Mr. Clifford Dolph, curator,
Maryhill Museum of Fine Arts,
Maryhill, Wash.

Dear Cliff:

I'm writing to find out if you will be around Maryhill in approximately three weeks time.

Jack Park is planning a little trip and would like to drop in, with me, to see what material Maryhill has snashed away in cold storage. The trip would be somewhat dependant upon the weather and he is hoping that the weather will level off and permit travel.

I know you sometimes head out on little survey trips to line up exhibits, etc. So by writing at this time I thought perhaps we might be able to make connections without any inconvenience to you.

Glad you had such a successful year at the museum and the tourists came in larger numbers than ever before. Hope you are lining up some shows, already, for next spring.

My best regards to Ruth, and hope the snow hasn't been too bad around Maryhill yet, although I guess you had your share. Judge Lloyd Wiehl came home from California a few weeks ago, couldn't get over Satus and had to come all the way around by John Day.

Sincerely

Dr. William L. Gannon,
Gannon Wagon Museum,
Mabton, Wash.

Dear Bill:

Depending upon somewhat suitable travel conditions, Mr. Jack Park of the Grant County PUD would like to visit you, relative to brief remarks I made to you last summer in relation to the Tourist Center at Wanapum Dam. Construction was started on the center late last fall.

I am writing now in case you have plans for winter travels, now that the hops are in, so you could call me at home and advise me.

The anticipated trip would not be for probably three weeks.

I see the marketing advocates are at it again. If they do shove something across this time, I hope the amendments are satisfactory to you.

Incidentally, too, if you haven't things packed away and the museum locked up tight, how about sending me one of the "beat up" kind of N.P. saddles? I have use for it now. And let me know what you want for it. It is one type of item I lack in my small collection of Indian things, as you know from our past discussions.

Sincerely and best regards
