

DEMOCRATS HOLD CONVENTION TODAY

Tieton Hall Will be Scene of Gathering of Delegates
From all Sections of the County.

The democratic county convention will meet in this city in Tieton hall at 10 o'clock this morning. Order of business will be arranged at that time, an organization perfected, and adjournment then taken until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the afternoon 28 delegates will be chosen to go as delegates to the state convention, which meets in Spokane on the 18th inst. The indications point to a rousing meeting this afternoon in Tieton hall, and it is expected that a good attendance will help to make the occasion most enthusiastic.

That Bryan will secure a favorable delegation is hardly doubted as the great Nebraskan has always enjoyed a big following in this county among both republicans and democrats. In some parts of the state an anti-Bryan movement has made futile attempts at organization, but those who oppose the candidacy of Mr. Bryan are few.

With reference to the Splawn boom for governor, every day the popularity of the Yakima pioneer appears more resplendent than the day before. The people of the whole county are taking greater interest in the situation and the result is that people throughout the entire state are now beginning to ask questions.

A committee of democratic ladies, of which Mrs. Harry E. Moran is in charge, are now busily engaged making a large banner which is to be carried to the Spokane convention by the Yakima delegation. Thousands of Splawn buttons and badges have been ordered and these will arrive here in a few days.

There is a general belief among democrats throughout the country that 1908 is destined to be a democratic year. The signs point to democratic victory and a proper organization in Yakima county will contribute largely to the success of the democratic nominees in the state, as well as at home.

There was some talk early in the week about changing the date of the democratic state convention from May 18 to May 26, and transferring the convention to Seattle instead of holding it in Spokane. This was a scheme of several energetic Seattle hustlers, but the scheme has not met with general approval. The Seattle men concluded this change would be popular on account of the battleship fleet excursion. This movement, however, will not be acquiesced in generally, and therefore can not materialize. Following is a partial list of delegates chosen:

North Yakima.

First Ward—James R. Coe, Joseph Stephenson, W. E. Thornton, S. E. Farris, A. J. Shaw, R. M. McCoy, Warren Erwin, Richard Strobach and Vestal Snyder.

M. W. A. HAVE BIG TIME IN YAKIMA

City Extends Welcome to Visiting Woodmen—Seattle Team Takes First Prize and Tacoma Second —Banquet in Tieton Hall.

North Yakima this week entertained visitors from all sections of the state. It was the occasion for the state convention of Modern Woodmen of America, and the local lodge of Woodmen put forth every effort to show their neighbors a good time.

That the visitors were accorded every courtesy, and that every minute of their time in this city was well spent, must be accepted as positively true, because at the big banquet in Tieton hall Thursday night which marked the close of festivities, every speaker representing the various delegations said so, in the course of his remarks.

Local Modern Woodmen are to be congratulated upon the recognized success of their two days' entertainment. Automobiles and vehicles were provided for the purpose of showing their guests over the city and out through the Nob Hill fruit districts.

Wednesday night in Odd Fellows' hall a musical program and entertainment was provided for the visitors and the evening was pleasantly spent. The hall was crowded as it never was before, and the best talent in the city assisted on the program.

Thursday afternoon occurred the big parade led by Nagler's band, and later in the afternoon the teams of the Seattle, Tacoma and Bellingham lodges entered the competitive drill for the $300 and $150 cash prizes. Seattle was awarded 95 points and the first prize. Tacoma was given second place with 84 points. The judges of this contest were Major Will Lemon, Captain John Curry and Captain Marshall Scudder. The contest was held on the play grounds of the Central school house.

The big banquet in the evening was attended by 600 people, and Tieton hall displayed a scene of revelry seldom witnessed in this city. The Woodmen committee in charge of the affair was composed of O. F. Spring, J. M. Dash, Joe Storer and N. C. Hutchins. The spread was served by members of the Epworth League and considering the large crowd the service was excellent. Following is the program as it was given:

Music by Nagler's orchestra.
Toast, "The Deputy As a Factor," R. A. Ballinger, Prosser.

Toast, "The Ladies," Dr. Pitwood, Seattle.

Toast, "Woodcraft Insurance," F. J. Allen, North Yakima.

RANCHERS MUST

OBEY THE LAW

County Commissioners Direct That All Who Would Construct Culverts Conveying Water Across the Road Must Obtain Permission to do so.

As the result of many of the ranchers failing to construct bridges in accordance with the law over irrigation ditches which they dig across the public highways, the county commissioners have passed an order compelling all who would place culverts for conveying water across the roads to first obtain permission to do so from the board. This will enable the commissioners to keep track of the culverts and know just which the board is responsible for and which are to be kept up by the ranchers.

A great deal of trouble has been caused through the ignorance of some of the settlers and the neglect of others in regard to the construction of culverts and the board is threatened at this time with one suit for damages resulting from a defective culvert and might very probably be made defendant in a number of such suits unless prompt measures are taken to insure the public safety.

Flowing Over Highway.

Road Supervisor Joe Lancaster, of district No. 1, reports that conditions in his section are very bad this spring and that in no less than 16 places on the road between Clemens' Hill and the Selah postoffice water is flowing over the highway.

The commissioners intend in the future to rigidly enforce the law. This provides that any person constructing a ditch across any public highway shall put in a good, substantial bridge, not less than 16 feet in breadth, over such watercourse and that the bridge shall be constructed within three days. In case it is not constructed the law provides that the road supervisor may call upon the owner of the ditch to pay the cost of the erection of such a bridge and if the owner refuses to pay he may go before a justice of the peace and make oath to the correctness of the Fine Provided For.

In case judgment shall be given against the owner of the ditch it is provided that the justice of the peace shall assess the owner $10 in addition to the cost of the bridge. It is provided that the price of the bridge recovered in this way shall be paid into the district road fund, but the $10 fine shall be paid to the road supervisor for the trouble and expense he may have been put to in the collection of the debt.

The order passed by the county commissioners and which amplifies the law as above is as follows:

Order of the Board.

"It is hereby ordered that hereafter no person or corporation shall be allowed to place culverts in the country roads for conveying water for irrigation across public roads unless such person or corporation shall first have been granted the privilege by this board, and it is further ordered that the culverts shall be constructed as follows: The length of the culvert shall be designated by the road supervisor or the county commissioners and in no case to be less than 20 feet; top and side plank to be 3 inches thick with at least four cross stays on the bottom two inches in thickness by eight inches in width. Where it becomes necessary to keep the top of the culvert below the surface of the road grade an inverted siphon must be used.

"All persons or corporations constructing private culverts as by law required shall construct them in a workmanlike manner and shall maintain said culverts in accordance with this order and with the law."

The board of county commissioners on Tuesday turned down the request of the Commercial club committee to establish a new road from the end of North First street to the Selah bridge on account of the large expense involved. The board took the view that the cost of securing the necessary right of way, $6000, to be excessive. The Selah people are rightfully demanding that the road to the bridge be improved, but it would seem that some other way must now be found.

WENAS VALLEY TO COME NEXT

Project Started to Construct a Reservoir to Irrigate
Five Thousand Acres of Land
In That Locality.

There is a project on foot by local capitalists for a great development in the Wenas valley. The scheme is to construct a reservoir on the Backer ranch in the upper valley of that name, a reservoir which in area would cover about 200 acres. All that is needed to complete the reservoir is a heavy rock and earthen dam to extend for a distance of about 800 feet, with plenty of rock material close at hand with which to construct it. At that point the Wenas valley proper narrows to a mere neck of land affording a first class reservoir site which can be developed with a very reasonable outlay. The property needed belongs to J. J. Backer, a former chief of police of this city and the owner is said to have given the local promoters an option thereon. A preliminary survey and report was recently made of the project by Engineer Frank Marble, who pronounces the scheme entirely feasible and comparatively inexpensive.

By damming the Wenas the flood waters of that stream would be conserved to a considerable extent and could be made, it is thought, to cover about 5000 acres of land in the Wenas, a portion of which is now inadequately served.

The Wenas is one of the best valleys in Yakima county and the only thing that has kept it back is the scarcity of water, a condition that the construction of the reservoir would meet. The low lands of the Wenas are particularly well adapted to hay production and dairying, while the uplands are as well adapted for certain fruits as any other portion of the Yakima valley.

It is an open secret locally that should the reservoir project go through, as now seems likely, that fact will doubtless lead the Yakima Valley Transportation company to construct an Electric car line up the Wenas from North Yakima. Such a line would serve and tend to develop both the Selah and Wenas districts, giving to the people the outlet that they have long felt the need of.

A GOOD SHOW

Woodmen of World Entertain Large Crowd at Yakima Theatre.

The pretty little entertainment given under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World at the Yakima theatre last Wednesday was well attended, and afforded the audience a lot of fun.

The performers got a great deal more out of the show than some professionals might have done but when the fact is considered that such prominent local artists as Mrs. Edward Bryant, Miss Grace Oviatt, Mr. Herman Crawford, Mr. Percy Green, Miss Marion Van Horn, Miss Marie Richards and Miss McIntosh all had leading parts, the success of the entertainment is not to be wondered at.

A feature of the show was the military song of Albert Arendt. Mr. Arendt is connected with the First National bank, of this city. He has a splendid voice and uses it like a veteran of the operatic stage. His handsome figure and commanding stage presence at once won the admiration of the young ladies in the audience. Mr. Arendt was encored several times.

Much praise is due to Bert Cook for his interest in the management of the entertainment.

The Woodmen of the World have a large and growing order in this city.

Wants Husband for Daughter.

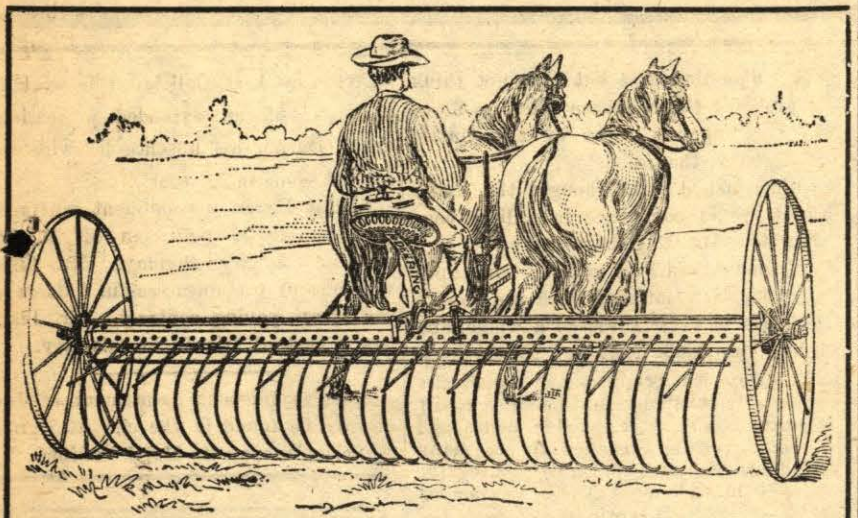

It is reported that David Toulee, a well known native citizen of the Yakima reservation, has been advertising in eastern papers for an approved white husband for his daughter. As an inducement for the right man David, it is said, is willing to hang up some most alluring prizes which are to go with the hand of his daughter as a wedding dot. These prizes consist of 40 acres of land, the sum of $5000 and a band of horses—surely a most tempting and liberal offer!

David, it is asserted, has already had a number of anxious inquiries by mail from possible candidates for matrimony including one from an U. S. soldier in far away Pinar del Rio, Cuba.

With such extraordinary inducements it would seem as though papa David might have secured a fairly desirable son-in-law nearer home.

The annual stockholders meeting of the Yakima Horticultural Union will be held this morning at 10 a. m., at the company's office. Annual reports of the president and secretary will be read and a new board of directors elected.

Hon. F. H. Brownell and wife of Everett were over Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Noble. Mr. Brownell is a prominent lawyer and politician of Everett.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Things are beginning to look up for the hay dealers. The not too cheerful outlook of a few weeks ago is giving way to a feeling of hope, and there is good reason therefor. A contract has been placed for 2500 tons of eastern Washington timothy to go to Manila and it will all have to be delivered some time before July 1. This is a big contract and will require a whole lot of hay to fill it. But that is not all. A government contract for 5500 tons is to be awarded the 14th of this month and there is good reason for believing that a large portion, if not all of it, will come to Washington, or take hay from this state to fill it.

California Crop Is Short.
Indications are that California will not be in a position to procure the government contract. Present statements are to the effect that the hay crop of that state is a light one, probably not more than half last year's cut. This will advance the price beyond the point where California can bid on the government contract. There is a great deal of hay in this state and no other conditions operating in the way of a deal. Washington, so far as its hay is concerned, is now suffering the effects of the prices in hay which prevailed a year ago and in previous years. As a result of those prices the export business which naturally belonged to this state was lost as it went elsewhere seeking a cheaper article. California was the state to benefit.

Conditions Right Themselves
With the crop of last year, the financial stringency and the curtailed consumption there was no foreign outlet and the hay dealers suffered. It appears now as if this state of affairs is about to rectify itself. It seems as if the hay of this state will sell for the balance of the season at a reasonable profit. Another feature of the situation was that eastern hay was coming in here. There has been a change in all these conditions. Eastern hay is no longer coming, the home consumption has increased, California competition is at a standstill and the export market is awakening. Naturally, any improvement of conditions for timothy will react on the alfalfa.

Wheat Prices Advance.
Wheat is enjoying the prices which result from evil reports. Kansas and Oklahoma report the Hessian fly and the chinch bug, Washington and Oregon have been complaining of the day and windy weather while from the middle northwest have come stories of inclement weather which are doleful. As a result the speculative market has been advancing and prices to the consumer have been such as to advance all kinds of feed in consequence. Most of the mills in this section of the United States are reported to be grinding because of the demand for the by-products.

Potatoes have edged off a little and the prices cannot be said to be as stiff as they were a week or two weeks ago. There is no especial demand and lots are offering as needed.

Retail Business Is Good.
Save the seasonable greens there has been little change in retail prices. Meats are high to the butcher and in many cases are very unsatisfactory dealing. The spring business under conditions such as are now prevailing is not a highly remunerative one. However, North Yakima is destined to feed a very large population this summer. The several conventions scheduled for this city, the attractions for Decoration day, the week of July 4 and the state fair, to say nothing of other gatherings will give the city a patronage of guests larger than any previous summer has known. This, and the recognized fact that the residents are known to be good liveries all the year, will take care of the retail business which is thriving and hopeful.

Export Car of Apples.
A carload of apples went out from North Yakima this week, going west. There is no especial demand for fruit, but it finds a good market and the quality of goods sent out from North Yakima at this time of the year justifies the figures asked for them. Several buyers interested have been here looking over the situation and arranging for trade later in the season. One thing which is impressing those interested more deeply is the increased capacity to consume of the home markets, which are also the nearest. Incidentally it may be said that the consuming power of the Yakima valley along the line of imported eatables has this season surprised even those most intimately connected with the business.

NORTH COAST AND N. P. LITIGATION ENDED

Former Wins All Important Points and it is Now Probable that Work Will Be Pushed Rapidly.

Word has been received from the supreme court that the decision of the lower court in the case of the North Coast Railroad vs. Northern Pacific Railway company, et al., which is popularly known as the "City Case", has been affirmed. This terminates the litigation in the state courts as to the right of way contests between the North Coast and the Northern Pacific in this territory, and appeal to the federal courts is improbable.

The first case, known as the Union Gap Case, was decided by the supreme court some weeks ago. In that case the North Coast railway endeavored to condemn a strip of land through Union Gap a few feet west of the present Northern Pacific track. The Northern Pacific railway company objected to this and claimed that the North Coast railway could not approach within 150 feet of its present tracks, as it had a government right of way for that amount of land through the gap. Judge Rigg did not hold according to the strict contention of either party, but allowed the North Coast railway a right of way 45 feet west of the present track of the Northern Pacific but decreed that the Northern Pacific must raise its grade within a certain time or the North Coast railway could approach nearer to the present Northern Pacific tracks.

Decree is Modified.
Both railway companies applied to the supreme court to have this decision reviewed. The supreme court affirmed Judge Rigg's decision and denied the petitions of both companies, but modified Judge Rigg's decree to the effect that the Northern Pacific could raise its grade at any time it saw fit and affirmed Judge Rigg's decision that the North Coast should not at any time have a right of way closer than 45 feet to the west of the Northern Pacific tracks.

The second case was called the "Parker Crossing" case. The North Coast wished to cross the main track of the Northern Pacific at a point near Parker siding. The Northern Pacific first contended that the North Coast must make an overhead crossing at this point. Judge Rigg refused to grant this contention and the Northern Pacific then contended that if a grade crossing was installed, the North Coast must pay all expenses of installing it and maintaining it, and claimed that it wished to put in a double track and that the North Coast must consider that in installing its crossing. Judge Rigg held that the North Coast must pay all the expenses of installing the crossing and maintaining it and provide for a double track of the Northern Pacific.

The North Coast applied to the supreme court in this case for a writ of review. The Northern Pacific railway company appeared to be satisfied and did not object to the decision of the lower court in this case. The supreme court recently denied the petition of the North Coast and affirmed Judge Rigg's decision, except that it modified Judge Rigg's decree by directing that the North Coast would not have to provide for an additional track of the Northern Pacific until the Northern Pacific had laid such additional track—that the North Coast only had to install and maintain a crossing across the track of the Northern Pacific as now constructed, and that any additional track question would have to be decided when it actually arose. This was a very important finding in this state as it decides that all railroads crossing established tracks must pay all expenses of installing the crossing and forever maintaining and operating it.

City Case Affirmed.
The third case decided yesterday, was known as the "City Case." The North Coast endeavored to condemn a piece of land of the Northern Pacific Railway company lying south of the city, in such a way that it could build its track down Selah street to Union gap. The Northern Pacific claimed that it had reserved the land attempted to be condemned for railroad purposes and asked the court to compel the North Coast to go two blocks west to Wenas avenue. Judge Rigg refused to follow the contention of either railroad and allowed the North Coast to condemn a strip of land through the Northern Pacific lands one-half block west of the route proposed by the North Coast railway. The North Coast railway contended that this would prevent the construction of the road on Selah street where it had purchased terminal property and that it would have to build the line on Ahtanum avenue in that event. Both railway companies applied to the supreme court for a writ reviewing Judge Rigg's decision and the supreme court affirmed Judge Rigg.

Results of Litigation.

Summarizing the cases as now decided by the court of last resort in this state, they stand as follows:

The North Coast may cross the main track of the Northern Pacific at Parker by paying all expenses of installing the crossing and thereafter at its expense forever maintaining and operating the crossing, including all interlocking devices, watchmen, etc.

The North Coast may build its road through Union Gap provided it does not approach nearer than 45 feet to the west of the present main track of the Northern Pacific, and provided it takes care, at its own expense, of the county road through the gap.

The North Coast may construct its tracks across the westerly side of the Northern Pacific tract of land south of the City of North Yakima, which the North Coast claims will compel it to abandon the construction of its proposed line on Selah street.

Further Litigation Improbable

Ira P. Englehart, the local attorney for the Northern Pacific, when asked whether the Northern Pacific would appeal these cases to the federal courts, said:

"The Northern Pacific has always been satisfied with the Parker crossing decision. The City Case is not as favorable to it as it wished, but I do not think any appeal will be taken in that case. A federal question is raised in the Union Gap case but I do not think it probable the Northern Pacific will go to the supreme court of the United States with that case."

When asked if he thought the North Coast would commence immediate construction, Mr. Englehart said:

"I understand both railway companies are very well satisfied with the court's decisions in these cases as a whole, and I have no doubt that the North Coast will keep its promise and commence immediate construction. Labor is easily secured now at a reasonable figure and I would not be surprised to see many hundreds of teams and men making the dirt fly in and about North Yakima on this construction work in a few days."

STRAHORN TALKS ABOUT NORTH COAST RAILROAD

Robert E. Strahorn, president of the North Coast railroad, in an interview published in the Spokesman-Review, makes the announcement that the company is making preparations "to begin extensive work on the North Coast during the coming season." Mr. Strahorn also states that construction of the road was delayed by the litigation with the Northern Pacific over the right-of-way in the Yakima valley.

Mr. Strahorn is quoted as saying: "Already we have forces of men engaged at different points along the line. As has been generally known, we have been held back by legal controversies and incidentally questions of a federal nature have arisen concerning the right-of-way through the Yakima Indian reservation. These matters have been settled so far as is possible by the supreme court of the state, and aside from appeals that may possibly be taken by the Northern Pacific on certain phases of this litigation and some other matters to be adjusted, there is nothing to prevent proceeding with the work immediately."

Somewhat Indefinite.

The statement is quite as indefinite as most of those which can be justly attributed to Mr. Strahorn. There are no signs of activity on the part of the North Coast here as yet, the office staff of the company being restricted to one or two engineers. Mr. Strahorn makes reference to possible appeals to the federal court by the Northern Pacific, but Attorney Ira P. Englehart informed the Republic several days ago that there is little possibility of such action by the Northern Pacific, which company is fairly well satisfied with the findings of the supreme court of the state. If therefore, there is any real cause for delay in the construction of the road it must be found among the "some other matters to be adjusted" clause of Mr. Strahorn's statement.

The people of the valley are most anxious to see construction work on the North Coast proceed. It was announced semi-officially last fall that work would be resumed on April 1 on a much more extensive scale than heretofore and that the secret of the ownership of the enterprise would be revealed. The non-fulfillment of this prophecy is quite a disappointment to those who are anxious to see a competing road constructed through the valley.

Electric Feeder Roads.

The report current some time ago that the North Coast contemplated the construction of electric railways as feeders for the steam road is revived by the filing last week in the auditor's office of Asotin county by North Coast Engineers E. S. Clark and J. A. Collins of two water rights in the name of E. D. Doyle. One of the water rights is located on the north bank of the Snake river and the amount of water appropriated is 3,000 cubic inches per second of time. The other right, which is for the same volume of water, is about 200 feet north of the Oregon and Washington state line. The object for which the water rights were filed is that of generating electric and other power for domestic and manufacturing purposes to be used at Asotin. The North Coast officials decline to discuss the plans for the development of the Snake river water power.

BUYING YAKIMA LANDS IS A NICE VACATION

Milwaukee Man Has Gala Week Here in Search for Health and Acreage.

Joseph J. Holden, a linotype operator, of Milwaukee, Wis., who drifted into North Yakima accidentally a week ago on a tour in search of health, left Tuesday on his return to Wisconsin, the richer by five acres of land on Nob Hill purchased while he was here. Mr. Holden was surprised in his discovery that such a place as this existed in America and he wanted to know how long it has been going on. Like every other person he had heard of North Yakima but supposed it was merely a spot on the map. He has learned differently. He thinks that any country in which raw land can be made to pay the purchase price or part of it the first season is great stuff. He thinks, moreover, that land which gives the results of that here beats working a linotype at an advance on the union scale, and buying it, he says, is the best of all. He has not had so much fun since he was a boy. It has been automobile tours every day with the most charming of real estate men as hosts. He says they would have taken him to the crest of Mt. Adams had he expressed a wish for an acre of glacier. In brief he can imagine no better vacation than buying land in Yakima. He is going to pass the good word along in Milwaukee.

TO IGNORE ORDER OF TAX COMMISSION

County Attorney Wende has written an opinion at the request of County Assessor Sindall in the matter of the question of assessing moneys and credits this year, according to the direction of Messrs. Rockwell and Frost, of the state tax commission.

In his opinion Mr. Wende says: "In my opinion you should not assess moneys and credits for the reason that the legislature of the state has enacted a statute, Chapter 48, exempting moneys and credits from taxation."

"I am aware that there is some question as to the constitutionality of the law, but the question thereof is for the courts to decide and until the same is held to be unconstitutional by the proper authority the presumption is that it is a valid statute and should control you in the exercise of your duties."

Powers of the Board.

"While the state board of tax commissioners has the right to assist you, yet the duties of such board are to confer with, advise and direct the assessors as to their duties under the law and the statutes, and the direction touching the assessment of moneys and credits is not under the law as it now appears."

The matter will be presented to the county commissioners by Assessor Sindall on Monday next, but the commissioners are not likely to take any view contrary to Mr. Wende's opinion, especially as they are individually opposed to the tax on moneys and credits and also to the expense involved in making a second assessment which would be necessary if the request of the tax commission should be carried out.

The "order" of the commission, as it has been called, is signed by two of the commissioners, Rockwell and Frost, Joe Easterday's name not appearing on the document, and it is well known that Easterday was the commissioner who favored the enactment of the exemption statute while the other two members of the commission opposed it.

Assessment Might Be Attacked.

The statute has been declared unconstitutional by the attorney general, his opinion having been given, presumably, at the request of Messrs. Rockwell and Frost, but the opinion does not invalidate the law, as that can be done only by the courts. It is contended that should the assessment be attacked the omission, as prescribed by the statute in question, of the assessment of moneys and credits, would be sufficient to invalidate the assessment of the year, but this view is not generally held and seems hardly sufficient cause for the work to be done over again by the assessor on the strength of the attorney general's voluntary opinion.

Moneys and credits would add about $250,000 to the assessment rolls in this county.

EASTERN INQUIRY CONTINUES

Nine Families From Colorado Want to Settle in Yakima Valley.

Resulting from extensive advertising of the Yakima valley in the Pacific Monthly, Secretary H. P. James, of the Commercial club, is in receipt of many letters from interested parties in the far east. This morning letters were received from New York, Philadelphia, Boston and many other cities of the east. One Boston man writes that he has heard much of North Yakima and that from what he has heard he considers this town the best in the northwest. He inquires about manufacturing industries here and appears to be interested in that phase of commercialism.

John Anway living in Poania, Col., writes and asks about the farming resources of the country. He says he and his family with eight other families are strongly considering coming to this valley. He asks for literature and information and Secretary James has forwarded the same to each family.

A VICIOUS LAW

The law passed by the last legislature instructing county assessors to omit the listing of monies and credits as taxable property is a monstrous perversion of justice and is class legislation of the roughest type. Yet, such is the law and it will remain the law unless the supreme court overturns it and pronounces it unconstitutional. Until such an opinion has been rendered county assessors are not justified in violating the law and neither has the state board of tax commissioners any right, legal or moral, to instruct assessors to violate the law. In fact the powers of the state tax commission are merely advisory anyway in relation to assessors and that body is without authority to issue arbitrary orders to any county assessor.

No doubt the attorney general is quite right when he pronounces the law unconstitutional. Yet his saying so does not make it so, as it is not his province to pass upon the constitutionality of laws. The republican legislature had no right to enact such a law, and did so at the behest of the monied interests of the state. It is no excuse for such a law to say that men of wealth refuse to give in their list of personal possessions for the purpose of taxation, for there is a way to compel them to do it and to send them to jail if they persist in lying about the extent of their property while under oath. Even in the corporation-ridden, conservative old state of New York millionaires are frequently placed in the judicial sweat box and forced under penalty to reveal their list of property for the purpose of taxation. To suggest doing the same thing here in the state of Washington would be considered cause for branding a man as an anarchist.

It is more unbecome to assert that the state is powerless to assess wealth. It is not powerless unless it's hired servants, as is too often the case, are mere corporation puppets who have been elected to office to do the bidding of their masters. Under its organic authority, the constitution, the state is all powerful in the matter of fixing on taxable property. It has no authority, however, to omit any well defined form of property, such as money, from taxation. As that would be class legislation of the roughest type we can not believe that the supreme court of this state will permit the present law to stand.

Not long ago the banks of this state held deposits aggregating over $68,000,000, every farthing of which now escapes taxation. Can any honest man justify such a damnable policy? It does not matter who this money belongs to, whether rich or poor, great or small. Government has no right to discriminate as between its citizens. No matter who owns the many different portions of that vast sum in the banks each man or woman who owns a part of it should be made to pay their rightful share of the expense of government, an institution originally erected and long maintained for the essential purpose of protecting property rights. The man who claims all the rights and blessings that government has to give and is at the same time unwilling to pay his fair proportion of the necessary expense involved is in reality an "undesirable citizen" and should be made to feel the displeasure of society.

SPLAWN'S GROWING STRENGTH

Carefully conceived as it was by conspicuous and influential democrats, we are even surprised and frankly pleased to note the rapid advancement of the candidacy of A. J. Splawn, of North Yakima, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. Engendered in the breasts of appreciative friends who have recognized in Mr. Splawn a man of invincible moral purpose, high ideals and patriotic devotion, the movement has gathered such cyclonic momentum and become of such prodigious proportions within so short a time that his nomination seems practically predestined.

Mr. Splawn is not a man of political finesse or adroitness, but, as Mr. Hatfield has it, "a sturdy pioneer rancher—a second John R. Rogers"—a man of simple habits and of unswerving integrity, one who has conducted himself satisfactorily in office and whom we know will labor untiringly for civic betterment.

Considering his wealth of friends in the state, Mr. Splawn possesses more than local availability, but general strength and, coupling this with his fitness, he seems the most notable and generally capable figure in sight for the democratic candidate for governor. We believe that throughout the state democrats will unanimously approve his nomination.—Washington Democrat, Everett.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

Yakima county must have a trunk line system of good, hard roads. As a community we are well advanced in every other way, but are pitifully weak in the quality of our public roads, even though we have expended a considerable amount of money in the effort to patch them up.

The Commercial club, realizing the work to be done, has appointed a committee of 15 to take hold of this problem of scientific road-making and wrestle with it until it is solved. It is a big problem but it can be and it must be solved, for the welfare and interests of this section imperatively demand it. The public should give this newly appointed committee liberal encouragement and support, without which it would be powerless.

The Yakima valley is destined to be a prosperous and thickly settled district. It does not require a prophet or a son of a prophet to foresee that. New people are flocking in all the time and they come here to make permanent homes. One and all they praise our county but they execrate our roads, and with reason.

Let us lay aside all past differences and go in for good roads and stay with the proposition until we get them. The committee of 15 should blaze the way.

A CAMPAIGN OF PRETENSE

It seems rather doubtful whether Governor Johnson will be able to get the delegation from his own state of Minnesota. The Bryan men of that state, angered at the governor's belligerent attitude, may take the delegation away from him entirely, although in the interest of party peace they have proposed a compromise in the way of a complimentary vote for the governor.

Governor Johnson may be a great and good man, as his boomers so vigorously claim, but his present role is that of a trouble-maker. When his boom was launched his followers shouted that he would control the delegations from Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, and they did contest those states as against Bryan, with the result that they were hopelessly beaten. Next they claimed Illinois, but that state likewise instructed for Bryan. Now they claim that they will prevent Bryan instructions in several southern states and that they will succeed in getting a friendly delegation from this state. All such prophesying is but hot air and flimsy pretense. Johnson will get but little support any where throughout the south and west.

Mr. Ryan is not getting value received for his money.

TODAY'S CONVENTION

The democratic county convention which assembled today will probably be a most harmonious and enthusiastic body. Its duties are not onerous and it will probably not need to remain in session long. Its chief duty is to select a delegation of 28 men to go to the state convention at Spokane May 18, which body will in turn elect 10 delegates to represent the democracy of this state at the Denver convention, which will select the next president of the United States.

The Yakima delegation should go to Spokane instructed to support the choice of none but out and out Bryan men to go to Denver. The convention will doubtless do this as the democrats of this county are for Mr. Bryan almost to a man.

The convention will also without a doubt indorse or rather present to the democracy of this state the proposal to name a candidate for the governorship in the person of Hon. A. J. Splawn. This latter duty should be performed in such a manner that the effort will attract attention and commendation from every part of the state.

IS IT COINCIDENCE?

Is it merely a coincidence that the New York World and Mr. Ryan, of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, are working together in their effort to control the democratic convention? Is one doing it for pecuniary reasons and the other from patriotic motives or is there some subterranean connection between them?

Since Mr. Ryan's testimony that an editor of the New York World attacked the Metropolitan for the purpose of depressing stocks with a view to making money on the decline in stocks, would it not be proper for Mr. Pulitzer to give us a map of the World office showing in black the employees who use the World as a sand-bag and in white those who use the paper for high moral purposes and for the protection of the integrity of the democratic party?—The Commoner.

CORRUPTION IN CONGRESS

Congressman Carey is a new republican congressman from Wisconsin. This is his first term at Washington. The following paragraph is taken from a letter which he wrote to one of his constituents, says an exchange:

"If the people of this country knew what some of their representatives in congress were doing they would march down here ten million strong and hang every one of us. In every corner about the capitol can be seen a congressman and a corporation lawyer in whispered conversation. Every night a corporation agent gives a dinner or a dance for some congressmen whose support he is seeking. They have a thousand ways to block us in our efforts to do anything for the people."

The anti-Bryan men made a desperate effort to control the delegation from Pennsylvania, or, failing in that, to prevent instructions for the great Nebraska. For the first time the delegates from that state were elected under the provisions of the new direct primary law. As a result the Bryan men carried nearly every county in the state outside of the boss-ridden city of Philadelphia. Fifty-one out of the 64 district delegates are pledged to Bryan, and more than 75 per cent. of the delegates to the state convention are likewise instructed, so that it is a foregone conclusion that under the unit rule, which will be enforced, Pennsylvania will line up solidly at Denver for the Great Commoner. Col. Guffy, millionaire and alleged democratic boss of the Keystone state, boasted publicly that he would control the Pennsylvania delegation and would use it to help put Bryan on the shelf. The chances are that Guffy is now down and out and will be heard of no more in politics.

The most serious complaints against the "Merry Widow" hats comes from Tacoma street car patrons who declare that the men have no show for protection at all on the street cars since the "Merry Widow" came into vogue. One crusty fellow got his face badly chafed; another had his eye nearly gouged out, while a third kicker had a pair of gold rimmed glasses brushed from his nose and trod under foot. It makes the conductors cuss, too, because, owing to the "Merry Widows" they can't jam so many people into a car.

The evidence of Mr. Splawn's popularity as a gubernatorial candidate keeps coming in every day from different sections of the state, and is highly gratifying to his local friends. With due regard for other gentlemen suggested for that honor, the fact remains that Mr. Splawn is thus far clearly the favorite. The fact seems to be generally recognized that he is the man who best meets the conditions, and that he would have a better chance of winning at the polls than any other candidate thus far proposed.

The Seattle Times is authority for the statement that Congressman Jones has made a deal with the liquor interests of the state, and that he will have the solid support of the wholesalers and the retailers, as well as the white aproned mixologists behind the bar. This is important if true. If true it probably means that Senator Ank and Col. Blethen will be forced to line up with the prohibitionists—rather strange company for them.

The North Coast Railway appears to have beaten the Northern Pacific at all points in the dispute over right of way between the two companies. At any rate, that is the idea one gets from a reading of the recent supreme court decisions. Now, since all legal obstacles have been removed Mr. Strahorn ought by all means to go ahead with the construction of his road.

The national senate and house have grown weary of the president's numerous messages, and the last one received scant consideration. "We get one nearly every day," said Speaker Cannon, as he threw the message on his desk and went on with the regular routine. The tension between the president and the party leaders in congress seems to be reaching the breaking point.

The Post-Intelligencer came out flat footed one day last week in favor of the re-nomination of Gov. Mead. The announcement, however, could hardly have caused surprise to any constant reader of that paper. We believe that the P-I's support of the governor is a fact due more to political necessity than a conviction that Gov. Mead is the proper man to support.

Congressman Jones lost last Saturday in a contest with Senator Ankeny in Klickitat, the vote, however, being very close. The issue was forced by Senator Presby, a Jones man. As a result the Ankeny crowd, who really feared the issue, are now rejoicing. Apparently the irrepressible Herb Baker still holds poor old, benighted Klickitat in the hollow of his hand.

Eastern friends of Mr. Bryan now make the open charge that Thos. F. Ryan, multi-millionaire and financial flim-flammer, has contributed the funds for Gov. Johnson's candidacy. Whether this be true or not, the fact appears to be that the Johnson boomers have plenty of campaign funds and are spending money like water in the hopeless effort to beat Bryan.

The Democrat is glad to welcome to its exchange table the Hanford Columbian, a bright and newsy paper published by Wm. Watson, formerly of this city. Hanford ought to grow with such an excellent little paper as the Columbian to push it along.

Senator Ank has at last achieved distinction in the senate by reason of getting a wrong bill passed. The opposition press assert that the old man was asleep. He probably was not, but he might as well have been.

Most Anything

By LUE F. VERNON

Men are not merciful to women's tears as a rule; and when it is a woman belonging to them who weeps, they only go out and slam the door behind them.

Marriage, nowadays, seems to be simply a convenience, a somewhat clumsy contrivance to tide over a social difficulty.

He called the new girl "Birdie." And the soubriquet proved true, for his wife once overheard him. And away the birdie flew.

A Yakima girl is eating health food for breakfast, taking electric treatment, trying all sorts of athletic sports, and doing all she can to develop her strength in order that she may be able to carry one of the Merry Widow hats around this summer.

Moralists say that a soul should resist passion. They might as well say that a house should resist an earthquake.

Indignant Subscriber: "I say, look here, you know, what do you mean by announcing the birth of my tenth child under the head of 'Distressing Occurrence'?"

Country Editor: "Dear, dear, I hadn't noticed it; that must be the foreman's toings; he's a married man himself."

Ennu is the polite name for laziness. It means doing nothing, and too tired to stop.

We shape ourselves the joy or fear Of which the coming life is made, And fill our future's atmosphere With sunshine or with shade. The tissue of the life to be We weave with colors all our own, And in the field of destiny We reap as we have sown.

The apple is one of the best and most beautiful of fruits, and the apple orchard in its time of either bloom or harvest one of the loveliest of all rural scenes. Little wonder that it has in all ages inspired even the untaught rustic to fancies, folk-rhymes and proverbs. The healthfulness of the apple is celebrated in many of them, and its preventive and curative properties are contrasted contemptuously with the powers of the physicians:

"Apple a day, keep the doctor away—Apple at night, starve him outright—Apple each meal, and one for sleep, Kill him and shroud him and bury him deep."

A more graceful recommendation—even though the hygiene of its last injunction may be questioned—is that addressed to girls only:

"Maids who seek a rosy cheek Orchard-way go faring. Apples ruddy, apples sleek, Six a day seven days a week—Show no stint nor sparing. Pluck and eat, sour or sweet, Seed and core and paring."

Many rhymes relate to old customs, "way back east," observed at planting and harvest time.

Sometimes the first cup of cider from the press was carried to the orchard and drunk to the health of the oldest and finest tree, at the roots of which the lees were poured.

One of the briefest and simplest of these curious healths fairly typifies them all. If memory does not fail me, it is as follows:

"Faithful and fruitful and friendly and free,

Here's to the Apple, boys, here's to the tree!

Friend of the farmer, boys, ne'er may it fail,

Till turnips be roses, boys and cherries be pale—

Hurrah, the Apple Tree."

Many novelties in the cosy corner pillows, or cushion covers, are to be seen. The face of a noted poet or statesman looks up at one from a background of one of his own quotations. We may see Whittier and Burns, Kipling, Longfellow, Poe and Goethe in this array of good folk who are willing to lend themselves to our ease and enjoyment. One is bound to be soothed in resting upon this happy thought to Stevenson:

"This world is so full of a number of things, I am sure we should all be happy as kings."

An excellent portrait of Stevenson is framed in this quotation, and in the four corners are clusters of the red "Mulberry berries," as they are called, of Samoa.

On the Roosevelt pillow is the rugged countenance of the president with his words:

"The only man who never makes a mistake is the man who never does anything."

Then there is the toast pillow, a comfortable adjunct to the bachelor's den. Round and smiling, happy Pickwickian gentlemen are brewing steaming punches or offering one of those merry toasts:

"A long life and a happy one,
A true wife and a pretty one,
A cold bottle and another one."

"A glass is good, and a lass is good,
And a pipe to smoke in cold weather;
The world is good, and the people are good,
And we are all good fellows together."

"Here's to the light that lies in woman's eyes,
And lies! and lies!! and lies!!!"

These pillows are artistically got up in velours and leather. Those in the velours, however, seems better suited to use for which they are intended. The designs are wrought in a combination of coloring and pyrographic work. This "fire painting," as it is called, upon velvet is a work somewhat new.

Hand painting upon velvet has never been satisfactory. The paint in time cracks and loses its color and the whole effect is inartistic. A new method of applying color to velvet has been most happy in results. By a chemical process the dye is removed from the velvet in the required designs, then the foreign colors are applied.

This same "fire painting" is used as ornamentation on portieres and heavy draperies in velours. A popular design, seen quite often, is a large Japanese Lily, which, with the graceful twistings of its long stems, forms a beautiful border for such heavy hangings. When this is wrought in dull greens on a rich red velvet the effect is charming.

Another style of decoration in this line is an applique of leather upon velvet. This is used for smaller table covers, mats and even sofa cushions. A notable design which has been copied for portiere and table cover decorations, is a conventionalized poppy in burnt leather, applied to the velour. Strips of kid in contrasting colors reach from poppy to poppy and are finished with slashed ends.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 2.—Senator Culberson, democratic leader of the senate, is making an earnest effort in the closing hours of the sessions to secure action by the republican majority on some measures which he regards as of vital importance to the welfare of the people and, if he can secure the hearty co-operation of his party colleagues, the next weeks of congress may witness filibusters at both ends of the capitol, with, possibly a postponement of the final date of adjournment. The four measures on which the senator from Texas will take his stand, provided always he finds he can rely on the co-operation of his colleagues, are the Overman anti-injunction bill, which has already passed the senate, the Fulton bill, which is a republican measure and which provides that the interstate commerce commission shall pass on the reasonableness of all proposed increases or railway freight rates; the campaign publicity bill, and the Culberson bill which provides that railways must furnish a sufficient number of cars to provide for the needs of shippers. Unfortunately there is some question as to how far Mr. Culberson's colleagues will stand by him in the proposed program. Many of them are anxious to get away from Washington and two, at least, have indicated that they will do nothing which would materially prolong the session.

In the House, John Sharpe Williams, the democratic leader, is putting the republicans in a worse hole than ever and there is reason to believe that as a result of his tactics some of them will find their re-election a most difficult proposition. Recently the democratic leader caused to be brought into the house a small table, provided with pens and ink, and placed it before the speaker's desk. On the table he placed the petition signed by all the democratic members praying the speaker to permit the bill removing the duty on wood pulp to come to a vote. Mr. Williams, in an eloquent speech, besought the republicans, at least thirty of them, to sign the petition so that the speaker would be compelled at least to submit the question to a caucus of the house. He reminded them that this legislation had been recommended by President Roosevelt in the most earnest terms, that it was approved of by their prospective presidential candidate, Secretary Taft, and that it had the unanimous support of newspaper publishers in all parts of the country. But the republicans greeted his eloquence with laughter and jeers and refused to add one signature to the petition.

A peculiar drama is being enacted by Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon with regard to the financial legislation recommended by the president. The house has indicated its great unwillingness to pass the Aldrich bill, but Mr. Cannon has promised that it shall and he is carefully making his preparations to coerce the majority into doing his bidding. He has caused the public building bill, popularly known as the "pork barrel," to be held up and he will not permit its final passage until the majority have voted as he tells them to on the financial bill. The public building bill contains provision for postoffices, customs houses and similar buildings which will reach an aggregate cost of $20,000,000. The passage of this bill is of vital importance to some members and its failure would probably defeat the measure and consequently it seems probable that Mr. Cannon will be able to drive them ultimately into accepting the Aldrich bill, whether they like it or not. Of course Mr. Cannon has the advantage of standing with the president on the Aldrich bill, for Mr. Roosevelt realizes that it is the only financial measure which can be passed and he thinks it would be criminal to risk another financial stringency with no provision for an emergency currency.

President Roosevelt is trying hard to figure that he won a victory on the battleship vote in the senate, when his recommendation to four battleships was turned down but the leaders did commit themselves to a programme of two new battleships a year. The fact is that Senator Beveridge made such a foolish, jingo speech in favor of the four battleship amendment that some senators voted against it who would have liked to do otherwise. They felt that after the Beveridge speech a vote for four battleships would be taken by foreign nations, and especially by Japan, as an endorsement of Beveridge's absurd and frothy declamation.

LETTERS OF INQUIRY

Secretary James of the Commercial Club, Explains Their Disposition.

For the benefit of all concerned the publicity committee of the Commercial club issues this statement in regard to the disposition of the letters of inquiry received by the club: Three times a week bulletins are issued in which each letter is listed, and the nature of the inquiry noted. One copy of these bulletins is deposited in the office of the Real Estate Exchange and one copy is kept on file in the office of the Commercial club. This file and the letters received, are accessible to all members of the club and to all who contribute to the work of the Publicity committee, for their inspection. Requests from individuals to be put in touch with real estate dealers are referred to the Exchange.

This method seems to be as fair as any that can be devised. The secretary is under instructions to serve impartially all members of the club and all who contribute to the work of the club. No satisfactory method has, as yet, been found whereby information can be given to others.

H. P. JAMES, Secretary.

ANOTHER RAILROAD FOR NORTH YAKIMA

Line from Spokane to Tacoma Has Been Incorporated Under State Laws.

North Yakima is slated for another railroad which will connect Spokane and Walla Walla with Tacoma. It is to be known as the Pacific and Southeastern railway company. Articles of incorporation have been filed at Olympia, the capital stock being $15,000,000 and the purposes as announced are to construct railways to coal mines at Wilkeson and South Parairie creek, and by way of Naches pass or Bear Gap to North Yakima, and thence to Spokane and Walla Walla. The trustees are General James M. Ashton, Tacoma; General Thomas B. Hubbard, and Thomas Crocker, of New York, and W. H. Hayden and C. E. Palmer, of Tacoma. The plan of the incorporators is to run the road up the Puyallup river valley, through the coal mining district in the vicinity of Carbonado, then across the Cascades by way of the Naches pass and thence straightway to the east. Branch lines are also, in time, to be constructed to Portland, Seattle, Pendleton and other points.

To the Voters of Yakima County:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the State Legislature subject to the will of the people as expressed at the primary election. I believe that my record as a citizen and as a county official are sufficiently well known for the voters of Yakima county to judge of my qualifications for the office of Representative; and I would merely state that if chosen to that office I would endeavor, on all questions that arise, to act for the best interests of the people of Yakima county and of the state.

JUDGE WHITSON WILL ADDRESS THE BANKERS

Character of the Entertainment for the Visitors Not Yet Determined.

What manner of entertainment will be dealt out to the bankers of Washington when they meet in state convention in North Yakima, June 18-20, has not been determined. It is certain, however, that in the proceedings at their business sessions they will be given splendid food for thought. The discussion will take a wide range and the various topics are to be presented by men well posted and who will tell of what they have experienced or participated in.

Judge Edward Whitson, of the federal court will speak on "Pioneer Days and Pioneer Banking." Charles H. Swigart, engineer of the United States Reclamation service, and W. N. Granger, manager of the Sunnyside project of the federal service, will speak on "Reclamation and Its Results."

W. R. Andrus, of Tacoma, will lead a discussion on the currency question and members of the convention will debate the subjects "Shall bank deposits be guaranteed," and "The late currency stringency and how we met it."

Among other important subjects to be discussed are "Bank Depository Bonds," "Fidelity and Burglar Insurance," the Gunn bill, exempting money, mortgages, etc., from taxation.

The meeting in North Yakima will be the 13th annual convention of the association. The convention headquarters will be at the Yakima hotel and the sessions will be held in the rooms of the Commercial club. Several prominent eastern financiers are to address the convention in addition to the Washington bankers. The character of the entertainment in a social way to be offered the visitors is yet to be determined upon.

Minnows Fight Mosquitoes.

An attempt is being made at Tampa, Fla., to rid the place of mosquitoes. With that end in view, says the Fishing Gazette, a trio of fishermen are engaged in catching minnows, which the chief of sanitation of the city purposes distributing among the tanks and water receptacles in the residential and business portions of the city. Several hundred minnows have already been caught and will be utilized for destroying the embryo mosquito.

GOOD WEATHER AIDS REAL ESTATE DEALERS

Sales Made This Week Are Larger Than Any Made in Months Past.

Because the weather has been more favorable this week, business among the real estate dealers has increased nearly 50 per cent. over the business done last week. More big deals have been closed this week than at any time during the last two months. The sales continue to be made to outsiders in the main. Not a great deal of property is changing hands among local men. Nearly all of the big sales have been made to middle west people. Some, however, have been made to people from Seattle and Tacoma. It is generally conceded that Seattle and all other cities of the coast are looking this way for investments.

Milton Dam, formerly of this place, but now of Seattle, was in the city a day this week. He with his father and brothers has been in the Seattle real estate circle for a number of years until recently. Mr. Dam says Seattle real estate is not moving as it ought.

Seattle Realty Moves Slowly.

"The values are still comparatively firm," continued he, "but there is a noticeable lack of speculation that was so apparent a year or so ago. Property that has been purchased is generally being retained. It is keeping some of us down to the grindstone to meet our payments but we are succeeding. This being presidential campaign year of course has a tendency to make business dull, but I can see no reason why Seattle really should not move more brisk than it is now moving."

"The eyes of Seattle's young men are turned to the Yakima valley. Many of them are contemplating buying small acre tracts in this valley and settling thereon. North Yakima has jumped in to the limelight of Seattle public opinion quicker and in a more favorable manner than any other town of which I know."

ASK COURT TO ORDER CONVEYANCE OF LAND

Jessie F. and Clement Gamble Bring Suit Against the Simmons Estate.

Suit has been instituted in the superior court by Jessie F. and Clement W. Gamble against John F. Simmons as an individual and as administrator of the estate of Evelyn G. Simmons, deceased, Martha S. Simmons and Bessie E. Simons and all persons interested in the estate, for an order of court directing and authorizing the conveyance to the plaintiffs by the defendants of a 30-acre ranch in section 13-10-21 with water right out of the Sunnyside canal. The petition sets out that the land was sold on a contract July 24, 1906, by J. F. and Evelyn Simmons to W. W. Gamble and Clement W. Gamble and that since that time W. W. Gamble has assigned his interest to Jessie F. Gamble. It is alleged that the plaintiffs have performed all the things required under the contract and are entitled to specific performance but that prior to the time when they were so entitled and on September 29, Evelyn Simmons, who joined in the execution of the contract, died. John F. Simmons subsequently was appointed administrator and the plaintiffs allege that they are unable to secure conveyance of the land under the contract without the aid of the court.

The contract price of the land is $4000.

SHETLAND PONY FARM WILL BE STARTED HERE

L. O. Janeck Makes Initial Purchases for Stock Ranch He Will Establish.

North Yakima is to have a new enterprise added to the many and varied activities of the people who reside here. It is a Shetland pony farm. The undertaking is planned by L. O. Janeck, who is already an enthusiastic horse fancier, and who, as the owner of one Shetland pony of marked individuality has decided that the plan has at least the likelihood of entertainment. Mr. Janeck received this morning from Everett, from the Snohomish Shetland pony farm, two ponies, a mare and a stallion. He will immediately take steps to procure from various sources a band of mares and probably another stallion. The animals he has now are very small and are black in color which will probably be the color he will fancy. Mr. Janeck thinks the conditions in this part of the state are ideal for his undertaking.

The Growth of the Yakima.

A few years ago it was thought that all land possible of being irrigated adjacent to Yakima was under water, but each year some new ditch was built bringing a little more land under the magic influence of water and now there is reclaimed at the present time 10 times the original area when it was thought that the limit had been reached. Water has been put on land in that section that a few years ago was supposed to be forever above the possibilities of a high line canal. The genius of man is forever working on the thought-to-be-impossible, and the result is that water has finally reached the high elevations and now Yakima is in the center of one of the largest irrigation belts in the world. —Wenatchee Republic.

PINK LEMONADE.

The Story of Its Introduction to the Circus Public.

"Old Peter Conklin, the clown," said a circus official, "was the first to give pink lemonade to the world."

"It dates back to 1857, when Conklin was traveling in the south with Jere Mable's big show. Conklin had a dispute with Mable and jumped the show down in Texas. I've had the story right from his own lips. He bought a couple of mules and an old covered wagon, some tubs, tartaric acid, a lemon, a bushel or two of peanuts and started in the refreshment business. He followed the circus with his wagon, and every time the tents were pitched he would mount a box and harangue the crowd with:

"Here is your ice cold lemonade. Made in the shade. Stick your finger in the glass; it'll freeze fast."

"The lemonade sold splendidly, and he couldn't wait on the people fast enough. One day he was surrounded by a mob scrambling for 'the juice,' when his water supply ran out. There were no wells or springs at hand. He rushed into the big tent, but there was never a drop of water to be had. In his excitement he invaded the dressing tent. Fannie Jamieson, the bareback rider, was wringing out a pair of pink tights, the aniline dye coloring the water a very pretty shade. Conklin didn't stop to ask any questions. He grabbed up the tub and ran. Into the tub he threw some acid and the property lemon and called out:

"Come quickly. Buy some fine strawberry lemonade."

"His sales were doubled that day, and since then no well regulated circus is without pink lemonade. However, we do not make it the same way now, and sometimes strawberries are used as well as lemons."—Exchange.

BRUNSWICK STEW.

A Gastronomic Triumph With a National Reputation.

This celebrated stew originated in Brunswick county, Va., from which it takes its name—a county most famous in antebellum days for its perfect cuisine and gastronomical predilections. The originator was either Mr. Haskins or Mr. Stith, each claiming during a long life the distinction of having made the first stew and dying without a proper adjustment of the controversy. While made everywhere in the habitable globe, it is seldom made properly. It was introduced in Paris by Judge John T. Mason of Virginia. Only in Brunswick county is this stew so appetizing, so piquant in the seasoning to be found in all its perfection. To this remark of the writer made to a gentleman in the far south he replies, "The egotism of a Virginian suggests perfection in all things there, and the slow pace of the state ample time to arrive at it." The recipe is as follows: One of three kinds of meat is used—lamb, chicken or squirrel. If chicken, it is first parboiled, cut up as if to fry, the outer skin removed, then put on in hot water—a plenty to cover it—a large onion cut fine, a large slice of middling meat cut fine, black and red pepper in abundance and salt. After cooking until the bones can be extracted, and hot water added if not enough, corn cut off the cob and tomatoes chopped fine are added, with half a pound of butter, more pepper and salt. Before serving add stale light breadcrumbs. Never add Irish potatoes or butter beans or any vegetable save corn and tomatoes. Serve in a tureen. It should be the consistency of thick soup and very highly seasoned. It is considered one of the finest of stews and has a national reputation.—Richmond Times.

Can Animals Blush?

It is hard to tell whether animals blush, for their faces are covered so thickly with fur or hair or feathers that we do not know what may be going on beneath. Were they as barefaced as man it is more than likely we should see them blush, especially the more bashful sort and those with some sense of shame. It is a fact that the faces of vultures flush, and several of the monkeys become purple with rage, which may be considered as a kind of blushing. This may be proved any day in the monkey house in the London zoological gardens, where the baboons seem to fly into a passion on the smallest provocation.—London Mail.

For a Change.

"You don't mean to tell me that you have named your baby 'Ananias'?" "Yessuh," answered Uncle Ben. "Dat's his name." "But Ananias was the most untruthful man in history." "Dat's de reason. We's gwinter put dat boy in politics. We's been namin' children 'George Washington' foh years an' it didn't do no good. Now we's gwinter try de other feller."—Washington Star.

Origin of Alcohol.

A scientist says that when people were cave dwellers their diet consisted entirely of roots and fruits and that it is not unnatural to suppose that the food was often stored away. In course of time the fruit fermented, the sugar in it was turned into pure alcohol and the cave dwellers drank it and got to like it. This was the beginning of the use of alcohol.

Medical.

A young doctor said to a girl: "Do you know, my dear, I have a heart affection for you?" "Have you had it long?" she coyly required.

"Oh, yes. I feel I will liver troubled life without you," he responded. "Then you had better asthma," she softly murmured.

THE SAVAGE MORO.

His Terrible Religious Frenzy Which Riots In Murder.

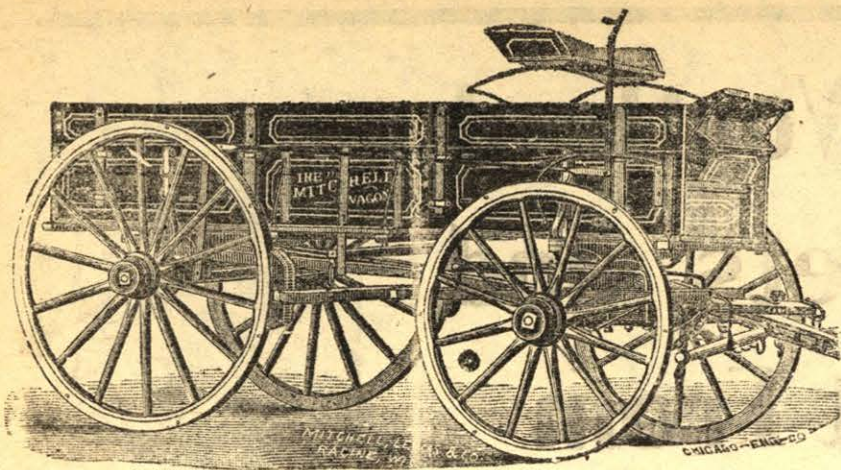

The Moro is a savage, a primal man, a Malay, which is a branch of one of the oldest stocks of which we know. He is subject when not under the influence of a self contained ruler to strange, murderous fits of insanity. When a Moro, without effort on his part, becomes seized with a desire to murder he is said to have "run amuck," and at such times he will rush wildly, slashing and killing every one he chances to meet, even his own people. When, however, he purposely works himself into a religious frenzy it is with the desire to kill Christians and by the faith of the prophet ascend forthwith into paradise. The Moro in this state of passion is said to be "juramentado." He has then taken a religious oath, perhaps administered by some sacred "hadj" who had duly made his pilgrimage to Mecca. He has bound himself up so that he suffers excruciating agonies and through physical suffering is reduced to a nervous frenzy. Having once taken the oath, the Moro "juramentado" is doomed to slay until at last he himself is slain.

The Moro is a Mohammedan, but he has perverted the Mohammedan belief until at times it is a weird, grotesque and terrible religion. In the heart of the Moro there is no fear of death. It is to him but an incident of life, and his belief, as he has fashioned it, is that he who dies in battle is cleansed from sin and goes straight to the bosoms of the hours in paradise. The Moro's idea of government is force. He has never known anything else. If you are kind to him he thinks you fear him. His world is ruled by fear, not love.—Hamilton Wright in Leslie's Weekly.

A Very Ancient Problem.

Many people shy at the words "Labor Problem," by which they understand the conflict between organized workmen and corporate employers, with all the phenomena thereof—arbitrary union rules, injunctions, strikes, lockouts, blacklists, boycotts, some employee graft, some employee bribery, Colorado bull-pens, Idaho dynamite. Painful phenomena these, which one would be happy to avoid if that were possible. They are what one generally finds under the heading of labor news.

But there is still a labor problem of different sort. East of the Mississippi river and north of Mason and Dixon's line the average pay of a hand, industrially employed, seems to be something like $40 a month. This is where so much of the manufacturing of the country is. Anywhere in that region, opportunities for extravagance on $40 a month are quite limited.

In thinking of labor a good many people are misled by the four and five dollars a day that certain skilled city artisans get; possibly misled also by the occasional striking teamster with a brickbat. That very ancient problem, to get a decent living, still confronts a large mass of labor. It is well not to forget it.

To make a few rich and many poor is not fit for a commonwealth, wrote Cromwell, over two centuries ago.—Saturday Evening Post.

WORK ON STREETS TO BEGIN AT ONCE

Denny-Clay Company of Seattle Will Furnish Brick for Paving—Contractor Milton Savage Talks of the Project.

Contractor George Milton Savage, of Tacoma, who was awarded the paving job by the city council Monday night, says he will begin the work without delay.

"I am now having my attorney make a minute investigation of all the proceedings by the council relative to the paving, so that we may be assured there is no flaw anywhere that will invalidate the bonds. In a general way he has made this investigation already, and there is no probability that any error will be found. Your city attorney, Mr. Forsyth, has the reputation of being very careful in his work, and it is safe to say that the formal search of the records which we are making will reveal no errors. I do not anticipate that any of the bidders who talked of contesting the decision of the council the other night, will enter into any litigation. There is nothing whatever to base a suit upon. My bid was the lowest, and I think the courts would unquestionably hold that it was in form. The talk of contesting was merely the outcome of disappointment by a rival bidder."

Mr. Savage says that the Denny-Clay company has made an agreement with him to furnish brick as fast as he needs them, and he thinks there will be no delay on that score. Brick shipments will begin next week.

The first work the contractor will undertake is the grading. Men and teams will be put on the streets in a few days, and as many will be used as possible.

"I expect," said Mr. Savage, "to complete this work within six months from the time I begin on it."

Mr. Savage has a first class reputation as a contractor, and there now seems to be every reason to think that the North Yakima street paving job will be one of the best ever put in in the northwest.
