fitted to discharge their duties as officers, will be commissioned by the governor without regard to or knowledge of, their politics.

Very Respectfully,

THOMAS M. VANCE.

BALKY HORSES.

Keep Cool, Keep the Team Cool and Don't Overload.

Abuse ruins the best of horses, so keep cool, keep the team cool, use good judgment and save time and much trouble. I have handled balky horses by way of trading and buying, and when one would take a set I would take my time to get started, fix so the load could start easily, maneuver the horse to the right and left a few times, use the whip lightly about his hind legs as though I were not caring whether he started or not, till he seemed ready to start, and started quietly as though he had just learned that he could start, and continued all right, and balking was ended.

I have known four powerful strong pulling horses killed under the whip. Two died in the gears and two dwindled awhile and died. It is strange how strong a horse will pull when once he has learned to know his strength. And now I am at the place where the good horseman or driver knows his business and knows when he has loaded too heavily unawares, and will not overpull and strain his team or horses till their nerve and muscular power is exhausted. He will hitch on more team or unload some, but an inexperienced driver overloaded on wet and soft ground is most apt to stall so that it will be impossible for the full strength of the team to start the load. This is where balky horses are made by lack of good judgment. The team is soon spoiled or fooled till they refuse to pull, all the good pulling has been pulled out of them, and they are in the same fix as a horse that has been broken of pulling back on the halter, having been tied securely to a willow bush that would spring, causing him to pull more vigorously than ever, and pulled his utmost till he gives it up, never to pull back on the halter again. The effect is much the same on a team that is called balky. None but an expert with the team can undo the spoil and make the spoiled team as good as ever. I can't explain the modus operandi or make it clear to the understanding of the unskillful driver.

In conclusion I mention something of special importance—that is, playing tricks on colts and horses for sport and frightening them so they are unsafe. It is written in the Proverbs, "A horse is a vain thing for safety." They naturally are easily frightened and spoiled. I know a horse that was good to middle age. The lady was driving past a schoolhouse as the school was dismissed for home, the boys beat on their tin dinner buckets, drum fashion, and said, "Now see him go." He ran away and shipwrecked the rig, and now frightens at anything that rattles. Boys, be warned and beware of the danger of frightening horses.—Israel Hill in National Stockman.

At This Time of Year.

Cull and weed out carefully all your flocks and herds. Separate the stock animals from those you will fatten for market. Sell off for what you can get every runt, weak or defective animal and those that seem unthrifty. It costs to winter a poor quality of animal, and it does not pay to waste good food in fattening such. Whether hogs, sheep, cattle or poultry, weed out and dispose of the deadheads.

If you have wethers that you wish to market early, shear them at the beginning of October. By the time they are fat they will have half grown fleeces, and they will look well. Besides that the shearing will free them from ticks if they are so unfortunate as to have any. It is torture to sheep to be penned up and devoured by ticks. Professor Craig says that a lamb which has been sheared makes a more rapid gain than one unshorn. After the fleece of the shorn lamb is an inch long, however, the lamb gains flesh no faster than one not sheared. It is for the ones that are to be sold in a month or two that the October shearing is recommended.

WASHINGTON STATE FAIR.

Ex Sheriff Van de Vanter, of King county, who has one of the largest and best bands of trotting horses in the state, has decided to bring them to Yakima this summer for training and enter them at the coming Fair, and probably the circuit.

The Commission has secured the services of H. Rasher, of Spokane, as expert judge of all stock. There is no doubt that he will give satisfaction, as he is one of the best posted stockmen in the northwest.

Dr. Hare, who now owns the Stinson horses, has decided to send Yendis to the Fair grounds and trained for the fall races. Yendis is a very fast animal.

Seattle Day has been changed from Thursday to Friday in order to give Seattle the Derby.

Rothschild Bros., of Portland, who are the owners of a number of racers, will send the entire stable to Yakima on or about the first of August. They will go from here to Walla Walla, and thence into Idaho and Montana.

Great interest is manifested in Ellensburg and Roslyn. Kittitas county will have a day at the Fair, when an excursion train will be run in the morning from Cle-Elum to North Yakima, to return at night. It is expected that there will be an immense turnout.

The young couples who have their eyes on the wedding presents to the couples getting married in the pavilion, had better begin to give notice; otherwise they might be barred out. Quite a handsome young lady has already inquired of one of the commissioners pretty closely as to the details, and the chances are that one of the places, at least, is filled already. If only one couple get married, they will receive premiums amounting to $90.

The Portland Cordage Co. has notified the Fair Commission that at the request of Mr. Leckenby, the Northern Pacific grass expert, they will place in machinery hall a decorating machine, to be operated during the Fair by Felix Freamery, of Portland. The object being to develop the hemp industry, which has quite a promising prospect in this state, particularly in Whitman county.

Dr. D. M. Angus, now one of the physicians at the Steilacoom insane asylum, writes a friend in town, that all the Yakima people who are employees at that institution, are planning to take their vacation during the State Fair, and to spend the same visiting it. And he also says that there will be quite a number of the other employees who will take their vacation at the same time, with the view of visiting the Fair.

Dr. Gunn, secretary of the Commission, is in receipt of a letter from Edgar P. Piper, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, in which he expresses good wishes for the success of the Fair, and states to the Commission that it is his desire and the desire of his paper to be of service to the State Fair.

The Commission is very much encouraged by the evidence it is constantly receiving from all parts of the state manifesting the greatest interest in the coming Fair, and the Commission feels assured that the Fair will be a great success.

A letter to a prominent real estate man in this city from a gentleman who lives in Wasco county, Ore., say he has contemplated a visit to Yakima for some time, saying that he would postpone his visit until the State Fair. And that at that time besides himself and about twenty other people from that county would come to Yakima and attend the Fair and study the resources and productions of different sections of the state with the view of selecting places to locate within the state of Washington.

A THURIFER GUILD.

English Clergymen Agitated Over the Question of Incense Burning.

Two subjects are at present greatly exercising the minds of many clergymen of the Church of England—one is the startling falling off in their incomes owing to the long continued and increasing agricultural depression, and the other is the use of incense in churches. The latter is always a prominent topic of clerical discussion about Christmas time, but this year it seems to create more interest than usual, owing to the growing prevalence of the practice.

There are now so many servers, acolytes and other altar assistants engaged in lighting and swinging thurifers in the churches of England that they seriously propose to form themselves into a guild or society for the promotion of incense burning. The name suggested for it is the "Thurifer Guild." One of its objects will be a study of the history of the practice and the best manner of manufacturing orthodox and sweet smelling incense in an expeditious and economic manner. —London Telegraph.

The Congo Railroad.

The opening of the first section of the Congo railroad passed almost unnoticed in this country, chiefly because it is due to Belgian enterprise. But for all that, British traders already realize the vast possibilities involved and are actively preparing to obtain a share of the new trade. The road at present extends from Matadi to Kenge, and thence will be pushed as rapidly as possible to Stanley pool. The list of freight charges has been published in the chief European ports, and two British and one German steamship line have made Matadi a port of call. It is confidently predicted that a Congo boom is about to commence, and that King Leopold will soon be within measurable distance of reward for his courage and patience. —London Letter.

The Singer Family Abroad.

It is extraordinary how the Singer family has managed to mix itself up with the aristocracy of France. With nothing but a huge fortune and a large stock of eccentricity the original old Singer married no less than 10 women, covering a wide range of position and character. He numbered his descendants by the score, and these it is who have managed to ally themselves with some of the proudest families in Europe. At the recent wedding of Mrs. Winnaretta Singer in Paris to Prince Melchior de Polignac there was a great gathering of the Singer clans, and they bore such names as Rochefoucauld, Decazes, Murat, Modena and Dudley. —Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

Best Grain Shock.

Nine bundles of grain make a better "shock" than the old fashioned dozen, writes a contributor to The Farm Journal. He says: Get up four in a cross, then four more, one in each of the spaces between two of the first four, and cap with the ninth, well broken, and the tops toward the prevailing wind. If well set—that is, each sheaf standing on its own bottom and thoroughly closed in at the top—such a shock will stand a stiff windstorm and a three days' rain without harm.

Another Unfortunate.

Charles Payne, of Everett, a young man presumably of the age of 25 years, is the latest victim of accident on the rail. When the local east bound freight reached Simcoe about 1 o'clock Thursday young Payne, who had been discovered by the brakeman, was ordered to leave the train, which he attempted to do, but losing his balance, he fell face downward between two cars while the train was moving, with the result that his left foot was severed completely from his body. The trainmen, probably unaware of the accident, went on, but the agonizing screams of the young man brought Section Foreman Charles Franzen, who was in the vicinity, to his rescue, and he and his men brought the sufferer to this city as quickly as possible, where he was placed in the hospital under the care of Dr. Heg. Payne is not a hobo in appearance, but on the contrary, has about him a look of respectability. He informed Mr. Franzen that his stepfather was the postmaster at Everett.

Let's Make the Eagle Scream.

It is to be hoped that our citizens, and especially that class of business men who will be directly benefitted, will respond generously to the solicitations of the committee who are raising the funds necessary to hold a Fourth of July celebration in this city. Our enterprising and worthy fire department have taken the initiative in the matter of holding a celebration this year, and they ought to receive a generous support from the people. Inasmuch as our country is now engaged in a foreign war, and everybody is feeling patriotic, a successful celebration can certainly be had if the financial support needed is forthcoming. Let us all go to work to make the celebration a success.

Tampico Warblings.

The hop farmers are busy people these warm days in irrigating and training. Our yards are being well worked, and Tampico will keep up her record this fall of being the producer of the best hops in the county.

Joseph Mondor is putting up a large new barn, and it is understood that the young people are to be invited to dance in it when completed. We dance in anything here from a hen house to a cow stable.

Burgess and Henderson are preparing to move a wood sawing machine into the timber on the south fork. They have been felling timber for the past week, and the noise they make is like the bombardment of some old Spanish Morro castle. When Chris. Horne leaves for the war, they will have monopoly of the wood business.

Miss Jerusha White has been visiting a few days with young friends here, and the cayuses will probably heave a sigh of relief when she goes away on Thursday.

OBSERVER.

A Novel Scene.

Yakima is undoubtedly the banner secret society town in this state. A few days ago Messrs. Geiger and McMurray, state organizers of the order of Red Men, struck the town and by Thursday night had in their procession 106 candidates in single file for the privilege of riding the goat, which was in the van loaded on a dray and looking like an unwilling participant in the festivities. The local band was out, which, together with the beautiful display of fireworks made, created a lively and interesting scene.

Police Items.

In the nuisance case of the city against A. L. Harrison, tried by a jury in Judge Dam's court, on Tuesday, defendant was found guilty and paid into the city treasury, including fine and costs, $57 85.

Ed. Seymour, for being drunk and disorderly, was fined by Judge Dam on Tuesday $5 and costs.

On last Monday night, at a late hour, a hobo slyly entered the saloon of E. W. Dooley and carried off the nickel-in-the-slot machine which sat in the front part of the house. In a few minutes J. D. McDaniel, the bartender, missing the machine, and suspecting who the thief was, started in hot pursuit and in a few minutes caught sight of the thief at the depot. The hobo seeing the dreaded Nemesis on his trail dropped the machine and ran for his life. The active bartender felt relieved, however, to get back the machine with its valuable contents.

PATENT REMINDERS.

SOME FUNNY THINGS WHICH INVENTORS HAVE MADE.

A Bracelet to Make Her Think of Engagements—Many Devices for the Convenience of Sleepy Heads—One to Thwart the Grave Robber.

Psychologists assert that civilized human beings are growing more absent-minded. The average man of intelligence today is not alert, not so conscious of his immediate environments, as he was a century ago. He does more thinking than he did then, and a greater part of his business in life is left to the purely mechanical brain functions.

The inventors, always a step ahead of the requirements of the times, are already at work devising contrivances to summon absent attention. One of the latest of these is a bracelet that has an alarm watch attached to it. The wearer, having an engagement at a certain hour, sets the watch, and when the time arrives a little needle point pricks her arm and reminds her of the duty.

At the patent office a large class of inventions is comprised under the head of "alarms"—these being machines by which persons who otherwise would not think are made to think. The average individual is obliged, however unwillingly, to get up at a certain time in the morning. To provide for this requirement many ingenious persons have applied their talents to the production of contrivances for awakening people and compelling them to arise. There is a kind of bedstead, for example, which holds its mattress in a frame that is retained in the normal position by a catch. At the proper hour the catch, operated by a clockwork mechanism, loses its grip, and the mattress frame becomes vertical instead of horizontal, throwing sleepy head out upon the floor.

There is another sort of bed which lets the head of the sleepy person drop when getting up time arrives, one end of the mattress frame collapsing. But one of the queerest of the patented methods of waking people up involves the employment of a tin pan and a weight hung by a cord. When the hands of a clock reach a certain point, the weight is released and falls upon the pan, making a direful racket. Another oddity is a frame from which are suspended a number of corks. During the night it is lowered gradually by a clockwork mechanism until at the proper hour and minute the dangling corks begin to bob against the nose and face of the sleeper. Of course he wakes up. The most obvious advantage of these sleep alarms is that they render anxiety on the part of the sleeper unnecessary, so far as rising is concerned. He can snooze undisturbed by the necessity of watching himself.

Hayseed visitors in the city will insist on blowing out the jokes notwithstanding all the newspaper notes on the subject. To provide against such accidents, a citizen of Ashland, Wis., has invented a little apparatus that is intended to be attached to every gas fixture in a hotel. The breath of a person who attempts to blow out the gas tilts a delicately balanced electrode and closes a circuit, giving an alarm in the office. Another kind of alarm, patented by a Chicago man, notifies the householder of escaping gas. If you are afraid of pickpockets, you can obtain protection by wearing a small machine that makes a big disturbance in case anybody tries to put his hand into your pocket.

Even after death you may find alarms a service. If a grave robber comes along, a torpedo placed in the coffin for that purpose will blow him to smithereens. Supposing that the disturbance wakes you to life again, a clockwork mechanism will start a bell to ringing, while a red flag runs up to the top of the tombstone, giving notice that a prompt resurrection is desired. Speaking of waking up suggests mention of some odd contrivances for doing necessary things before getting out of bed in the morning. One of these, patented by a lazy Vermonter, enables one to turn on the draft of a stove or furnace and then turn over for a supplementary snooze. This, however, is a primitive contrivance compared with the invention of a resident of Providence which provides for the feeding of a whole stableful of live stock at daybreak. Mr. Sleepy Head simply turns on his pillow and jerks a cord, which opens a valve in the stable and lets down the requisite quantity of feed into a trough.

There are quite a number of inventions for lighting the fire in the morning without getting out of bed. They are all operated by clockwork. The best of them is credited to an Illinois genius. A clock is set for a certain time, and when the proper minute is reached the mechanism "throws" a lever, which draws a match across a piece of sandpaper and ignites the kindling. One of the latest patents is for a street lamp which has a clockwork apparatus attached to it. At the correct moment for which the machine is set it closes an electric circuit, at the same time opening the gas pipe. Immediately the gas is ignited, and it burns until shut off by the clockwork at daybreak in the morning. In this way the street lamps all over a city may be made to light themselves simultaneously without the intervention of human hands.

A citizen of Austin is the author of a sort of water clock that is wound by rain. On the roof of a house is a trough that catches the rainwater, which flows into the tank. When the tank is filled to a certain point, it empties the water into a bucket which is connected by a cord with the winding drum of an ordinary clock. The bucket falls and by its weight pulls up the clock weight, thus winding the clock. Finally the bucket reaches the floor, when a valve in its bottom opens and the water runs out. Then it ascends and resumes its original position, so as to be ready to wind the clock up again after awhile. —Washington Cor. Philadelphia Times

This pest appears early in the season, even attacking young cabbage grown for transplanting. It also attacks turnips and radishes to a greater or less extent. ### Council Proceedings.

The city dads met in regular session Monday night, June 6, Mayor Fechter in the chair and all the councilmen present.

Committee on cemetery reported that everything pertaining to the burial ground was in a satisfactory condition.

Report of the city officers for the month ending June 1, read and referred.

Motion made by Bartholet and carried that the mayor and city attorney be authorized to ascertain and report to the next meeting, the best terms that can be made to settle the tax delinquency cases of the city against the Northern Pacific railway.

Motion made by Keck and carried that the city attorney be instructed to draft an ordinance repealing that part of the present ordinance requiring bells and lamps on bicycles.

A petition signed by numerous citizens, asking the council to appropriate $200 to buy instruments for the city band, was presented and referred to the finance committee.

Bills were presented to the amount of $594.05, the payment of which was ordered and the council adjourned.

Populist Committee Meeting.

Pursuant to call the straightout committee of the Peoples party met at the court house last Saturday afternoon, and informally discussed the political situation as it exists in Yakima county and the state.

The monotony of the proceedings was relieved somewhat by a wise and statesmanlike address from Brer Theo Milner, the sage of Fairview. The Hon. Legh R. Freeman, the well known editor of the Washington Farmer, was there also, and in clarion tones, instructed the brethren as to the duties of the hour.

Speaker Cline, the good looking editor of the Olympia Journal, who happened to be in town on that day, made an interesting talk, and locked horns with the editor of the Farmer on questions of party policy.

In regard to the time for holding a convention, the consensus of opinion among the members was that September 1 was early enough.

After passing a motion to meet July 2, the committee evidently fearing another oratorical outbreak, made haste to adjourn.

Altogether 'twas a great day in Rome.

An example should be made through the reform press of Patrick Henry Winston's grab of the fund appropriated by the last legislative session for defense of the railroad law, $1200 to his son swacks too much of that nepotism which has always been obnoxious. For the sums given to P. C. Sullivan, ex-Republican candidate for governor; to Aaron Titlow, county attorney of Pierce, and to Graves & Wolf, law partners of Senator Turner, it is safe to say the state has not bad value received.—Olympia Journal.

"SPANISH HONOR."

["Spanish honor was saved at Manila."—Sagasta in an interview.]

We did not notice it, I swear.
We saw some sinking warships there.
Or heard a Spaniard's final prayer,
The while our cannon's thunder
Rolled o'er the bay and down the shore,
While all your decks were red with gore
And Spanish seamen prayed or swore
Ere ships and men went under.

If you saved honor, very well.
'Twas all you saved from out that hell
Of rending shot and bursting shell
For which your record pleaded.
We sank your ships; we stilled your guns;
We set death's seal upon your sons;
Your blood ran forth as water runs—
So trifles were not heeded.

And what's your honor? It is told
In dark deeds done for lust of gold,
In crimes whose tale the centuries hold—
Your honor is dishonor.
Murder and rapine in the past
Have stalked where'er your shade was cast,
And Cuba merely was the last
To feel your clutch upon her.

You talk of honor, sodden Spain!
You! While the torn and shattered Maine
Rots where you set the deadly train—
Hell holds its honor higher.
And if such honor, sooth to tell,
Was all you saved from out of hell
In which the Spanish squadron fell,
Your hour of fate draws nigher.

Like a Great Railway

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veins, which convey the blood to every part of the system. When the liver and kidneys refuse to act the blood is prevented from circulation by poisonous acids, and then comes Rheumatism. Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy drives these poisons from the blood, and Dr. Drummond's Lightning Liniment restores the stiff joints, drawn cords and hardened muscles. If your druggist has not got these remedies, send to the Drummond Medicine Company, New York, and the full month's treatment of two large bottles will be sent to your express address.

The old saying that "great minds run in the same channel," was exemplified anew the other day. Hon. J. C. Conine while talking of the many atrocious puns brought out by the war said he had a copyright upon the expression "Yanko-Spanko war." But we find the following in an exchange: "A London paper calls it the 'Yanko-Spanko' war, which is better than 'Hispano-American.' The Yanko is likely to Spanko Blanko."—Olympia Journal.

You are behind the times if you don't have the latest war news. Subscribe for the Seattle Daily Times and keep posted. Only 50 cents a month. B. N. Coe, agent.

How it Acts.

There is no waiting weeks and months for relief while taking Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedies for Rheumatism. Some cases of years' standing have been entirely cured with one treatment. Relief and benefit are felt from the first, and if the treatment is persisted in, the stiff joints and drawn cords are restored. If your druggist has not got these remedies do not take anything else. Describe your case and send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., New York, and the full month's treatment of two large bottles will be sent to you.

THE EPIGRAM is informed that Dan Stout and wife, who up to about two years ago were residents of this city; but who have since resided at some point in Wyoming, have been recently divorced, and thereby hangs a tale in which a false friend, an unfaithful wife and an infuriated husband were the leading characters. On discovery of the guilty liason, Dan is said to have buried a knife in the vitals of his tormentor with almost fatal results, and to have lately been acquitted by a jury of his peers, and to have secured a legal separation from his unfaithful spouse. His relatives are expecting him back soon soon with the children.

The captain further stated that the second call from this state would include only four full companies of 106 men each.
